EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

Where The South Begins
Down where the welcome is never stronger
Than where the glad hand-clasp is Given the stranger:
Down where the smile dwells a little longer—
That's where the south begins.
Down where the roses bloom all winter
And the water sparkles a little bit brighter,
And the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter
That's where the South begins.

Down where the skies are a trifle bluer
Down where friendship's a trifle truer,
And hope and faith and love xxx endure—
That's where the south begins.
Down where a velvet breeze is blowing
And there is music in every wave flowing—
That's where the south begins.
Down where the South is awaking
And fortunes are in the making,
And there's more of giving and less of taking
That is where the south begins.

Where there is more of laughing and less of sighing,
And more of giving and less of buying,
And "you all" make friends without half trying
That's where the South begins.

—Chas. R. Boostrom, St. Paul.

other fellow's altogether wrong; grace to smile and to omit the unkind printed word when some injected a bit of salt and pepper under my skin (that perhaps I deserve); grace to remember that there are two sides to almost every question (especially excepting the saloon question); grace to remember that a soft answer turneth away wrath and at the same time is more effective.

"And courage—courage to tell the truth that ought to be told whether I like it or not, whether it hits me or my friends, whether it costs me one subscriber or one thousand subscribers; courage to look without blinking at political facts and to put honest interpretation on such facts whether my political friends like it or not; courage to be fair and to speak my honest belief about candidates for office of all political parties, no matter how I want only candidates of my own party elected; courage to tell my friends NO when they want to get something into my columns that is fair, and courage to say YES when they are not my friends when they want to get something into my columns that is fair though distasteful and courage, finally to walk alone and friendless, if need be, that I may not print something that I do not believe and may not advocate something that I do not favor with head and heart

"And now, Great Spirit, lest my humble prayer detain you longer from visiting just retribution on those lying editors back in civilization occupied this very hour in getting out those mendacious war extras, I will close my humble prayer, hoping that its petition may be vouchsafed me, and go on whipping this stream for a few more trout before sundown. *With the light of fuller knowledge on the subject the northern attitude toward the southern negro has marvelously changed in recent years. The death of the "grandfather clause" to restrict negro suffrage in the South has brought out considerable comment from the northern press, but it doesn't read like the stuff they used to give us years ago when they took their view of the negro from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and like other sources. Here is something from "Yankee Doodle," a paper published at Michigan City, Indiana, which represents a large and growing sentiment at the North.

"Don't try to solve the southern negro problem, you men of the North. It is already solved, and the negro is in better shape, morally, physically and financially down here the Mason and Dixon line than he is in the North. We took the salvation of the negro upon us only to find we don't know him. It's a matter of pride on the part of the northern people. It is just plain ignorance of what is required in a task that was entirely self-imposed. As a rule, the poorest of all American negroes are found in the North. They are generally exiles from the sunny land of kindness and understanding. They have generally come North because they were intolerable in the South. The South does much to give the negro a show. The Southern people are kind to the negroes, for they understand them. The negro keeps his place. He is never offensive and he is loyal, kindly, affectionate individual, who is always respectful. Within a decade there will be race riots in most of the cities of the North. For a great truth is coming to the unthinking."

"I have noted with extreme pleasure the great work being done by the several churches in Sanford along the line of Barack, Christian Endeavor and Brotherhood classes and it bespeaks a greater realization of their duties to the church among the young men and ladies of the churches. Sanford can boast of some of the largest classes in the churches here that exists in the south and other cities in Florida are also devoting much of their time in this work and along this line as the following from the Gainesville Sun indicates:

The cry among Sunday school workers all the time is, "How can we maintain the attendance?" This is really a burning question. The primary department is usually crowded, the intermediate shading off in attendance in proportion to age, and the adult department is usually a minus quantity. But fortunately, the condition does not obtain in all the churches of the land.

While sitting on his porch and chatting pleasantly with Prof. W. H. Cassels, in Ocala last Wednesday, the conversation drifted upon Sunday school work in that city. By the way, it will be of interest to the friends of Prof. Cassels here in Gainesville to learn that his year's work in Ocala schools has been specially successful. A number of citizens referred to it in highest terms of praise.

Referring to the Baptist church in Ocala, Prof. Cassels stated that there were two large classes of men and also two of women, the attendance being uniformly punctual. There were some twenty-five or thirty in each of these classes. In addition to this there is a very large Barack class, and also a senior and junior Philanthropy class. The attendance in each of these classes is upwards of twenty-five.

Over at the Methodist church he said they set out to have a men's class of seventy-five, and they succeeded in doing it. A temporary structure was erected outside the church in which to hold this mammoth class of men. And other activities just as gratifying are being worked out in the other departments of that church.

It was decided by the Sunday school workers in Ocala that on a certain Sunday they would make a big pull altogether in all the churches and see if it were possible to secure an attendance of 1,000 at Sunday school. They succeeded in getting more than 1,100. Then they set the stake at 1,200, and the attendance ran up to more than 1,300.

There is no difference between a Sunday school and a picture show when it comes to the matter of attending. People will go where they find that which interests them, and if the Sunday School promoters desire a larger attendance they must increase the interest. They will then be able to keep the "teen" age youngsters and the adults as well in regular attendance.

NOTHING FURTHER IN WILSON REPLY; AWAIT RETURN

PRESIDENT TO ACT WITH CABINET WHEN HE RETURNS

Washington, D. C. July 16.—Pending the return of President Wilson, from Cornish, N. H., it was believed here today that there would be no further developments in the situation between Germany and the United States over submarine warfare.

Just when the president would return to take up with his cabinet the latest German note was not definitely known, but the president, in a note to Secretary Tumulty said he would be here soon. The supposition is that he will be in Washington the last of the week and that the subject will be considered at Tuesday's cabinet meeting. The president's telegram was given out as a white-house statement and ended rumors concerning his attitude toward the German reply. It indicated that the president had reached no decision as to the policy of the government and it is believed to have been called forth by statements that he had already made up his mind and that he did not view the situation as seriously as some of his advisors.

The statement said the president was giving the German note his closest attention, keeping closely in touch with Secretary of State Lansing and both would take up the situation when the president returned. Secretary Lansing and some other government officials continued today to regard the situation as grave, but gave no opinion as to how the situation should be met.

Experts For the Navy

New York, July 16. Orville Wright who is among those suggested to Secretary Daniels for membership in the proposed civilian advisory board of inventors and technical experts was quoted here today as saying he would accept membership in the board if invited.

"I have had talks with Thomas A. Edison and with army and navy officers, who realize the necessity of preparing an adequate air as well as sea fleet," said Mr. Wright. Army and navy officers here said they should have from a hundred to three hundred airplanes for immediate duty.

"The board will undoubtedly be a good thing if the members will stick to its advisory function and not try to overstep. The officers of the army and navy are very efficient and of them are wonderful engineers. The work of the proposed board should be confined to suggestions."

Hudson Maxim, whose name was also suggested to Mr. Daniels, said he would be glad to serve on the new board.

Washington, July 16.—Gossip continued here today as to the makeup of the proposed civilian advisory board of inventors and technical experts, as proposed by Secretary Daniels, to assist in working out naval problems. The only selection so far announced is Thomas A. Edison, who will head the board.

The names of a score or more of possible new members of the advisory council, many of them recognized experts in special lines of inventive and research work, are under consideration, but Secretary Daniels said he would not announce the selections until after they had been accepted.

The Secretary said he was certain that when the board had been finally selected it would be composed of ten men of such prominence as to make the country feel that what it is possible for the human mind to desire will be advised for our navy."

Indians Will play Here

The strong Nebraska Indian baseball team will play the Sanford team at Sanford on August 6th.

They are fast on their feet, as Indians ever are and sure fielders. At bat they are vicious and with wonderful accuracy of eye they are able to flout the best pitchers. These great genuine Indian experts have appeared with great success throughout the United States and Canada and have an enviable record to their credit, and are without doubt the greatest Indian Ball Team in the World.

BRICK ROADS IS A LIVE TOPIC IN SEMINOLE COUNTY

COMMITTEE HAS MADE REPORT TO THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ON THE SUBJECT

Seminole County will soon have a chance to vote on the matter of bonds for more brick roads throughout our county, if the present plans carry.

The good roads committee reported to the County Commissioners at their meeting yesterday and recommended that a bond election be held to hard surface the following roads:

Sanford-Orlando road from the present brick road in Seminole to the Orange County line; From the Sanford-Orlando road to Chulquita via Oviedo; From the end of the present brick road on Geneva Ave. to Geneva. From the end of the present brick road on the west side near Paola to the Wilkiva bridge; Park Ave. from Tenth St. to Hughey and Hughey to Sanford-Orlando road and Union Ave. to Mellonville and Mellonville to Celery Ave.

Fred T. Williams was instructed to prepare preliminary estimates on these roads using brick on some of the more important roads and some other good but cheaper materials on the other roads. This report will be ready at the next regular meeting of the Commissioners in August.

BASE BALL SEASON WILL BE OPENED HERE NEXT WEEK

ORLANDO COMES UP TRIERS-DAY TO WIPE UP THE CELERYTES

Baseball will get an added impetus here next Thursday when the Orlando team comes up here for their first game of the season. Anybody who knows anything about baseball here knows that it is useless for either Orlando or Sanford to try to have a ball team and get the profit support of the community without the necessary finances between the two cities. A game here with a team except Orlando hardly draws a cent's worth of profit, but at the same time the game is not played in Orlando and the crowd is ready to make up and pay for a game. So, if you know there will be some playing.

