

School Board Will Help Get Athletic Field

Asks Architect To Prepare Plans; Will Endeavor To Obtain Needed Cash

The Seminole County Board of Education will make every effort to provide an athletic field at the Seminole County High School, members of that body told a committee that called on the board in session in the Court House this morning.

Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, Prof. G. E. McKay, principal of the High School, and Coach L. L. McClucas composed the committee and their request was that the school board submit the County Planning Commission the project for an athletic field, the project to include the erection of a fence and bleachers. The visitors met with hearty response, the board voting unanimously to accept the service of Architect E. J. Moughton to prepare project plans at once, and assured the committee that the board would "exert every effort in getting the project approved and the work accomplished."

For Sale, One Palace; Come Live Like King

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The opportunity to live like a king presented itself to the common people today at the ancient Royal Palace at Richmond here a placard announcing that the owners of the crown lease would accept offers. The former home of Tudor and Plantagenet monarchs, which contains the death chamber of Queen Elizabeth, may be converted into two separate dwellings.

Football Season Is Not Yet Over; Game Next Friday

Stetson And Rollins To Play In DeLand In Closing Contest

DELAND, Dec. 4.—Stetson University has its Aubrey Smith and Rollins College has its George Miller—and the gridiron teams of the two schools will have a spectacular ball game when they meet on Hollyer Field Friday night.

The Hatters speedster and the wing-footed Tar are expected to stage a running duel with many thrills in this closing contest of the season which will decide whether Stetson is to have undisputed hold on the "Little Four" championship of Florida or share this honor with the University of Tampa.

Ken Louton at quarterback, a great punter, and Swede Phillips, an end man who snares passes with rare efficiency are two other Hatters who should share the limelight in the Rollins game. These two, like Smith, will appear in Stetson moleskins on this occasion for the last time.

Head Coach Brady Cowell planned to drill without scrimmage this afternoon as he desires to avoid all injuries before Friday's important match and put the Hatters on the field in excellent condition.

Tars Admit Inferiority WINTER PARK, Dec. 4.

—Resuming football relations with Stetson University at DeLand Friday after a lapse of seven years, the Rollins Tars are faced with the prospect of meeting her old rivals with an admittedly inferior team.

Stetson has been enjoying a good season under a new coaching staff, while the Tars have been handicapped with injuries and green men to such an extent they have been suffering the poorest season in seven years.

In spite of the heavy odds favoring the Hatters, the Tars are not conceding victory to their rivals by any means. Coach Jack McElwain intends to push the Tars through their paces at full speed this week for the important encounter.

Boy Boxers Will Go To Jacksonville To Put On Exhibition Bouts Tomorrow

Judge S. A. B. Wilkinson will take 14 of his Seminole Boy's Athletic Club boxers to Jacksonville tomorrow to put on a series of exhibition bouts there Thursday evening. The bouts are to be staged in Jimmy Braddock's arena at 207 Main Street, at 8 P. M. Judge Wilkinson, club sponsor, has made arrangements for cars for the trip to Jacksonville, and expects to leave Sanford early tomorrow afternoon.

The program arranged for the Jacksonville show is as follows: Buddy Richard, Sanford, vs. Buddy Hanlanky, Jacksonville, both 8 years of age, each weighing 57 pounds; Harry Lee Moore, Sanford, vs. Lewis Williams, Jacksonville, both 9 years of age, each weighing 60 pounds; H. C. Tippin, Sanford, vs. Mathew Coleman, Jacksonville, both 14 years of age, each weighing 75 pounds; Clarence Harrineau, Sanford, vs. Morgan Miller, Jacksonville, both 14 years of age, each weighing 90 pounds; Pete Tillis, Sanford, vs. J. L. Cowart, Jacksonville, both 17 years of age, each weighing 114 pounds; LaVie Harangue, Sanford, vs. Joe Walters, Jacksonville, both 18 years of age, each weighing 150 pounds; Darrell Ferguson, Sanford, vs. Frank McGrath, Jacksonville, both 17 and 18 years of age, respectively, each weighing about 150 pounds.

