South Florida officials brace as Keith picks up momentum

MIAMI - Tropical Storm Keith turned northward toward the Gulf of Mexico today, and officials in South Florida met to consider evacuations and other emergency action in case the system moved their way.

Keith's wind speed reached 65 mph early today near the Yucatan channel separating western Cuba and Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, but forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said the eye of the storm would likely remain at sea for the next day or two.

The late-season tropical atorm, born Thursday, could develop into the year's sixth hurricane late today or early Tuesday, the hurricane center said.

Officials in Lee County met early today in Fort Myors, the county seat, to consider

"We have adopted a wait and see attitude and have advised people to stay alert. It looks like it's going to take a little longer to determine which way it could go," Starnes said.

"We have a lot of seasonal visitors around here and we want to make sure they know what's happening. We want to make people aware of the situation."

Officials said after the meeting they decided not to cancel school or close government offices today, and would wait for further storm updates before taking emergency steps.

Dalkon shield victims get more funds

TAMPA — Women who were injured by the Dalkon Shield contraceptive but missed a 1986 deadline for filing claims may be entitled to payments under a class-action legal settlement, according to a lawyer representing several victims.

Guerry R. Thornton Jr. of Atlanta was in Tampa Sunday for a public discussion on the actilement plan that involves an extra $100 million for victims who failed to file claims against A.H. Robins Co., manufacturer of the Dalkon Shield, before April 30.

986. Thornton said his Georgia law firm. Thornton, Leff and Stewart, represents about 1,200 Dalkon Shield victims.

The Dalkon Shield IUD, an intrauterine contraceptive device marketed by Robins during the early 1970s, has been linked to death, infertility and disease among its filed against Robins.

Two settlements for Dalkon Shield victims have been approved by U.S. District Judge Robert Merhige of Richmond, Va. Both suits. one against Robins and the other against Robins' insurance company, Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., were filed in 1985.

A settlement plan for suits filed against Robins was reached after the company filed for protection in April 1985 under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

That plan will pay claims filed by April 30. 1986, from a $2.3 billion trust fund.

The Aetna aettlement plan, approved by Merhige in August, requires Actna to pay an dditional 8425 million to claims filed under a 1985 class action lawsuit filed against the insurance company, the lawyer said.

That suit alleges Aetna conspired with Robins to conceal the IUD's defects and failed to force a timely recall. Reports of death and miscarriage linked to use of the Dalkon Shield were made in 1973, but Robins did not publicly acknowledge any defect until 11 years later.

Thornton said $100 million of the $425 million Actna settlement will be used to pay claims filed after the April 30, 1986 deadline set in the Robins bankruptcy plan. Women who believe they have been injured by the Dalkon Shield but have not filed a claim now have until Dec. 31 to do so, he Thornton said women entitled to compensation under the Robins bankruptcy plan are expected to receive the first settlement offers of $500 to $1.000 in mid-December.

Newspaper: HRS hires questionable doctors

United Press International

ST. PETERSBURG - More than a dozen doctors accused or punished for serious offenses are working in state facilities because the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services failed to check readily available records. a newspaper reported.

As of mid-October, HRS employed 14 doctors who had been criticized or punished by the Florida Board of Medicine for significant errors or wrongdoing. the St. Petersburg Times reported Sunday. They included doctors accused of sexual abuse. drug abuse and malpractice.

Some of the doctors were punished with suspensions. probations, fines or other penalties. Others were criticized by the board as incompetent or worse but were later cleared for legal reasons by courts or state hearing officers.

HRS Deputy Secretary for Operations G. Peter Digre called the Times' report a "revelation" and said the department would immediately revise it's job application evaluation procedures.

HRS was unaware of many of the charges, the newspaper reported, because it failed to check record at the Department of Professional Regulation. At the same time. DPR officials apparently made no attempt to inform HRS of the records' existence. HRS officials routinely checked on applicants by checking with DPR to see if they have a valid medical license. DPR would then tell HRS if the license was valid or had been revoked or suspended. But DPR did not routinely inform HRS if the applicant was on probation, had been suspended in the past or was about to go before the Board of Medicine on serious charges.

"If all they ask is if he has a license, that's all they find out," said DPR spokesman Pat Parmer.

DPR general counsel Bruce Lamb said his agency had no mechanism to inform HRS of pending charges. State law requires DPR to warn hospitals if a staff doctor has lost privileges at another hospital, but says nothing about state agencies.

Four of the 14 HRS doctors cited by the Times had been charged with prescribing narcotics to addicts or drug dealers. Three had been accused of sexual misconduct, two of drug or alcohol addiction, two of fraud, one of malpractice resulting in death, one of dereliction of duty and one of manslaughter.

Audit: Hundreds of VA cops are ex-cons

Inspector says centers did not give proper background checks

United Press International

WASHINGTON - Mere than half the police officers at the 172 Veterans Administration hospitals had criminal records, lacked adequate experience or left previous jobs under a cloud, an internal audit has found.

The VA inspector general's office reported that most agency medical centers and clinics had not performed proper background checks on police applicants before hiring them. The audit found that 10 percent of the 1.742 VA police rested on such charges as murder, rape, armed robbery. assault and embezzlement, and were convicted on related Dozens more were convicted of crimes once they began working at VA facilities, according to projections from the Sept. 30 audit, which was obtained under the Freedom of Information Act.

The convicted officers' superiors were never told they were in legal trouble, the report said.

Government drops scientist's U.S.-Canadian trade pact sexual harassment charge may have vast consequences

United Press International

WASHINGTON - The government, reversing an earlier decision, dropped sexual harassment charges against a senior scientist and possibly cleared the way for resumption of a once-promising malaria vaccine program.

The case involves James Erickson, former director of the U.S. Agency for International Development's malaria vaccine program, who was accused of sexually harassing a contract employee, government documents show.

On Nov. 3, Robert Halligan. assistant to the AID administrator, reversed an earlier decision finding Erickson guilty of sexual harasement, saying it was not supported by the evidence available.

The development opens the possibility that a tangle of lawsuits, countersuits and investigations that have plagued a once-promising malaria vaccine program will be cleared away.

The program is at least two years behind its projected schedule, and one official estimate says it may have fallen as much as 10 years behind projections. If successful, the vaccine program would quell a disease that may kill as many as 3 million people in the third world every year.

Erickson, who describes himself as a worksholic, has been suspended with pay since April 1987, unable to work at his AID job as scientific coordinator but collecting his annual salary of $35,000 while awaiting the outcome of the sexual harassment suit.

Erickson acknowledged having an extramarital love affair with the woman but denied allegations that he had tried to force her to resume the relationship.

At issue was the exact time the relationship broke up. Erickson said it ended in 1984 or early

1985; the woman involved said it ended two years later. Erickson offered to take a polygraph test if the woman involved also took one. The offer was not

By his own estimate, Erickson said he has been in federal court 12 times to force AID to render a judgment on the nexual harassment charge and spent $25,000 of his own funds to get a resolution of the charges. The suspension without pay for the last week in November will cost him about $690 and will close the harassment episode.

Erickson, meanwhile, has brought a lawsuit of his own under a little-used statute of Civil War vintage against the contractor who administers the malaria vaccine program, the American Institute of Biological Sciences of Arlington, Va., saying its mismanugement of the program has defrauded the U.S. government by its lack of effectiveness.

The Inspector General of AID has been conducting an investigation into the administration of the malaria vaccine program, interrogating scientists around the country about the possibility that somebody may have profited from the $8.5 million spent annually on the vaccine program.

The investigation apparently has centered on Erickson, according to questions being asked of his associates. Erickson also has been accused by his former colleagues at AID of disrupting the malaria vaccine program

Canada and the United States are each other's largest trading partner, exchanging an estimated $160 billion worth of goods and services in 1987. Study looks bad? get new figures

The Veterans Administration has long denied charges that its hospitals are poorly run and deficient in terms of the quality of care they provide. But when one of the VA's own studies earlier this year suggested that those concerns may be valid, that in fact an extraordinarily large number of patients are dying in VA hospitals, the hospital administrators knew just what to do. They ordered the researchers to come up with some different numbers.

The federal Health Care Financing Administration estimates that 2.5 percent of the nation's private hospitals report higher-than-normal mortality rates. When statisticians using the same methods of calculation surveyed the VA. however, they found that 12.8 percent of the government hospitals were experiencing a large numbers

A high mortality rate doesn't necessarily mean that a hospital is unsafe. It may just connote that the facility is handling a lot of older patients or those with terminal illnesses. But a higher rate should serve as a warning for any hospital administrator. suggesting that a careful examination is urgently needed to ensure that there aren't any dangerous shortcomings in the quality of medical service.

