FARM RELIEF BILL IS SENT TO PRESIDENT

Measure Will Launch Government Up on Price Lifting Campaign Of Huge Size

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(A.P.)—The special agricultural relief and inflation bill, launching the government on a price lifting campaign of huge proportions, was approved today by both Houses of Congress and lacking only a signature from the President.

It issued from Congress just as the department of agriculture flashed out figures revealing its lowest wheat production of the century, marking a start on elimination of the vast surpluses piled up in the past few years. The department reported the lowest winter wheat crop expectation since 1924.

The surpluses have been the insupportable factor in the battle for restoring prosperity to the American farm. Low production in the principal commodities this year has been regarded as the first essential to success for the admittedly experimental farm relief campaign.

The wheat project, together with the many indications of improving conditions in industry, quickly raised questions as to whether it would be necessary to use many of the powers conferred by the measure approved yesterday.

Secretary Woodin indicated the inflation power might not be invoked if the banking and economic restoration program was successful.

The bill gives unprecedented and sweeping power in the President to inflame credit and currency and to devalue the dollar down to 50 percent, and in the secretary of agriculture to raise commodity prices through marketing agreements, production control and a processing tax, with compensatory tariffs on competing foreign products.

The latter, however, will not be imposed during the tariff issue which is to precede the London economic conference.

It could not be signed yesterday because it lacked the name of Speaker Rainey, who was Vice President Garner, most apt to its passage through Congress. Rainey is expected to return to the capital today.

Final action in the Senate yesterday saw the Norris-Hoopes consent of production guarantee plan eliminated from the bill by vote of 43 to 22.

The Senate approved a House resolution eliminating the word "basic" from the section relating to licensing of farm product distributors.

This was done to make the section conform with provisions authorizing marketing agreements and would permit the secretary of agriculture to go outside the seven commodities named in the bill, if he so desired to help producers of other farm products through the marketing and licensing provisions.

The seven commodities specified by the measure are cotton, corn, wheat, hops, rice, tobacco and dairy products.

Stocks And Staples Rise On Buying Wave

NEW YORK, May 11.—(A.P.)—Stocks and principal staples swept up to new highs for recovery on the crest of another buying wave today. Trading in the share market hit the feverish pace of last week with extreme gains ranging from one to more than five dollars a share in many issues.

Cotton jumped a dollar, a half and wheat advanced two to three cents. Prices of sugar and rubber also inclined. United Pacific advanced more than five and other rails also increased.

PUBLIC BUILDING PROGRAM SPEEDS TOWARDS GOAL

Concerted Movement To End Unemployment Nears Start

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(A.P.)—The administration's encompassing program for bringing industry and a huge public works program together in a concerted movement against unemployment stepped forward today under the personal direction of President Roosevelt.

At a significant White House conference yesterday attended by high government officials and representatives of industry and labor, $3,000,000,000 was freed tentatively as the government's contribution to renewed purchasing power through public works, and a committee was named to work out quickly a plan for relaxing the anti-trust laws to permit co-operation by private enterprises.

Under this proposal, which, it was indicated, would swallow up the pending legislation on a 30-hour week, industry would be permitted to come together through trade associations to establish production, fix a minimum wage and regulate hours of work.

The draft upon which the committee was set to work is expected to embody the best features of a plan worked upon for weeks by a group conferring with Senator Wagner of New York and a bill already introduced by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts.

While designed to protect and preserve the basis of the anti-trust laws preventing monopoly, the measure would make the Sherman and Clayton acts sufficiently flexible to permit trade agreements under which a certain minority would be compelled to move with the majority of any industry.

The committee named by the Chief Executive to draw up the momentous bill which has been described by its supporters as "the most significant for industry in half a century" is composed of Senator Wagner, Assistant Secretary Dickinson of the Commerce Department, Secretary Perkins, Senator Walsh, Assistant Secretary Tugwell of the Agriculture Department and Hugh Johnson, chairman of the old war industries board and Donald Reiberg, spokesman for labor.

The House labor committee meanwhile moved ahead of the Chief Executive by reporting over the opposition of Secretary Perkins an alternative substitute for the Black 30-hour week bill, but barriers were raised in its path immediately.

HAVANA, May 11.—(A.P.)—In the presence of cabinet members, Presidential aides, and high army and navy officers, Sumner Wells presented his credentials as Ambassador to Cuba today in President Machado. The Ambassador and members of the embassy staff were escorted to the Presidential palace by the mounted presidential guard.

BONUS ARMY'S RANKS SWELL; GROUPS SPLIT

Men Are Given Tents, Hot Breakfast And Cigarettes With Administration Host

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(A.P.)—The ranks of the bonus seeking army swelled rapidly today but they were split into two antagonistic camps, one sheltered in the barracks housed by the government.