Others not billed to appear on the boxing program but who will probably go to Jacksonville are Leon Lawson, John F. Hall, Lindberg Hall, Giles Chapman, Laurence Harrineau, Duane Tillis and Claude Harangue.

Judge Wilkinson announces final practice in the Fourth Street arena this evening at 7 o'clock.

United Front For Bonus Payment Is Tried By Senator

repetition of that tragedy. Senator McAdoo's advice, if followed by the veterans, likely would result in all sorts of complications.

For one thing, the job of policing a march of such portions would be tremendous. It wouldn't affect Washington alone. Every state, county and city on the line of march would be affected.

And the experience which authorities have had in the past with such "marches" makes them shudder at the prospect of having to deal with another such situation.

Probably the best insurance, however, against a bonus march at the coming session of Congress will be the weather. Senator McAdoo, in sunny California, may urge the veterans to march on Washington, but the zero and sub-zero weather which will be prevailing at the time Congress is in session is something else.

All bonus and other "marches" on Washington in the past have been made either in the spring or summer.

Although the veterans may not actually descend on the capital in the manner McAdoo suggests, Administration leaders have talked cognizance of the seriousness back of the senator's proposal.

Something must be done about the bonus this winter and done quickly.

McAdoo's advice to the veterans is evidence of the pressure that will be exerted on those senators who stood with the President on his veto of the bonus bill passed in the last session of Congress.

On Jan. 13—ten days after the session opens—the House will be called on to dispose of the "Payman Bill" providing for immediate payment of the bonus.

From the Administration's standpoint it is vital that it be ready by that time with some sort of an acceptable compromise plan. That some kind of a bonus bill will be passed no one denies.

When Life Begins

The tremendous success of Walter Pitkin's book, "Life Begins at Forty" seems to have started a stampede among authors to convince the world that life doesn't really end at thirty the way Scott Fitzgerald so debonairly insisted that it did a decade ago. The new book lists are full of titles that suggest that after all there's a deal of excitement to life beside the beginning of it. Probably the reason that these new volumes find a ready market is that America has carried her worship of youth to such an extreme point that a definite reaction has set in. This twentieth century of ours which has been called "the young man's age," an age that has made a fetish of youth and disability of age, an age in which the modern novelist has bestowed as much attention upon youth as Mr. Ziegfeld did upon glorifying the American girl, is undergoing a decided change of front.

Three well beloved college professors who have raised their voices in praise of the compensations of age are Columbia's John Erskine, Yale's William Lyon Phelps, and Harvard's Charles Copeland. Erskine makes such good-natured fun of some of the follies of his students that they like it in spite of themselves and grip appreciatively while he explains to them that the curtain doesn't really ring down in the late twenties on all the beauty and vividness of life and rise on drab and colorless second and third acts that somehow have to be muddled through.

Phelps quotes from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Though we are justices, and doctors, and churchmen, Master Page, we have some of the salt of our youth in us," and contends that whether a man does or does not have "some salt of his youth" left in age depends entirely upon the man.

Many people who were stupid companions in age were just as stupid in youth, but the sparkle of the eyes and the grace of beauty were mistaken for wit and intelligence, and Charles Copeland recommends that the young take out "mind insurance" for the days when they will not have the more transient charms of youth to lean upon.

We read somewhere a poem about the wish of an old lady, that she, too, like old ivory, old wine, and old lace, might grow more lovely, growing old. It was a beautiful thought, and we remembered that there are old ladies who grow old gracefully, who grow sweet instead of sour, desirable instead of catty, who can still sparkle in conversation with the gentle shimmer of October sunlight.

Just as a crabbed man grows more cantankerous as the years pass, a fine man grows finer. There is a ripe mellow quality about the philosophy of a man who is past "his salad days" when he is green in judgment, a man who has ridden the course and hasn't been thrown from the saddle by the rough going, a man, who, like a horse, has gained his second wind for the home stretch. His talk is genial and flavoured with the tolerance and understanding that come with years and experience.

So it seems that it isn't old age that is dull at all but that sometimes individuals make it so. If a person has an eager mind and a love of life in the teens, he's pretty apt to find the world an exciting place when he's seventy.

