Thirteenth Falls On Friday For 3rd Time

Today happens to be Friday—and the 13th. And today is the third time it has happened this year. The first time it was in January and the second in April. So if you barked your shin on the running board of your car, or found a hole in your best trousers' pocket and all your cigaret money gone, don't be surprised. Just laugh and bear it. The day will be over at midnight. And if you're superstitious, don't feel too downcast. This is the last time there will be a Friday, the 13th, this year and once the day is done, you can walk the streets in peace until 1929.

SETTLEMENT OF CHILE-PERU ROW IS NEAR AT HAND

Rupture Over Famous Tana-
Africa Case To Be Healed
Soon In The Resumption
Of Diplomatic Relations

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS)—Diplomatic relations between Chile and Peru, ruptured for 17 years, will be resumed as soon as necessary steps can be taken, according to assurance given to Secretary Kellogg by the ministers of foreign affairs of the two countries.

The accord between Chile and Peru was brought about through the efforts of Secretary Kellogg in a note transmitted to both governments July 9. The replies of the respective foreign ministers accepting Kellogg's proposal to resume diplomatic relations, were made public at the state department today, together with the text of the American note.

In diplomatic circles and State Department circles, the accord is believed to be the forerunner of settlement of the famous Tana-Africa dispute first attempted by president Harding offering his good offices.

In identical notes Secretary Kellogg said he felt confident reestablishment of diplomatic relations was consistent "with the highest interests of the two great nations."

Robinson, Curtis Become Neighbors In Senate Building

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS)—Senators Charles Curtis and Joseph T. Robinson, vice-presidential candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties, political foes and personal friends, have become good neighbors for a few days after taking the stump to flay each other's political policies.

Their offices in the senate office building, now 401 and 405, are on opposite sides of the hall. Both offices have been dilapidated with care since their return here, but the two rivals were expected to have a friendly chat today.

Senator Robinson, who stopped here after conferring with Governor Little in New York, planned to leave late today or tomorrow for Little Rock and Hot Springs, Ark., to write his acceptance speech.

Ohio Cloudburst Takes Heavy Toll

BELLAIRE, OHIO, July 13.—(INS)—The toll taken by the miniature cloudburst which struck in the Weger Valley near here last night was estimated today at one dead, property and crop damage at $500,000 and further devastation feared as streams, swollen by the heavy rainfall, continued to rise.

Six bridges on the Ohio River and Western Railroad were swept away while service on the Wheeling and Lake Erie, and the Cleveland-Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania Railroad was disrupted when trackage was inundated and progress impeded by falling trees and debris.

DARROW CALLS ON AL
NEW YORK, July 13.—(INS)—Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, called at Democratic headquarters today with praise for Governor Al Smith's stand on prohibition. "It is on the level with himself and with the country," Darrow said. "What other position could he take?"

DRIVER OF TAXI TRIES TO SLAY WEALTHY GIRL

Heir To Palmolive Riches
Guards Wife Against Re-

Used Bracelet To Make Way Into Home

Unloaded Gun Saves Girl's
Life; Weapon Causes Her
Arrest Under Sullivan Act

NEW YORK, July 13. (INS)—With the aid of police, Frederick B. Johnson, youthful heir to the Palmolive soap millions, was guarding his bride today against the return of a taxicab driver who stole her $4,000 bracelet and attempted to kill her in their home off Fifth Avenue.

Johnson and his wife, both 19, recently returned from a honeymoon which they spent in "hitch hiking" through the South, despite their almost limitless means.

Recently Mrs. Johnson returned from a downtown shopping tour in a taxicab. Upon entering her house, she noted the loss of a platinum bracelet set with three large diamonds, a gift of her mother-in-law.

A few days later she received a telephone call in response to an advertisement. But when Mrs. Johnson asked the speaker to come to the apartment with the bracelet and receive the reward, the voice replied:

"I don't want money. I want you. I am the driver of the taxi where you lost the bracelet and I liked your looks."

The girl warned the man to stay away and hung up the phone. Fearing the taxi driver might attempt to carry out his threat, she ran to the basement trunk room, procured her husband's pistol which was unloaded, and returned to her apartment just as the doorbell rang.

A small wiry man wearing a chauffeur's cap entered and held the bracelet before her.

"Here it is, honey, you'll get it if you treat me right," he said.

Mrs. Johnson pointed the pistol at the man's face.

"I don't want the bracelet, get out of here," she ordered.

The driver grappled with her, gained possession of the weapon and pressed it against her side.

