

Louis - Farr Title Scrap Moved To Monday Night

Farr Says He Is Faster And Smarter Than Louis And Can Take Champ's Terrific Blows

Champion Joe Claims That He Will Knock Out The Welshman But This Time He Fails To Predict Round Of Blow

The Joe Louis-Tommy Farr championship bout scheduled for the Yankee Stadium tonight has been postponed until Monday night, according to last minute information received here today.

Joe Louis, 31 year old Detroit native sensation tagged by fans as the "Brown Bomber" was scheduled to make the first defense of his recently won heavy weight title against Tommy Farr, British Champion, but the weather man's gloomy forecast of showers tonight caused postponement of the title scrap until Monday night.

A crowd of 30,000 to 40,000 fans are expected to witness the bout and gate receipts will probably reach $250,000.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, however, has indicated all along that the fight would do less than $200,000 and he stuck to that figure yesterday, adding that it was office business continues brisk until the fight, the gross gate receipts will probably reach even a higher figure.

"This is a last day fight town," said Jacobs. "You'll see them rushing for tickets Monday, I just turned down an order for 100 ring-side tickets today and all the cheaper seats will be sold before fight time Monday night."

The young negro, who blasted the heavyweight crown from James J. Braddock's head at Chicago last June, continued to rule an overwhelming favorite over the Welshman who sprang into the fight spotlight by beating Max Baer in London some months ago.

Odds, which had been stationary at 4 to 1 for a week, shot to 6 to 1 today and Broadway gamblers said they might reach 7 to 1 by the time Louis and Farr climb into the ring at approximately 9 o'clock, eastern standard time tonight, depending on the amount of Farr money showing up tonight and tomorrow.

Bookmakers report very little action. They attribute the light betting to the fact that the public apparently gives the Welshman little more than an outside chance to upset the dope and trim the hard-hitting negro.

In an Associated Press poll of 25 New York, out of town and British boxing writers, only one was found—John MacAdam of the London Sunday Dispatch—who picked Farr to win. Most of them think Louis will stop the Britisher within 12 rounds.

Louis and Farr, both trained to the minute, took things easy at their training camps at Pompton Lakes and Long Branch, N. J., today preparatory to motoring in to town for the weighing in ceremonies at noon before the state athletic commission.

Both have put in many weeks of hard work. Farr has not been impressive in many of his drills, but he has shown a quality of boxing which some experts think may prove decidedly annoying to the champion. His confidence is superb.

Farr, also 23, was virtually unknown in this country until he "chipped Baer, but he has been fighting throughout England and Wales for years and picked up plenty of experience and ring knowledge.

No fault can be found with Louis' condition. His fights regularly and keeps himself in trim both mentally and physically. He is hitting as hard as ever and has improved his boxing. Louis expects to weigh in at 198 today. Farr's fighting weight is 204 and he is down to that now.

Farr feels he is faster and smarter than Louis and rugged enough to take the champ's terrific punches. He has no set plan of action but said in a pre-fight statement yesterday he is confident of winning.

"I'll box cautiously for the first round, size Louis up and conduct my campaign accordingly," he said.

Louis said he is prepared for any style of fight, the Welshman may offer. "If he runs I'll be ready and if he rushes I'm set for that. I hope to knock him out, but will not pame the round. But I'll end the fight as early as possible."

Lookouts Down Gulls 3 To 1; G-Men Play Here Today

Al Crisfield Allows Orlando But Seven Hits

Mahaffey Of Orlando Allows Locals But Three Scratch Hits

Bill Rodgers and his Sanford Lookouts collected only three bingles last evening off the deliveries of Jim Mahaffey but downed the Orlando Gulls by a 3 to 1 score at the Sanford Municipal Athletic Field in a contest which approximately 700 Sanford fans witnessed.

On the mound for the winners was none other than Al Crisfield who turned in a neat seven hit pitching performance and gave the Gulls only one run. Crisfield's curve and fast balls were effective as well as his change of pace as he fanned three of the visitors while allowing four free tickets to the initial sack.

