Court: Gerrymandering Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that gerrymandering is unconstitutional, but said minority parties must show a challenged reapportionment scheme makes it impossible for them to win for more than one election.

The high court, acting in an Indiana legislative reapportionment dispute, found that state Democrats were unable to prove they had been so disadvantaged by Republican-drawn maps that they would be consigned to minority party status for years to come.

The ruling, which had shifting majorities on various issues, reversed a December 1984 decision by a three-judge federal court, which said partisan gerrymandering in Indiana discriminated against Democrats in violation of the Constitution.

Writing for the court, Justice Byron White said, "Relying on a single election to prove unconstitutional discrimination is unsatisfactory."

"The district court observed, and the parties do not disagree, that Indiana is a swing state," White wrote. "Voters sometimes prefer Democratic candidates and sometimes Republican. The district court did not find that because of the 1981 (Indiana reapportionment) act the Democrats could not in one of the next few elections secure a sufficient vote to take control of the assembly.

"... Without findings of that nature, the district court erred in concluding that the 1981 act violated the Equal Protection Clause," that part of the Constitution promising all citizens will be treated the same way by the law.

The Supreme Court ruled also today the Constitution does not give homosexuals a fundamental right to engage in sodomy.

The court, in a 5-4 ruling, upheld Georgia's anti-sodomy law in a case begun by Michael Hardwick, who was arrested by Atlanta police for violating the law, an offense that can be punished by 20 years in prison.

The state had appealed to the high court to overturn a ruling by the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that ordered a trial in a dispute over the constitutionality of the sodomy law, which applies to all people and makes oral and anal sex a crime.

Underlying the specific legal issue of whether the case should go to trial is the broader question of how far the constitutional right to privacy, gleaned from various provisions of the Bill of Rights, extends into the bedrooms of America.

The court, which has extended the right to privacy to questions concerning marriage, child bearing and child rearing, and education, refused to extend it to homosexual activity. "We think it is evident that none of the rights announced in those cases bears any resemblance to the claimed constitutional right of homosexuals to engage in acts of sodomy that is asserted in this case," Justice Byron White said for the majority. "No connection between family, marriage, or procreation on the one hand and homosexual activity on the other has been demonstrated either by the Court or Appeals or by (Hardwick)."

Wheeling So Others May Walk

Canadian wheelchair athlete Rick Hansen, 28, Vancouver, British Columbia, rolls north on Highway 17-92 near the Five Points Intersection south of Sanford Saturday during his 25,000 mile fund raising tour around the world. Hansen, paralyzed from the waist down in a truck accident when he was 15, is circling the globe to raise money for spinal cord injury research and rehabilitation, and to promote wheelchair athletics. So far, he has crossed 33 countries, and raised about $150,000. The trip ends next March, at his home. A supporter and his van trails him.

Live-In Boyfriend Charged In Shootings

7-Year-Old Boy Murdered, Mother, Sister Wounded

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A 49-year-old Longwood man has been charged with murder in the shooting death of his live-in girlfriend's 7-year-old son, and with two counts of attempted murder in connection with the shooting of the boy's mother and his 15-year-old sister.

He was being held without bond in Seminole County jail early today.

Oswaldo Lorenzo Acosta of 226 Berkshire Circle W., is accused of killing Roldy Aragon at about midnight Sunday as the boy slept on a mattress on the floor of the master bedroom where he lived with Acosta, his mother and sister and a baby.

The shootings reportedly followed an argument between the suspect and the woman, who was wounded, Seminole County sheriff's Lt. George Hagood said.

The boy appeared to have been shot once in the left side of his head with a .38-caliber handgun found at the scene, Hagood said.

The baby, who was in a crib nearby, was not injured. He is reported to be the son of Acosta and the wounded woman, Margarita Montero, 33.

The dead boy and the wounded 15-year-old girl are not related to Acosta, Hagood said.

Seminole County sheriff's deputy Mike Weippert was the first deputy to arrive at the home, after the 15-year-old girl, who had been shot several times, called the sheriff's department just before midnight Sunday.

Weippert reported that when he arrived at Acosta's home the frontdoor was open and the suspect who was covered with blood approached him. Weippert asked what happened and the man reportedly said, "I did it." He put his hands up.

Oswaldo Lorenzo Acosta

The man was secured in a patrol car and Weippert entered the home and found Lourdes Aragon, 15, and her mother lying wounded in the dining room. They had both been shot several times, Weippert reported.

In the master bedroom Weippert reported finding the dead boy and the uninjured baby.

Ms. Montero was transported to Florida Hospital-Altamonte, where she was in fair condition early today. Miss Aragon was transported to Orlando Regional Medical Center in Orlando where

Autopsy:

Cocaine Found In Rogers' Body

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — An autopsy on Cleveland Browns football star Don Rogers, who died on the eve of his marriage to a college sweetheart, showed what one toxicologist called a "lethal dose" of cocaine in his body.

Details of the autopsy and cocaine levels found in urine, blood and brain tissue from Rogers were to be revealed at a news conference today.

The Washington Post today quoted James Beede, a coroner's toxicologist, as saying, "There was cocaine found in the body."

"Obviously, it was a lethal dose," he told the newspaper.

Dr. Joseph Pawlowski, the pathologist who conducted an autopsy, had said he believed it was likely Rogers died from a drug overdose.

Police spokesman Bob Burns said a criminal investigation would be conducted if a finding of cocaine use were made official.

Friends and colleagues who had joined Rogers Thursday night in a bachelor party insisted the 23-year-old defensive back had not used cocaine.

A team representative also questioned whether Rogers was involved in drugs. "That wasn't his style," said Ted Chappelle, the team's director of security.

He said Rogers was not in the Browns' program for players with drug problems. Paul Warfield, the former Browns receiver who directs the program, spoke by telephone to Rogers Friday, about two hours before Rogers lapsed into a coma.

Meanwhile, Rogers' mother, Loretha Rogers, 43, who suffered a stress-related heart attack the

Sanford Slates Drug Abuse Seminar

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Word on the street is "it's no line" — Sanford representatives are sincere in their offer to provide drug abusers with assistance through the drug prevention seminar planned for 7 p.m., July 8, at the Westside Community Center, according to one of the meeting's sponsors.

Larry Snell, 22, ended eight months of "heavy problems" with drugs last winter and said awareness of the drug abuse prevention meeting and belief that "it's no line; it's the real thing" has captured the attention of some of his former colleagues.

The session's credibility in the eyes of drug users is the key factor in getting those who want help to come forward, according to Snell.

Snell is a member of the Grace Apostolic Temple, which is planning the meeting with Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith and Police Chief Steve Harriett.

"...many of us don't want to sit back...we want to do something about it."

—Willie Pearl Daniels

The meeting is planned to serve the dual purpose of providing information to steer young people away from drugs and to offer drug abusers an opportunity to receive help.

Local drug counselors have indicated a willingness to participate, and some type of drug task force may be created as a result of the meeting, its sponsors said.

During the meeting, Mayor Smith will give a "self-awareness" talk and a Sanford police drug abuse film will be shown. Community representatives also plan for the evening to serve as an open forum for discussion of drug related problems and the ways to avoid them.

The meeting is open to the entire community, its sponsor said. The Westside Community Center is located on Persimmon Avenue.

Mayor Smith's announced participation in the session last week was followed up by city commissioners declaring July 7-13 Drug Awareness Week in Sanford.

The "positive response" is, however, the result of unfortunate circumstances, said temple member Willie Pearl Daniels.

"Too many little kids on drugs" and word last week that the death of basketball star Len Bias had been attributed to cocaine were topics of discussion during the phone calls she received from local residents, Mrs. Daniels said.

The calls, however, did demonstrate "people are behind us" said Mrs. Daniels, who views the show of support as affirmation that "many of us don't want to just sit back and say 'Yes, isn't the drug problem terrible.' We want to do something about it."

Here She Is: Our Miss Florida

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Miss Seminole Molly Scott Pesce proved herself head and shoulders above the crowd — not only in her statuesque 5-foot 10½-inch height, but also in beauty and talent — to win the Miss Florida title.

"The most incredible surprise of my life" is the way Miss Pesce, 23, who was crowned at the finals of the pageant Saturday night at Orlando's Bob Carr Performing Arts Centre, described the experience. She repeated her performance of Cabaret, which had won her the talent competition Wednesday night.

She will represent Florida in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., in September. Florida has never had a Miss America winner, but Pageant officials agree Miss Pesce has the best chance of any of the recent Miss Florida's.

Poised and vivacious, she said she considers looks her weakest point and talent her best area.

She will receive a $10,000 cash scholarship as Miss Florida, in addition to the $2,000 scholarship she won as Miss Seminole. Miss Pesce wants to earn a master's degree in performing arts in New York and wants to pursue a career in the musical theater.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Pesce of 1307 Hickory Drive, Forest City, Miss Pesce is a 1981 graduate of Lake Brantley High School and has a degree in theater performance from the University of Florida.

Since graduating from the university in December, she has been singing professionally with a band and acting in theater.

This was the second attempt at the Miss Florida crown for Miss Pesce, who competed last year as "Miss Apopka Foliage." She said it takes a year to "know what's going on" and she put

North Carolina Senator John East's Death A Suicide

GREENVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Sen. John East, R-N.C., a leading proponent of the anti-abortion movement and a lock-step protégé of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., killed himself when his health and spirits seemed to be improving, aides said.

"He had from time to time expressed regrets over his medical problems, but he appeared to be improving in terms of his physical health — 1,000 percent over what he looked like last year," Jerry Woodruff, East's press secretary, said Sunday.

The body of East, 55, was found lying face-up on the floor of the garage of his Greenville home by aide John Petree, who was delivering the wheelchair-bound senator his morning newspaper at about 8 a.m. EST Sunday.

Dr. Stan Harris, who conducted an autopsy on East, ruled he died "as a result of asphyxia caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. The manner of death was suicide."

Police Detective Clifton Weatherington said East maneuvered his wheelchair into the garage, opened the door of his late-model, handicap-equipped station wagon, started the engine, then shut the door of the automobile and waited for the fumes to overcome him.

"He was face up. His wheelchair was in the garage with him, a couple of feet from him," said Weatherington.

Crime Hits 1 In 4 Households

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 22 million American households victimized by crime last year — one in every four — represent a smaller percentage than at any time in the last decade, the Justice Department says.

The Bureau of Justice Statistics released its survey of 1985 household crimes Sunday, saying an estimated 22.1 million U.S. households suffered a robbery, burglary, motor vehicle theft, rape, assault or a household or personal theft.

"That is 25 percent of the 88,852,000 households in the country," said Steven Schlesinger, director of the Justice Department agency. "Even though the number is still far too large ... it is especially gratifying that, not once during the past 10 years did the percentage go up."

Schlesinger said the 1985 statistic was the lowest percentage since 1975, the first year such data was kept, when crime hit 32 percent of all households. In 1984 it was 26 percent.

The report credited most of the decline from 1984 to a drop in the percentage of households touched by theft of personal property away from home.

More than 1 million fewer households were victimized in 1985 than 11 years ago despite an increase of about 16 million households across the country during that time, the report said.

But one of every 13 households last year suffered a "high concern crime" — a burglary or rape, robbery or assault by a stranger against one of its members, the study showed. It does not include murder.

Reagan Ready To Tackle Issues

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — President Reagan winds up a five-day vacation at his mountaintop ranch today and flies back to Washington to tackle two major foreign policy issues — South Africa and nuclear arms.

With Congress away on its two-week Fourth of July recess, Reagan planned to spend a couple of days at the White House before presiding Thursday at the opening ceremonies celebrating the Statue of Liberty's centennial in New York.

While in New York, Reagan plans to meet with French President Francois Mitterrand for the celebration of the statue France gave to the United States 100 years ago.

Their talks were expected to be substantive and designed to mend fences between the two countries, at odds over the April U.S. bombing raids on Libya.

Several weeks ago, Reagan secretly ordered a major review of United States policy toward South Africa in the face of a growing clamor for sanctions against the white-ruled African nation and a House resolution calling for U.S. businesses to divest their holdings in South Africa.

Administration officials said the review, expected to be completed in the next few weeks, does not mean Reagan is backing away from his policy of "constructive engagement" and no longer resists tougher economic sanctions.

WORLD IN BRIEF

South African Union Leader Detained To Block Plan

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The leader of South Africa's biggest trade union federation was detained, apparently to frustrate plans for black labor action to protest emergency rule, dissident sources said.

In Johannesburg's Soweto black township, at least one person was killed and 34 were injured Sunday when radical youths attacked buses leaving a stadium where moderate Zulu Chief Gatsha Buthelezi held a rally. Some 10,000 blacks attended the rally — the first black political rally since emergency rule was imposed.

Government spokesman Leon Mellet said youths armed with stones and gasoline bombs ambushed buses carrying Buthelezi supporters from the rally, causing a four-vehicle pileup. He said 34 people were injured but could not confirm reports by witnesses that at least one man was killed.

Mellet also was unable to confirm reports that up to five people were killed in fighting between Zulu tribesmen loyal to Buthelezi and opponents at a men-only hostel in the township.