"I'll give you a minute to decide then I'll pull the trigger," he said.

Seven Men, Four Whites And Three Negroes, All Murderers, Die In Chair

EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 13.—(INS)—Seven men, four whites and three negroes, all convicted of murder, went to their death in the electric chair at the state penitentiary early today.

The grim parade to the execution chamber began shortly after midnight. The white men were the first to go. They were followed by the three negroes, the last being pronounced dead at 2:25 A. M.

The men in order of their execution were: Milford Lawson, 21, Corbin, Ky.; Orlando Seymour, 21, Louisville; Charles P. Mitter, 24, St. Louis, Mo.; Hascue Dockery, 21, Harland, Ky.; William Moore, 48, Louisville.

James Howard, 29, Louisville; and Clarence McQueen, 22, of Harrison County, Ky.

The doomed men, for the most part went bravely to their death. They spent their last hours visiting with friends and sobbing relatives. Practically all of them accepted religious consolation.

The grim ordeal, setting a new record for the number of men executed in one day, was carried out in military fashion and without disorder. Save for the wailing of heartbroken mothers and sisters as they were led away from the prison, and later the sizzling crack of the electric chair, the condemned went to their death in oppressive silence.

Three of the men killed for love, two for gain and two for revenge. Although substantial hopes that any of the doomed men would be reprieved or granted a stay were disappointed when the governor refused to sign a reprieve.

RANKIN PROTESTS APPOINTMENT OF AIDE TO JARDINE

Federal Farm Head Fires
Back At Mississippi Man
For Criticism Of Ohlsen,
Bureau Of Economics Head

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS)—The protest of representative John E. Rankin (D) of Mississippi, against the appointment of Nils A. Ohlsen as chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics following the cotton price speculation squabble, does not "greatly concern" Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, according to an open letter from Jardine to Rankin made public today.

Rankin, in a letter to Jardine, accused Ohlsen and the bureau of which he was then acting chief, of forcing the price of cotton down eight cents per pound last September by an unwarranted and "padding" report of the foreign "carry-over." He charged that the report added "9,000,000" bales of cotton that did not exist to the carry-over, and claimed that this caused the cotton planted to lose millions of dollars.

Jardine's answer declared that Rankin had formed "preconceived ideas" of the bureau report and of Ohlsen's integrity. The letter continued:

"It is very significant, however, that even in the face of the extensive investigation carried on by the senate cotton investigating committee that you should be the only person in this country to oppose the Ohlsen appointment."

"Consequently, you must pardon me if I do not appear greatly concerned over your protest."

Two Georgians Go To Death For Murders

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 13.—(INS)—Two men, one white and one negro, sat in the grim chair in the narrow confines of the death room here today and their lives snuffed out for murders for which the law held them responsible.

Sam Gower, 52 and the father of nine children, went to the chair at 11:45 A. M. while Freddie Taylor, Atlanta negro, condemned for the murder of a filling station proprietor, was executed at 12:10 P. M.

VICTORY SEEN BY DEMOCRATS FOR AL SMITH

Party To Be Benefitted By High-Powered Campaign,
Organized And Financed
On Lines Of Big Business

Leaders Optimistic
As They Leave N. Y.

Radical Changes Effected
In New York Viewed With Skepticism By Southerners

NEW YORK, July 13.—Assured of a high-powered campaign, organized and financed along the lines of a great business venture and led by a candidate of Governor Al Smith's hard-bitten powers, Democratic leaders who have spent the week in New York scattered to their home today to dig in for the battle.

Most of them are confident and all of them are hopeful that the new order of things in the party will be "productive" of something in November besides the defeat and disappointment that has been the Democratic lot since 1920.

A few from the South are skeptical over the radical changes which, in the short space of a single week, have completely transformed the party. There is some head-shaking over the appointment of John J. Raskob, head of the finance committee of the senate general Motors corporation, as chairman of the national committee, and over the bold and vigorous manner in which the new Smith-Raskob ticket has taken hold of the national question.

A number of the southerners, however, revealed no trace of any disposition to rebel. On the contrary, they appeared to be a general approval of the new ticket, and to believe that the new ticket would have complete success in everything, organization, finance, policies, issues and what not.

None of them would go far, though, than to say that the new ticket is a complete success in everything, organization, finance, policies, issues and what not.

"We have a fight on our hands down South. But we will win!"

Another Southerner added: "The Democratic party was not getting anywhere as a prohibition party, and so long as the great conservative business interests of the country regarded it with suspicion and distrust, Governor Smith has taken care of the prohibition question, and the appointment of Mr. Raskob would seem to be assurance to business that there is nothing to fear from a change in administrations. Maybe it will work out all right."

