Feather Still Thinks Libraries Will Be Impossible

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Though he's hardly the vocal critic he once was of Seminole County's $7 million library bond issue, Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather said he's still convinced it will be impossible to stock, staff and maintain the four libraries which will be built as a result of the bond issue.

"I'm just as adamant about it as I ever was," said Feather, who was the only commissioner who informally voted against validating the bonds last week. He has been alone on the commission in opposition to the bond issue which was approved last October by Seminole County voters.

Feather said he's resigned to the fact that his four colleagues on the commission will vote to issue the library bonds and are unwilling to change their minds. "I've said everything before. They don't want to hear it all again."

Funds from the bond issue will be used to expand the Sanford branch library, move the Casselberry library to a new location, buy 50,000 new books and build branch libraries in Lake Mary, Oviedo, Tuscowilla-Howell Branch and Wekiwa-Forest City areas.

Feather contends that principal and interest costs on the $7 million bond issue would cost the taxpayers about $30 million. That doesn't include operating costs, which Feather said will be about double the $750,000 annually the county pays for library service.

County staff officials place the actual cost of the bond issue at about $14.4 million, based on 15-year bonds at 11 percent interest.

Feather has remained unconvinced by the staff figures, claiming that his estimates are closer to the truth. But any amount, he has said, is too much to pay in light of economic difficulties which face the county.

He says Proposition 1, the referendum on the ballot in November of 1984 to reduce taxes in the state back to their 1980-81 levels, would deal a fatal blow to the county's library expansion plans.

The referendum would not affect the bond issue, since it was approved by the voters, but commissioners and county staff agree that operational funds would be cut back.

Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn, one of the staunchest supporters of the library bond issue, said she feels the county has "a mandate from the people" to validate the bond issue and construct the new libraries.

"The voters voted for the bond referendum. I'm just following the will of the people," she said.

Mrs. Glenn believes there will be money to operate the libraries when they are constructed.

"I think the money will be there," she said. "By then, maybe there will be funding at the state level."

The county currently spends about $750,000 annually on its library system. An additional $450,000 comes from state and federal funds.

A library volunteer program is now being developed at the county's main library in Casselberry. A dozen volunteers have just begun working on the circulation desk, shelving books and as clerical aides to augment existing library staff. If funds are cut back, Mrs. Glenn said the volunteer program could be used to keep the doors open.

"We're going to use volunteers," she said. "They're

Hold Line On Taxes, Fox Urges Lake Mary

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Counseling frugality in spending, Commissioner Ray Fox is trying to make a deal with his colleagues on the Lake Mary City Commission to hold the line on the tax rate.

Fox, who took himself out of the political arena last week by declining to run for re-election, urged the Commission at a budget workshop to join with him in supporting a $4.15 per $1,000 tax rate, rather than either the county property appraiser's certified rate of $4.41 or the mayor and city treasurer's proposed rate of $4.76.

County Property Appraiser Bill Suber's certified rate is the rate of taxes which would bring in the same revenues as last year minus new construction.

A second workshop on the budget is slated for Aug. 11. Public hearings on the budget approved by the city commission will be held Sept. 15 and 29. All the meetings are to begin at 7:30 p.m.

"I don't think it's necessary to increase" the tax rate, Fox told fellow commissioners. While not asking for immediate support for his move last week, he said that the city's proposed $1 million record budget can be balanced by removing the proposed purchase of a new police car, the proposed purchase of a 12,500 gallon pumper truck and a $25,000 contingency fund. The proposal for the fire truck purchase called for financing it over a period of years.

He noted that at the same $4.15 rate as the current year, the city will still take in $14,501 more in property taxes than in the 1982-83 fiscal year from new construction.

In exchange for their support, Fox said he "will go along" with the proposed purchase of a new police car out of this year's budget.

Police Chief Harry Benson has asked for one new patrol car this year and another in fiscal 1983-84 beginning Oct. 1.

Fox was particularly critical of the proposed fire department budget that would have some 55 percent of the department's $49,669 in the new year go for debt service to make payments on an existing two-year old 750-gallon-per-minute pumper truck and for payments on the requested new 1,250 gallon per minute truck.

While Fox insisted that he supports the fire department, he said he cannot support using that high a percentage of its allocated money for debt service.

"It's financial idiocy to approach it (a budget) that way," he said.

Larry Dale, a volunteer fireman and a builder in the community, noted that the fire department's proposed $49,669 budget is the lowest in the area and truly reflects the department's fiscal responsibility and frugality.

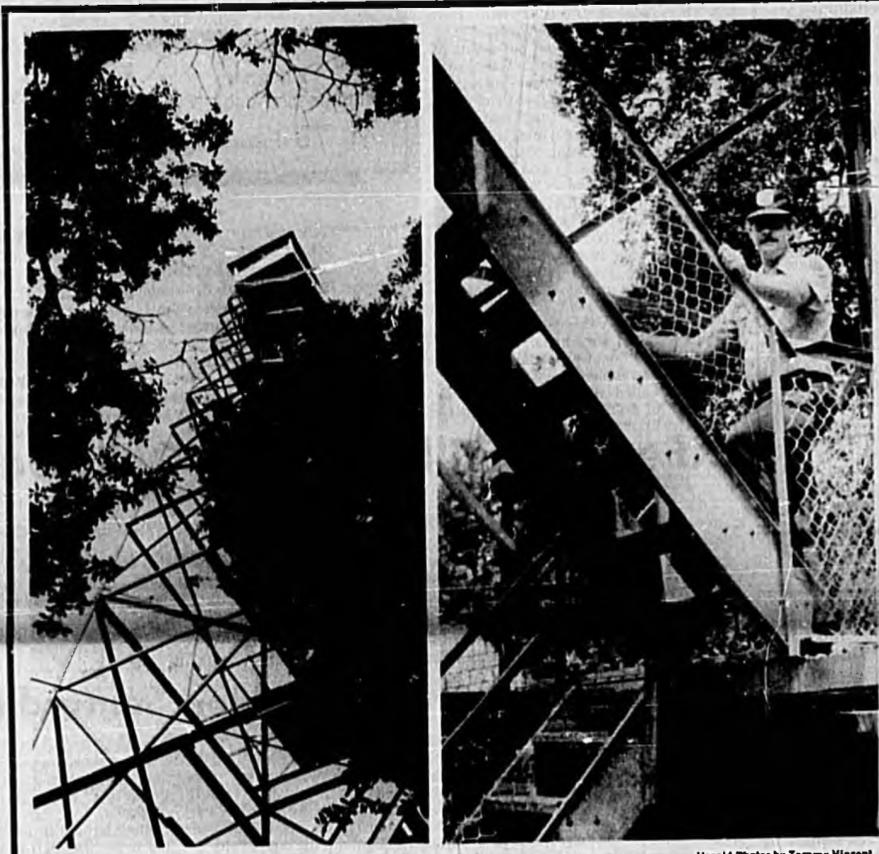

Fox suggested that the request for a second new fire apparatus in a two-year period is an example of "champagne" desires from a "coca-cola" pocket book. He said the city's tax rate "has been consistently going up and will continue unless a dramatic turnaround to conservatism is seen."

Dennis Smathers, a volunteer fireman and a candidate for the city commission in the September city election, predicted Lake Mary will see "explosive growth" in the next two-to-five years, perhaps doubling its population, and the fire department must be prepared with quality equipment. "We are looking at 1,000 new homes on the drawing boards now," Smathers said.

Smathers said the fire truck used for a second line vehicle is a 1973 model purchased before the city had a fire hydrant system. He said if the city's 750 gallon per minute truck is tied up, the fire department would be in trouble.

Fox said using the same rationale the city should buy a helicopter just in case a plane crashes in the city because the fire department does not now have the capability of fighting a magnesium fire.

"Nothing I've heard convinces me of the need to spend $100,000," — the cost of a new fire truck, Fox said.

Cutback Would Leave Lone Ranger To Guard Forests Four Days A Week

Longwood forests may be less safe if a planned reduction in ranger force is carried out by the state Forestry Division, according to a supervisor for the Longwood district.

Gil Artman said state plans to eliminate one of three ranger positions at the Longwood fire tower could hamper the firefighting capabilities in the area.

The state crews have responsibility for spotting and suppressing woodlands fires, Artman said.

"With three rangers it guarantees that there are two on duty every day," he said. "With two rangers, it means there will be two rangers on duty three days a week and one ranger on duty four days a week."

Artman said with only one officer on duty it means the rangers have responsibility for both spotting and fighting fires. "What it means is when they spot a fire they have to leave the station unattended to go fight it."

The rangers work during the peak fire hours 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. but they continue to fight fires past the end of their shifts. Rangers are also on call during their off hours.

The position has been open for several months since the ranger took a job as Altamonte Springs City Forester. A state job freeze kept the job open and when the 1983-84 budget was prepared the vacant slot was eliminated.

Seminole County commissioners have passed a resolution opposing the state plan to eliminate one of the three positions. The Forestry Division is cutting jobs around the state to save money during the coming fiscal year.

The commission resolution opposed the plan because it would have "adverse impact on Seminole County's efforts to control forest or grassland fires."

The resolution claims the Longwood tower is the busiest one in Seminole, orange, Osceola and Brevard counties. State officials have estimated brush fires will increase by 25 percent over the next year.

Artman said the Longwood tower is a secondary one. The division's Oviedo tower is a primary tower because it is heavily wooded. It has a full time employee on duty in the tower while two rangers fight fires.

But Artman added that the area will continue to have adequate fire protection even if the cuts are approved by the state.

Personnel can be shifted from the Oviedo tower or the Plymouth tower in Orange County at the discretion of district officials. Crews can also be brought in from the other counties in the district during critical times.

Artman said aircraft will still be used to patrol for fires in isolated areas which can't be readily viewed from the towers. —Michael Beha

Teen Dies In SR 436 Collision

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

Two persons, including a teenager who was visiting his best friend, were killed in a two-car collision on State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs Sunday.