While there is nothing but good being said about the ball game, the part that prevails in ball games is not so good. It is well known that the game is a very rough one and that the players are very rough on each other. It is well known that the game is a very rough one and that the players are very rough on each other.

The Orlando team comes to Sanford in fine fettle and while this is the first of the season for either side, the fact is that the Orlando team is a very strong one and they are expected to do well.

Next Thursday the Orlando team comes to Sanford in fine fettle and while this is the first of the season for either side, the fact is that the Orlando team is a very strong one and they are expected to do well.

On August 6th, the Nebraska Indians will play the Sanford team and this will draw a large crowd also. The Indians are real red men and play the ball game with vim and vigor. Manager Wallace has played against them several times and states that the Indians are the best ever and while Sanford does not expect to defeat them they will do their best.

Meantime get ready for the first game of the season next Thursday.

Taking Seminole's Census H. E. Tolar has been appointed census taker for Seminole county and began his work last week. He is now engaged in the Oviedo section and is also assisting H. G. Smith operate the Oviedo bank while the cashier is away on his vacation. Mr. Tolar expects to finish the county census in about two months and when completed we will know exactly how many people are now living within the confines of the new county.

SUDDEN DEATH AT WOODLAND PARK OF J. W. HANLON

STRICKEN WITH CONGESTION OF THE HEART WHILE BATHING

The many pleasures of Woodland Park were brought to an abrupt close on Friday afternoon when J. W. Hanlon, one of the visitors, was found to have expired in his dressing room. The young man who was the private secretary to Superintendent Brand of the Third Division of the A. C. T. Railway had been one of the party composed of Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Hart and Miss Adelaide Higgins who went out early in the afternoon to enjoy the bathing and the park and while he had complained of feeling badly feeling was thought of this condition and he is reported in the water and seemingly was all right. After the party had come out of the water and were awaiting the arrival of Mr. Hanlon from his dressing room his private secretary discovered that he was dead.

Dr. W. H. Miller, of Sanford, was called and he was immediately rushed to the city in the vain hope of restoring the spark of life but upon arrival in the city it was found that life had fled.

The body was immediately sent to the Miller's undertaking parlor where it was placed in a coffin and sent to Tampa.

Funeral services will be held over the city among his friends and even those who did not know him.

The following is from The Tampa Tribune regarding the deceased:

J. W. Hanlon, secretary to Superintendent Brand of the Atlantic Coast Line, who died suddenly in Sanford Thursday was well known in Tampa, and news of his demise caused great regret when it became known here last night. Mr. Hanlon was twenty-four years old and the son of the late Capt. John Hanlon of the Steamship Mascotte of the Peninsular & Oriental Steamship Company, formerly the Plant Line. Young Hanlon was in Tampa as a member of the degree team of the Knights of Columbus, of which he was a member of the Jacksonville Council. At that time he appeared to be in good health.

The remains will arrive here at 6:45 o'clock this morning, accompanied by Atlantic Coast Line Officials, and will be turned over to Undertaker J. L. Reed. The body will then be placed in the Sacred Heart where mass will be said at 8 o'clock, and will remain there until definite funeral arrangements have been which probably will be done when the mother and two sisters arrive at noon today from Key West on the Olyette. It is thought probable that funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon, with interment in St. Louis Cemetery, pallbearers to be chosen from the Knights of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Garner left yesterday for Atlanta where they will spend several weeks visiting friends and relatives.

BOLD BURGLAR ENTERS HOUSES WITH IMPUNITY

TALKS SAUCY WHEN DISCOVERED; USES GUN OCCASIONALLY

There is a bold bad burglar in the city or several of them and they are coming to grief if they keep up their depredations for their very boldness makes it imperative upon the officers and the public generally to cut them down. The first instance of the presence of the burglar was at the Hardman residence on Park Ave. beyond Tenth. Hearing a noise in the next room and rousing up and seeing a light Mr. Hardman called to know who was there. The intruder impudently replied "Come and see" which was an invitation that one of Mr. Hardman's temperment could not resist and he started after his gun. Before he could get to it the burglar fired at him. As soon as Mr. Hardman could unlumber his heavy artillery he made a bee line for the outside and tried his best to puncture the hide of the man but he had made good his escape leaving a pair of shoes on the porch where he had placed them preparatory to making his entrance.

The next instance was at the Parish residence on French Ave. Mr. Parish and his son Harvey had retired and Harvey being a light sleeper heard a noise coming from the kitchen and soon saw the form of a man looming in the doorway. Thinking it was his father trying to take him to bed he exclaimed "Dad, you can't see me" but it was a negro burglar and he darted to the side of the bed and pulling an automatic pushed it into the little fellow's face with the remark to keep still.

Harvey of course very sensibly obeyed orders and the negro lost no time in getting out of the room and into the yard. Harvey yelled for his father and he made a search of the premises without result. He then called up police headquarters and another search was made but no burglar was found. About thirty minutes afterward as one of Mr. Barlow's daughters was sitting on the porch where she had gone from the room where she had been, she saw a man in a dark suit and a hat, who she recognized as the burglar who had been in the room. She called out to him and he tried to get his pistol in time but the negro was moving by that time and was soon lost to view.

The Barlow home was the only place where he could get to his work before being disturbed and he finished his job with a flourish. That he is desperate and will do anything to get his money is evident from the many chances that he has taken and it is hoped that the officers will get him soon or that some body else will pop him while he is in the house and before he can get away.

Meanwhile the folks in the suburbs are polishing up the guns and laying in a supply of ammunition and if the negro is seen in time the police will not have to worry about his capture.

Marshal Tillis is confident that he knows the negro and that he will have him in Limbo within the next day or two if he persists in staying in Sanford.

THE PEOPLE OF MEXICO ARE AGAIN STARVING

It is reported that conditions in Mexico call for the active sympathy of all who love humanity.

Multitudes are starving. They are dying in Mexico City at the rate of one a day. The situation is appalling. It is a really desperate situation. It is a really desperate situation. It is a really desperate situation.

"Small amount will go a long way to relax the cruel grip of hunger. Shall we not help and help quickly? As you would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

A small contribution has already gone from Sanford, and any others can be sent to J. D. Hamilton, Treas. Board of Missions, 819 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn.

Can't we give the price of a cigar or a dish of ice cream or a movie picture show or do some slight act of self denial?

Inasmuch as ye have not done it unto the least of these, ye have not done it unto me."

HOUSE DANCE

Mr. and Mrs. George DeCottes gave a house dance to their many friends on Tuesday night at their beautiful home on Magnolia Ave. The affair was informal and every one was made to feel at home even the gentlemen being allowed to take off their coats. The spacious home was given over to the dancers and the entire lower floors were converted into a ball room the dancers circling the rooms. Those who did not care to dance played chess or sat on the spacious porches and enjoyed the evening. Buffet luncheon was served at all times during the evening the guests making themselves perfectly at ease which is one of the delights of the DeCottes affair.

There were about twenty-five couples present and they came early and stayed late and from the bursts of merriment that floated from the house at various times during the evening it is almost certain that everyone present enjoyed the evening to the fullest extent.

HIGH STANDARD OF WRITING

Professor Pays a Tribute to Newspaper English, Which is on the Whole Deserved.

"I well remember the pleasure with which, as a young man, I heard my venerable and practiced professor of rhetoric say that he supposed there was no work known to man more difficult than writing," said Prof. George H. Palmer, formerly of Harvard university. "Up to that time I had supposed its severities peculiar to myself." He goes on to recount the advantages which children of today enjoy over those of his own generation, and hopes that some of them will find the language he has used about the difficulty of writing extravagant. Then he says:

"Let me say, too, that since frequently has more to do with ease of writing than anything else, I count the newspaper men lucky because they are writing all the time, and I do not think so meanly of their product as the present popular disparagement would seem to require. It is hasty work, undoubtedly, and bears the marks of haste. But in my judgment in no period of the English language has there been so high an average of sensible, vivacious and informing sentences written as appears in our daily press."

"With both good and evil results, the distinction between book literature and speech literature is breaking down. Everybody is writing, apparently in verse and prose; and if the higher graces of style do not often appear, neither on the other hand do the rudor awkwardness and obscurities. A certain straightforward English is becoming established. A whole nation is learning the use of its mother tongue. Under such circumstances it is doubly necessary that anyone who is conscious of feebleness in his command of English should promptly and earnestly begin the cultivation of it."

THE SOUTH FLORIDA PRESS ASSOCIATION

HOLDS AN INTERESTING MEETING AT PLANT CITY

The South Florida Press Association held the best attended and most business like session since its organization at the semi-annual meeting at Plant City last Friday. Twenty-six newspaper people and friends of the profession participated in the two sessions, which were held in board of trade building, morning and afternoon.

At the morning session, Mr. Beeler, of the Florida Experiment Station, outlined a plan to make the work of the Station more effective throughout the State through the co-operation of the press and his plan was endorsed and will be adopted by the newspapers represented. In the afternoon strong endorsement was given the project of holding a South Florida Fair and Gasparilla Carnival in Tampa in February, 1916, by the Association.

The resolution was introduced by Clyde Glenn, of Tampa, and met with unanimous support. B. L. Hamner, of the Tampa Board of Trade, was also here in the interest of the movement.

A strong resolution in condemnation of the traveling advertising fakir with any sort of an advertising scheme was passed, reference being made to hotel advertising cards, those who buy advertising space in the local paper by the page, peddling it out to the advertiser with glittering promises and little performance at high rates, and the foreign manager of contests of various kinds, all of whom must have the local printer in order to make his plans go, and who gives little value for the money spent.

