Joseph Ruiz received the sentence for shooting Mehul Gadhia during an Aug. 23 robbery of a Subway shop as the 19-year-old victim begged for mercy. Ruiz was sentenced as a career criminal. He has served prison time in Connecticut within the last five years.

Ruiz was convicted of attempted first degree murder, kidnapping and robbery plus lesser charges.

Firefighters monitor brush fire

SANFORD -- State forestry firefighters will monitor a brush fire on the county's Yankee Lake property which spread from a "controlled burn" in the Lower Wekiva River State Reserve yesterday. The state set the fire in the nearby nature reserve to eliminate unwanted undergrowth and to maintain the native scrub habitat. John Koehler, district forestry manager, said an airplane was sent to the area east of the Wekiva River to determine the extent of the fire. A tractor was also sent to control the fire.

Chuck Lawson, county utilities construction manager, said fire poses no threat to the inactive $20 million wastewater treatment plant and may be beneficial.

Three considered for state court

TALLAHASSEE -- Two appellate court judges and an Orlando attorney will be considered by Gov. Lawton Chiles to fill a vacancy on the Florida Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court Judicial Nominating Commission submitted the names of Fifth District Court of Appeals Judges Gilbert S. Goshorn Jr., 59, and Emerson R. Thompson Jr., 45, both of Daytona Beach and Orlando attorney Charles T. Wells to Chiles Thursday. The nominating commission interviewed candidates Wednesday in Orlando.

Local Circuit Court Judges O.H. Eaton Jr. and Seymour Benson were two of 14 applicants for the Supreme Court vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Parker Lee McDonald. McDonald's replacement must live in the Fifth Appellate District.

The governor will choose one of the three men to serve on the court effective June 1.

Big difference in prices for cop-ordered towing

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD -- If the police call to have your disabled vehicle towed after a wreck in Lake Mary it's less than one third the cost of being towed in Sanford. The difference is attributed to a low-bid contract versus a rotational system.

Sanford rotates between four towing services. Lake Mary is under contract with only one company.

Butch's Towing, 2207 W. First Street in Sanford, handles all towing calls by Lake Mary police, and is in the rotation in Sanford.

The towing charges deal only with calls by a law enforcement officer following a collision or other disabling incident. If the vehicle's owner or driver asks for a specific towing service, that service is called and there is no limit to the amount of money which could be charged.

If, however, no service is requested, police call a towing service which has arrangements with that specific jurisdiction.

In Sanford, according to the rotation system recommended by the Florida Highway Patrol, the basic rate for Class A wrecker towing is $85, with $2.50 per mile charged beyond a ten mile radius.

In Lake Mary, the low-bid contract is for a towing cost of $24.50, with $1 per mile charged after a five mile radius.

It's the difference between a low-bid contract and a rotation," said Butch Coombs. "In Lake Mary, you get a better deal."

Cops nab burglars at work

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD -- Two Sanford police officers encountered a burglary in progress early this morning at 1301 W. 25th Street. One man has been arrested.

Police Commander Dennis Whitmore said Cpl. Joe Ott and officer Robby Shull, Jr. were parked at McKibbin Park at 25th and Hartwell early this morning, when they saw a 1982 Oldsmobile pull up with two people in it.

"The officers said they discussed how it would be a coincidence if this might be a robbery attempt," Whitmore said. "When the two black men in the car got out and went across the street to the Pac & Sac convenience store."

He continued, "It wasn't long before the officers reported hearing a noise which they discovered was a concrete block thrown through the front door. When they ran to the store, they reported seeing two men in the process of exiting, one carrying a money order machine."

Whitmore said the man threw the machine to the ground and both men ran, climbing over a walled fence of the rear of the business.

The officers called in a K-9 unit, Whitmore said, and by 2:37 this morning, they had located one of the men hiding under a car in the 2500 block of Hartwell Avenue.

George C. McCray, 23, of 2007 Adams Avenue, Sanford, was arrested on charges of burglary and resisting arrest without violence.

Defense wants missing girl's personal letters

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD -- The defense attorney for Anton Daryl Meyers wants to examine the personal notes and letters of a missing Lake Mary girl and investigate reported slights since her 1987 disappearance.

Meyers was indicted for first degree murder of 14-year old Kuthy Engels last year. Her body was never found. Meyers' defense attorneys claim she is a runaway.

Defense attorney Kurt Barch requested a court hearing Thursday seeking access to notes and letters turned over to a missing children's organization after Engels disappeared by her grandparents.

Circuit Court Judge Alan A. Dickey told Barch to issue a subpoena for the materials he wanted to the Missing Children's Center, Inc. and Engel's grandparents, Charles and Marie Hooper. If the parties do not comply with the subpoena request, then Barch could present arguments to the court.

Dickey said there was nothing before the court to rule on and he adjourned the hearing. Thompson gave Barch copies of the center's case file which the attorney said he would review before deciding to issue a subpoena.

SHS talent showcased at Purina convention

By VICKI DESORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD -- About 60 members of the Seminole High School Dazzler dance team and the Gospel Choir have been working hard the last couple of weeks to help pay for some future activities.

Bob Maguire, choral instructor at Seminole High, said he got a call two weeks ago from a convention producer who was working on a production number for Purina Food Corporation's convention that was being hosted at Walt Disney World.

Marilyn Sassman, a fellow music teacher who leads the choir at Teague Middle School, had recommended the Seminole High choruses when a friend involved in the productions had contacted her looking for strong, professional singers.

"They contacted me and asked if we could do it," Maguire said. "They asked what we had done and I told them some things including the Hall of Fame Awards that we did last November for Disney on national TV. The producer said 'Those were your girls?' and I said they were. He had seen us on there when we, included Dick Clark and he was impressed."

Maguire said the music arrived a week ago last Monday and the girls went into rehearsal right away.

They learned the music and were

During the hearing, Barch said information in the case continues to "dribble in." He learned the Hoopers had turned over some of Engel's personal papers to the Missing Children's Center after a deposition of executive director Joan Thompson. The Hoopers did not want to release the papers, according to assistant state attorney Pat Whitaker.

In addition to the papers, Barch said the defense team wants to examine reported sightings of someone fitting Engel's description in South Carolina and two in Lakeland. He advised the work may delay the trial.

"It doesn't look like we're going to try the case April 4," Barch said. There are also three new witnesses the defense must question before the trial, he added.

Whitaker said the papers in question are held by private parties who should not be forced to turn over the files.

Kathy Engels disappeared May 24, 1987 after she left a friend's home where she had gone to spend the night. Meyers was reportedly the last person seen with the girl before she disappeared.

prepared for the first rehearsal with the producers and the lead singers from Los Angeles on Saturday morning.

Maguire said the producers had scheduled four and a half hours for rehearsal and instruction, but the choruses were ready in an hour and a half.

"They are quick," he said proudly. "They're used to a lot of movement."

Maguire said he didn't need to tell the young ladies that they needed to behave professionally and give their best performances.

"They know the importance of giving their best," he said.

