JUDGE SPEAKS

perchance such rights should be so tested, remember you should not demand or expect any better service at the hands of a Jury or Jurors, than you were willing to give to those whose rights you were called upon to determine and consider. Our system of Jurisprudence has invoked the jury system, a system which is tried and tested, and until a better could be offered we must deem it the best possible, and no man should offer excuse for not serving upon a jury, until he is able to offer better system which would be acceptable.
"During my service in the past seven years I have tried and disposed of 1,892 criminal cases in your county, the majority of these cases have been disposed of without the trial by jury, the defendants having entered their plea of guilty, and disposed of by the Court, but in those cases tried by jury I am glad to say that with a very few exceptions, the juries have performed their duty and complied with the service on the part of our citizens and the general will of our people that the supremacy of the law must be maintained through those channels provided by law, has made the trial of these cases in accordance with our laws.
"I have not made these remarks to you because I feel any part might apply to those of you here citizen, but I am speaking from my personal observation of our judicial procedure, and my knowledge of the general feeling of the average citizen that he would prefer to let the other man perform his duty in this respect, and I do hope that in future days should you ever hear any man demur to serving upon a jury, that you merely remind him of the duty he owes to our county and our government, for the privileges he enjoys as a citizen. Remind him that no man can expect to receive more than he gives.
"I believe that if a presiding judicial officer is lax in the full compliance of our rules and principles laid down for our procedure in our courts, our lawyers and citizens can naturally expect to follow, and during this year of our County Court, which will be the last year of such privilege of presiding over, I shall at all times endeavor to have the trial of cases in accordance with the rules of our procedure, and the services of our jurors in heretofore."
Following Judge Householder's address, the arraignment of defendants took place. At the same time, cases were set for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.
It was announced that 23 cases would be tried in this term of court. The cases as announced by Prosecuting Attorney Maines are as follows:

Register and J. F. Wilson, possessing game of season; Earl Powell, manufacturing liquor; Earl Jones, possession of still; Hans Sheppard, assault and battery; Myrtle Cowan, assault; W. L. Wicklander, passing worthless checks; E. E. Hogan, possessing intoxicating liquors; Raymond Cartadallas, assault and battery; D. H. ### New Year's Messages From Great Men Predict Florida Prosperity

A NEW YEAR MESSAGE of great importance and significance to the people of Florida is contained in a group of telegrams just received by the Florida Development Board from some of the leading public men of America.

Supreme conviction as to the potentialities of the state, full faith in the ultimate development of them and favorable recognition of the expressions which make up these wires.

All came in response to dispatches recently sent out by the Florida Development Board asking the recipients for brief telegraphic statements of their opinions in reference to the sunshine state, for use in a national advertising campaign fostered by the organization.

Answers were prompt and exceedingly gratifying, clearly establishing the degree to which leaders of thought and action in the United States have been sold on Florida. Capitalists, editors, financiers and statesmen join in tribute to the unexcelled opportunities and unequalled advantages of the state, several of them referring to their own investments here.

The Florida Development Board will use the telegrams as advertising copy in the newspaper campaign it is to conduct in New York next month, just preceding and during the Madison Square exhibit of the products and resources of the state. Later it is hoped to use the same material in periodicals of national circulation and in newspapers elsewhere.

"Capitalist and pioneer, prince and pauper alike are attracted by and to Florida,"—August Hecksher.

"How can Florida help but flourish with its matchless climate and the boundless fertility of its soil?" asks Mr. Hecksher, the widely known capitalist and philanthropist, who has become heavily interested in Florida during the past few years.

"Florida's climate is God-given and is three-fourths of the state's value,"—Carl Fisher.

Mr. Fisher, himself one of Florida's leading developers, rightly regards climate as the foundation of all the state's attractions. Climate makes Florida supreme as a playground, winter and summer, and contributes no less to agricultural, commercial and industrial progress.

"Florida is modern earthly paradise; and will be the future home of millions,"—Arthur Brisbane.

Mr. Brisbane further describes Florida as "a national flower garden, a winter vegetable garden, an all-the-year pleasure and health resort—the treasure of this nation and the envy of others. Fronting on the ocean and on the Gulf, endless in fertility, Florida is the modern earthly paradise for a prosperous and happy people."