The only land of veterans had temporary headquarters in a vacant lot near the capitol but they were ordered by police to vacate before sundown.

Ten miles away at Fort Hunt, Virginia, scores of army tents housed about 300 who were given a hot breakfast and cigarettes by their host, the Roosevelt administration.

Police efforts to have the other fraction partake of government hospitality at Fort Hunt were unavailing. Meanwhile the President let it be known that economic relief would be effected through slashes in veterans' pay, except for service-connected disabilities which will be reviewed and made less severe.

Police acted swiftly last night to prevent repetition of last year's spectacular riot within the shadow of the capitol dome by ordering evacuation of the first 1933 bonus army camp.

Sharp words passed between the bluecoats and leaders of the "Hoosier" mob, headed by Harold Foulkrod when they were told to leave a vacant lot behind the House office building.

Inspector Albert J. Hendley notified the veterans that they must vacate within 24 hours because of lack of sanitary facilities.

Headly, Mike Thomas, of Camden, N. J., told Hendley that the group could be evicted "but many more are on the way." Thomas was in last year's army which was driven out by federal troops.

In view of camping arrangements provided by the government at Fort Hunt, across the city bonded debt reduced by $7000 in month of April.

This city's bonded debt was reduced by $7000 through the payment of taxes during the month of April, according to a survey of the balance sheet of the City as of May 1, 1933. The total outstanding bond debt is now $1,033,000 excluding accrued interest. During the month a $274,400 reduction was made in the paving assessment receivable account while there was a $180 reduction in each of the judgments payable in bonds and coupons, and the accrued interest payable accounts.

City's balance sheet as of May 1 is as follows:
Assets
Real estate	1,221,123.27
Personal property	1,221,123.27
Investment securities	22,500.00
Accrued interest on bonds	1,033,000.00
Other accounts	1,033,000.00
Liabilities
Notes payable	2,500.00
Accounts payable	1,033,000.00
Other liabilities	1,033,000.00
Total	1,033,000.00

LOCAL BILL PASSED

The Associated Press advised The Herald this morning that the Senate last night passed House Bill No. 887, introduced by Representative C. W. Eastman and E. J. Holly, to amend the Sanford City charter relative to the advertisement and sale of real estate for non-payment of taxes. This bill merely eliminates a certain lengthy unimportant duty which was required of City Clerk P. R. Lambson in making up a list of delinquent taxpayers each year.

"We're Going Some Place", Say Economists As Signs Show Business Is Better

(By The Associated Press) Improvements that caused economists to declare "we're going some place" dotted the American business map Wednesday. Scores of industrial, large and small from the Atlantic to the Pacific, sent reports of improved business that brought wage increases to many and re-employment to thousands.

The signs by which analysts discerned the nation's general economic health likewise were "favorable" railroad car output, larger electric consumption and general industrial prices reflected in the favorable business news, and there was an upturn in the annual trend of farm and commodity prices.

PROSECUTION HAS FINISHED CASE IN TRIAL OF MEANS

Many Witnesses Are Interrogated In Effort To Prove Case

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(A.P.)—The government completed its case yesterday against Gerton B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker, alphas "The Fox", on trial for conspiracy to swindle Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, who sought to ransom the Lindbergh baby, but the prosecution failed to get before the jury an alleged confession by Whitaker.

Left upon attorneys for the two, however, the lack of material from a closely-watched set of evidence, most of which already had been used against Means to secure his conviction and 10-year sentence for taking $104,000 from the society woman in the suspicious heist.

Yesterday it put witnesses after witnesses on the stand in District of Columbia supreme court, bent upon establishing that after the two money was obtained, the two arrived to get an additional $30,000 notionally to reinvest in the baby's kidnapping or other by Col. But reverse side the government when it questioned John M. Keith, (Continued on Page Five)

Tomorrow is Senior Day at Seminole High School, meaning that all seniors students are required to attend school and are to do as they wish. All pupils who were announced as on the Honor Roll also are given a day's holiday.

Because several beach and nearby lake parties are being planned by some of the 500 Senior boys and girls, and primarily because members of the faculty, particularly Mrs. R. C. Maxwell and Mrs. J. A. Wright, Senior class sponsors will be unable to provide proper chaperone for the parties, Prof. G. K. McKay of the school this morning announced that the faculty will assume no responsibility for any of the pupils of the school tomorrow.

