BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

There is no discharge.

There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death and there is no charge in that.

The best indication of returning prosperity is the increasing number of Hollywood divorces.

Hiller says he's astonished at the charges made in his brief against Everyone else is horrified.

Judging from all this agitation about raising prices, what this country needs now is not a good freight cigar, but a good two-bit cigar.

"Fog brings Colonel Lindbergh's plane down," says an Associated Press news dispatch. He isn't the only great man who has been brought down because he got into a fog.

Although she is the wife of a Democratic cabinet member, Mrs. Harold Ickes will continue her loyalty to the G. O. P. Mrs. Ickes is a family that will have plenty to argue about.

The Conference will never accomplish anything worthwhile until all these France abandons its self-defeating policy, acquires a worldwide vision, and listens to reason.—Tampa Tribune. Like the United States.

It took Jimmie Mattern a little more than a week to fly from New York to Anadyr, Siberia. It looks like it will take the whole United States Navy and the flying corps of both this country and Russia the rest of the year to bring him back.

Roger Babson points out that this is the time to begin the construction of new homes. Building costs are still low and home financing has been made easy by the new home loan act. A resumption of home building in Sanford would stimulate business recovery.

State and municipal issues in the United States aggregate more than sixteen billion dollars. And it is expected that the taxpayers of the country retire this debt with interest during the next generation or two. What was it that the Bible said about "the sins of the fathers?"

The Republicans are beginning a major offensive to recoup some of their lost power in Congress. They will base their campaign on the extreme and unprecedented measures adopted by the Roosevelt administration, a point which will not have much appeal provided the "new deal" works.

When you think of how many troubles you have, consider the people in the state of Victoria in Australia. Their seacoast has been invaded by hordes of giant crabs, pear shaped and of reddish hue, measuring from two to five inches across. The crabs are clearing the sea bed of all marine life, smashing nets and causing fishermen thousands of dollars of damage weekly.

The Sterling National Bank and Trust Company of New York report deposits of $14,707,876 on June 30, a new high for the bank, compared with $10,218,510 on Dec. 31 and $10,646,994 on Dec. 31. Total resources were $18,066,271, compared with $13,651,090 on Mar. 31 and $14,032,736 on Dec. 31. Surplus and undivided profits were $1,004,917 on June 30, compared with $1,002,800 on Mar. 31 and $1,017,330 on Dec. 31. Cash and due from banks was $2,657,200, against $2,114,545 on Mar. 31, and government securities were $9,277,935, against $4,650,030.

In Again, Out Again

The escape last week from Raiford of Walter C. Vallon, murderer of a Miami policeman, was evidently the "straw that broke the camel's back," for Governor Sholtz immediately announced his determination to find out why it is that during one month 32 prisoners at the state penitentiary and prison camps escaped.

Gov. Sholtz is not the only one who would like to know how it happens that the institutions in which our criminals are incarcerated have become so easy to leave that they resemble more a boarding school than a jail. There are many taxpayers and others interested in the welfare of the state and the safety of their loved ones also who want to know "how come?"

It is hard to expect the public in these times of clever lawyers and legal technicalities to tolerate a system which allows prisoners to get away after they have, perchance, been convicted. We often hear criticism of our enforcement officers, of our courts and judges for being responsible for bad crime conditions. But what could all of their efforts accomplish if our prisoners are to be given a return ticket as soon as they land at their destination?

We have always been under the impression that the State penitentiary at Raiford was a model of modern prison facilities. If this is true, and we believe it is, then it should not be difficult to secure a force of guards who could see to it that the inmates didn't enjoy periodic vacations. Of course, no amount of concrete or prison bars would be adequate if the will to prevent such things was not present.

The situation at convict camps is a little different. Being of temporary nature they are not as impervious to escapes as a permanent structure. However, with the guards exercising due diligence there is no excuse for any wholesale departure of prisoners. It should not be hard under present depressed conditions to find men capable of performing their duties efficiently.