"I believe Florida is destined to become the greatest agricultural state in America,"—Roger W. Babson.

The eminent business analyst expects Florida ultimately to have a population of twenty-five million. Mr. Babson himself has made heavy investments in Florida land and is developing a very considerable acreage. His attitude of optimism, as to the future of the state, freely expressed, is concurred in by hundreds of other men of means.

"Florida is booming, and in position for much further merited expansion,"—Arthur Capper.

Senator Capper, head of the "Farm Bloc" in congress, has visited Florida on several occasions. The Kansas statesman says, in addition to the remark above quoted, "Florida's possibilities seem unlimited. Her delightful climate, agricultural development, manufacturing growth and transportation facilities are resources with which the American people should be made better acquainted."

"Best evidence my opinion of Florida an investment of five million dollars,"—William J. Conners.

This wealthy newspaper publisher of Buffalo, New York, is making this heavy investment in the purchase of several thousand acres of Everglades land, in the construction of sixty miles of rock highway which will form a connecting link from ocean to gulf, opening up for agricultural, commercial and manufacturing development a rich area.

Mr. Conners says further: "The part of Florida in which I am interested is the most productive agricultural section on earth, with unsurpassed climate and unlimited possibilities. As few words are inadequate to fully express my regard for Florida—it would take a book, and my deeds must be depended upon to show what I think of the state."

"Florida offers unsurpassed opportunities to two quite distinct classes of people,"—William Jennings Bryan.

The first class, according to Mr. Bryan, now a resident of Florida, consists of people with a taste for development work. "Only five per cent of Florida land is now cultivated" he says, "but nearly all the rest can be utilized, with a maximum of reward to persons who help turn the state's natural resources into natural resources into money."

A different type of opportunity is offered the class who will avail themselves of the unsurpassed attractions of Florida as a winter resort. Mr. Bryan points out, saying "our winter climate is an asset of incalculable value which cannot be exhausted. Florida invites inspection with confidence, whether one desires a farm or a home."

"Florida development has just commenced; going forward with marvelous rapidity,"—Charles A. Stone.

Head of the American International Corporation and of the firm of Stone and Webster, Inc., Mr. Stone is a keen judge of investment values and general conditions. The concerns with which he is connected are heavily interested in Florida public service utilities. Mr. Stone is naturally a close observer of the state's progress.

"Florida has a delightful climate and is most favorably located for all sorts of agricultural pursuits. It is already one of the great winter playgrounds of this country and I believe it is destined to be the greatest. It is a great service to the people of the north to let them know about Florida," Mr. Stone says.

"Florida is an asset of immeasurable value to the nation and all the people,"—Richard H. Edmonds.

"The finest oranges and grapefruit grown on earth, an annual production of nearly one hundred thousand cars of fruits and winter grown vegetables. Development has scarcely begun, as compared with the future."

MY LIFE WITH MAGGIE

By Jiggs

HOME AGAIN.
CHAPTER XVIII.
Me and Maggie landed in New York with 17 trunks.

"Home again!" said Maggie.
"Yes, home again!" said I, "but it won't seem like home to me till I see Dinty and the boys."

"You big walrus," said Maggie, "if I catch you with any of your rough-neck friends, you'll be sorry you ever left Europe."

I told Dinty what she said where he was hid'n down in his state-room.

"But I knew a way, Dinty," I told him. "I'll get a rope and pull you and Monahan and Casey in the window of the apartment."

We had leased our house on Long Island and moved in the city before we left for Europe. We were livin' on the thirteenth floor of a flat, and there Maggie gave a big party the second night after we arrived back.

"Jiggs," said I to meself, "you have your own party tomorrow afternoon with Dinty and Ryan and Monahan."

And I did. I let down the rope and one by one I pulled them up in the window. Then it was my turn. "By golly, Dinty, I'm glad to see you. And how is Mary Ellen?"

"Fine, Jiggs, and how is Europe?"
"Not so good, Ryan. I haven't felt like I'm home again yet!"
The pinocchio game was started. I was beginning, for the first time, to feel like I was home again, when there came a voice outside the door.