The initial findings in the VA study certainly set off some alarm bells, but they didn't produce the kind of results that would be consistent with a professional concern for the patients' welfare. Instead, the VA's senior medical executive. Dr. John A. Gronvall. demanded that the statisticians recalculate in order to come up with the same 2.5 percent result that showed up in the government's surveys of private hospitals.

Gronvall admits that he was worried that the report's original findings might have embarrassed the VA just at the moment when its efforts to gain full membership on the president's Cabinet seemed to be on the verge proval in Congres denies that he was trying to cover anything up. Instead, Gronvall argued, "I believe that the inappropriate and invidious comparison that everyone would make is not worth the small additional gains from reviewing the small additiona number of hospitals."

There are 172 hospitals in the VA system. The government now officially admits that six of them may have deficiencies. But according to the original estimate of 12.8 percent, there are in fact 22 hospitals in the system that may have problems, problems that the VA apparently doesn't have any intention of looking into. That's more than what Dr. Gronvali calls a "small additional number."

Jack Anderson has had several columns during recent weeks on this page dealing with the problems in the VA hospitals. There seems to be no other conclusion: It's a disgrace.

After election, it's politics as usual

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The bad news is that there is no respite from politics. The weeks and months immediately following Election Day are certain to be filled with recriminations, power struggles and other tawdry political exercises.

The good news is that a virtually unpublicized but potentially important reform is about to be implemented. It requires unprecedented disclosure of the contributions made to a new president's transition effort.

The recriminations began on election night, when Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the chamber's Republican leader, publicly criticized his party's victorious presidential candidate. Vice President

Even before all of the ballots had been counted, Dole complained that Bush had self-ishly concentrated on protecting his own comfortable lead in the closing days of the campaign rather than aiding GOP Senate candidates who eventually lost close contests.

Next in line were the conservatives whose, relationship with Bush always has been strained. Now the Republican right is insisting that the president-elect fill his staff and Cabinet with its true believers.

Bush indirectly encourages such maneuvering by being unable or unwilling to define his forthcoming presidency philosophically or pro-

Somewhat more positive is the news that Bush's ascendancy to the presidency will be governed by a new law that requires disclosure of the identities of those who contribute their time or money to the transition effort.

Since 1976, $2 million in federal funds has been available to finance the transition expenses of incoming presidents - but there has been no prohibition against raising additional funds, no requirement that they be publicly reported and no limitation on the size of individual donations.

During President Reagan's late 1960-early 1981 transition, no information was revealed about the source of $1 million in private

The Federal Election Campaign Act, which requires identification of all donors and the amounts they give, "covers everything up to Election Day," notes Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio. In the period immediately following the election. however, "all bets are off," he adds. "You can put $1 million down to become an ambassador."

The new law, enacted earlier this year increases the federal contribution to $3.5 million, with adjustments for inflation to be made in future years. Private donations are still allowed but they must be reported publicly and no individual or organization may give more than $5,000.

1992 planning must begin

WASHINGTON - In the short time since TV-network computers once again colored the electoral map of the United States in Republican hues, the Democrats have wallowed in collective guilt and mutual self-loathing, as is their custom. But they haven't gotten to the heart of the matter.

Unless they do, they will find that 1988 has crippled them as badly for 1992 as the 1984 election did for this year. The problem is not simply that Michael Dukakis followed Walter Mondale in losing California, Texas, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio. Pennsylvania and all the South. That's bad enough. What is worse is the human legacy. In 1984, the only other candidates the Democrats introduced to the country were Geraldine Ferraro. Gary Hart and Jesse L. Jackson. They turned out, for very different reasons, to be un-nominatable in

A quarter-century of history argues that the American people do not elect strangers to the White House, For good reason. They know the occupant of the Oval Office makes decisions of great consequence for them, their families and their country. They take the choice very seriously. With one exception, the people they have chosen to entrust with the responsibility are people they have known well-long before election year.

The great expecption is Jimmy Carter, and he lingers in voters' minds as a cautionary example of what can go wrong when you entrust the White House to a stranger.

Since the rule of the presidency is that no strangers need apply, the vital question for the Democrata is: Who else besides Dukakis did their party introduce to the voters in this election cycle? People like Dick Gephardt. Albert Gore, Jr., Paul Simon, Bruce Babbitt, Particia Shroeder and Joe Biden probably don't count. It's doubtful any of them lingered long enough to create a lasting favorable impression with the voters of many states.

No. the only Democrats other than defeated nominee Dukakis that the country got to know in 1988 were Jackson, once again, and Sen Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas.

The reality the Democrats have yet to grasp is that they must nominate one of those three men in 1992-or challenge the incumbent President of the United States with someone who is, once again, a stranger to the American

What do Democrats know about these three men? They know that Dukakis is a candidate of great tenacity and steadiness, who won deserved credit for the unstinting effort and uncomplaining demeanor he showed in the final stages of his campaign. But they also know that he carries a large share of the responsibility for booting away chances to have made this at lease a close race. His history suggests that he does things better the second time around, but Democrats would obviously think twice about sending Dukakis forth as their champion again in 1992

Jackson is the most exciting figure in the party, more dynamic by far than the men who defeated him for nomination in 1984 and 1988. But any realistic Democrat knows Jackson carries two large burdens into a presidential contest: his race and his ideology. Jackson can do nothing about his pigmentation. and the returns from last week's election once again demon-strated the racial polarization of the American electorate. He has shown no disposition to change his views. He occupies the most leftward flank of a national party which already is seen as being to the left of most general-election voters

American people do not elect strangers to the White House

And that leaves Bentsen, the surprise star of the 1988 campaign, viewed more favorably than anyone else on either ticket, unexpectedly effective both as a stump speaker and a television performer - as much in demand in the Northeast, the Midwest and the West as in the Southern states that were originally envisaged as his special province.

Bentsen is 67, comfortable and influential as Senate Finance Committee chairman. He has inherited Lyndon Johnson's and Sam Rayburn's distaste for personal involvement in the nitty-gritty of Democratic party organizational affairs.

For all that, Bentsen is clearly the best available hope for the Democrats' restoring their tattered political credibility. If Paul Kirk is willing to serve another term as party chairman, as seems increasingly likely, Democrats need not search elsewhere for a master of the mundane-but-vital arts of fund-raising and organization-building.

But Kirk does not "do policy," and Bentsen is clearly the man who should be drafted to head whatever new national policy council the Democrats create, and to speak for the party. along with its congressional leaders, in responses to President Bush.

He may not, in the end, have the energy or desire to run for President in 1992 - in which case the Democrats can contemplate the relative risks of Dukakis, Jackson or the Mysterious Stranger.

Laos confounds POW efforts

WASHINGTON - The possibility that American prisoners of war are still alive in Southeast Asia tantalizes many Americans. But some Americans are more than tantalked - they are tormented to the point of doing something about it.

Two North Carolinians, Donna Long and James Copp, spent 38 days locked up in Laus after they crossed the Mekong River from Thailand to Laos seeking information on POWs. They were released Nov. 12, a little worse for west. Their boat ride across the border will be nothing more than a footnote in the voluminous negotiations for the return

But their capture gives Americans a clue as lo why the campuren to free POWs, if there are any alive, is the slowest rescue on record.

Confidential State Department cables from the U.S. Embassy in Laos to Washington during the time that Long and Copp were held reveal that the talks over the simple excavation of American airplane crash sites are based on tit for tat favors.

Several cables from the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane, Laos, to the State Department include complaints from Laotian officials that the construction of the clinic was delayed. The complaints are "indicative of a Lao perception that they have been generous in helping us on POW/MIA matters and we have been less than generous in responding to their humanitarian needs," the embassy reported. Before the United States asks for the right to survey more crash sites in Laos, the cable says, "we should carefully consider as well what we may be willing and able to provide the Lao to assist with their humanitarian needs." The cables talk of a second clinic to be built in the same region of a crash site that the United States wants to excavate.

Bush announces several key cabinet appointments

United Press International

WASHINGTON - Presidentelect George Bush Monday named Richard Darman to be his budget director and asked Dick Thornburgh to stay on as his attorney general and Lauro Cavazos as education secretary.

Bush announced the three intended numinations at a White House news conference, calling Darman especially qualified for the Office of Management and Budget He said Thornburgh and Cavagos would be able to extend their brief records with a full term in their Cabinet positions.

"The key goal of my transition is to appoint people of quality," Bush said. "And my choices for these three critically important Cabinet positions (shows that)."