Officers were elected as follows: Joseph Humphries, Journal, Bradenton, president; Wayne Thomas, Courier, Plant City, vice president; Mr. Callahan, Press, Fort Myers, Secretary; Mrs. C. V. Wilson, Times, Sarasota, treasurer.

It was decided to hold a special meeting of the Association in Jacksonville in October, in conjunction with the conventions of the East Coast, West Coast and Middle Florida Press Associations. The next regular meeting will be held in Bartow in January. A program committee was appointed to make arrangements for this meeting. The committee consists of W. M. Haynes, of the Sanford Herald, Mrs. C. V. S. Wilson, of the Sarasota Times, and Clyde Glenn, of the Glenn Advertiser, Tampa.

After the business session papers were read, leading to discussions by the members as follows:

"Maintaining Rates on Advertising and Job Printing," George M. Goolsby, Advocate, Wauchula.

"The Value of Co-operation," was the subject of a remarkable address by Dr. Maxon W. Pressley, of Seffner, who handled his theme in a masterful style, showing the tremendous influence of truthful advertising and outlining applied co-operation by newspapers and the people they serve in advancing public interest. Dr. Pressley is an efficiency engineer, a man of thought and action, and South Florida is fortunate in having the opportunity to profit by his ideas. His address will be published in full by one of the leading dailies of the state and will no doubt command wide attention.

Cultivating Good Will Among Employees," J. G. Gallamore, Record, Bartow.

"The Relation of the Supply Man to the Printer," Arthur Greene, Antietam Paper Company, Jacksonville.

"Classification and Rates," C. M. Renner, Antietam Paper Company, Jacksonville.

Discussion on the point of employing an attorney and collecting agent by the association, a committee being appointed for this purpose, with power to act.

The newspaper people were the guests of the Plant City Board of Trade and The Courier, and before adjourning a rising vote of thanks was extended for the day's entertainment.

Present at the meeting were: W. H. Haynes, Herald, Sanford. Geo. A. Goolsby, Advocate, Wauchula.

T. M. Callahan, Press, Ft. Myers. W. M. Grier, Courier-Informant, Bartow.

J. G. Gallamore, Record, Bartow. R. O. Meek, Leader, Ft. Meade. A. L. Cleveland, Leader, Ft. Royal. B. Child, Star, Lakeland. Mrs. C. V. S. Wilson, Times, Sarasota.

Mrs. C. H. Holderman, Record, Manatee.

Jos. H. Humphries, Journal, Bradenton.

A. P. Jordan, Herald, Punta. Andrew Carter, Enterprise, Arcadia.

RIVERVIEW LOTS

$10.00 DOWN ————— $5.00 PER MONTH

Jacksonville Is Going to be the Queen City of the South Within the Next 10 or 15 Years

RIVERVIEW today is the most rapid developing suburb of Jacksonville. This statement is made by all who visit this property.

RIVERVIEW is located just north of Jacksonville, which is the trend of the future growth of the city. Millions of Dollars are now being spent for public improvements all out this way.

Buy a few RIVERVIEW lots in this great flourishing Jacksonville suburb. Buy before the next advance and the writer stands ready to guarantee a net profit of a Thousand Dollars or more on every lot bought at this time.

A Hundred Thousand Dollars is being spent in RIVERVIEW on civic and public improvements. The investor receives a part of all these benefits.

Dr. Armstrong's advice to the head of every family and every young man: buy a few RIVERVIEW lots (not more than four sold to any one party). It only takes 17c a day to pay for them and within the next few years you will have an asset up into the thousand of dollars and you will never feel the cost. No lots sold to colored people.

RIVERVIEW Developments—Board of Trade, Woman Civic Improvement Club, Churches, Mercantile Houses, Bell Telephone System, Artesian Well and a fine Water System now being installed, Grammar School, 14 miles of streets, all set out in shade trees, a most beautiful 50-acre recreation public park, free public dock, boat and bath houses, all of which goes to give RIVERVIEW a most promising future.

Every man, woman or child who buys RIVERVIEW property will never have cause to regret their investment. Many a man in Jacksonville is living easy today who bought lots a few years ago on the same plan.

Make Your Florida Home Beautiful Increasing Comfort and Cash Value

Mr. and Mrs. Old and the children motored through Florida last fall in search of a ready-made property. Mr. Old had in mind a place with beautiful surroundings and out-of-door attractions. Mrs. Old wanted a comfortable home, with spacious grounds where she could spend the spare time amid the trees, vines, plants and flowers. The Old children wanted a Florida home that had the shade and beauty of their former one at the North. The Olds looked at several properties with well planned houses, but there was always something lacking in the layout of the grounds. They saw other places surrounded by charming lake, river and woodland scenery, but the appealing touch in home and grounds was missing. Finally they came to a well planned house located in grounds laid out with beautiful walks and decorated with shady palms and other trees, and groups of flowering plants, bushes and vines. They paid twenty-five per cent more for this property because it had been made beautiful and attractive than that at which they were offered another just as good but not so improved by planting.

Plant Your Grounds During Warm Weather

There are lots of people like the Olds who are looking for attractive Florida places, but there are very few homes for sale that have the right sort of setting. It is a very simple and inexpensive plan to add hundreds of dollars to the value of your place through the expenditure of a few dollars for trees, palms and plants. The investment will pay big in comfort as long as you own the place and in cash when you want to sell. There is a large group of nursery stock that is suitable for warm weather planting. Plants establish themselves more quickly during the summer than in winter months.

Use Trees from Royal Palm Nurseries

Royal Palm Nurseries have a full assortment of trees and plants especially adapted to Florida which may be put out during the warm weather. The many acres devoted to these nurseries at Oneco, in the land of Manatee, contain an endless variety of planting material from which to select that needed to make your home and grounds beautiful and valuable. Customers are furnished with specific information about varieties and planting methods which is of great value. Decide to beautify your place; write now for the Royal Palm Nurseries catalog and see how much you can do on a very small outlay.

DENATUTED EXPLETIVES

Chris Codrington, editor of the DeLand News and president of the Florida Press Association, has set an example for his brethren of the press which it would be well for them to follow...

Did he call him a blankety-blanked blank? Did he denounce him in epithets of opprobrium, adjectived from the glossary of profanity?

Nay, nay. He merely said: "You are an aggravating cuss."

Thus, he relieved his feelings and, at the same time, saved his reputation as a perfect gentleman. Furthermore, he insured that his remarks could be printed without excluding the publications from the mails...

Members of the Florida Press Association should emulate the example of their President in such emergencies. Let them seek the mild and gentlemanly terms in denouncing opponents...

FLORIDA RURAL CREDIT

Yesterday the Times-Union published a rural credits plan proposed for Florida by Mr. H. H. Lewis. The plan in a word is to put the credit of the state behind such of the farmers as it could be loaned to without danger of loss...

The plan appeals to us as good if it can be made certain that it would be carried out without any politics, and that all claims when due would be enforced by the state without favor...

We believe that cheap and easy money for agricultural purposes would do more than anything else that could be devised to bring immigrants to Florida and insure prosperity to those who are here...

Nothing can make an indolent or incapable man successful, and those in charge of the state's rural credits should avoid dealings with such men.

The Times-Union has always been opposed to class legislation, but this would be mere seeming rather than really class legislation. In the present stage of Florida development, all classes depend on those who make their living out of the soil...

mers who would trade with the merchant would be increased, and they would be enabled to pay cash. We think state credit to the farmers would benefit the merchants vastly more than would state credit to the merchants themselves...

If half the value of Florida land were certain of being loaned, if the loan were asked by a man of good character and intelligence and industrious habits, anyone can see at once how the lands in this state would increase in value...

BETTER BRICK ROADS

The editor of the Herald is not an expert on the subject of building brick roads. We have been in favor of brick roads if properly laid and also believe there are other materials as good as brick for Florida roads...

Brick roads in Florida should not be laid without a grouting of some kind, and it is time that this most important item in road construction should be given serious consideration...

Great praise is due Florida for the increased attention it is now giving the construction of its highways. There is no question but that a good deal of money has been unwisely expended in trying to effect an impossible union between good material and bad constructional methods...

When Florida turned its attention to brick as a paving material it gave evidence of a desire to keep abreast of the progress of the times toward a durable and permanent method of highway improvement...

Florida's eagerness to get brick pavements first found practical expression in the idea that a brick pavement and a brick sidewalk differ only in superficial dimensions, and Florida proceeded to lay brick highways in the same manner that brick walks are laid...

A marked change has taken place of late, however. The importance of durability is becoming better understood. For more than a year engineers have been making a special study of the various methods of constructing brick roads and streets in Florida. Engineers have made frequent trips to Florida urging reforms and suggesting specifications that would effect an attainable and, for that section, a serviceable medium between the poorest type of brick pavement and the highest type of construction...

This new departure in brick highway construction marks a long advance step for Florida, and it is believed that for some years to come the new type of roadway will meet all traffic requirements on a basis of economy in construction and durability of service.

Such a pavement will last for years under the light traffic conditions, comparatively moderate range of temperature extremes and natural drainage which characterize Florida.

Owing to the sparsely-settled country outside centers of population, it would be financially unwise and practically unnecessary to construct pavements of any kind with concrete foundations. The grouted-brick pavement, the brick being laid on edge, will answer every purpose for the present, and it will reduce ultimate costs to a minimum...

