Sheppard's Attorneys To Confer

DELAND, — — Two attorneys obtained a signed murder confession from a Florida convict today which they will use to try to free Dr. Samuel Sheppard from a life prison sentence for the slaying of his wife in 1954.

The attorneys, William Corrigan and Fred Garmone, left Deland for Cleveland, Ohio, hoping the confession by Donald J. Wedler will give them a legal way to reopen the celebrated case.

Wedler described in a 3 1/2 page statement prepared by the attorneys how he clubbed Mariann Sheppard to death on July 4, 1954. The statement was prepared from information the attorneys obtained in an interview with Wedler Monday.

Wedler gave the name and description of a girl he said he slept with in Cleveland on July 1, 1954. He told of spending the next two days in the downtown district and of meeting a Charlie Freeman who gave him a shot of narcotics.

"I was beginning to feel high... something seemed to be urging me on," he said as he described how he reached the Sheppard house.

He said he was armed with a pipe bent at a 45-degree angle which had flanges on each end with square corners.

He said he slipped into the house, noticing a man asleep on a couch downstairs and a woman on a bed upstairs.

"I opened a dresser drawer and found nothing in the way of money," he said. "I was in the act of closing it when a woman on the bed made some kind of noise. I hit her three or four times that I remember."

He explained how he ran into a man at the top of the stairs as he was fleeing the bedroom. He said he hit him with the pipe and pushed him out of the way as the man started to fall.

Wedler said he ran from the house along the beach in the opposite direction from where he parked his car and threw the pipe into the lake.

Corrigan said he would drive back to Cleveland but said Garmone would leave from nearby Daytona Beach by airplane this afternoon and should be back in Cleveland late tonight.

Veterans Corner

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to questions of current interest to former servicemen and their families.

Q. Can a Korean veteran, holding a GI term insurance policy that doesn't pay dividends, get the total disability income provision added to his policy so that he will receive monthly payments in case he becomes totally disabled?

Q. I just received a raise in salary of $25 a month. I would like to use that extra money to apply to my GI home loan each month, so that I can pay it off ahead of time. If this is possible?

Q. A GI home loan may be repaid by extra payments, without penalty. But the minimum extra payment possible is one regular monthly payment of $100, wherever it is less. What you could do is save your salary raise and make an extra monthly payment when the amount equals one monthly installment, or $100.

Q. I am more than halfway through a correspondence course under the Korean GI Bill, and my GI training entitlement has been used up. Can I still receive a GI Bill benefit?

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"With a man rob bank, you've got to have a good one. But you say, 'Where have we robbed that?' in three and a half days."

Joint Chiefs Of Staff Are All Partners In National Security

"One of the most persistent issues of modern times is the controversy over defense organization at the seat of government," writes Col. J. D. Hittle, U. S. Marine Corps. In the July issue of the United States Naval Institute Proceedings, "In essence the issue is a clear-cut one and centers on the question of whether or not our nation should discard the Joint Chiefs of Staff as the top military planning agency and replace it with the single chief of staff and supreme general staff system."

In 1947 Congress established the Joint Chiefs of Staff system and specifically forbade adoption of the supreme general staff system. Ever since, efforts have been made to change the law and authorize the appointment of a single chief of staff. As Col. Hittle points out, there are superficial attractions in this plan. And one danger, in his view, is that "it deceives because it offers what so many seek—an easy, simple solution to a very complicated problem."

For instance, the fact that in actual combat, troops require a single commander is used as an argument in support of the single chief of staff concept. But, as Col. Hittle observes, field commanders—no matter how high their rank or important their command—are not responsible for determining the nation's basic strategy. They only implement it. "This," he writes, "points up the very fundamental difference between planning at the national and lower levels—planning at the seat of government originates the national strategy. Subordinate theatre commanders carry out such strategy as it applies to their respective commands." Moreover, determination of the basic national strategy involves far more than military decisions alone. It is always influenced by many other and diverse elements—political, industrial and economic.