On Sunday morning, the Seminole High performers were part of the convention production for the Purina dealers.

"They were a very good audience," Maguire said.

This morning, the girls performed for the Purina retailers that are taking part in the convention.

For their work, the choral department was paid $5,000, Maguire said. The money will not be paid directly to the girls, rather it goes into the department's account and will be used to pay for transportation, entry fees and other costs associated with state competitions that are coming up over the next few weeks.

"The girls worked very hard on this," Maguire said. "They are building quite a reputation for themselves."

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Prisoners don't need cable TV

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Ander Crenshaw, a state senator and gubernatorial candidate, doesn't want criminals playing Nintendo and watching ESPN while in state prisons.

The Senate agreed with the Jacksonville Republican on Thursday and passed a bill 37-1 to prohibit prisons from spending money on cable TV service, video rentals, televisions, videocassette recorders and other electronic equipment used for recreational purposes.

"How many citizens in Florida get the free use of these type of amenities?" asked Crenshaw, one of the bill's sponsors. "I think it's outrageous that people can live in prisons and live a better lifestyle than a lot of people who are hard-working, tax-paying, law-abiding citizens."

Corrections officials predicted the move could lead to more violence in state prisons unless the Legislature authorizes other activities to keep prisoners busy.

"It could lead to some problems," said William Thurber, assistant secretary of the state Department of Corrections. "There are 55,000 people locked up and very little for them to do."

The legislation (CS-58 & 1938) follows an Auditor General's report that criticized the handling of money in the $30 million inmate welfare trust fund, which is made up of money spent by prisoners on food, beverages, cigarettes and toiletries, and commissions from prisoners' long-distance collect calls.

Current law allows the corrections department broad discretion in spending the money. The bill would place the trust fund under legislative supervision and specifies what the money could be spent on.

Most of the money in the fund is currently spent to restock the prison canteens and pay staff. Last year, about $7 million were spent on inmate benefits, including about $2.7 million on recreation and entertainment.

Under the bill passed Thursday, the trust fund would have to be spent on education, literacy, vocational training and religious activities once the canteen and staff costs are paid.

"You go to prison to be punished. It ought not to be a torture chamber. But it ought not to be a summer camp," said Crenshaw.

Thurber said the corrections department is in the process of removing cable TV service from a handful of prisons in remote locations.

The agency, however, strongly objects to barring the purchase of TVs or renting movies, he said.

"We're not interested in corrections for entertaining these inmates," Thurber said. "Our purpose is to keep them busy, keep them occupied. We're having a tough time with that."

Doctor pay State median at $172,000, highest in country

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Half the doctors in Florida earn about $25,000 more than the $148,000 that half the doctors in the United States make, says a report prepared by a state health care group.

The Agency for Health Care Administration, which put out the report, is using it in its fight against a doctor-backed effort to open up health maintenance organizations to all doctors.

Half the doctors in Florida make more than $172,000, the report says.

"Our physicians by any standard are among the highest paid physicians in the country," Doug Cook, the agency's director, said Thursday.

A spokesman for the Florida Medical Association said the figures, compiled by the American Medical Association, were taken out of context and reflected responses from only 161 of the state's doctors.

Gov. Lawton Chiles has warned he won't accept any legislation that opens up HMO networks to "any willing provider." He has said he will make lawmakers work overtime if they insist on passing it before the two-month session ends April 8.

The AMA released data about 1992 physician income a few months ago. But Florida's ranking was pointed out Thursday by the state's health care agency, which answers to Chiles. Like the governor, the agency doesn't want lawmakers to let "any willing provider" treat HMO patients.

The AMA report says Florida doctors have the highest median income of any state. That means half of Florida's doctors earn more than $172,000 and half earn less.

No other state has a higher median income for physicians than Florida, according to the statistics, which were based on a survey that had a 65 percent response rate.

House sends gender, minority balance bill to Senate for vote

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - The House voted to urge, but not require, state boards and commissions to include more women, minority and physically handicapped members.

The bill, passed 94-22 Thursday and sent to the Senate, was rewritten to say boards and commissions "should" include members of those groups. Gov. Lawton Chiles vetoed a measure last year that would have made it mandatory.

"This is an issue that is a long time coming," said Rep. Debbie Wasserman-Schultz, D-Davie, the sponsor.

The bill (HB 653) would make it a goal for boards to include women, minorities and the handicapped in proportion to their numbers in the population.

It would require annual reports on the number of appointments from each minority group and that of non-minority appointments to some 350 state boards, commissions, councils and committees. The bill defines minorities as African Americans, Hispanic Americans, Asian Americans, native Americans and women.

Chiles said the mandatory bill he vetoed would have unreasonably tied the hands of those who appoint the boards. Many are named by the governor.

Rep. Alex Villalobos, R-Miami, said the new measure "does not impose a mindless mechanical formula."

"It does not put me, as a minority, in front of the line in front of anybody who is equally qualified. It simply puts me in the same position," Villalobos said.

The House rejected an amendment Tuesday by Rep. Carlos Valdes, R-Miami Springs, to restore the mandatory language, and Valdes said he voted for the bill reluctantly.

"We know for sure that government voluntarily will not fix the problem," Valdes said. "I don't believe there is anything in this bill that will correct the inadequacies we have in minority representation in our state boards of women, blacks and Hispanics."

Relatives relieved by jury's decision

GAINESVILLE — Several jurors had trouble sleeping. One had horrible dreams.

But relatives of the victims believed some of their nightmares would cease with a jury's recommendation that Danny Harold Rolling be executed in Florida's electric chair for killing five college students.

"Our nightmares have an end point," family members said in a formal statement Thursday that praised the jury's unanimous advisory opinion for Circuit Judge Stan Morris.

"I am very upset about it. But he deserves to die for those horrible crimes he committed," juror Duren Stubbs said. "The photos — the way he killed — was a big factor."

Most of the jurors who commented about their five hours of deliberations over two days said the large color photographs of the murder victims overcame anything the defense said about Rolling's mental problems.

Laurie Lahey, the sister of victim Tracy Paules, was angry and outspoken about Rolling.

"He's going to fear for his life now," she said, adding that she originally believed that her sister's killer should "rot in prison."

But she changed her mind. Ms. Lahey said. "He gets too many privileges. And after what we've seen in the evidence and what we've been through, I want this man to die."

Ms. Paules, 23, was the serial killer's final victim during the crime spree that terrorized this college town in August 1990.

"You couldn't see the photos and not cry," said juror Brenda Diaz, who said she had nightmares during the three weeks of testimony.

"We all cried when we took the vote and heard the word 'death' over and over. It was not a task we took lightly," she said.

Added jury foreman Jerre Coleman: "I've done this before and I'm not proud of it, I did it because it was my duty."

Coleman said he was on the jury that convicted Santa Linder Jacobs in the 1976 murder of two lawmen in Deerfield Beach. She was eventually freed from prison on appeals and guilty pleas to reduced charges.

Most of the 30 family members and friends who attended the final days of a three-week sentencing trial feared, however, that carrying out an expected death sentence could take up to a decade because of appeals.