Altamonte police said a car carrying two teen-age boys collided with a car driven by a 51-year-old Longwood man at 1:52 p.m. during light rain about a half mile east of State Road 434.

Killed in the accident were Charles Rosenheimer, 51, of 2280 Poinsetta Drive, Leesburg, and Joe Zeman, 17, of Port Richey.

Rosenheimer was an engineer with Martin Marietta Corporation. Zeman would have been a senior in high school in the fall.

The driver of the car in which Zeman was a passenger, Richard Jones III, 17, of 3189 Barbados Court, Apopka, was treated for back injuries at Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs and released.

Officers said Jones was east-bound on SR 436 when he lost control of his 1973 brown Mustang after crossing railroad tracks about one-quarter mile east of San Sebastian Prado. His car crossed the median and entered the westbound lanes where it was struck by a 1976 Honda driven by Rosenheimer.

Jones' car was struck broadside. Firefighters cut the roof of the Honda to remove Rosenheimer, who was pinned in his car.

Rosenheimer and Zeman were both pronounced dead at the Altamonte hospital, police said.

Both cars were demolished. Charges in the accident are pending completion of the investigation, according to Robert Merchant, Altamonte Springs police department traffic officer.

Zeman's mother said her son was visiting "his best friend," Richard Jones, when the accident occurred. "They were very close," said Dorothy Zeman of Port Richey.

She said Joe and Richard had spent about a week together fishing, swimming and canoeing. She said the boys met about four years ago in junior high school when Richard was living in the Port Richey area.

She said the boys got together "once or twice a year" and were staying with Richard's aunt and uncle in Apopka when the accident occurred.

"It was just a terrible accident," said Mrs. Zeman. "They were both such good boys. They didn't drink and they both went to church."

She said Joe had just turned 17 on July 6 and would have been a senior at Hudson High School in New Port Richey in the fall.

Karen Rosenheimer, 27, said her father was returning from playing tennis at the Altamonte Springs Inn and Racquet Club when he the accident occurred.

Charles Rosenheimer was a senior staff guidance and control engineer with the Martin Marietta in Orlando and had lived in the Lake Brantley area near Longwood for over 20 years. Miss Rosenheimer said.

'Exorbitant'

PSC To Vote On Utility's Rate Hike Request

It appears likely that customers of the North Orlando Water and Sewer Corp., primarily in Winter Springs, will be paying more for service.

The state Public Service Commission will vote Tuesday on proposals from the utility and from PSC staff for substantial increases in water and sewer rates. Customers have called the proposed rates exorbitant.

North Orlando has asked the PSC for a 77 percent sewer rate hike which would increase the average monthly rate from the present $25.12 to $44.55 a month.

The increase proposed by PSC staff would raise sewer rates by about 43 percent and water rates about 2 percent. Those increases would raise rates to about $36 a month.

PSC officials met with customers of the utility in March to discuss the company's proposed rate increase. At that hearing, customers voiced no complaints about the company's service but said the rates were exorbitant.

The PSC granted a $6.79 monthly interim rate hike to the company in March.

The PSC staff proposal was derived from close examination of the company's books. Audit reports were sent to the PSC and rate analyst Terry Colombos set the staff's proposed rate hike.

Both proposals will be submitted to the PSC at its Tuesday meeting and commissioners will select one of the proposals.

The staff's report said the company's profit margin on the utility should be increased from 8.7 percent to 12.22 percent.

The utility is owned by Florida Land Company, a developer in the Winter Springs area. The company and Winter Springs officials have been negotiating a sale of the utility to the city.

The city has offered $2 million for the assets of the utility. —Michael Beha

IN BRIEF

Health Care For Jobless Tops Congress' Agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, beginning one last week before its summer recess today, faces the issues of military spending, health care for the unemployed and the U.S. contribution to loans for developing countries.

The House has not yet acted on legislation to provide $4 billion in grants to states over 2½ years for health care to jobless workers. An estimated 10 million Americans lack health insurance because the family breadwinner is out of work. A Senate Finance Committee bill, providing $1.8 billion, would pay for the benefits by cutting Medicare. It has not reached the Senate floor.

The two houses also have yet to reach agreement on the administration's request for an $8.4 billion increase in the U.S. contribution to the International Monetary Fund, which lends money to developing nations to promote industrial development.

The Senate passed the appropriation but the House refused by 48 votes to agree. House supporters of the legislation say they now have the votes to win approval this week.

Both houses passed their military spending bills last week and a conference committee is trying to reach consensus on whether to authorize nerve gas production, what pay raises to give middle-grade military personnel and if 21 or 27 MX missiles should be produced next year.

Reagan Defends Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, beset with image problems, prepared a forceful defense of his record on civil rights and equality today to dispel "misunderstanding" about his sensitivity toward women and minorities.

Reagan planned to use a speech to the 105th annual meeting of the American Bar Association in Atlanta to answer criticism of his policies and claim a broad effort by his administration to protect the rights of women and blacks.

One administration official described the speech as "a strong positive address on ways the administration is seeking to open the door to opportunity through economic growth and dismantling the legal barriers of discrimination."

At the same time, the White House made no secret of the impetus behind the focus on equality and opportunity: the widespread view that Reagan has been unfair to blacks and done little to advance the cause of women's rights.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Record high temperatures and oppressive humidity steamed East Coast cities but a band of thunderstorms cooled the second of two searing heat waves that have been blamed for 189 deaths in the central states. The mercury hit 97 at Atlantic City, N.J. and 95 in Washington, D.C. Sunday eclipsing past highs for the date. But scorched areas of Missouri and Oklahoma "cooled off" to about 90 degrees in places where residents had sweated in 100-degree heat. Elsewhere, the northern Plains and western states basked in cool temperatures while thunderstorms refreshed the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes regions. More than 3 inches of rain doused Rushville, Ind. in 70 minutes and 76-mph winds tore the roof from a trailer at Circleville, Ind. The downpour was welcomed by farmers, who have complained of withering crops. In Groveland, Ind., a man cutting firewood was struck by lightning and killed. His two companions were injured. Thunderstorms moved along the Gulf Coast and heavy rains and hail hit eastern and central Oregon. Thunderstorms also eased the heat in Texas, Oklahoma and Nebraska. Golfball-sized hail and 60-mph winds tore through Claremore, Okla. The heat wave produced temperatures in the 90s in the southern Plains — cooler than Saturday's 100-degree plus readings.

AREA FORECAST: Partly cloudy today with a 40 percent chance of mainly afternoon thunderstorms. Highs near 90. Southeast wind 10 mph. Tonight and Tuesday partly cloudy with a chance of mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Lows mainly in the mid 70s. Highs near 90. Light southeasterly wind tonight. Rain chance 20 percent tonight and 30 percent Tuesday.

BOATING FORECAST: St. Augustine to Jupiter Inlet out 50 miles — Southeasterly wind 10 to 15 knots today and around 10 knots tonight and Tuesday. Seas 2 to 4 feet today and less than 3 feet tonight. Scattered showers and thunderstorms.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 82; overnight low: 75; Sunday high: 86; barometric pressure: 30.16; relative humidity: 87 percent; winds east at 9 mph; rain: .56; sunrise 6:47 a.m., sunset 8:16 p.m.

TUESDAY TIDES: Daytona Beach: highs, 2:01 a.m., 2:44 p.m.; lows, 8:10 a.m., 8:59 p.m.; Port Canaveral: highs, 1:53 a.m., 2:36 p.m.; lows, 8:01 a.m., 8:50 p.m.; Bayport: highs, 7:29 a.m., 9:08 p.m.; lows, 1:19 a.m., 2:50 p.m.

Global Warming Trend To Blame

Florida May Be Swallowed Up By The Sea

By United Press International

A rise in the sea level brought on by a worldwide warming trend could swallow Florida beaches, destroy billions of dollars of real estate and foul the aquifer with salt water, experts say.

The world's oceans are already inching upward because of a worldwide warming trend triggered by the burning of fossil fuels such as coal and oil, according to a study by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The polar icecaps, thawing from the rising global temperatures, could flood the coastlines of Florida in the next century with a 2- to 10-foot rise of ocean levels, according to the study.

If the trend continues, it could mean the end of Florida's coasts by the year 2100, experts conclude.

Experts say that global weather patterns could also change, hurling hurricanes along routes farther north than those they now travel.

"Even a two-foot rise in sea level over the next 100 years would be significant," said Albert C. Hine, a marine scientist at the University of South Florida in St. Petersburg.

"But a 10-foot rise is unbelievable, in terms of what it might mean to us. We're colonizing the coastal zone right now, especially in Florida. Most of that area we're colonizing is less than 10 feet above sea level. It could all end up on the ocean floor."

Disaster could strike even before then for the low-lying areas of south and southwest Florida, experts say.

Among the dire consequences predicted for south Florida are: billions of dollars of real estate destroyed; the destruction by salt water of the Everglades wildlife habitats; the fouling of the aquifer with salt water; and the end of Florida's beaches.

Experts say that while the EPA study is filled with uncertainties, one thing is for sure: the level of the world's oceans has been rising since the early 19th century, when oil and coal fueled the industrial revolution.

"To the best of our knowledge ... the sea will continue to rise. The only question is the rate," said Dan Beknap, a former University of South Florida professor of marine geology now at the University of Maine.

Scientists blame the problem on what is called the "greenhouse effect," caused by excess carbon dioxide in the atmosphere absorbing infrared radiation that normally escapes into space.

Between 1957 and 1980, measurements show that the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere increased by 7 percent. At that rate, the level of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere will double by the year 2100 — raising world temperatures by an average of 8 degrees — according to Joseph Cannon, the EPA associate administrator who directed the two-year study.

Groups Say U.S. Could Help Eradicate Hunger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and other developed nations are technologically capable of helping wipe out hunger around the world within 15 years but are not making the full effort that is needed, anti-hunger groups say.

"Despite the fact that the world — and the United States especially — has taken some steps ... overall, we must give ourselves an F for our efforts," said Steven Coats of the Christian anti-hunger group Bread for the World.