"Quick, boys!" I said. "Tis Maggie! Into the wardrobe with you!"
In they went, and in came Maggie, with three movin' men.

"Jiggs," said she, "I've bought the loveliest new warrobe for your room—just like one I saw in London."

The cold sweat started comin' out on me. The three movin' men grabbed the old warrobe, and grunted. I could imagine Dinty and the boys sweatin' with fear inside.

"It's too big to go out the door," said one of the movin' men.
"Oh, just throw it out the window in the back-yard then," said Maggie. "I'm going to throw away, anyway."

"Don't Maggie! Don't! I beg her, I love that warrobe!"
"Shut up, insect!" said Maggie.
"Let it go!"
And it went. I almost faint. I was still weak that evening when me daughter opened the paper and commenced to read.

"Oh, mother!" she said sudden. "Did you hear what happened Dinty Moore? It's all in the paper here. He and two other men were in a warrobe that was thrown out of the thirteenth story apartment. They're in the hospital."

"Maggie got up. She looked me. Her hand reached out for me sittin' on the table.
"They carried me in the hospital on a stretcher and put me in bed next to Dinty and Ryan and Monahan."
"Hello, boys!" was all I could say. "I'm home again, at last."

The inn is within the town of Eustis, a model community, offering all the conveniences of present day life, including advanced railroad facilities, perfectly kept streets, well stocked shops, amusements and banking accommodations.

The Inn overlooks Lake Eustis, unrivaled in its picturesque beauty by any body of water in the south. Four other lakes of almost equal attraction are within the boundaries of the town, each offering fishermen fresh water sport that is said to be the best in the Atlantic-Gulf region. Lake Eustis, with its broad expanse of natural water and its shores of modern tropical verdure, furnishes the facilities for other water sports that are so dear to the hearts of those seeking healthy recreation.

The Fountain Inn has accommodations for three hundred guests, rooms, both single and en suite, are most attractive in the matter of furnishings, all of which have been brought together by experienced and artistic hands so that the effect is harmonious and restful. For the cool nights in winter a perfect system of hot water radiators has been installed. The latest type of refrigerating plant preserves in all its original excellence the material for the food served by the perfectly appointed kitchen by its chef and his assistants, each skilled in his particular branch of gastronomic art. Most careful attention is given to the dining room service, which will be found to be all the most fastidious patrons could desire.

In the building of Fountain Inn, the architects have adhered to the Spanish style of architecture suggestive of the period which followed Florida's discovery by Ponce de Leon and a style which harmonizes with its natural environment. The hotel is absolutely fireproof, being of concrete construction throughout. The purity of the water used in the hotel is celebrated, its source being deep artesian wells.

CLEVELAND WILL BE PREPARED TO ENTERTAIN MEET

New Municipal Auditorium Will Be Meeting Place of Republican Convention in 1924.

By The Associated Press.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 2.—Cleveland's new $5,500,000 municipal auditorium, scene of the Republican national convention of 1924, Ohio political leaders are confident that the general facilities are entirely adequate to meet the situation and that the building will be found a worthy background in the naming of the party's presidential nominee.

Hotel accommodations and other space necessary in handling a national convention likewise are declared sufficient while the various civic organizations and commercial institutions of the city have no doubt about the raising of a huge chest fund to carry on the enterprise. Mayor Fred Kohler offered the use of the auditorium free of charge to either major party's national convention. It was Cleveland's first bid for a national convention of the two big parties.

Situated in the heart of the downtown section, the new public hall is said to present all that could be desired for a large convention. It is a part of Cleveland's famous Mall plan of buildings. Occupying a block, its boundaries are St. Clair Avenue to the south, East 6th street on the east, Lakeside Avenue on the north and East 3rd Street on the west.

Its main floor, on the street level, unobstructed by a single column, is more than 300 feet long and is 215 feet wide. The glass ceiling is 90 feet from the floor. Lincoln G. Dickey, manager of the hall, says that comfortable seating facilities can be arranged for 13,000 persons when main floor, stage and expansive balconies are used.