Battle Erupts In Sri Lanka

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Government troops, backed by helicopters, killed seven Tamil separatist guerrillas trying to block roads in Jaffna province, a military spokesman said today.

In another development four civilians were killed and 19 were injured when a bomb exploded today in a shop in the northern town of Vavuniya.

No one claimed responsibility for the blast. The military spokesman said after the weekend battle in Jaffna province more rebels tried to blast bridges linking the 249-mile highway linking Colombo to the provincial capital of the province in the area of the predominantly Tamil farming town of Killinochchi.

Army patrols were increased in the area.

76 New Laws Effective Tomorrow

By Michael Collins

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The sun will rise July 1 on a Florida that requires its citizens to buckle their seatbelts, that pays state workers better wages while helping them "blow the whistle" on corrupt bosses and that hits smokers and others with higher taxes.

July 1 is when 76 brand new laws approved during the 1986 session of the Florida Legislature take effect, with more to kick in on Oct. 1. Next Tuesday's batch includes the $16.5 billion state budget containing tax and fee increases worth more than $121 million, assuming Gov. Bob Graham approves it. He has until Monday.

The required use of seat belts will be among the most noticeable of the changes for average Floridians. The law exempts people with a doctor's excuse, newspaper deliverers and truck passengers if the vehicle lacks enough belts to go around. But all other drivers and front seat passengers who neglect to buckle up risk a lecture at the hands of the police, and a $20 fine effective Jan. 1.

The six-month grace period is to get Floridians used to their new responsibility. Police could cite motorists under the law only if they have stopped them for some other offense like speeding.

The Florida Highway Patrol, which must deal with what is left when cars run into trees and each other, figures 400 Floridians would have been spared death in auto accidents last year had they been wearing seat belts. The patrol estimates highway deaths and injuries cost $300 million.

FHP spokesman Maj. Curt Hall said television and radio stations have been forwarded public service announcements extolling the virtues of the belts, and an eight minute video instructs police in enforcing the law. The police have also been given pamphlets explaining the law to be distributed to motorists along with the verbal warnings.

The patrol reckons 28.6 percent of Florida motorists already buckle up regularly. Improving that statistic will depend on how seriously local police take the law. "We hope they'll consider it as serious as it is and enforce it," Hall said.

"If you consciously buckle your seat belt after 10 days you'll be buckling up without realizing you have," he said. "It's habit, and we've got to start some new habits."

Here is a summary of other major legislation that takes effect next Tuesday:

—Taxes. The eight cent tax Florida imposes per pack of cigarettes will become an 11 cent tax. That means the financial cost of a two-pack a day habit will rise to $1,200 per year. Property taxes will rise by 20 cents per $1,000 in property value, so that the owner of an $85,000 home will pay $12 more per year, to increase school funding. University students will pay another 6.9 percent in tuition. And $16.8 million sales tax exemptions on pool chlorine, dry cleaning, laundries and candy will be repealed.

Other tax and fee increases include a 10-cent tax on citrus nursery stock to fight citrus canker and changes in tax administration estimated to raise nearly $20 million.

—Tort and insurance reforms. The new law takes effect July 1 but its biggest sting for insurance companies hits Oct. 1, when the companies have to roll back their premiums to 1984 levels unless they can prove the decrease would cripple them. The law will also give the state more power to regulate insurance rates and would limit damages in liability lawsuits.

—Pay raises. Most state workers will receive 5 percent increases, with "critical" jobs like police, probation officers and state attorneys slated for additional increases.

—Children. A new law will prohibit youths aged 17 or younger from working more than six consecutive days in any week, more than 30 hours a day. The bill also restricts work hours on school nights but provides exemptions for hardship cases.

Teachers trusted by child abuse victims will be allowed to be present when police or social workers question the children. A 17-member council on adoption will be born to advise the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

—Juries. Federal law allows defendants to demand jury trials only if they face six months in jail. A new Florida law would grant that right any time there is a chance the defendant could go to jail.

—Leaking underground storage tanks. The "LUST" bill is intended to repair the damage to Florida's ground water supply environmentalists fear is being caused by thousands of buried gasoline tanks. People who lease up to owning leaking tanks between July 1 and Oct. 1, 1987, will be eligible for state help in meeting clean-up costs. The state will also help pay to supply clean water to people whose own supply is contaminated. All new tanks must have monitors to detect leaks.

—The Whistleblower Act. The law protects employees of government agencies or contractors from reprisal should they report wrongdoing by their bosses. Employees must first bring problems to the attention of higher-ups and would be forced to pick up the legal tab if they file spurious charges.

Bundy's Facade Hides Monster Within

STARKE (UPI) — Ted Bundy, the handsome man with a monster inside, sits calmly in a Death Row "ready cell" at Florida State Prison.

Barring any last-minute stays, just dawn Wednesday, Superintendent Richard Dugger will read to Bundy his death warrant and then lead him to the electric chair to be executed — 10 years to the day after the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty.

He received the death sentence for the murders and sexual mutilation of two Florida State University sorority sisters.

Bundy also has been sentenced to die for the abduction and murder of a 12-year-old Lake City, Fla., girl — for which no death warrant has been signed — and is suspected in the disappearances and murders of up to 36 young women in the Pacific Northwest.

Even since early childhood, those who knew Bundy noticed something different about him: something beneath a seemingly normal exterior that set him apart.

One boyhood friend said Bundy outwardly seemed normal enough but remembered a time when Bundy showed his inner self.

"It was easy to see when Ted got mad. His eyes turned almost black with anger," said Terry Storwick, who grew up with Bundy in Tacoma, Wash. "He and John Moon got into a scuffle. Bundy hit him over the head with a stick and the way John described it at the time, he was attacked from behind."

Those who knew Bundy in later years — when many thought of him as a "golden boy" who turned heads when he walked into a room — noticed Bundy also had a hidden dark side too.

A woman named Liz who dated Bundy for a while said he once "promised, not threatened, to 'break my neck' if I ever exposed him for the thief he was."

Liz also said Bundy tried several times to convince her to "have unnatural sex," and even awoke one time in the wee hours of the morning to find him peering with a flashlight at her body beneath the bedsheets.

It was about this time, in the mid-1970s in Washington and Oregon, that women began disappearing whenever Bundy was around. The monster that lurked inside Ted Bundy by this time prowled more and more.

Beginning on Jan. 4, 1974, with Mary Adams, 18, who was battered with a club in her Seattle bedroom but survived, at least 10 women in Washington and Oregon mysteriously disappeared around the time Bundy was in the area.

Police still have not found many of the bodies of the women — most in their late teens and early 20s with long, dark hair parted in the middle. It was the appearance of the women that investigators and psychologists believe attracted Bundy.

One psychologist said Bundy actually was punishing a woman named Diane, who had dated him but dropped him when she tired of what she called "his childish ways." Diane was from a higher social class than Bundy. She was everything he was not but wanted to be.

He became enraged at her for dropping him and psychologists said the abductions and slayings of the women were his way of getting back at Diane.

When Bundy moved to Utah to attend law school, the disappearances in Washington and Oregon stopped. They began in Utah.

That is where Bundy first ran afoul of the law. One woman he tried to abduct, Carol DaRonch, escaped and led police to Bundy.

But before he was caught, police suspect he attacked perhaps as many as a dozen women. Again, some of the bodies still have not been found.

Bundy continued his rampage, escaping from the law several times and attacking scores of women. He was in jail in Colorado, charged with the murder of a nurse in Snowmass, Colo., when he escaped and made his way to Florida.

Once in Florida, Bundy, who psychologists say had lost all control of his faculties, began to search for "women to possess." But possession to Bundy meant murder and sexual mutilation.

Before he was caught on Valentine's Day of 1978, Bundy had sneaked into the Chi Omega sorority house in Tallahassee in the early morning hours of Jan. 15, and killed Lisa Levy and Margaret Bowman in their sleep.

Also that night, Bundy bludgeoned two other girls in the house and attacked another woman in a nearby apartment.

A few days later, on Feb. 9, he abducted Kimberly Diane Leach from the schoolyard at Lake City Junior High School. Her body was not found until April of that year.

So Bundy waits in his cell, about 30 feet from Florida's "Ol' Sparky" electric chair. Prison officials say he is generally calm and chats with them intelligently.

Beneath the calm lurks a heart of darkness.

WEATHER

LOCAL REPORT: A high of 92 degrees was recorded for the weekend by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center on Celery Avenue, which had a reading of 71 degrees at 8 a.m. They recorded .77 inch of rain over the weekend. In Casselberry, a total of 1.6 inches of rain fell during the weekend. Temperatures will be in the 90s again today with a 50 percent chance of afternoon thundershowers.

NATIONAL REPORT: Severe thunderstorms that produced tornadoes, large hail and damaging winds poured heavy rain on the central Plains today, flooding highways in Nebraska. The National Weather Service reported today that water was 10 feet deep under overpasses in Lincoln, Neb., and Pat Lewis, duty officer in the Nebraska Civil Defense office in Lincoln, said 2 feet of water was reported on U.S. 81 at Platte Center, about 25 miles north of Osceola. A flash flood warning was posted early today for southeastern Nebraska and flash flood watches covered central and southern Iowa, southeastern Nebraska, northeastern Kansas and northern Missouri, the NWS said. "The thunderstorms over Nebraska and Iowa are still going pretty strong and they're under a thunderstorm watch," said Harry Gordon, an NWS meteorologist. More than 4 inches of rain was reported by early today in Monroe, Neb., and nearly 4 inches had fallen in the town of Surprise. Storms reached from Minnesota to Missouri and central Illinois, Gordon said. If the storm maintained its intensity, a flash flood watch would be posted for central and northern Illinois, including the Chicago area, he said. Tornadoes struck Sunday near Olivet and Mitchell, S.D., and west of Conrad, Mont., but no injuries or damage were reported. High winds Sunday night damaged buildings at 10 farms and downed power lines in Osceola, Neb. "The damage apparently was from high winds," said Jim Davis, a Polk County sheriff's deputy. He said there were no confirmed reports of a tornado, though there several sightings west of Osceola. Davis said the thunderstorms dumped 5 1/2 inches of rain and were accompanied by winds of 50 to 75 mph. More than 2 inches of rain fell in 12 hours in Des Moines and winds gusted to 35 mph. Five inches of rain soaked Polk City, Iowa, and downpours forced truckers to pull off Interstate 80 near Altoona. "This is as much of a thunder-boomer as I've ever seen," said an employee of the Mid-Iowa I-80 Truck Plaza near Altoona, Iowa, east of Des Moines. Lightning hit several radio and television towers in Iowa, but no injuries were reported. There were numerous reports of power outages in the state. Winds damaged a camper and pickup truck near Parkston, S.D., and hail the size of golf balls pounded Springview, Neb. Golf ball-size hail south of Harrison knocked out the windshield of a spotter's car, the NWS said.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 79; overnight: 71; Sunday's high: 93; barometric pressure: 30.08; relative humidity: 82 percent; winds: SW at 7 mph; rain: .01 inch; sunrise: 6:31 a.m.; sunset 8:27 p.m.

TUESDAY TIDES: Daytona Beach: highs, 4:34 a.m.; 5:12 p.m.; lows, 10:32 a.m.; 11:25 p.m.; Port Canaveral: highs, 4:54 a.m.; 5:32 p.m.; lows, 10:52 a.m.; 11:45 p.m.; Bayport: highs, 4:13 a.m.; 5:03 p.m.; lows, 10:41 a.m.; 11:10 p.m.

EXTENDED FORECAST: Partly cloudy with a chance of mainly afternoon and evening thunder storms. Highs from near 90 to mid 90s, except mid and upper 80s immediate coastal areas. Lows from the low 70s north to near 80 in the Keys.

AREA FORECAST: Today...partly cloudy with scattered afternoon thunderstorms.

'Benefit Burnout' Hurts Concert

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — "Benefit burnout" was blamed for meager attendance at a concert featuring Stevie Wonder and other stars trying to raise money to fight the relocation of thousands of Navajos from their ancestral lands.

Wonder, comedian Cheech Marin and actress Linda Blair joined Indian elders Sunday at "Drums Across America," a concert to publicize the plight of Navajos facing relocation from their reservation land in Arizona.

Man Charged With Molesting Girl, 11

A 47-year-old man has been charged with sexual battery and lewd and lascivious assault in connection with alleged attacks on an 11-year-old girl during the last two to three years.

The girl on Friday morning told Seminole County sheriff's investigator Dan Prast that the suspect has assaulted her so many times she could not keep track, but it averaged out to about once a week. She also accused a 14-year-old boy, who lives with the man, of assaulting her too.

The attacks reportedly occurred at the man's home when the girl was in his care. A doctor confirmed that the child had apparently had sexual contact, Prast reported.

The girl said she had been afraid of the problems her allegations might cause for her family, so she didn't report the incidents earlier, according to Prast's report.

Larry Lee Webb, of 145 N. Lakewood Ave., Maitland, was arrested at his home at 5:55 p.m. He was being held without bond. There was no indication on his arrest report of the 14-year-old boy having been charged.

WILL IT, OR BURN
Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported charging a 24-year-old Orlando man with arson and extortion after he allegedly demanded that a Casselberry man name him as heir to his home in his will. To show he was serious about the demand the suspect allegedly threatened to burn the victim's home if he didn't meet a 2 p.m. deadline in making the will.