"We continue to be haunted with the fear that people will remember this killer, even glorify him for the slaughter of our children," the relatives said in a statement read in the courtroom.

"We challenge you to remember Sonja Larson, Christi Powell, Christa Hoyt, Manny Taboada and Tracy Paules — not the man who killed them."

Ann Garren, the mother of Christa Hoyt, said she had prayed for God to guide the jury's deliberations. "He delivered what we wanted today," she said.

Ms. Hoyt, 18, was raped, repeatedly stabbed, and decapitated. Her battered body was posed in what Rolling later boasted had been his "message to Gainesville."

Mary, we may get 30 to 40 calls a month, where in Sanford, under the rotation system, we may end up having only five or six."

Butch continued. "With the costs of our equipment and insurance, this is a business situation, and the difference is purely a matter of volume. We get so much more work in Lake Mary, so we can charge less."

Although Sanford police have been on a rotational basis, a recommendation to adopt the standardized costs recommended by the Florida Highway Patrol and Florida Department of Transportation is only now coming into existence for the city.

The FHP rules are called, "Wrecker Qualification and Allocation System."

Under the Sanford rotation system, there are additional costs in addition to the $85 base rate for a Class A wrecker service. If waiting or working time beyond 30 minutes is required, the charge is $66 per hour, based on a quarter hour time period.

When larger wreckers are required, the base rate for Class B is $95 with $3 per mile beyond the 10 mile radius, and for Class C, the charge will be $165 plus $4 for the extra mileage.

Separate charges are also established for additional manpower which may be needed, and work required such as removal of a drive shaft, axle, bumper, or other necessities.

The charges are also added to expanded work required for Lake Mary disabled vehicle towings as well.

Sanford is on the rotation basis. In addition to Butch's, three other wrecker services serve the needs of police. Under the FHP plan, each must charge the same fees for similar services. If one is called and is not available, the second is called, etc. The first-call rotates among the four.

The city of Longwood is also on the rotational system. "We have seven companies," said Chief Greg Manning. "Whenever one has to be called, we radio to dispatch to phone the next one on the rotation system."

Manning said there is no contract between the city and the individual services. "All they have to do is obtain a rating from the Florida Highway Patrol, and follow the requirements, and they are eligible to be on our rotational list."

During a work session meeting of the Sanford City Commission last month, police Chief Ralph Russell and Commander Doug Bishop recommended that the city adopt the FHP uniform regulations.

Following a discussion on the requirements, the commission, at the regular meeting of Feb. 28, voted unanimously to adopt the FHP system.

The city attorney has been authorized to prepare the proper document to implement the guidelines as an official procedure of the City of Sanford.

Lake Mary does not use the rotation system, choosing to contract with one towing service.

"We recently received bids for our service, and entered into a contract with Butch's Wrecker Service," said Police Chief Richard Beary. The prices we received in the contract were one set price."

Capt. Sam Bellflore explained, "Under this low-bid service we have entered into with Butch's, we have had excellent service, and the charges are kept down. That's one of the advantages of having an individual contract."

Beary added that the prices would still vary, depending on the distance a vehicle had to be towed, how much additional work may be required in hitting up a vehicle, the length of time it may be stored, and other charges.

The other man was described as approximately five feet eleven inches tall, and approximately 180 pounds.

Whitmore said it was an unusual situation when officers have the opportunity to actually witness a burglary in progress.

Vote for Sawyer in Lake Mary

Lake Mary can be proud of its citizens. Four excellent candidates have stepped forward to seek the post of City Commission, Seat 4.

Each of them has special qualifications which would serve the city well.

Thomas Greene is an attorney. While legal knowledge would be a plus for any member of the commission, he has not become personally involved in city boards or committees in Lake Mary during the six years he has been a resident.

Frank McDonald serves on the city's Land Planning Agency, Timacuan Home Owners Association and People for Responsible Airport Development. He is also a member of the Florida Bar.

Patrick Callaway is knowledgeable in development. He has also served on the city's Business Advisory Board.

With the growth of Lake Mary and the upcoming Seminole Towne Center Mall to the north of the city, Callaway's expertise could prove most valuable.

Sheila Sawyer has served on the Charter Review Committee, Board of Adjustments, Elderly Affairs Commission, Citizens Advisory Committee, Land Planning Agency, Planning and Zoning Commission, and others.

She has also attended almost all commission meetings as planning sessions for many years.

Sawyer has obtained a good background in the operations of this wide range of commissions and boards. As such, we believe her service on the city commission would be to the best advantage of the majority of Lake Mary residents.

When Sawyer made her first attempt to seek a commission seat, she ran against incumbent David Meador. At that time, we recommended Meador's reelection. However, we also observed that Sawyer would indeed be an excellent choice in the future.

The election on Tuesday is that time. We believe Sawyer should be elected to city commission seat 4. She is by far the best choice.

In the future, we believe the city would do well in considering these other candidates, especially Callaway. His qualifications are excellent. With more personal involvement, he can prove to be an outstanding choice in years to come.

However, on Tuesday, cast your vote for Sawyer, and help continue Lake Mary's forward progress.

LETTER

Property restrictions

Ref. Tuesday's (March 15, 1994) article by Vicki DeSormier on "Restrictions anger some homeowners."

It appears that Sanford is becoming the little Moscow on the St. Johns River. Fortunately, this is not the fault of the local residents who still hold to the idea that a person and their property have a right to be left alone. The fault lies squarely on the shoulders of Comrade Bettye Smith and her fellow commissars who, unfortunately, at least for the time being, are running our city.

I have the greatest empathy for Sue Hancock, and can well understand her wanting to move away. Unfortunately, this is the worst thing that she could do. Sometimes a citizen or citizens have to stand up and create waves in order to put these people in their place. They were elected to do our will, not their will, which seems to be lost on this bunch of horses' butts. If one does not challenge these people from the start, in court if need be, it will only embolden them to greater acts against the people.

The fact that we have self-appointed block wardens out making up lists against their neighbors should send an alarm through the community of indignation and anger.

To Ms. Hancock's question of "why don't they put as much effort into cleaning up the streets as they do into making sure people paint their houses the appropriate color," the reason or answer is when you have someone whose top priority is to beautify the city at the expense of the safety of its citizens. It's not hard to understand why it's not safe to go to the post office after dark anymore. It's not the fault of the police department or its officers. They are a group of highly trained, overworked, understaffed, and underpaid people. Again the blame for this is squarely on the shoulders of the mayor, city commissioners, and the city manager. When leadership is mediocre it only follows that everything else stinks.

I would advise that Ms. Hancock get a lawyer, preferably one from out of town to handle this little chore for her. I am a great believer in suing when a civil servant or ordinance has wronged you. As far as I'm concerned when this happens to me, I will spare no time nor expense to right this wrong. In the meantime, I sincerely hope that Ms. Hancock will change her mind about moving. Good, honest, hardworking citizens are something that Sanford can't do without.