The great military success of Frederick the Great—a monarch whose authority was absolute, and who was supreme commander in war—are cited in favor of the single chief proposal. But, as Col. Hittle shows, Frederick operated under vastly different conditions of warfare. He had ground forces only, and faced none of the problems resulting from the need to coordinate ground, air and naval forces. At his greatest battle his army numbered but 36,000 men—about the size of two present-day divisions. As war became more and more complex, Col. Hittle finds, the single chief of staff or single commander system failed to keep pace. Indeed, he believes that the ultimate defeat of Napoleon, another supreme commander with absolute power, was due to that failure and that the emperor "did not comprehend sea power or naval problems."

Colonel Hittle presents many convincing arguments against the single chief system, and in favor of the Joint Chiefs of Staff system we now have. To quote him once more, "The Joint Chiefs of Staff system assures full development of land, sea and air warfare doctrines and materials, because no one service can dominate another. All are partners in national security. The single chief of staff permits one-man and one-service control of the armed forces and leads to stifling of progress and service initiative."

Ten-Thousand-Year Man Common

A couple of decades ago, "ten thousand dollars a year" was a magic phrase. It meant luxury, and a big house, and stature in the community.

Something has happened to the magic. A global war happened, for one thing, and a decade of upheaval and change since the end of that war. Ten-thousand-a-year men are fairly common now. The glamor has worn off that figure.

The glamor has worn off because the sum of $10,000 is far from being what it used to be. The man with a gross income of $10,000 now, says U. S. News and World Report, is making the equivalent of only about $4,300 as of 1939. To be as well off as the man who made $10,000 in 1939, he would have to take in about $25,000.

One big reason for this is the rise in prices. Virtually everything we use costs substantially more than it did before World War II. Another reason for the tarnish marks on that shiny 10,000 is high taxes—federal, state, and local. Even a $10,000-a-year-man in 1939—with the equivalent of almost $25,000 in 1957 dollars, remember—paid a maximum federal income tax of only eight per cent. Today, even for most ordinary wage earners the federal income tax rate is 20 per cent.

All this makes pretty dismal material for reflection. But in matters of this kind there's no use trying to avoid the facts. The big economic fact of 1957 is that if you want that $10,000-a-year glow you've got to shoot for $25,000.

Political Question

After World War I it was said that a top military figure was no longer a profitable candidate for a party. Whereas our other wars had all made presidents, the first world war did not produce any.

But World War II already has given us President Eisenhower. Politicians are busy asking: Are there any more where he came from?

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former supreme commander of NATO forces and now head of the American Red Cross, is often mentioned. He is greatly liked by the President. And though Mr. Eisenhower may not interfere with Republican convention deliberations, he probably would be pleased were Gruenther to be the nominee.

Is the United States likely to break a precedent by putting in the White House two military men in a row? Politicians would like to know the answer.

Tax Write-Offs Cost Government

By ROBERT F. COLL, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The fast tax write-off, a boon or a booby, depending on how you look at it, is headed for slow strangulation by an unfriendly administration.

Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey calls the war-born tax incentive to business "an artificial stimulus of a dangerous type."

Rapid write-offs, according to Humphrey, will cost the government three billion dollars and postpone the day "when general tax reduction can be enjoyed by all the people."

Basically the rapid write-off is a government incentive to firms that put up defense plants they may not necessarily want or need. The write-off lets them charge for the tax purposes the cost of the expansion over five years instead of the customary 20 years or more.

The government has granted rapid write-offs in as many as 250 fields. But largely through Humphrey's needling and a different attitude in the Office of Defense Mobilization, only four fields are now open for the tax benefits.

The many critics of the program charge that some favored firms are getting the government to do their expansion borrowing for them in a booming economy and a "tight money" market.

Business calls it "Reward" U. S. Chamber of Commerce, claim the system is just reward for a firm that expands along lines dictated by national security.