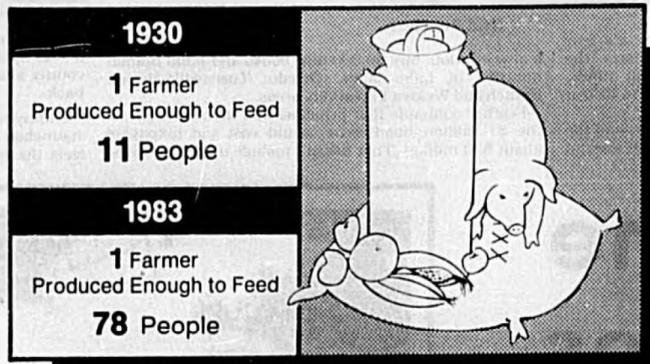

Nutritionist Jean Mayer, president of Tufts University in Medford, Mass., told the House Foreign Affairs Committee last week that developed nations have the technological knowledge that could help poorer countries end hunger.

"I do not see any basic obstacle to the concept of eliminating hunger around the world in 10 to 15 years," Mayer said.

He suggested the United States could help by supporting population control programs in nations that request assistance, providing technical agricultural aid and credit, and expanding research into nutrition and tropical agriculture.

"All of these things are feasible technologically," Mayer said, but warned some organizational problems might be difficult to overcome.

He also called on the government to press for an international agreement to

The American farmer, long the most productive in the world, is becoming more so. A half century ago, the typical farmer produced enough food on a 145-acre farm to feed 11 people — one consumer for every 13 acres. Today, he feeds 78 people from an average 450-acre farm — one consumer to less than six acres. If such productivity, anti-hunger groups say, that could help the U.S. wipe out hunger in the world within 15 years.

"ban famine as an intentional instrument of war and to set up a mechanism to relieve starvation, by common action, when it is an unintentional result of local conflicts." Mayer blamed existing food shortages partly on the rising world population, the switch by an increasing number of people from vegetable-based diets to diets centering on animal products and the need for more sophisticated farming methods to help increase food production in other parts of the world.

Critical food shortages exist today in 16 African nations, with less severe shortages in at least nine other countries in Asia and Central and South America, Mayer said.

Frederick Devine of CARE said those shortages could be eased and the United States and other developed nations could help meet the world's food needs "if we are willing to commit the additional resources required by the task."

"This is essentially a political decision," he said.

Ann Nesmith Beardslee of the Inter-religious Task Force on U.S. Food Policy told the panel that even though some progress has been made, "The overall record is not one in which the international community should take pride.

"We are not making adequate progress toward the World Food Conference goal of eradicating hunger by 1985," she said.

She blamed part of the problem on the weak global economy, which she said has limited the efforts of poorer countries to strengthen their own agricultural production capabilities going to continue to be a viable part of our library system."

County Librarian Jean Rhein said volunteers can perform many integral functions at the library but added that "there's no way you could have a library system run totally by volunteers."

Feather has also opposed the library plan because he feels the county should utilize libraries already existing in the county's 42 schools. Those facilities are underused.

he claims, since schools are open for only about eight hours a day, 10 months a year.

But school officials opposed Feather's idea, claiming it would be difficult to maintain security and to keep books for adults separated from books for children.

Bond validation is expected to take from two to four months. Once the bonds are validated commissioners will vote on whether to proceed with the bond sale.

Site acquisition and construction could begin on some of the libraries by next year. The county must spend the $7 million within five years.

Thieves Tie Up, Rob Disabled Sanford Man

A disabled Sanford veteran said he was "surprised" when a woman and a man he knew tied him up in his home and stole his car and air conditioner early Sunday.

Major Lawson, 40, of 127 Bethune Circle, said he had known the pair "for quite a while," and they had been visiting him before the theft. "I was surprised," he said. Lawson was bound with a cloth and left in his home about 2:30 a.m., according to a police report.

Two persons drove away in his car after removing an air conditioner from his bedroom, the report said. Larry Johnson, 1505 W. Eighth Street, and Gloria Ann Bennett, of 32 Lake Monroe Terrace, both 25, were arrested about three hours later and charged with auto theft, grand theft, false imprisonment and battery.

They remain in Seminole County jail today. Bennett is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond and Johnson is being held in lieu of $2,500.

Some Diplomats Accused Of Being Slave Owners

LONDON (UPI) — Some diplomats in major Western cities import their own slaves, sometimes branding and sexually abusing them to keep them in bondage, a human rights group says.

Peter Davies, secretary of the Anti-Slavery Society, said Sunday the British-based organization has found diplomats in New York, Washington, London and Geneva who keep slaves. But police cannot act because the perpetrators are protected by diplomatic immunity.

The society's former secretary, Col. Patrick Montgomery, said he knew of nationals from eight countries who were being kept as slaves by diplomats in foreign capitals.

One diplomat under treatment at an expensive London clinic insisted on having his female slave sleep across the doorway of his room, Montgomery said. The diplomat rejected protests by saying, "She stays here at my pleasure. There are plenty more where she comes from."

Montgomery said he believed it "quite likely" such slaves were sexually abused. He said one girl at a diplomat's house in London showed bite marks on her arm and a brand mark on her head to the wife of one of Montgomery's friends.

"This young woman was on several occasions seen and heard to be dragged screaming to be handed over to male friends of the diplomat in question," Montgomery said. Police, he noted, declined to act.

"It's a fact of life. These people move around probably in their private aircraft and they bring in hordes of young people ... as chattels brought in as part of the baggage," Davies said of the diplomats.

"It's a not unfamiliar situation with diplomats from Middle Eastern countries who are used at home to having these sort of servants that they bring with them," he said.

Although slavery was outlawed in Britain in 1772 — 49 years before the Society was set up to spread the abolitionist movement across the world — Montgomery said he had come across several cases in the London diplomatic community in recent years.

He said airport immigration officials once intercepted a slave of the late Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza. The man had a 3-by-3-inch brand on each shoulder.

"He said that every slave in the household of President Somoza was branded in this way so that if he should escape and eventually be recaptured he would easily be identified," Montgomery said.

He said countries where the society charges slavery still is rampant include the West African state of Mauritania, which officially abolished it three years ago.

Forms of slavery, slave-trafficking and human exploitation continue in the Philippines, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, China, Pakistan, Bangladesh, India, Nepal, Thailand and Brazil, the society said.

2 Gunmen Rob, Assault Sanford Security Agent

Police were searching today for two armed men who robbed a Sanford security agent and hit him in the head during a weekend holdup.

Robert R. Briggs, 25, of 524 Burton Lane, told police a man approached him as he was sitting in his parked car at the corner of 13th Street and Elm Avenue, Sanford, at 11:20 p.m. Friday.

Briggs said the man pointed a six-inch blue revolver at him and told him to get out of the car. Briggs complied and the gunman told him to walk north to the front of Abby's Body Shop, 1206 Elm Ave. The pair were then joined by a second armed man.

Briggs said the two removed his wallet and eye glasses and one of the gunmen struck him on the head. Briggs was later treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, for a head injury and released, police said.

At the time of the holdup, Briggs was performing security duties for Central Florida Security, police said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israel May Be Willing To Pull Back Some Troops

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel said Robert McFarlane's first goal as the new U.S. special envoy to the Middle East could be to pull Israeli and Syrian troops away from their face-to-face positions in Lebanon.

A senior Israeli official said Sunday the United States raised the issue of disengaging the opposing forces in Lebanon's eastern Bekaa Valley during Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir's talks in Washington last week.

Israeli troops are facing Syrian and PLO forces along a 20-mile front in the Bekaa. Israel has said its soldiers will remain there even after a planned withdrawal of its forces from the Beirut area and Shouf Mountains to the Awali River in southern Lebanon.

But Israel Radio said Shamir told the American officials that Israel agrees in principle to a separation of forces in the eastern part of Lebanon. The report said Israeli leaders will discuss the proposal with McFarlane.

McFarlane, on his maiden trip to the Middle East as President Reagan's personal envoy, arrived in Beirut Sunday for talks today with Lebanese leaders.

Chad Requests French Aid

N'DJAMENA, Chad (UPI) — President Hissene Habre, under attack by Soviet-built Libyan warplanes in the town of Faya-Largeau, appealed for French military help today in fighting rebel forces in Chad.

Habre asked France and other Western countries for assistance as Libyan MiG fighter-bombers made at least three "intensive" bombing runs Sunday while Habre was in the town, an oasis in the central African nation, officials said.

His appeal for urgent French military intervention today was made through the French ambassador amid increasing proof of direct Libyan involvement in the conflict between Habre and ousted ex-President Goukouni Weddeye, government officials said.

France announced no immediate reaction to the appeal for air force support, but sources in Paris indicated President Francois Mitterrand would rule out overt involvement in the fighting between Habre and Libyan-backed rebels supporting Weddeye. Mitterrand said two weeks ago, he had no plans to send troops to Chad, a former French colony that gained its independence from Paris in 1960.

Cuban Exile Shoots 4; Gunned Down By Police

MIAMI (UPI) — A "very disturbed" Cuban exile shouting anti-communist slogans gunned down four of his relatives — killing his 69-year-old aunt — before he was shot to death by Miami police, officials said.

Jose Braulio Aleman, 50, died early Sunday when police SWAT team members stormed the northwest Miami residence where he holed up for two hours after the shootings.

The three wounded were in stable condition today at Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Aleman is the son of a former Cuban education minister and cattle rancher who spent about $1 million to resist Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista and who later fled Fidel Castro's regime.

Communist Traveler Held

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. customs officials are holding a well-known Jamaican teacher and political activist who was detained because "he is a Communist" when he tried to make a plane transfer in Miami, officials said.

Shortly after 33-year-old John Haughton arrived at Miami International Airport en route to Seattle from Jamaica last Wednesday, he was handcuffed by guards from the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"He never should have been given a visa," said Dwayne Peterson, assistant director of district investigations for INS in Miami. "He was detained because he is a Communist."