Facing Crisfield on the hill was Jim Mahaffey of Apopka who gave up only one actual hit and also two scratch blows which were credited to Kingdon, Phillips and Langston.

Mahaffey gave up three walks during the tilt while fanning a pair of the Lookouts.

Mahaffey also took other honors during the tilt as he captured the batting crown for the evening. Jim sent out two clean blows in four trips to the plate and one of them being a double to deep left field.

The Lookouts were held hitless for six innings and only 19 men had faced the effective southpaw but the seventh frame spelled disaster for the Gulls. One error and two hits, by Langston and Phillips hung up three runs on the scoreboard.

During the tilt in the fifth frame, Sam Holbrook, Lookout catcher, was injured and sent out of the game. Holbrook was hit on the third finger of his right hand and the seam of the ball split his finger about three-quarters of an inch.

TODAY'S SPORTING WORLD

By JULIAN STENSTRUM
Herald Sports Editor

Tonight's tilt night of the big battle of the manly art of self defense when Joe Louis and Tommy Farr will enter the ring of battle and one of them will come out the hero and the other a punk that nary knew any thing about boxing.

Well, we're picking Farr as we told you in last evening's edition although we did it through a process of elimination but just the same we still think that Farr will come through and we can't always be wrong, according to the law of averages.

The members of the local ball club have really got something on this Owen Wright. . . . We can't tell you here, All fellows on the roster are always kidding somebody and somebody has to be the goat. . . . We were the other evening when somebody who we know like to have set us on fire.

Well Mr. Gray did some more work that makes him look worse every day. . . . At the meeting yesterday he said that he would vote Dayton's opinion that they were in favor of Gray's former decision about the Sanford-Leesburg case. He said that the vote taken by the six clubs that were eligible to vote had to be unanimous. . . . We knew the other day when he and Sanford officials met in Gainesville that the vote had to be a majority. . . . We should have known we would have gotten stunk some way.

Mr. Gray was in Daytona yesterday discussing the situation and when the time came to vote DeLand voted against Gray's decision, Gainesville voted against, Palatka voted against but Gray voted for his decision in place of Daytona Beach where he had visited the day before. . . . Then Gainesville stated that they thought that the president was right. . . . you bet they would. . . .

Oscar Bradley, business manager of the Orlando Gulls said last night that he would like to see Henry Watson, now president of the Sanford club, as head of the State League next season. . . . We think you have something there Bradley.

Who has the toughest luck on the Sanford club, well we have come to the conclusion that it is none other than little Breeschee Gray who hits 'em on the nose every time he is at the bat but where do they go. . . . right into somebody's hands.

Sanford's new uniforms have turned out to be real nice studs and next season we believe the local club will buy a new set of home uniforms and use the present suits on the road, not a bad idea.

Who is the most valuable man on the Sanford club this season. We can suggest Owen Wright, Ellis Gray, George Phillips, Joe Ruggiero, Al Kasso, Bobby Pritchard, Dazzy Metcalf, Early Wynn, Al Crisfield, Wes Kingdon, Swede Martin, Mayo Langston, Sam Holbrook, Tex Holcomb and Dan Brainerd. . . . But we will lay our dough on the old man with the glasses. . . . Bill "Raw Heat" Rodgers. . . . Well Let's all go out tonight and give the locals a big hand as they down the G-Men. . . . How about it. . . .

Japs Capture City Of Lotien Near Shanghai

Key To Shanghai Laid To Waste by 30 Hours Of Shelling And Bombing

American Rights Suffer In Fight

Hull Demands Protection For U. S. Property And Lives

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today this government had served notice upon Japan and China that it would demand respect of all its rights and interests in the Far East. The Secretary added that the government of Japan and China were requested to observe those rights to the extent that they would be responsible for damage to this government or its citizens as a result of hostile operations.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Three divisions of China's finest soldiers rushed tonight to a smoking, thundering battlefield northwest of Shanghai where the Chinese fought desperately to stem the Japanese charge against the backdoor to this city of undeclared war.