CHUCK STONE

Probe Whitewater, then drown it

For one shining moment, there was Camelot. Tonya Harding, Dan Rostenkowski and Yitzhak Rabin had driven Whitewater off the front pages.

And David Gergen — whose White House days are numbered anyway — didn't have a darn thing to do with it.

It is amazing — and unconscionably absurd — how much space newspapers and how much air time television and radio stations have devoted to an invisible scandal whose name sounds like a place where nature lovers go rafting.

So far, the best thing that the media and the Republican Party have going for it is Marcellus' famous speculation from "Hamlet."

After Hamlet follows a beckoning ghost out of the room, Marcellus tells Horatio that he thinks they should go after their homeboy. When Horatio asks why, Marcellus darkly hints, "Something is rotten in the state of Denmark."

That "something rotten" turns out to be a ghost who tells Hamlet that his uncle did his father in.

But neither the Republicans nor the media have a Caspar the Friendly Ghost. That's because they don't have a crime — not even a misdemeanor!

Never mind. The Republicans have a Mighty

Mouse with a Pinocchio nose. In a press conference, Sen. Alfonse D'Amato defended his fellow Republicans: "We don't want to destroy the president." But that, of course, is exactly what he wants to do.

Even the more respectable media has reported this manufactured "big story" with straight faces. In a sense, you can't blame them.

Having dropped the investigative balls on the HUD and S&L scandals, they're now afraid that maybe — just maybe — there may be "something rotten" in Arkansas, after all.

"See, see, we told you readers and viewers the sky was falling."

For one shining moment, there was Camelot.

So far, the sky hasn't even shrugged. And the public — the magnificently bored public — is about as interested in Whitewater as it is in the sex life of the Alaskan snow owl.

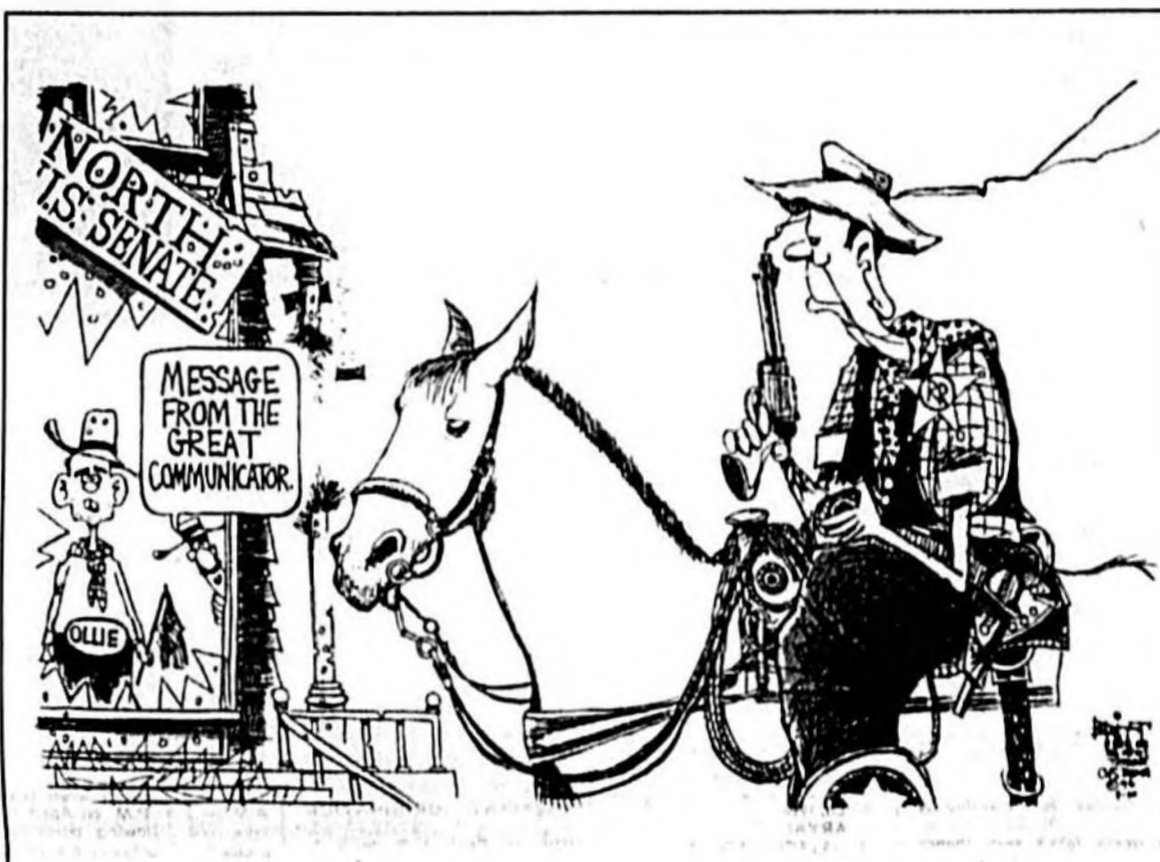

Is there a probable-cause scandal here? Sure. If you're into Plato's "beholding beauty with the eye of the mind." So far, any Whitewater scandal is only in the eyes of the Republicans and the media who think that Bill and Hillary Clinton are guilty of "something."

Hillary Rodham Clinton is indeed guilty — guilty of poor investment judgment, guilty of stonewalling, guilty of not understanding the full dimensions of her role as the president's wife.

But she has not been proven guilty, so far, of any improper conduct.

How can the American people be sure that nothing is rotten in the state of Arkansas? By laying this non-scandal to rest until the real information comes in — that is, special counsel Fiske's findings, the Senate hearings and the House hearings.

Nothing is more therapeutic to a member of Congress — especially one running for reelection — than a television-lights-flooded hearing in prime time.

DONNA BRITT

Something light: The 'Most' list

WASHINGTON — Column time! What shall we tackle today? Some huge problem that challenges all Americans? The unfair treatment some innocent has received? One of our thousand universal fears?

Who blurted, "Please, no!"? Spring is coming. How about a celebratory, Haagen-Dazs-type column — indulgent, fattening, not at all good for you? One that neither uplifts, depresses nor outrages? Something purposefully shallow?

Even if it weren't Oscar time, I'd say, "Sounds like Hollywood!"

The notion of filling column space with my useless (tinseltown) adventures hit me last week, in the midst of watching the cosmically stupid movie "Guilty as Sin." I rented it after making the cosmically stupid move of phoning my husband from the video store to ask his preference: "Sin" or the poignant and meaningful "A River Runs Through It."

So we're sitting there, hooting at Rebecca DeMornay's ridiculous impersonation of a hotshot lawyer and co-star Don Johnson's snarky villain. Suddenly, I flashed back — to the late 1980s, when I covered movies for USA Today and spent an afternoon in a Beverly Hills Hotel bungalow interviewing Johnson, who immediately landed a spot on my "Most" list.

Few people get to do Hollywood, to share paella with former "L.A. Law"-yer Jimmy Smits or stumble accidentally into the arms of Jack Nicholson at the Oscars (maybe he missed me from behind those sunglasses).