The demand was made at 9 a.m. Friday, according to deputies, and the suspect allegedly set two sets of drapes afire in the home of James Vreeland, 60, of 824 Wolf Trail, at 9:30 a.m., to give Vreeland a sample of what was ahead.

Vreeland put out the fire and reported the incident to sheriff's deputies.

At 1:30 p.m. Friday, Lonnie Spicer was arrested at the Casselberry police station. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

ACCIDENT, FALSE CLAIM
Florida Highway Patrol troopers allege that a 27-year-old Casselberry man was in a traffic accident with property damage at U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 427, south of Sanford Friday. The suspect, troopers said, left the scene, but they reported finding the suspect's locked car at about 7:15 p.m. Friday, just about the same time the suspect was allegedly reporting to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that the truck had been stolen.

The suspect, who met deputies on Grant Street at State Road 434, Longwood, at about 7 p.m., allegedly told them the vehicle had been stolen on Lake Emma Road at Lake Mary Boulevard.

After troopers found the locked vehicle deputies reportedly determined that the suspect had the key to the truck in his pocket.

Steven R. Joyce, of 1461 Easton Way, was arrested at 7:20 p.m. Friday and charged with leaving the scene of a traffic accident with injuries and filing a false report of commission of a crime. Bond was set at $500 and he was released.

DUI ARRESTS
The following persons have been arrested in Seminole

County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Nicholas Patrick Glynn, 25, of 2545 Park Ave. #29, Sanford, was arrested at 5:47 p.m. Friday after he was seen driving erratically on Elm Street in Sanford. He also had no driver's license.

—Donald Eugene Lively, 26, of P.O. Box 196, Lake Monroe, at 3:10 a.m. Saturday after his motorcycle was in an accident in the parking lot of Country Club Square, Sanford.

—Jameson Lewis, 36, no address, at 2:12 a.m. Saturday after his car was seen weaving on Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary. He was also charged with having an improper license tag and driving with a suspended license.

—John Lee Hill, 24, of Orlando, at 12:20 a.m. Friday at Winter Park Memorial Hospital, Winter Park, after his car was in an accident on State Road 426 at Howell Branch Road.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
A watch, two rings, a handgun, a disc player and a video recorder with a combined value of $1,400 were stolen from the home of Deborah S. Keasler, 33, of 127 Moyser Road, Winter Park, on Friday, a sheriff's report said.

A sales representative for Florida Residential Communities, 101 Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies that an air conditioner compressor belonging to that company and valued at about $600 was stolen from 2756 Brand Court lot 81, Apopka, on Wednesday or Thursday.

Joann Raviele, 27, the owner of Sub City, 4270 State Road 436, #138, Winter Park, told sheriff's deputies that four potted plants valued at a total of $200 were stolen from her business around noon Friday.

A weed eater valued at $325 and owned by Erik and Kurt Buchman of Longwood, was stolen from a yard at 103 Rockham Court, Longwood, on Friday, a sheriff's report said.

Lynnette Jackson, 22, of Orlando, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies she left her 1974 Gremlin valued at $400 at 3406½ Poinsettia Drive, Sanford, on June 17, and the car is missing.

He left his $225 camera in a restroom at the Central Florida Zoo in Sanford at about 10 a.m. Friday and when he returned for it at about 2 p.m., Austin E. Battaglia, 35, of 228 W. Highland Ave., Longwood, reported the camera was gone, a sheriff's report said.

A former employee of Sencorp, Inc., 2170 State Road 434, Longwood, was given permission to use a company owned 1985 Ford on June 19, but Friday manager Joseph Thomas Steward, 36, of Orlando, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that the man did not return the vehicle.

Tools, a watch, $15 cash, and a volt meter with a combined value of $450 were stolen from the vehicle of James M. Brooker, 53, of Satsuma, Fla., while parked at the Holiday Inn, State Road 46 and Interstate 4, west of Sanford, on Thursday or Friday.

Kenneth Joseph Mann, 27, of 3815 Cypress Ave., Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies that a 1980 Pontiac loaned to him by Car-O-Van, of Orlando, was stolen on Thursday or Friday.

May Be 10 To 15 Years Before Going To Voters Again

Irish Anti-Divorce Vote Shows Catholic Church Influence

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — The Irish electorate's rejection of a proposal to legalize divorce underlined the overpowering influence in the country of the Roman Catholic Church.

The coalition government of Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald put the question before the people in a nationwide referendum and worked hard to end the ban on divorce.

But the government was dealt a stinging defeat and political commentators said it likely would be 10 to 15 years before the issue would be put before the voters again.

The setback, which leaves Ireland and Malta as the only nations in Europe without divorce, was all the more bitter because opinion polls early in the campaign predicted a victory for the pro-divorce forces. The Catholic Church did not formally instruct the faithful to vote "no," but many bishops and priests campaigned against the divorce proposal, issuing reminders from the pulpit that the church viewed marriage as a contract for life.

Citing reasons for the defeat, Deputy Prime Minister Dick Spring said: "There was a very strong involvement by the church. While bishops themselves were quite mild in their statements, I believe that some statements and sermons given were very, very strong."

Alice Glenn, a member of the Irish Dail (parliament) who campaigned against divorce, said that because of her contacts with the grass roots she felt from the beginning that the proposal to amend the constitution would fail.

"We are a Catholic nation," Glenn said. "We have a high level of practicing Catholics and we go to our churches and we deem it to be the duty of our bishops and pastors (to express an opinion). That is their role."

In rural counties the vote against divorce was overwhelming. Divorce supporters in Dublin had expected to win 75 percent of the urban vote but in the end the ballot went narrowly against.

But a spokeswoman for the Divorce Action Group (DAG) that pressed the "yes" campaign said "DAG stays as it is. The problem remains and the problem will grow and it has increased. We'll fight again."

Supporters of divorce argued that divorce was needed to legalize the situation of many people whose marriages had irretrievably broken down and of the children born to couples who cannot legalize their union because they are still legally married to someone else.

One Dublin woman who was hoping to get a divorce to be able to legalize her current relationship said: "They didn't give a damn about me and my family."

Harold McCusker, a Protestant Member of Parliament in British-ruled Northern Ireland, said the result vindicated those Protestants in the province who contend "Dublin rule is Rome rule."

"Clearly the Catholic Church has held sway again on this major issue of conscience," McCusker said.

Sanford Man Gets 15 Years In Prison

A 19-year-old Sanford man with a juvenile criminal record was sentenced to 15 years in prison and 55 years probation for stealing and selling a .357-magnum handgun.

Ulysses Peter Francis Jr., of 654 Tyson St., Oviedo, was sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor.

Francis was arrested in February by Oviedo police who charged him with grand theft, dealing in stolen property and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Oviedo police reported arresting him after a friend told Solomon Browdy of Oviedo that a gun that was taken from his home Feb. 9 had been sold to another man.

In other court action, a migrant worker charged with stabbing to death another migrant work after a tiff over a juke box song has pleaded guilty to attempted manslaughter.

James Littlejohn Rhodes, 36, of the Chase Labor Camp on Sipes Avenue, Midway, entered the plea before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler who set July 31 for sentencing. Rhodes is expected to be sentenced to 52 weekends in jail and pay the victim's funeral expenses.

Fatally stabbed Feb. 24 was Bobby Davis, believed to be in his 30s, of the same address. Though Davis was stabbed in the stomach, Rhodes was not charged with murder because Davis apparently tried to treat the wound himself with hydrogen peroxide. His body was discovered by a co-worker.

According to sheriff's investigators, the stabbing was the result of a dispute over a juke box song. Reports indicate Rhodes put a quarter in a juke box at the camp then Davis pushed ahead of him and selected a song of his choice, not the one Rhodes wanted.

There was a confrontation. Rhodes told investigators that Davis choked him. Davis was stabbed during the dispute and later spent time in his room treating himself. He also reportedly told other persons at the camp what had happened to him.

In another case, a Longwood man serving 15 years probation on a charge of child molesting was sentenced to 8 years in prison and 5 more years of probation.

J.D. Syles Jr., 41, of 310 Howard Blvd., was sentenced by McGregor who ordered he receive counseling in prison. The judge also stipulated that during his probation he not be alone with any child under 16-years old. Syles pleaded guilty to the charge in April and to violating probation in the 1976 case.

Syles was arrested in December when a 15-year-old boy told his grandmother that a man was performing a sexual act in front of a 15-year-old girl. The incident occurred in December. The grandmother took a look but at the time the man was covered so she did not see what the boy reported. Shortly thereafter, the boy said he saw the same thing again. This time the grandmother clearly saw what was happening and confronted the man.

Later two girls identified the same man to investigators as the man who "touched" them while visiting.

Reason For Hope

There is nothing necessarily definitive about a new president's first 100 days in office. But that was the grace period Corazon Aquino requested before Filipinos and the world began to judge her performance as successor to the ousted Ferdinand Marcos. And inasmuch as the 100th day of her presidency passed recently, it is fair to ask just how President Aquino is doing.

The answer, it seems, is rather well, especially for a political neophyte struggling against a staggering list of difficulties. For starters, the economy so thoroughly looted by Mr. Marcos and his cronies is a wreck, the treasury is empty, and Manila owes its foreign creditors $26.2 billion. The country's political institutions require wholesale rebuilding after 20 years of atrophy under Mr. Marcos' authoritarianism. Mrs. Aquino's own administration suffers from factional infighting compounded by instances of confusion and ineptitude. And, on top of everything, a communist insurgency continues in the countryside, with nearly 1,000 deaths just since President Aquino assumed office.

And yet, it is possible to be mildly optimistic about the Philippines' prospects under Mrs. Aquino's leadership. A broadly based commission she appointed is charged with drafting a new, democratic constitution; a document considered certain to return the Philippines to the status of a multiparty democracy within a year. Economic recovery will take much longer, but the Aquino government seems off to a promising if somewhat hesitant start. Mrs. Aquino wisely rejected suggestions that she repudiate portions of the debt, a decision rewarded when easier repayment terms were granted by the International Monetary Fund. More encouraging yet is evidence that President Aquino is turning primarily to free market advocates for advice on reforming an economy ruined by Mr. Marcos' so-called crony capitalism — a corrupt system of monopolies and government-protected franchises.

President Aquino has also demonstrated a deft touch in dealing with the 17-year-old insurgency being waged by the New People's Army, the military arm of the Communist Party of the Philippines. Over the objections of her military advisers, she released the NPA's imprisoned founder and several other top communist officials. She appealed to the guerrillas to surrender and offered complete amnesty to any who did so, provided they renounced violence. She also offered to negotiate an overall political settlement of the insurgency. These moves effectively split the NPA leadership, with one faction offering to talk and another vowing to continue the fight. The net result, at least for the moment, is a greatly diminished communist threat.

Inevitably, there have been some disappointments to offset these successes. Probably the most troubling, given the desperate condition of the economy, has been the Aquino government's failure to move more aggressively in devising and implementing economic reforms. On balance, however, Corazon Aquino and her government are proving worthy of the support they continue to receive from most Filipinos. And worthy, as well, of vigorous support from Washington, beginning with at least the increased amounts of economic and military aid promised recently by the Reagan administration.

Scarcely more than 100 days ago, the administration and Congress were predicting potential disaster for American interests in the Philippines if the corrupt, dictatorial regime of Ferdinand Marcos remained in power. With Mr. Marcos in exile and a sincerely striving Mrs. Aquino in power, there is reason for Washington to take hope, and extend as much help as possible.

Reagan Will Support Party Choice Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan would be on the horns of a dilemma if he had to make a choice between two loyal supporters who both may seek the Republican presidential nomination — Vice President George Bush and Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada.

The Bush bid for the GOP nomination is more apparent. Laxalt, who is retiring from the Senate, still has not made up his mind.

Asked by the Los Angeles Times in an interview what he was going to do, Reagan said: "I'm going to do ... what I'm forced to do. And that is, as titular head of the party, until the party has decided on a nominee — and then I will support that nominee all out. I cannot take sides in the primary."

That way he feels he won't make anyone unhappy.

But through the years, long before a possible Laxalt candidacy popped up, Reagan indicated his support for Bush. Another potential candidate is Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., who once served on Reagan's staff.

Reagan was reminded in the interview that he once said that the vice presidency reminded him of an old rule of dog sledding — only the lead dog gets a change of scenery.

The president recalled he made the observation in discussing his lieutenant governor when he was governor of California. "But I've done here the same thing I did with the lieutenant governor in California, and that is," he said, "our dogsled — we're running double harness. The vice president is party to, and part of, every decision and every meeting that we have."

National security affairs adviser John Poindexter may wonder if he is going to suffer the same fate as some of his predecessors, with White House aides sniping behind his back.

Richard Allen, William Clark and Robert McFarlane all felt at times in the critical post that they were being undercut by other White House aides.

The Washington Post reported a growing dissatisfaction with Poindexter, an admiral who is still on active duty, for the handling of political aspects of foreign policy questions. The critics also think that he has not given the president clear explanations of the strategic arms picture, or been on top of the space shuttle controversy.