Bombs, shells, and machine gun fire turned Lotien, 12 miles northwest of Shanghai, into a smoking heap of ashes. Near the town waves of Japanese infantrymen met a sheet of machine gun fire in a desperate charge through the burning city.

While the battle of Lotien raged Sir Hugh Montgomery, Kitchell-Huggessen, British ambassador to China, wounded yesterday by Japanese machine gun bullets fired from planes, rallied slightly after a blood transfusion from a United States seaman. His life still was in danger but physicians said his general condition was improved.

The tide of battle swung from side to side. Thousands were killed or wounded. The Japanese late today claimed the occupation of Lotien a foothold for the advance on Kiangwan just northwest of Shanghai proper.

But the town as such was no more. The 30-hour battle of Lotien opened with a heavy artillery bombardment. Two Chinese divisions held it with a thin line. From positions in the rear machine guns were trained on their backs to force them to stand fast.

While Japanese troops opened a supreme attempt to drive the Chinese army from outer Shanghai defense lines, 100,000 of Nippon's fighting men today hurried to aid 200,000 Chinese on fronts along strategic railroads in North China.

Alberkand and their later-sets were not spared in yesterday's developments. J. H. McKinnon of Houston, Texas, manager of the American-owned Poplar Grove Dairy Farms near Shanghai reported that he and William Schlobohm, former Alameda, Calif., aviator narrowly escaped death when Japanese airplanes bombed the farm for the fourth time in 10 days.

McKinnon reporting the bombing to the United States consular-general, said 10 big Japanese bombers had flown over the farm for an hour and a half, utterly destroying the plant and killing 20 of the dairy's herd of pedigree American cattle.

BRITISH ENVOY SHOT IN CHINA!

A grave international turn was added to the Sino-Japanese war when Sir Hugh Kitchell-Huggessen, British ambassador to China, was seriously wounded by machine gun bullets fired from Japanese airplanes as he traveled by automobile from Nanking to Shanghai. The ambassador (right) is shown with the Chinese Commander, Gen. Yu Han-Mou who is in charge of defending China's southern coast.

Federal Check On Blood Stains Fails To Reveal Clues

The one remaining clue which officers of two counties hoped would solve the mystery connected with the death of Eugene Gaffney, Orlando bartender whose body was found in an oak scrub thicket near Altamonte Springs, proved fruitless and officers were again faced with the death of a man, pronounced murder by a coroner's jury, to which no clues can be uncovered.

The set-back, Sheriff C. M. Hand stated, was a negative report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the blood specimens found on a shirt and towel identified as belonging to John Martin, who was held in the County Jail for some time for questioning in the case.

The communication which was received from Washington yesterday afternoon stated that there was an insufficient amount of blood in the specimens submitted to conduct any grouping examinations.

A. W. Mellon Big Financier Dies, Age 84

Once Treasury Head And British Ambassador Dies At His Daughter's Home

One Of World's Wealthiest Men

Donated Millions To Charity And Development Of Art

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury of the United States under three Presidents, former ambassador to Great Britain and one of the world's most wealthy men died peacefully last night in the home of a daughter, Mrs. David Bruce.

He was in his 84th year. His death took from the American scene one of the last of its statesmen-financiers.

Mellon, spare, quiet, white-haired and reserved, had gone to the home of Mrs. Bruce last month, his health weakened by the excessive June heat of Washington where he had remained to arrange for his national gallery of art.

Eleven years as secretary of the treasury, the second longest term in the history of that office, and the only one held under three successive presidents, made Andrew W. Mellon an outstanding figure in world finance.

He rounded out his public service as ambassador to the court of St. James, the highest diplomatic post in the gift of the government.

This public record crowned a lengthy career as a banker in which he built up one of the great fortunes of the world. But it brought him also into the whirl of politics, made him a shining mark for opposition critics. There was an abortive attempt to indict him in 1934 on charges of evading income taxes and, when this failed, he had to answer before the board of tax appeals in Washington a claim by the government for alleged shortages in his 1931 return, the claim including allegations of fraud and evasion.