Sport Shirts

Year before last some arbuter legantatum came back from Paris with the announcement that men would soon be wearing shirts with short sleeves and Dutch collars. America worried right along, though, with the old stiff chokers. The forecast has come true this summer, and since fashion is occasionally predicated upon comfort, it may stay.

Persons who read know that every change of the dress has brought down upon the head of the person who began it the ridicule of all the lats and satrists. It is the world-wide story of the smaller things in life being repeated with no variation at all. It is doubtless true that the editor of the Babylonian Breeze carved in hieroglyphics a paragraph about the new black and white striped hats the men were wearing. The world presents change, and the old linen collar has been the symbol of dignity for a long time.

Editor Panches Judge
The Daytona Gazette-News says: Bitter feeling engendered by a communication sent him by Isaac A. Stewart, former judge of the Volusia county criminal court caused C. O. Codrington, editor of the DeLand News and president of the Florida Press Association, to somewhat mar the facial appearance of the ex-judge at DeLand Tuesday evening.

Both Mr. Codrington and Judge Stewart were arrested for disturbing the peace and dignity of the city of DeLand and upsetting the usual summer quietness of the county seat before Acting Mayor Tuttle on Wednesday morning. Mr. Codrington pleaded guilty and Judge Stewart entered a plea of not guilty. The judge of the municipal court fined Mr. Codrington $10 and Judge Stewart $5 the latter, giving notice that he would appeal the case.

According to the statements made in mayor's court Judge Stewart sent Mr. Codrington a letter for publication in his paper which reflected in no gentle language upon the character of Mr. Codrington, a letter which Mr. Codrington stated, "no gentleman would have sent" and one which he would not assume the responsibility of having read by women and children, especially. After receiving the letter Mr. Codrington met Judge Stewart and remarked to him: "You are an aggravating cuss." About the same time Judge Stewart received a poke in the nose that broke his glasses, followed by three other blows so witnesses say Judge Stewart says he just warded off the blows and did not strike back, the matter evidently thought otherwise as both parties to the encounter were fined.

Were Long Without Good Things.
Spinach was introduced into England early in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, as also was the cucumber; while celery was introduced to English tables by a French prisoner in 1701.

The Rock-Ribbed Partisan.

"We have observed," says the Smileyville Express, "that most partisans who are rock ribbed are also bone-headed and mossbacked."—Kansas City Star.

His System.

"Working until seven every night? Your employer must be a fiend for work." "No," explained the stenographer, "he gossips and cracks jokes all day with anybody who will listen to him. Then, when all the other business men go home, we get to work."

Forehanded.

"I want three afternoons off a week and a fine letter of recommendation, and—" "But we'll let the letter of recommendation wait until you leave!"—"Nope, I get the letter now. I've tried gettin' them when I leave and I've never been able to get a good one yet."

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Over The Rainbow

Under the able direction of Mrs. H. C. Gerrard, the Junior Civic League, and their friends rendered the charming little operetta, "Over The Rainbow" at the Imperial. Tuesday night before a splendid audience. Much credit is due the Chairman of the Junior Civic Committee, Mrs. Gerrard, for the excellent manner in which the children and young people acquitted themselves. The sweet voices blending harmoniously in the pretty songs, the bright faces and gay colors produced a charming effect that was appreciated by the delighted audience. The scenic effects were also pleasing, especially the woodland scene, the palace of the Rainbow Queen.

Virginia Brady, in the role was a gracious and stately queen, acting the part to the manner born. Her sweet soprano was never more pleasing than upon this occasion. The four children represented by Fern Ward, Rosamond Radford, Anna Mason and Sarah Wight were especially fine in their parts. The nursery scene being particularly good. In the "Rainy Day Song" Anna Mason sang the solo parts with much sweetness and expression.

All the way through the dialogue work was fine and the choruses bright, catchy and well sung. The maids of honor were charming young lasses, altogether lovely and attractive in their long white gowns, butterfly sashes in rainbow colors, and wearing wreaths of flowers.

Mrs. Douglass and Anna Kanner as fireflies were quite realistic in their pretty green frocks, flitting about with their flash light. "Fireflies" sung by Mrs. Douglass was entrancing.

Mildred Holly, Emma Spencer and Le Clare Jones were three lovely little snowflakes dancing about and singing with childish abandon that elicited hearty applause.

The flowers, a trifle featured by Miss Abernathy and Edith Spencer was one of the prettiest numbers as was also the song of the Sunbeams and Moonbeams. The solo parts were sweetly rendered by May Holly and Mollie Abernathy with the choruses of the two groups. Others in the groups were Madeline Mallen, Annie Strains, Bodo Dornier, Eliza Mae Stearns, Anna, Bessie, Corlette, Smith, Florence, Warrick and Dorothy Mackey.

The four words did most wonderful well in their character parts and the little headlings made a splendid hit. These were Theodore Miller, Margaret Miller, Pearl Robson and Gladys Stempel. In the closing chorus the solo work of Fern Ward was especially lovely. The special features were also fine. "Grandma's Automobile" a dialogue between Dora Decker and Madeline Mallen and "The Song of the Sunbeams" sung by the two groups. "The Song of the Sunbeams" was sung with excellent emphasis by Rosamond Radford. Mrs. Douglass and Miss Muriel Harold rendered a duet "When You Thank the Girl You Love." A specialty that was much enjoyed was a song "The Moonlight Makes me Long for you" rendered by Kathleen, Fred, and Red. M. Decker, assisted by the chorus. "The Song of the Sunbeams" by Elizabeth Stafford in the chorus. The entire production was given with spirit and lively interest throughout the cast showing skillful training and receiving generous applause from the appreciating audience. Julia Lajng the young President extended the thanks of the Junior Civic League for all courtesies and assistance received in a few well chosen words and with a grace and poise characteristic of this little lady.

Missionary Sunday

According to the usual custom of the Methodist Sunday School to observe second Sunday of each month as Missionary Sunday, July the eleventh was an occasion to be appreciated by all present. There was a good attendance and collection.

The Missionary committee had prepared a delightful program. Marion Phillips read a beautiful story told by Dr. Mott of his work among the Indians. Next on the program was a solo rendered by Anna Mason, then a recitation by Gladys Wilson, Corinne Steinmyer, and Lillie Ruth Spencer closed the program with a duet "I'll be true."

The Superintendent has cause to believe that the missionary spirit is growing in the Sunday School is being greatly benefited by the observance of Missionary Sunday.

The building of a high wall on the Hand lots corner of Magnolia and Second streets caused the rumor of a new hotel but closer investigation revealed the fact that it was only a wall to hold for poster display.

A Colder Bonita Cafe

Improvements have been made at the Bonita Cafe in the new Woodruff building that will insure a much cooler place. Transoms have been built along the entire front of the place and this action in conjunction with the ventilator in the roof of the building will afford complete relief.

Fine Home Sold

C. B. Tyler has sold his handsome residence on Park Avenue to Edward F. Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Lane will occupy the property as their future home. The Tyler residence is one of the finest residence properties in the city being located on Park Avenue just south of the first park and Mr. Tyler recently improved the property and placed it in first class condition. The price has not been made public but it was a fancy one for Sanford property does not sell for a song these days and choice property brings a big price. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler will build a new and modern bungalow on his property on the west side where he has one of the best farms in this section. As Mr. and Mrs. Tyler only expect to stay here during the winter months their property on the west side will make a fine winter home.

The sale of the Tyler property was made through George D. Hart, manager of the Seminole Real Estate Co., and is one of the best sales to be recorded this summer. Mr. Hart is young in the real estate business here but has already made several good sales and his business is constantly increasing. He gives credit for his success to judicious advertising in the Sanford Herald and other publications.

SYNOPSIS

The New York police are mystified by a series of murders of prominent men. The principal clue to the murderer is the warning letter which is sent the victims, signed with a "clutching hand." The latest victim of the mysterious assassin is Taylor Dodge, the insurance president. His daughter, Elaine, employs Craig Kennedy, the famous scientific detective, to try to unravel the mystery. What Kennedy accomplishes is told by his friend Jameson, a newspaper man. Elaine is kidnapped by the Clutching Hand, but is rescued by Kennedy, who has discovered her whereabouts through using third degree methods on one of the crooks.

EIGHTH EPISODE

The Hidden Voice.

"Jameson, wake up!"
The strain of the Dodge case was beginning to tell on me, for it was keeping us at work at all kinds of hours to circumvent the Clutching Hand, by far the cleverest criminal with whom Kennedy had ever had anything to do.

I leaped out of bed, still in my pajamas, and stood for a moment staring about. Then I ran into the living room. I looked about, rubbing my eyes, startled. No one was there.

"Hey—Jameson—wake up!"
It was spooky.

"Where—the deuce—are you?" I demanded.

Suddenly I heard the voice again—no doubt about it, either.

"Here I am—over on the couch!"

I scratched my head, puzzled. There was certainly no one on that couch.

A laugh greeted me. Plainly, though, it came from the couch. I went over to it and, ridiculous as it seemed, began to throw aside the pillows.

There lay nothing but a little oblong oaken box, perhaps eight or ten inches square at the ends. In the face were two peculiar square holes, and from the top projected a black disk, about the size of a watch, fastened on a swinging metal arm. In the face of the disk were several perforated holes.

I picked up the strange looking thing in wonder, and from that magic oak box actually came a burst of laughter.

"Come over to the laboratory, right away," pealed forth a merry voice.

"I've something to show you."

"Well," I gasped, "what do you know about that?"

Very early that morning Craig had got up, leaving me snoring. Cases never wearied him. He thrived on excitement.