He said that Darman, w.m. served Reagan as deputy treasury secretary, would be taking on "perhaps the most difficult job" of the three at

Wall Street and world financial markets have been littery since Bush was elected two weeks ago. and the vice president is trying to make it clear that his approach to the federal budget deficit is solid. He announced last week that Nicholas Brady, one of Wall Street's own, would be asked to stay on as treasury

In another key economic appointment. Bush is expected to announce this week his selection of Michael Bookin, architect of his "flexible freeze" program to contain federal spending, to be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Bush said Thornburgh, who took over last summer for the beleaguered Edwin Meene.

knows that Justice Department well" and Cavazos, who succeeded William Bennett, is off to a solid start at the Education

But Bush also indicated Monday that he has tapped the last of President Reagan's Cabinet, saying, "In all likelihood," when asked if the announcements signaled the end of naming holdovers from the Reagan administration

Together with the announcement last week that Nicholas Brady, one of Wall Street's own. would be asked to stay on as treasury secretary, the appointments are intended to show that Bush is determined to get down to business well before Inauguration Day.

Whatever peaceful honeymoon Bush may have expected in the triumphal aftermath of the election has been shattered instead by the sound of alarm bells ringing on Wall Street, forcing the economy to the top of his transition agenda.

Despite assurances last week that he is determined to work with Congress to reduce the deficit, problem No. 1 on the economic front, the financial markets remain unsettled.

While Republicans boast about an expansion entering its seventh year, Wall Street economist Henry Kaulman asserted Sunday that "there is reason for concern" about the economy.

Speaking on the NBC News program "Meet the Press." Kaufman suggested a tax increase of $15 billion to $20 billion - something Bush has ruled out - as part of a credible plan to cut the deficit over the next year.

Urging Bush to guarantee he will negotiate with the 101st Congress on the deficit. Kaufman said Wall Street wants to feel confident that "there's not going to be a standstill on this issue over the next couple of months."

To that end, Bush and his advisers have scrambled for the past week to quell economic concern.

What he can expect to accomplish before he takes office Jan. 20, however, is not clear. Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., an influential player in the budget debates of the Reagan years. inisfeed that Bush is under no requirement to take action on the deficit before then and must not allow his policies to be driven by "the hysteria of the market."

"The marketplace ought to understand that there's no way for this man to solve this deficit quickly," Domenici told NBC. He needs time, the Congress needs time, and I believe that he's going to succeed. We're going to help him, but I don't think anybody's saying we have to do anything next week." Even Democrats in Congress appear willing to give Bush the benefit of the doubt.

House Speaker Jim Wright. D-Texas, never a big fan of the vice president, said Friday after meeting at the Capitol that Bush seemed prepared to work with Congress and the National Economic Commission, a blueribbon panel trying to develop a bipartisan deficit-reduction plan

Observers on Wall Street and Capitol Hill may judge Bush's approach to deficit reduction by the two appointments.

Mondale to run for senate in 1990

CHICAGO - Former Vice President Walter Mondale is mounting a political comeback and will run for his old U.S. Senate seat in 1990, according a published report Sunday.

The Chicago Sun-Times quoted associates of Mondale as saying the 1984 Democratic presidential nominee will run against Minnesota Republican Sen. Rudy Boachwitz.

Mondale, 60, quit the Washington office of a Chicago law firm in 1988 and returned to his Minneapolis law practice. He recently turned down an offer to become president of the University of Minnesoia.

Mondale's re-entry into politics would mirror the career of Hubert Humphrey, who returned to Minnesota after he was defeated for the presidency in 1968 and won election to the

The Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party has not won a senatorial election in Minnesota since Humphrey's re-election to his final term in 1976. Humplary's son unsuccessfully tried to unseat Republican Sen. David Durenberger earlier this month.

Convicts escape, caught on ledge

NEW YORK - Three federal convicts broke out of jail in Manhattan but authorities Monday soon caught the fugitives, who had huddled on a ledge where they fell during the daring rooftop escape, officials said.

U.S. marshale headquarters in Washington said the prisoners late Sunday apparently fled through the roof of the heavily secured federal lockup at the Metropolitan Correctional Center. but took a fall while trying to jump from one roof to another.

Police said the convicts landed on a ledge of the approximately eight-story building, where they hid during a three-hour manhunt using bloodhounds and helicopters across

U.S. Marshala Duty Officer Kevin McGrath said two of the three prisoners were hospitalized with injuries suffered in the desperate leap for freedom, but details of the escape were not immediately available.

Accused cop shooter cleared

NEW YORK — The acquittal of Larry Davis on charges he tried to murder police during a wild 1986 gun fight sends a signal that blacks no longer must tolerate unwarranted police violence, his lawyers claimed after the verdict.

Davis. who earlier this year was acquitted of killing four suspected drug dealers, was found innocent Sunday of attempted murder and assault, but convicted on weapons charges.

The tharges against him stemmed from a Nov. 19, 1986, gun battle that left six police officers wounded and prompted a massive manhunt for Davis, who fled the scene but was captured 17 days later at a Bronx housing project.

The jury understood that the police were lying on the stand and that the incident happened the way we portrayed it namely, the police went to kill Larry, and he shot back in self-defense," defense lawyer William Kunstler said.

'Skinheads' arrested in death of black man

PORTLAND, Ore. - It will take more than the arrests of three alleged white-supremacist "skinheads" in the race-related slaying of an Ethiopian man to eliminate bigotry in the Portland area. Police Chief Richard Walker said.

"We need to build on this tragedy to encourage better understanding and work to eliminate this type of intolerable behavior," Walker said Sunday following announcement of the arrests of three suspects in the apparently unprovoked baseball but beating death of Mulugeta Seraw on Nov. 12.

Even though an arrest has been made in this case, we must not forget that Lightry and racism do exist," the chief said.

The three suspects, who were to be arraigned today, are believed to be members of a Portland group called "Eastaide White Power.'

The suspects were identified as Kenneth Murray Mice e. 23. Kyle Ha, den Brewater, 19, and Steven Rodney Stramer, 20, All were arrested without incident, police said.

"There's no question in our minds that they are what is commonly called 'skinheads.'' police spokesinan David Simpson said Sunday. "The motivation still seems to be race-related."

The slaying of Scraw, 27, outside his apartment outraged community leaders and prompted a march on City Hall Friday by 300 people, among them Gov. Neil Goldschmidt.

The militant Jewish Defense Organization based in New York City had offered a $10,000 reward for anyone providing information leading to the arrest of those responsible for the death of Seraw, who moved to Portland several years ago to attend school.

Information from the community and a lot of good detective work" led to the break in the case, Walker said.

Mieske also known as "Ken Death," was arrested early Saturday on a murder charge, but the arrest was not made public so detectives could post stakeouts that led to the arrests Sunday at two other men. Walker said. Brewster was arrested on a murder charge and Strasser was apprehended on a second-degree assault

Micake and Brewster were being held without bail, and ball for Strasser was set at $100,000.

Mieske and Brewster also face first-degree assault and racial intimidation charges in a Sept. 10 incident involving a black security guard at a Safeway store in downtown

Multnomah County District Attorney Michael Schrunk said he would seek the most severe penalties possible, but said statutes covering aggravated murder, which carries the death penalty, do not appear to apply in the case.

Federal charges of possible civil rights violations also are possible, officials said

Witnesses, including two friends injured while trying to intervene, said the attackers had shaved heads and wore military jackets and boots in the style of "akinheads," a loosely knit group that advocates white supremacy and has loose ties with the Aryan Nations movement and the Ku Klux

Two dead, several injured in weekend storm activity

United Press International

High winds lashed the Middle Atlantic states early today, downing trees and power lines. as the South recovered from nearly two dozen weekend tornadoes that left two dead and several others injured.

There were 23 sightings of tornadoes over the lower Mississippi Valley Saturday night and early Sunday, killing a man and an infant in Mississippi, destroying homes in Alabama and Arkansas and wiping out 500 acres of forest in Tenneace, the National Weather Service and local officials said Sunday.

Pierce winds and large hail also battered the region.

There were no reports of tornadoes early today, but a cold front brought strong winds to the Atlantic Coast from Washington to New England. prompting the NWS to warn travelers of fierce wind gusts. flying debris, and wet leaves on alippery roadways.

Trees and power lines were downed in Bergen, Hunterdon and Morris Counties in New Jersey as wind gusts of up to 50 mph battered the state, as well as Long Island, New York City and Rockland and Westeliester counties in New York. The high winds also lashed the Philadelphia area, the nation's capital and most of Maryland. where an unofficial report near Frederick posted a 69 mph wind gust, the NWS said.