HOLC Loans

"More than half of the foreclosure proceedings so far instituted by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation represent borrowers who deliberately refused to meet their monthly payments when due, although actually able to do so," says a bulletin issued by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in Washington. The total number of proceedings undertaken against such willful delinquents in the two years since the corporation began its activities, through November 15, is 1,691, out of 2,963 total foreclosures instituted. The latter figure includes 98 delinquents who paid up their past-due accounts, and thus avoided foreclosure, after such proceedings had begun.

As the corporation by November 14 had granted 945,730 home-relief loans, in the amount of $2,869,865,608, the present foreclosure total is actually equivalent to only one foreclosure proceeding to every 320 loans made. Practically all of the loans made by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation represent home owners who faced foreclosure under their original mortgages when the corporation came to their assistance by refinancing them.

The causes of the other foreclosure proceedings so far instituted, according to the HOLC bulletin, include 1,004 voluntary abandonments of property, 287 cases where the borrower had died and the heirs declined to assume the loan, and 81 instances in which legal complications had forced the Corporation to protect its interest. Foreclosures are said to have been instituted only as a final resort, where deliberate avoidance of payment was apparent or no reasonable adjustment was possible, as shown both by the small proportion of foreclosures to the entire number of HOLC loans made, and also by the grounds on which such proceedings have been initiated.

The majority of the HOLC borrowers are said to be making regular payments. Moreover, the ratio of total payments which are made promptly, in proportion to total payments due, has risen steadily each month during the eight months ending October 31. This trend indicates improved circumstances on the part of many borrowers through re-employment or increased earnings; clearer understanding by HOLC borrowers of the necessity of making their convenient installment payments each month when due, and underlying recovery in rentals and property values, due to a growing housing shortage and the stabilization of home mortgage finance.

HUNTING SEASON

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

When you see a group of men on First Street these days with their heads close together, they aren't having an animated discussion about the prospects for the celery season, or the advisability of the cross-state canal, or the possible candidates for the political offices, or the pros and cons of the New Deal. You bet your life they aren't! They are talking about their hunting luck. One man's eyes sparkle with enthusiasm as he says, "I got the limit," and another one admits dolefully, "I don't know what's the matter. I can't hit 'em. I couldn't hit the side of a barn yesterday." Of course, this comment is meant to be interpreted by the listeners that although his shooting was pretty terrible yesterday, on most other days, he's hot stuff with a shot gun.

It's in the air, this hunting fever and gives a new zest to Sanford's keen sparkling fall weather. It's in the hardware windows with their displays of traps and shells, and it's in the homes by the fire at night when the hunter oils his gun and spins spools, sometimes a bit embroidered, yarn about what happened in the woods.

The deer hunter tells stories of a mounted dash after a buck through the big scrub, the turkey hunter tells of his friend who hid behind a bush and sounded so much like a turkey that he almost got shot, and the duck hunter tells of Poodle Lake in the early dawn.

To give the final thrill, there are the dogs! It makes not a whit of difference whether it's a doxie trailer in which a blooded animal sits in splendour or a battered running board on which three bravely rides a dog whose nose is more unquestioned than his ancestry, the owner gets the same thrill when they are let loose in the woods. Then they begin to

Florida Schools Put 23 Millions In Their Budgets

Nearly Every County Expected $800 Per Teacher From State

TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The public schools of Florida have budgeted anticipated expenditures of $23,778,023.63 for the 1935-36 year despite conflicting forecasts of the length of their terms and the amount of money they may receive from the state.

To meet this outlay, they figured on revenue receipts of $34,366,628.87, with $10,588,605.24 coming from the state even though $9,000,000 is the highest estimate yet placed on the school fund total by a state official.

The budget figures are contained in a compilation of school finances made by W. S. Cawthon, superintendent of education, from reports sent in by county school boards.

Virtually every county budgeted a full $800 from the state for each teacher-unit, even though the budgets were prepared at a time when the chain store tax law—counted upon to produce a big chunk of revenue—was under attack in the courts as unconstitutional.