But Mellon, a shy, imperturbable little man, given to slow speech, was a fighter, and he hit back lustily.

Handles Post-War Finances
Mellon's treasury career was notable for his handling of difficult post-war financial problems, including refunding agreements with 13 debtor nations of Europe's tax reductions, a cut of 20 percent in the American national debt and the fact that under his guidance the United States, of all the countries engaged in the World War, was the first to attain a balanced budget after that conflict.

He assumed the secretaryship when President Harding took office Mar. 4, 1921, and held it under Presidents Coolidge and Hoover until Feb. 6, 1932 when the senate confirmed his nomination as ambassador to Great Britain.

Only one other head of the department exceeded the length of this service, Albert Gallatin holding the post under Presidents Jefferson and Madison from 1801 until the spring of 1812. Another secretary, William Windom, held office under three presidents, but there was a lapse between his brief service under Presidents Garfield and Arthur in 1881 and his two years under President Benjamin Harrison starting in 1889.

Mellon stepped into the treasury when the government's financial affairs were in a gloom state, resulting largely from a depression. (Continued On Page Three)

Andrew Mellon

The death of Andrew Mellon removes from a Twentieth Century scene one of the last of a score or more of "rugged individualists" who laid the foundations of their fortunes in the last part of the last century and survived to raise them to the skies in the first part of this one.

Probably no man in America ever made more money than Andrew Mellon. Will Rogers used to say of him that when he was appointed Secretary of the Treasury and went down to Washington from his Pittsburgh banks, he felt like he was going slumming.

Serving in this capacity for the better part of three administrations which included most of the "good years" after the war until after the great depression began, Mellon's success in public office is likely to be measured by a yardstick, the length of which depends upon the political affiliations of the user. Republicans praise him as "the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton," and Democrats regard him as the very epitome of all that is vicious, not only in Republicanism, but also in the capitalistic system.

Mellon's fiscal policies, which he applied regularly to his own personal affairs, as well as to the government's while he was connected with it are summed up in the following words: "These policies are few in number and may be easily enumerated. One is the keeping of expenditures always within the revenues. Another is the payment of the public debt. A third is the levy of the largest taxes consistent with the government's needs; and still another is the support of the public credit so that the financial integrity of the government shall be a rock amidst the fluctuations of internal and world finance."

And yet there was a time when Mellon was forced to take his place in the mind of public opinion along with Wall Street, Herbert Hoover, prohibition, and the machine age, as the one great cause of the depression. Somehow or other millions of persons saw him as a greedy old man with almost supernatural powers who deprived men of their jobs and took the pennies from widows and orphans so that the money bags in his counting house might mount higher and higher.

Mellon like Rockefeller was one of this country's greatest philanthropists. Millions and millions of dollars he showered upon benevolent institutions and charitable foundations of every character and description. But perhaps his most lavish and certainly his best known undertaking of this kind was the donation of his $50,000,000 art collection to the federal government, and another $16,000,000 for the construction of a building in which to house it. Mellon's collection was one of the largest and most highly prized in the entire world.

Even as he died, however, Mellon continued the target of his persecutors who sought to collect an additional $3,000,000 for taxes in 1931, even after a grand jury had failed to indict him in 1934 for the same alleged offense, and who sought to convict him of conspiracy in restraint of trade in connection with the operation of the Aluminum Company of America. No doubt Mellon is glad that he is now beyond the reach of his political antagonists.

Lucky Middle Class.

Now that the depression is over, or is it, someone figured that the first four years of hard times cost the world's economic system something between 149 and 170 billion dollars. Just who put up the largest part of those checks is something else again which attracts attention, leading the Rotarian magazine to quote Professor Vladimir Woytinsky to the effect that throughout the collapse the great middle-income class suffered least of all.

"There were certainly members of the middle class who suffered from the depression," the Rotarian quotes Prof. Woytinsky as saying, "but there were none who were unemployed. They all remained in their jobs, they all worked, and they felt themselves needed by the community. . . . there was a comparative and absolute increase in their numerical and economic importance."