Explanation Is Made Of How Farmer Will Be Affected By New Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(A.P.)—If you are a farmer, here is how the administration's price lifting and mortgage relief bill proposes to help you:
It collects all federal-owned cotton into one pool, to be sold to pattern on credit, provided they reduce acreage. Later it will be sold by the government, with profits going to the farmer.
Secretary Wallace is authorized to:
Proclaim a processing tax on the seven basic commodities, wheat, cotton, corn, rice, tobacco, hops and dairy products, sufficient to increase their price in 1932-1934 levels for all but wheat, for which the level would be the average 1919-25 price; and approve market agreements with those who buy from the farmers, to permit them to pay the farmer more.
Receipts from the taxes would be paid back to the farmers in direct benefits or through leasing land to get it out of production, if they reduce their production. The payment will be in accordance with the decrease in output.
To promote foreign markets for American farm products, and pay the benefits until tax receipts are sufficient, the bill appropriates $103,000,000 from the treasury to (Continued on Page Five)

HOUSE TALKS ABOUT BEAUTY; SENATE ACTS

Upper Body Receives New Bond Debt Refunding Proposal For Arbitrations

TALLAHASSEE, May 11.—(A.P.)—While the House continued its argument over a bill to regulate beauty culture, the Senate today passed the House approved bill to refund the state hotel commission. The bill was amended to cut the salary of the commissioner from $4,000 to $3,000.

The Senate received a new bond refunding plan which would set up a commission of three to investigate and decide what differences between bond holders and debt governmental units, Findings of the commission would be for arbiters to carry out.

A bill by the House finance committee to set up a scale of five, ten, fifteen, and twenty dollars for automobile license tags was introduced, and referred to the committee on motor vehicles on 2 readings.

The House also received a proposed constitutional amendment to provide power of initiative and referendum allowing county electorates as well as the Legislature to enact laws.

Among bills signed yesterday by Governor Dave Sholtz were: Senate 288—To amend laws relating to final judgments against surety companies and providing for surety companies.
Senate 128—Relating to issuance of preferred stock of banking companies.
Senate 310—An act regulating sums of petit jurors in all courts.

Jap Airplanes Fly Over Peiping Giving Rise To Grave Fear

1,200 Americans Are Incarcerated In Foreign Colony Of Old City; Marines Are Ready

PEIPING, May 11.—(A.P.)—A Japanese bombing plane circled over this ancient city today and was fired upon by Chinese police machine gunners, but it flew too high for the fire to be effective. It was the first real war scare for the old capital, residence of 1200 Americans, since the Sino-Japanese hostilities began.

Americans included more than 600 marines who are prepared to fight in the defense of foreign colonies. From the bombing plane there rained handbill warnings of war. "Cease opposing Japanese and Manchukuan" the handbill read. "Break away from Marshal Chang Kai Shok".

If the Chinese fail to heed the demand, the warning said the "tragedy of Kupelkew will occur in Peiping and in Tientsin".

Revenue From Beer Licenses Is Below Expectations Here

If the State of Florida expects to realize as much as $3,000,000 annual revenue from the sale of beer and light wines, some of the officials had better come to this section and put on a high-pressure campaign, at once today the total license fees collected from 18 permits that have been issued by Tax Collector J. D. Jinkins since Monday are only $265 for the state and $182.50 for the county.

At the same hour only two city licenses had been issued, totaling $35, although seven of the 18 permits issued went to persons who either are or expect to operate within the city limits.

Beer sales have fallen noticeably, according to a check-up of the three down-town sections selling the beverage. One place had sold out before noon Tuesday; another had disposed of six cases of 12 bottles each before sundown Tuesday, while the third place had not held out because its proprietor had managed to secure a large shipment of beer.

Tax Collector Jinkins Tuesday night sent Comptroller J. M. Lee a check for $240 representing state taxes collected from the following persons: E. H. Bennett, W. W. Warner, R. E. Staley or Little Monroe, P. J. Angel, The Smokehouse, W. A. Hampton at Wagner, F. T. Meriwether, J. W. Wright, Dick Constantinian, and F. Corneil. Yesterday afternoon Captain C. J. Hallitt secured a license for the Fort Park Dunes and Garden Club. The county share was one-half of the state's share, so that a total of $125.00 has been collected for the county so far.

STATE HEAD OF LEGION GIVES CUBAN SPEECH

Scott Opposes Change In Law On Arsenic Use

Concluding he said: "No responsible commander of veterans in 1932 could be inensible to that phenomenon of veterans' affairs known as the bonus march to Washington. Every person of mental maturity saw from the start where that phenomenon led to end—in disaster and bitterness and death. The Legion was powerless to prevent that mistake. But it is the duty of the legion to intercede for World War veterans where possible and I regret that responsible leaders of the legion did not brand that movement for what it was from the beginning and thus attempt to avoid the debacle that had to ensue. The activity did the veterans more harm, if possible, than the Fordland resolution on the bonus. It will take a long period of useful and constructive service by the legion and other legitimate veterans' organizations to overcome the fear and resentment engendered by that march."

