Freshman English Students Write Descriptive Paragraphs In Class

To develop a paragraph, using a topic sentence as the unit of thought was an assignment given the freshman English class. The following are a few of the paragraphs.

All through the school one could hear the bell which meant to the pupils that school was over. Classrooms opened, students rushed into the halls, lockers banged and shouts were heard throughout the building. School was over for the day. Gradually the noises ceased. Sidewalks leading away from the school in all directions were crowded. Buses drove away and soon the school was deserted.

It was a beautiful sight. The rolling plains seemed to stretch for miles and miles, and then in the distance the mountains rose above their summits in the clouds. Near the top of these huge hills, a mist blue vapor could be detected by a close observer. Joan, remembering her last trip to this awe-inspiring spot, sighed and gazed down the incline into a world of reality.

By MARGARET TAYLOR.

He was a queer-looking man. He looked as if he were about one-and-a-half feet of skeleton, covered with a greenish-olived skin. His eyes looked like worn marbles sitting on top of a huge red nose. Straw-like hair was peeling out from under an old derby hat which was too large and his clothes were old. The pants which were purple, tagged and were too short. The coat was red with yellow stripes. Yet he was laughing in a way that made his face look like he was leading the circus parade.

A whirl of the starter, a series of explosions, so is the style in which the modern day racer gets underway. This machine which runs and blinks like a car was invented by Cyrus McCormick in 1834. In his day the reaper was nothing more than a "cradle," as it was called. The "cradle" was used by hand until McCormick invented the mower which was something on the order of the cradle, but it was pulled by horses instead of by hand. The reaper has since gone many changes since 1834. It has progressed from being pulled by horses to going a long way under its own power. This invention has done much to lighten man's labor.

By ED WHITE.

The steam turbine is a very powerful and useful machine. The steam is heated in the boiler and is directed against the turbine wheels with great force. The steam passes through all of the turbine wheels and then travels into the condenser. In the condenser the steam is transformed into water. The water is used in trains, ships, and in many large factories. Truly this invention has done much to lighten man's labor.

By JAMES LEE.

The steam engine has done much to lighten man's labor. When used in a locomotive it can carry enormous amounts across the country. It makes electricity by turning dynamos. It furnishes power for saw mills, boats, etc. It is used in construction work and lightens labor by many other means. Steam engines were an important step to our present day civilization.

By RAMON REEL.

Everyone seemed in a big hurry. Every way one looked boys and girls were hurrying about. There were screams and shouts on every side. When we had finished our work we had finished our work. When we had finished our work we had finished our work.

By EDGEMORE BINGOLLETARY.

The moment had finally arrived. Our family was on the ground. We had traveled from our home in Arizona. We had come to see the sights of the city. We had come to see the sights of the city. We had come to see the sights of the city.

S. H. S. Students Hear Lecture By Well-Known Poet

After seeing announcements of Mr. Frost's approaching appearance at Stetson University on Feb. 7, you can imagine how excited I became when I was included in a group who motored to Deland to hear this noted personage.

Robert Frost is a short, stocky gentleman with white hair and a very pleasant face. To see him you would have no idea of all the honors accorded him or of the fame he has; for he is an American citizen just like you and me, although much more entertaining.

I have never had a more pleasant afternoon than the one I spent listening to Mr. Frost. He spoke to us as if he were a neighbor, just like you and me, and he just talked in his genial way to each and everyone of his vast audience. It was a privilege to hear him relate his beautiful philosophies of life and read his equally beautiful poetry. While explaining his philosophical viewpoint, Mr. Frost gave his conception of democracy and told why, in his opinion it could never be destroyed. Just before reading his poems he explained that poetry is connected with philosophy because through his poems the author expresses his innermost feelings.

But it was not all serious, for Mr. Frost told many humorous tales of his own experience and topped often in his readings to give a funny explanation of this or that phrase.

Some of the poems he read were: "Stepping by Woods on a Snowy Evening" and "Memories of My Childhood." The "Pacific Coast" as of 1892. To me "Birches" was the most appealing selection he read. In this poem the author notes the beautiful birch trees that have been bent low by ice at times, but tells you that he had rather think they were bent by young boys swinging from their branches. He gives you a vivid picture of a young boy, too far from the city to have the companionship of youngsters his own age, climbing to the top of a birch and then expertly swinging through the branches to the ground.