He had gone over to the laboratory and set to work in a corner over another of those peculiar boxes, exactly like that which he had already left in our rooms.

Half an hour afterward I walked into the laboratory, feeling a little sheepish over the practical joke, but none the less curious to find out all about it.

"What is it?" I asked, indicating the apparatus.

"A vocophone," he replied, still laughing, "the loud speaking telephone, the little box that hears and talks. It talks right out in meetings, too—no transmitter to hold to the mouth, no receiver to hold to the ear. You see, this transmitter is so sensitive that it picks up even a whisper, and the receiver is placed back of those two megaphone-like pyramids."

He was standing at a table, carefully packing up one of the vocophones and a lot of wire.

"I believe the Clutching Hand has been shadowing the Dodge house," he continued thoughtfully. "As long as we watch the place, too, he will do nothing. But if we should seem, ostentatiously, not to be watching, perhaps he may try something, and we may be able to get a clue to his identity over this vocophone. See?"

I nodded. "We've got to run him down somehow," I agreed.

"Yes," he said, taking his coat and hat. "I am going to connect up one of these things in Miss Dodge's library and arrange with the telephone company for a clear wire so that we can listen in here, where that fellow will never suspect."

At about the same time that Craig and I sallied forth on this new mission, Elaine was arranging some flowers on a stand near the corner of the Dodge library where the secret panel was in which her father had hidden the papers for the possession of which the Clutching Hand had murdered him.

She had moved away from the table, but, as she did so, her dress caught in something in the woodwork. She tried to loosen it and in so doing touched the little metallic spring on which her dress had caught.

Instantly, to her utter surprise, the panel moved. It slid open, disclosing a strong box.

Elaine took it, amused, looked at it a moment, then carried it to a table and opened it.

Inside were some papers, sealed in an envelope and marked "Lizmy Red Correspondence."

"They must be the Clutching Hand papers!" she exclaimed to herself, hesitating a moment, in doubt what to do.

She seized the telephone and eagerly called Kennedy's number.

"Hello," answered a voice.

"Is that you, Craig?" she asked excitedly.

"No, this is Mr. Jameson."

"Oh, Mr. Jameson, I've discovered the Clutching Hand papers," she began, more and more excited.

"Have you read them?" came back the voice quickly.

"No; shall I?"

"Then don't unseal them," cautioned the voice. "Put them back exactly as you found them and I'll tell Mr. Kennedy the moment I can get hold of him."

"All right," said Elaine. "I'll do that. And please get him as soon as you possibly can."

"I will."

"I'm going out shopping now," she returned, suddenly. "But, tell him I'll be right back—right away."

"Very well."

Hanging up the receiver, Elaine dutifully replaced the papers in the box and returned the box to its secret hiding place, pressing the spring and sliding the panel shut.

A few minutes later she left the house in the Dodge car.

Outside our laboratory, leaning up against a railing, Dan the Dude, an emissary of the Clutching Hand, whose dress now greatly belied his underworld "moonlighter," had been shadowing us, watching to see when we left.

The moment we disappeared, he raised his hand carefully above his head and made the sign of the Clutching Hand. Far down the street, in a closed car, the Clutching Hand himself, his face masked, gave an answering sign.

A moment later he left the car, gazing about stealthily. Not a soul was in sight and he managed to make his way to the door of our laboratory without being observed.

Probably he thought that the papers might be at the laboratory, for he had repeatedly failed to locate them at the Dodge house. At any rate he was busily engaged in ransacking drawers and cabinets, in the laboratory, when the telephone suddenly rang.

An instant he hesitated. Then, disguising his voice as much as he could to imitate mine, he took up the receiver.

"Hello," he answered.

His face was a study in all that was dark as he realized that it was Elaine calling. He clenched his crooked hand even more viciously.

"Have you read them?" he asked, curbing his impatience as she unsuspectingly poured forth her story, supposedly to me.

"Then don't unseal them," he hastened to reply. "Put them back. Then there can be no question about them. You can open them before witnesses."

For a moment he paused, then added: "Put them back, and tell no one of their discovery. I will tell Mr. Kennedy the moment I can get him."

Clutching Hand studied for a moment and then grabbed the telephone again.

"Hello, Dan," he called when he got his number. "Miss Dodge is going shopping. I want you and the other Falsers to follow her—delay her all you can. Use your own judgment."

It was what had come to be known in his organization as the "Brotherhood of Falsers." There, in the back room of a low dive, were Dan the Dude, the emissary who had been loitering about the laboratory, a gunman, Dago Mike, a couple of women, slatterns, one known as Kitty the Hawk, and a boy of eight or ten, whom they called Billy.

"All right, Chief," shouted back Dan, their leader, as he hung up the telephone after noting carefully the hasty instructions. "We'll do it—trust us."

With alacrity the Brotherhood went their separate ways.

Elaine had not been gone long from the house when Craig and I arrived there.

"Too bad," greeted Jennings, "but Miss Elaine has just gone shopping and I don't know when she'll be back."

Aunt Josephine greeted us cordially, and Craig set down the vocophone package he was carrying.

"I'm not going to let anything happen here to Miss Elaine again if I can help it," remarked Craig in a low tone, a moment later, gazing about the laboratory.

"What are you thinking of doing?" asked Aunt Josephine keenly.

"I'm going to put in a vocophone," he returned, unwrapping it.

"What's that?" she asked.

"A loud speaking telephone—connected with my laboratory," he explained, repeating what he had already told me, while she listened almost awe-struck at the latest scientific wonder.

He was looking about, trying to figure out just where it could be placed to best advantage, when he approached the suit of armor.

"I see you have brought it back and had it repaired," he remarked to Aunt Josephine. Suddenly his face lighted up. "Ah—an idea!" he exclaimed. "No one will ever think to look inside that."

"Now, Mrs. Dodge," he said finally, as he had completed installing the thing and hiding the wire under carpets and rugs until it ran out to the connection which he made with the telephone, "don't breathe a word of it—to anyone. We don't know whom to trust or suspect."

Elaine's car had stopped finally at a shop on Fifth avenue. She stepped out and entered, leaving her chauffeur to wait.

As she did so, Dan and Billy sidled along the crowded sidewalk.

Dan the Dude left Billy and Billy surreptitiously drew from under his coat a half loaf of bread. With a glance about, he dropped it into the gutter close to the entrance to Elaine's car. Then he withdrew a little distance.

When Elaine came out and approached her car, Billy, looking as cold and forlorn as could be, shot forward. Pretending to spy the dirty piece of bread in the gutter, he made a dive for it, just as Elaine was about to step into the car.

Elaine, surprised, drew back. Billy picked up the piece of bread and with all the actions of having discovered a treasure began to gnaw at it voraciously.

Shocked at the disgusting sight, she tried to take the bread away from him.

"I know it's dirty, miss," whimpered Billy, "but it's the first food I've seen for four days."

Instantly Elaine was full of sympathy. She had taken the food away. That would not suffice.

"What's your name, little boy?" she asked.

"Billy," he replied, blubbering.

"Where do you live?"

"With me mother and father—they're sick—nothing to eat—"

He was whimpering an address far over on the East side.

"Get into the car," Elaine directed. "Get—but this is swell," he cried, with no fake, this time.

On they went, through the tenement canyons, dodging children and pushcarts, stopping first at a grocer's, then at a butcher's and a delicatessen. Finally the car stopped where Billy directed. Billy hobbled out, followed by Elaine and her chauffeur, his arms piled high with provisions. She was indeed a lovely Lady Bountiful as a crowd of kids quickly surrounded the car.

In the meantime Dago Mike and Kitty the Hawk had gone to a wretched flat, before which Billy stopped. Kitty sat on the bed, putting dark circles under her eyes with a blackened cork. She was very thin and emaciated, but it was dissipation that had done it. Dago Mike was correspondingly poorly dressed.

He had paused beside the window to look out. "She's coming," he announced finally.

Kitty hastily jumped into the rickety bed, while Mike took up a crutch that was standing idly in a corner. She coughed resignedly and he limped about, forlorn. They had assumed their parts, which were almost to the burlesque of poverty, when the door was pushed open and Billy burst in, followed by Elaine and the chauffeur.

"Oh, ma—oh, pa," he cried, running forward and kissing his pseudo parents, as Elaine, overcome with sympathy, directed the chauffeur to lay the things on a shaky table.

Just then the door opened again. All were genuinely surprised this time.

which to record something, "and you miss, are a fool!"

There was no combating Miss Statistix. She overwhelmed all arguments by, the very exactness of her personality.

Elaine departed, speechless, properly squelched, followed by her chauffeur.

Meanwhile, a closed car, such as had stood across from the laboratory, had drawn up not far from the Dodge house. Near it was a man in rather shabby clothes and a visored cap on which were the words in dull gold lettering, "Metropolitan Window Cleaning company." He carried a bucket and a small extension ladder.

In the darkened recesses of the car was the Clutching Hand himself, masked as usual. He had his watch in his hand and was giving most minute instructions to the window cleaner about something. As the latter turned to go, a sharp observer would have noted that it was Dan the Dude, still further disguised.

A few moments later, Dan appeared at the servants' entrance of the Dodge house and rang the bell. Jennings, who happened to be down there, came to the door.

"Man to clean the windows," saluted the bogus cleaner, touching his hat in a way quietly to call attention to the words on it and drawing from his pocket a faked written order.

"All right," nodded Jennings, examining the order and finding it apparently all right.