"Our delegates to Portland straddled on the bonus question, voting 8 to 2. The whole convention, by a vote of 10 to 1, resolved to demand 2 billions of dollars from the American tax payer as a payment would have been $1,525,000.00 more than the then accrued worth of our bonus certificates which we had willingly accepted from our government as a satisfactory adjustment of our war-time earnings. The 10 to 1 did not say and cannot say that the part of this was due, or that the 4,000,000 veterans were suffering more or differently than other people. It was an unreasonable and unreasoning demand that the American tax-payer give each veteran $458.00 that the tax-payer and veterans knew was neither due nor owing. And the result was that the country lost confidence in the veterans and in the Legion and turned unfriendly guns of publicity on us—and we are temporarily defeated and undone."

"What can and should the legion do about this sad plight to which we have let outside leaders bring us? I gladly give you my opinion and recommendations.

"1. Let the Legion return to its principles and its leaders and follow them, and be done forever with having its policies dictated or interfered with from outside.

"2. Let the Legion identify its program of patriotic and community service and convince the public in which we may be very sure considerable improvements will not be given full publicity.

"There is already a strong prejudice in the public mind everywhere against food products in connection with the provision of their essential or other purposes. The materials have been said that residues can not be dissolved by explanation or theorizing as to the supposed harmlessness of the manner in which the materials were utilized. The public would not give its attention to scientific theorizing along that line.

"We must also keep in mind the importance of the attitude of the medical profession toward our citrus. One of the most powerful factors in developing the general use of citrus fruits during recent years has been the active sponsorship of the use of these products by the medical profession. This active favorable attitude of the profession in the past has been based upon the assumption of the use of fully and naturally matured fruit, and we could not ask or expect the doctors of the country to continue their active promotion of the use of fruits whose full maturity was counterfeited, by keeping silent to implyly their approval thereof. The consequence, of a reversal of the attitude of the medical profession with respect to our Florida products would be disastrous.

"These same aspects affect our export market which during the past few years has developed into such an important outlet for Florida grapefruit that the attitude of foreign governments and our foreign trade in matters of this kind becomes of great consequence. There is ample reason to believe that in our grapefruit production would result in distinctly unfavorable reactions from those quarters, as has happened in the case of some other lines of fruit in the past, with resulting inconvenience of necessity under international agreement and official certification by those lines of fruit when intended for export, and all of which complications we certainly should attempt to avoid if possible.

"In addition to all the foregoing it is our belief that the use of these materials by the citrus industry affects the entire industry as a whole and also because without elaborating on this particular aspect, it is certainly admitted that excessive use of arsenical materials promptly results in serious damage to a citrus grove. We are of the opinion that even when used in smaller quantities the effect is cumulative and after a time results in a lessening of vitality in the trees, the production of a disproportionately large amount of small and inferior quality fruit and consequent depreciation as a grove property with resultant depreciation in property value. The possible consequences of such results to the citrus industry in particular, and to the state in general of course, should not be ignored.

"We have hardly gone more than outline the principal reasons against permitting the use of arsenical materials in citrus fruit production from the standpoint of

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

TASTE AND SEE: O LORD, how sweet the Lord is good, blessed is the man that trusteth in him.—Psalm 34:8.

NO DOOR YET FASHIONED—

I never could believe that Death rides by, Godlike, on that pale steed, with fiery sword.

That's in some ancient woodcut, but for me Death is a blind old tramp who walks abroad

On foot and fumbling, with a cane that taps Sharply before him on the cobblestones,

Or muffled dull on some brown country road. Blind as a mole he goes, and wrinkled crones

Are one to him with sprightly boys and girls. Stepping as light as dew on morning grass.

No door yet fashioned may withstand his knock. Hasty of hinge, or set with plate of brass,

So he goes, blundering down the centuries, And who can guess the season, name the year—?

Draw closer, Love, is that your heart's quick beat, And not a distant tapping that I hear?

Looks like the granite report bill is a rap for legislators.

In order to protect capitalists, the Senate would make kidnaping a capital offense.

Information from Tallahassee is to the effect that amendments to the Sholtz Refunding Bill are making it more agreeable to all parties concerned.

Newspaper comments indicate almost unanimity of opinion on Roosevelt's radio voice. Even Republicans are compelled to admit that he is some talker.

The Miami Herald says that 78,000 rounds of ammunition bound for Cuba were seized by customs patrols about 75 miles south of Miami. We'll bet a hat some of it came from Sanford.

The two million dollar beer revenue estimate seems to have been little large judging from early reports on consumption. It seems more likely that the state will not get more than one million or possibly 600 thousand dollars out of it. But that might have been expected. People who can't buy fire are not likely to spend 25 cents a bottle for beer.