McFarlane, his predecessor, ran afoul of chief of staff Donald Regan and quit. The relationship between Poindexter and Regan had appeared to be on a good footing. But deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes gave questions about Reagan's opinion of Poindexter "short shrift" and his remarks noticeably were not a ringing endorsement.

Speakes usually gets the line at the White House on who is in and who is out before he addresses personnel subjects.

When asked what Reagan would be doing on a long weekend at his California ranch, Speakes said he expected he would be clearing brush among other things. Having heard over the past five years that Reagan was clearing brush at Rancho del Cielo, a reporter asked: "Are they going to bring him some brush?"

Speakes assured him there is no lack of brush at the 688-acre ranch where Reagan can exercise, do the things he wants to do and feel free of official burdens.

DON GRAFF

How We're 'Losing' Nicaragua

"Even if President Reagan wins the funds he wants for the contra rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government, his policy is producing a stalemate that ultimately could draw the U.S. further into that nation's civil war."

I didn't write that, but I subscribe to every word of it. It's the work of Wall Street Journal reporter Robert S. Greenberger, in a recent dispatch from Washington that summarizes, as succinctly as anything I've read lately, exactly what's wrong with administration policy in Nicaragua.

Briefly, the administration has no strategy beyond simply keeping the contras in the field. The $100 million in aid the president continues to push for is far short of what would be required to build a rebel force capable of overthrowing the Sandinistas. On that point, there's pretty much a meeting of military minds, both within and outside the administration.

So a military solution is out. But the administration gives only lip service — and precious little of that — to the alternative, a diplomatic solution. It seemed to be taking a step in that direction with the naming of Philip Habib as special envoy to Central America. But it quickly backtracked. When Habib suggested that an end to contra aid might be traded for Nicaragua's signature on a regional peace treaty, administration spokesmen told him to sit down and be quiet.

So diplomacy is out. Economic warfare has been counterproductive. The embargo decreed last year has cramped but not crippled the Nicaraguan economy. It has, however, provided the Sandinistas with a convenient excuse for the consequences of their own economic mismanagement.

Congress isn't let off easily in this indictment. It is at least an accessory. It can be expected to continue voting just enough contra aid to avoid a charge that it "lost" Nicaragua, according to Greenberger.

Coincidentally — or maybe not — the lead editorial in the same day's Journal is more or less on the same subject. But the point is entirely different — unequivocal support of administration policy. God help us all if the contras don't get that $100 million!

I do not find the Journal's dichotomy in this case surprising, only evidence of what I've long believed: that the editorial page staff is under strict orders never ever to read the news pages. The Journal's editorials rarely have much connection with reality, while its reporting is about the best in the business.

Energy Worker Abused Funds: GAO

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — An Energy Department official resigned last February while the General Accounting Office was investigating charges against her, but Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., doesn't want to let the matter end there. He wants the department to take action against the former official, Rosilee Douglas.

Douglas was appointed in 1981 to head the Energy Department's Office of Minority Economic Impact, a special bureau set up in 1978 to study the impact of energy policies and programs on minorities, and to increase minority participation in the department.

A still-restricted GAO report to Dingell, who is chairman of the House Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, details several accusations made against Douglas "Well, it covers you more than Medicare will..."

JEFFREY HART

New Political Ideas

In 1984, Senator Gary Hart struck a chord in the Democratic Party by calling for "new ideas." The two words all by themselves almost blew Walter Mondale out of the race. The problem for the Democrats, however, and for liberalism generally, is that all of the "new ideas" are coming from the political right.

What are, in fact, the "new ideas"?

One of them, benefit of George Gilder, Thomas Sowell, Walter Williams and Charles Murray is that welfare ruins people. Welfare comes at us under the heading of liberal "compassion." But it rewards people for staying home, out of the job market. It subsidizes a kind of sub-standard leisure. The young person on welfare has no incentive to work at the local laundry or the local McDonald's. Indeed, to take a low paying job would mean forfeiting food stamps and a whole range of federal benefits. The low-paying job is likely to be unpleasant.

But once in the welfare net, the individual is unlikely to break out of it. He does not develop work habits. He does not even need to get up in the morning. As Rep. Jack Kemp says, when you subsidize something, you get it. We have been subsidizing poverty, and we're getting it.

Another "new idea" is that we should lower taxes, and thereby stimulate that great wealth-generating mechanism, the private sector.

That is not exactly a new idea, but rather an old idea rediscovered. It is appropriate that Adam Smith's revolutionary book "The Wealth of Nations" appeared in 1776, the same year as the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Smith tore away at government controls (in those days exercised by the King) as, indeed, did Thomas Jefferson and the American colonists. The core idea was that our own decisions and energies would produce the wealth of nations, as indeed they have done. Slashing taxes, returning our own money to us, Ronald Reagan has rediscovered that new idea.

Here is a third new idea, also from the political right. We can abolish nuclear weapons, render them obsolete, remove the threat of extermination from the world.

Where nuclear weapons are concerned, the political left merely indulges in hand-wringing. But technology moves forward at an accelerating pace, and it does seem to be true that we can shoot intercontinental ballistic missiles right out of the air. There is no weapon ever devised that does not have its counter-weapon, and — cutting through the hysterical rhetoric of opponents — it really does look as if our lasers, smart bullets and whatnot can hit Soviet ICBMs as they come over the North Pole.

That is certainly a new idea, and it is not coming to us from liberalism. It is coming from the Sun Belt and from Silicon Valley.

On abolishing nuclear weapons, there remains one box that has yet to be filled in. The Soviet regime requires nuclear weapons just to stay in the international arena. Without its ICBMs, the Soviet Union might lose a war with Poland. It almost lost a war with Finland in 1940, and it has yet to subdue Afghanistan.

About Mormons, Democrats

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (NEA) — Members of the Mormon Church have long been active in politics, especially here in the Intermountain West where they traditionally have been identified with conservative values and the Republican Party.

Indeed, the church's political and ideological orientation is personified by its current president, Ezra Taft Benson, who was U.S. agriculture secretary in the 1950s under President Eisenhower, a Republican.

In an unusual development this year, however, Mormons have emerged as moderate-to-progressive Democratic candidates in political contests in three states where the church has a substantial membership. Their religious affiliation could be crucial in determining the outcome of these races.

Here in Idaho, incumbent Gov. John V. Evans, a Democrat, is stepping down to challenge Sen. Steven D. Symms, a Republican. Evans, a Mormon, is believed to have at least an even chance to deny Symms, who is not a Mormon, a second term in the Senate.

Although Idaho is not generally identified with the church, there is a stable Mormon population in Idaho Falls and nearby communities in the state's southeastern corner, an especially conservative area where Evans has run well in the past.

"It's causing the Republicans to have fits," says one longtime leader of Idaho's Democratic Party who asks that he not be identified. "The Republicans could lose control of the Senate because of a bunch of Mormons."

This year's other Senate election in which a Mormon affiliation could be pivotal is in adjacent Nevada, where Rep. Harry Reid, a Mormon Democrat, is competing with former Rep. James Santini, a non-Mormon Republican, for the seat being vacated by Sen. Paul Laxalt.

As in the case of the Evans-Symms contest, the Reid-Santini race is too close to call five months before Election Day — but, in both, the Democratic candidates' religion almost certainly has made them more competitive.

Finally, Mormon Democrats have mounted challenges to Republican control of two of the three congressional districts in Utah, where the church not only is the dominant religious institution but also a powerful force in political, economic and cultural affairs.

In the district encompassing Ogden, Logan and the rural counties of western Utah, former Democratic Rep. K. Gunn McKay will be attempting to make a comeback by toppling the three-term Republican who unseated him, Rep. James V. Hansen.

Campbell Qualifies For U.S. National Team

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer
A year that has already been chock full of highlights became even brighter for Sanford's Cliff Campbell this past Saturday.

Campbell, a 1985 graduate of Seminole High who just completed a stellar freshman season at Auburn University, took first place in the 400 meters Saturday at the Junior National TAC Track and Field Championships at Towson State University in Towson, Md.

Campbell's first place puts him on the U.S. Junior National team that will compete in the Pan-American Athletics Championships this weekend at Showalter Field in Winter Park. Also as a member of the U.S. team, Campbell will get to compete at a meet in Bucarest, Romania prior to the first ever Junior World Championships in late July in Athens, Greece.

"It's quite an honor for Cliff to have made this team," Seminole High track coach Ken Brauman, who made the trip to Towson State, said. "I believe he's the first athlete from Seminole High to ever make a national team."

Track/Field

Campbell won the 400 meters Saturday with a time of 46.41 and Brauman said he had to pull it out in the last 60 meters for the win as all of the top four finished under 47 seconds.

Campbell is coming off an outstanding freshman season at Auburn where he was the Southeastern Conference champion in the 400 meters and qualified for the finals in the NCAA Championships.

PENICK 9TH IN STEEPLECHASE

Also competing in this past weekend's meet at Towson State was Sanford's Billy Penick, a 1986 Seminole High graduate. Penick took ninth place in the 2,000 meter steeplechase with a time of 6:07.

It was just the second time Penick had competed in the event and his time was 22 seconds faster than what he ran at the Golden South Classic. Penick was also the first high school finisher in the race as the top eight were all college freshman.

Other Central Florida track standouts who competed in the meet were Tony Sylvester of Daytona Beach Seabreeze, Michelle Spear of Orlando Oak Ridge and Tina Hague of Mount Dora Bible.

Sylvester took second in the shot put with a heave of 54-8 and that qualified him for the national team.

Spear finished sixth in the women's long jump at 19-6 and Hague was fifth in the women's high jump at 5-5.

Argentina Claims World Cup

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Argentina reached the summit of the soccer world Sunday — and it took more than Diego Maradona to get there.

"I never like to talk about single players," the midfield great said Sunday after Argentina beat West Germany 3-2 to win the World Cup. "Today we confirmed that we are a full team and do not count on any single player."

Maradona failed to score but did initiate two goals against a vulnerable West German defense. The inordinate attention he received from the West Germans allowed for greater freedom by Jorge Valdano, Jorge Burruchaga and Hector Enrique.

The victory before an Azteca Stadium crowd of 115,000 gave Argentina its second World Cup title in the last eight years and preserved Latin American honor. South American teams have never lost in the six World Cups held in the Americas since 1930.

Brazil, winner of the 1958 World Cup in Sweden, is the only nation to win outside its hemisphere.

In Buenos Aires, hundreds of thousands of flag-waving fans poured into the downtown Plaza de la Republica, tossing confetti, honking horns and banging pots and pans. President Raul Alfonsin telephoned Coach Carlos Bilardo and Maradona, telling Bilardo the team set "an example for all our country."

In Bonn, West German President Richard von Weizsaecker congratulated Argentina, calling the game "fair and dramatic." West German streets and cafes had been virtually deserted as fans watched the game on television.

Burruchaga, who played exceptionally well all game, scored the winning goal in the 84th minute after West Germany rallied from a 2-0 deficit to even the score.

With the West Germans still in a self-congratulatory daze, Maradona sent a perfect pass to Burruchaga on the right side. He beat goalkeeper Toni Schumacher to the ball and blasted a shot inside the far post.

Defender Jose Luis Brown scored in the 22nd minute, heading in Burruchaga's free kick, awarded after the referee called Lothar Matthaus for a foul on Maradona. Valdano scored in the 56th minute after taking a pass from Enrique, who was given the ball at midfield by Maradona.

"I wanted to score a goal," Maradona said. "But the way they were marking me, it gave more opportunities for others. That is the way a team plays."

Maradona scored five goals in seven games, including virtuoso efforts against England in the quarterfinals and Belgium in the semis. England's Gary Lineker finished as the tournament's top scorer with six goals.

"Our plan was to keep Maradona out of the game, and in that we succeeded," West German coach Franz Beckenbauer said. "But they have 11 players. We knew exactly what great players Valdano and Burruchaga were."

Argentina had the better of West Germany most of the game. But the West Germans, known for making the most of their chances, struck for two goals in eight minutes.

With striker Rudi Voeller coming on at halftime for Klaus Allofs and midfielder Dieter Hoernes replacing hapless Felix Magath in the 61st minute, the West Germans converted Andreas Brehme's corner kicks in the 73rd minute by captain Karl-Heinz Rummenigge and in

Mitchell's All-Stars Open Sub-District Tourney Tuesday

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer
With two key returning players and the best talent from the league, manager Skip Mitchell will take his Sanford Little National League All-Stars to Tavares Tuesday night, looking to finish one place higher than a year ago.

The Sanford Nationals, second last year, open play in the Florida Little Major League Sub-District 2 Tournament Tuesday night at 8 against the winner of Monday's Orlando Bruton vs. Orlando Recreation Department game at the Tavares complex.

The Nationals and Leesburg drew byes and will not play in Monday's first round games. The Sanford Americans play host Tavares Monday night at 8. The winner of the Sub-District 2 Tournament advances to the District 4 Tournament starting July 14 in Leesburg.

Mitchell, who managed Sunniland this season, is returning for his third at the helm of the Sanford Nationals. Mitchell's assistant, Rick Taylor, has been a major influence on Sanford teams of the past and he was an assistant on both National League all-star teams that advanced to state tournament play.