The stage measures 60 by 104 feet, has an opening 73 feet wide and is surmounted by an arch 42 feet, six inches high. The acoustics of the main room, tested repeatedly by scientists, and during concerts, have been declared perfect. Every person in the hall is able to hear every word of a speech, whether it be made from the stage or the floor.

Of the stage are scores of rooms, installed as dressing rooms for actors and choruses. These will be available for newspaper correspondents, press associations and committee caucus meetings. If there is an overflow here, the lower floor of the building, as large as the main floor, will be available. Ample facilities can be provided for the army of correspondents and special writers that attend national conventions and telegraph companies can be equipped with any needed amount of room and service.

ORLANDO, Jan. 1.—The local real estate association is preparing a fight against all persons operating without license required by the law passed at the last session of the legislature regulating the activities of real estate agents. Local realtors plan to make cases against all persons profiting from sales made who are not licensed to carry on a real estate business.

PREPARING FOR ITS FAIR EXHIBIT

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 1.—Arrangements have been made in Lake County, according to the weekly report of County Demonstration Agent L. H. Wilson, to select for the exhibits at the fair to be held in January, the exhibit that will be sent to New York next February to the All-Florida Exposition.

Farmers in four West and North Florida counties are making preparation to grow Cayana 10 cane, under directions of the county agents. A carload of this has been delivered in Walton County, which it was widely distributed, another carload was distributed among 110 farmers in Okaloosa, while 10 tons were delivered to Santa Rosa County. Eleven farmers in Jefferson County have agreed to grow a carload and furnish seed for the county.

Marion County growers have made up their third bid order for fertilizer, the last one for 183 tons, saving about $10 a ton over the listed prices. They plan to buy a similar amount in February.

B. F. Whitner, Jr., agent for Seminole County, reports about 300 acres more than last year was planted to early calery in his county this year. The earliest production is being cut and shipped, the growers realizing fancy prices for the celery, he reports.

Strawberries are reported moving regularly now and for good prices from Ocala. County Agent J. R. Gunn reports that all berries shipped through the local association so far have averaged more than 75 cents a quart to the grower.

ORLANDO, Jan. 1.—Cancellation has been announced of the Central Florida Sunday School convention, which was scheduled for this city on January 16-17. Those in charge stated the meeting cancelled because of the inability of Dr. Hugh S. Magill of Chicago, general secretary of the International Sunday School Council, found he would be unable to be here for the convention.

Keep Pace With Evolution

Darwin declared that the human race was merely an evolution of the monkey tribe. Some people agree with him. Others do not.

But there is no denying that within the memory of most of us, there has been considerable of an evolution in the human mode of living. And today, this evolution is buzzing along faster than ever.

There has never been a time when conditions changed so rapidly—when life bettered itself so consistently. New comforts and conveniences are coming in all the time, and the rapidity with which they are invented and put before us vitally affects us all.

To take advantage of these things, you must keep yourself informed. You must know not only what they are, but also how much they cost and where and how to get them.

The only way you can know this is to be a regular reader of the advertisements.

Rubber Industry Is To Enjoy Big Year In 1924—Firestone

AKRON, O., Jan. 2.—A steady upward trend in business generally and more stable prosperity for the rubber industry particularly during the coming year were predicted by Mr. Harvey S. Firestone in a speech here before 1,000 employees and other stockholders at the annual meeting of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, of which he is founder and president.

In support of his statement Mr. Firestone pointed to the remarkable progress made during the past year by his own company, which showed sales of $77,383,150 an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year, returning a net profit of $4,104,892 after providing for depreciation, taxes, interest and other charges. After paying preferred dividends and all other charges the common stock equity increased over $13 per share.

One of the outstanding features of the company's financial statement was the reduction in bank indebtedness. On October 31 last the company owed $5,770,000 in bank loans, with $12,776,000 in accounts receivable and $31,680,000 in 1921 and $31,000,000 in 1920. These figures reflect forcibly the financial progress made by the Firestone Company during the most difficult years ever encountered by the rubber industry. The Firestone Company increased its sales in 1923 more than 30 per cent over the boom year of 1922. Its average daily production of 26,000 tires was 20 per cent more than in 1922. In connection with the increase in sales volume Mr. Firestone called attention to the fact that the tire consumer was paying 100 per cent more in 1923 than he is today.