Stone, Salvadoran Rebel Leader Meet

United Press International
Signaling an "important step," U.S. special envoy Richard Stone held his first meeting with a rebel leader from El Salvador and the rebels said a separate effort might result in direct talks with the Salvadoran government.

Stone finally met Sunday with Ruben Zamora, a leader of the Salvadoran insurgents' political arm, the Democratic Revolutionary Front, in Bogota, Colombia. Officials were mum about the substance of the talks.

The meeting is believed to have been the highest-level contact yet between the rebels and the Reagan administration.

Stone, Reagan's envoy to Central America, then flew to El Salvador to brief government leaders and swiftly jetted back to Bogota for the night. He was due in Nicaragua today for talks with the leftist regime.

Stone's meeting with the rebel leader, canceled three times before, took place in Colombia's presidential palace with President Belisario Betancur and two State Department officials present.

Betancur, who had acted as intermediary in arranging the session, called the more than two-hour afternoon meeting "really something."

"This is an important step that will help alleviate risks" of a regional war, he said.

Late Sunday, a rebel source in Mexico City said the three members of El Salvador's government Peace Commission had answered "positively" to a separate rebel overture suggesting direct talks toward a settlement of the more than 3-year-old civil war.

The commissioner, in a July 18 letter, "responded favorably in terms of establishing a dialogue" to a letter sent a week earlier by the rebels, the source said.

There was no immediate comment from San Salvador. The source said the meeting could take place as early as within two weeks at a site to be agreed upon.

However, it was not clear what role if any Stone would have in such talks.

Stone declined comment on his meeting with Zamora. His spokesman, Joe Presel, said earlier in El Salvador the envoy was working as an "intermediator" and hoped eventually to bring the rebels and the government together for talks.

But the rebel source said the Stone-Zamora meeting was not related to the possible talks and was only to arrange procedural matters for a future meeting with Stone.

During Stone's quick trip to San Salvador, he met for more than an hour with Interim President Alvaro Magana and the other eight members of his top-level Political Commission, including peace commission President Francisco Quinones.

Asked if Stone was trying to arrange a government-rebel meeting, Quinones, also the president of the peace commission, replied: "No, he's not."

In Managua, Nicaragua's Foreign Ministry announced Stone's expected arrival Sunday in a communique that accused the U.S. Navy frigate Clifton Sprague of violating Nicaraguan territorial waters "in a clearly provocative and offensive attitude."

The Sprague carries guided missiles and is patrolling in the Gulf of Fonseca, across which U.S. officials believe some arms shipments are sent from Nicaragua to the rebels in El Salvador.

South Florida Being Plagued By Cattle Rustlers

By United Press International
Some $20,000 worth of Florida cattle are being herded off each month by a growing number of rifle-toting rustlers who have even swiped steer from Gov. Bob Graham's Dade County ranch.

With 2.6 million head of cattle, Florida is now the biggest beef state east of the Mississippi — a fact rustlers have not failed to notice.

Rustling has been a thorn in the side of state law enforcement officials for years, and authorities say as much as $240,000 worth of livestock is stolen in the state each year.

Now, thieves are targeting their efforts to the unlikely locale of south Florida — an area more known for its cocaine cowboys than for cattle rustlers.

And Gov. Graham, who has the largest herd of cattle in Dade County, loses about 100 head of cattle annually to the rustlers. Agricultural Commissioner Doyle Conner has also been hit.

According to the department's records, rustlers have stolen or slaughtered cattle, horses and pigs in Dade pastures at least 20 times since February.

AREA DEATHS

KENNETH A. WING SR.

Kenneth A. Wing Sr., 78, of 118 Ichabod Trail, Longwood, died Sunday at Florida Hospital-Orlando after a massive heart attack followed by five major complications. Born Dec. 2, 1904, on a farm in Allegheny, N.Y., his family has owned property in Paola, Sanford, Longwood and the Orlando area since 1880. He attended the University of Cincinnati and the University of Pittsburgh where he received his bachelor of science degree. Entering the U.S. Army as a first lieutenant, he rose through ranks to lieutenant colonel during his military career. He served during World War II with the coast and field artillery. Since retiring from the service, he had pursued his previous career in electrical and space engineering. For the last 20 years, he was associated with the space program in Downey, Calif. While at North American Rockwell Corp., he participated in the design of the space capsule that carried John Glenn into space and was also active in the lunar exploration project.

Wing suffered from a heart condition in his later years and had a valve in his heart replaced. He had regained his previous physical stamina until his recent illness and had been expected to recover.

Survivors include his wife, Dorothy; son, Dr. Kenneth M. Wing, Sanford; two sisters, Arlene Snyder, Rochester, N.Y., and Marguerite Overton, Allegheny; three grandchildren, Susan Tillingshaus, Sanford, Michael Kenneth Wing, Sanford, and Jonathan Wing, Sanford; one great-grandchild, Brissan Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

For Lack Of Bodies, E.T. Suit Dismissed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For lack of evidence, a federal judge threw out a lawsuit claiming the Air Force is secretly holding the bodies of space aliens who crashed in a New Mexico desert more than 30 years ago.

But even after his "Writ of Habeas Corpus Extraterrestrial" was dismissed last week, Larry Bryant said, "The bodies are there. It's just getting to them. There's smoke and there has got to be a fire," said Bryant, an Alexandria, Va. writer. "This court has lost a big opportunity."

The suit claimed the bodies of the extraterrestrials are secretly held by the government "without a full accounting to the public" and, if they are alive, their detention is "an unwarranted deprivation of their right to travel."

It was filed on behalf of the Citizens Against UFO Secrecy.

During a 30-minute preliminary hearing, Bryant told Judge Oliver Gasch: "This is a public issue on the scale of Watergate. It may transcend anything this court has ever seen. We are forging a new document said: "An investigator for the Air Force stated that three so-called flying saucers had been recovered in New Mexico" and the bodies of nine small beings were recovered.

But Assistant U.S. Attorney Royce Lamberth asked Gasch to dismiss the suit because: "They do not know if there are any extraterrestrials. They have never seen them or talked to them and don't know if they ever existed."

Bryant admitted, "We don't know where the bodies are. We don't have any information," but introduced a document submitted by a retired Ohio businessman.

Leonard Stringfield, of Cincinnati, claimed in the document he has interviewed former military personnel who claim ETs from a number of different incidents were held at Wright-Patterson AFB, near Dayton, Ohio.

Gasch asked if Stringfield had ever had contact with an ET, and Bryant said, "no."

Then the judge asked, "What you are telling me is hearsay?" And Bryant responded, "In a case like this, hearsay prevails."

As he was leaving the courtroom, Lamberth said the government is not holding any bodies of aliens.

The Federal Sweatshop

Just when you thought they'd never top the pet rock, a federal employees union announced it will bring suit against the government — asserting that U.S. bureaucrats have been underpaid by some $20 billion.

The case, now before the U.S. District Court in Washington, is one of a number resulting from the Supreme Court's recent ruling on the legislative veto. Actually, Congress didn't use its authority to veto White House pay recommendations in any of the last three years, the period covered by the suit. Congress simply accepted the executive's report on federal pay and let the president's recommendations stand.

Because the law includes a legislative veto provision, however, the federal employees union says all pay changes of the last three years must go. You catch the sleazy legalism? This, the union says, means the lower pay levels recommended by the president must be scrubbed. Higher pay levels that were recommended by an "independent" commission of experts, most with a bias toward federal workers, must be substituted in their stead.

It's bad enough that a group of federal employees would think to launch such a suit. More outrageous, though, is the claim that federal employees, by any rational standard of fairness, are underpaid. Consider:

— Federal salaries are 35 percent higher than in the private sector, according to a Chamber of Commerce study.

— Federal pensions replace an average of 56 percent of an employee's pretax salary. A typical private sector plan replaces 30 percent.

— Only one private sector worker in 50 gets three or more weeks vacation after three years of service. Federal employees get four weeks after three years service.

— Besides better pay, easier conditions, and more benefits, federal workers enjoy more security. Unemployment among federal workers is a mere 4 percent, compared to rates of 18 percent in the auto industry, 19 percent in construction, and 21 percent in steel.

The vast majority of government servants are dedicated, honest, efficient people. With lawsuits like this, however, it's no wonder many people consider "government worker" a contradiction in terms.

Too Lenient

The mere reprimand recommended by the House Ethics Committee for two congressmen who admitted having had sex with teenage pages strikes us as being shamefully inadequate. We thought the two — Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., and Rep. Daniel Crane, R-Ill. — should have been expelled from the House if they refused to resign.

We still think so. But falling that, the House at least voted to censure Studds and Crane, an official punishment one cut above the Ethics committee's proposed reprimand.

The censure effectively strips Studds of his chairmanship of the House Coast Guard and Navigation subcommittee. And both men stand condemned by their colleagues for conduct the House judged utterly unacceptable.

What ultimate effect this scandal has on the political careers of the two congressmen will now, apparently, be left up to voters in their districts.

Those in Gerry Studds' Massachusetts district ought to be less forgiving. Crane tearfully apologized to his constituents and to the House for having had sex on several occasions with a female page. Gerry Studds, who acknowledged a homosexual liaison with a male page and sexual overtures to two others, admitted to "an error of judgment" but maintained the incidents did not warrant House action.

Crane voted for his own censure. Studds voted only "present." In Gerry Studds' case especially, we hope voters choose someone whose personal character is less of an affront to the minimal standards for holding a position of public trust.

By Donna Estes

State Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, and the only Democrat on the seven member Seminole County Legislative Delegation, spoke to Sanford Kiwanians a few days ago.

His message was that he is deeply concerned about the new taxes passed during the most recent special session of the Florida Legislature. He is especially bothered about the new taxes on corporations with headquarters in Florida that have branches in foreign countries.

Florida turned its image around a number of years ago to become known as the most favorable state in the union to do business, Vogt noted. The idea was to entice businesses to locate in the state and thus bring jobs here.