"Readers may enjoy my stilly remembrances!" I thought. If not, I can be twice as depressing in my next column.

All that follows is meaningless, so savor it. My celebrity "most" list, based on not-remotely-objective observation:

MOST DIFFICULT, AT FIRST: Pee-wee Herman, whose stage persona — man? boy? mutant? — I couldn't decipher. My clumsy attempts to interpret it put Herman in a snit, complete with dirty looks, curt replies. Desperate, I mentioned the diversity on "Pee-wee's Playhouse." Mr. Nasty became Mr. Nice. "Showing minorities is vital in all I do," he said. "I always felt like an outsider myself."

MOST IMMUNE TO THE "ME, ME, ME" SYNDROME: Denzel Washington, whose agent had sent him a story I'd written. Washington did what stars seldom do — stopped talking about himself to ask questions about the piece and my feelings.

MOST REVEALING RESPONSE TO A COMPLIMENT: Jane Fonda's, when I told her I liked her new hairdo. "Oh, thank you!" Fonda, then married to Tom Hayden, gushed. "My husband seems to like it!" It made me wonder if things were shaky between her and Hayden. They were.

MOST SHOCKING, EARLY INDICATION

THAT SOME MEN WOULD LOVE "THE PIANO": Oliver Stone's 1988 assertion that he fell in love with his then-wife during an eight-hour car trip because "she barely spoke the whole time."

MOST CHARMING: Actor-hooper Gregory Hines ("White Nights"), who conducted the interview from beneath a cloud of soapsuds while bathing his 5-year-old son, and serene Elizabeth McGovern ("Ordinary People"), whose sensitivity was a match for her beauty.

MOST SURREAL: The coolly distant Johnson. Other stars — Denzel, Smits — were sexier, but none could touch Dandy Don for style. The man seemed burnished, his hair and skin buffed to a coppery sheen. His Italian suit, pocket square, even socks seemed computer-matched to his steel-blue eyes.

I longed to see him mounted on a museum wall — preferably by his trio of surly, Armani-sporting yes men.

MOST ADORABLE: "Fresh Prince" Will Smith, who borrowed my 5-year-old's "lightning sword" and ran amok in a Burbank office, shouting, "En garde!" at delighted female staff members.

MOST ANGRY: Arsenio Hall, whose rage at Hollywood racism was seething — and at odds with his mild-brother image. His opposite: Spike Lee, who was much sweeter than his flame-thrower persona.

BEST LIAR: Raul Julia, who stared me in the eye and said, "I'm 35." I printed it; then an old Julia schoolmate told the star's true then-age: 48.

MOST FLIRTATIOUS: Smokey Robinson, whose "compliments" ("You're a healthy girl!") tempted my brother — a journalist who also was interviewing the Motown legend — to blurt, "Sir, this is my sister!"

MOST CANDID HOMECIRLS: Short-haired homiegirl Vanessa Bell Calloway ("Coming to America") and Tisha Campbell ("Martin"), who both wondered, "Why is it when I wear a hair wave to an audition, I get the job?"

MOST INTELLIGENT: Danny Glover, hands down.

SECOND BIGGEST FLIRT, BUT WHO'S COMPLAINING?: Kevin Costner, who suggested doing the interview on a park bench.

Spring is coming. How about a celebratory, Haagen-Dazs-type column.

AID chief faces a big battle

WASHINGTON — Almost a year after administrator Brian Atwood promised to end "business as usual" at the United States Agency for International Development, one of the most beleaguered corners of the federal bureaucracy is still losing tax dollars to mismanagement and abuse.

A series of internal audits we obtained depict an agency where unfinished tasks and sloppy staff work still persist, despite myriad attempts at reform.

In Egypt — one of the biggest recipients of AID funds — agency investigators recently uncovered more than $600,000 going to waste. In one warehouse there, investigators found 246 brand-new motorcycles — costing $537,000 — that were never used because licensing procedures for them remained unfinished.

In a nearby warehouse, $138,000 worth of high-tech irrigation equipment sat unused because project personnel had not been taught how to use it. AID employees told investigators they were "afraid" to touch the equipment because it cost so much.

These revelations come as Atwood joins a lengthy line of his predecessors by promising to clean up the agency's act. At his confirmation hearings last year, Atwood acknowledged the problems he would face at AID, where a succession of minor scandals have given the agency a major image problem. "USAID is burdened by a surfeit of goals and objectives, encumbered by excessive red tape and beaten down by poor morale," Atwood told senators at his confirmation hearing.

Like other administration officials, Atwood is being asked to reform an agency at a time when deficit reduction is causing severe budget cutbacks. With less money, and ongoing reports of waste and abuse, AID has been forced to streamline several overseas installations. Some countries have been taken off the dole completely.

Until Atwood took over, U.S. foreign aid had become as predictable as death and taxes. Once a country was in the system, they remained. That is slowly changing, as AID recently eliminated 21 overseas missions where assistance is not needed or the recipients have been uncooperative.

AID officials hope that by clamping shut the main arteries of waste, the entire agency can function more smoothly. "Never since the Marshall Plan of the 1940s has a country been cut off from the U.S. foreign aid dole," an agency spokesman says. "We will become more results oriented. If a country shows more results have been achieved, they're going to get more money. In the past, success was judged on whether money was spent rather than results."

Tunisia and Cameroon, two of the first countries to have their aid eliminated, wasted more than $37 million in AID funds, according to two internal reports. After AID spent 10 years and $24 million in Cameroon to build university buildings, the government of Cameroon refused to spend $2 million for a water supply system for the buildings. After government officials broke their contract with AID, agency officials were forced to choose between paying for the water system or seeing the new buildings go unused.

The government of Tunisia, meanwhile, has refused to help AID recover more than $12 million it spent to educate Tunisian students who never returned to Tunisia to spur development there, as they were required. At U.S. taxpayers' expense, more than 70 Tunisian students earned doctorate degrees and never returned to their country.

A series of internal audits we obtained depict an agency where unfinished tasks and sloppy staff work still persist.

VERO BEACH — Raul Mondesi hit a grand slam and an RBI double, leading the Los Angeles Dodgers over the Florida Marlins 14-9.

Mondesi's homer — his fourth — was the big hit in a five-run first inning.

Gary Sheffield drove in three runs for the Marlins, homering along with Jeff Conine and Benito Santiago in a seven-run first.

Delino DeShields had three hits and two RBI for the Dodgers. Eric Karros had two hits and three RBI, while Mike Piazza, Tim Lincecum and Carlos Hernandez added two hits each.

AROUND THE NATION

O'Neal set for Team USA

NEW YORK — Shaquille O'Neal has put his Pepsi problem aside and is ready to join Team USA for the World Championships this summer.

Pepsi-Cola and USA Basketball reached an agreement Thursday that will enable O'Neal to become the 11th player named to the 12-man team for the tournament Aug. 4-14 at Toronto.