It is well that the Governor has decided to investigate conditions thoroughly as pertain to Raiford and prison camps. We can think of nothing which might encourage crime more than the general realization that our prisons are only for temporary lodging, a sort of summer resort, if you will.

Americans Win

The performance of American athletes in winning two of the three major titles at stake in the British Islands last week speaks well for our representatives of sport. The third title went to an Australian, which left the home-grown talent of England with little consolation.

But the New York Herald-Tribune believes the "defeat of Ellsworth Vines by Jack Crawford must be ranked as a great prize for the empire. For in Vines this country undoubtedly possesses one of its greatest players. If something remains to be perfected in his backhand, there is true tennis genius alike in his other strokes and in his temperament. Only a truly great player could have mastered him at Wimbledon, and Crawford's victory ranks him clearly in the great tradition of his country, with the unforgettable Brookes and Wilding. The Davis Cup matches take on a new interest, with American hopes distinctly less secure. At Forest Hills, in September, there should be a battle worth traveling miles to see.

The victory of Helen Wills Moody was almost a certainty. She has now equaled Miss Langlen's record of six championships, and not even Miss Bound's success in taking a set holds much threat for the future of the American champion. Mrs. Moody has the power and the skill to go right on taking championships for a number of years to come, if she chooses.

The victory of young Denny Shute at St. Andrews could be classed as a surprise, except that golf is perennially full of surprises. There is no reliable "dope" for a golf championship. What Shute lacks in experience—he has been a "pro" for only five years—he makes up in the all-round soundness of his game and especially in the perfection of his iron shots, that last test of a great golfer. A consolation prize goes to Scotland in any event, as Shute's father began as a "pro" at St. Andrews before shifting to this country. Tradition, apparently, holds in the game even if past performances do not.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

A letter from Frederic H. Rand, president of the First National Bank of Sanford, reads as follows: "I am pleased to announce that at a meeting of the Board of Directors of this Bank, held recently, the following changes and promotions were made in the officials of the Bank: Mr. F. F. Forster, from cashier to be vice-president; Mr. B. F. Whitner, Jr., from Assistant Cashier to be Cashier; Mr. A. R. Key from teller to be assistant cashier."

Misses Lillie and Annie Harrold, two of Gainesville's most attractive young ladies, are visiting their cousin, Miss Muriel Harrold, this week.

J. D. Lawler, formerly with E. E. Turner, expects to open a wholesale confectionery store in the Bishop Block on Aug. 1.

Mrs. E. E. Brady and little daughter, Kathleen, are visiting relatives in Americus, Ga., and will probably remain until Fall.

A clipping from the Tampa Tribune states the following: D. D. Caldwell, of Sanford, one of the new Seminole capital's best known citizens was in the city yesterday on a business mission. Mr. Caldwell states that Seminole County is rapidly being placed on a business basis and that the county's affairs are already being transacted in fine shape.

Mrs. M. H. Bowler was hostess of the Book Circle Tuesday afternoon. Those present were: Mrs. Cruse Barnes, Mrs. A. P. Connelly, Mrs. May Dickens, Mrs. George Speer, Mrs. J. W. Speer, Mrs. B. F. Whitner Jr., Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Mrs. Samuel Puleston, Mrs. G. F. Smith, Miss Alice Caldwell, Mrs. P. J. Croghan, of Jacksonville, and Miss Mell Whitner.

KIN OF POWER IN POLITICAL LIFE KIDNAPED (Continued from Page One) the Knickerbocker Press. The code notice was inserted in the Sunday edition of the paper. It was placed by Walter V. Johnson, Rensselaer Democratic leader, and a friend of the O'Connells.

The notice was captioned with the word "Sedgewick" and listed the following men who might be approached: Jimmy Gilloughly, Pat Casey, John Okey, Fred Carroll, Tom Lynch, Barney Riley, Jim O'Hagan, Tom Dyke, Mush Trackner, Bindy Riley and Ames O'Brien. All are prominent in politics.