Another interesting poem was "Blending Wall," in which he explained that there is nothing like a good fence to keep neighbors friendly.

The last selection Mr. Frost read was "The Climate of San Francisco." He said that in New England, when he was a boy, he found a little dirt in his food. He said that everyone must eat his peck of dirt, but that in San Francisco there were gold dust storms and that he had rather think they were gold than dirt.

Hearing the inspiring talk of this famous poet is an experience that will be remembered and treasured by all who had the privilege of enjoying it.

Those from S. H. S. who heard Mr. Frost were Ruth Hand, Susan Kirtley, Lucile Gormy, Lois Nipper, and Katherine Spencer.

Kommerical School

It is said that February in Florida is a hint of Spring, but who took that hint? If the weather is early, it would still be early, it would be the commercial students.

Our classes around the heaters, excepting of course typing, our students who are extended to these classes are: Ruth Hand, Edith Lundquist, Carolyn E. B. Larver. Also we are happy to have Ruth Young back with us. Ruth has returned from Hollywood, where she has been working temporarily.

Finally Mrs. Maxwell solved the spelling problem. She ordered a College Placement Book. This workbook is a list of words for each day. Now we know what words we are going to miss. (Oh Happy Day!)

Speaking of workbooks, we are to make that we are making one with illustrations. First we will make one map. Overhead the class, we think our book is O. K.

Don't forget Mrs. Ann's Dance Night by Nell. This year is being to make history. First we will make one map. Overhead the class, we think our book is O. K.

Sadie Hawkins Day Planned On Feb. 28

The Student Council held its meeting on Friday, Feb. 7, in the H-I-Y room. Plans were discussed for a Sadie Hawkins Day to be held Feb. 28. Erna Doumer, chairman of the social committee, presented it before the faculty, which approved the plan. The financial committee made a report on the plan to raise money for purchasing a new curtain for the auditorium. A sample was shown to the members of the student council of a curtain which would cost only $294. It was decided that the school should buy this curtain from The Furniture Company who is sponsoring the campaign. It was suggested that a student council conduct one of its meetings once a month in the auditorium before the student body.

Two Poor Boys

By T. W. LAWTON

"They that sow in tears shall reap in joy" is just as true today as when the prophet spoke the words 25 or more centuries ago. Two great Americans were outstanding examples of boys who had little with which to begin life, but through diligent effort and sacrifice made lasting contributions to their fellow men, not in America alone but throughout the world. "You cannot look out a window in any city in Europe or America without beholding the influence of his thought. . . . As Athens at her height was the age of Pericles, so will our time be known as the age of Edison," says Elebert Hubbard. And "that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth" the closing words of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address, will remain the expression of the heart of democracy as long as free people shall govern themselves.

These immortal Americans were born on successive days of the month, Feb. 11 and 12, just 25 years apart. When the future president of the United States was born, the inventor of the light bulb was just beginning his experiments, the bookworm son of Thomas and Nancy Hanks Lincoln had been elevated by his countrymen to the highest honor in our nation, president of the United States of America.

If I were asked to give the watch word of each of these eminent Americans, I would say for Edison, "Never Give Up the Stick"—it is said that in his shops and laboratories there are many clocks but none of them are running. "Get the job done," was his motto; without regard for the hour of the day. For Lincoln, my idea of his philosophy of life was expressed in his words, "Destroy your enemies by making them your friends."

These men knew that the boy who succeeds in the 20th century starts to be a success when he is still a boy. Both were poor, with poor parents. Neither had the advantage of educational opportunities, and both made sacrifices to obtain books and to read. Both used every ounce of energy in accomplishing great tasks, and while they were working to learn they were growing into men that could be relied on to bring light into the world, the one physical light to illuminate our rooms and streets, the other, spiritual light to illumine the hearts of men.

Valentine's Day Is Observed In Chapel Program

The Student Council of Seminole High School presented its first program Thursday morning in the chapel in honor of St. Valentine's Day.

After the usual morning exercises, Betty West, program chairman of the council, presented to Miss Phyllis Smith, secretary of the Salmagundi staff, a birthday gift from the members of the staff in honor of her birthday after which "Happy Birthday" was sung by the entire student body.