That fairly summarized the attitude today of even those who have been dubious over the order of things in the party—all, even the doubters, are willing "to take a chance" as one of them put it.

The Smith leaders are under no illusions about the magnitude of the task confronting them, which is to garner 266 votes in the electoral college. A great popular vote means nothing unless it is accompanied by the electoral votes necessary to election.

All the calculations of the Smith strategists are based primarily upon the solid South, the irreducible Democratic minimum of 10 states that have never gone Democratic, that have never gone Democratic.

Peggy Joyce Admits English Nobleman Will Be Sixth Mate

PARIS, July 12.—(INS)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, international beauty, and noted for her many marriages, is about to be a sixth husband. She admits it. Her new husband is to be the Earl of Northesk, whose wife, Jessica Brown, former American chorus girl, is suing him for divorce in London.

Miss Joyce and the Earl are both at Deauville. A dispatch from that place today quoted Miss Joyce as saying:

"David's (Lord Northesk's) proposal was the most romantic I ever had. We were dining alone. The lights were softly shaded. David sent a request to the orchestra to play 'When I Married You, the played, David leaned across to me and whispered, 'When Peggy? I said, 'Yes, We are very happy.' Peggy has set a new style in bathing costumes on the Deauville beach resembling nursery rompers with a tight fitting green silk blouse.

Relief Boat Plows Through Ice Floes Toward Third Group

Fate Of Malmgren Is Matter Of Speculation
As Report Of His
Rescue Proves False

Self Sacrifice Of Explorer Revealed

Identity Of 3rd Group
Of Men Unknown
To Rescue Leaders

MOSCOW, July 13. (INS)—With seven rescued members of the Noble expedition on board, the powerful Russian ice breaker Krassin was reported today to be plowing eastward through the broken floes to pick up another group of refugees that had been sighted near the spot where the Italia is believed to have gone down.

Interest in the rescue of the Noble survivors was divided with speculative of the fate of Prof. Malmgren, whose two companions—Capt. Alfred Mariano and Capt. Filippo—were picked up from a 35-foot floe yesterday morning.

Latest radiograms from the Krassin denied the statement given out by the Soviet relief committee that Malmgren's body had been found with the survivors and taken on board the ice breaker. The latest version wireless from the Krassin quoted Mariano and Zappi as saying that Malmgren had been left behind at Brock Island with both legs frozen and his wrist broken. As for one has seen Malmgren since his comrades left him about a month ago it is not known whether he lived or died, but there is only faint hope that he survived exposure and hunger.

Latest wireless advice from Krassin pictures Malmgren's conduct as self sacrificing and heroic. Mariano and Zappi said he insisted upon being left behind so that their own chances of reaching safety would not be imperiled.

The survivors on board the Krassin in addition to Mariano and Zappi are Lieut. Alfredo Gheri, navigator of the Natale Vecconi, motor chief, Prof. F. Debonnai, F. Triolani, an aeronautical expert; and Giuseppe Biagi, the radio operator who has been the only link of communication between the refugees and the outside world. They had been marooned on the ice floe since the cabin of the Italia was torn from the dirigible's envelope on May 25 in a storm. Gen. Umberto Nobili, chief of the expedition, who was formerly with the group was rescued by Lieut. Lundberg, a Swedish airman, of June 24.

All these survivors—who were literally rescued from a living death—are under medical care aboard the Russian steamship. Their rescue between 9 to 10 o'clock last night was made just in time, for a thick fog blanket settled down after the last had been helped on board.

The identity of this third group can only be conjectured. It is possible that these men were Capt. Zora, the Alpine chasseur, and his

Tucker Firm Loses Suit Against Flynt For Auto Note

EUREKA, Calif., July 13.—(INS)—Smashing their way through a ring of officers in a pitched pistol battle, bandits who had held up the town of Willow Creek escaped into the hills in northeast Humboldt county today leaving a deputy sheriff and one of their hand dead in the road behind them.

The bandits, four in number, swept down on Willow Creek early today, firing from both sides of their automobile. They dashed to the Brixard general store, threatened clerks and escaped with a small safe said to contain approximately $6,000.

FRIDAY, JULY 13

THE JOLLY TINKER
 By Charles Dalmon
 In the London Spectator—

There was once a tinker who used to sing.
 As he jogged along in his caravan,
 "The King is a man, God save the King,
 But if only a king, God save the man!"