But with the new tax structure, Florida isn't number one as far as business is concerned anymore. Texas is, in Vogt's opinion.

It's interesting to hear some elected officials talk about the city or county governments in which they serve. Somehow, these officials have become confused about who owns the corporations. They give the impression that they are looking at what's good for the government. On the other hand, they place the owners of the corporations, the people, in the role of children who really don't know what's good for them. And if they cannot convince the people to support what they think is good, they just give it to them anyway.

They have apparently forgotten that they as the elected officials are only temporary caretakers chosen by the people to operate the governments.

There are two schools of thought on what the public expects from their elected officials. The school often reflected by elected officials is that the people selected them to make the tough decisions which in their judgment are best. The other school of thought is that the people select officials to represent them in the fashion the majority of the people believe is best.

The interesting part is that the people always win the argument ultimately. When voters find their representatives in government have ceased being public servants and instead have become rulers, making too many independent decisions which they oppose, they simply go to the ballot box and un-elect them.

That is the ultimate lesson in humility suffered by politicians who have forgotten from whence they came and why.

The deadline for residents in Lake Mary and Oviedo to register to vote in the Sept. 6 city elections in both cities is Aug. 8. Persons can register at either of the county elections offices at the courthouse in Sanford, the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs, or at any of the city halls in the county except Sanford.

If one is registered to vote in county elections, he is also qualified to vote in the city in which he lives.

EDWARD WALSH MX And The Arms Treaty

Last week's vote in the House of Representatives authorizing construction of 21 MX missiles means more than it appears to. Actually, it is a significant step towards an arms control agreement with the Soviets.

The chances that the U.S. and the Soviet Union will ever conclude a genuinely verifiable strategic arms reduction treaty remain as bleak as ever. But negotiations on an agreement are always useful — if the American delegates aren't gulled by the Soviets' vodka toasts and back-slapping camaraderie into believing those guys want peace just like we do, and begin making concessions for the sake of getting signatures on a document.

Thus far, President Reagan has avoided that trap. In the face of a furious Soviet propaganda assault, he has stayed his course on deploying Pershing and cruise nuclear missiles in Western Europe, and on building a new land-based strategic missile, the MX. The House vote was Mr. Reagan's reward for perseverance. Although the vote was close, 220-207, he brought along dedicated anti-defense liberals such as Reps. Les Aspin of Wisconsin and Albert Gore of Tennessee, who apparently see more clearly than many of their colleagues that the President's steady vision has caused his counterpart, Yuri Andropov, to blink first.

The Soviet leader has realized he has lost at least one stage of his war of nerves with Mr. Reagan; perhaps when West German chancellor Helmut Kohl advised him in Moscow recently that the Pershings would be deployed on schedule. Andropov's response was a brand-new proposal on strategic weapons for the U.S. to ponder. It calls for a reduction by 1990 in intercontinental delivery systems-missiles and bombers — to 1,800, down from 2,400 under the unratified SALT II treaty of 1979. This change is not particularly dramatic, in light of the large Soviet advantage in heavy missiles. But it also includes new subliminals of numbers of multiple warhead sea- and land-based missiles, that will allow for harder bargaining on the gap between the U.S. and the Soviet positions on these weapons.

Such a shift, although invisible to the unaided eye, is significant, since any specific, serious proposal by the Russians is significant. Officially, the Reagan administration downplayed the move. But it paid dividends on the MX vote, which frees $2.2 billion for the program. No Congressman will ever admit to voting to spend billions on weapons that may never be deployed in a credible way. Two and one-half billion is a lot of money for bargaining chips. But the perception of movement at the bargaining table in Geneva is the only way to get more of it — specifically, Soviet flexibility on warheads, which is yet to be achieved.

The deployment of MX missiles in existing Minuteman silos is not a fall-safe strategic option. But it is the appearance of intent to build the MX, not the details of its basing, that registers in Moscow.

Hummel Pushes 'high-tech' For China

WASHINGTON — Arthur Hummel Jr., the U.S. ambassador in Peking, played a major role in the secret campaign to let American firms sell high-technology equipment with military usefulness to the Chinese mainland.

Hummel was born in China to American missionary parents and fought with the Nationalist Chinese in World War II. But now, in his dispatches to Washington, he portrays the Chinese Communist regime as an irreplaceable friend to be cultivated at all cost.

One highly-sensitive cable from Hummel was among more than 20 secret CIA and White House documents shown to my associate Dale Van Atta. A few of them were even classified with such exotic extra code words as "HOMER."

Referring to the sale of high-tech items to China, Hummel complained that the existing restrictions were too stringent, and claimed that Peking could circumvent them by purchasing technology for high-priority projects from other countries. So, rather than lose contracts to U.S. competitors, the restrictions should be either relaxed or eliminated entirely, Hummel argued.

Hummel urged that China be put in the same category for high-tech exports as India — a suggestion that ignores the fact that India is a non-communist democracy historically friendly to the United States. The ambassador strongly advocated the removal of nearly all national security controls on exports to China, even though he acknowledged that there is "some" risk in this.

That's putting it mildly. For the fact is that, with the kind of computers the Chinese can get under relaxed export controls, Peking could aim its nuclear missiles at U.S. targets instead of those inside the Soviet Union. Assuming eternal Sino-American friendship overlooks the dangerous possibility of eventual rapprochement between the two communist superpowers.

In fact, according to one top-secret intelligence estimate, the Chinese have already developed CSS-4 intercontinental missiles with "an expanded nuclear targeting capability, to include the continental United States." They will have 15 of these deployed by the end of the 1980s, the estimate states. Sophisticated American computers would make it easier for Peking to lob its nuclear warheads accurately on American targets.

None of this even takes into consideration the dozens of nuclear missiles China already has that can rain destruction on our Pacific allies. Perhaps for this reason, U.S. officials have not consulted with our allies over lifting the export restrictions, according to my sources.

Even an improvement in Chinese conventional military strength poses a threat to our Pacific friends, the Pentagon warns in a report that includes a geography lesson on proximity of China to our allies: 100 kilometers to Taiwan, 450 kilometers to Japan, 400 kilometers to the Philippines, etc.

WASHINGTON WORLD Watergate Scandal Revisited

By Clay F. Richards
UPI Political Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ten years ago this summer millions of Americans sat glued in front of their television sets as the drama known as Watergate unfolded in the Senate Caucus Room.

Public television brought those hearings back last week in a two-hour documentary titled "Summer of Judgment," relying heavily on the hours of taped hearings in the files of its Washington station, WETA.

It was a summer that made household names out of a couple of dozen senators, House members and key staff aides. The business of toppling the president of the United States was the kind of stuff that made American heroes.

The heroes that summer — Sen. Sam Ervin, the Bible-quoting constitutional expert from North Carolina; Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, the first Republican to blow the whistle on the leaders of his own party; Sen. Howard Baker, who bored through the politics and insisted on knowing what the president knew and when he knew it; and the others seemed frozen in history.

Now, 10 years later, their hero status has faded.

Baker has aged considerably, not from Watergate, but from a decade of frustration as minority and now majority leader of the Senate. He is about to retire from the Senate — some say to run for the presidency down the road. But that is a long shot.

Weicker has become even more of a maverick and has had to fight off not only Democrats, but challenges from within his own party to hold on to his seat.

Ervin has gone back to being a country lawyer.

Of the other members of the committee, Sens. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., and Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., would find their own integrity under attack before they retired from the scene.

Samuel Dash, the committee's chief counsel who relentlessly questioned each witness like a prosecutor building his case brick by brick, has spent a quiet 10 years back teaching law at Georgetown. His peaceful academic life is interrupted every year by reporters doing anniversary stories.

In those old Watergate hearing tapes there is always behind Ervin a boyish round face, often puffing a pipe. He was the chairman's counsel, Rufus Edmiston, who is now the attorney general of North Carolina. He is a favorite to capture the state's governorship next year and could become the first in the cast of characters to go places.

Over on the House side, none of those members who sat in judgment of Nixon on the Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings has changed much. Two, Republican William Cohen of Maine and Democrat Paul Sarbanes of Maryland, have moved to the Senate, but both hold marginal seats and have to fight for re-election every six years.

Polls Take Funding Toll

WASHINGTON (NEA) — So far, the 1984 Democratic contest has been unlike any that preceded it, and its uniqueness is hitting the candidates where it hurts most: in the pocketbook.

It's not because this contest has started any earlier, since past presidential primaries have been multi-year affairs. What makes this campaign different is the growing importance of the straw poll.

In the year before the primaries, the candidates generally travel, assemble a campaign staff, plan — and, above all, try to raise a great deal of money and spend as little as possible.

Most of the candidates are raising considerable sums, according to campaign-finance reports filed with the Federal Election Commission for the first six months of 1983. However, most of them are spending the money as fast as it comes in — or faster — which could be the major difference between this campaign and those of the past. Most of the candidates could be nearly broke by the time the first primaries take place in Iowa and New Hampshire.

The Democrats' big fundraiser has been front-runner Walter Mondale: In the first six months of 1983, he raised more than $5 million — about double what John Glenn collected. Even as Glenn rises in the polls, Mondale picks up $2 for every dollar Glenn collects.

But far more important than fundraising is how much the candidates had in the bank as of June 30 — and here, only Mondale had anything approaching a healthy balance. As of June 30, he had $1.9 million banked, with debts of about $250,000; Glenn had almost $700,000 saved, but already owed about half of that amount.

The other candidates are in significant financial trouble. California Sen. Alan Cranston is regarded as the solid No. 3 and as moving up. He raised more than $1 million so far this year, but is spending money much faster than he's making it: As of June 30, Cranston had less than $100,000 in the bank and debts of nearly $375,000 — and he borrowed almost $500,000 to reach that point.