Referring to the British Rubber Restriction Act, Mr. Firestone declared that American consumers of rubber products had been saved approximately $75,000,000 during the past year by his vigorous campaign which had aroused a wave of protest that swept the country, causing Congress to appropriate $50,000,000 for the investigation of new sources of rubber supply and resulted in a drop in the price instead of a continued upward trend. Mr. Firestone declared that he would continue his campaign for America to produce its own rubber and told of his world-wide organization now engaged in seeking sources of supply over which America would have control and protection.

Studebaker's Closed Body Plants Excel Those of Any Other Manufacturer

The Studebaker closed body plants at South Bend, Indiana, contain 2,751,450 square feet of floor space.

The total investment in buildings for the manufacture of closed bodies represents an investment of over $8,000,000. This is more than the total assets of many car manufacturers.

More than 6,000 men are employed in the closed plants of Studebaker and their wages amount to over $7,500,000 per year or in excess of $26,400 per day.

The steel, lumber, glass, cloth and other materials required for the operation of these body plants represent an inventory investment of $3,500,000.

The dies and tools for forming the metal panels of Studebaker bodies alone, and as a single item, cost in excess of $785,000.

The closed body manufacturing methods are the latest and most approved. Many of the processes through which Studebaker closed bodies pass are nowhere else duplicated in the industry.

Studebaker's experience in quality body building dates back to the days when Studebaker built fine coaches and carriages for the world's notables including Presidents Lincoln and Grant.

Interesting Facts About Studebaker's newest Closed Body Unit at South Bend, Indiana

This new building is eight feet longer than the Woolworth Building is high. The Woolworth Building is the tallest office building in the world.

The floor area is 511,000 square feet or greater than the area included in a farm of 9 acres.

The 1,500,000 bricks used, if placed end to end, would reach from South Bend to Detroit.

Two hundred and twenty thousand bags of cement were used. If these were placed end for end they would reach from South Bend to Chicago.

More than 3,000,000 pounds of reinforcing steel have entered into the construction of this mammoth building.

The glass used for windows would completely cover an area equal to 2 1/2 acres.

The concrete forms used required more than 1,000,000 square feet of lumber.

More than 5 miles of conveyors with their 100 miles of conveyor chains, carry materials to various departments and handle the closed bodies in process. This conveyor equipment reduces manufacturing costs.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS.

No. 4.

In making out his income-tax return for the year 1923 the business man, professional man, and farmer will be required to use Form 1040, regardless of whether his net income was or was not in excess of $5,000. The smaller form 1040A, in use for reporting net income of $5,000 or less derived chiefly from salary or wages.

All items of gross income must be reported. In the case of a taxpayer gross income usually consists of the gross profits of sales, together with income from other sources. The return must show the gross sales, purchases, and cost of goods sold.

The professional man, lawyer, doctor, dentist, must include all fees and other compensation for professional services. The farmer must report as gross income the proceeds of sale or exchange of products raised on the farm and the profits from the sale of products purchased by him and resold. He must also report gross income from all other sources.

Taxpayers, in order to take full advantage of the deductions to which they are entitled, are advised to study carefully the instructions on the forms under the heading, "Income from business or profession."

NATHAN MAYO IS OPTIMISTIC OVER 1924 OUTLOOK

Commissioner Of Agriculture Believes Florida Has Big Year Ahead In 1924.

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 1.—The sun of progress rises resplendent over Florida today, agriculturally, commercially and financially. There are definite lines of progress to be made in agriculture in the future. It shall be the endeavor of the state department of agriculture to assist in every possible way in the development of new lines of agricultural expansion. Millions of money are being poured into Florida by investors who have faith in the future of the state. We should set a task and a pace commensurate with our advantages and the forward-looking citizenry of our commonwealth.

"Hoping that all have had a merry Christmas and wishing all a happy New Year, I bespeak for all the best of resolutions, and the fondest hopes for 1924," the commissioner concludes.

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Corn Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every six and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine."

"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs. I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time. It was an awful lot for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.

Will Food Supply of World Be Exhausted

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 31.—Will the population of the world ever increase to such numbers that the food supply will run out? "No," predicts Professor C. C. Fitch of the department of economics in the University of California.