Another telephone call and a second letter from the kidnapers was received by the O'Connells. Their contents were not disclosed. It was understood friends of the Democratic leaders remonstrated that such a sum of $250,000 could not be raised, but that a more reasonable ransom would be available today. All day and throughout the evening the O'Connells and their friends awaited further word from the kidnapers. There were two unsubstantiated versions of the actual abduction. One was that young O'Connell was forced into an automobile as he stepped from his own car in front of his home. The other conjecture was that he was leaving a bear garden with a young woman

FIRST READING HELD ON LIGHT RATE MATTER

"No monthly bill shall be... for an amount less than $1.50", and all bills not paid within 10 days after presentation are collectible with a 10 percent additional charge, which is explained on company bills as follows: "The difference between the net and gross amounts is a discount for prompt payment."

Similar reductions are proposed in several other types of service. Before passing on to another subject, the Commissioners okayed Commissioner W. A. Lefler's suggestion that the power company be notified by registered letter that the City now is contemplating making a change in the rate as provided under the terms of the franchise entered into with the power company.

The Commissioners, who had authorized Mayor V. A. Speer to make a tour of the City for the purpose of finding out which street or white-way lights could be put out without endangering the safety of the public, reported that the City could make a reduction of about $174 per month in its light bill by cutting out 23 white-way lights which burn from dusk to dawn, and by placing all other white-way and street lights on a dusk to midnight basis.

After a discussion as to the advisability of plunging the City into darkness after midnight, the Commissioners voted to delay action. They did, however, authorize Mayor Speer to cut off the 23 white-way lights, most of them on First Street, which he had mentioned. A saving of about $10 per month will be brought about in this action.

W. L. Cooper's offer to furnish the city with liability insurance for its employees was accepted over the offer of L. H. Connelly.

The Commissioner's turned down H. M. Watson's offer to purchase 200 feet of an approximately 300 feet of property which the City owns in the Lake Ada vicinity. Mr. Watson offered $500 in City bonds as payment for this tract of about 18 acres of land.

Upon recommendation of Chief of Police Roy G. Williams and Judge S. A. B. Wilkinson, the Commissioners waived or reduced fines and jail sentences which had been imposed on Clara Ashe, Roy Venable, and E. F. Evans, some time ago.

After reading a letter from E. F. Housholder, who complained about the closing of an alley at the rear of the Henry Wight home on Park Avenue, the Commissioners authorized Clerk F. S. Lamson to, advise Mr. Wight that her plans for beautifying this property must be foregone for the present.

During Attorney F. R. Wilson's report on a recent writ of mandamus which the Supreme Court had handed down in favor of the Bondholders' Protective Commit-

Plan Of Cutting Grain Plantings To Be Instituted

(Continued from page 1) that we are still planting more acres to grain than can be consumed in this country or sold at a fair price abroad," Wallace said.

"The unusual weather conditions of this year and the higher prices resulting therefrom will distort the judgment of the farmers of the United States as to what they should plant next year unless we are able to cooperate with them in some effective way under the mechanism of the agricultural act."

"Of course, we will make no statement as to acreage reduction of wheat this fall, if any, until the conclusion of the European conference (world wheat conference at London) and until we have had opportunity to survey the full significance of the crop this year."

George N. Peck, the chief administrator, called attention to the United States carryover of wheat estimated at about 390,000,000 bushels as of July 1, saying that despite the cut in production, the United States would have on hand this fall about 850,000,000 bushels or more than 200,000,000 bushels in excess of annual consumption requirements.

Peck said the low crop and the general prospect of continued high prices for grain would make no change in plans for continuing the 30-cent per bushel processing tax on wheat which went into effect at the turn of the week.

The board forecast a corn crop of 2,384,032,000 bushels compared with 2,875,000,000 bushels last year and a five-year average of 2,512,000,000 bushels for the period 1926 to 1930. It estimated that the corn crop was 70.2 percent of normal and that 23 percent of last year's crop, or 620,901,000 bushels were still on farms. It estimated this year's acreage at 103,022,000.

wheat was estimated at 895,881,000 bushels, compared with 726,000,000 bushels last year and an average of 801,000,000 bushels during the five-year period. The wheat crop was rated as 55.4 percent of normal and its acreage at 44,879,000 with 11 percent of last year's crop still held by farmers—79,935,000 bushels.