Humphrey conceded the write-off might have a good device to meet the Korean emergency and a desirable alternative to government construction and ownership of plants private industry wasn't eager to build.

But he said this was "far different" from giving a fast write-off to "select industries for general plants."

Humphrey's attitude, along with that of Defense Mobilizer Gordon Gray, is to shove the write-off except for extremely specialized lines such as guided missile production where private industry is unlikely to venture on its own.

NOT ENOUGH BANG
MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Bernard Wild, 23, watched the dawn come up Sunday, but decided it wasn't coming up with enough thunder. Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY
For a delightful contrast, Canada offers a wonderful vacation land for Floridians seeking a change of scenery and climate.

Leaving Tampa on Trans-Canada Airlines July 1 with the temperature in the 90's I arrived in Toronto five hours later with the temperature reading 64. Flying in one of TCA's North Star planes provided such a fast comfortable trip that I felt more rested on arrival than when I left. The flight is made at an altitude of about 13,000 feet but you can still see points of interest below. If you are fortunate enough to have fairly clear weather, frequent bulletins issued by our pilot advised what cities we were passing over, gave temperature readings and flying speeds and altitude. Attractive hostesses kept themselves busy providing passengers with drinks and magazines or a pillow for your head if you wished to take a nap. Dinner consisted of a fruit cup, fried chicken, potatoes, green beans and dessert was served compliments of the airline prior to our reaching Toronto.

The airport is located about 20 miles out and the limousine carries you through newly developed industrial and residential areas that will amaze you. On the route to the hotel were dozens of new industrial plants, all beautifully landscaped and as modern as tomorrow, some of them occupying several acres.

I was impressed with the splendid highways that permit fast travel on limited access turnpikes, many six lanes and well marked.

Traffic seemed as heavy here as it is in Florida with just about everybody driving a spanking new car, mostly American make, but there were quite a few small foreign cars in evidence. Gasoline sells at 42¢ an imperial gallon which is about a quart more than the U. S. Standard gallon.

These folks are proud of their country and the progress they are making and certainly have a right to be. One thing I noticed particularly was the display of the Canadian flag. You find it on most all buildings, at filling stations and every where you turn. They fly all the time, not like ours do only on flag day or the Fourth of July.

Canada welcomes visitors and knows how to treat them and make them feel at home. Everyone seems anxious to be helpful and all are friendly and exceptionally courteous.

Prices are just about the same as they are in Florida. Hotel accommodations in fine hotels are from $10 to $16. Meals cost no more than you would pay in comparable restaurants in the states.

Excellent Florida grapefruit is 25¢ on your breakfast menu in hotels and 15¢ to 20¢ in cafeterias or canteens. American cigarettes cost from 35¢ to 45¢ a pack. Good local brands are 25¢ to 35¢. Taxi rates are about the same as ours.

These are some of the high lights that I felt might interest you. Later I'll tell you of our experiences in Montreal, Quebec and on the St. Lawrence and Saguenay River cruise.

Editor's note: Realizing that the population of Florida is made up of people from all points of the compass, this series of columns has been written by Russell Kay and presented as a Floridian's

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN, United Press Staff Correspondent
Last week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Tunisia, which obtained its independence from France in 1955, converted itself into a republic with Premier Habib Bourguiba as its strong man.

Bourguiba decided that the time had come to oust Bey Sidi Mohammed al-Amin, the country's nominal ruler, and assume full control.

The Tunisian National Assembly was called into special session to denounce the 13-year-old Bey, declare his throne no longer existent, and name Bourguiba president of the Tunisian republic.

It was indicated that Bourguiba planned to make himself the "strong man" of northwest Africa.

Sultan Sidi Mohammed ben Yusuf of neighboring Morocco, which also obtained its independence from France, was displeased. He figured Bourguiba might give Moroccans an idea.

ing of nuclear weapons would be suspended for a trial period. But they insist that simultaneously there must be an agreement to stop production of materials for nuclear weapons after a specified date.