The Pippin sisters, Elizabeth and Gladys, sang a selection, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," accompanied by Helen Hutchinson, at the piano, which typified the occasion of St. Valentine's Day.

A brief talk was given by Bill White, financial chairman, of the Student Council, who presented a plan for raising money to purchase a new curtain for the auditorium.

Following this talk, "Stardust" was sung by Clifford Proctor who was accompanied by Mary Martha Emerick at the piano.

Mrs. W. G. Fleming, the guest speaker of the morning, presented an interesting talk about St. Valentine's Day. During this talk, Mrs. Fleming stated that any gift on Valentine's Day whether large or small was greatly appreciated. She concluded by telling the origin of this celebrated occasion.

Seminole High Has Three Winners In Bacheller Contest

Almost every year since the beginning of the Irving Bacheller Florida history essay contest, Seminole High School has had one of the six best papers in the state. For two years Seminole High School has won first place in the finals, but this is the first year that it has had three papers chosen for the finals.

The three students of Seminole High School who had winning papers are Margaret Spencer who wrote on "Prince Achilles Murat"; Natalie Truitt who wrote on "Theodore Roosevelt"; and Olive Chapman who wrote on "Robert Horner Barnett." With these entrants in the finals Seminole High School is sure to come through with flying honors.

The Irving Bacheller contest was open to the junior and senior classes of all the Florida high schools, both private and public. The subject of the contest this year was "A Notable Personality of Florida." The year's subject was intended to direct attention to the men and women who were responsible for significant achievements in the history and development of Florida.

Fields of endeavor were divided into discovery, exploration, colonization, religion, education, literature, art, science, agriculture, transportation, politics, government, military activity, sociology, economics and industry.

The six essays chosen for the finals will be memorized and delivered from memory without notes at "Gate of the Isles," Mr. Bacheller's estate in Winter Park, at 4:00 o'clock on the afternoon of Feb. 21.

Among those who will serve on the committee with Joshua C. Chase, Winter Park, honorary chairman, A. J. Hanna, chairman, Rollins College, Winter Park, and Watt Marchman, secretary, Florida Historical Society, St. Augustine, are: Mrs. Marjorie Fannon Rawlins, Dr. Katherine E. Abbey, Miss Louise Richardson, Karl Lehman and Mrs. Albert Shaw.

Florida's circuit judges met in Tampa last week with Attorney General Tom Watson to draft their biennial recommendations to the Legislature. Supreme Court Justice Elwyn Thomas and Ailo Adams addressed the meeting.

Without Benefit of Menu

Imagine going into the kitchen of your favorite restaurant . . . lifting the lid of every pot . . . tasting this soup and that sauce . . . and finally, after a whirl around the hot stoves, placing your order!

Ridiculous! you'd say. That's no way to order a dinner! Restaurant patrons make their choice of food from a menu.

Wise shoppers—whether they are shopping for food in a restaurant or merchandise in a retail shop—first look at a menu.

The advertisements in this paper are the menus of the stores that you patronize. Tropical waisted . . . colorful prints . . . beach robes . . . golf and tennis equipment . . . a thousand and one items for the home are offered in these pages to make your life happier.

The advertisements are your guides to better, more economical living. Read them before you go forth to buy. They point the way to real values!

Tribunal Declares

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld the conviction of Earl Browder, 1940 presidential nominee of the Communist Party, on a charge of wilfully using a passport obtained by false statements.

Browder was convicted by a jury in a southern New York Federal District Court, sentenced to four years' imprisonment and fined $5,000.

The verdict was upheld by the Federal Circuit Court at New York.

In another decision, the court overruled the government's contention that the Federal Trade Commission Act outlawing unfair competitive methods should be applied to activities entirely within one state if it affects interstate commerce.

Driven From Homes
By Fire Following
Recent Hurricane

MADRID, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The San Sebastian radio reported today that 30,000 persons had been forced from their homes by a gigantic fire which swept through Santander yesterday and today in the wake of a disastrous hurricane which claimed at least 43 lives in Spain and Portugal.

The flames were still blazing today. Fire losses were estimated between $9,000,000 and $12,500,000.

A violent hurricane that swept across Portugal and San Sebastian, killing and injuring hundreds and causing millions of dollars in damage, spent its fury Sunday in northern Spain where more were killed and entire provinces were isolated.