Washington correspondents have been predicting for some time that the anonymous would soon be over, and already we notice that some form of organization is demanding the removal of Secretary Wallace, the Navy League is launching a campaign for his removal, and another group is organizing for another bid on Washington. Unusually, the head that wears a crown, as Herb Hoover used to say.

The latest draft of the Glass Banking Act contains a provision for partial guarantee of bank deposits. Small deposits up to $10,000 would be guaranteed in full. Deposits from $10,000 to $50,000 would be insured for 75 percent of their amount. While large deposits would be insured for 50 percent. The insurance would be provided by a two billion dollar corporation which would be capitalized by $100,000,000 from the federal treasury, a similar amount from the federal reserve banks, and the rest from member banks. It is one-half of the amount of their deposit liabilities. Fortunately the guarantee will be confined to federal reserve member banks which under proper supervision won't need it. What will happen if the state banks get a guarantee, is another question.

Interesting News

Good and bad news seem to be vying for favored positions on daily newspapers during this period of rapidly changing events in the history of nations.

In the one and same issue we read that Paraguay has formally declared war on Bolivia, although the two countries have been fighting one another for many months. The action is significant since it marks the first official declaration of war since the League of Nations came into effect. In another column is an account of continued Japanese advances against the Chinese, pressing on perilously close to the ancient capital city of Peiping and Tientsin. A stray bombing plane of the Mikado flies over Peiping and is fired upon by Chinese machine gunners while the civilian population, including 1200 Americans, look skyward in frightened amazement at the nearness of hostilities. At the same time more than 500 marines prepare to aid in the defense of the foreign colonies.

We skip a column or two and pick up a headline stating that the vanguard of the bonus army has reached Washington, that the police are making plans for any contingency and we recall the serious situation which occurred last summer and which resulted in the forceful eviction of the former soldiers.

Under a double column head at the bottom of the page we read that German students burned 20,000 "un-German" books in a huge bonfire in the public square. The writers who came under the Hitler ban include several Americans: Upton Sinclair, Jack London, Helen Keller, and Frank Rowland. But all is not bad news on this particular front page. In the first column is a story about business showing a decided upward trend in the United States. Re-employment increases, Carolanings mount. Steel output is steadily gaining. There is a larger electric consumption, and general industrial upturns are reported.

A dispatch from London states that the eight principal nations of the world are expecting the acceptance of the American proposal for a tariff truce pending the outcome of the world economic conference. Two other stories on the same page give accounts of the impetus being given the program for public works and of the passage of the farm relief bill, which will be signed soon by the President.

These are interesting days for the person who realizes that we are passing through, perhaps, one of the momentous periods in the history of the world, and who follows the kaleidoscopic events in the daily newspapers.

Don'ts For Swimming

Unusually warm weather during the past few days is not the only positive indication we have that summer is practically here. Recently the Daytona Beach Sun Record broke out with a long list of "Don'ts" prepared by the Daytona Beach Lifeguard Corps for the purpose of safeguarding the lives of those who like to swim in the ocean. Persons who heed the advice given in the following list will have few difficulties at Daytona Beach:

- Don't swim out in the ocean too far.
- Don't swim too close to the piling near the pier.
- Don't ever call for "HELP" in a spirit of play.
- Don't feel too embarrassed or too proud to call for help.
- Don't ask friends to go into deep water if they can't swim well.
- Don't leave valuables in your cars, or wear valuables into the water.
- Don't let your children run across the beach alone.
- Don't bring dogs to the beach unless on leash.
- Don't throw rubbish or break bottles on the beach. Keep your beach beautiful.
- Don't hesitate to report to any lifeguard tower for First Aid treatment.
- Don't take the buoys or rope off guard towers unless to use for life saving purposes.
- Don't park your auto in front of or too close to the life guard towers.
- Don't crowd around the guards in case of an accident.
- Don't drive your car at a fast rate of speed by bathers.
- Don't pull or hang on the rope around the Children's Protected Areas.
- Don't swim outside the protected area.
- Don't ride on running boards, fenders or the outside of automobiles on the beach.
- Don't use inflated inner-tubes while bathing. They are dangerous.
- Don't swim immediately after eating. A swimmer in this condition is liable to sudden exhaustion, sickness, and stomach cramps.
- Comply with the cautions of the lifeguards. Their advice is intended for your welfare.
- Bathers can help the guards as well as themselves by complying with these "DON'TS".

TO THE WOODSHED, GOVERNOR

"ROOSEVELT IS A SWELL FELLOW"

BY I. F. WING
In Atlanta Constitution

"Roosevelt is a swell fellow," said a member of the K. P. detail at the civilian conservation camp Wednesday at Fort McPherson. "And that goes double for the army men. There ain't nobody hungrier around here," he continued, nonchalantly balancing a sailor cap atop his slick blond hair and selecting an onion from a huge pile. With his tentmates he was doing this detail on K. P. with a grin.