Russia insists that the first step must be simply to suspend tests for a long period, with out any halt in production.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said in a national television-radio report to the nation that the Allies require convincing proof from Russia that it is serious in its professed desire for disarmament. Until then, Dulles said, the United States will continue production and testing of nuclear weapons.

Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, in a letter to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, accused the Allies of stalling. It is "absolutely essential," Bulganin said, to suspend weapons tests unconditionally.

A rebellion by the Imam of Oman against the Sultan of Muscat and Oman brought British Royal Air Force planes into action on the eastern coast of the Arabian Peninsula.

The Imam is the spiritual leader of the little Moslem state, one of a group of tiny principalities which are under British protection.

The Imam's forces boled up in a thick-walled mud-brick fort. The Sultan called on Britain for help.

Britain responded by sending a force of half a dozen jet fighter planes to shower the fort with rockets.

It was only a pin-pointed war. But it could cause trouble. Saudi Arabia and other Arab countries dislike the idea of British military action in that part of the world.

Chicago Experiment With Polio Vaccine

By HERMAN H. BUNDISEN, M.D.

ADMINISTERING thousands of doses of Salk anti-polio vaccine in one face of a constantly increasing number of infantile paralysis cases might be deemed a calculated risk. However, we felt the calculated risk was less than the risk involved in not making available the protection afforded by the Salk vaccine.

Polio Cases Soared
We knew that when we ordered mass inoculations last summer as Chicago's polio cases soared to ward a near record incidence rate.

In fact, the Illinois Department of Public Health has issued a directive dated May 23, 1958, only about a month before our upsurge began, which stated: "Inoculations with poliovirus vaccine can be continued into the summer until there is an increased prevalence of the disease."

By the end of June we knew we had an "increased prevalence of the disease." We also knew that about the only weapon we had to combat it was the Salk vaccine. So we made preparations for mass inoculations.

Urged to Continue
On July 9 the state health department issued a second directive: "Because of the high rate of poliovirus this early in 1958, all physicians are urged to continue vaccinating as many children as possible."

And vaccinate them we did. Wholesale Cooperation
Everyone cooperated—doctors, nurses, hospitals, police, newspapers, radio, television, all the local authorities. The only people we had difficulty with were the parents of the youngsters who probably needed the vaccine most.

Understandably some of them were afraid that the vaccine might actually trigger an attack of polio.

Some of you parents may still be worried about this. This is one of the reasons I decided to make this report at this particular time, the peak of the polio season. As doctors, we knew that certain preparations of pertussis, diphtheria and tetanus antigens might possibly "provoke" paralytic poliomyelitis, if given during the polio season. Some speculated that an injection in the arm might make that arm more susceptible to paralysis.

What Results?
What did a thorough study of our mass inoculation program show? Let me quote from a complete report which we recently wrote for The Journal of the American Medical Association:

"Statistics gathered in this study indicate that there has been no provoking effect (triggering subsequent paralysis in the inoculated limb) by Salk vaccine even when given in the face of a rising incidence as experienced in Chicago."

That's what we told the doctors—and that's what I'm telling you. Yes, we knew that we were giving the vaccine amidst a rising polio rate. But we decided, after discussing the matter thoroughly with medical societies and organizations, that the risk to our people would be far greater if we did not offer them the protection of the vaccine.

The results of our inoculation program, I believe, proved us right.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q: Can a person have amebic infection of the liver?

ANSWER: Yes. This is often a very serious complication of amebic dysentery. The ameba often travels from the blood stream to the liver and may form large abscesses which would actually trigger an attack of polio.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

Left out several names of those who attended the O.W.C. coffee, Friday. High on the list is that of Betty Clark, the nurse at the dispensary. Betty has the distinction of being the only service woman on S.N.A.S.