No dog in the world had teeth so white
 No stag in the world had eyes so brown:
 And any one wanting a stand-up light
 Had only to throw their challenge down.

And from Berwick-on-Tweed to the Sussex Weald,
 And from Flamborough Head to Carnarvon Bay,
 He would gather from any good root or field
 Fresh stock for his pot at the close of day—

A capon from here, or a duck from there,
 Or a pheasant or two, if his luck was in:
 For helping himself to good honest fare
 He never considered a grievous sin.

And anything tasty that might accrue
 He would add, with the onion that never fails
 To give the right flavor to any stew concocted in England, or Scotland, or Wales.

And after his supper he still would sing,
 As he went to bed in his caravan:
 "If the King is a man, God save the King,
 But if only a king, God save the man."

Is Our King a man, or only a king?
 Now that the clearing house plan has gone over so big, why not a little cleaning house?

"California no longer Florida competitor," says an editorial caption. Has it ever been?

The Editor of The Herald is daily taking setting up exercises in anticipation of being "run out of Sanford."

Mayor Walker of New York has demanded that wholesale shootings be stopped. Yes, such action should be limited to a retail business, at least.

Judging from the number of deaths due to heat in New York City, it would seem advisable for some of those people to come South for the summer.

Personal appearing in a south Georgia paper: "Miss Fannie Smith was in Atlanta last week where she attended her wedding to Mr. George Rast."

There used to be a glaring sign on the highway just outside of Sanford which informed passers-by that this is a good road—it will cost you money to burn it up.

Saw another sign at the beginning of a new stretch of the East Coast Dixie which broadly read: "State speed limit 45 M. P. H.—Step on it." Florida has the most sensible traffic regulations of all states, but some of the small towns can't get used to them.—Orlando Sentinel, Thanks, B.H., for the boggy ride!

Dr. Kellogg's remark that St. Petersburg has no monopoly of Florida sunshine is true. Nevertheless, St. Petersburg had become so famous as the "Sunshine City" that wherever Florida sunshine is mentioned the "Sunshine City" is thought of—a condition that it has required many years of advertising to bring about, and which would redound to the benefit of the new Kellogg institution from the start if located here.—St. Petersburg Times, Sanford has enough sunshine to bring that sanitarium here if it went after it.

Items Of Expense

At the conclusion of a recent case in the county court, an impartial jury of Seminole County citizens decided that the services of Mr. DeCottes and Mr. Spencer to their client were worth twenty-five dollars. Mr. DeCottes, in establishing his case, had previously told the jury that he was personally devoting one full day in court to the case and that he had previously devoted "several days" in preparing his briefs and papers. He also suggested to the jury that his partner had given an equal amount of time to the case and was entitled to as large a fee as himself.

It would seem then, that when the jury awarded twenty-five dollars to Mr. DeCottes and Mr. Spencer together, they considered the services of the attorneys individually worth $12.50. Now Mr. DeCottes said he spent several days on the case, but we will give him the benefit of the doubt and consider only the day which he spent in court. That would be $12.50 for a day's work, according to his own argument and the jury's verdict.

There are 313 working days in a year. It doesn't take a mathematician to figure that if one day's work is worth twelve dollars and fifty cents, 313 days' work is worth $3,912.50. We do not say that amount is all any attorney is worth. We do not say that all Mr. DeCottes' services are worth to certain clients. But we do say that it is perfectly evident that that is all this jury considered them worth, and we say that, in our opinion, that is all the vast majority of Sanford citizens considers them worth.

Yet in this last bond issue there was an item of over five thousand dollars for services rendered by Mr. DeCottes since the failure of the bank. Other sums have already been paid him since last summer. He enjoys a retainer fee of $62.50 a month. He customarily receives between one-half and one per cent on all bond issues, even refunding bond issues, and we are inclined to believe it nearer one percent than one-half. Anyone can figure for himself what that amounts to on Sanford's huge bonded indebtedness.

What he receives for his other services, we have yet been unable to ascertain. But it should be safe to say that he is not conducting the suit against the Chase National Bank of New York, to recover City bonds placed there, on his advice, as security for loans to the Seminole County Bank, for nothing. We seriously doubt if he handled the case of the City when certain taxpayers endeavored to prevent the payment of the "doubtful" Hutton claim, for nothing. We do not know what his commissions will be if he institutes suits in an endeavor to collect exorbitant taxes or unusual paving assessments.