Around the huge sinks where cooking utensils were being scrubbed in shining cleanliness under the watchful eyes of Horseley, regular army cook, there was a contented hum of talk. Very like a gathering of high school pupils on opening day. One blue-eyed youngster brandishing a broom with vigor paused to display proudly his identification tag, very like the dog tags worn by the soldiers. Fashioned of brass with C. C. C. and his number stamped below, the disk was worn around his neck on a cord.

When queried as to how he got into the C. C. C., he said that "he put in for it, got looked up, and, after three medical examinations, what was left of him reported for duty." He was eager, alert, filled with future plans, and was certainly going to "reup" when his required six months were over. He hoped to go to Muscle Shoals to work for the government. The way he said "government" made one stand a bit straighter and hear afar off the sound of bugles and glimpse a proud nation in the shadow of the flag. Truly Roosevelt is a swell fellow.

There are some 250 men at the camp, the first of the 700 to be sent to Fort McPherson. Bunk beds with wooden floors erected in long rows on the hillside near the Q. M. storehouse at the garrison, house the men. There are six men to a tent and army bunks, lockers and chairs are allotted the occupants. Captain Druid E. Wheeler, commanding officer of Company G, of the 22nd infantry, is the camp commander, and under his capable supervision the camp presents a business-like appearance. He is assisted by Lieutenant Crump Garvin as mess officer and Lieutenant George Duncan as supply officer. A reserve officer, Lieutenant Hunter, of Atlanta, completes the roster of officers detailed for the camp.

There are clerks, carpenters, mechanics of various trades, cook's assistants, painters, plumbers, butchers, bakers and candlestick makers represented in the camp's personnel. Under careful selection each man is allotted work to which he is accustomed and instruction is given in that chosen line. Questioning failed to reveal a barber among the group and various members cast an apprehensive eye at the barber's chair and small shop being rigged up for the use of the corps. Captain Wheeler relieved the sus-

ECONOMIC NATIONALISM

By HAROLD SCARBOROUGH

LONDON, May 10.—When such as the United States. Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald returned on Wednesday from his Washington trip he expressed optimism as to the prospects for the World Economic Conference and his opinion was promptly echoed by newspapers and politicians generally. Yet there is an increasing number of thoughtful Englishmen who have not much hope that the conference will result in any benefit for this country in particular, or for the world in general. Their viewpoint is such a challenging one that it at least deserves to be brought to the attention of the American public, even though as yet it has found little sponsorship in the press or in Parliament.

Briefly stated, this opposition attitude is that the economic conference is foredoomed to failure because it will be conducted on out-of-date lines. This view of the possibility of increasing world trade by lowering tariffs or establishing customs unions. In fact, it holds that world trade is bound to decrease whatever efforts are made to revive it, simply and solely because the conditions which made it possible and profitable are passing away.

What the world is now witnessing—it is held—is the final phase in the industrial revolution. This argument is developed something like this: During the period extending, roughly, from the American Revolution to the World War the application of power to industrial processes was revolutionizing production. In this time certain nations, either through possession of natural resources or adaptability of the population or other circumstances, gained a differential advantage over the rest of the world, turning themselves into workshops, and drawing an increasing proportion of their food and raw materials from overseas.

But the war of 1914 at once showed the fatal weakness in the position of those nations which had carried the industrialization process furthest within a limited area—such as England—and the enormous strength of resistance inherent in reality in the more self-contained nations, such as Germany. Therefore, after the war there developed economic nationalism, primarily as a means of self-defense, but fostered by the high tariff policy of nations required to send $25 home to their families. Allotments are made out to mothers, fathers, younger brothers and sisters and grandparents. An oath of enrollment is required of those entering the corps, and loyalty to the oath is expected.

'Central Airport' To Be At Milane Today

Richard Barthelmess zooms into town in his latest First National picture "Central Airport" today for a two day engagement at the Milane Theater. This thrilling air story is unusual in that it glorifies the commercial flyers of peace, rather than the birdmen of war, and it is said that "Central Airport" tops anything ever filmed in a picture of this nature in breath-taking flying scenes, romantic love, and unusual story content.

One of the most fascinating love triangles is formed between Dick, who believes a flyer's place is in the sky, not in the home, his younger aviator brother Tom Brown, whose viewpoint is just the opposite, and the girl, Sally Eilers, who wants Dick's love but Tom's security.

Barthelmess plays the role of a commercial pilot who cracks up with a plane filled with passengers. Disoriented he resorts to stunting with a traveling air circus, which provokes the colorful story with many intensely gripping scenes. After losing his sweetheart, Barthelmess enters free lance piloting with a savage recklessness, seeking danger in far off places, always to come through unscathed because of his unswerving ability.