Going into the primaries, Cranston's main competition for the No. 3 spot is Colorado Sen. Gary Hart, who may be in worse financial shape than Cranston. Hart has raised about $450,000 this year, but he has only a few thousand left and has debts of about $250,000. Unlike Cranston, he hasn't borrowed large sums, but he reportedly is negotiating a $350,000 loan to bail out his financially strapped campaign.

The candidates' financial woes stem largely from the rise of the straw poll. Although they should be spending very little now, the candidates have had to stage expensive mini-campaigns in order to place well in the states' straw polls. During Wisconsin's state Democratic convention, for example, Cranston provided transportation and hotel rooms for delegates backing him in the straw poll. For Alabama's Young Democrats convention, which also featured a straw poll, he chartered a riverboat and threw a party for delegates.

And the pace of the straw polls will pick up in the fall. Florida, New Jersey and Maine will hold rolls as part of their state party conventions; Iowa will hold one at its annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. Moreover, other state parties have eyed the publicity generated by these polls and are looking to do the same.

The straw polls have helped several candidates, especially Cranston, but the financial drain has been great. In fact, some candidates have announced major campaign changes due to lack of funds.

In a remarkably candid press conference, Sergio Bendixen, Cranston's campaign manager, told reporters that the campaign's financial state has led to a change of strategy. Cranston won't run everywhere and against all opponents, but will concentrate on running against Mondale in the early primaries.

Savages Ready For Regional Title Hunt

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

It's impossible to pinpoint the strengths of the Seminole Savages. This team has virtually no weaknesses.

The Savages, a 15 and under All-Star softball team out of the Seminole Softball club (Five Points), breezed through the Metro Tournament last week to earn a berth in to next weekend's 15 and Under Regional Tournament in Oxford, Alabama. Seminole is managed by Roger Richardson and coached by Don Jonas and Larry Korzou.

If the defense remains intact, and the offense keeps producing the runs, the Savages, which have a 26-8 record after six tournaments, will be tough to beat in the regional tournament. The top three teams from the region advance to the Nationals in Tifton, Georgia on August 18-21.

"In our first practice, we set a goal of going to the national tournament," Richardson said. "We have a better than 50-50 chance to make it to nationals. The key will be to win the first three games at regionals. The farther you get in the winner's bracket, the better chance you have of being one of the three teams to go to nationals. And we've already played several of the teams that will be in the regionals and done well against them."

The Satellite Beach Mets are the defending 15 and Under National Champions and will be favored to win the regionals. Seminole has already played Satellite Beach, losing a close game, 3-0.

The Savages and Metro Tournament runners up, the Conway Lovebugs, both qualified for the regionals although the Savages totally outclassed the Lovebugs in the Metro tourney. Behind a no-hit pitching performance by Chris Tibbitts and an eight-run first inning outburst, Seminole rolled to a 9-0 victory over the Lovebugs in the Metro title game.

In Tibbitts' no-hit game against Conway, the Savages' defense was at its best. Not one Conway runner made it as far as second base in the game and Seminole made only one error, that coming in the sixth inning with Seminole leading, 9-0. The Savages have given up more than five runs in only three of 34 games and Seminole has shut out its opponent eight times.

Girls' Softball

The Savages' infield has sure-handed Kristie Kaiser handling first base with Kelly Neary at second, Kim Waln at shortstop and Ava Gardner at third. The middle of the infield, Waln and Neary, is as talented as any. Waln has excellent range along with a fine arm and she is an intelligent player as well who knows what to do whatever the situation. Neary is a graceful player who is good around the bag in handling throws and turning over the double play. Gardner handles the hot corner with the best of them. She made a few fine plays to save Tibbitts' no-hitter against Conway. Gardner started as a freshman for Lake Howell.

The Savages also have two of the best pitchers around in Tibbitts and Beth Watkins. Both have excellent control and are fine fielding pitchers. Riane Richardson handles the catching duties for the Savages.

"The defense has always been strong," Richardson said. "The key for us will be hitting. In some tournaments we have hit well, but, in others we haven't hit at all. The defense will hold up, in fact, I would put our defense up against any."

In the hitting department, the Savages are strong throughout the lineup. Against Conway in the Metro final, Richardson and Tibbitts, the eighth and ninth hitters in the lineup, led the way with two hits each in three trips to the plate.

DeShetler provides both power and a good on-base percentage to the lead off spot. She has a .361 average in tournament play. Davis, a good contact hitter, is in the second spot. She brings a .357 average into the regional tournament. The third hitter is Neary, and when she's hot, she can tear up the opposition. In games three and four of the Seminole Softball Club Tournament, Neary collected six hits in eight trips to the plate and four of the hits were doubles. Neary has a .408 average. Gardner, Seminole's most powerful hitter, is in the clean up spot with her .394 average followed by Kaiser (.382), Waln (.361), Richardson (.356), Tibbitts (.275) or Watkins (.428) Jaudon Jonas (.258) and Eby (.419) May (.325) provides the punch either when she is in the starting lineup or off the bench. Jennifer Jonas has a .246 average while Jarrett, in limited playing time, has a .166 average.

Seminole will be leaving for Alabama (a 10-hour drive) Thursday morning at 8. The tournament draw is Friday at noon with the opening game Friday night at 6.

The Altamonte Senior League All Stars believe in themselves. They have from the very start. And, they have made believers of a lot of people who didn't believe in Altamonte when the All Star tournaments began.

"When we put this team together, the book on us was that we didn't have enough talent to go anywhere," manager Clayton Garrison said. "They said we would never get out of the loser's bracket in districts. Look where we are now, we're one of the four best teams in the state."

Neil Harris will be on the mound as Altamonte begins its quest for the state title tonight at 6 against Boynton Beach in the opening game of the Little League Senior State Tournament in Bradenton. And, no matter what anybody else says, Altamonte believes it can win the state crown.

The other two teams in the tourney are East Tampa Bay and Fort Myers. The winner of the state tournament advances to the Southeast Regional in Coral Springs (Florida).

Altamonte is coming off a pair of routs of Dunnellon which gave the Seniors the Section 1 championship. Altamonte beat Dunnellon, 19-7, on Wednesday and came back Thursday for a 16-1 rout behind the three-hit pitching of Harris.

"We knew we outclassed them (Dunnellon)," Garrison said. "But we didn't overlook them and went out and played good baseball. We have to continue to play well in the state tournament and we definitely can't overlook anyone here."

In its two games against Dunnellon, Altamonte rapped out 32 hits and scored 35 runs. Kevin Bass had six hits in the two games and he knocked in five runs. Andy

RYAN LISLE

Dunn had five hits in the two games including four doubles and he collected four RBI. Altamonte's bats have been on a tear lately and Garrison hopes they can stay hot for the state tourney.

"Everybody chipped in against Dunnellon," Garrison said. "And that's the way it's been for this team. If somebody is going into a slump then somebody else is coming out of one. Every player on this team has played a key role at one time or another."

With Harris on the mound, Altamonte will go with Bass behind the plate, Mark Coffey at first base, Dunn at second, T.J. Sculetta at shortstop, Mike Pinckes at third, Ryan Lisle in center field with Chris Waxler, John Bane or Kenny Oswald up for the other two outfield slots.

Kenny Chapdelaine will pitch the second game for Altamonte in the double elimination state tourney.

In the Little League Junior State Tournament at Winter Garden, Altamonte goes up against Fort Pierce Central tonight at 8 following the opening game between Fort Myers and Boca Raton at 5:30. The winner of the Junior State Tournament advances to the Southeast Regional in Eustis.

Altamonte will go with either Greg Ebbert or Jeff Hagen, both southpaws, on the mound tonight with Cory Prom the top reliever. "Both Terry (Hagen) and I feel Prom would be better in relief," manager Frank Messina said. "Ebbert or Hagen will get the start."

Altamonte advanced to the state tournament via a 12-0 rout of Jacksonville Highlands in the sectionals in which Ebbert hurled a no-hitter. Hagen picked up the pitching victory in the game that advanced Altamonte into the sectional finals, a 5-2 win over Tri-County.

Depth is a big advantage for the Juniors, especially in the pitching department. Altamonte has not had the same nine in the starting lineup in any tournament game yet. But, everybody who usually starts, does the job.

Porter Nudges Rogers, Wins End Of Month Championship

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Besting David Rogers by less than half a car length, LeRoy Porter drove the Hoosier-shod Lewis Green Firebird to victory in the 50-lap End of the Month Championship on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Earlier in the week, Rogers had made the wire services the hard way after flipping four times, while being clocked at 196 mph, qualifying for the ARCA 200 at Talladega.

Auto Racing

After being protested the previous week, thunder car pilot Joe Coupas came back strong, turning fast time, winning the heat and leading every tour of the 30-lap event which featured a well-matched 27 car field.

Once again, the Fords dominated the street stock action, with veteran Wild Bill Kinley of Forest City in the Big Wheel Mercury Cougar, barely topping the Mustang of young rookie Casey Hawthorne of Sanford.

Bob Clark won the four-cylinder feature in front of W.G. Watts who made some super moves coming all the way from the back of the large field, only to be impaired by broken headers in the closing laps.

Spectator races winner was Dale Clouser.

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — "It's a good thing the Hall of Fame doesn't have a dome over it," said one visitor to Sunday's induction ceremonies, "because they would have blown it sky-high with their cheers."

Those honored were Brooks Robinson, Juan Marichal, a 243-game winner in a career spent mostly with the San Francisco Giants; George Kell, former star third baseman with five American League teams; and Walter Alston, most successful manager in the history of the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers.

But the Baltimore fans made it Brooks Robinson Day at the Hall of Fame in an unprecedented show of support for their hero. Police estimated the crowd at 12,000 — at least 4,000 more than any previous estimate for an induction ceremony.

The shouts of 2,000 Baltimore Orioles fans rang out repeatedly during the two-hour ceremony, interrupting Commissioner Bowie Kuhn 11 times during his brief introductory remarks for Robinson.

He was given a 90-second ovation as he approached the microphone.

Robinson counted among his blessings "one which the players of today may never appreciate because of the changing structure of the game. I share this day with the people of my adopted hometown of Baltimore because they supported me on my good days and bad days."