Sunniland's David Dunn and First Federals' Mike Dillon will be the leaders of this year's National League all-stars and both were key figures on last year's team which finished second to the Sanford Americans.

Bernard Sparrow Michael Thomas KoJack Hunt David Dunn Lorne Jones Richard Peterson

Baseball

Dunn is a hard-throwing righthander who will also do some catching when he's not pitching. Dunn was the number one pitcher on last year's National League All-Stars and manager Mitchell said Dunn will probably start Tuesday night's game.

Dillon gives the Nationals a good left-handed starter and he was a sure-handed first baseman on last year's team and will play there again this season. Dillon was also one of the top hitters in the National League this season.

"We're really counting on David (Dunn) and Mike (Dillon)," Mitchell said at Thursday's practice at Fort Mellon Park. "They both played in the tournament last year and know what to expect."

Joining Dunn on the All-Stars off National League champion Sunniland are second baseman-outfielder KoJack Hunt, infielder Guinn Byrd, left fielder Tyrone Chibberton, catcher-right fielder Don Hunt and center fielder Anton Stringer.

Ned June also made the team off Sunniland but he will not be able to play in the all-star tournament because of chicken pox.

Also making the all-star team are pitcher-shortstop Corey Bennett of Rinker Materials, pitcher-third baseman Demetry Beamon of Poppa Jay's, center fielder Mike Thomas of Poppa Jay's and pitcher-left fielder Bernard Sparrow of D.A.V.

The Little Nationals have nine 12-year-olds and four 11-year-olds on the team. The 12-year-olds include Dunn, KoJack Hunt, Byrd, Bennett, Thomas, Dillon and Stringer. The 11-year-olds are Chibberton, Beamon, Don Hunt and Sparrow.

Jimmy Caraway (Railroaders), Mathew Parker (Rinker) and Teco Livingston (D.A.V.) were also selected but Mitchell said they have not been at practice and he has been unable to contact them.

Pitching is expected to be the strong suit of the Sanford Nationals in all-star tournament play. Along with Dunn and Dillon, Bennett, Beamon and Sparrow are also top notch hurlers.

Defensively, Mitchell said the team is strong since there are a number of versatile players who are capable of playing more than one position.

"We're looking really good so far," Mitchell said. "Right now, we're mostly practicing fundamentals. We have strong pitching and kids who are talented enough to play any position I put them in."

Last year, the Nationals relied on defense and a pair of good starting pitchers.

"Outside of having better pitching, this is the same type of team as last year's," Mitchell said. "Putting the bat on the ball will make the difference for us."

Mitchell said Richard Peterson of Sunniland will serve as batboy if he is not activated from his alternate's position.

Lewis, Florida Top Georgia, 16-7

ORLANDO (UPI) — Wide receiver Ronnie Lewis caught four passes for 85 yards enroute to a 16-7 victory for Florida and the most valuable player award Saturday night in the second annual Georgia-Florida high school football game.

Eddie Miles, of Miami Springs High School, returned an interception of 57 yards for a touchdown early in the final quarter to shut of Georgia's final offensive threat before 17,000 at Orlando Stadium.

After a first quarter marked by missed opportunities for both squads, Florida went 59 yards in five plays to score early in the second period.

A 35-yard pass from Vincent Robinson to Lewis, both of Jacksonville Raines High School, set up a six-yard sweep by Reggie Demps, of Orlando's Oak Ridge High School.

Moments later Allen Ward of Pensacola's Escambia High

Football

School, capped a seven-play drive with a 35-yard field goal for a 9-0 halftime lead.

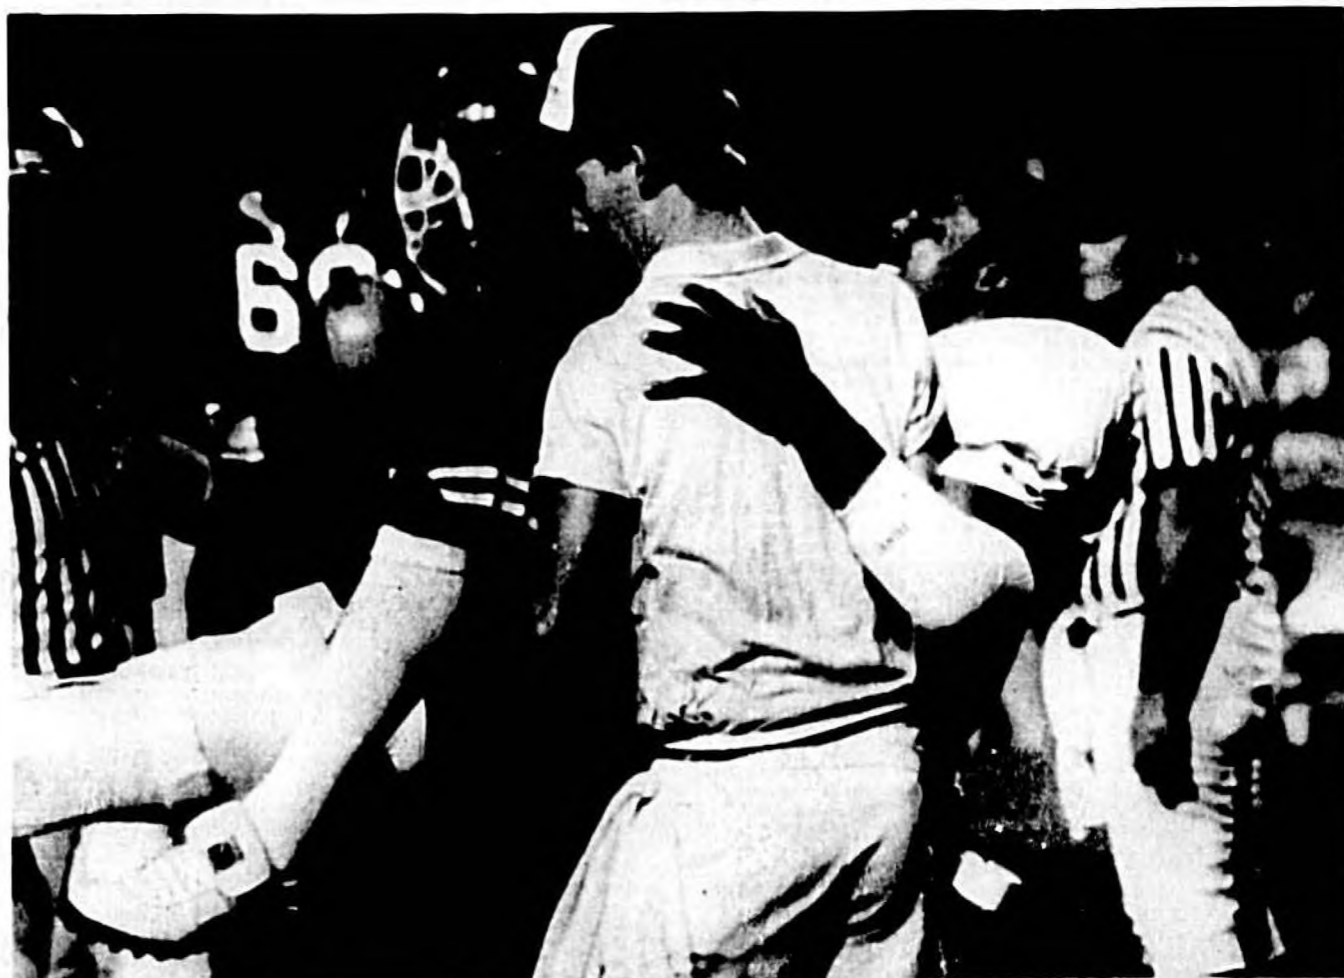

Georgia scored midway through when William Kent, West Rome High School, hauled in a 53-yard bomb to cut the margin to 9-7.

But shortly afterward, Miles' interception halted Georgia's momentum.

Linebacker David Lowe, Satellite Beach High School, was named Florida's defensive MVP, as he spearheaded a unit that held Georgia's potent offense to only 275 total yards.

Nose guard James Carter, Valdosta-Lowndes High School, was voted Georgia's defensive standout, while Kent was named offensive MVP.

Florida has won both games of the young contest.

Nationals Rough On AAU Teams

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Life is certainly not a dream in the losers' bracket but that is where two Central Florida girls basketball teams must work their way out of in the AAU/USA Junior Olympic National Championships at Plainville, Conn.

Jiffy Lube Central Florida Select, the area's 16 and under team, dropped a tough overtime decision in its opener while Team Central Florida, the 18 and under all-stars, cruised to an opening-round win before being nipped in round two.

Both teams, which feature Seminole County standouts, continue play in the national tourney today where they hope to stay alive in the losers' bracket.

Jiffy Lube, coached by Lake Mary High's Bill Moore, bowed to Missouri Valley (Kansas City), 94-92, in overtime in Saturday's opener. Missouri Valley jumped out to a 16-2 lead in the opening seven minutes before Jiffy Lube grabbed the momentum and took a 21-20 lead with eight minutes left in the first half.

The second half was basket for basket and it ended up tied at 82-82 at the end of regulation. In overtime, Jiffy Lube had as much as a four-point lead before Missouri Valley came back to win it, scoring the deciding basket in the last 10 seconds.

"The girls played really well after a slow start," Moore said. "The game could have gone either way between two of the better teams in the tournament."

Maria Teal, out of St. Petersburg Gibbs High, was high for Jiffy Lube with 27 points while Titusville Astronaut's Brenda Green pumped in 18 points and Orlando Edgewater's Vanessa Taylor tossed in 12. Sanford's Teri Whyte, a Lake Mary High junior-to-be, chipped in with five points.

Lake Mary's Tonya Lawson and Lake Brantley's Ashley Thomas also saw action in the game but did not score. Jiffy Lube was scheduled to go up against Nebraska in today's losers' bracket contest.

Team Central Florida opened play in the 18 and under tourney with an 89-64 rout of Virginia on Saturday but then dropped a close one to Mississippi, 61-58, on Sunday.

IN BRIEF

Murphy's Best 'Report Card' Good For Canadian Open Title

OAKVILLE, Ontario (UPI) — Bob Murphy celebrated his Canadian Open victory, his first PGA Tour title in 11 years, with laughter and tears of joy over his $108,000 payday.

After an upbeat interview with the media, he phoned his wife Gail at the family's Stuart home and cried as he gave her and 17-year-old daughter Kimberly the good news.

"For once, my report card was better than Kimberly's," said Murphy, who ignored a 40-minute rain delay, and rode a 1-under-par 71 to victory.

Greg Norman, who tied the Glen Abbey Golf Course record with a 10-under-par 62 Saturday, soared to an erratic 1-over 73 to finish at 5-under 283. His $64,800 payday enabled him to up his 1986 earnings to a record $547,779, passing the $542,321 won by defending Canadian Open champion Curtis Strange last year.

But despite the impressive feat, a visibly angry Norman bypassed the customary media interview and said he had to catch a plane as he brushed by two reporters.

"It was just Bob Murphy's day, that's all," said the Australian, outside the clubhouse. "I obviously didn't play that well."

Norman reiterated, "I told you I didn't play well," before he jumped into a van, still wearing his spikes, and driving away.

Murphy, who has been plagued by a pinched nerve in his neck since last year, was sympathetic.

"I was certain Greg Norman would be the one to watch, not me," said Murphy, a 19-year veteran who got a larger paycheck that his entire 1985 earnings of $99,031 and has won a career high $143,383 this year. "I'm sure Greg was very disappointed. If I'd shot a 62, I'd expect to win, too."

LPGA: Palmer Wins In Playoff

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — After Sandra Palmer won her first LPGA tournament in four years, in a three-way playoff, her self-doubts were overcome. They were not forgotten, merely mastered.

Palmer sank a 12-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole Sunday to take the $350,000 LPGA Mayflower Classic. The putt eliminated Jan Stephenson and Chris Johnson and made Palmer, one of the tour's oldest golfers at age 45, the 13th LPGA player to reach the $1 million mark in earnings.

"It has been rough," Palmer said. "This (winning) is the ultimate but there have been a lot of heartaches and frustrations and wondering if you should do something else. I've had some really horrible, horrible stretches."

Palmer, the 1975 U.S. Women's Open winner and former LPGA Player of the Year, had not won since the 1982 Boston Five Classic.

"This week I played four rounds as well as I have ever played," Palmer said. "I was really determined. I really didn't make many putts but going into the playoff, I knew I was going to make the putt."

Sullivan Bumps Way To Prix Win

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Danny Sullivan was involved in an important bumping incident Sunday in the Chase Grand Prix at the Meadowlands, for his second race in a row.

Two weeks ago, at Portland, Ore., Michael Andretti tried to pass Sullivan and ended up forcing Sullivan off the course and out of the race. Sunday, Sullivan's bump with Bobby Rahal in the backstretch on the 75th lap helped him take the lead and he went on to win the race.

In contrast to Sullivan two weeks ago, Rahal had no harsh words for Sullivan, at least in public.

Sullivan, driving teammate Rick Mears' backup March, completed 100 laps at an average speed of 92.340 mph, breaking the previous record of 90.167 set last year by Al Unser Jr. The victory was his first since last year's CART finale at Miami and moved him into fifth place in the championship standings with 43 points.