The Orlando Magic star, averaging an NBA-high 29.2, would join a team that includes Alonzo Mourning and Larry Johnson of Charlotte, Joe Dumars and Isiah Thomas of Detroit, Shawn Kemp of Seattle, Derrick Coleman of New Jersey, Dominique Wilkins of the LA Clippers, Mark Price of Cleveland, Steve Smith of Miami and Dan Majerle of Phoenix.

Devils nip Lightning

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Bobby Holik and Scott Stevens scored and the New Jersey Devils clinched a playoff berth with a 2-1 victory over the Tampa Bay Lightning.

The Devils have lost only one of their last 14 (10-1-3), while the Lightning lost their third straight and are 0-6-2 in their last eight.

Flyers stop Panthers comeback

PHILADELPHIA — Eric Lindros had a goal and two assists, helping the Philadelphia Flyers hold off the Florida Panthers 4-3.

Weak-hitting Tribe wins

From Staff Reports

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — When you aren't hitting as a team, you have to score any time you get an opportunity and any way you can.

The Seminole High School Fighting Seminoles did just that in a 3-2 victory over the New Smyrna Beach High School Barracudas Thursday night at Airport Field.

The Tribe only got two hits — by the first two batters in the game — and struck out 12 times, but every time the Barracudas made a mistake, Seminole turned it into a run.

"It's amazing," said Seminole High School head coach Mike Powers. "In the past week, we've won two ball games where we had a total of 27 strike outs. This team has a lot of confidence. They want to win and believe they are going to the state tournament."

The victory was the second straight for the Tribe, who improved their record to 7-4. They will play a pair of home games this weekend, hosting Spruce Creek today at 3:30 p.m. and Leesburg on Saturday at 1 p.m.

Thursday's game started like Seminole was going to have a big hitting night as Todd Braden led off with a double and Alexis Acosta following with an RBI single. But that was the last hit that the Fighting Seminoles would get.

New Smyrna Beach (3-6) came back with two runs in the bottom of the third inning to take a 2-1 lead.

Seminole came up with the tying run in the sixth inning as Todd Hensley walked, moved to second on a wild pick-off throw, advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Braden, and scored when the bunt was thrown away for an error.

The winning run scored in the seventh inning on an even odder set of plays.

Lions dodge own errors

From Staff Reports

OVIEDO — It's always nice when you can win in spite of yourself.

The Oviedo High School baseball team overcame some mental lapses to post a 4-3 win over the visiting Deltona High School Wolves Thursday night at Mikler Field.

The Lions appeared to have their seventh straight win in hand in the top of the seventh inning, holding a 3-1 lead with two out and no one on base. But a double, two physical errors, and two mental errors later, the game was tied at 3-3 and headed for extra innings.

With two out and a 2-ball, 2-strike count, former Seminole High player Tony Morgan doubled into the left field corner. Brian Herod hit a grounder to second that was booted for an error and the Wolves had runners on first and third.

Then, with a 1-ball, 2-strike count on Gabe Witte, reliever Todd Bellhorn's throw to first to check the runner eluded the Lions first baseman and rolled into right field. Morgan scored on the play and Herod, who broke on the throw, also scored as Oviedo held the ball in the outfield.

"Just when you think you've seen it all, something new pops up," said Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell. "One of the first things you are taught in baseball is to not hold the ball, always throw it in. But we held it and held it. I kept thinking we were going to throw it, but by the time we did, it was too late."

The Lions redeemed themselves by winning the game in the eighth inning.

Carlos Martinez led off for the Lions with a bunt single and moved to second on a bunt. After Mike Rugenitus singled Martinez to third, Bellhorn was walked intentionally to load the bases. Mark Metcalf then

Raiders suffer 'unimportant' loss

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — One winning streak is gone, but not the one that counts.

The Seminole Community College baseball team saw its three-game winning streak end at the hands of the Indian River Community College Pioneers at Raider Field Thursday afternoon by the score of 10-4.

But the winning streak that matters, a three-game run in the Mid-Florida Conference, is still intact since Thursday's game was a non-conference affair. The Raiders will resume their M-FC schedule this Saturday at Rakler Field at 2 p.m. when the Lake City Community College Timberwolves come calling.

The Timberwolves are in second place in the M-FC with a 7-5 mark, while SCC is just a game back at 6-6.

Indian River (10-9) jumped on SCC starter Robbie Morgan (1-2) for four runs in the top of the first inning and cruised the rest of the way.

Sprague led the Pioneers by going 3-for-4 with a triple, double, three runs, and four RBI. Also hitting were Padgett (3-for-5, double, two runs, three RBI), Gonzalez (2-for-4, two runs, one RBI) and Brown (2-for-4, one run, two RBI).

Providing the offense for the Raiders (12-16) were Johnny Goodrich (single, two runs), Demy Beamon (single, RBI), Rick Eckstein, Pete Bezered, Isaac Cruz and Scott Ferguson (one single each); and Matt Diemer and Ronald Hollister (one run each).

Durham's sweep highlights Tribe sweep

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Matt Durham swept his singles match to spark the Seminole High School boys' tennis team to a 7-0 sweep of Cypress Creek at Lake Sylvan Park Thursday afternoon.

In the girls' dual meet, Cypress Creek bested Seminole 5-2.

Durham, who plays in the No. 6 position in the Tribe line-up, blanked Derrick Shapiro 8-0 to lead Seminole to its third dual meet win in eight decisions. Cypress Creek drops to 3-7.

Oscar Cannonizado, Eddie Vargas, and Sebastian Gras all won their singles matches by an 8-2 count. Cannonizado defeating Lester Lopez at No. 1, Vargas topping Igor Araujo in the No. 3 match, and Gras beating Casey Haddock at No. 4.

In the No. 2 singles match, David Edwards outlasted Carlos Gurreonero, 8-6.

Cannonizado and Edwards later teamed up to shut out Lopez and Araujo 8-0 in the No. 1 doubles match while Vargas and Gras knocked off Gurreonero and Haddock 8-6 at No. 2 doubles.

Aubrey Nelson and Miranda Westmark scored the only wins for the Seminole girls. Nelson topping Phuong Nguyen 8-2 at No. 1 singles while Westmark beat Rosy Mises 8-4 at No. 3.

At No. 2, Cypress Creek's Anamarla Morrales defeated Tiffany Soderstrom 8-2. Michelle Gorton and Cristal Sheppard both notched 8-1 wins for the Bears. Gorton besting Bianca Stevenson in the No. 4 match and Sheppard dropping Alyson Westmark at No. 5.

Cypress Creek (5-4) swept the two doubles matches. Nguyen and Morrales outlasting Nelson and Soderstrom 9-7 at No. 1 while Mises and Gorton defeated Miranda Westmark and Stevenson 8-3 in the No. 2 contest.

The loss drops Seminole to 3-5.

Seminole will return to action on Monday, April 4, in a boys/girls dual meet at Lyman.

Dodgers, Orioles remain unbeaten with big wins

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Both the Dodgers and Orioles posted impressive wins Thursday night to join three other teams as the only undefeated squads left in the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League.