But the professor qualifies his negative by saying that if the population of the world ever increases as fully as it has the power to, there certainly will be a shortage of food. He explains that, as a matter of statistics, this probably never can happen, since events and conditions always intervene to prevent over-population. Yet, he concedes, in certain countries this economic over-population has occurred. He cites the annual famines in China and India, which he contends, are due to the fact that the birth rate never has been kept down in those countries and consequently the food supply proves inadequate.

Enforcement Law To Be Considered Soon

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 31.—Chief among the important legislation which will come before the Maryland General Assembly at its biennial session next month, is a state enforcement act. Twice the measure has failed passage and interest is centered around the struggle. No definite idea has been gained, as yet, as to the action of the legislature on the question. The drys claim the state is dry, but privately admit that the house is doubtful. On the other hand, the wets maintain that the house is wet, but they do not appear to be sure about the Senate.

THE SPECIAL-SIX TOURING 1350

EVERYONE who drives a Studebaker Special-Six marvels at the ease with which it steers.

This is due to three things: The use of Timken tapered roller bearings on the steering pivots; the easy-operating, exclusive Studebaker steering gear and a minimum of unsprung weight on the front axle.

The Studebaker Special-Six transmission, differential, rear axle, and all four wheels are also completely equipped with Timken bearings.

No other touring car priced under $5600 uses as complete installation of Timken bearings as the Special-Six.

This is an example of the quality that is built into every detail of the Special-Six. Studebaker spares no expense to make it the market's outstanding value in a five-passenger car.

Considering the improved appearance of the new Ford Touring Car, one would naturally expect a proportionate advance in price.

Larger scale production, however, has made it possible to incorporate in this new type touring car a number of decided improvements without increasing its cost to the purchaser.

A comparison extending over a long period of years will reveal the fact that the present price is actually the lowest at which the five-passenger open car has ever been sold.

THE RECKONING.
It's fine to have a blow-out in a fancy restaurant, with terrapin and canvas-back and all the wine you want; to enjoy the flowers and music, watch the pretty women pass, smoke a choice cigar, and sip the wealthy water in your glass; it's bully in a high-toned joint to eat and drink your fill, but it's quite another matter when you come to pay the bill!

It's great to go out every night on fun and pleasure bent, to wear your glad rags always, and to never have a cent, to drift along regardless, have a good time every trip, hit the high spots sometimes, and to let the chances slip, to know you're acting foolish, yet go on fooling still, till nature calls the show-down, and you pay the bill!

Time has got a little bill! Get wise while yet you may, for the debit-side's increasing in a most alarming way; the things you had no right to do—the things you should have done—They're all put down. It's up to you to pay for every one. So eat, drink and be merry! Have a good time if you will, but God help you when the time comes, and you will pay the bill!

may have the necessities of life, some comforts, and save money at the same time.

No doubt one of the most important things to be considered in making up the family budget is the automobile. To get one or not to get one is a question to decide. Almost everyone has a car of some kind but the glittering announcements of "new models" etc., causes one to cast a longing glance at the new creations and to begin to plan on annexing one.

However a new car or an old one means that much added expense, if it should be called an expense. The car today has become a necessity in business life as well as a necessity for the home.

In an article on this subject, a technical director of a New York school says the person who estimates his spending in advance, as the budget plan calls for, is simply applying good business judgment to his family affairs. In the long run such a person will have more to spend for useful articles—in which class the automobile most certainly falls.

Such a person will also get greater satisfaction out of an automobile experience if he faces fairly the probable expense and plans ahead to finance them. The person who does not do this is often made unhappy, discontented, as unexpected items of expense occur. As a matter of fact, such items usually represent a necessary charge against his car. If he had planned his motor expenses ahead, as is the custom of budgeteers, he would recognize them as essential. He would pay without the unhappiness that accompanies the unforeseen.

If an individual contemplates buying a car he must decide whether he will pay all cash or purchase on the partial payment plan. Many will find an advantage in paying for the car in full if this is possible. The partial payment plan, however, is a convenience to some. Usually about thirty per cent of the price of the car is required and the balance can be distributed in equal installments over a period of ten or twelve months.