Emerson Fittipaldi finished second in a March, 10.89 seconds back of 1985 Indianapolis 500 winner Sullivan, followed by Rahal, Roberto Guerrero and Jacques Villeneuve.

Junior Series Opens Tonight

A pitching duel between Moose's Mike "Dr. K" Merthie and Knights of Columbus ace Anton "Mr. K" Reid may be in the works tonight when the two teams meet in the first game of the Sanford Junior League Championship Series at Chase Park. The game is scheduled to start at 6 p.m.

The best of three series was forced on Friday night, the last night of the regular season, when Moose was upset by Smitty's Mower. Moose won the first half with an unbeaten record but dropped three of its last five in the second half. The Knights compiled an 8-2 second-half record.

Along with Merthie, Moose is led by Harvey Clinger, Tony "Oz" Chavers, Jeff Derr and Tony Pritchard. The Knights are led by Reid along with Henry June, George Frisnon and Ron Coffield.

The second game of the series will be played Tuesday night at 6 at Chase Park with the third game, if necessary, Thursday night at 6.

Douglass Nips Player At Seniors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Dale Douglass, admittedly not at the top of his game, managed to grit out a 1-shot victory over Gary Player in the seventh U.S. Senior Open Championship at Scioto Country Club.

Douglass, four shots in front of Player when the day began, scrambled to a 2-over par 73, but it was good enough for the $42,500 first prize.

Douglass had a 72-hole score of 5-under par 279, while Player, with a final round 70, finished at 280.

"I was holding on," said a drained Douglass, slipping on a can of beer while ignoring a bottle of champagne sitting beside him. "It was a very tense day for me. I wasn't hitting the ball all that well."

Barton Blasts Boost Renegades

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The Barton Gang sounds like a group of desperados out of the Old West or a bunch of hoodlums who roamed Chicago in the 1920s. But, this particular modern era Barton Gang consists of only two and is not wanted in any states — although opposing teams may swear it's a crime what they do to a softball.

Julie Barton and Leslie Barton, the twins who made their mark as dangerous hitters as freshman at Lake Howell High this past season, are continuing their power display over the summer with the Fern Park Renegades 15 and under all-star team.

This past weekend, with numerous more Barton blasts along the way, the Renegades won five straight games and the Conway Tournament title at Orlando.

The five wins ran the Renegades' summer tournament record to 35-4. It was the third consecutive tournament championship for the Fern Park club which returns to action this weekend at the prestigious Plantation Tournament.

In the five games at Conway, the Bartons combined to hit .518 (14 for 27) with five home runs.

In the Renegades' opener, a 7-4 win over the Ocoee Bandits, Julie Barton led the way as she was 3 for 3 with a homer. Tracy Brandenburg and Bobbie Osborne added two hits each to back the pitching of Kristin Bates.

Softball

In game two, both Leslie and Julie Barton hit over-the-fence home runs as the 'Gades bombed David, 18-0. Marcie Tooke was 3 for 4 and Bates combined with Val Monico to toss a three-hitter.

In game three, the Renegades went up against arch rival Seminole Savages and in another characteristically close battle between the two, it was Fern Park which came away with a 5-0 victory. The game was scoreless for the first four innings until the 'Gades put three on the board in the fifth and added two more in the top of the seventh.

The Savages had a chance to take the early lead when Corrie Lawson and Heather Meyer singled and Dawn DiPiero walked to load the bases with no outs in the bottom of the first. Tammy Jenerette then hit a smash back up the middle that pitcher Bates snared and she then fired to catcher Leslie Barton who relayed to third base for a key double play.

Hawks 2nd At Conway, Streak Ended

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The Seminole Hawks may have been grounded for the first time, but they're not about to give up their nest in the high-rent district of the state's 12 and under softball teams.

The Hawks' 23-game win streak and five-tournament championship streak came to an end this past weekend as West Orlando downed the Seminole Softball Club 12 and under representative twice at the Conway Tournament.

Seminole lost its first game

Softball

and came back with five straight wins in the losers' bracket before bowing to West Orlando, 3-1, in the tournament finals. This weekend, the Hawks, 28-2, will journey to the Plantation Tournament beginning Friday morning and concluding Sunday. After Plantation is the southern regional qualifier Metro Tournament.

"It'll be a different story if we meet West Orlando in the Metro Tournament," Hawks' manager Larry Risse said. "There won't be as many teams so we won't be playing as many games if we go into the losers' bracket. Playing all those games (this past weekend) really took a lot out of the girls."

In the Conway Tournament, West Orlando trimmed the Hawks, 4-3, in Friday's opener. The Hawks then made mincemeat of the losers' bracket opposition with wins over Tampa Spirit, 10-0. Clearwater, 7-0 (forfeit), Tampa Magic, 7-2. Osceola, 5-2, and host Conway, Jeanie Woods and Conya Johnson had RBI singles and Tooke a sacrifice fly to account for the runs in the fifth inning for the 'Gades while Julie Barton unloaded a solo homer to lead off the seventh.

Behind a pair of double plays and two hits each by Brandenburg and Woods, the Renegades downed the Orlando Express, 6-4. Fern Park scored five runs in the top of the fourth with Brandenburg's homer starting off the rally.

In the final, the Renegades built up a big lead early and coasted to a 12-7 victory over the Melbourne Sharks. The first five batters in the game for the 'Gades scored with Brandenburg, Wilson and Tooke getting RBI singles and Woods a sacrifice fly.

The Renegades pulled away in the third inning when Julie Barton and Wilson both singled and Leslie Barton then boomed a three-run homer. Brandenburg later belted home runs in the fourth and seventh frames.

For the tournament, Julie Barton had the top average at .562 (9 for 16) and she slugged three homers. Brandenburg hit .538 (7 for 13) and also clouted three round trippers. Woods hit .500 (7-14). Leslie Barton .454 (5-11) with two homers and Wilson finished at .437 (7-16).

12-3, before the final loss to West Orlando.

"The two games against West Orlando we didn't play our usual strong defense," Risse said. "In two games we made 10 errors and that's hard to overcome if you're not scoring any runs."

The leading hitter for the Hawks in the tournament was Renee Sanville who was 11 for 23 (.478) with two doubles and five RBIs. Michelle Davis hit .474 (9-19) with two RBIs. April Manning hit .454 (10-22) with an over-the-fence homer and seven RBIs.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Lawyers For Bundy, Stano Continue Appeals Process

MIAMI (UPI) — Defense attorneys launch a new round of appeals to spare serial killer Ted Bundy from Florida's electric chair on Wednesday, the 10th anniversary that capital punishment was reinstated in the United States.

The defense team was to appear today before Circuit Judge Edward Cowart and ask him to overturn Bundy's July 31, 1979, conviction for the murders of Lisa Levy and Margaret Bowman at the Chi Omega sorority house at Florida State University. Lawyer for Gerald Stano, set for execution the same day for the 1973 murder of a Port Orange teen, also is appealing.

Both Cowart and Florida's Supreme Court denied motions last week to stay Bundy's execution so defense lawyers could have more time to prepare new appeals.

The former University of Utah student who is a suspect in up to 36 murders — most of them in the Pacific Northwest — is scheduled to die in the "Old Sparky" electric chair at Florida State Prison at 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Bundy was also convicted and condemned for murdering 12-year-old Kimberly Leach, a straight-A student he abducted from Lake City Middle School in 1978.

The girl's father, Tom Leach, said he would like to witness the execution of the man who raped and murdered his daughter, but state officials won't allow it.

Dad Apologizes For Murder

MIAMI (UPI) — On the day Sweetwater police Officer James Beasley was buried, the father of the young man charged with murdering him telephoned from Brazil and apologized.

"I am sorry. I am very, very sorry," Carlos Lindgren said Saturday in a telephone call to The Miami Herald. "If this could be made possible, and if this police officer could regain his life, I would give him my own."

Lindgren telephoned the newspaper and said he wanted to leave a message for Beasley's family. His son, Miguel Lindgren, 18, is charged with running down Beasley at a roadblock during a high-speed chase in a stolen truck Wednesday. He is jailed on charges of second-degree murder.

The elder Lindgren, a Harvard-educated professor of urban planning at a college in Rio de Janeiro, had sent his son to Florida in January to work for a friend in Marco Island who owns a plumbing business. He said the boy needed hard work, and that he wanted him to start a new life in America.

"I am concerned about Miguel. But I am just as hurt because of the loss of this man's life. It is very hard to accept this, very hard to accept a loss of a human life," he said. "On the other hand, please, please I beg you, do not hate, do not mistreat and do not crucify my son. Miguel was scared. Miguel was in panic."

Doctors Stage Baby Boycott

ST. AUGUSTINE (UPI) — Obstetricians in the nation's oldest city say they will stop delivering babies Tuesday and will maintain the delivery boycott until they are relieved of emergency room welfare maternity duties.

"None of us are going to back up the emergency room for any obstetrics patients because of the liability problem," said Dr. Anthony Mussallem. "Every patient we treat is a potential lawsuit."

Instead of having their babies at the county welfare maternity clinic at Flager Hospital, the only facility in St. Johns County with an obstetrics unit, expectant mothers will be sent about 35 miles to Jacksonville's University Community Hospital.

Dr. Juan Larroude, one of the county's four obstetricians, said he will resign Tuesday as welfare clinic director because he "had no other choice but to say I can't do it."

Larroude said his malpractice insurance carrier, St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co., refused to renew his policy because he runs the clinic, supervises midwives and is not certified by a specialty board whose standards are higher than those required for state licensure.

"As long as I'm not involved with the clinic, I can have insurance," Larroude said. "We are at the mercy of the insurance companies."

Oil Companies To Leave Libya

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five American oil companies, final vestiges of a once-robust U.S. commercial presence, are expected to leave Libya today under the most severe embargo the United States has with any country, the Treasury Department says.

By a Jan. 7 executive order, issued in reaction to the Dec. 27 terrorist bombings at the Rome and Vienna airports, President Reagan imposed an almost total ban on any commercial contacts with Libya.

Reagan said in his order that the general embargo, the most severe the United States has with any country, was imposed because, "The policies and actions of the government of Libya constitute a threat to the national security and foreign policy of the United States."

As part of the order, all commercial transactions between Americans and Libya were banned, including the pumping of oil. The administration ordered the five remaining American oil companies out, after giving them an extension until June 30 to try to sell their assets.

In 1982, the administration banned the import of any Libyan crude oil into the United States, and in November 1985, the import of any Libyan refined petroleum products was banned.

The Jan. 7 executive order completed the process of isolating Libya economically from the United States, which also warned European nations that the administration would disapprove of any attempt to try to take commercial advantage of the embargo.

The five American companies involved are Marathon, Occidental, W.R. Grace, Conoco and Amerada Hess. Their combined total of the Libyan petroleum market is thought to be less than 1 percent.

A Treasury official said, "We expect all of them will comply."

The official said the American companies can continue to try to negotiate the sale of their assets to the Libyan government, but the oil companies' American citizens will have to conduct such dealings from outside of Libya.

The penalty for disobeying the executive order — which does not apply to journalists and certain humanitarian groups — is a fine of $50,000 and a jail term of 10 years. In addition, there is a civil penalty of $10,000 for each offense.

Neither the State nor the Treasury departments has any accurate idea of how many American citizens remain in Libya. At the time of the executive order, the State Department estimated between 1,000 and 1,500 Americans or dual Libyan-American nationals were in Libya, but there is evidence that many of them left.

"Moreover, any claim that these cases nevertheless stand for the proposition that any kind of private sexual conduct between consenting adults is constitutionally insulated from state proscription is unsupportable."

Five members of the court agreed with White that skewing election districts for political advantage — named gerrymandering for early American politician Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts — is unconstitutional, but only three joined his reasoning. Justices Lewis Powell and John Paul Stevens said the controlling opinion makes it too hard to prove gerrymandering has occurred and also said they believed Indiana Democrats had proven an unconstitutional gerrymander.

Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor and William Rehnquist concurred only with that part of the controlling opinion that upheld the 1981 Indiana maps. Writing for the three, O'Connor said gerrymandering is a "political question that the judiciary should leave to the legislative branch as the framers of the Constitution unquestionably intended."

In another major decision today, the court ruled 5-4 that the Constitution does not give homosexuals a right to engage in sodomy. The decision involved a Georgia law that applies to all people and makes oral and anal sex a crime.

The court also issued an opinion today in another key reapportionment case, ruling that North Carolina violated the rights of black voters in drawing seven legislative districts four years ago.

The court, in an opinion by Justice William Brennan, said the Voting Rights Act does not entitle black voters to safe seats in elections, but that there was sufficient evidence that the multi-member districts were used in North Carolina to keep blacks out of office.

day after her son died, was reported to be improving at Community Hospital in Sacramento. Her condition was upgraded from critical to serious.

Pawlowski said Rogers did not have any congenital heart disease related to his mother's ailment.

She collapsed at her Sacramento home while hugging sympathizers on what was to have been her son's wedding day. Rogers and Leslie Nelson, 22, were to have been married in Oakland before 900 invited guests.