Nor have we been able to discover yet what the City has paid for the services of other attorneys who, perhaps necessarily, have been summoned to the assistance of Mr. DeCottes. It will be recalled, that the City was also represented by a certain Mr. Boggs of Jacksonville during the Hutton suit. It has been necessary to call in associate counsel at other times. The New York firm of Hornblower, Miller and Garrison are representing the City in the Chase National suit. It is also a well known fact that Caldwell and Raymond are the ones whose opinion actually counts for something in the sale of bonds, and it cannot be supposed that this opinion is rendered for nothing.

Yes, we are still in doubt as to exactly how much of our City tax money is swallowed up in attorneys' fees of one kind or another, but we have every reason to believe that if George DeCottes were removed by the City Commission, this item of expense could be materially reduced.

Another Remedy

Suggesting that dishonesty on the part of municipal officials in the management of local governments is in many instances the basic cause of the present financial embarrassment with which some Florida cities are confronted, and proposing as a remedy the distribution of larger amounts of the gasoline tax funds to the individual counties to make up for moneys squandered or stolen, Henry C. Rowe, who lives in Westery, R. I., but spends his winters in Daytona, says in part:

"Under these conditions and many other advantages Florida should have at least 10,000,000 people as residents. With every natural advantage necessary to attract an enormous population the financial management of the state, county and cities has been such that it is now excluding tens of thousands of people, if not hundreds of thousands, every year from buying land and building on land in Florida.

"It has been publicly stated without contradiction that the taxes on land in many parts of Florida amount to more than the interest on the value of the land. This excessive taxation has resulted partly from the making of public improvements which were needed, as for instance, many of the roads, and we are told that in many other cases it has arisen from very unwise and, in some cases, dishonest management by public officials.

"It is evident that there is no safe road to prosperity for Florida unless officials are elected who will follow the dictates of common sense and good judgment in their disbursement and steps taken which will prevent hereafter extravagances and corruption. But that is not enough. In order to rescue Florida from the present conditions, and secure the vast prosperity which Florida naturally is entitled to, it is necessary to find some means to relieve real estate from the excessive burden of taxation now prevalent. How can this be done?

"The best thought of the most honest and far-seeing men of Florida is needed to solve this difficult question. There is one proposition which ought to be carefully considered, namely:

"To apply enough of the gasoline tax to the payment of interest and principal of the road bonds, so as to relieve real estate from this burden which is preventing the development and occupancy of Florida by residents. Is there any reason why the taxes on gasoline, coming from those who use the highways, should not be applied to the cost of those highways? Is it not incomparably better that those who use and wear out the highways should pay for them, instead of keeping the taxes on real estate at such extravagant figures that 99 per cent of those who would become residents of Florida and own land and pay taxes in Florida are deterred from doing so by excessive taxes?"