Dan followed him in, taking the ladder and bucket upstairs, where Aunt Josephine was still reading.

"The man to clean the windows, ma'am," apologized Jennings.

"Oh, very well," she nodded, taking up her book to go. Then, recalling the frequent injunctions of Kennedy, she paused long enough to speak quietly to Jennings.

"Stay here and watch him," she whispered as she went out.

Jennings nodded, while Dan opened a window and set to work.

Elaine now decided to go home. From his closed car, the Clutching Hand gazed intently at the Dodge house. He could see Dan on the ladder, now washing the library window, his back toward him.

Dan turned slowly and made the sign of the hand. Turning to his chauffeur, the master criminal spoke a few hurried words in a low tone and the driver hurried off.

A few minutes later the driver might have been seen entering a nearby drug store and going into the telephone booth. Without a moment's hesitation he called upon the Dodge house, and Marie, Elaine's maid, answered.

"Is Jennings there?" he asked.

"Tell him a friend wants to speak to him."

"Wait a minute," she answered. "I'll get him."

Marie went toward the library, leaving the telephone off the hook. Dan was washing the windows, half inside, half outside the house, while Jennings was trying to be very busy, although it was apparent that he was watching Dan closely.

"A friend of yours wants to speak to you over the telephone, Jennings," said Marie, as she came into the library.

The butler responded slowly, with a covert glance at Dan.

No sooner had they gone however, than Dan climbed all the way into the room, ran to the door and looked after them. Then he ran to the window across and down the street, the Clutching Hand was gazing at the house. He had seen Dan disappear and suspected that the time had come.

Sure enough, there was the sign of the hand. He hastily got out of the car and hurried up the street. All this time the chauffeur was keeping Jennings busy over the telephone with some trumped-up story.

As the master criminal came in by the ladder through the open window, Dan was on guard, listening down the hallway. A signal from Dan, and Clutching Hand slid back of the portieres. Jennings was returning.

"I've finished these windows," announced Dan as the butler reappeared.

"Now, I'll clean the hall windows."

Jennings followed like a shadow.

No sooner had they gone than Clutching Hand stealthily came from behind the portieres.

One of the maids was sweeping in the hall as Dan went toward the window, about to wash it.

"I wonder whether I locked those windows?" muttered Jennings, pausing in the hallway. "I guess I'd better make sure."

He had taken only a step toward the library again when Dan watchfully caught sight of him. It would never do to have Jennings snooping around there now. Quick action was necessary. Dan knocked over a costly Berres vase.

"There—clumsy—see what you've done!" berated Jennings, starting to pick up the pieces.

Dan had acted his part well and promptly. In the library Clutching Hand was busily engaged at that moment beside the secret panel searching for the spring that released it. He ran his finger along the woodwork, pausing here and there without succeeding.

"Confound it!" he muttered, searching feverishly.

Kennedy, having made the arrangements with the telephone company by which he had a clear wire from the Dodge house to his laboratory, had rejoined me there and was putting on the finishing touches on his installation of the vocophone.

Every now and then he would switch it on, and we would listen to it as he demonstrated the wonderful little instrument to me. We had heard the window cleaner and Jennings, but thought nothing of it at the time.

Once, however, Craig paused, and I saw him listening more intently than usual.

"They've gone out," he muttered, "but surely there is some one in the Dodge library."

"I listened, too. The thing was so sensitive that even a whisper could be magnified, and I certainly did hear something."

Kennedy frowned. What was that scratching noise? Could it be Jennings? Perhaps it was Rusty.

Just then we could distinguish a sound as though someone had moved about.

"No—that's not Jennings," cried Craig. "He went out."

He looked at me a moment. The same stealthy noise was repeated.

"It's the Clutching Hand!" he exclaimed excitedly.

A moment later Dan hurried into the Dodge library.

"For heaven's sake, Chief, hurry!" he whispered hoarsely. "The Falsers must have fallen down. The girl herself is coming!"

Dan himself had no time to waste. He retreated into the hallway just as Jennings was opening the door for Elaine.

Marie took her wraps and left her, while Elaine handed her numerous packages to Jennings.

Dan watched every motion. "Put them away, Jennings," she said softly.

Jennings had obeyed and gone upstairs. Elaine moved toward the library. Dan took a quiet step or two behind her, in the same direction.

In the library Clutching Hand was now frantically searching for the spring. He heard Elaine coming and dodged behind the curtains again just as she entered.

With a hasty look about she saw no one. Then she went quickly to the panel, found the spring and pressed it. So many queer things had happened to her since she went out that she had begun to worry over the safety of the papers.

The panel opened. They were there all right. She opened the box and took them out, hesitating to break the seal before Kennedy arrived.

Stealthily and quickly the Clutching Hand crept up behind her. As he did so, Dan gazed in through the portieres from the hall.

With a spring, Clutching Hand leaped at Elaine, snatching at the papers. Elaine clung to them tenaciously, in spite of the surprise, and they struggled for them. Clutching Hand holding one hand over her mouth to prevent her screaming. Instantly Dan was there, aiding his chief.

"Choke her! Strangle her! Don't let her scream!" he ground out.

They fought violently. Would she succeed? It was two desperate, unscrupulous men against one frail girl. Suddenly, from the man in armor voice. Suddenly her eyes fell on the armor scattered all over the floor. She opened the little oak box.

"Elaine!" Apparently the voice came from that. Besides it had a familiar ring to her ears.

"Yes—Craig!" she cried. "That is my vocophone—the little box that hears and talks," came back to her. "Are you all right?"

"Yes—all right—thanks to the vocophone."

She had understood in an instant. She seized the helmet and breastplate to which the vocophone still was attached and was holding them close to herself.

Kennedy had been calling and listening intently over the machine, wondering whether it had been put out of business in some way.

"It works—yet!" he cried excitedly to me.

"Elaine!" "Yes, Craig," came back over the faithful little instrument.

"Are you all right?" "Yes—all right."

"Thank heaven!" breathed Craig, pushing me aside.

Literally he kissed that vocophone as if it had been human!

Bibles Sent to the Front. Distribution of Bibles in Germany, Austria and Bohemia in the last few weeks has exceeded all records.

Workers have discovered no fewer than ten different tongues in the camps and trenches. Great care has been exerted to keep from view all Bibles printed in English.

The American Bible society is active in the field and has some co-operation from the American Board, of Boston, and the Religious Tract society of London. The British and foreign Bible societies have also been engaged in the distribution, workers in some cases traveling many miles to reach great numbers.

A depository for Bibles in Budapest has been exhausted. From Constantinople, one of the greatest agencies of the American Bible society, no word has come recently.

Extent of All the Russias. Russia's extent may be gauged by the fact that European Russia is in itself larger than the other 19 states of the continent taken together, and when we include Asiatic Russia western Europe shrinks into insignificance.

The Russian empire comprises one-sixth of the total land area of the world.

It is four times the size of the continent of Europe, 42 times the size of France, nearly three times the size of the United States without Alaska and 70 times the size of the British Isles.

There are 175,000,000 Russians, and of Russia is the most thinly populated of the great countries.

in the corner, as if by a miracle, came a deep, loud voice.

"Help! Help! Murder! Police! They are strangling me!"

The effect was terrific. Clutching Hand and Dan, hardened in crime as they were, fell back, dazed, overcome for the moment at the startling effect.

They looked about. Not a soul. Then, to their utter consternation, from the helmet again came the deep, vibrant warning.

"Help! Murder! Police!" Kennedy and I had been listening over the vocophone, for the moment conplused at the fellow's daring.

Then we heard from the uncanny instrument: "For Heaven's sake, Chief, hurry. The Falsers have fallen down. The girl herself is coming!"

but squarely in a vicious solar plexus blow.

"There—take that!" he roared. The sult rattled furiously. Out of it spilled the vocophone, with a bang on the floor.

An instant later those in the hall pushed in. But the Clutching Hand and Dan were gone out of the window the criminal carrying the greater part of the precious papers.

Some ran to Elaine, others to the window. The ladder had been kicked away, and the criminals were gone. Leaping into the waiting car, they had been whisked away.

"Hello! Hello! Hello!" called a voice, apparently from nowhere.

"What is that?" cried Elaine. She had risen by this time, and was gazing about, wondering at the strange

Although it had been a stormy afternoon there were thirty-six present all having a fine time; there were seven large cakes and cookies. On Wednesday, Walfred Pierson while doing some plowing for Mr. Tom Tyner found a large rattlesnake which he succeeded in killing. The skin measured six feet 3 inches long, ten and one half inches wide and had nine rattles. Thaw Declared Sane New York, July 15.—Harry Kendall Thaw was declared sane by a jury which for nearly three weeks had listened to testimony given in the supreme court here before Justice Peter Hendrick. Forty-eight minutes were consumed and two ballots were taken in reaching a verdict. Justice Hendrick this morning will announce whether the commitment upon which Thaw was incarcerated in the state hospital for the criminal insane at Mattewan shall be vacated thereby giving the slayer of Stanford White the liberty for which he has fought in the courts for nine years. It was at the end of addresses by counsel and the charge of the justice that the jury retired. While the twelve men were deliberating the crowd in the courtroom and about the courthouse was augmented by scores of people who believed that a verdict quickly would be found. Shortly before 4 o'clock a ball game from the jury room and informed the Justice Hendrick that a verdict had been reached. The doors immediately were locked and Justice Hendrick ascending the bench warned the spectators against any demonstration. Then the jury came in. In reply to a question by the clerk of the court as to whether a verdict had been reached the foreman handed over a sheet of legal paper which was passed to the justice. Justice Hendrick read it and handed it back to the clerk. "Gentlemen of the jury," said the clerk, "the question you have been asked is this: Is Harry Thaw now sane? Your answer is yes." Despite the warnings several persons stood up in front of their seats. The courtroom hummed like a dynamo. Justice Hendrick and a dozen court attendants rapped for order. Meanwhile Thaw who until the verdict was read sat at the counsel table with his chin resting on a handkerchief, had turned around and grasped the hand of several of his counsel. Then he went to where his mother was sitting a few feet away and throwing his arms about her neck kissed her twice. Mrs. Thaw at the same time patted her daughter Mrs. George L. Carnegie, on the shoulder. Absorbing Debate. The Lancaster Literary society will soon take up this discussion: "Which is the hardest to do, quitting booze or leaving a pimple alone?"—Atchison Globe. CLOSE RACE CERTAIN

Season in Major Leagues Promises to Be Successful One.