The highest winds were expected to die down by daybreak Monday, but strong winds were forecast through tonight across the region.

A winter storm warning was posted early today for the mountains and northern part of Maine for 5 to 8 inches of snow. and snow advisories were also up over the remainder of inland Maine and northern Vermont. Rain was falling today over the remainder of New England's northern half and northern New York state and was expected to become snowshowers later today.

Scattered snowshowers also stretched from Michigan to northern Idaho early today, and high winds also battered the northern half of the Pacific

Reagan to attend library ground-breaking ceremonies

United Press International

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, having surrendered the political limelight to George Bush, was bound for California today to dedicate the library that will preserve the metaories and record of his two terms in office.

Monsoons kill five, thousands flee

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia - Torrential monsoon rains and lashing winds killed at least five people and forced thousands to flee their homes in eastern Malaysia, officials said Monday.

Military forces were dispatched to the worst-hit areas in the coastal states of Kelantan and Pahang to bolster beleaguered rescue workers after monsoons wreaked havoe on the region

More than 10,000 people were evacuated and packed into schools and makeshift shelters where rescue workers supplied them with food and blankets.

The Kelantan River and its tributation overflowist, stranding many. Air Force helicopters delivered emergency supplies while volunteers in boats fought the swirling waters to reach those whose villages were turned into islands.

Among the five known dead were a 2-year-old girl and a 20-month-old boy who drowned after falling into the raging c trents. In addition, a 70-year-old man was killed and four members of his family injured when a prayer house was knocked down by strong gusts, officials said.

OPEC trying forge Iran-Iraq agreement

VIENNA - OPEC officials said they are looking at several options in their bid to stabilize declining oil prices and find a face-saving formula that would bring fraq back into the cartel's quota system while allowing Iran to boost its output.

Analysts said oil prices could fall to $10 a barrel or below from a current world market average of around $12.50 if the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cannot agree in their ministerial talks beginning today to stop overproducing, and persuade maverick fraq to come back into the cartel quota agreement.

OPEC President Rilwanu Lukman of Nigeria warned that failure to bolater sagging oil prices by cutting production significantly could lead to an emergency meeting of the cartel.

Benchmark West Texas intermediate crude oil dropped 25 cents to $13.30 a barrel Friday. Kent Hance, the Texas railroad commissioner attending the meeting as an observer to put forward the views of U.S. producers, said he expects prices will "drop to $12, maybe $10," if OPEC members do not reach

Bhutto, leaders called to Islamabad

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan - President Ghulam Ishaq Khan summoned Benazir Bhutto and other leaders of major political parties to Islamabad for talks on forming a government after last week's elections in which no grouping secured an overall

A leader of libutto's Pakistan People's Party, meanwhile, claimed Sunday that 19 members of the government-backed Islamic Democratic Alliance switched their allegiance to the PPP, giving it an overall majority in the National Assembly.

Alisan, who is also a constitutional expert, said although PPP legislators would be prevented by law from switching their allegiances once elected, the IDA is not a political party but an alliance and its members are not constrained by the anti-defection law.

Bhutto maintains she already has enough support from independents in the assembly to form a government.

The PPP gained the largest number of National Assembly seats in Wednesday's general elections, but failed to secure an abosolute majority. The president must choose a prime minister from whichever party he believes can command a nejority in the assembly.

China opens first drug treatment center

BEIJING - China, once plagued by rampant opium addiction, has admitted narcotics abuse is rising and announced it will soon open the nation's first drug-treatment center in the capital, health officials said today.

Jiang Zuoning, director of Anding Hospital in Beijing's northern outskirts, said a special medical unit will be addicts.

The center will deal mainly with patients addicted to "licit. over-the-counter drugs - for example, hypnotics, narcotics, sleeping pills," Jiang said in a telephone interview. He said most addictions resulted from poor monitoring by doctors of drug use by patients suffering long illnesses.

When asked if he expected to see patients suffering from optum or heroin addiction - major social problems in pre-communist China - he said, "We hope not. But maybe later there will be such patients coming from other parts of the Jiang told the official English-language China Daily that China remains relatively drug-free except in some border areas. but drug dependency is a growing problem.

Aquino marks 1,000 days in office

MANILA, Philippines - President Corazon Aquino marked the completion of 1,000 days in office today, assailing her detractors and recounting the achievements of her administration in a bid to recoup her sagging popularity.

Facing growing disenchantment with her government. Aquino blamed right-wing factions for the country's slow economic progress and vowed to speed up prosecution of tax evaders and smugglers.

She said the "poor and starving masses" who supported her bid to oust former President Ferdinand Marcos asked "only that I lead them to freedom."

Aquino noted that her government quickly re-established democratic institutions and wrote a new constitution after coming to power in February 1986, resisting attempts by

Marcos followers to maintain the status quo. "I was offered the support of the Marcos parliament if I would keep it alive," she said. "If I accepted their modest terms, there would be stability immediately. I refused the offer. I refused in justice to our people to whom that parliament had lied. Aquino said her government scored "a moral victory" in failed talks with the outlawed Communist Party of the Philippines, whose 25,000-strong armed forces, the New People's Army, remains the biggest threat to the country. But she acknowledged that her government's inability to achieve a permanent cease-fire opened the door to a series of right-wing military coup attempts culminating in a bloody Aug. 28, 1987, bid which left 53 people dead and more than

Estonian nationalists accused of threats

MOSCOW - A member of the Estonian parliament said nationalists using threats and "overt coaching" persuaded his fellow legislators to vote in favor of a constitutional amendment allowing the Baltic republic to veto Soviet law.

Estonian deputy Vasily Koltakov, who voted against the amendment last week, said in an interview published Sunday by the official Communist Party newspaper Prayda that some of his colleagues were frightened into voting for the controversial measure.

Kotlakov, an ethnic Russian, also said that as a result of the nationalist movement in Estonia. "hundreds of thousands of people of non-indigenous nationalities have come to feel like lodgers that are unwelcome to the hosts."

A major concern among nationalists in the three Baltic republics of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania has been the increasing number of Russian migrants and the "Russification" of language and life.

Eight injured in Korean attack

United Press International

SEOUL, South Korea - About 15 youths attacked a U.S. Information Service building Monday and set off a loud explosion before being driven back in a clash that left eight police officers injured, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The attack in downtown Seoul began around noon when the youths - some armed with steel pipes - attempted to enter the building, which houses the U.S. Cultural Center, a library and other USIS offices, said Jack Sears, the U.S. Embassy spokesman.

There was a loud explosion at street level door," said Sears. There appeared to be no injuries to people inside the building, he said.

Sears said he believed three of the 15 youths succeeded in entering the building but were driven out by tear-gas firing

The U.S. Embassy later said eight policemen were injured, one seriously, in the attack.

The attack was the latest in a recent series of hit-and-run attacks against U.S. diplomatic and military facilities throughout South Koren by students opposed to the American presence in the country. The through his windshield.

12:30 p.m. at the entrance to the USIS building has been the scene of such attacks in the past. Many politically active university students argue that the U.S. is responsible for the division of Korea into the communist North and pro-Western South and has also supported military dictatorship during the past 40 years of South Korean history.

On Thursday about 40 youths attacked a U.S. military housing complex with iron pipes, clubs and firebombs.

A U.S. military police officer was injured in the attack when he was struck with iron pipes and a Kore a officer was hurt when a steel pipe was thrown

Egypt, China recognize Palestinian state

United Press International

The quest for an independent Palestinian state in the Israeli-occupied territories took a major step forward with formal endorsements from China and Egypt, the only Arab state to make peace with Israel.

Jordan's King Hussetn Sunday urged the United States to join more than 30 other countries in granting formal recognition to the fledging state, which was proclaimed last Tuesday in Algeria by the Palestine National Council.

But the U.S. and Israeli governments rejected the proclamation, saying the Palestinian parliament-in-exile did not go far enough in issuing statements implicitly recognizing largel's right to exist and renouncing terrorism.

Israel, which has launched a diplomatic offensive to halt world recognition of the proclaimed state, had no immediate official reaction to the announcements Sunday by Egypt and China.

Egypt's decision to grant recognition to the independent Palestinian state was announced after a rare meeting between Egyptian Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel-Meguid and Israeli Ambassador Shimon Shamir.

"The Arab Republic of Egypt, which was in the vanguard of powers that championed the rights of the Palestinian people ... affirms its recognition of the independent Palestinian state in accordance with the principles contained in the political declaration issued by the PNC," the Egyptian government said in an official statement.