The destructiveness of the storm extended from the Madeira Islands 525 miles west of Lisbon to the Spanish-French frontier near the Bay of Biscay where it died shortly before noon Sunday.

An estimated 150 persons were killed or injured near the northern Spanish town of Zumana, between Bilbao and San Sebastian, after the howling winds knocked an electric train from a bridge and plunged passenger coaches in the Urola River.

Proposed Canal Called 'Menace' By J. C. Chase

Danger To Florida's Water Supply Is Cited In Letters

Restating that construction of the Florida ship canal would constitute a "serious menace" to this state's underground water supply, Joshua C. Chase of Winter Park, chairman of the board of directors of Chase and Co., addressed a letter to Senator C. O. Andrews and Senator Claude Pepper expressing his opposition to the proposal.

"Thinking people in Florida," Mr. Chase asserted, "are opposed to it as much as ever."

The letter written by Mr. Chase is as follows:

"Senator C. O. Andrews
Washington, D. C.

"Senator Claude Pepper

"Gentlemen:

"Understand from the news papers that you are backing up for quick passage a bill introduced by Senator Sheppard of Texas (possibly at your request) to construct the Florida Seacoast Ship Canal. If this opinion of mine is untrue what right has Senator Sheppard or any other Senator, to introduce a bill that would perform a surgical operation on the State of Florida?"

Miss Morrison Is Chairman Of New Athletic Board

Miss Eleanor Morrison was elected chairman of the Central Florida Judging Board of the National Federation of Women's Athletics of the national organization for physical education and recreation, at a meeting held at Orlando Saturday to organize the group. It was reported by the City Recreation Department today.

Members of the new judging board are Miss Helen Evans of Orlando, Miss Sara Staff of DeLand and Miss Morrison, all having rating with the national organization through examinations taken before the boards at Tampa and Tallahassee. Miss Morrison has held her rating for the past six years.

Purpose of the new board is to examine applicants for rating with the national organization who live in Central Florida, Miss Morrison said. At the present time there are two such boards in the state, one in Tallahassee and another at Tampa.

Examinations are to be given to coaches, physical education teachers and other interested in obtaining a rating with the women's section of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. The national organization is trying to raise the standards of women's athletics and recreation through the improvement of officials who are in charge of the work, she explained.

For the first time the government will pay direct taxes to the federal government...

This is a good thing. It is a good thing not because one likes to pay taxes...

But all the time the government was getting most of its money from the nickels and dimes of the little people...

Where the government did get its money was from its gasoline tax which dropped right into the pockets of every man, woman and child...

From such sources it got most of the money it collected. The rich paid these taxes too...

But it is a good thing. When we realize it's our money the government wastes we'll be more particular about how it's wasted.

Junior Auxiliary Plans Fair Friday

The Junior Auxiliary of the American Legion has announced plans for a fair which will be put on at the Legion Hut on the lake front next Friday night. The gates will open at 6:00 o'clock and admission will be a penny a foot for each person's height.

Those in charge of arrangements have announced that if you listen Friday afternoon after the carnival arrives you may hear the ferocious animals roar. We are not sure whether they will arrive by way of the St. Johns River or on the spur track by the Hut, but you may be able to tell by the excitement of the monkeys on the island. They'll be sure to know.

Once inside the fair grounds supper may be had in regular old fashioned fair ground style, such as hot dogs, and pink lemonade. Other features will be all kinds of games, including peg and ring games, moving pictures, wild animal shows, ball and keg fishing stands and many others.

A special exhibit at the fair will be a silk patchwork quilt, with a satin gold lining, which the Junior Auxiliary members made themselves.

The public has been extended a cordial invitation to attend the fair by the auxiliary members, and a special invitation is extended to the tourists.

Mrs. Lord Discusses Flower Arrangements

Mrs. E. L. Lord of Orlando discussed interesting flower arrangements and the fine points of judging them at the annual luncheon of the Sanford Garden Club in the Mayfair Hotel Friday. As an illustration she judged exhibits of the various club members, making clear the difference between flower arrangements which express emotion and thought, and flowers used merely for the decoration purposes. Unity, balance and color harmony are the main points to be considered, she stated.

Mrs. Martin J. Curlett of Geneva introduced the speaker and announced the annual flower show which will be held in March.