Boston Braves Are Sure to Put Up Bold Front in National League—Boston Red Sox Touted as Winners in American.

Contrary to winter expectation the baseball season in the major leagues now promises to be a very successful one. A great many critics during the off season were full of fearful predictions that baseball was going into a state of desuetude and that public interest was rapidly waning. It is now believed this may have been a wrong diagnosis, for there is more than the average enthusiasm shown, and the sport is evidently in for a big year. The Feds have made practically no inroads on the clubs of organized ball and the strong teams are intact and capable of putting up a hard battle for the flags in the two big leagues. The race in each of the majors promises to be exceptionally close, which will add to the interest. The fight for the pennant in the National league should be a good one, with the Boston Braves, present world's champions, as the natural favorites. The Braves have been slightly strengthened by the addition of Sherwood Magee in the outfield and are very sure to put up a bold front in their effort to make it two straight championships. They do not, however, appear to outclass the field to any great extent. The Giants seem to be the next best, with the St. Louis Cardinals having quite a chance to come through. These three clubs look to be the best in the league at the getway. But baseball is full of surprises, as the Braves conclusively proved in 1914, and some dark horse is likely to crop up and set the dope all awry. The American league is likely to have a much closer race than usual, owing to the break-up of the Athletics, who are no longer considered to have a walk-over, though Connie Mack is pretty sure to have his club right in the fight all the way. The Boston Red Sox are touted as the most likely winners of the flag. They look very good and should have a fine chance. Most of the strength of the American league seems to lie in the East this season, with the Athletics, Boston and Washington as the best appearing outfits. Detroit is too weak in the box to make much of a showing, and it is hardly likely that the Chicago White Sox will develop the steadiness to cut in strongly for the highest honors, while both Cleveland and the Browns lack the class. Conditions in the minor leagues are improving very rapidly. The minors were badly injured by the Feds last year, but that stage is about over, and there is sure to be a big revival of interest in the smaller leagues before long. All leagues are cutting down on the number of players to be carried, which works hardships on many performers, but which was only a natural result of the activities of the Feds. During the year it is expected that the conditions will settle down to their former substantial basis and the season is bound to be a great improvement on that of 1914.

Hungry Man's Mistake.

Prof. Sigmund Freud, the eminent German scholar, has made a study of Unkyl blunders, spoken and printed, and has embodied the result in his book, "Psychopathology." As an example of blundering speech, caused by subconscious cerebration, he gives the following: "A wealthy, but not very generous American host, invited his friends to an evening party. Everything went well until about midnight, when there was an intermission for supper. To the disappointment of many of the guests, there was no real supper; instead, they were regaled with thin sandwiches and lemonade. "As it was during a presidential campaign, the conversation turned upon the different candidates, and as the discussion grew warmer, one of the guests, an ardent Progressive, remarked to the host, 'You may say what you please about Roosevelt, but there is one thing he can always be relied upon to do; he always gives you a square meal.' He meant, of course, to say a 'square deal.' The assembled guests burst into a roar of laughter, to the great embarrassment both of the speaker and of the host."—Youth's Companion.

A Surgeon With "Sand."

The doctor suggested that if I could let him have a couple of men to direct those wounded men who could walk he would send them back to the Chateau of St. Marguerite, where the ambulances lay, three miles to the rear. He had been working at least forty-eight hours, without cessation, but refused to stop ministering to the wounded, although by now his work had been supplemented by the arrival of two infantry surgeons. One of the new medics noticed that our surgeon was in no condition to be on his feet. A temperature of 103 degrees was the record of the thermometer. Examination presently revealed a bullet wound. Under cross-examination our little doctor admitted he had been hit three days before.—A Captain of Royal Irish Dragoons in Collier's Weekly.

GOOD MEETING COMMERCIAL CLUB FRIDAY NIGHT

GOOD ROADS, THE MONROE BRIDGE AND MANY OTHER IMPORTANT MATTERS WERE DISCUSSED

The Sanford Commercial Club met last Friday night in the City Hall pursuant to a call from President Lake. About thirty members were present and between the puffs of some good Sanford cigars the members discussed many things for the good of Sanford.

The efforts made to get a good tourist hotel here. Several other good talks were made by members of the Commercial Club and the question of the bridge across the St. Johns at Monroe coming up, President Lake appointed the following committee to meet with the government engineers here next Friday morning in the court house at ten o'clock.

R. J. Holly, C. R. Walker, W. J. Hill, B. A. Howard and A. P. Connelly. The public hearing will be held with Major Ladue, chief of the government engineers who is in charge of the work in the state and as this bridge is very important to this city and county the citizens generally should be present at the meeting. This bridge was up before the county commissioners meeting several months ago and Michael Sholtz and associates were given the permission of the boards of Volusia and Seminole to construct the bridge. Since that time the matter has been awaiting the decision of the government, the question of the width of the draw being awaited by parties concerned and the public hearing held here last Friday morning is for the purpose of settling the question of the width of the draw.

After President Lake and Secretary Haynes had taken their places and all the members and visitors had gathered the meeting opened for discussion on the question of good roads in Seminole county and C. R. Walker was called upon to give an outline of the work of the committee. Mr. Walker has his heart in the good roads movement just as he has in every good movement for the benefit of the county and for thirty minutes or more gave the people present the status of the good roads movement, the material for good roads and the sense of the committee.

Dr. E. F. Armstrong of Jacksonville the owner and promoter of Riverview one of the attractive suburbs of Jacksonville was called upon for a few remarks and gave his ideas on cooperation and the benefits of the board of trade movements in the state. Dr. Armstrong also made a strong plea for good roads and other improvements and complimented the city of Sanford on the building of the bulkhead and

Likes Florida Best

Gail Borden the proprietor of the Gail Borden famous Eagle brand of condensed milk writing to his friend, Col. George N. Rabby of this city is rejoicing in California. He has a winter home at Ormond and spends all of his winters in Florida and he thinks Florida is better than California in every way. He writes among other things that the following:

"I am having a hard time trying to explain to my California friends why I like Florida better than California but Florida to my notion is far superior in every way."

Coming from Mr. Borden this sounds good to the people of Florida.

Indians Play Ball

The Nebraska Indians are full-blooded aborigines with all the features of the race which occupied this land before the white man landed. As in those days the Indians have the characteristics that have made them famous, namely, speed, cunning and wonderful powers of sight and movement. The team has played through the country for 17 years and has hung up records galore. It has met many of the best teams in the country and has the great majority on the string. On the street they are quiet and peaceful Indians but on the field they let loose and their actions prove interesting. The Indian has always been bred with a desire to win and in victory he cannot control his spirits. Such is the habit of the Nebraska Indian base ball team for inspired with the thought of victory they open up the ginger barrel and wade in line shape. Warhoops that nowadays are looked upon as amusing but which in the days of yore were blood curdling to the pioneer are given by the team in the field and they "jabber" in their native tongue among themselves giving directions and coaching one another. Altogether they will be an attraction that Sanford cannot afford to miss and will seldom be given another treat of the sort. They leave here August 6th.

FRANK LIVES; SMALL CHANCE OF RECOVERY

IMPROVISED KNIFE DANGEROUS FOR VICTIM IN BLOOD POISONING

Milledgeville, Ga., July 19. The latest reports from the prison regarding the condition of Leo M. Frank who was cut almost to death by a sharp-pointed knife Saturday night, are to the effect that there is a slight chance for his recovery. The knife being an improvised weapon is apt to cause blood poisoning. If this can be avoided the chances for his recovery are good. He is very weak from loss of blood and unable to talk.

Milledgeville, Ga., July 19. Leo M. Frank lay in the Georgia State Prison Hospital tonight with a fighting chance for recovery. Physicians had succeeded in stopping the flow of blood from the wound in his throat made with an improvised knife in the hands of William Green, a fellow convict, also serving a term for murder. The blow was struck as Frank slept in his bunk in a dormitory late last night.

The latest and most spectacular phase of the two-year fight for Frank's life is expected to be the subject of an investigation by the Georgia Prison Commission. Reports from Atlanta were that Governor Harris intimated today he would start such an investigation to ascertain if Green acted entirely of his own volition.

Green said today, when taken from solitary confinement long enough to be questioned, that he planned the attack alone and that no one knew what he intended to do. He was not communicative today and gave as his only excuse that "he thought it should be done." He said, however, that he regretted the act.