Egypt, while blessing this constructive step, hopes that it will serve the cause of peace and stability in the region." the statement said.

In Beijing, a Foreign Ministry statement said: "The Chinese government, with full respect for the choice made by the Palestinian people, has decided to recognize the state of Palestine."

China has long supported Palestinian demands for a homeland and the efforts of the Palestine Liberation Organization. which maintains a mission in Beijing. Recently, however, China has started a quiet campaign to expand unofficial trade. cultural and military ties with Israel.

Pro-Solidarity forces stage demonstrations

United Press International

GDANSK. Poland - Hundreds of demonstrators, some chanting. "Down with communism." rallied in two Polish cities after the government and Solidarity founder Lech Walesa failed to make headway in setting up promised round-table talks.

A group of about 300 youths waving pro Solidarity banners marched Sunday from St. Brigida's Church toward the Communist Party headquarters in Gdansk but were blocked by riot police about 200 yards from the building.

The demonstrators, chanting Down with (Prime Minister Mieczysław) Rakowski" and Down with communism," dispersed and police did not intervene.

Solidarity sources said, however, that an estimated 20 neople were detained by police at a tram stop following the demonstration. They said that some of those detained had not participated in the march.

In southwest Poland Sunday, more than 1,000 people marched through the coal mining city of Jastrzebie chanting pro-Solidarity slogans without police interference.

Organizers said they would march once a month until Soltdarity, banned in 1982 following imposition of martial law, is again legalized.

The protests came a day after Solidarity founder Lech Walesa had held his fourth and fifth meetings in Warsaw with Interior Minister Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak. Following the sessions. Walesa said the government had toughened its stand against restoring Solidarity's legal status.

There also appeared to have been no movement toward scheduling governmentpromised round-table talks between authorities and dissident groups, including Solidarity. No further meetings between Walesa and Kiszczak were scheduled.

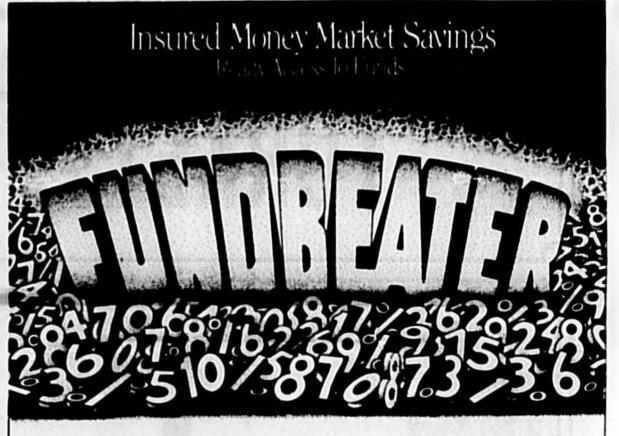

The government promised the round-table discussions with Solidarity and other dissident groups in September in exchange for Walesa's efforts to end crippling nationwide strikes in late summer.

The demonstration in Gdansk followed a mass delivered to an estimated 3,000 people at St. Brigida's Church, at which the Rev. Henryk Jankowski criticized Kiszczak for the frequent deployment of heavily-armed police around the church.

Jankowski said water cannon and riot police appear every Sunday near the church and people attending the mass have ther identity cards checked.

"This has the nature of the organized police action aimed at intimidating and humiliating the people," Jankowski said. "It is an infringement of freedom of religious practice."

Jankowski also again condemned the announced closing of the Lenin Shipyard, the birthplace of Solidarity, stating it is more profitable than Communist Party headquarters.

'Noles need solid effort

By CHRIS FISTER Herald sports editor

Seminole High will load up its offensive arsenal, look for the defense to hold its own and "let the chips fall where they may" tonight in the three-way tiebreaker for the District 4A-7 title at Oviedo High.

The Noles, 4-6 during the regular season, go up against Leesburg (6-4) in the first tiebreaker with the winner to play Oviedo (8-2). Tonight's survivor will hit the road Friday for the 4A-4 Region playoff at Land O' Lakes.

"The attitude of the ballclub is a very positive one going in. Seminole coach Emory Blake said. "The win over DeLand Friday gave us a big boost."

Lions look for intensity

By MARK BLYTHE Herald sports writer

Oviedo coach Jack Blanton will look to get his team fired up when they take the field in the Kansas tiebreaker between Oviedo, Seminole and Leesburg tonight at Oviedo High School.

The event will start at 7:30 with admission $3. All three teams tied with a 2-1 record in District 4A-7 play and will battle it out to see which team advances to the playoffs this Friday against Land 'O Lakes.

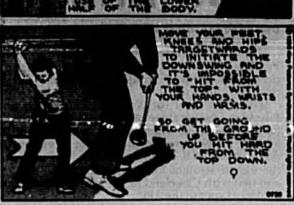

Oviedo won the coin toss and will host the event and play the winner of the Leesburg-Seminole matchup. The Kansas tiebreaker is a system which places the ball on the ten yard line and gives a team four downs to score. The team that wins is the team that scores and prevents the other team from totaling the same amount of points.

"I think the team that wins the opener will have the advantage, not us," Oviedo coach Jack Blanton ☐See Oviede, Page 4B

Staurovsky was waived by the Patriots in preseason, as Garcia, a fourth-round draft choice, and Franklin, a 10-year veteran, battled for the kicking job. Garcia beat out Franklin, but New England re-signed Staurovsky Oct. 26 after Garcia missed three field goals and an extra point in a 23-20 loss to Buffalo.

Garcia still handles kickoffs and long field goals.

Staurovsky, who practiced using his 79-year-old grandfather as a holder while he was without a team this fall, said he felt no pressure on his kicks.

A layup by Barnes off a nice feed from Thomas put the Raiders ahead 84-82. But two free throws by Terrell and one by Dan Perolio put the Pioneers ahead 85-84 with 1:32 left. Seminole regained the lead with 0:40 left when Thomas scored on a layup on a pass from Barnes. But again Indian River went back ahead when Taylor hit a twisting 18 foot jumper with 20 seconds left to put them ahead 87-86. Seminole called time out with 11 seconds left to set up a last second play. Woods came off a pick by Nick Milidakis and was fouled by Perolio with five seconds left. A night to remember for county swimmers

By CHUCK BURGESS Herald correspondent

ORLANDO - After having a day to relish their much deserved and long awaited Class 4A state awimming title, the Lady Patriots of Lake Brantley still have a hard time believing that their dream is now a reality.

"It still hasn't bit me yet that I won three things and we won the state title," Lake Brantley's triple state champion JoDee Lake said. "I really don't know what to say.

After being the bridesmaids for the past two years, the Lady Pat splashers finally got a wedding of their own, however this wedding was for champions. Using a fresh attitude after a poor showing in the preliminaries, the Lake Brantley girls came together and did what they had been trying to do for the past four years - win a state

"All of us worked hard to do what we did." Brantley's Jennifer Moon who had the swim of the meet, said, "Clay (Parnell) pushed us hard this year. We never missed practice and worked for everything we got."

Even though Moon didn't win an event, she did turn her efforts around for the team and picked ilp crucial points at the most intense point in the meet. After suffering from an acute case of the jitters in the morning. Moon went out and had fun and in doing so came from sixth to second in the 100 backstroke.

"After prelims I wasn't really sure how I was going to do," Moon, who is only a sophomore. said. "I was scared for the first time in my life. I thought I could ger second and after we had a team meeting in between prelims and finals the team was wired. Clay told us it would be hard. but we could do it. I still can't believe we did it.'

Disbelief was abound the day after the unprecedented feat at the homes of the Lady Patriots, especially from the team's captain Kristen Pauley, who was ecstatic to go out of high school swimming in style.

"I still can't believe we did it. All of us are so excited," Pauley said, "Lust year we all fell apart in the linals, but this year we all had a different attitude. Clay said we shouldn't take things so seriously and not to get so nervous about it. He said that win or lose we were still the best team. I was so high off of the meet and everyone was so pumped up that we all swam our best times."

Lake, who was unstoppable in the finals, felt that something in the atmosphere of the meet helped the Lady Patriots. Maybe it was the throng of wild parents who cheered fanatically for their team or something in the way the Lady Pats reached deep down for that one thing that only champions have. Whatever it was, the swimming world now has a new state champion in Lake

"I don't know what it was, but I felt longer and stronger in the water than I ever have," Lake said. "It's like nothing can touch me." So what's next for these new state champions? Ryan Pauley summed it up best when she said "I'm giad that we finally won state. I just hope we can keep it up next year."