"AS IF HE OWNED IT"
ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

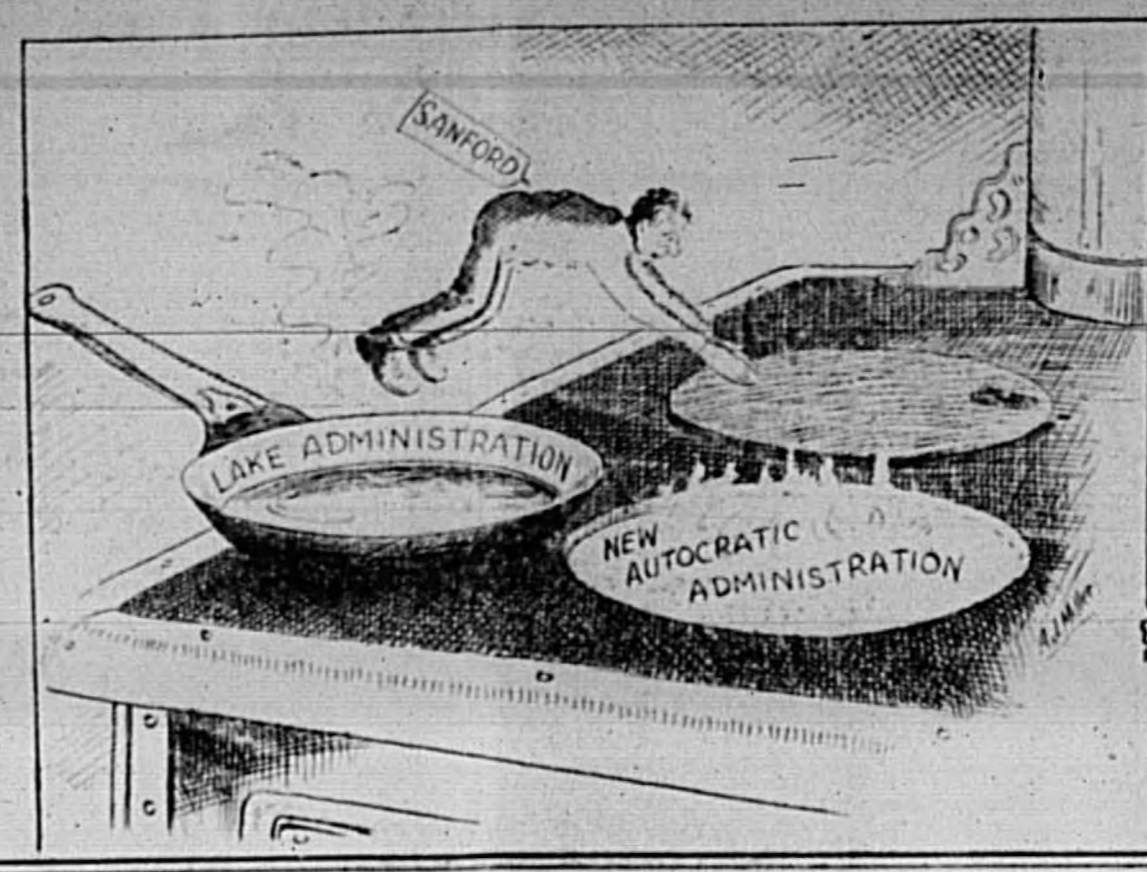

Mayor Brown hit the nail on the head—which is a way he has always had of hitting it—when he advised that each city director should run his department "just as if he owned it." That is, if the directors do not take it the wrong way. Which with John Brown as mayor there is no chance that they will.

"As if he owned it," is an old, old saying about a certain type of citizen puffed up by a public office, but Mayor Brown meant something very different.

By saying that a director should manage his department "just as if he owned it" he meant as if the money it cost were his—as if the price of efficiency and waste would come out of his own pocket.

That is, the principle of business city government, as distinguished from political city government, and St. Petersburg is going to use more of it in the future.

Out Of The Frying Pan—

NATIONAL RULE ON CAR PARKING
FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

Street and highway safety engaged the attention and serious consideration of the national conference called to meet in Washington last week, when it was reported that since 1929 the accident rate has gone up "practically 20 per cent every year," and that the present annual toll of human lives taken in automobile accidents, amounts to about 25,000—surely, more than sufficient reason for adopting precautionary measures in the matter of street and highway traffic.

All the more appalling is the statement, made by Colonel Barber, director of the conference, that 200,000 persons have met death on the streets and roads of the country in the past fifteen years. The number of injuries is said to be "practically double the slaughter of motor-driven vehicles," which, in many instances, is careless and reckless in the handling of death-dealing machines.

The conference, which is an annual event, instituted several years ago by the department of commerce, in an effort to do what could be done for more street and highway safety, took up consideration of various matters pertaining to traffic on the public thoroughfares, among them the matter of motor vehicle parking, on which the following report was presented:

Public highways are required and dedicated primarily for purposes of public travel. However, the stopping and standing of a vehicle when the owner has reached his destination is a necessary incident to this proper use of the vehicle. Insofar as the parking or stopping of vehicles adjacent to curbs does not seriously interfere with other uses of the roadway, such as parking or stopping is advantageous. When it seriously interferes with the necessary use of street areas for moving vehicles it must give way to the primary use.

Likewise, unlimited parking or dead storage of vehicles adjacent to curbs should not be allowed when this interferes with a greater need of the use of such area by a larger number of operators of vehicles for purposes of loading or unloading. Also, parking or even stopping should be prohibited in certain areas where the mere presence of a standing vehicle occasions danger to users of the highway or causes unreasonable interference with traffic movement.

It is quite sufficient to quote the foregoing report, which is applicable wherever motor vehicles are in use and where parking is permitted. It applies in Jacksonville as well as in all other cities. It is a plain, straightforward presentation of a matter that concerns every individual, whether a car owner or not. It is a matter of personal safety, first for all, and secondly, a matter of privilege, the abuse of which should not be permitted, but that is being permitted to a very great extent. Accidents result. Also, there is usurpation of street rights that belong to all the people and not of a few only. Reasonable rules with reference to car parking and storage must be enforced if any good is to come from such rules. Where there is lack of enforcement the people have the right to know what it is that permits parking misuse of streets and highways.