Only the legislature which passed a bill appropriating $900 for each teacher-unit—or a total of about $10,600,000—estimated the schools would receive that much. It sought to provide the money from automobile licenses, retail store taxes one mill ad valorem, and the remainder—probably as much as $2,000,000—from the state's general treasury.

At that time only the automobile licenses and the one mill tax—totaling about $5,500,000—were definite sources. The chain store tax law, officially known as the occupational license and gross receipts tax, was thrown into the courts, and the amount from the state's general treasury was indefinite because of the fluctuation in revenue collections.

The legislature sought to provide that the school's share in the general revenue would be on the same basis as appropriations for state institutions and governmental departments but the Supreme Court killed this party proposal by declaring it unconstitutional.

Governor Sholtz predicted the schools would receive $9,000,000 from the state but Superintendent Cawthon advised the counties to prepare their budgets on a basis of $5,000,000 as being the amount they could definitely and certainly count upon. They clung, however, to the legislature's estimate and appropriation and budgeted it to the full.

From local sources, the schools expected to receive $4,058,780.20 from county taxes and about $4,550,000 from district and incident

Five Brothers Serve On Navy's Flagship

LONG BEACH, Calif., Dec. 5. (AP)—The navy's flagship Pennsylvania has its "Crowley unit" to rival the Dionne quintuplets.

The unit is composed of five Crowley brothers from Virden, Ill., all of whom are serving as gobs on the ship—Paul, Burness, Harry, Charlie and Manley.

Another brother, Orville, still a high school sophomore plans to enlist in the navy some day and serve on the same ship as the other five.

Farmers Make Money From Worthless Mud

BELLE FOURCHE, S. D., Dec. 5. (AP)—From mud to face powder is the story of Bentonite, mineral "infant prodigy" that has sprouted into a leading industry of western South Dakota in five years.

Until 1929 farmers fought the clayish substance that layeted the soil in this area.

Now three mills are operating in Belle Fourche and two more are to be constructed. Several hundred men have employment because of it.

Scout Council will meet from 7:30 P. M. to 9:00 P. M. at the Girl Scout Little House at the west end of Commercial Street with Miss Katherine Park as honor guest. The 1935 program will be adopted.

NOTABLES ATTEND JOINT MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB DEPARTMENTS

One of the largest groups ever attending a Woman's Club meeting assembled at the club house Wednesday for the all day meeting of all departments of the Woman's Club of Sanford with Mrs. T. V. Moore of Miami, president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. J. O. Kellom of Tallahassee, vice-president at large of the Federation, as honor guests.

Program for the day included a review of this year's Pulitzer prize play, "The Old Maid," with Mrs. W. E. Kirchhoff and Mrs. E. D. Browner as sponsors; a meeting of the Civic Department, the monthly business luncheon with Mrs. Walter L. Cooper presiding and Mrs. Ralph A. Smith, Mrs. V. E. Douglas and Mrs. Frank L. Woodruff as sponsors; and the annual party when toys and other articles were donated to the orphanage and bridge was played. The bridge party was sponsored by the Social Department.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Arthur Herman, Mrs. E. L. Cronell, Mrs. Martin Baker, Mrs. C. R. Dawson, Mrs. Margaret Loucks, Mrs. H. W. Rucker, and Miss Josephine Bodyson, Mrs. S. D. Highleyman, Mrs. J. D. Huff, Mrs. J. C. Compton, and Mrs. J. T. Newby turned the decorations committee.

Sketches from the Pulitzer prize play, "The Old Maid," which starred Helen Menken and Judith Anderson, were given by Mrs. Kirchhoff. The play was written by Zoe Akins from the same name, and directed by Guthrie McClintic, and produced by Harry Mousers.

Preceding Mrs. Kirchhoff's readings Mrs. E. D. Browner gave brief reviews of the following Pulitzer prize plays: "Green Pastures" by Marc Connelly which had a phenomenal run in New York City and on the road; "Alfalfa" by Susan Glaspell; "The I Sing" by George S. Kaufman; "Both Your Houses" by Maxwell Anderson; and "Men in White" by Sidney Kingsley. Mrs. Browner also read the following clause from Joseph Pulitzer's will providing for the prize: "For the original American play performed in New York which shall best represent the educational value and power of the stage in raising the standard of good morals, good taste, and good manners."