William A. Wellman, a decorated World War aviator as well as being one of Hollywood's foremost directors, photographed "Central Airport". In his fine cast supporting the stars are Gloria Farrell, Harold Hubert, Claire MacDowell, and James Murray.

Friends of Miss Margie De Rose, who underwent an operation last week at the Fernald Loughton Memorial Hospital, will be glad to learn that she is improving and has been removed to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dufosse, Oak Avenue.

IOWA'S GOVERNOR SOUNDS WARNING ON FARM STRIKE

Says Troops Will Be Ready To Deal With Any Disturbances

DES MOINES, Iowa, —With a jump of 75 cents in the price of hogs and a 75 cent jump in the price of corn during the same period, Governor Clyde L. Herring, Democrat, said today that he has no earthly reason for any money business in Iowa such as has been scheduled by the National Farm Holiday Association in the form of a food strike, to begin May 12. Troops which he intends to call out of the disturbance areas in the northwestern section of the state will be warned to be ready for any such "monkey business."

Nine months ago, when Dan Turner, Republican, was governor of this state, Milo Reno, chief organizer of the Holiday movement, called a halt by the farmers on delivery of foodstuffs which led to picketing, maltreatment of men who insisted on bringing their produce into towns and pitched battles between sheriffs' deputies and strikers. Governor Turner, although begged to do so by practically every urban population in the state, refused to call out the troops and to declare martial law. According to Governor Herring no such appeals will be necessary this time. "Just one such instance of fulfillment," he said today, "will bring the military to the road-sides."

The governor said that he believed the troops sent to Plymouth and Crawford counties following the assault on Circuit Judge J. C. Bradley and the riots in Iowa farms during foreclosure sales had gathered in the majority of the "hunger" and added that they would be dealt out speedily.

"One of the biggest ones got away on me," he said, "and he went to California. I'm not going to wait any Iowa money trying to get him back, but he better stay clear of this state as long as I am governor."

The governor was told that his military commanders in the trouble zones seemed to view the future with apprehension and had given it as their opinion that there would be more outbreaks in the radical northwestern sections, but he scoffed at such an alarmist view.

"I farm 1,200 acres, and nobody is fooling me," he said. Turning to mortgage foreclosure moratoriums, the governor said the great eastern insurance companies who hold millions of dollars of farm mortgages in Iowa had been more than generous in the matter of withholding fore closure proceedings.

"But that doesn't apply to the joint stock banks in the state," he continued. "They're just highwaymen pure and simple. They foreclose at the slightest pretext and their loans are gauged so tight that there's no room for foreclosing, even in the limit through which we have been passing."