Frank was quartered in a dormitory with about 100 other prisoners and occupied a bunk about forty feet from one of the two doors to a large room. Green's bunk was fourth from his. No prisoner is allowed to leave his place without permission from one of the two guards stationed

ANOTHER HIGHWAY THROUGH FLORIDA BY WAY OF SANFORD

THE LEE AND JACKSON HIGHWAY WILL RUN FROM THE CITY OF WASHINGTON TO TAMPA

That Tampa should be the terminus of at least one great trans-state highway if the belief of the Board of Trade and leading citizens and a movement has been started to that effect. Miami has been designated as the terminus of the Dixie but Tampa, it is declared, is far more important point. Since the Dixie Highway movement was begun, agitation has also been going on in favor of a Lee and Jackson Highway from Washington, D. C., southward via Richmond and it is of this highway that Tampa is seeking to be designated the terminus.

The Lee and Jackson Highway movement is favored by Richard H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturers' Record, who has been agitating the project for several months. Mr. Edmonds will strongly support any efforts made for such a highway. Yesterday Assistant Secretary L. P. Dole of the Tampa Board of Trade, who is secretary of the Central Florida Highway Association, was in conference with A. J. Holliday, secretary of the Lakeland Board of Trade, and as a result a telegram was sent Mr. Edmonds on the subject.

The suggestion is made that the project be discussed at the meeting of the Central Florida Highway Association at the dormitory of night shortly after midnight.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday night a special committee was organized to get up a list of names of persons who would be willing to contribute to the cost of the highway.

It is estimated that the cost of the highway would be $1,000,000. As he reached it he quickly grabbed Frank by the hair and held over his head a sharp-pointed knife. The knife was thrust into Frank's neck and he was overpowered and among prisoners who rushed to Frank's aid were two physicians, one of whom was also serving a life term for murder.

Frank was taken to the prison hospital. The knife was found to be twenty-five inches in length and presented a great danger to Frank's life. Dr. H. J. Rosenberg, the family physician, arrived from Atlanta today with nurses. He said that while in condition is life threatening.

Mrs. Frank was in Milledgeville at the time of the attack. She was so shocked that she became hysterical but later was calmed and was taken to the prison hospital.

DIXIE HIGHWAY MAKING ROADS THROUGH FLORIDA

EVERY COUNTY THROUGH WHICH ROAD PASSES WILL VOTE ON AN ISSUE FOR BONDS

One and one half million dollars have been voted by counties along the proposed Dixie Highway route in Florida for the improvement of the roads, the last bond election to be reported being in Volusia county where the voters in the DeLand district decided overwhelmingly in favor of a bond issue of $350,000 for good road purposes. The district voting on the bonds in Volusia county includes DeLand, Lake Helen and Beresford. Lake Helen went almost solidly for the bonds, DeLand by a 5 to 1 vote, and Beresford 2 to 1. Dade county voted some time ago for $100,000 good road bonds and then the Homestead district voted for $100,000 more, to be used for good road purposes. Palm Beach county came across with the big issue, the voters of that county deciding in favorably on an issue of $800,000 good road bonds. Getting a line with the developments along the southern part of the Dixie Highway, Brevard county some time ago voted $150,000 good road bonds. The Brevard issue was confined to the Melbourne district and was carried by a two to one vote. The issuance assured the completion of the link in the highway south to the St. Lucie county being expected to take it up from there on through its territory. The vote in the Melbourne district also assured the completion of the western branch of the Dixie Highway from Melbourne to Kissimmee, connecting the east coast route at Melbourne with the cross state highway to Tampa. The bonds provide for the paving of the western highway to the Ocala county line.

in Lakeland, September 15. The telegram sent yesterday follows: "The Lee and Jackson Highway should be a reality. Suggest for route Washington, Richmond, Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Brunswick, Jacksonville, Palatka, Sanford, Kissimmee, Lakeland and Tampa. Can secure support of men, and suggest calling of meeting in Lakeland middle of September, when Central Florida Highway Association meets; greatest aggregation of good roads advocates in Florida. You should request Governors to endorse and appoint commissioners to be at meeting. Call on me for help and you will get support. Signed, R. P. Dike, secretary Central Florida Highway Association." This route is the same as approved by the Central Florida Highway Association for the "Jacksonville Seaside Route," and is declared to be both practicable and desirable.

The Central Florida Highway Association has been very active for good roads recently, and at a meeting of the executive committee held in Lakeland last week it was announced that its western branch of the Dixie Highway through Florida had been projected and would be completed later than May 1916. MUCH PROPERTY IS DEVELOPED BY THE THATCHER CO.

NEW REALTY COMPANY EXPECTS TO ASSIST MATERIALLY IN THE PROGRESS OF THE CITY

Mr. M. H. Thatcher of Louisville, Kentucky, president of the Thatcher Realty Company, has opened offices of the company on the second floor of the Bishop Block, in Sanford. The company, recently organized under the laws of Florida with a capital stock of two hundred thousand dollars, has just bought the well-known and valuable Holden Estate property in Sanford, and in Seminole and Volusia counties, Florida. The Thatcher Realty Company will now put on the market these properties, consisting of about twelve hundred town lots in Sanford, a number of celery farms, improved and unimproved, and lands in the flowing well districts in the Robinson Springs section in Seminole county, and in the Lake George district in Volusia county.

Mr. Thatcher is enthusiastic over the future of Florida in general, and of Sanford in particular. He spent several years in the tropics, in the Canal Zone, and the subtropical aspects of central and South Florida appeal to him very strongly. He believes that in the course of comparatively a short time Florida will be one of the most densely populated and wealthy sections of the United States. He thinks the opportunities here are unlimited. He believes that Sanford is on the eve of a great development, that values here will rise rapidly and that the city will soon be to enter Florida after Tampa as the west coast of the State, and what Jacksonville is to the east coast. In brief, Mr.

Thatcher's view touching the growth of this city and state, is the same as that entertained by thousands of others from our sister states who come hither, who see, and "are conquered."

Mr. Thatcher expressed the hope that the people of Sanford and Seminole county would understand that he and his associates, while investing in property here with the desire for profit, wished also to do all within their power to aid in the moral and educational development of the community.

The Thatcher Realty Co., will receive a hearty welcome to our midst for the development of their property means much toward the development of every part of Sanford and the Celery Delta.

The Miller Sanitarium

Sanford has a hospital or sanitarium of which the citizens are proud not only because it is the only one we have but because it is the one of the best equipped for the size in this part of the state. The Miller hospital is part of a most handsome home recently erected on Park avenue by Dr. Oliver Miller, and home and hospital were built with the idea of having the very best that could be procured. The office of the doctor is on the south side of the residence and here he has fitted up a complete with all arrangements for taking care of the patients. At present Dr. Miller can only take care of two patients at a time but hopes to be able to add to the hospital in the next twelve months for his constantly increasing practice makes this imperative. The hospital is open to all the physicians of the city and several very difficult operations have taken place since the hospital was started. Sanford for many years was without a hospital of any kind and the many cases that were turned down were forced to go to other cities for treatment. All these can now be treated in Sanford for Dr. Miller has made arrangements for every detail of surgical work and his place has been filled every day since it was thrown open. Dr. Miller deserves great credit for taking care of the surgical needs of this section of the state and it is hoped that his efforts for a larger hospital for Sanford will be rewarded with success.

Among the midsummer editions coming to our exchange table is the Florida Alligator printed at the State University by the summer students. The type on the Alligator looks very familiar and seems to be a part of our ancient Elevator in Gainesville. The Alligator is a bright and breezy little sheet and is a great "ad" for the University and the summer school and for Gainesville.

with the steamship lines with a view to having the reduction apply on pineapples from the east coast, as in this instance the pineapple rates north of Jacksonville should not be higher than citrus fruit. It will be recalled that the Interstate commerce commission ruled to this effect a few years ago. The league contends that the Florida growers cannot successfully compete in the eastern markets with the Cuban pines so long as the rates remain as they are today. These rates from Cuba via steamers to New York city is a trifle more than our rates north of Jacksonville, by boat, to which an average rate of approximately twenty cents per crate from Florida shipping points to Jacksonville must be added. It is further pointed out that the Florida pineapple industry is in anything but a flourishing condition, due not only to the effect of imports but many obstacles which are encountered in the production.

CLYDE LINE CUTS RATES ON FRUITS

REDUCTIONS MADE TO EAST COAST APPLIES TO WHOLE STATE

Orlando, Fla., July 16. The Florida Growers and Shippers League headquarters at Orlando, announces that a dispute from General Freight Association of the United States, a result of that they have decided to reduce the railroad fruit rates from Florida to Philadelphia, New York, city and Boston, four and one-half cents a box for next season. This reduction was made from the east coast section last April since which time the league has been negotiating with the Clyde people to extend the same to the entire state, and thus remove what appeared as a discrimination as between localities.

The reduction means that the rates on fruit carloads, from Florida to eastern ports, via Jacksonville and Clyde Line, will be fifteen and one-half cents a box, or $16.50 a minimum car of 100 boxes, less than the all rail freights. Traffic Manager Hoskins of the league, states that the Clyde Line has recently made many improvements in its facilities for handling perishable traffic, in addition to which they will have experts at Jacksonville and the eastern ports next season to supervise the handling of our fruits and vegetables.

It is not known at this time if the all-rail lines to the east will make corresponding reductions in their rates. It is the opinion of the league that the rail lines will not meet the situation at the beginning of the approaching season, at least not until the effect of the competition is felt. While advice has not been received from the Merchants & Miners Transportation company, as to action it intends taking, the league is in correspondence with this company and it is the belief that rates of that company to Baltimore and Philadelphia will be correspondingly reduced. Announcement will be made as soon as definite word is received. The league is handling further