The county could be proud of the boys in the area also as they rocked and rolled to two top five finishes with the Greyhounds of Lyman coming In third and the Rams of Lake Mary touching in at fifth for the second consecutive year.

The swims of the meet came from one of the most unlikely athletes to ever strap on a suit Senior Jim Bandy from Lyman dropped an incredible eight seconds off his previous best time in the 500 free to place third behind his brother Dave. Jim also placed fifth in the 200 free.

"I am really happy with my swims." Bandy, who hopes to go to Princeton, said. "I felt the 200 in the morning would set the tone for my meet 1 was hoping to get out and get my goal time, but the time I swam was three seconds faster than my goal time."

Lake Mary put together school records in seven events on the swimming of Brad Bridgewater. Karl Kuchma, Steve Kostowicz, and Chris Snively. All four combined for a third place finish in the 200 medley relay and head coach Walt Morgan was more than pleased with his team's

Lyman's Jim Bandy is almost awestruck by his time in the 500 freestyle at Saturday's state meet, nearly eight seconds better than his previous top time in the event.

"I was kind of surprised we were as strong as we were." Morgan said. "I'm really pleased with our season. This has been one of the most successful seasons we've ever had. The horses came through in the last meet."

Seminole breaks onto state scene

By CHUCK BURGESS Herald correspondent

While Bolles and Pine Crest were collecting state titles in the Class 3A swimming championships at the Orlando International Aquatic Center, Seminole High School was breaking onto the awimming scene and making an impact on high school swimming that will be felt for years to come.

After taking a surprising seventh place finish at the district meet a week ago, the Seminoles shaved and reshaved for the tremendously fast 3A state Onals. For the first time in school history the Swiminules had two athletes in the state finals.

Cissy Hurgess dropped two seconds off both of her events to place 18th in the 200 free and 14th in the 100 fly. Her places might not look like much, but her times would have been good enough for a 16th place in the free and a 7th place in the fly in the Class 4A state meet.

Burgess, swimming at her lifetime peak, shattered both of her school records which she had set only a week ago. Swimming as if she were on fire. Burgess blazed to a 1:00:08 in the 100 butterfly and sizzled to a 2:00:40 in the 200 free.

Two more school records fell at the meet, one being 10 years old and the other only a week old.

Senior Sean Mickle broke a 10-year mark in the 50 free with his ninth place time of 21.89. The previous record was held by Mark Smith with his 1977 time of 22.10. Mickle also teamed with Scott Lewis, Jeff Belford, and Troy Deppen to break their week old record in the 200 medley relay with a time of 1:49.11.

Mickle ended his high school swimming in style by also winning the consolation heat in the 100 free for another ninth place finish. After coming from behind after a sluggish first 50, Mickle turned on the turbo to finish with 47.73 clocking.

Scott Lewis, who has come from being an average high school swimmer to a dominant force in the backstroke, pulled in at 59.01 for 26th place.

Murphy's Law hits SHS runners

By MARK BLYTHE Herald sports writer

Seminole High Schools boys cross country team had a case of Murphy's Law teverything that could go wrong dfd) Saturday in the 3A state meet and placed 15th after second runner Dalvin Davis had to stop running due to a muscle.

Jason Kaiser led the way for the Tribe, placing 12th overall with a time of 16 00. Brent Poscy was second in 65th, followed by Marus Egan (88th). Brian Hoops (100th). David Wallace (102nd), and Dale Wright (107th)

"Anything that could have gone wrong did." Seminole coach Ken Brauman said. 'Jason (Kaiser) fell down 40 vards in and they had to restart the race. When Jason fell Davis had to jump over him and that caused a hip pointer that eventually gave out. He fell down with about a half mile to go, he tried to plant and just fell, there is no way he could finish the race." Brauman was pleased with the efforts of the Tribe. though, as the team made its first trip to the state meet.

I think they took the meet to seriously," Brauman said. "I also think they learned that this is just another meet, that it's not all its cracked up to be. If we ever return with these same runners I think they will do much better."

Rockledge ended up winning the meet with 103 points, just nipping defending state champion Niceville who finished with 106. Niceville was thought to have won the meet. but the jury of appeals reversed the scoring of two runners that gave the title to the Raiders.

Though Seminole did not run up to its capabilities it was still an honor to represent the school in its first state appearance. Seminole will lose two seniors, Kaiser and Posey, but will look to make a return trip as a strong nucleus returns.

"We were happy to run in the state meet." Brauman said. "Nobody expected us to get this far. I don't think we ran to our capabilities. Bishop Moore finished tenth and ve run around them all season and I think if we had a good race we would have been real close or in the top ten.

Kaiser, who won the Region 3A-2 race with a personal best time of 15:24, stayed with the leaders of the race until the mile and a half mark. Katser then tried to make up the ground in the final mile but could not crack the top ten.

"He lost contact around the midpoint of the race and was coming on in the final mile." Brauman said. "He ran a good race and had a great season."

Seminole overall as a team had a real good season and could develop to be one of the top teams in their class in two

"I'm pleased with the scason," Brauman said.

Edwards carries Indiana in NIT

United Press International

Edwards hit five three-point shots and finished with 27 points, leading the 17th-ranked Hoosiers past co-No. 18 Stanford 84.73 in a quarterfinal game of Big Apple National Invitation Tournament.

Indiana moved into Wednesday night's semilinals in New York along with No. 3 North Carolina, No. 8 Syracuse and No. 13 Missourt, North Carolina faces Missouri in the opening game of the doubleheader. followed by Indiana-Syrucuse. The championship and thirdplace games are Friday night.

Each of the semifinalists won twice on its home court in the first two rounds.

Also on Sunday, North Carolina turned back Georgia 99-91. Syracuse routed Wyoming 107 81, and Missouri downed Xavier 83-71

Edwards was Big Ten Freshman of the Year last season, but he had his scholarship revoked by Hoosiers Coach Bobby Knight last summer for academic shortcomings. He then underwent drug counseling in September.

However, he has picked up where he left off on the court. He collected 14 points in an 83-48 rout of Illinois State, then shot the Hoosiers past Stanford.

This is a big step," Edwards said. "We're trying to show the rest of the teams that we should be runked higher than we are."

Todd Jadlow made 17 of 19 free throws, scored 23 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for Indiana, which led 32-27 at halftime and never allowed the Cardinal to draw closer. Todd Lichti scored 22 points to lead Stanford, 1-1.

At Chapel Hill, N.C., Scott Williams scored 25 points and ignited 9-0 and 15-0 runs to start each half for the Tar Heels, who led by as many as 25 points in the second half.

Williams, a 6-foot-10 junior center, had the game's first seven points and the Tar Heels built an early 18-point lead.

Georgia, 1-1, rallied from that deficit, but couldn't overcome North Carolina's 15-0 run that started the second half.

Kevin Madden scored 18 points for the Tar Heels, and Jeff Lebo added 14.

"We had an amazing beginning." North Carolina Coach Dean Smith said. "We were active defensively and doing other things well. The elephant then jumped on our back, but we responded and played a good game against a fine team."

Elmore Spencer, a 6-foot-11 redshirt freshman, scored 21 points for Georgia.

At Syracuse, N.Y., Stephen Thompson's 19 points led six Orangemen in double figures. Sherman Douglas and freshman Billy Owens each added 15, and Derrick Coleman scored 14 and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Syracuse, which shot 85 percent in the first half, led 56-34 at halftime and coasted

"Now we go to New York and play against teams that are going to be in the Top 10, which should help us." Syracuse Coach Jim Bocheim said.

Robyn Davis scored 19 points to lead Wyoming, 1-1.

At Columbia, Mo., Byron Irvin had a career-high 28 points, and the Tigers used an 8-0 spurt midway through the second half to pull away from Xavier.

Doug Smith had 16 points and 11 rebounds for Missouri. Stan Kimbrough paced the Musketeers, 1-1, with 23 points.

The victory was career No. 499 for Tigers Coach Norm Stewart.