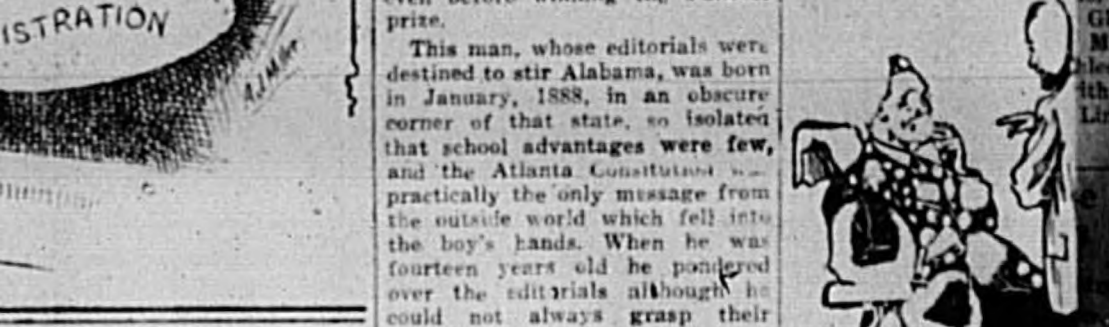

STORIES OF SUCCESS
ST. AUGUSTINE RECORD

Stories of success won by leaders of the press are being carried as regular features in the Editor and Publisher, with Grover Cleveland Hall, editor of the Montgomery Advertiser as the subject for a recent sketch. When he was a seventeen-year-old printer's devil, Hall dreamed of becoming an editor, and now, when he is just forty years of age, he looms up as one of the most influential editors of the Southland, whose vigor and fearlessness were recently rewarded with the Pulitzer editorial prize for 1927. This courageous editor's attacks on ganglism, flogging, racial and religious intolerance in Alabama aroused the people of the state, even before winning the Pulitzer prize.

This man, whose editorials were destined to stir Alabama, was born in January, 1888, in an obscure corner of that state, so isolated that school advantages were few, and the Atlanta Constitution was practically the only message from the outside world which fell into the boy's hands. When he was fourteen years old he pondered over the editorials although he could not always grasp their meaning. At seventeen he set out upon his career by joining to Dothan the nearest town to work on his brother's paper, the Dothan Daily Siftings, and it was there his great ambition to some day be editor of a paper was born. It was a hard road to climb. Once in a little newspaper office he held five jobs for the meager pay of $15 a week. "Invaluable experience" is the way he sums up that hectic job.

So is success born out of hard work, ambition, and love of one's calling!

And Grover Hall loves his work today as well as an enthusiast, as though he were still striving for the editor's chair. He has "arrived," but there is

Why do you do it?

Why pay 50 cents for only a half-pint can of liquid insect-killer, when you can get just as much Black Flag Liquid—the deadliest insect-killer made—for only 25 cents. Black Flag is sure death to insects—Black Flag comes in two forms—Liquid and Powder. Both are sure death to flies, mosquitoes, roaches, ants, bed bugs, fleas, etc. Powder, 15 cents up.

Political Fight Is Seen Between Ford And Raskob

part, other than to issue an endorsing statement for Hoover, his dollars, at least, would be fighting those of Raskob. The two men incidentally have been bitter business foes for many years, although recently Ford announced he did not contemplate a business war against Raskob's General Motors Corporation.

Hoover undoubtedly will confer with Ford during the campaign, and possibly the Republican nominee may receive some advice from the motor king on the subject of organizing his campaign. Their meeting however will not be possible until after Hoover returns from California in late August.

Hoover will leave here Saturday evening for the west, with stops contemplated at Chicago, Superior, Wis., a two day visit to President Coolidge at Brule, Wis., and further stops in Duluth, Omaha, Neb., Reno, Nev., Sacramento, Oakland, and San Francisco Calif. He will arrive in San Francisco at noon, Friday, July 20, and after particitwo Norwegian companions. Who set out with a dog-sled to search for survivors of the ill-fated Italia expedition.

It was also regarded as likely that these men were remnants of the party of six men who were carried aloft with the gas bag of the Italia when its gondola crashed to the ground on the morning of May 25. A third possibility is that these men are Capt. Roald Amundsen and his companions, who have not been heard from since leaving Tromsø, Norway in a seaplane almost four weeks ago to search the northlands.

The rescue of the five men in the "red tent" group, Lieut. Alfredo patting in a public reception there, will continue on to his old home at Palo Alto, Calif.

The nominee virtually closed up his affairs today as secretary of commerce. When he leaves tomorrow, his desk will be clear and the departmental affairs in shape to turn over to his successor.