Marichal, speaking in both English and Spanish to his native Dominican Republic, where the ceremony was televised live, said, "I never know if I choke in baseball, but I am very nervous today."

"The honor I accept on behalf of my family, my country and all the people who helped me be a professional baseball player."

All Star Football Game Ends In Tie

North kicker Tim Cook of Daytona Beach Father Lopez High missed a 32-yard field goal with two seconds left on the clock as the Sunshine State Games' Florida Athletic Coaches Association all-star football game ended in a 14-14 tie Saturday night at Orlando's Tangerine Bowl.

Early in the fourth quarter, West Palm Beach Cardinal Newman's Alonzo Jefferson returned a punt 73 yards for a touchdown and Carney added the extra point to tie the score at 14-14.

Games

In the Girls' Junior Olympic Basketball championship at Valencia Community College, Janis Washington and Loretta Pate poured in 19 points each to lead Central Florida to a 90-77 victory over Riviera Beach.

Sanford's Mona Benton added 13 points for Central Florida while Benton's Seminole High teammates, Maxine Campbell and Diedre Hillery had nine and eight points respectively. Three Seminole County residents placed first in their divisions in the International Trap Shooting championships of the Sunshine State Games at the Orange County Trap and Skeet Club.

Longwood's Travis Greyling was the high junior with 65 out of 100 targets while Homer Coss, also of Longwood, was the high veteran with 65 out of 100. Art Coomes, Altamonte Springs, won the Class D title with 59 out of 100 targets.

Mets Sweep Twinbill From Pirates; Indians Greet Corrales With Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chuck Tanner could find a silver lining in a potato sack.

Many managers would have cursed a blue streak or punched holes in the wall after the way the Pittsburgh Pirates lost a double-header to the New York Mets Sunday, but Tanner saw only the positive signs.

"We won three of five and we are in first place," said Tanner, who watched his team lose a pair of 12-inning contests, 7-6 and 1-0, in New York. "I'll take .600 the rest of the way and we'll win the division. Our two rookie pitchers (Lee Tunnell and Jose) DeLeon showed us they will be able to join our big three in the stretch run."

DeLeon certainly gave Tanner reason to feel optimistic. The 22-year-old right-hander from the Dominican Republic came within two outs of pitching a no-hitter and left the game after nine innings with a one-hitter.

The only hit DeLeon allowed was a one-out ninth-inning single by Hubie Brooks, who grounded a hanging curve through the hole into left field. DeLeon, who carried a no-hitter into the seventh inning in his previous start, struck out 11 and walked three.

DeLeon's performance was wasted when the Mets scored a run off reliever Manny Sarmiento in the 12th inning.

A.L./N.L. Baseball

The first-game loss was even more frustrating to the Pirates, who blew a 6-2 lead in the eighth inning. The Mets then won the game in the 12th on singles by Darryl Strawberry and Brian Giles, a walk to Tucker Ashford and a single by Bob Bailor.

Phillies 5, Cubs 2
At Philadelphia, Joe Lefebvre tripped to highlight a four-run fourth inning and John Denny picked up his 11th victory to help the Phillies.

Expos 6, Cardinals 5
At Montreal, Tim Wallach hit a solo home run with one out in the bottom of the eighth to break a 5-5 tie and lift the Expos.

Astros 9, Reds 2
At Houston, Phil Garner and Jose Cruz knocked in two runs each to key a seven-run seventh inning and Joe Niekro pitched a seven-hitter to pace the Astros.

Padres 5, Braves 2
At San Diego, Bobby Brown, called up from the minors 18 hours earlier, homered and singled in a run and the Padres pulled off the third triple play in the major leagues this season to defeat the Braves.

Dodgers 2-6, Giants 1-6

At San Francisco, rookie Jack Fimple singled and then scored on an error by rookie catcher John Kabb in the ninth inning to give the Dodgers a victory in the opener.

TORONTO (UPI) — Chances are the Indians will never fire manager Pat Corrales under the same circumstances that Philadelphia did. But they'd love to have the chance.

Corrales, dismissed earlier this month despite having the Phillies in first place, Sunday replaced ousted rookie skipper Mike Ferraro in Cleveland. The Indians made his debut a good one with a 16-11 rout of the Blue Jays at Toronto.

"I can't stand losing," Corrales said. "There's only one thing I like to do, and that's win."

At the time of the move, the Indians were 18 1/2 games out of first place in the Eastern Division with a 40-59 record.

Corrales owns a 292-279 record in his two managerial stints. The Rangers finished no lower than fourth under him.

Ferraro, the 38-year-old former New York Yankees coach, cited the high toll injuries took on his team.

Toby Harral went 5-for-5, including a bases-clearing double, for the Indians Sunday.

Orioles 6, Rangers 0

At Baltimore, Eddie Murray and Gary Roenicke slammed home runs to back the four-hit pitching of Mike Boddicker, 7-5, and pace the Orioles to their fifth straight victory.

Brewers 7, Red Sox 5
At Boston, Charlie Moore and Cecil Cooper doubled in runs to highlight a four-run ninth inning and rally Milwaukee to its 20th win in July and 22nd in its last 30 games.

Mariners 3, Twins 2
At Minneapolis, pinch hitter Manny Castillo's two-out double to the right-center field fence in the ninth delivered Ricky Nelson to lift the Mariners.

Angels 4, A's 0
At Anaheim, Calif., rookie Mike Brown drove in two runs with a triple and double and Geoff Zahn, 8-5, hurled a seven-hitter to help the Angels snap a five-game losing streak. Reggie Jackson hit his 14th home run.

Yankees 12, White Sox 6
At Chicago, Don Baylor capped a six-run 11th inning with a grand slam to spark the Yankees. Rich Gossage, 9-3, pitched three innings to gain victory.

Tigers 8-5, Royals 6-7
At Detroit, Alan Trammell doubled home three runs in the second inning and Aurelio Lopez earned his 16th save with four innings of relief in the opener to pace the Tigers.

Mrs. Timothy James Johnson

Susan M. Tindel and Timothy J. Johnson were married June 24 at the First United Methodist Church, Sanford. The Rev. George A. Bule III performed the candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Arnold Tindel, Orange Boulevard, Lake Monroe. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Johnson, Solandra Drive, Orlando.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white chiffon gown fashioned with a V-shaped yoke detailed with Wedgwood lace and satin ribbon. The same trim was repeated on the standup collar. She wore Cluny lace gauntlets to enhance the chiffon leg-of-mutton sleeves. A Wedgwood lace ruffle adorned the dropped, fitted bodice. A flourish of Cluny lace, Wedgwood lace and satin ribbons bordered the double full skirt that cascaded into a graceful chapel train. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, white miniature carnations and lavender baby's breath showered with white streamers.

Robin Tindel attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a lavender taffeta dress styled with a fitted bodice, schiffli lace yoke, puffed sleeves and a full gathered skirt. She carried an arrangement of pink miniature carnations, white pompons, purple statice and lavender baby's breath held by a brass vestal lantern.

Bonnie Bonner, Kay Taylor and Jerri Turner were the bridesmaids. Jeanette Tindel and Angie Tindel, nieces of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Melissa Tindel, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a white organza gown fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. Aaron Terraglio, nephew of the bridegroom, was the ring bearer.

Terry Knight served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers and groomsmen were Joe Johnson Jr., brother of the bridegroom; Mike Mullen, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and Franco Garcia.

The reception was held at the Sanford Police Benevolent Association.

Following a honeymoon trip to Clearwater, the newlyweds are making their home in Orlando. The bride is employed as a billing clerk at Longwood Lincoln Mercury Inc. The bridegroom is employed as an electrician by an electrical contractor.

A Show Of Thanks

and Nick Rizzo, manager of the Cavalier Motor Inn, Sanford. This year was the first time the aquatic programs were made available locally by the YMCA, thanks to the efforts of the motel owners. The "Y" managed to hold 11 classes for different levels of swim instruction during two four-week sessions, giving more than 200 children an opportunity to learn to swim.

Tickling By Force Is Not A Laughing Matter

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with your answers, but I think you came on a little too strong in your answer to "Tickled to Death in N.Y." Although for her tickling may be "torture" (as you called it), others find it highly erotic for both the "tickler" and the "ticklee."

I'm a 22-year-old guy whose girlfriend agrees that tickling combined with bondage has added a lot of zest to our sex lives. After being tickled to the point of near exhaustion, we are both highly aroused sexually.

For you to equate tickling with sadism and torture makes it sound like something evil. Torture causes pain and damage to the body; tickling does not.

Lighten up, Abby.

TICKLED TO BE TICKLED IN TRENTON, N.J.

DEAR TICKLED: Read on for a letter from another reader who was also less than tickled with my response. My answer is the same for both of you.

DEAR ABBY: I could not believe your response to "Tickled to Death in N.Y." You said, "Tickling is in reality a thinly disguised method of torture." Abby, that's absurd!

I have a 5-year-old daughter who loves to be tickled. In fact, she begs me to tickle her. To even suggest that in doing so I am torturing her is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard. I'm sure there are a lot of parents who tickled their children because the children enjoy it.

Dear Abby

There is nothing more pleasant than the laughter of children.

Please reconsider your foolish statement.

DISGUSTED IN FLORENCE, S.C.

DEAR TICKLED AND DISGUSTED: Tickled to Death" wrote: "At first it was a game between us, but it's gotten out of hand. Every time we're together, he pins me down and tickles me until I am hoarse from screaming and my lungs ache. I am very ticklish at the bottoms of my feet, my ribs and underneath my arms, and that's what he goes for. This is no laughing matter. He is driving me crazy!"

That kind of tickling goes beyond a mutual agreement. When brute force is used, it is clearly sadistic and can hardly be compared with tickling a child who begs to be tickled. (You wouldn't pin the child down and continue to tickle her while she begged you to stop, would you?)

Tickling during bondage may be highly erotic (I'll have to take your word for it), but all harmless game-playing must be a matter of mutual agreement.