DUKE RIPS KENTUCKY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. -

Penn State defeated previously top-ranked Miami in a battle of two unbeatens in the 1967 Fiesta Bowl, giving the Nittany Lions the national title in the final rankings. Penn State was ranked second entering that championship two years ago by moving its game from the morning of Jan. 1 to prime time Jan. 2. "If it would serve the best interests of the universities, we'll go from there." Junker said. "Then we'll inquire of NBC, inquire of our people." Notre Dame Coach Lou Holtz said his players must worry about USC before they think about a national title showdown against West Virginia. 'We can't even be afforded the luxury of thinking about (a national title)," Holtz said. "I can die and still go to heaven without winning the national championship. The bishop and the people here say so. I asked

Teams relish state tournament experience

By CHRIS PISTER Herald sports editor

Oviedo's Lady Lions may have come up short in their quest for a Class 3A championship, but they found out this past weekend the State Tournament feeling is a feeling like no other. It's a feeling they definitely plan on discovering

In their first ever state tourney appearance, the Lady Lions, who finished at 23-3, proved they belonged, but did not play their best match of the season. Oviedo came out nervous then settled down and looked good in spots but never totally got it together in a 15-6, 15-13 defeat at the hands of 15-13 defeat at the hands of eventual state champion Fort Lauderdale Cardinal Gibbons.

The Lady Redskins of Cardinal Gibbons showed their superior experience at the state level in rolling to their fifth consecutive state title and 10th in the last 14 years. And experience is about the only experience is about the only thing that separated the Lady Redskins from the Lady Lions.

"I was watching them warm up and they really weren't intimidating." Oviedo senior Anna Hollis said of Gibbons. "I felt we could be them if we played as well as we were capable of playing."

In the opening game of the match, Oviedo stayed within 8-6 when Joanna Sahm served the next seven points in a row for Gibbons. Oviedo was trailbest service strings of the tournament, serving 10 points in a row to give the Lady Lions a 13-12 lead.

but still couldn't stop the rally. It was the closest Cardinal Gibbons came during the entire playoffs to losing a game.

"We weren't as aggressive as we should have been at the net." Hollis said. "I thought we were every bit as good as them, we just didn't show it."

In the championship game on Saturday, Cardinal Gibbons went up against a scrappy Port Charlotte team and this time rode the impressive power of Camille Durso to a 15-6, 15-9 victory. Durso had a tournament-high 12 kills in the match and finished with a tourney-high 21 kills. Sahm added 10 kills for the tourney was quite an accomplishment for Middleburg's Lady Broncos. The team finished with a 17-18 record for the season and was 13-17 when the playoffs began.

The award for the most valuable might-mite goes to Cardinal Gibbons' 5-2 senior Nora Smith. It seemed that Cardinal Gibbons had its best rallies when Smith came on to serve. In two matches, she was 23 for 23 in serving and accounted for 15 points off her serve and also played superbly in the back row.

Joining Durso and Sahin on the Sanford Herald sports staff Class 3A All-State Team, are Gibbons' Smith. Oviedo's Hollis and Port Charlotte's Holli Burns.

Experience also won out in the Class 4A State Tourna-ment where Miami Sunset closed out a spectacular 39-0 season by winning its second consecutive championship. The Lady Knights eliminated Pensacola Pine Forest in the semifinals, then outsted Boca Raton Spanish River in the Sunset had the longest service string of the entire tournament when Melissa Gailey came on against l'ine Forest with the score tied at 2-2, and served the next 13 points in a row, with four of them being aces.

Game two of that same match featured one of the most thrilling service strings of the tourney when Pine Forest's Alma Upchurch came on with the jump serve and perved four aces in a row to give the Lady Eagles a 13-12 lead. Sunset managed to escape the clutches of Upchurch and scored the next three points to win the match.

The Sanford Herald All Tourmament team for Class 4A includes Edurda Fioravanti. Gailey and Jeni Garriga of Sunset, Paige Rice of Spanish River and Clearwater's Cristina Alcoz.

The state tournament provided plenty of excitement for everyone and it was a super idea to have both 3A and 4A at the same location. Dr. Phillips High School should be commended for running an excellent state tournament. Laura Smith did an oustanding job running a smooth tourney and all of her volunteers helped make it an occasion to remember.

Wishbone brings Brantley 5A-4 title

By MARK BLYTHE Herald sports writer

Lake Brantley's Patriots chalked another one up in the "W" column Friday night. The "W" stands for Wishbone.

Lake Brantley captured the school's first 5A-4 District title Friday as it used its well-known Wishbone attack to whip Lyman's Greyhounds 21-0. Brantley also tied for the Seminole Athletic Conference crown with the win.

"We've waited a long, long time for this." Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon said. 'We've worked very hard for this, I said at the beginning of the season we'd bring home a district championship and now we Brantley ended up rushing for close to 300 yards with Eiroy Dantzler leading the way with 131, putting him over the 1,000 mark for the season. Dantzler becomes the fourth running back this season in Seminole County to go over 1,000 yards, joining Lake Howell's Marquette Smith, Lyman's Cedric Bouey and Oviedo's Frank Diaz.

Brantley quarterback Clint Johnson added 101 yards with Mike Dantzler picking up 38 more hard-earned yards. Johnson has went over the 100 yard mark the past two Eiroy Dantzler scored the game's first touchdown on a 20-yard run. Johnson then made his only pass attempt of the night count as he hooked up with Mike Dantzler on a 20-yard scoring pass in the third period for a 14-0 lead. Elroy Dantzler's 47-yard scoring run busted the game open in the fourth quarter.

The night was all Brantley, even though they fumbled the ball six times, the Brantley defense played incredibly and never let the Hounds closer than the 16-yard line, that coming in the final minute of the game.

"The defense was awesome," Almon said. "We shut down one of the most productive offenses around. They really rose to the occasion tonight."

Almon lauded his defense early in the season and called them the best unit he's had since he took over four years ago as head coach of the Patriots.

'They're big, strong and experienced," Almon said. "They've been together awhile and know what to expect from one another.

Matt Miller, Pat French and Jason Varitek

all led the defense in shuting down Cedric Bouey and the rest of the Lyman offensive attack. Houey still managed to pick up 119 yards but could not break open on a big gainer.

"We knew we had to contain them and we did," Almon said. "We proved we're the best team in this district.

Brantley will now host Lake City Columbia. 8-2, another team with a history of having a strong running attack. Lake City clinched its district title two weeks ago, but closed the season with a 44-22 loss to Suwannee on Friday, Columbia is coached by former Oviedo High mentor Joe Montgomery.

Since the FHSAA instituted the Class 5A system. District 5A-3 has won two of three region titles against 5A-4. The first year of 5A play, Lake Mary went to Lake City and upect Columbia in the region playoff. The following year. Jacksonville Sandalwood defeated DeLand and Sandalwood trounced ready broke a sweat and be Lake Mary last year.

Even though Columbia comes from an area of the state that is well-known for its football prowess, the Patriots figure to have a shot at the "W" as long as they keep the Wishbone cranked up.

"We have quite a few weapons that we can use now, so the opposing defense can't key on just any one person," added Blake, "And I'm also confident in our kicker (Chuk Roll). So if all it takes is a field goal. I won't hesitate to use him.

Since Seminole has relied mostly on the pass. It would seem to the defenses advantage in a Kansas tiebreaker, where its best games of the year.

the offense has four plays to score from the 10-yard line.

"The defense will have less field to cover so it does favor the running game," Blake said. "But we have so many good athletes that I think we can find a way to score. In this altuation, anything is subject to happen so we'll just try to go out and play strong defense and try to outsmart the opposition on offense."

If Seminole gets by Leesburg. it will then go up against Oviedo for the title. SHS is one of two teams to beat the Lions this season, a 10-6 decision in which Seminole's defense played one of Oviedo, who completed its season with a 24-17 loss to Lake Howell in double overtime, got a chance to work on the Kansas tiebreaker last Friday. The Lions were able to score on their first possession before being stopped on their second that allowed the Silver Hawks to win.

"Any time you get a chance to practice the tiebreaker it helps," Blanton said. "We did fairly well against Lake Howell and I hope we can execute again in the tiebreaker."

Oviedo beat Leesburg in a Hebreaker earlier this season. Seminole beat the Lions, 10-6, in a tough confrontation. Seminole and Leesburg played a wild 34-22 game that saw Seminole out playing the Jackets in the second half. "Leesburg has a strong running back, a smart and talented quarterback, and a couple good receivers." Blanton said. They'll be real tough if they get by Seminole." Blanton also knows that

Seminole has turned things around and could repeat as the district champion.

'Seminole's quarterback has really matured over the past three or four games.

Holidays can be enjoyed though ex-spouse might have the kids

Ten-year-old Jimmy spent last Christmas with his father in Cleveland Already a seasoned solo airline traveler, Jimmy spends every other holiday with hie father in Ohio. So. this year. he will share Thanksgiving turkey with his father, and open Christmas presents under his mother's tree.

How does all this switching and shuffling around during the holidays affect Jimmy and his family!