Rogers' death came just eight days after the death from cocaine of basketball star Len Bias of the University of Maryland. Pawlowski said, "There are many parallels between the two cases."

He said his belief that cocaine caused Rogers' death was based on "experience with similar cases, where we see a similar type of background — a well person, a young person, at a recent party, with no evidence of natural disease to account for organ failure. There's clinical seizure activity, stress regression to coma, problems with cardiovascular function and death."

"If you present that scenario to forensic pathologists, at the top of the list would be ... drug intoxication," Pawlowski said.

Rogers, his younger brother and his friends from high school, UCLA and the Browns had celebrated Thursday night at a $375-a-night hotel suite and a nightclub, called Confetti.

Witnesses said the men were drinking. Fred Schafer, general manager of the nightclub, said, "They were just acting like everyone else ... only maybe a little louder."

New Home Sales Decline In May

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sales of new single-family homes declined at an annual rate of 11.6 percent in May, but sales for the first five months of this year were still better than they have been since 1978, the Commerce Department said Monday.

The seasonally adjusted annual rate of new home sales in May was 764,000, down from a revised 864,000 in April, according to a Census Bureau report.

The month-to-month decline, the second in a row following a revised 5.7 percent decline in April, was the largest since January 1984, when sales dropped by 13 percent at an annual rate. The revised March level of 916,000 marked the swiftest pace of new homes since 1978.

An estimated 72,000 new homes were sold last month in the United States, down from 82,000 in April. The numbers are adjusted for seasonal changes and extended for 12 months to arrive at the annual rate.

An estimated 356,000 were sold in the first five months of this year, also the highest since 1978, when 360,000 new homes were sold in the same five-month period.

The May rate is still 12 percent higher than the May 1985 pace of 684,000.

The median sales price of homes sold during the month was $92,300, down from $92,500 in April. The average price, on the other hand, was $116,100, up from $111,900.

the report said.

The changes reflect a disproportionate number of expensive homes on the market, which in turn reflect a "buy-up" trend among current home buyers taking advantage of mortgage interest rates that averaged about 10.75 percent on conventional loans last month.

The current brisk pace of housing construction and sales is associated with a 2.5 percent to 3 percent decline in mortgage rates over the last 12 months. The rates bottomed out at around 10 percent in April.

Ground was broken for new homes at an annual rate of 1,888,000 in May, down 7.4 percent from the previous month, according to a separate report released by the bureau in mid-June.

At the end of the month, some 334,000 new homes remained on the market, representing a supply of 5.4 months at the current rate of sale, up from 4.8 months in April. The supply index, which averaged about 6 months in 1985, fell to an eight-year low of 4.5 months in March.

Regionally, the largest decline in residential sales came in the West, where new homes were sold at an annual rate of 193,000 last month, down from 249,000 in April.

Sales dipped from 352,000 to 330,000 in the South and from 165,000 to 146,000 in the Northeast, the report said. In the Midwest, new home sales slipped from 98,000 to 95,000 at an annual rate.

Timothy Daniel 'Pappy' Wilson Dead At 83

At 12:05 a.m. today Acosta was arrested.

The boy appeared to have been shot only once, Hagood said. He added that early today it had not been determined exactly how many gunshot wounds the other victims suffered.

The group had lived at that home since November and the suspect is self-employed in the automobile business in Orlando, Hagood said. Both Acosta and Ms. Montero are natives of Cuba and Hagood said he was waiting for an interpreter to assist him in questioning Ms. Montero.

The shootings, he said according to the Miss Aragon, were the result of an argument between her mother and the suspect. Hagood said at this point there is no indication of drug or alcohol involvement.

Acosta was being held in the Seminole County jail and an autopsy on the boy was scheduled at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford today.

Prenatal Course Announced

The full gamut of change due to pregnancy is explored in the six classes of the prenatal course presented free of charge by Central Florida Regional Hospital starting July 15.

Held Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. at the hospital, the course will run through August 19.

Pregnancy is not only a time of physical change, but emotional adjustments which many times are unpredictable. The many aspects of this time in the life of a family are covered by course instructors which include an obstetrician, pediatrician, a dietitian, and an obstetric nurse as well as a CPR instructor.

The course is not only constructive but provides an opportunity to mix with other couples who can share experiences, fears, concerns and even dreams.

During the parenting class there are segments which address the role of grandparents and children within the family. Grandparents are invited to come at this time.

Mothers-to-be are encouraged to enroll early in pregnancy. To register call Central Florida Regional at 321-4500 or 668-4441, extension 607.

Seniors Selected For Scholarship

Two Seminole County seniors have been selected among the top five students statewide competing for the Rich Plan Scholarship.

Tammy Lynne McGuckin of Lyman High School, Longwood, will receive the top sponsorship award of $1,000. McGuckin, coined "the bright eyes of the class", is an active member of the community and has been recognized for her volunteer efforts with the Daughters of the American Revolution's Good Citizenship Award. She plans to attend the University of Alabama and major in Computer Engineering. McGuckin's goal is to "continue her learning process and help advance the technology of our nation."

Jerome (Jerry) Charles Smith of Lake Brantley High School, Altamonte Springs, will receive a $500 sponsorship. Smith placed among the top ten percent of his graduating class and his credits include the National Honor Society, community involvement and the All-State Chorus. He intends to pursue a career in technology at Duke University in North Carolina.

The Scholarship Fund is sponsored for Rich Plan customers.

Diabetic Update Offered

Central Florida Regional Hospital on Lake Monroe, Sanford, will be offering a series of free classes to update diabetics and their families.

The Diabetes Series: Update begins July 2 and will continue through Aug. 7. Daytime classes are scheduled on Thursday afternoons from 2:30-4 p.m. Evening classes are scheduled on Wednesdays from 7-8:30 p.m.

The latest information on What is Diabetes, Food Exchanges, Menu Planning, Medication and Diabetic Lifestyles will be reviewed.

To pre-registration for the free program call Nursing Education at 321-4500, 668-4441 or 628-8797, ext. 607.

Degree Presented To Abramson

The largest graduating class in Siena College's history — 745 students — received undergraduate degrees. Nine graduated summa cum laude, 73 magna cum laude and 85 cum laude.

Louise B. Abramson, 140 Rollingwood Terrace, Altamonte Springs, graduated with a degree in finance.

Respiratory Therapy Class Set

Seminole Community College is now accepting applications for those interested in pursuing a career as a Respiratory Therapy Technician. The College offers both a full-time and a part-time tract, with classes beginning August 25.

Graduate technicians will be eligible to sit for the National Board for Respiratory Care, "Certification Examination".

To apply for admission to this year's class, please go to the Admissions Office in the Administration Building. For more information, please call 323-1450 or from Orlando, 843-7001, extensions 440 or 320.

Wells Named To Dean's List

Dara Wells of Sanford was among the 384 students named to the Valdosta State College Dean's List for spring quarter, according to Dr. Malcolm F. Ruiney, vice president for academic affairs.

Students must carry 10 hours or more course work and have a quarterly grade point average of 3.86 on a 4.0 scale with a cumulative g.p.a. of 3.0 to qualify for the academic honor list.

Terri Lynn Grant And Cary H. Smith Exchange Vows

Terri Lynn Grant, 2015 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, and Cary H. Smith, 103 Country Place, Sanford, were married at 7 p.m. on April 25 at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford. Father Lyle Danan was the officiating clergyman for the candle ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Randall and Irene Grant, 3443 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford. The bridegroom's parents are Dr. Robert J. Smith and Sanford Mayor Bettye D. Smith, 103 Country Place.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. The fitted lace bodice was accented with a high neckline and puffed leg-of-mutton sleeves that were fitted below the elbow. A matching headpiece held her fingertip veil of imported illusion studded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses interspersed with baby's breath.

Sue-Anne Thibodeaux attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a pink lace over silk tea-length gown with a pink silk rose wreath in her hair. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses.

Bridesmaids were Lynn Gifford, Lisa Grant and Ronda Bauder. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Alan Janak served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were John McMurrer and Michael Perry. Groomsmen were Robert J. Smith and John L. Smith, brothers of the bridegroom, and Robert Capko.

Flower girls were Emily Pridgeon and Brandy Shaw. Ryan Grant was the ring bearer.

Following a reception at the Woman's Club of Sanford, the newlyweds departed on a Caribbean cruise and stay at New Smyrna Beach. They are making their home at 109 Winterglen, Sanford.

Mrs. Cary H. Smith

Lump Not Caused By Appendicitis

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 13-year-old girl. Lately, when I press just under my left breast I feel a hard, round object. I know this seems funny for a girl my age, but could it be appendicitis?

DEAR DR. GOTT — No, this is not appendicitis. The lump may be in the breast, the subcutaneous tissue or on the ribcage. Because I cannot define your problem from the information you supply, I suggest you make an appointment with your doctor. He or she will examine you and clear up the mystery.

Appendicitis causes pain and tenderness, usually in the lower right abdomen. It is not associated with a lump.

DEAR DR. GOTT — In the past five years I have had three sebaceous cysts, one tumor and part of my cervix removed (cone biopsy). Three blood relatives died of lung cancer. Are these factors related?

DEAR READER — I do not believe that your relatives' lung cancers are related to your problem.

Sebaceous cysts are common and play no role whatsoever in causing your problems. I assume from your question that no further gynecological surgery was performed, so the cone biopsy probably removed all the dysplasia (abnormal tissue) and was done because your Pap smear showed some abnormalities. Routine follow-up by your gynecologist probably will be all that is necessary.

I am less certain about the "one tumor" you had removed. Depending on its location and whether it was malignant, it may be related to future difficulties. On the basis of the tumor and the cervical biopsy, you would be wise, I think, to ask your doctor to review the whole situation with you. I believe this is the kind of individual care to which every patient is entitled.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 32-year-old woman. I go to my gynecologist every six months but haven't had a physical in 10 years. I am in good health except for minor complaints, and have had no reason to go for a checkup. Is it necessary for a person my age to have a physical?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Calculating the right percentage play at the bridge table can be a baffling and perplexing exercise. Bart Bramley held today's South cards when the deal was played last March in the finals of the Vanderbilt Cup, that national team championship named after the inventor of contract bridge.

After West had led ace and a diamond, the outlook for game looked good — all South had to do was play the A-K of clubs and ruff a club. Even if the opponents take a heart trick, declarer will still have 10 tricks. On the third club, however, a slight problem arises. Should declarer ruff with the heart 10? If he does and the defenders' hearts are divided 4-0, he will lose two heart tricks. On the other hand, if he ruffs low, he might be overruffed with a small heart, and later the defenders might still come to the heart king. Bramley ruffed low and was overruffed by the seven, and then East held up once with the spade ace to deny declarer entry to dummy to take a heart finesse.

Bramley's play was right. Hearts will split 4-0 a little less than 10 percent of the time. Although clubs will divide 6-2 about 17 percent of the time, declarer was concerned only with half of that 17 percent — namely, the chance that the six were in West's hand. Furthermore, even when the small heart is overruffed, quite often that overruff is from a holding of K-x of heart, and the bared king will then drop under the ace.

Nice play, Bart! Or, as your teammates told you, the operation was successful but the patient died.

 Much of the stress and tension you've experienced in the past will be alleviated in the year ahead. Fun times are in the offing, as well as a more exciting social life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be treated with the consideration and respect you deserve today by authority figures. Deal with the big shots, not their underlings. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An important personal objective will be achieved today, but you won't bring it off unaided. Another will have a hand in it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Y o u r ideas and suggestions have tremendous impact today. You'll be especially effective in committee work or speaking before a group.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A change for the better will occur today in an important career matter. But you must move swiftly when you see the favorable signals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Harmony will be restored in a relationship where there has been discord recently. Previous disagreements will be eradicated.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial indicators look favorable for you both today and tomorrow. Your material opportunities will come from a new source.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It won't hurt to seek others out for advice today, provided you don't discount your own good judgment where an important decision is concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Essential household chores that you have been brushing aside lately can be successfully accomplished today if you put your mind to it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll call favorable attention to yourself today regardless of where you go and with whom. You deserve the spotlight, so don't try to duck it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you might find it necessary to do some shopping for incidentals. Take your checkbook along, because it's possible you may spot a fantastic bargain.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're a fast thinker today, and this could put you in a position to make some advantageous moves while your competition is still pondering the basic facts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Important material trends tend to favor you today. Conditions that you will be unaware of are stirring behind the scenes for your betterment.

Leaders Proclaim Normalcy; Police Disperse Protestors

By Patricia Kosa

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Police dispersed demonstrators in Poznan as Communist Party leader Wojciech Jaruzelski, hailing the nation's "return to normalcy," promised limited amnesty for some political prisoners.

The demonstration in Poznan Sunday by some 5,000 supporters of the outlawed Solidarity trade union was one of the biggest since martial law was lifted in July 1983.

Zomo riot police armed with truncheons moved in to break up the protest in Poznan — a city in western Poland — two hours after Jaruzelski began an optimistic, four-hour speech in Warsaw at the opening of the nation's first Communist Party Congress since martial law was imposed in 1981.

The Congress was attended by 1,776 delegates and representatives of 107 countries — including Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Most of the delegates who spoke Sunday praised Gorbachev.