"If it is true that the middle-income classes are the bulwark of nations," the Rotarian says, "there is philosophic as well as economic food for thought in Professor Woytinsky's conclusion. That this group should have suffered comparatively less than others would appear to support an optimistic view of the essential stability of the economic order. It could be reasoned that the challenge of the depression for applied intelligence, skill, and integrity met its most effective response from those in the middle-income brackets."

"But there is a disquieting detail in the picture Professor Woytinsky paints. The low-income class, least to be held responsible for the depression, suffered from it most severely. He suggests that if their plight is not to be desperate in any future economic doldrum, their livelihood must be made less susceptible to downward-headed graphs of business conditions."

A. W. Mellon, Big Financier Dies, Age 84

(Continued From Page One) ... Mellon's first demand for reduction of heavy surtaxes failed to obtain congressional support, being opposed even by some of the administration leaders. Turning to the people, however, he won approval that meant passage of his revenue bill in 1928.

A mere tyro in political maneuvering when he entered the cabinet, his years of service as head of government finances made him active in that phase of American life. At the 1928 Republican national convention when the "Depression" movement was at its height, he was instrumental in swinging the Pennsylvania delegation to the Hoover column at a strategic moment, thus assuring the Californian's nomination. Son Of Private Banker Of Irish Progenitor ... Mellon's father was Judge in the Allegheny county court and retired from the bench in 1869 to establish the banking house of T. Mellon and Sons.

Andrew Mellon was educated in a private school and in the University of Pittsburgh, class of 1872, leaving college shortly before commencement. The next year he entered his father's banking house and was made a partner a year later. When his father retired from business in 1887, Andrew became the senior of the firm.

The partnership, including his brother, Richard B. Mellon, entered the national banking system July, 1902, as the Mellon National bank. With Andrew Mellon as president it grew into one of the most important banks in the country. He resigned the presidency of the institution three days before he entered the cabinet, and also gave up all his other business connections.

In 1889, the brothers and associates organized the Union Trust Company and the Union Savings Bank of Pittsburgh. These other banks and a trust company later came under Mellon control, the total resources being in excess of $500,000,000. The growth of the financial institutions was accompanied by extension of the Mellon industrial interests into many fields, including aluminum, coal, iron, oil and shipping, until some estimates put at nearly $8,000,000,000 the total worth of the enterprises in which Mellon and his brothers had a voice.

Income Tax Measures Wealth How much of that total was the individual property of Andrew Mellon was problematical. One gauge of his personal fortune was furnished by the Democratic administration's attacks on his income tax returns. The tax board once revealed that he had filed a return showing a gross income of $10,890,485 in 1931, but the government claimed this total should have been $12,482,660. He paid a tax of $647,559, the return showing a net income of $1,927,116 with capital losses on stock sales of more than $6,500,000 and gifts and charitable contributions of $3,821,178 as the chief deduction items. The government disputed both these items and claimed an additional tax of $2,060,048 plus 50 percent of that amount as penalty.

The task of building up and managing the huge fortune which these figures mirrored gave Mel-

"Mr. Moto" Results From Oriental Study

Before he wrote the first of the "Mr. Moto" stories, popular for years through their serialization in The Saturday Evening Post, J. P. Marquand was sent to the Orient by the magazine to spend nearly a year in close personal study of the Far Eastern countries and their people. The convincing ring of authenticity which resulted in the stories is conceded to be a great factor in their popularity.

Brought to the screen for the first time, the Japanese detective is portrayed by Peter Lorre, famous character actor, in "Think Fast, Mr. Moto," Twentieth Century-Fox picture at the Ritz Theatre Saturday. An alumnus of Stanford University (Class of '21), the Oriental sleuth engages in a crafty campaign against a widespread smuggling ring.

The action occurs in San Francisco's Chinatown, aboard a trans-Pacific liner and in Shanghai, all familiar backgrounds to the author.

The supporting cast includes Virginia Field, Thomas Beck and Sig Rumann, with Norman Foster as director.