Among the budget items which center into "getting" a car there is first the investment. Suppose, for instance, the car costs $1,500. That is somewhere near the average. Every one will need to adapt any suggested figures to his own personal circumstances. The annual interest on this amount at six per cent is ninety dollars. Consequently, since the individual is losing the use of this amount, he can figure that it costs him ninety dollars per annum to own the car. Then there are taxes, freight and license expenses.

To estimate the operating costs the owner of a car should know about how many miles he will get on a gallon of gasoline and a quart of oil. He should probably have some idea of how many miles he will travel per year. (The average owner drives about 10,000 miles a year.) Then he can figure fairly closely on what will be the annual cost of these two necessities in using the automobile. In like manner he can figure on the annual cost of tires.

Where to record automobile expenses in the budget is a matter each person will decide according to individual preference. It may be an "operating expense" and "advance-ment" item, or by some it may be considered a luxury.

It costs something to own an auto. Anything that is worth while does. But it is worth all it costs and more. It is often true economy for a family to invest part of its resources in such a vehicle. And it is good sense to budget automobile spending.

For and Against "Equal Rights"

The Florida State Federation of Women's Clubs has taken the right step in deciding to keep our congressmen in Washington posted on the views of the women of Florida on various bills as they come up for consideration in Washington.

Only recently Mrs. W. F. Blackman, president of the state federation, addressed a letter to the state representative in the national capital in which she voiced the sentiment of the club. Mrs. Blackman stated that the policy of the organization was to keep the congressmen informed as to the attitude of its membership on the various bills.

The state president called attention to the fact that at the recent state convention, the women went on record as endorsing the Fess bill but opposing the "blanket bill" for equal rights for women. Mrs. Blackman ably voiced the sentiments of the women of the state as follows:

As you will see, our Florida women, as represented by the state federation of women's clubs, endorses the Fess bill and proposed amendment covering marriage and divorce.

We are, however, strongly opposed to the "blanket bill" for equal rights for women. We believe that the adoption of an amendment of this character would repeal or render nugatory much legislation protective of the rights and welfare of mothers, home makers and women workers, and render them liable to exploitation by selfish and ruthless employers of labor. While we believe in equal rights for women in political and industrial spheres, we do not believe that such equality justifies the ignoring of all those natural, ineradicable and wholesome distinctions of sex—physical and spiritual—on which our homes and our civilization are founded.

May not the women of Florida count on your help in defeating this extreme and vicious proposal?

My Favorite Stories
By Irvin S. Cobb

They used to tell this story of an old Confederate soldier who ran a saloon in a North Carolina town—a small city rather. He had two outstanding characteristics. One was his frugality. The other was his idolatry for the memory of Stonewall Jackson, under whom he had served in Virginia.

On a freight train, one night, two shabby wayfarers rolled into the town where the old soldier lived. Neither of them had a cent. They had eaten, thanks to an hospitable housekeeper up the line, but their thirst was enormous. As they lingered outside a saloon wondering how they might go about satisfying their alcoholic longings without money to pay for it, two customers came through the swinging doors and halted on the sidewalk, in hearing of the famished strangers, and began chatting. The proprietor within was the subject. Before being passed on, the cavew-dropping pair had a fairly complete mental picture of the personality of the saloon man. They entered and called for toddies. As the old warrior placed the orders before them the chief conspirator remarked casually:

"I'm mighty glad to get down into this country. I'm Northern born myself, but a strong Southern sympathizer, the same as all my people are. And I always have believed that Stonewall Jackson was the greatest fighting man that this country or any other country ever produced. Now, you take Jackson's Valley campaign—over the saloon-owner almost climbed over the bar:

"Lemme tell you about that there Valley campaign, pardner," he cried out. And did for fifteen minutes on end. Finally, coming to a pause, he was reminded that business was business.

"By the way," he suggested, "you didn't pay me for those two drinks you and your friend drank?"

"Why, don't you remember?" said the platter: "I handed you some money just about the time I happened to mention Stonewall Jackson. Now then, since you fought under him, do you happen to know how he happened to be shot accidentally by his own men?"