In conclusion: Whatever the activity, if it is forced on one by another, that, my friends, is cruel and sadistic.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't hand out any prizes for the most insensitive mother-in-law in the world until you've heard about mine.

The first words she ever spoke to me, when my then-girlfriend called long-distance to tell her we were marrying, were, "Do you have any money?"

When she came on the train for our wedding (and to meet her future son-in-law), she first tried to fix her daughter up with "a lovely young man" she had met on the train!

The day before our wedding she told her daughter that she'd been to a psychic who told her that we would have a miserable marriage.

We were to be married by a judge in a simple civil ceremony, so as we climbed the stairs to the courthouse she said, "This couldn't be tackler if you had planned it."

PATCO Walkout Proved Costly

By Rich Nagle

United Press International
Memories of the illegal walkout of the nation's air traffic controllers two years ago have become nearly as faint and distant as the sound of a high-flying jetliner.

But many of the 11,543 men and women, who technically became criminals when they left the control towers, are still fighting the battle they lost on Aug. 3, 1981.

They were wed to their jobs and remain preoccupied with the problems that led to the strike, like a divorced couple that tries to manage the love-hate feelings of a relationship gone bad.

The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, which died when its members struck the federal government, has been reincarnated as a union that hasn't a single working controller as a member.

"I can't explain it to anybody," said John Fryc, a former PATCO local treasurer in Boston. "You became devoted to your job. It's hard to leave a part of your life behind. It's something I have to do."

The members of the United States Air Traffic Controllers Organization, more a social club than a labor organization, include salesmen, real estate agents, graduate students, convicts and those ex-controllers still unemployed.

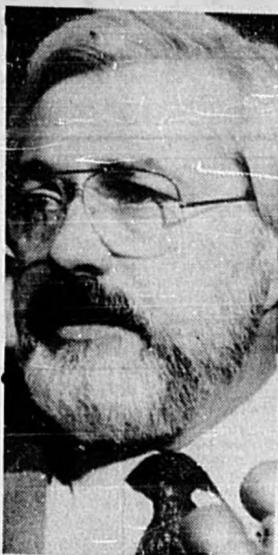

Many of the 2,000 people that USATCO claims as members doubt, despite appeals of their dismissals, they will ever go back to work for the Federal Aviation Administration, either by force or by choice.

After being jolted out of a career and in some cases facing the whole array of hardships and stresses that come with unemployment, they maintain the fight they conceded two years ago.

"It is a fouled up system in dire need of reform. Whether I'm part of the workforce is immaterial. It still needs to be revamped, and as a private citizen I'd like to feel it's safe to fly," said Wayne Preston, whose 17-year career as a controller ended at age 50 in Aurora, Ill. He now sells securities and tax shelters for a Utah company in Chicago.

Preston, like many of his colleagues, still believes PATCO had the right ideas but perhaps the wrong approach to change a system that a federal panel said still suffers from the many of the pre-strike problems.

The controllers, at an impasse with the FAA over pay, hours and working conditions, defied federal law and a no-strike oath they took,

ROBERT POLI

...former president of the air traffic controller's union, PATCO, which has been replaced by a union that doesn't have one working air traffic controller as a member. Many former controllers want their old jobs back; many don't. Most, however, still maintain they were right in striking.

believing their absence would shut down the nation's air traffic flow and bring a quick compromise from the government on system reforms.

"As a group we did not realize in our wildest dreams that they could maintain the traffic flow that they did," said Peter J. Foltz, a former controller in Indianapolis who remains jobless.

Foltz added a warning echoed persistently by PATCO members: "I'm still not convinced that it is safe. I know it can't be."

"In a political sense, we blew it," said Stan Bykowski, now a USATCO member in the Boston area. He held several odd jobs and spent three months out of work before launching a new career as a hospital administrator nine months after the strike.

But the firing order came down hard and fast, and controllers used to annual salaries between $25,000 and $45,000 suddenly found themselves in the cold. Most faced the prospect of no financial employment until four months after the strike when President Reagan allowed government agencies to accept — but carefully screen — applications and reject those deemed unsuitable.

The fired controllers were not to be considered to be rehired at the FAA until 1984. Some private firms shied away from the "troublemakers."

"They didn't want any rabble rousers. They said we made too much money, that we'll leave when we (as was first expected) got reinstated," Bykowski said.

"We are frowned upon," said Preston, whose son, also a controller, joined him in the walkout. "I am looked at as as more of a trouble maker, and employers would just as soon not get involved with that."

Shortly after PATCO was disbanded USATCO blossomed, first as a support group, later as a channel to keep former controllers in touch with each other and to spearhead the drive for reinstatement. The solidarity of the controllers at the time of the strike has diminished in numbers but not in fervor.

Some former controllers have looked at the bright side.

"I feel better. I was working turnaround shifts and wasn't spending a lot of time with my family," said Steve Conaway, a USATCO member, former 12-year controller in Detroit and a PATCO local vice president.

Others know their lives will never be the same.

Rick Cavanaugh, a former controller in Burlington, Vt., who now sells a subscription television service in the Boston area, said the stress of being out of work eventually led directly to his divorce.

"I think the strike has strengthened as many marriages as it has broken," said George Brandon, the district director for USATCO in Dallas.

Roger Thomas of Gardner, Kan., said, "Right now, nothing has changed in there (traffic control). So what would I be going back to? My wife does not want me to go back."

Bykowski agreed. "Why should I go back to that other job when I know they're going to kill me when I'm 45?"

Nonetheless, the ex-controllers do not doubt that the PATCO strike was a necessary evil.

"I think it had to be done," said James Logan, a former controller in Indianapolis. "There's been a lot of suffering, but if it was to be done over again, a great number of people would do it over again, including myself."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

New Acne Drug Has Bad Side Effects

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 20-year-old female with a very noticeable problem - bad acne. I've had it for seven years. I've been given a prescription by my dermatologist that he says will cure me in four months. The drug is Acucane.

It's new on the market. I realize there are bad side effects such as dryness of the mouth, eyes and nose. He also told me not to get pregnant while on this drug or I might create a "monster."

I haven't taken any pills because I worry that, if this drug is powerful enough to damage an unborn child, what will it do to my body five years from now?

What are the chances of my having a normal child in the future? Will the drug give me cancer later in life? Your advice would be greatly appreciated.

DEAR READER - It is a personal choice because acne will not harm your health, only your appearance. That can be very devastating to some people and it depends upon how much it affects your appearance.

The medicine is not for everyone by any means. It is not for the usual case of acne. It is as powerful as you suggest and it has enough bad side effects, mostly related to its causing dryness of the skin, to make you pause and think about using it unless you have a severe problem.

This new medicine is a derivative of vitamin A. There is no evidence that it will cause cancer. And while it can cause birth defects if taken during pregnancy, there is no evidence that it will have any such effect on future pregnancies. So don't refuse to take the medicine for those reasons.

Individuals with the usual degree of acne should first use all other methods to control the problem. These are outlined in The Health Letter 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated, which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Several months ago I was hospitalized with chest pains. After several tests my doctor ruled out a heart attack. His diagnosis was that I had pericarditis. I would like to know more about this. What causes it? I still get the chest pains but they do not last very long. I'm not taking any medicine.

DEAR READER - The pericardium is a sac around the heart. It looks like plastic wrapping material. One layer is plastered to the surface of the heart. The other layer is the loose-fitting sac around the heart that holds a small amount of fluid.

When the sac, the pericardium, is inflamed, it is called pericarditis. It usually involves the surface of the heart itself as well.

Such inflammations are usually viral, but they can be caused by chemical irritation as well. And some of the pericardium is often inflamed immediately after a heart attack.

The pain is usually different from a heart attack in that it is affected by respiration. And in most cases there is complete recovery without medicines.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 2, 1983

Substantial achievements are possible this coming year, because once you set your mind to something you'll display great determination and persistence in bringing it into being.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are an achiever today, but you are likely to derive more pleasure from going after things than in achieving them. The fun is in the chase. Order now: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveal romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to mix with active friends today rather than being a loner. Associating with doers will trigger your enthusiasm and add to your drive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Most of your efforts today may be spent on doing things for others, instead of for yourself. However, you're apt to share in what they gain.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're very good at dealing on a one-to-one basis today. Instinctively, you'll know what to say and do in order to keep others inspired.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't be hesitant to work hard on behalf of another today. You could be in for a surprise and discover you're working for yourself, too!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being considerate and diplomatic today doesn't dilute your strength. It adds to it. Associates will know you have clout even when you speak sweetly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do-it-yourself household projects will turn out to be more fun than they will be chores for you today. Scout around for what needs repairing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There comes a time when it's beneficial to break away from serious matters and seek fun involvements. Let your hair down today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Devote your energies today to matters which will make you and your loved ones more secure. Much can be accomplished now if you apply yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You need to become involved in the types of activities today which permit you to move around both mentally and physically. Get going.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It may be necessary to be a trifle assertive today in order to collect what's coming to you. Speak up if you've been overlooked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your possibilities for success look good today, because you're a dreamer with a purpose. When motivated by strong desires, you'll vigorously press on.

Oswald: "If West elects to attack with a diamond lead, South is going to get his king of diamonds to add to his eight sure winners and make his game contract. If West opens a spade, South can cash the four clubs, lead a diamond from dummy, hop up with his king and wind up down one if the defense makes no mistakes."

Jim: "We watched a devious South work out a way to make his contract in spite of the ace of diamonds being wrong for him. The play wasn't too good except that it did succeed."

Oswald: "He took all black winners, noting that East chucked a heart on the clubs. Then he led a low diamond and played his 10. West took his jack, cashed the last spade to get a diamond from dummy, a heart from East and a heart from South. Then West led a heart. South took his ace and threw East in with his last heart. East led the eight of diamonds."

Jim: "Now South decided to play East for holding the queen of diamonds and West the ace. He played a low diamond and made that king of diamonds in spite of anything East and West could do."
