The Sanford Herald Missing A Good Chance To Serve Sanford

Presumably Sanford people who own automobiles are so well acquainted with the roads and the distances connecting their city with neighboring towns and counties they do not need mileage signs or guide-posts, but strangers know only what the guide posts tell them. And precious little this

When travelers turn into the Sanford road from Mount Dora they may notice the sign telling them the distance to: NEW YORK CITY, especially Sanford, but for miles and miles of this road they have no that part of the population which way of learning if by any chance they are going wrong. Nor to pleased to call itself "society," do they have any way of learning that they are on their way is much agitated because a wellto a live town, until they are within a few miles of the city known member of that "society?" and begin to see the few signs of those progressive business has just married a jourg woman men who are advertising their own hotels or banks, as the tared to have "colored blood" in case may be,

Before the traveler reaches Sanford proper there is the turn that can take him to DeLand and Daytona. And literally thousands of travelers go that way without ever seeing the good one with the same of New York when it was Sanford or knowing anything about the attractions and the New Arcterdam, is rich. It is patent advantages of this prospering town.

If that road from Mount Dora were properly posted, num- to the good New York's water bers of visitors would come into Sanford on their way to from for more than a million. Daytona and the East Coast.

The same absence of proper road signs could be noted on This COMBINATION of emithe Sanford-Daytona road. Traveiers coming from the Line and the approximately and real money Coast on the Daytona-Sanferd road have no invitation to with a family alleged to contain visit Sanford. Even the mileage to Sanford is not posted Airi an blood has completely updet with any frequency, if at all. And yet we like to think one otherwise well-balanced that Sanford is "on the map"!

Between Orlando and Sanford there is also a shortage of FROM THE PURELY democramile posts. Travelers should see an invitation every mile on the point of view, and perhaps every road coming into Sanford for a distance of fifty or a grow the vewpoint of the angel hundred miles in every direction, inviting them to come and Gabin to the main difference besee "The City Substantial", and telling them the remaining tween the family of the young distance to be covered before they can find themselves "at a a and the young woman resides home in Sanford."