Mrs. Roy Brock of Cocoa, district director, outlined federation work, making special mention of the conservation project of the club and laws regarding billboards to be introduced in the Legislature this session.

Mrs. Martin J. Curlett returned thanks and Mrs. J. H. Coleclough, president of the Sanford Garden Club, welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Coleclough also stressed the benefits of gardening, declaring that women are happy in the accomplishments which are helping them, their country and their community. Garden clubs are doing for the nation what nothing else could possibly do. Our country at such times as these needs garden clubs more than ever. To fall in the sort of things we are definitely doing would very greatly improve the nation.

The Valentine motif was carried out in the exquisite arrangement of pastel colored flowers used for decorations and also in the menu.

The center piece for the speaker's table consisted of a large bowl of pastel flowers, pyramided and topped by a Dresden figurine, holding aloft a lace edged red satin heart. The whole arrangement was placed upon an old fashioned mirror reflector and flanked by quaint nosegays of violets and pink roses in antique hob-nail glass containers.

Other tables held heart-shaped arrangements of sweet peas and violets and were interspersed with bowls of gerberas and astilbe hearts bearing bunches of sweetheart roses.

The flowers which were used in decorating were later distributed among the hotel guests and shut-ins in the city.

Mrs. R. R. Deas was chairman for the luncheon, assisted by George M. Deas, Mrs. H. H. Coleman, Mrs. C. R. Kirtley, Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Mrs. C. L. Park, Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, Mrs. E. I. Hoy, and Mrs. J. D. Woodruff.

Hitler Seeks Early Peace In Greek War

Pressure Applied To Settle Hostilities In Albania Now On Mussolini's Terms

600,000 Nazis Ready To Fight

Greece Can No Longer Look For Help From Turkish Ally

ATHENS, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Reports from Greece today said high flying German and reconnaissance planes, "positively identified" as German, had been seen flying over Greek Macedonia for several days, provoking fears of an invasion by the Nazis may be imminent.

Balkan diplomats reported today that Hitler has brought pressure on Greece to make a quick peace with Italy—on Mussolini's terms—under a threat of having Nazi troops invade the Aegean kingdom. Dispatches from Sofia, Bulgaria, said the German minister to Athens had informed Greek leaders that with the signing of the new Turkish-Bulgarian non-aggression accord, Greece is now open to attack through Bulgaria.

If Greece refused, it was said, the Nazi Balkan army estimated at about 600,000 men would march south from Bulgaria into Greece. The British fleet is reported to be in the Aegean sea, and a British sea blockade was reported starting the populace in Italy's Dodecanese Islands.

Japan assailed the "warlike operations of the British and American governments" in the Balkans. Turkish sources asserted a clause attached to the Turkish-Bulgarian pact provided it would not interfere with existing agreements between the two countries and with other governments. Foreign observers wondered, however, whether the accord meant Turkey would refrain from interference in the event of a Nazi thrust through Bulgaria to Greece.

A Bulgarian-Turkish non-aggression accord emerged last night and by a few statements in which the two Balkan nations professed no more than simple animosity for each other. It threatened to change the course of the European war.

Balkan informants said the accord meant, among other things: 1.—A probable quick peace between Greece and Italy, with Greece the suppliant despite her victory in Albania.

2.—That Germany would seek clear of the Dardanelles, vital link between the Russian-dominated Black Sea and the eastern Mediterranean.

3.—That Germany would seek clear of the Dardanelles, vital link between the Russian-dominated Black Sea and the eastern Mediterranean.

4.—That a major obstacle to a German march through Bulgaria to Greece and the Mediterranean had been removed, for the Nazis had promised in the accord not to attack Bulgaria.

A large of diplomatic maneuvering lay behind the accord. It was understood that in return for Germany's promise to leave Turkey alone and keep away from the Dardanelles, the German government will undertake to assist return of the "free zone" of the East to an Arabian Turkey should the Turks become involved with Germany over passage of Nazi troops through Bulgaria.

War Moves In The Balkans

The map shows where rumblings of war are being heard. Leaders of the turbulent Balkans, sighted over Budapest point to massed arrival of German troops in Bulgaria. Experts believe the troop concentrations in Bulgaria and Romania mean German drives may be directed at Greece (1) or the Bosphorus in Turkey (2).