"Holidays are already a tremendously stressful time of year." says Doreen Virtue. psychotherapist, joint-custodial mother and author of My Kida Don't Live With Me Anymore Coping With the Custody Crisis. "When you add the burden of making visitation arrangements. spending the holidays without your child, you've got a holiday season that's really overwhelm-

Jimmy's mother deals with a different set of emotions. "The first Christmas 1 spent without Jimmy was the worst Christmas of my life," she says. "I was so lonely and there was nowhere I could turn to feel better, since the stores and gyms were closed for the day and all the restauranta were booked up."

Jimmy's father regrets his son's absence on the holidays for his and Jimmy's sake. "If I don't get Jimmy for Christmas, I never have as good a time because something so special is missing." he says. "Of course. I'm happy when he does come. but then I feel guilty. I still have to go to work, so our time

Different styles of celebrating. geographic distance between families, and emotional pain all add up to make the holidays an especially stressful time for divorced families. Here are six tips on coping with the special problems that result from the custody crisis this holiday HORBOR

1. Plan well in advance with everyone concerned.

2. Spend time talking with your children about their feelings on the arrangements set up for the holidays. Invite them to share feelings of disappointment or sadness, but talk about ways to make sure the holidays are a fun, close time. 4. Arrange to have some kind of contact with your children. Plan what time you'll talk on the telephone during the holiday. If your only contact during that time is a phone call, keep the tone positive but honest. Encourage children to share their feelings. Be honest about your own sadness at not being together, but focus on looking forward to the next visit.

5. Holidays tend to intensify competition between ex-spouses. When making holiday plans and especially when picking up/dropping off the children. don't spoil the day by allowing yourself to be drawn into an argument with your ex-spouse. Avoid gloating over who has the kids for the holidays. Don't ing or Christmas, plan on compete with your spouse in gift-giving. Concentrate instead on finding enjoyable, meaningful

Proper paper makes impression in thank-yous

NEW YORK - Forget to send a thank you note? Or worse, don't own proper monogrammed correspondence cards or social stationery? Etiquette experts shudder.

"A thank-you note is one of the most important acts of communication between two people," said Letitia Baidrige, author on manners and White House social secretary during the Kennedy administration.

Naturally, you know that. But did your mother teach you the step-by-step of proper stationery in these, the socially erratic pre-1990s when social graces are slipping fast.

I think proper stationery is terribly important because the more informal our society

Q: I know "flammable" cart catch fire, but does "inflammable" mean the opposite?

DEAR READER! The "thickness" or consistency of the blood is not necessarily related to the speed of clotting. In some discases characterized by viscous blood, such as polycythemia vera tan excess of red blood cells), blood does clot more rapidly: this is probably due to the over-production of platelets, the body's blood-clotting cells. that often accompanies the Aspirin (and other drugs that inhibit coagulation) do not affect blood consistency. Rather, these compounds slow clotting by reducing platelets' adhesiveness or interfering with the proteins that are necessary for coagulation to take place.

Therefore, I doubt that your friend's single aspirin tablet is truly relieving his symptoms. I believe that he will have to look elsewhere for an explanation. Blood atlments marked by excess viscosity - such as polycythemia and diseases associated with excess white blood cells - can cause fatigue and loss of stamina.

I suggest that your friend undergo a medical examination to determine the condition of his blood. If his blood constituents are normal, the doctor will want to look for other causes of energy

DEAR READER: First of all. you need to separate out the various possible causes of your

If you have arthritts and/or gout, the accident you had is probably inconsequential; you need treatment for the underlying problem. Arthritis, depending on type, usually responds to one of the many anti-arthritis preparations that are available with and without prescription. Gout, too, can be controlled by medicine, notably allopurinol.

In the event that your symptoms are the result of the fall - as I suspect they are - the situation may be more complicated. Once ligaments and tendons have been injured, they almost never heat completely; the affected joint remains intermittently uncomfortable for months or years. You may have to rely on knee and ankle braces - or support the joints by taping them - to provide added

Women's club aiding shelter

HEATHROW - The Heathrow Women's Club and David's Foods of Winter Park will be making a joint contribution to SC3 (Sharing Concern for Seminole Shelter Children) as a thank you to its patrons at the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

The proposed shelter when completed will house 12 mentally and/or physically abused children between the ages of 12 and 17. The land has been donated, and SC3 is presently trying to raise the $200,000 needed to construct the facility.

Bonney Walther, charitable activities chairman for the Heathrow Women's Club, will supervise a collection from within the Heathrow Community of property, toys and clothes for the Muntard Seed of Longwood. The gifts will be distributed to homeless families. Other interested parties may contact Carol Kane at 788-3421.

hands across the water media brought us the news that three gray whales were trapped by ice in the Arctic, people all over the world wrung their hands and prayed for those doomed creatures. When one whale perished, a friend of mine went to church and lighted candles for the remaining two.

The outpouring of compassion for those whales was heartwarming. And what an admirable show of generosity on the part of the Soviets when they sent a ship with a high-powered ice cutter to set them free.

I read that more than a million dollars was spent rescuing those two whales. Abby, I know that you are an animal lover, and so am I, but if all the time, energy and money we spent on freeing those whales were spent to provide proper prenatal care for mothers and babies, we would have a lot more to brag about.

BAN DIEGO

DEAR SAN DIEGO: A million dollars is a whale of a lot of blubber, and while it's true our infant mortality rate is nothing to brag about, let's not diminish the compassion and generosity of the two superpowers of the world, who joined hands in a humane effort to preserve life.

DEAR ABBY: Shortly after our 415-year-old grandson's tragic death a year ago, my husband been in wain. Our two grandchildren and some other children had been swinging on a rope hanging from a tree in a neighbor's yard. The other kids left, and Tommy was all alone swinging on that rope. It apparently had wrapped itself around his neck and suspended him off the ground-choking him. When his mother found him, he had no pulse or heartbeat.

When the paramedics arrived. they got Tommy breathing again. He was airlifted to a hospital and lived only days in intensive care. He never regained consciousness although I'm sure he had the best of care (860,000), and even if he had is confidential.)

Our beloved, beautiful grandson's death was preventable. Abby, please help me get the word out that ropes hanging from trees may be fun for children to play with, but never let your children swing from them unless someone is with them.

ESTHER ACKERMAN. BEATTLE

DEARESTHER ACKERMAN: My heartfelt sympathy to you and your family. You were very generous to have written in your time of sorrow. I regret that you will never know how many people will read about this tragedy and remember it. Be asured that your beloved Tommy did not die in vain.

family feels up to having. "It will be terribly hard, especially the first year after a divorce, death, some kind of tragic loss in the family. There is the loss, then you can say, 'How should we do it now? What part of this do you want to keep?""

Imbbr-Black said. The first year is also the most critical when you add a spouse or new family member, she said. Unless you merge their holiday traditions with yours, the newcomer remains an outsider hovering on the fringes of somebody else's celebration.

People get swallowed up. You get a new stepfather, he's entering a family with six children. His way of doing things may get lost. Any couple is faced with that," Imber-Black said.

You have to say, 'What do we take from each of their families to create whatever new ritual we're going to have?' It's a way of accepting change while affirming tradition, making room for the new.

Where remarriage and stepfamilies are involved, chances are the kids will be celebrating with two sets of parents. 'Obviously that's difficult. But they can be given permission to enjoy both houses, to have it be all right that they are going from Dad's house to Mom's. Tell them Dad may be doing it one way, we're doing it another way and there isn't one right way," Imber Black said.

Equally important, she said, is to realize that holiday squabbles are not the fault of the holiday. If you are going to remain a family, you are probably going to have to tolerate a few spouses or in-laws that you basically don't

"It's an issue larger than Thanksgiving, It just plays out no way to put on a happy face, around those family gatherings. But when you can acknowledge. If people refuse to invite someone it's always a bad sign. That signals the beginning of a cut-off. I wouldn't say, 'Swallow it' as a way of pretending, but of saying 'What do we really want?' I don't think families do well when they cut members out," Imber-Black paid.

Even if you still have one of those rare, fully intact nuclear families, you are probably going to have to change your holiday celebrations as the kids grow. the budget shrinks or your free time evaporates.

"All those require the family to change. The kids go away to college, or they want to bring someone home, or they want to go to a friend's house," said Imber-Black.

"Traditionally it's been expected that women will make these holidays happen, do the cooking, the shopping, gift buy-ing, inviting, With women working outside of the home. there is an increased burden to still make it the way it used to be, the way their mother made it," Imber-Black said.