A turkey dinner was served at the noon hour in the club auditorium with a lighted Christmas tree centering the stage. The tree was decorated in a and bearing the Children's Home Society gifts, poinsettias, red roses, white chrysanthemums, and greens further added to the attractive appearance of the club.

A program of Christmas carols, arranged by the Music Department was rendered as the lights on the tree came on. Mrs. Ralph A. Smith read a poem on Christmas trees written by her mother, Mrs. W. W. Meeds, after which Mrs. A. M. Phillips sang "Trees" and a Christmas song accompanied by Miss Margaret Davis, pianist, and the Rev. Martin Bram, violinist.

A talk on women of other lands was presented by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Kellom spoke on the work of the Florida Federation.

The speakers' table where Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Kellom, Mrs. Walter L. Cooper and past presidents of the local club were seated, was decorated with red roses, white calla lilies and ferns and lighted with red candles in silver candelabras.

with the Administration's present policy of discouraging "excessive" exports.

The recent neutrality law now makes it mandatory for the President to embargo arms, ammunition and "implements of war" on the outbreak of hostilities between other nations. Usually well informed quarters, however, have expressed the belief that it does not now empower him actually to embargo other items and that further specific congressional authority would be needed for this.

The proposed AES has planned for the proposed Sanford experimental station is the finding of a variety that is resistant to premature weeding and of a hardy binding lettuce. California now has the edge on the lettuce vegetable but the same class of vegetable should be raised in this section, Dr. Jamison believes.

Neither the Gainesville officials, Mr. Dawson, Mr. Shinkler, or Engineer D. A. Metlockey's WPA office in Sanford was able to state today what had become of the Sanford experimental station project. The last report was that it had been approved in Washington. The city voted in favor of the present greenhouse, at the government and gave it six acres of land east of the ball park for the new experiment station and when the report was received from Washington several weeks ago that the project had been approved it was believed that work would be started on it in the near future.

Charm Of Old Novel Shines In New Movie

Settings and excessive detail, be crunched of every film today will be relegated to a minor position in the cinema of the future, except in occasional cases, is the opinion of Henry Hathaway, director of Paramount's production of George Du Maurier's immortal love story, "Peter Ibbotson," starring Larry Cooper and Ann Harding, now showing at the Milane Theater.

Hathaway, whose last screen directional triumph was "Wives of a Bengal Lancer," feels that the value of future film productions will be in the personality of the author, or the author's own director. "The charm of Du Maurier's romantic classic is the description which evokes a world almost, not used merely as a setting for the action.

"Peter Ibbotson" is a dramatic photoplay describing the evocative love life of two people who, doomed to lifelong separation, re-

County Agent Dawson Told Dr. Jamison and Mr. Nettles he had been advised work would start Monday, but he did not know which Monday.

The Gainesville men attended a meeting last evening in the Sanford setting, where the proposition of a greenhouse was the main topic of discussion. Mr. Nettles said it is too late to grow strawberries this season in the Seminole county, but if the farmers engage in that agricultural pursuit next year the Wholesale Market in Sanford will probably be the distributing point for the produce.

Vanderbilt To Be One Contender In Orange Bowl Tilt

Chosen To Represent Dixie In New Year Day Game In Miami

MIAMI, Dec. 5. —Vanderbilt University was selected last night by the Orange Bowl committee to represent Dixie in the second annual game of the North-South series here New Year's day.

Orange Bowl officials believed Vanderbilt, which has expressed a keen interest in the development of the game, would not be prevented from coming to Miami by its conference affiliations.

Whether Vanderbilt might accept the invitation depended upon the action of the University of Florida, president of the Southeastern circuit. The invitation was said to be believed to be a formality.

Vanderbilt, a Catholic University, will represent the North. The game will be played at the University of Florida, however, which is with a very strong Catholic following.

Whether Vanderbilt might accept the invitation depended upon the action of the University of Florida, president of the Southeastern circuit. The invitation was said to be believed to be a formality.