In National Division action at Roy Holler Field, the Dodgers (sponsored by Rinker Materials) got a combined five-hit, nine-strikeout performance from Chris Burdick and Shane Burned in besting the Fun World at Flea World Cardinals, 11-1.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the first inning, then broke the game open with six runs in the third inning. The Cardinals scored their lone run in the fourth inning, but the Dodgers closed out the game by the 10-run rule with four runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Doing the damage for the Dodgers were Andrew Beatty (two singles, three runs scored), Grady Hutchins (two singles, one run scored), Burned (one double, two runs scored), Chris Downer (double), Burdick and Brian Porter (one

Doing the hitting for the Cardinals were Tyler Drake (two singles), Joe Sondhelm, Curtis Woodworth and Britt Leonard (one single each) and Terry Green (one run scored).

In the American Division game at Lakefront Field, Eric Rogers hurled a six-hitter and struck out 10 as the Orioles (who are still in need of a sponsor) dumped the First Union Bank Athletics, 16-6.

The Orioles and Athletics were hooked up in a scoring battle, with the Orioles holding just a 9-6 lead entering the bottom of the fourth inning. The Orioles took over control at that point, scoring six runs in the fourth and then adding one in the bottom of the fifth to end the game.

Leading the Orioles were Nick Doney (three singles, four runs scored), Rogers (two singles, three runs scored), Mike Doney (two singles, two runs scored), Dennis Bridger (one single, two runs scored), Brad Locke and Brad Reinolda (one single and one run scored each), Tom Fodrie and Joshua Wineguard (one single each) and Terry Nut, Ian High and Troy Lewis (one run scored each).

There's help for kids with alcoholic parents

DEAR MARY: I think my whole family is nuts! When my mom is sober, she's probably the best mom around, but when she's drunk you never know what's going to happen. Sometimes she's really mean and pushes us around or kicks the dog for no reason, sometimes she's throwing up all over everywhere and sometimes she just goes to sleep.

Every day when I come home from school I'm scared to death of what I'm going to find. I worry about it at school and I know that's one reason why I can't concentrate and get in trouble a lot. My sister just goes around pretending like everything is fine.

Even when Mom is really out of control, she just goes to her room and pretends nothing is happening. I wish I could get out of here, but if I told anyone what's going on it would just make everything at home worse. I guess there's no hope for me until I'm old enough to be on my own (3 more years), but at least I got some stuff off my chest.

HOPELESS AT HOME

DEAR HOPELESS: You gave a perfect description of the effects of chemical dependency on a family. Each person tries to cope with the addict's behavior in ways they wouldn't need to if there was no addict in the family. Some people become super responsible, trying not to "rock the boat" and make things as safe and good as possible.

DRUG COUNSELOR

Others may rebel and try to get any kind of attention they can — negative or positive. Still other family members may withdraw and pretend the problem doesn't exist. In the meantime, the addict feels guilty and ashamed when they're sober, tries to make up for their last binge, but this just pushes them toward the next "round" when they are again out of control, and may even become violent.

You're right in thinking you can't change your family's behavior, but you can cope and you can ask for help. Talk to an adult you trust right away. Schools in Seminole County have programs for kids in your situation. You may also call 1-800-ALCOHOL for a referral for more help in the community. Good luck to you!

Easter and Passover safety

Tips to keep holidays from being a calamity

The following information was shared with me through the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. I believe it will be of interest to you.

Most people probably do not think of activities associated with Easter or Passover as being particularly hazardous, and in general, they are not. But certain customs related to these observances can increase the risk of salmonella poisoning or other illnesses caused by foodborne bacteria. Careful preparation and a few precautions can help keep celebration from becoming a calamity. Keep the following in mind:

Take care with Easter eggs and foods made with eggs. Hard-cooked Easter eggs used in a hunt should be refrigerated until just before they are hidden. Discard any eggs that are cracked during the hunt or that aren't found within two hours. Hard-cooked eggs will last up to seven days in the refrigerator. Raw and undercooked eggs can contain salmonella bacteria. When preparing egg recipes, cook the eggs thoroughly. Avoid raw or undercooked egg dishes and meringues. Don't even sample anything containing raw eggs such as uncooked dough and cake batter.

The Passover Seder: Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. The entire

CONSUMER FOCUS

BARBARA HUGHES/GREGG

Seder meal — typically brisket, roasted chicken or turkey, hard-boiled eggs, gefilte fish and matzo ball soup — is prepared in advance so everyone can participate in the ceremony. If these foods are not properly refrigerated or heated, they can harbor dangerous bacteria.

Arrange cold foods on platters ahead of time and refrigerate immediately after preparation. Serve directly from the refrigerator. Raw and undercooked poultry and meat can also contain salmonella bacteria. Thorough cooking will destroy the bacteria, but care should be taken to keep the cooked poultry or meat from becoming recontaminated through contact with unwashed utensils, platters or cutting boards. Thoroughly reheat poultry, meat and soup to serve. After the meal, carve any remaining meat off the bone and store it and other leftovers in small shallow containers in the refrigerator. Do not leave any food out for more than two hours.

Seek treatment if symptoms appear. Salmonella poisoning can be especially harmful for children, seniors, pregnant women and those with chronic illnesses. Symptoms include diarrhea, fever, abdominal cramps, nausea and vomiting. Contact a physician if symptoms appear.

Easter pets can spread salmonella too. Illness caused by salmonella bacteria usually occurs as a result of the improper handling and preparation of food — especially poultry meat and eggs. However, outbreaks of salmonella poisoning have also been linked to direct contact with live chicks and ducklings. Children can contract the ailment by handling infected fowl and then placing their fingers in their mouth. Chicks and ducklings are sometimes given to children as gifts at Easter time. The best advice is not to give children live chicks or ducklings as pets. However, if they are accepted as gifts, parents should closely monitor their children's play and hygiene. Anyone touching the birds should thoroughly wash their hands afterwards, especially before handling food.

Dancers dazzle club

Seminole High School Dazzlers, an award-winning dance team, strutted their stuff at a general meeting of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. on March 17. The outstanding Dazzlers are under the direction of Maureen Macquire. The team has won numerous awards and superior ratings. Although they perform their high kicks, spirited jazz and downright funk with the greatest of precision, the dancers work hard at maintaining a high scholastic average and practice at least 12 hours weekly.

Dad goes to the head of class for knowing rules of the road

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and have been reading your column for more than a year now. My eighth-grade junior high class needs your help.

A boy in our class is in the hospital because he had an accident on his bicycle with a car. Our teacher talked about it in class. She said we should always ride with our bikes facing the traffic — like the way we walk on the road.

I told my class that my father said we should always ride our bikes on the right side — with the traffic. He said it is safer, and besides, that's the law.

Not everyone agrees. I told them that Dear Abby has lots of experts and we should ask you. Then they elected me to write to you.

Will you please check with your experts and tell us which is the right way to ride our bikes — with the traffic, or facing the traffic? Our teacher said she will put your answer on the bulletin board.