A surprise party was given for Ed Winter Friday night, by his niece, Sara Jo McComber. Sara Jo had arranged for food for sandwiches, coffee, and a tremendous birthday cake. Bearing gifts and good wishes were Jean and Ralph Chandler, Bill and Betty Lemos, Betts and Doc Linker, Jean and Cy Flitton, Gib Blake, John and Diane Sangster, Arlene and Gordon Backer, and Betty and Jim Guy.

Interest is growing around town in two widely different projects. One is the series of golf tournaments to take place on the local golf course. These of course will be the P. G. A. Open, held annually in December, the Men's State and the Women's State tournaments to come off in April. It is not too early for committees to start planning the ground work. At the moment a committee is making up letters to go to clubs all over Florida.

The other project is the High Fever Folies, a revue which was held in Sanford last year for the first time, and was considered highly successful. The Hospital Auxiliary of the Seminole Memorial Hospital will sponsor the Folies again this year. The Folies uses only local talent, drawn from Seminole County residents. Polly Brubaker has been announced as the general chairman for the coming year, and in this capacity is contacting former committee chairmen and their workers to reorganize and fill vacancies.

Jane Miller and sons John and Charles have returned from a visit to Mississippi. Jane arrived Friday evening after a long and gruelling trip. She is now planning to recover furniture, plant a garden and supply me with recipes for a new corner of the society page, which will be devoted to sophisticated nibbles. If readers have a recipe of which they are unusually fond, and one which they have tested and found to be reliable, please pass them on. The dark and venison season is almost upon us, and heaven knows we can always use some fancy and dispising variations on hamburger.

How To Prevent Pine Beetles

By ALBERT LUNDY
FARM FORESTER
Florida Forest Service

Landowners over the country are urged to take care when clearing land next to pine trees that are to be left. When the roots are bull-dozed up and broken and the stems wounded the trees are left susceptible to pine beetle attack.

These beetles enter the tree through the wounds and are hard to stop after they get into the tree. Often these trees are considered very valuable to the owner especially if he only has few. By the time that owner notices the trees dying and requests assistance it is usually too far gone to save.

The time to control the pine beetle is when the land is being cleared. Keep heavy equipment a safe distance from the tree and clear around the tree with an ax. Do not dig up the roots and scar the stem.

Do not leave cut trees piled around the trees to be left. These precautions will save time, trouble, and trees.

Rotary Jr. Team Enters Half Pint Tourney Today

Top Hitting Streak

ORLANDO — Finest hitting streak of the Class D Florida State League season thru midnight Friday July 26 was turned in by a Cherokee Indian who six weeks ago was described by his home city sportswriter as not deserving of a place on the North All-Star team.

He is husky Bob White killer of Ray Wilson's Daytona Beach Islanders, and as a result his 17 hits in 30 trips thru Friday night's batting order earned him a .316 average that was sixth best in the circuit.

It was the finest showing of the entire season, and it comes at a time when Wilson's Islanders are making a desperate bid to cog second half honors which would earn them a crack at Johnny vanderMeer's Palatka Reds who won the first half.

Wilson was high in hits with 140 but Tampa's young rookie outfielder, Tony Curry, had 135 and a .321 average, and had scored 86 runs to Wilson's 84. Palatka's Neal Saeeters was leading in runs scored with 93 and in stolen bases with 34 but he sat out Thursday and Friday games as the result of injury at Daytona Wednesday when he dumped Manager Ray Wilson to break up a double-play.

Gainesville's Germain Pizzaro was leading in homers with 14, while Palatka's Red Helms was high in runs batted in with 94 to 86 for Wilson and Pizzaro.

The week was highlighted by Red Dulaney's Gainesville G-Men, who, fishing last in the first half, now lead the league, having won seven of nine games during the week while Tampa split even in eight, dropping one-half game out of first.

The Sanford Rotary Club's Junior Baseball Team All Stars will play in the State Half Pint Tournament which begins today at Pine Castle Air Force Base.