Lookouts Meet G-Men In Double Header Today

Brainard Allows Only Four Hits In Lookouts 8-3 Win

Locals Knock Lefty Albritton From Mound In Victory

The Sanford Lookouts under the direction of Bill Rodgers came through with another Sanford win last evening when they downed the Gainesville G-Men headed by Don "Foot" McShane by a score of 8 to 3 before a gathering of 856 paid patrons at the Sanford Municipal Athletic Field.

Leading in the hitting department as well as the pitching department was big Dan Brainard who held the G-Men to four hits while the locals pounded "Lefty" Albritton and Clarence Bray for a total of 10 blows in which Brainard secured a double and a single in three official appearances at the plate.

The G-Men scored first when in the second inning Ike Livingston crossed the plate with the initial tally of the game.

The Lookouts came back in their half of the second when with one man out Big Brainard hit a double to the left field wall and scored on Clary's line single into center field which the fielder let go through his legs and Clary went for three bases.

In the fourth the visitors pushed across another tally but the locals same back once more only this time to send Albritton from the hill and push across three runs to make a two run lead.

In the fifth the locals pushed across another tally when Brainard got another hit and started the ball rolling. The G-Men scored their third run in the seventh and also their last and the Lookouts clinched the tilt in the last half of the eighth when they sent three runs scurrying across the plate.

The Lookouts are in Gainesville today for a double header with the Lookouts last trip to Gainesville unless the two teams meet in the playoff.

Manager Raw Meat Rodgers is planning to use Early Wynn in the tilt this afternoon with Owen Wright on hand for any relief duty while Dazzy Mote will do the hurling tonight when either Wright or Crisfield on hand for relief work.

The Daytona Beach Buccaneers Start Practice Sept. 7

DAYTONA BEACH, Aug. 27.—The 1937 Buccaneer football bugle will blow lustily on Sept. 7, signalling the start of the grid season for more than 40 high school athletes.

This announcement was made yesterday by W. B. Treloar, supervising principal of Mainland schools, upon receipt of a letter from Coach Spike Walshinger.

Treloar said Walshinger will not attend the Florida coaching clinic at Gainesville scheduled late this week. The popular Buc pigskin tutor is laboring with the coach of the Duluth prep powerhouse, 1936 Minnesota champions, and will not migrate South until Sept. 1.

Walshinger will rely chiefly on Eddy Johns and Bill Cowan, the "touchdown twins," for his running attack this year. The forward wall is flanked with able left-overs, principally at tackles and guards.

More than 50,000 persons flew over 1,341,000 miles of Florida on regularly-scheduled flights during 1936, sets forth the Florida State Chamber.

With the 1936 census, the foreign-born population of the United States totaled more than 14,000,000.

Our Sanford Lookouts may get into this permanent fight yet, in fact they are in it now but four games behind these Gainesville G-Men who are leading the heap but if the locals can take these two games from the G-Men today on Harris Field in Gainesville, those Sanford Lookouts won't be able to stop until they get that flag so let's wish 'em luck.

Big boy Brainard and Dazzy Mote are fighting these days, yeh... fighting to see whose going to have the pitchers best hitting average... Dan's home run over the wall in DeLand the other day and his double and his single last evening boosted his average somewhat higher.

Mote huris against Padgett tonight and he says he will get two singles off Elbert not saying anything about beating the loops best hurier at all.

George Phillips did some excellent work behind that plate last night and from what we saw and from what Skipper Rodgers says it means that George will get the catching assignment a few more times this season.

"Foot" McShane was really razed last night when he appeared on the third base coaching lines... about what?... his feet-of course... McShane takes on honor among the managers this year and that is he has the largest feet... That is something to brag about ain't it Don... Where is Crisfield's change of pace lately... we have not seen it for so long we are falling to hear the bat crack... Cris is centering his pitching these days around his curve ball which he has nearly mastered... more luck to you son.

Old Moose Fralick won his 30th victory last night and also Big Boy Brainard came through with his 19th of the season... The Locals will get two of McShane's favorites this afternoon and this evening... Andy Sierra is scheduled to twirl the first tilt while the ever-ready Elbert Padgett will tip-toe the hill in the night-cap.