MRS. BRYAN'S CLASS

DEAR CLASS: Your father was right. According to the California Highway Patrol, "Bicycle riders and automobile drivers follow the same rules and have the same rights, and bicyclists should always ride with the traffic — in the same direction as the cars. Cyclists using the wrong side of the road are a common cause of bicycle accidents.

DEAR READERS: Here are some responses to the tongue-in-cheek poem "Eleven O'Clock Mass" about the Irish Catholics trudging to church Sunday morning while the Jews sleep in. I apologize to any and all my Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Moslem readers who took it seriously and found the poem offensive. I assumed that all my readers would realize that it was intended as a lighthearted bit of humor.

DEAR ABBY: As a practicing Jew, I strongly resent the inclusion of the poem in your column about an Irish Catholic going to Mass on a snowy Sunday morning while a Jew remains in bed. The implication that Jews do not have the elements to attend worship at the synagogue is insulting. "Abby Fan" asked you to print the poem if you thought that your Catholic and Jewish readers would enjoy it. Frankly, Abby, I for one definitely did not enjoy reading that poem. I believe that you owe all of your readers — Catholic, Jewish, Protestant and Moslem — an apology.

Do-Dah Day a great day

Fred Rader (left), and Jim Estep, program chairmen for the United Methodist Men of the First United Methodist Church of Sanford, discuss the church's recent Do-Dah Day which the men sponsored as the main fund-raiser of the year. The event, which included produce, baked goods, athletic gear, yard sale, food, games, etc. was termed as highly successful, according to Herman Schroeder.

The Legacy of the Lily

Pale, pure, and still... Christ Jesus' body lay drawn into itself, shadowed in the translucence of burial linen, hidden in the darkness of the grave.
 So the lily slumbers, closed unto itself in the darkness of night, appearing without life or luster; yet God has created the lily to blossom with the light of day... to open wide its pale, pure, translucent petals to greet the heavens and reflect His divine plan.
 Christ's crucifixion and resurrection were the true personification of God's plan. Though we are born into sin and suffering, through His death on the cross our sins are forgiven if only we believe in this, God's sacrifice of His Son.
 As we open our hearts with praise and thanksgiving for God's gift of salvation, may we appreciate these glorious white blooms of the season, their petals spread wide with promise... the legacy of the lily.

Community abuzz with Holy Week activities

Congregations throughout the county are abuzz with activities in celebration of the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ. Following is a list of some of the events during Holy Week:

● The Music Ministry of Central Baptist Church, 3101 W. First St., Sanford, will present the 10th annual performance of "The Easter Story in Living Pictures" on March 25, 26 at 7:30 p.m. and March 27 at 4 and 7:30 p.m. The last days of Jesus ministry on earth are depicted through the eyes of Mary Magdalene, played by Patricia Osborn and the Disciple John, played by Barry Lash.

Each year in this musical drama songs are changed or scenes added to make it a little different. Living pictures has evolved from a 50 minute to a 70 minute presentation. People with tickets will be seated first and those without tickets will be seated on a space available basis 15 minutes prior to each performance.

● Celebrate the beginning of the Easter Season with friends and family at Church in The Park, a unique time of worship, fun and fellowship for the whole family. This year the event includes an Easter Egg Hunt for preschoolers, games and prizes for elementary age children, and fun for junior high. Dress casual and bring a blanket or lawn chair on Sunday, March 27, at 10 a.m. at the Central Park, corner of Country Club Road and Lake Mary Boulevard. Lake Mary in the amphitheater. Dr. James R. Cox, pastor of Crossings Community Church, will be speaking on "Letting God Love You - After church and a free hot dog and chip meal. Ned and Joan Way, jugglers, and acrobats with Ringling Brothers will perform.

For more information call the church at 324-5433.

● Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, 2525 Oak Ave., will have Maundy Thursday Communion Worship Thursday, March 31, with services starting at 7:30 p.m. A Good Friday Tenebrae service will be held April 1 at 7:30 p.m. On Easter Sunday an Easter Brunch and Easter Egg Hunt is scheduled in the Fellowship Hall beginning at 9:15 a.m.

Easter Worship with Holy Communion is at 10:30 a.m. Visitors are invited to attend.

● Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 4th Street and Park Avenue, invites the community to walk with them "The Way of the Cross" Stations in the Park in Centennial Park (across the street from Holy Cross) on Sunday, March 27, at 4:30 p.m.

Several churches, choirs and congregations will come together to remember the events of the crucifixion of our Lord Jesus Christ.

● On Palm Sunday, March 27, at 6 p.m., and for the following Monday and Tuesday, March 28 and 29, at 7 p.m. Wekiva Assembly, 1675 Dixon Rd., will present the play "Heaven's Gates and Hell's Flames."

The play portrays certain realities concerning the outcome of how we've chosen to live. It is a dramatic portrayal of several characters, varying in age and circumstances, as they face death. The joy of the believer as he enters God's presence is dynamically contrasted with the distraught condition of the unbeliever, who in death, discovers that he is to spend eternity in the company of Satan.

There is no admission charge and nursery and children's ministry will be provided.

Mike Bickle will be the guest speaker at the 8 and 10:30 a.m. Celebration Services at Wekiva Assembly on Sunday, March 27.

Bickle is senior pastor of Metro Vineyard Fellowship, a church of 3,000 people that began in 1982 and was formerly known as Kansas City Fellowship.

His special emphasis is in the areas of developing intimacy and passion for Jesus, devotional and intercessory prayer, and the prophetic ministry and endtime revival.

Ned and Joan Way of Ringling Brothers will perform during Church in The Park.

Cypress Avenue, held during the Sunday School hour, 9:30-10:45 a.m., will focus on the subject of the Christian Responsibilities of the Single Parent, by S. K. Baker.

Also at 3 p.m., a special program "Just Youth Praising the Lord" will be sponsored by Myrtle Ashley. The event will include singing the performance of skits and recitation of poetry.

Each night during Holy Week March 28-April 1, Pastor Nolan T. Pitts will teach Bible lessons related to this important Christian celebration from 7-8 p.m. in the church's sanctuary.

Easter Sunrise Service will begin promptly at 6 a.m. The message for the service as well as the regular 11 a.m. service will be delivered by Pastor Pitts.

Passover at Beth Am is a family affair

LONGWOOD — Congregation Beth Am will hold its annual Passover Seder, the traditional meal associated with the telling of the story of the Exodus on the second evening of the spring festival, Sunday, March 27.

The event has been redesigned to meet the needs of families with school-age and younger children. A project of the Sisterhood of Beth Am, this year under the direction of Sheri Rosenberg, president, virtually every aspect of the Seder is being reexamined.

Costs have been drastically reduced so that participation by adults is available for just $18 and children 10 and under are more than welcome for just $9 each.

Prizes for finding the Afikomen, the dessert hidden from children prior to the meal, will be plentiful and available to all young people.

Many portions of the Hag gadah will be changed with times young people learn in the religious schools in our community. Students of the Congregation Beth Am Religious School will lead a number of important passages.

For further information, contact the synagogue office at 862-3505.

Youngsters at Beth Am practice Seder.