Tennis Tourney In Miami Beach To Be Feb. 17-23

MIAMI BEACH, Dec. 5. —(AP)—Top-flight tennis of the fast growing professional group will vie here Feb. 17-23 for $2,500 in prize money.

A purse $1,000 bigger than last year's has been posted for the money players. Director of Recreation J. B. Lemon announced in an effort to determine the "top man" among the pros.

Lemon said he expected Vines, Tilden, Koehlh, Stofan, Lott, Pare, Barnes and Richards would be among the seeded stars.

Vinnie Richards, recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident in New York, plans to make his "comeback." He will arrive soon after Christmas to start training on courts at Flamingo Park.

Bill Tilden is reported considering barnstorming through Florida as he competes as individuals in the Miami Beach championships.

Bruce Barnes and Emmett Pare already have sent in their doubles entry and will try to regain the National Professional doubles titles.

A new tennis stadium will be constructed for the tournament, Lemon said. Plans have been submitted to City Manager C. A. Renshaw.

While here he will be a guest at the home of Joseph P. Kennedy, former chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission.

Woman Returns To Fight For Rights Of Fishes In Sea

MIAMI, Dec. 5. —(AP)—A feminine follower of sport fishing, who has returned to Florida to resume her battle with the salt water anglers.

Mrs. Grinnell, who has returned to Florida to resume her battle with the salt water anglers, is the wife of the late Captain W. J. Grinnell.

Mrs. Grinnell's husband was a member of the Florida Salt Water Anglers of America, whose membership exceeds 2,000.

She captured the Key West fishing championship, landing the largest sailfin, as the last woman to participate against 25 men three years ago.

Mrs. Grinnell awaits only the arrival of her fishing boat, the "Ollie," before setting out in South Florida waters.

An enthusiastic proponent of "standardized ethics" in salt water angling, Mrs. Grinnell believes salt water game fish are subjected to abuse.

"Fresh water fish are protected," she explained, "but the salt water fish are greatly neglected in respect to conservation. Consequently, the supply is diminishing.

The Salt Water Anglers of America is conducting research and scientific study of salt water fish, with the cooperation of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries.

Mrs. Grinnell favors light tackle and has to her credit the landing of a 31-pound sailfin with No. 4 thread line and a 3

Former Governor Is To See Rodeo Here Next Week

Saturday, December 14, has been designated as "Governor's Day" at the Sanford rodeo and officials in charge of the affair announced that former Governor Doyle E. Carlton will be present that day.

Gov. Carlton will find it profitable to address the cattle men at the rodeo that day.

The rodeo to be sponsored by the Sanford Junior Chamber of Commerce and the police and firemen, is to be given two days, Dec. 13 and 14, and promises many thrills.

Good Onion Harvest To Pay Church Debt

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex., Dec. 5. —(AP)—If it is a good onion crop, the First Methodist Church here will be out of debt after harvest.

Rural parishioners, instead of giving cash, have pledged onion land to the church. The church will have about 200 acres in onions which have been set aside by the members and will be planted, plowed and cultivated by them.

The church will pay for the harvest.

A 3-4 ounce rod. The record books disclose no similar catch on such light tackle.

Swordfish is Mrs. Grinnell's favorite. Her preference marked her for the sobriquet "swords" among her associates. Friends gave her a cigarette case with the nickname engraved.

Perhaps her greatest accomplishment was the landing of a 450-pound swordfish after 20 hours.

Mrs. Grinnell struggled with the huge fish for an uninterrupted period of 10 hours until, near exhaustion, she was forced to give over the line to one of her crew.

Nine hours, later, rested, she resumed, bringing the giant swordfish to gaff an hour later.

Lions Easy For Lad, But Not 5-Foot Leap

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Dec. 5. —(AP)—Manuel King, widely-known lion tamer of Brownsville, goes into a cage and bullies several grown lions with ease, but balks at the "dizzy" heights of five-foot cliffs.

In making a moving picture here he was asked to jump into the lion cage. It took the entire crew and his father a half day to persuade him to make the leap.