Of the wheat indicated for production, 235,767,000 bushels was winter wheat and 133,911,000 bushels was spring wheat, including 17,567,000 of durum wheat. The condition of spring wheat, 52.1 percent of normal, was worse than winter wheat which was 57.8 percent.

The board forecast oats production at 298,941,000 bushels with the condition of the crop 49.3 percent of normal. Oats production has exceeded a billion bushels every year since 1911 and approximately will fall over a 700,000,000 bushel harvest for the first time since 1927. Hay production is also expected to be low, dropping to about the same production levels as the drought years of 1929 and 1931.

Kansas, the highest wheat producing state, was reported to have a prospective harvest of winter wheat of 56,826,000 bushels, compared with 107,389,000 bushels last year and a five-year average of more than 153,000,000 bushels.

"The Big Drive" Will Be At Milane Today

The feet of marching men, from the farms and the cities of America, wrote history as they plodded through Flanders mud.

The history they wrote unfolds on the screen of the Milane Theater today where for the first time are shown The Big Drive, the greatest picture of the World War.

Forty-five men of the United States army signal corps gave their lives in the filming of America's fighting in France. The Big Drive is the result of their sacrifice. Combined with authentic scenes in the archives of the war department of the United States are films supplied from similar archives of seven other nations which were participants in the great war.

Combined, they present a chronological picture of the greatest war in world history.

No Hollywood version, this, but war-stark and real. And, with a background of martial music and an illuminating running commentary by the producer, A. L. Bula, a veteran of the A. E. F., it holds, at once, inspiration because the American soldier proved his bravery and a powerful argument.

period and used the Scripture lesson from the Sixth Chapter of Mark, "Feeding the Multitude," as the theme of the period. She based her talk on the subject, "Taking Stock of Our Resources and Bringing What We Have to God and Trusting Him to Increase It."

Dramatic Tale Of Jimmie Mattern In Russia Is Revealed

Reaching the river he saw two small boats going downstream but the occupants of neither observed his frantic signals from the shore and passed him by. The dispatch said.

On the ninth day he moved a short distance downstream to a bend in the river where it was narrower but the days passed without sign of another boat. To protect himself from cold and wind, he improvised a small hut of scrub growth in which he remained six more days.

On the night of June 29, two more boats passed down the river. They were manned by native fishermen who this time saw his signal and took him to their camp about 11 miles from Anadyr, and there they gave him food and he slept. Shortly afterward he was taken to the coast, a short distance away, where natives brought a Soviet frontier guard to his assistance.

The guard, which had been on the lookout for the missing aviator for some days in response to instructions from Moscow, took Mattern immediately to Anadyr village where everything was done to make him comfortable.

After Mattern had slept and eaten sufficiently, the dispatch stated, he requested the frontier guard to go to his plane and retrieve the engine and all the instruments, he having decided to abandon the ship because it was impossible to make repairs to enable it to take off again. The guard's expedition was reported to have returned later with the motor and instruments.

Roosevelt Orders Study To Be Made Of Public Debts

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday ordered a study of means of reducing the public debt on a long time basis at a reduced rate.

He named two college professors—James H. Rogers of Yale and George Warren of Cornell—to make a comprehensive survey of Federal finances.

Among the things the President has in mind is taking of the huge amount of short term paper, most of which matures this year, and converting it into long term issues.

He also wants to re-examine closely the vast amount of expenditures under the recovery program with the government budget. He has insisted that the normal budget must balance the means by which extraordinary recovery expenses do not come in that situation.

It is believed that voluntary action will be required to have the government buy bonds at the much as four and four and one-half percent interest, exchanged for bonds of lower interest rates.