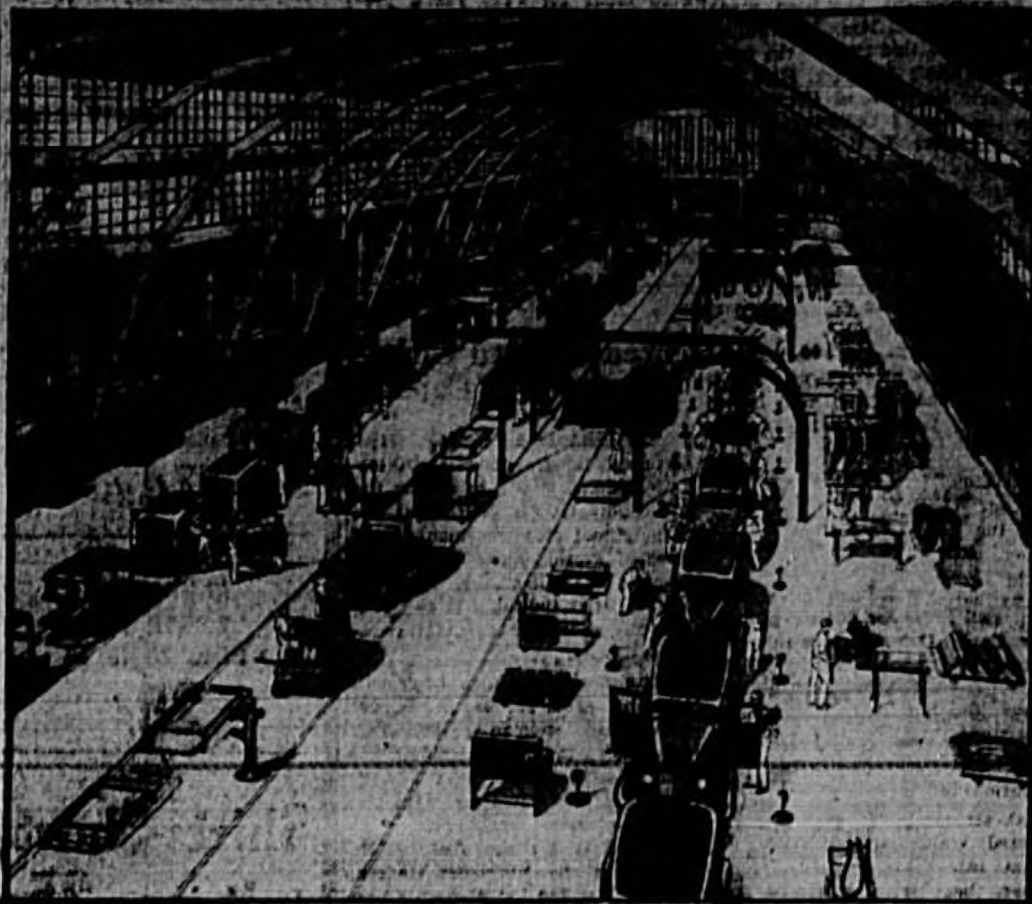

"As to the individual mortgage holders, this type is hard on the farmer, but there's a lot of justice on the holder's side. Here's a letter that's typical. An old couple spent forty years on their farm and had it all aid for. They decided to rest during their remaining 20 years and they sold the place three years ago for $3,000 down and took a mortgage for $12,000. They got $2,000 in cash and they can't collect a penny on that $12,000. The farmer on the land threatened with eviction, is raising hell, but he has 'foot' on that land and a roof over his head. Here in Des Moines the poor old couple is on emergency relief."

Parley Of Mayors Finding It Hard To Answer Questions

CHICAGO, May 11.—Telegrams hand letters from mayors inquiring about the use of scrip, license fees, unemployment relief and other immediately pressing municipal problems are keeping the headquarters of the conference of Mayors here working night and day, according to Paul V. Betters, secretary.

Cities having delinquent taxes and finding it increasingly difficult to secure bank loans are seeking new methods of financing current activities, Mr. Betters said. Because of many inquiries regarding the issuance of municipal notes and warrants, he said, the conference prepared this month several reports which were sent to all mayor members concerning the various types of what is popularly known as scrip.

Radical Clique In Scottsboro Case Seen As Harmful

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Public opinion in the Scottsboro case turned against Communist and radical groups for interference in the trial, recently, as formal sentence of capital punishment was passed on Heywood Patterson by Judge James E. Horton in Morgan county circuit court.

A feeling that the ends of justice would be better served in dealings with the negroes if racial agencies and individuals would refrain from interfering, is generally expressed. This viewpoint has been expressed, also, by the Alabama Interracial Commission which contends that organizations like the International Labor Defense are more interested in spreading their own political views among the southern negroes than in saving the defendants in the Scottsboro case.

"We desire to put the people of Alabama on guard against certain sinister alien influences which at this time are seeking deliberately to sow discord between white and black," says a recent statement of a committee of the commission, of which Dr. Henry M. Edmunds, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, is chairman.

The incidental operations of J. P. Morgan & Co. have not been examined since the "money trust investigation" in 1911, a congressional inquiry headed by Representative Arsene Pujo.

Private bankers, such as J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co., are allowed by law to make their own regulations, and are not supervised by any public authority. Their operations, therefore, are unknown to financial and industrial circles generally.

Some weeks ago, J. P. Morgan & Co. objected to some of the questions which Ferdinand Perros, investigating counsel, proposed to ask them, on the ground that he had no authority to demand such information from a private partnership.

New R-D-R process insures FRESHNESS in Gulf

That's why it's important—always—to get fresh gas. And Gulf gas is always fresh. Gulf's high-speed delivery system rushes fresh Gulf Gas to the pumps. And that gas STAYS FRESH LONGER, due to Gulf's exclusive R-D-R process—a process that actually delays deterioration.

Whether you buy Gulf Gas in the city where it's refined or on a lonely road miles away... that R-D-R process insures you're getting FRESH gas—lively, peppy gas—packed with power and mileage. Try a tankful—today! Doesn't cost a penny more!

"This fly-rod has its whip and liveliness because it's old," says the chemical engineer. "Something's got out of it that never returns. The same thing happens to gas. As gas gets old it gets weak... lifeless. The 'light ends'—the most important parts of gas—have evaporated and don't return." So it pays to get only FRESH Gas—Gulf Gas!

5 important facts about fresh Gulf gas

On the basis of months of experiments made independently by a famous Chemical Laboratory, Gulf offer these findings to motorists:

- Fresh Gas starts faster than stale gas.
- Fresh Gas gives you more power than stale gas.
- Fresh Gas gives you more mileage.
- Fresh Gas is higher in anti-knock rating than stale gas.
- Fresh Gas is cleaner-burning—contains less motor fouling residue than stale gas.