The local baseball nine, consisting of boys between the ages of 13 and 15, will play their first game tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock against the Denmark Sporting Goods team of Orlando.

Managing the All Star team from the Sanford Rotary Club are Sonny Powell and Roy Holler who will accompany the team during the play in the tournament.

According to Sonny Powell, Mike Davis is expected to start against the Denmark Sporting Goods boys.

Powell, speaking of the strength of the local Junior Baseball All Star team, would predict any outcome of tomorrow morning's game. All he would say was "we're optimistic. The boys are going to play their best, we know."

(Continued From Page One) the lowest residential housing, R-2, and that he and Williams originally planned a housing project. "We first had land on French Ave.," he said, "but national concerns did not want to locate on a thoroughway."

"All we're looking for is to stop traffic going elsewhere to shop, for I believe the people here will trade in Sanford. There's definitely a need for the shopping center."

Kirk told the commissioners of the national concerns he had contacted and those who are planning to locate here. He said one of the businessmen commented "Sanford is the hottest spot in Central Florida."

Wally Dietrichs, local real estate man, speaking as a proponent of the shopping center proposed for the area said "I'd like to go on record that this is one of the most progressive steps that can be taken. Definitely there is a need for additional shopping areas without taking business from our present merchants. This city is growing and we cannot continue to grow without expansion."

Others who spoke in behalf of the project included O. A. Roberts, John Sauls, Martin Steinhilber, and a representative of the Congregational Christian Church. Already recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission of the city, the Board of Sanford City Commissioners unanimously approved the rezoning on a motion by Commissioner Earl Higginbotham.

Mayor David Gatchel said "You have the best wishes of the community—it is the largest venture of its kind so far in Sanford."

Property. (Continued from Page 1) Jaycees have shown that shrubbery and trees exist on city parkways and restrict the visibility of motorists and pedestrians alike. Such conditions are a violation of city ordinances and constitute a hazard to life and property.

The campaign to eliminate the dangerous shrubbery was initiated by the Jaycees when a resolution from the young mens organization was presented to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners. The letter points out "Recent actions by the City Commission of Sanford call for the citizens of Sanford to remove all shrubs and long hanging tree branches on street parkways adjacent to their property. The commission has set a period of 30 days in which voluntary removal should be accomplished."

Raborn states in the letter "We of the Jaycees urge you to cooperate with these actions so that our streets may be safe as well as attractive for all of our citizens and visitors."

Coinciding with the Jaycee project, the Sanford Police Department is making a survey of shrubbery planted in violation of ordinances. Reports are being made in each instance of violation and submitted to the City Manager's office.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles stated that a list of the violations is being made and as citizens voluntarily remove shrubbery and long hanging limbs, names are removed. "This list will be helpful at the end of the 30-day voluntary period," City Manager Knowles said.

AN INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM has arisen over Chaguaramas (arrow) a small stretch of beach northwest of Port of Spain, Trinidad. The area is included in the 99-year lease Britain gave to the United States in 1941 in the 50-destroyer deal, and this now conflicts with the title of the capital of the West Indies Federation. Islands in the proposed Federation are shown on the map in black. (Central Press)

Board Fails To Act On Proposed Budget

Solution To A3D Bailout Drill Problem Devised

A solution to the problem of conducting A3D bailout drills has been devised by LT. Gordon L. BACKER (MC). Heavy Attack Wing ONE flight surgeon.

Recognizing the possibility of low-altitude bailout and subsequent time lost in locating parachute release ring, Heavy Attack crews are instructed to exit the aircraft, arms crossed, right hand clutching the ring.