According to reports in the Florida Times Union by Sam Butts, the Jacksonville sports writer says that Ken Douglas is an umpire in the Florida State Loop and making a good job of it too... We were about the umpire part of the story but part stating a good one too is just a little too much for a Sanford person to understand... New Mr. Butts says that Frosty

Santander Cleans Up Debris Of Siege

Insurgent Aviators Are Captured Near Teruel By Loyalists

BAYONNE, France, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spanish insurgent air force blasted the Spanish government port of Gijon in the center of the Biscayan coast, killing and wounding many civilians, government representatives said today.

The bombardment followed the government forces' refusal to hold the customary insurgent ultimatum "surrender or take the consequences." Gijon is about 100 miles west of Santander which fell Wednesday to the insurgent offensive.

Government reports to Hendaya, France however, said government forces yesterday pushed to within four miles of the city and put it under terrific artillery fire.

Another government dispatch said that several insurgent aviators, captured when they were forced down behind the Spanish coast, were taken to Teruel.

The war played Santander with amazing regularity, turning the city to and fro with the ebb and flow of the tide of the defense.

Fresh insurgent reinforcements marched in to relieve the columns which Wednesday captured Santander, but government forces today forced them westward in the borders of Asturias Province.

West of Santander is all that remains to the Loyalist government—the hills where Santander's defenders have fled and the country surrounding besieged, insurgent-held Oviedo.

Hendricks Glad To Be Back From Washington Heat

Representative Joe Hendricks, who has just returned to his home in Sanford from his duties in Washington, reports that it is "highly" nice to be back.

Another government dispatch said that several insurgent aviators, captured when they were forced down behind the Spanish coast, were taken to Teruel.

The war played Santander with amazing regularity, turning the city to and fro with the ebb and flow of the tide of the defense.

Fresh insurgent reinforcements marched in to relieve the columns which Wednesday captured Santander, but government forces today forced them westward in the borders of Asturias Province.

West of Santander is all that remains to the Loyalist government—the hills where Santander's defenders have fled and the country surrounding besieged, insurgent-held Oviedo.

Small Gate Near Bahama Islands Moves Westward

Forecasters Predict Rainy Weather On Florida East Coast

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 28.—(AP)—"Slight tropical disturbance," which the Weather Bureau has been watching in the Atlantic since Monday "hesitated over the Bahama" today.

The Weather Bureau said the disturbance, hardly a storm in the full sense of the word, has "parents" spread out and turned slowly toward the west with the center near Nassau at 8 A. M. Eastern Standard Time.

Nassau, the capital of the British Bahama Islands, is about 200 miles east southeast of Miami.

"Moderate to fresh squalls cover a rather extensive area over the Bahamas and the ocean to the east and northeast but no strong winds have been reported," the Weather Bureau said.

Forecasters here said squally weather would prevail along the East Coast of Florida today and tomorrow. They said there would be no dangerous winds unless the tropical disturbance picks up in intensity, something it has not done all week.

"Continued caution is advised small craft over the Bahama area and along and off the east and extreme south Florida coast during the next 24 hours," the Weather Bureau said.

Most Florida East Coast cities from here south reported rain this morning.

Request Is Made For Assistance For Children's Home Society Of Florida

A plea for contributions to aid in the support of a constantly increasing group of homeless boys and girls was issued today by Marcus C. Fagg, State superintendent of the Children's Home Society of Florida.

The society is supported entirely by voluntary gifts of money, food and clothing, and at the present time, it is in dire need of immediate help.

Clothing for the children is one of the greatest needs. Suits, waists, dresses, underwear, stockings, shoes, or any article of clothing of the size worn by boys and girls from infancy to the age of sixteen would be greatly appreciated.

Staple provisions, meats, canned goods, preserves, and any type of food is desired to assure a wholesome diet for the children. Additional funds are also required for the permanent continuance of the work. It was stated that during this year, over $7,000 has been borrowed to feed, clothe, and shelter more than 1,600 homeless children.