"Do I know!" exclaimed the old Confederate. "My son I reckon I know more about the untimely ending of Stonewall Jackson than any other man in the whole state of North Carolina. Listen here to me—"

Five minutes later the second train broke in on his discourse: "Stay here," he said, "that's all right about this here war talk. But what's the reason you don't give my pal his change?"

First a mere formality—Meaning' no reality Down inside a feller where his honest feelin' live. Lately, though, I've meant it; Something in me sent it Romping out to friends as though 'twas something fine t' give.

Mighty sweet to shout it. Come to think about it. Fine to greet folks that way and finer still to mean it. "Happy New Year's!" Yell it! Folks can quickly tell it Comes from more than just your lips—as well as if they'd seen it.

It will help the others. Sisters' said, and brothers; Help them if you say it—if you mean it, helps them more. So on New Year's day To them all let's say; "May the dawnin' New Year have much joy for you in store!"

That seventy foot dinosaur watched over her eggs 10,000,000 years ago, as her cousin the wren does today; each thinking herself a free agent. There is no freedom, but there is LAW, which is better. And there is work within the LAW that rewards the workers.

DR. McMURRICH, of Toronto University, tells the 2,000 assembled scientists, "revolution is the stimulus of all modern science. It has become much stronger since Darwin's day. It seems incredible that man, as a reasoning animal, should presume to doubt its veracity." But men that doubt or deny scientific fact, clearly proved, are not reasoning animals. They are superstitious animals, that believe their own religious beliefs and teachings by confessing that they can not face facts.

SCIENTISTS TELL you that the parental instinct is 20,000,000 years old, the lowest animal forms of those ancient times possessing man's devotion to offspring in lesser degree.

Paternal affection is older than that. It's as old as the first life-bearing planet in this universe, and Heaven only knows how old that is, if indeed, there ever was a "first" planet.

NATURE WORKS everywhere under the same laws—at the North Pole, on the Equator, here or a trillion miles off in space. She works through attraction, mechanical material attraction, expressed in Newton's formula, "directly as mass" etc., and spiritual attraction, as when a mother hen, with head lower and feathers upstanding defies a yoke of oxen from coming too near her brood.

ATTRACTION IS nature's power. We can be relied on to do what we want to do, so she makes us what to do what she wants done. There are three attractions, the instinct of self preservation keeps us here often when we'd be better off out of the world. The instinct of reproduction supplies more of us, to carry on the "plan," whatever it may be. And ambition, the strange impulse that makes us work, fight, and starve, if necessary, to do better than somebody else is the attraction that supplies progress and on we go, ingenious, by wound up, and we set running, while we think we do it all ourselves. pects to have the book adopted by the next grand encampment at Seattle, without revision.

Commanderies of Knights Templar within the jurisdiction of the grand encampment are urged to adopt the book in an authorization of the provisional report by Leonard P. Newby, grand master of the grand encampment, Knights-town, Indiana.

Agitation over a long period of years for uniform regulations was said to have prompted the action at New Orleans. Ever since the organization has existed in the United States, it was explained, each grand Commandery jurisdiction has followed regulations and tactics of its own adoption and had caused some confusion and uncertainty in the triennial convocation. The committee was selected on individual merit in ability and experience in drill regulations.

IRISH FREE STATE SHORT FINANCE

DUBLIN, Dec. 31.—The Free State government is confronted with serious financial problems, and the finance minister has announced that the balancing of the budget can be accomplished only by practicing strict economy, as taxation has reached the limit. The Daily Express has endorsed the economies of school teachers and old age pensions on the assurance that these are to be enforced in other departments.

Criticism has been directed at the expenditure caused by the change of government and the consequence that the Free State now is obliged to pay pensions to displaced British officials as well as the salaries of those appointed to succeed them.

It is hoped to effect a large saving in the expense of the army by reducing the present cost of more than $50,000,000 to about $20,000,000. It has been urged that Ireland does not need an army larger than that of Canada, which costs $7,500,000. The British government has allocated $7,500,000 to provide houses for the ex-soldiers. The fund is to be administered by a board of five members, three to be named by the British government and one each by the northern and southern governments of Ireland.