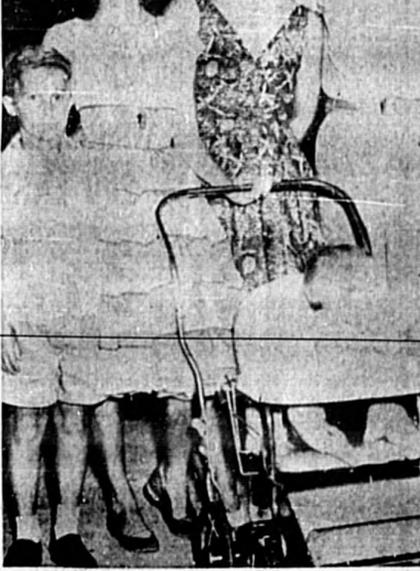

Jaycees Report Drive Cooperation Is Encouraging

"We are receiving spotty but heartening cooperation in our drive to clear the street parkways of shrubs and low tree limbs," said M. L. Raborn Jr. in this week's edition of the Jaycee Journal.

Letters are being sent to property owners this week. Raborn said in the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce club bulletin mailed to each member of the organization.

A tentative budget totaling $1,141,524.91, proposed for 1957-58, was presented to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday. Clerk of the Board O. P. Herndon told the commissioners that "law enforcement in Seminole County is high and will account for a 2 1/2 mill increase in millage for the coming year."

Dr. BACKER'S invention resembles a playground slide and is fitted integrally with the aircraft escape chute thus eliminating the probability of snagging a parachute during the drill.

Eisenhower Influence On Senate Denied

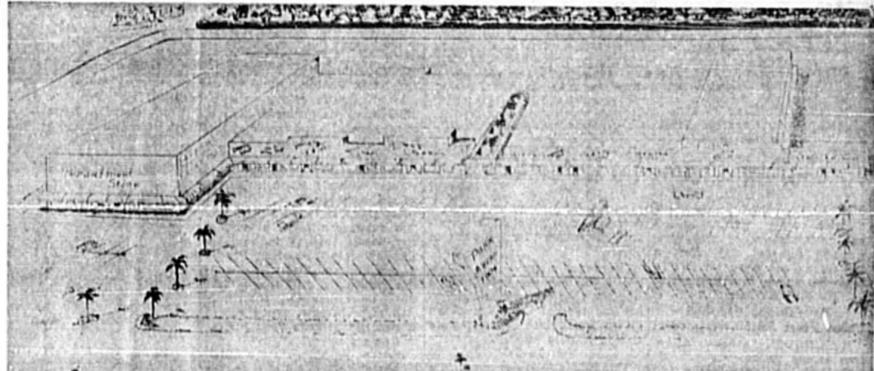

Civil Rights Subject

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower denied today that he has resorted to threats to try to keep the Senate from adopting a jury trial amendment to his civil rights bill.

Eisenhower also expressed concern that Senate leaders have not yet been able to arrange a temporary halt in the civil rights debate to allow action on a number of appropriations bills and a measure extending the life of the Small Business Administration.

Senate leaders were expected to try again during the day for a cease-fire on civil rights—even if only for an hour—to take up another matter. Sen. Wayne Morse D-Ore blocked such a move Tuesday when he objected to the necessary unanimous consent to allow a halt in the debate.

Eisenhower pointed out that unless the Senate acts the pay of employees of the affected agencies, including military personnel, would be in jeopardy. Furthermore, he said, government loans to small business would have to be halted.

Detachment Back From Cruise Says 'Great To Be Home'

"It's great to be home" was the opinion of about eighty officers and men of Heavy Attack Squadron Seven's Detachment 34 as they returned to Sanford Friday and Saturday from Mediterranean deployment.

The logistics problem for the transfer seemed like a job for the Army. Steel trunks called "crucifix boxes" for tools, supplies, and mountains of paper had to be packed, labeled, shipped, and then claimed at Sanford again.

Summer Program Climaxes Tomorrow

"All phases of Sanford's summer recreation program will climax Thursday Aug. 1," said John Angel, Recreation Director, today.

Angel said that this year's program has been well attended by all groups. "When compared with previous years," he said, "attendance by the younger children in the mornings was off somewhat."