Mr. Fagg pointed out that a great need for good family homes for the older boys and girls from the ages of eight to sixteen is evident. Scores of them crave love, care, education, and an opportunity for a normal life.

All clothing, food, and other needed articles should be sent to the Receiving Home, 2360 Riverside Avenue, Jacksonville, or to one of the Branch Homes at Lakeland, Miami, and Pensacola.

Hull Notifies Orient U. S. Will Defend Rights, Citizens

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—State Department received official confirmation of Japan's public announcement that it would not interfere with "peaceful commerce" for foreign nations in connection with its blockade against Chinese ports.

Confirmation came to Secretary Hull from Joseph C. Crew, ambassador to Japan who sent the text of the press dispatch issued by the Japanese foreign office Thursday.

Hull said the government had received no formal clarification of the extent of the blockade as it would relate to any privilege of pre-emption that Japan might decide to exercise.

Confirmation came to Secretary Hull from Joseph C. Crew, ambassador to Japan who sent the text of the press dispatch issued by the Japanese foreign office Thursday.

Yesterday the United States informed both China and Japan that regarding their severe conflict this country intends to maintain all its rights and interests in the Orient.

A formal note notified both powers that they will be held strictly accountable if American citizens are injured or American property damaged as the result of their military operations in China.

American rights and interests in China are far different from American rights and interests in Japan or almost any other foreign country. Secretary Hull pointed out at his press conference yesterday.

In important sections of China, however, Americans have their own legitimate and their laws interpreted by their own courts the members of which are appointed by the President.

These possessions were slowly and painfully evolved and written into treaties. They are recognized generally to be of great value commercially, to American residents in particular sections of China, they are regarded as sacred.

Armed policy from the start of the undeclared war between China and Japan has been directed, frankly, at avoiding suspension of any of these rights, and yesterday the two nations were notified formally that that is the case.

DOOMED TO DIE

Albert Dyer, former school crossing guard is shown in court at Los Angeles at the moment the jury pronounced him guilty of the rape-slaying of three little girls at Inglewood, Calif., last June 26. The verdict carries the death penalty.

The jury, divided into squadrons of four ships each, swept over the sector several times, leaving a field of death and destruction half a mile square when they finished their grim maneuvers.

Wide spread fires quickly licked the debris spread by bombs. Many of those who escaped the burning projectiles were hurried to death.

The shrieks of the war-maddened Chinese populace rushing wildly in every direction mingled with groans of the dying and the roar of spreading flames.

Chinese authorities said the Japanese planes had no particular target but were only trying "to terrify and intimidate helpless citizens." Each of the four bombing squadrons was followed by protecting pursuit ships.

The raid came at the busiest hour of the day. Yesterday Japanese bombers, in the most destructive air raid yet suffered by Nanking, killed nearly 100 Chinese civilians and wounded scores more in the poorest quarters of Nanking.

Greatest havoc was done in areas at least two miles from any Chinese airfield or other military establishment.

This prompted Nelson T. Johnson, United States ambassador in China, and other foreign envoys to appeal to Japanese leaders to cause their air-men to show some degree of mercy and try to spare innocent non-combatants.

Most of yesterday's raids were routine, trapped in fire not by incendiary bombs.

16 Giant Bombers Attack Chinese Quarter Terrorizing Civilian Population

Chinese Capital Is Also Bombed

Raids Conducted In Busy Part Of Day

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28.—(AP)—More than 600 Chinese non-combatants were killed or wounded and the whole of Shanghai plunged into fresh terror by Japanese bombing squadrons today.

Mayor Yui announced 200 persons were killed and 400 wounded when 16 giant planes rained tons of explosives into the humanity-packed Nantao quarter adjoining the French concession in the southern side of the city.

Besides the normal population of the Chinese business and residential sections, thousands of natives had taken refuge there.

The Japs, divided into squadrons of four ships each, swept over the sector several times, leaving a field of death and destruction half a mile square when they finished their grim maneuvers.

Wide spread fires quickly licked the debris spread by bombs. Many of those who escaped the burning projectiles were hurried to death.