"The workers of the world have waited for a leader of such profile since the era of Lenin," said delegate Wladyslaw Matoga.

In Poznan, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Poland, celebrated a mass marking the 30th anniversary of the first uprising against communist rule in Poland. All of the nation's bishops and some 30,000 faithful attended the service.

"The workers in 1956 protested against the committed errors (of authorities) and paid with their blood," Glemp told the crowd.

Church sources said authorities tried unsuccessfully to dissuade the church from holding the mass the same day the Congress opened.

After the service, some 5,000 demonstrators attempted to march to a monument commemorating 74 workers slain in the uprising. Police moved in with clubs and dispersed the demonstrators in about 15 minutes. Numerous detentions were reported but no specific information was available on the number of people held.

The events in Poznan sharply contrasted the generally optimistic and moderate tone of the Jaruzelski speech.

"The situation in the country is characterized by the return to normalcy and creates the atmosphere for the weakening of penalty measures," the Polish leader said in announcing a limited amnesty for some of the nation's estimated 250 political prisoners.

Jaruzelski said the "humanitarian initiative" would cover only certain categories of political prisoners, an indication prominent leaders of the banned Solidarity union — such as Wladyslaw Frasyniuk, Bogdan Lis and Adam Michnik — would not benefit from the amnesty.

Communist Party spokesman Jerzy Majka later told reporters those freed "must take into account the fact they will not restart their criminal activity."

Homosexuals Parade Amid Protestors

By United Press International

Thousands of Gay Pride Day celebrants, subdued by AIDS casualties among their friends, paraded through New York, Chicago and San Francisco despite counter demonstrations by anti-homosexual groups including the Ku Klux Klan.

About 350 "Dykes on Bikes" led San Francisco's homosexual's march down Market Street Sunday. The women on motorcycles, clad in leather miniskirts and pants, were followed by groups such as the Bay Area S&M club and 25 AIDS research teams.

"It's not as good this year. They're kind of a quiet crowd," spectator Margaret Nimau said. "They're kind of subdued, but then they've got this thing (AIDS) to lick."

The marchers carried signs protesting an initiative backed by extremist Lyndon LaRouche to place acquired immune deficiency syndrome victims in isolation. Police reported some bottle throwing but no major incidents along the parade route.

"In Israel, you can't see this," awed tourist Moshe Goldstein of Haifa said, staring in amazement at a man wearing black leather chaps exposing his derriere and toting a sign saying "I am gay and I love you."

In Chicago, in the second Ku Klux Klan demonstration in two days, about 30 KKK members, wearing camouflage fatigues and helmets, marched Sunday to protest the 31,000-strong Gay Pride Parade.

The KKK marchers carried white crosses, red shields and signs that read "AIDS kills ... quarantine (sic) the queers."

About 10 anti-Klan demonstrators shouted "white supremacy, we say no. The KKK has got to go."

About 120 police officers kept the protesters apart, but three anti-KKK demonstrators were arrested.

In New York, which has the nation's largest homosexual population, about 150 sign-carrying anti-homosexual protesters shouted "sick, sick, sick" at marchers approaching St. Patrick's Cathedral. The group held up crosses and twisted rosary beads, praying for the homosexual marchers.

In a court-approved agreement, 25 people each from pro and anti-homosexual Roman Catholic groups were allowed to demonstrate at the cathedral. Some 1,900 police officers and 30 parade marshals prevented conflicts between the groups by forming a physical barrier between the marchers and protesters.

"This is a way to celebrate who and what we are," said Matt Foreman, a coordinator of the parade from Columbus Circle to Greenwich Village, which he called the city's largest ever with more than 12,000 participants.

But the march was overcast by sadness over the lives lost to AIDS and the knowledge that homosexuals have "a long way to go to get respect," he said.

Gorbachev Lauds Polish Leader

WARSAW (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev warmly praised Polish Communist Party leader Wojciech Jaruzelski for "rebuffing the opponents of socialism" by imposing martial law and attacked the Reagan administration for its arms policies.

In a 40-minute speech to the Polish Communist Party Congress, Gorbachev said Poland "owes very much to its prominent leader" and thanked the Polish people for their sympathy after the Chernobyl nuclear disaster.

"Relying on the leadership, relying on the solidarity of their friends, (the Polish people) led the country out from the dramatic situation by means of their own forces and rebuffed the attack of the opponents of socialism," he said.

Martial law was imposed under Jaruzelski in December 1981, crushing the independent Solidarity trade union at a time of growing freedom and unrest that was tempting the Soviet Union to intervene with troops.

"I want to assure the congress and the whole Polish nation that in the future we shall be your friends under every circumstance," Gorbachev said in an indication the Soviet Union will continue to keep a close eye on its East bloc neighbor.

As Gorbachev was speaking, eight demonstrators from Italy, France, Spain and Belgium hurled a large banner in front of the ornate palace of congress reading, "free political prisoners" and handing out leaflets with the same message.

Police quickly intervened but two demonstrators chained themselves to the barrier and six others lay down on the sidewalk until they were carried away.

Gorbachev blamed "the obstruction of the American administration" for a lack of progress on arms control, particularly the decision to end adherence to the unratified Salt 2 arms control treaty.

"It cannot be reconciled with the spirit of the agreement achieved last year in Geneva," he said, referring to the arms summit.

He also warned the United States to "treat seriously" its proposals to rid Europe of medium-range nuclear weapons and conventional weapons and hinted Soviet troops would be withdrawn from Eastern Europe but the Americans should do the same in Western Europe.

"Our troops are not anchored permanently but the anchor should be lifted on both sides of the ship," he said.

Turning to the Chernobyl disaster April 26 that released a cloud of radioactivity, Gorbachev got a standing ovation when he thanked the Polish people for their understanding and support.

"I want to thank you, comrades, for the solidarity which you showed in connection with this misfortune which affected us," he said. "We know this misfortune affected you, too. That's why still more precious to us is your support."

Radioactivity from Chernobyl passed over Poland and its fruit and vegetable products were temporarily banned from Western nations.

In Jaruzelski's opening speech on Sunday, he attempted to portray Poland as having returned to normalcy after martial law. But as he was speaking police were breaking up a pro-Solidarity demonstration by 5,000 supporters in the western city of Poznan.

Jaruzelski proposed a partial amnesty for some of the nation's approximately 250 political prisoners but there were indications prominent leaders of the banned Solidarity union such as Wladyslaw Frasyniuk, Bogdan Lis or Adam Michnik will not be affected.

The congress was attended by 1,776 delegates and representatives of 107 countries.

Economic Woes More A Threat To Gadhafi Than U.S. Bombs

By Marie Colvin

TRIPOLI, Libya (UPI) — Libya's economic shambles has forced shop owners to pull down their shutters for good and Libyans to line up for bread. The departure of U.S. oil companies could force further belt-tightening among an already grumbling population.

Foreign diplomats and businessmen in Libya say the country's economic problems are more of a threat to Col. Moammar Gadhafi than U.S. bombs.

"If Reagan really wanted to hit this country very badly, he could easily have done it without missiles," said one West European diplomat. "Everything in this country is American." He was exaggerating, but not by much.

President Reagan ordered out of Libya by June 30, five American companies pumping and marketing Libyan oil — Occidental Petroleum, W.R. Grace, Amerada Hess, Conoco and Marathon — and six U.S. oil service companies.

Reagan's Jan. 7 executive order froze Libyan assets in the United States and ordered all American businesses and all Americans except journalists and spouses of Libyans to leave the country by Feb. 1. Reagan gave oil firms special exemptions when they claimed immediate departure would leave their oil revenues, and $1 billion in assets, to Gadhafi.

Oil analysts say Libya has been pumping petroleum at a furious rate to raise as much as possible before the deadline. In April it was producing about 850,000 barrels per day (bpd). In June the National Oil Company said production averaged 1.1 million bpd. Oil analysts said it hit as high as 1.4 million bpd on some days.

Oil analysts estimate U.S. firms pumped about 40 percent of Libya's oil and provided it with 40 percent of its foreign earnings.

Diplomats estimate 800 Americans have remained in Libya, most of them illegally. They are seldom seen because they work on huge oil camps in the desert, earning far more than they could back home.

National Oil Company Chairman Abdullah Badri said the departure of American companies would have no effect on the Libyan oil revenues.

"It will not affect us at all," he said in his plush Tripoli office. "As far as our operations are concerned, we have been running it ourselves for the past three or four years. As far as the market is concerned, we have been seeking new avenues for our oil for several months and we have found them."

Industry analysts in Tripoli said the key will be whether Washington allows the American companies to keep marketing. If Libya can continue pumping its oil and the U.S. companies market it, they see little change.

Should the United States cut that avenue, they say, Libya will have to market approximately 600,000 barrels of oil a day more than it is doing now. They say its marketing company, Brega International, is not set up to do that.

"Right now, Brega is marketing Libyan oil for domestic consumption and handling some barter deals," one diplomat said. "If the U.S. companies are barred from marketing Libyan oil ... Libya will have to search out new markets."

Gadhafi says he is unconcerned.

"We lived for 200 years without oil. We will be fine," he said in a recent interview with United Press International. That unreality is reflected in Libya's dealings.

It insists on the OPEC price to customers who can buy barrels of crude at $14 on the spot market. The lowest Libya has gone is to offer Italy oil for $17 in partial payment of its $650 million debt. Rome said no the same day.

"They have their heads in the sand," said a British oil expert who trains Libyan engineers. "Decisions are not being made. It is a disaster and no one seems to be doing anything about it."

Regardless of an American pullout, mismanagement and the plunge in oil prices have sent the economy into a crisis that could threaten Gadhafi's revolution.

Libya relies on oil for 99 percent of its income. Oil prices dropped from $30 in November to a current figure below $13 on the spot market.

In 1979 Libya earned $22 billion from its highly valued light Essider oil. Last year it earned $8 billion. This year it is expected to earn only about half as much.

The problems this has caused are visible in every aspect of daily life.

In the 1970s, spiraling oil revenues put television sets into Bedouin tents. Today Libyans line up outside butcher stores when there is a delivery of scarce meat, men on one side and women on the other as dictated by Moslem custom.

The shop closes when the meat runs out. It may not reopen for days.

During Ramadan, the Moslem month of daytime fasting, Tripoli residents had to line up for bread.

Fighting broke out in the central Omar Mukhtar street over a shipment of shoes from East Europe. Customers bought as many as they could regardless of size. No one tried any on. "You can trade later," one customer explained.

Green shutters are down over about half the shops at the souk, the once bustling ancient market.

The huge Souk al-Magamah supermarket opened with fanfare by Gadhafi three years ago is a canyon of bare shelves. The only food for sale is canned milk from Holland — shelves and shelves of it, ghee from India and a shelf of dented cans of Italian tomatoes. Modern refrigerator cases are empty. No one even bothers to plug them in.

The government has canceled $1 billion in construction projects. West European diplomats say.

An extravagant plan for a Hungarian firm to build a subway system in Tripoli has been canceled. A Turkish firm has been waiting since 1983 for a down payment to begin building a $46 million housing project at Marsa el Brega. Gadhafi owes about $9 billion to foreign governments.

Gadhafi's esoteric economic theories have not helped the economy.

In 1978, the Libyan leader came out with his "Third Universal Theory," published in the "Green Book," which may be the only thing in plentiful supply in Libya.

Under the theory, private property was mostly eliminated, large businesses were nationalized and businessmen barred from importing goods.

Smaller shops were ordered to follow the "partners not wage earners" tenet. Businessmen cannot pay wages to anyone but a family member. They must split their profits in an enforced partnership.

Stores closed overnight.

East European diplomats say the economic problems have fueled tensions in the military.

When he was flush with oil, Gadhafi could pamper his soldiers. They bought at subsidized stores and gave their families the goods or sold them on the side for a profit.

Now the stores are still open, but there is nothing in them. Other privileges have gone as well.

Although grumbling is louder and more open than ever before, there is no sign of a popular uprising. Libyans still remember the improvements Gadhafi made in their lifestyle in the 16 years since he and fellow junior officers ousted King Idris in a bloodless coup.

And with a population of only about 3.5 million, Libya is still relatively prosperous. The downtown is shabby and buildings need paint, but everyone has a house and schooling and medical care are free. Beggars are a rarity.

Besides, there is a streak of passivity that makes Libyans more fatalistic than aggressive. The guiding tenet is "Inshallah" — If God wills. It's the invariable answer to any question about the future, even "see you tomorrow."

Israeli Court Takes Up Scandal

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Four petitions came before Israel's Supreme Court today calling for an investigation into the 1984 beating deaths of two Palestinian bus hijackers in Israeli custody.

The Knesset, Israel's parliament, also set a debate on no-confidence motions raised by minor political parties in the case, which caused the head of the Shin Bet internal security service, Avraham Shalom, to submit his resignation.

The Jerusalem Post reported today that Shalom was expected to remain at his post for another three to six months, despite his formal resignation last week.

The Supreme Court debate on the four petitions and the Knesset hearing were not expected to result in an immediate resolution of the scandal, in which Prime Minister Shimon Peres is facing growing pressure from three Cabinet allies to order an inquiry.