Vigliani, Prof. F. Behounek, Police Trojani, Giuseppe Biagi, and Natale Cecconi, was effected at 9 o'clock last night, according to wireless reports from the Krassin. All five men were alive, the wireless reports stated. The report also revealed that the plane of the Swedish aviator, Lundborg which overturned and paroled him with the other five men for 13 days, was taken aboard the Krassin.

When Lundborg left them, all five were in a terrible physical state. Two were suffering from pneumonia. Two others were suffering from high fevers. Cecconi, who suffered a broken leg when the gondola of the Italia crashed, was in the worst condition of all. Mariano and Zappi were below decks aboard the Krassin being tenderly cared for by the crew after their harrowing experiences.

On the deck of the vessel the body of their companion, Dr. Finn Malmgren, the famous Swedish explorer and scientist who led them across the ice lay draped in the tattered flags and thus were saved.

For 13 days, Mariano and Zappi had been without food. They had almost given up hope when sighted by the Russian aviator, Malmgren, who although only 33 was a veteran of the Arctic and had crossed the North Pole twice with Gen. Noble, had succumbed a month before. When he started out with his companions he was suffering from injuries which he underestimated and they resulted in his death.

Mariano is in a serious condition. Both his legs were frozen and it is feared gangrene may set in. He is 30 years old, acted as the pilot of the Italia and as second in command to Noble. Zappi, who is 32, was the navigator of the ill-fated dirigible.

Chuchnovsky and his four companions were unable to return to the Krassin because of a heavy fog after sighting Mariano and Zappi and made a forced landing near Cape Platten, off the coast of North East Land.

They radioed the commander of the Krassin the position of the marooned men and thus aided the rescue. They also radioed that the relief ship should not proceed to search for them as they had plenty

Novarro Plays As Louis XIV In New Film At TheMilane

If not the greatest lover from a standpoint of quality, Louis XIV, the grand monarch of France in the latter part of the middle ages, was one of the greatest lovers from a standpoint of quantity. This fact was brought to light by the research department of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, where a staff of trained research workers delved into the private affairs of the greatest king in the history of France.

The data was compiled for use in the screen play, "Forbidden Hours," which A. P. Younger wrote as a starring vehicle for Ramon Novarro, and which comes to the Milane Theatre today. The story suggests many personages of that day, but deals chiefly with the love of Louis for Marie Mancini, a beautiful girl of gentle birth and niece of Cardinal Mazarin, Louis' prime minister. The affair, which is said to have been of a most genuine and sincere nature, was ended abruptly with the marriage of the King to Maria Teresa, Infanta of Spain, and is said to have a great influence on

Spurious $10 Bills Are in Circulation

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(INS)—A counterfeit of the 1914 series of federal reserve notes, of the $10 denomination, was reported by the Treasury Department today. The bills are photographic reproductions without attempt to imitate the genuine paper fibre. They bear a picture of Andrew Jackson and the signature of Frank White, treasurer and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

Hospitals use these sanitary FLY DESTROYERS

In most places where great care is shown in preventing flies from contaminating food and spreading infection, Tanglefoot Fly Paper and Ribbon are used. This is especially true in the kitchens of hospitals and other well regulated institutions. When food is exposed to the air these sanitary destroyers are the only types of fly exterminators that should be tolerated. You will find them effective and their use desirable in your kitchen.

DO NOT MAKE THE Mistake Of Buying A Farm Before First Seeing ALCONA FARMS

W. M. Young's 1800 acre development on the St. Johns River, 25 minutes drive from Sanford Post Office. Two big drainage canals run through this tract, giving perfect drainage. The railroad crosses it, with a station only one mile away, and a siding is promised on land itself. Two good public roads run through it, one is soon to be hard surfaced and will be the shortest and most direct route from Sanford to the East Coast. It is in the flowing well district with fine wells, now on the 100 acres already in cultivation. The soil is a rich, dark, sandy loam with clay subsoil. It produced this year, 65 barrels of potatoes to the acre, a bumper crop of cucumbers, said to be the finest that went out of Florida this season and selling up to $5 per hamper, and it has now growing on a part of it, what everyone who has seen it says is the best field of corn anywhere around Sanford. It will grow anything that can be raised in the Sanford district including celery and being virgin land, will likely be free for years from the insect pests and diseases that give so much trouble on old land. It is mostly prairie, ready for the plow, and I am offering farms, large or small, on easy terms and at prices that are but a fraction of what it costs only to clear up other lands now selling around Sanford.
