The couple's four children, ages 10 to 16, lay asleep in another room during the murder-suicide.

"Although the children were in the house at the time of the events, there is no identification that any of them actually witnessed it," said Cohen. "From the 911 tape, the child that called said he could not tell if it had happened."

Richard began his stint with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office on June 16, 1989, as a volunteer deputy assigned to the Seminole Center Unit. In October 2001, he was assigned to the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

Lee: Pitfalls possible with strong mayor

By Steve Clegg

SANFORD — The best way to evaluate a government is when problems pile up.

Robert Lee, city manager of Gulfport, brought that message to Seminole County people Saturday at Town Hall meeting, regarding the future of Sanford's government. The City's system will change March 1, whether it adopts a strong mayor form or not.

That's where an elected mayor runs the day-to-day operations of city, with a city manager/managerial government that oversees city departments.

Lee, sounding for the Florida City and County Managers Association, has been a government consultant for 27 years — 12 in California, population 17,000 — and has served in both forms of government. He concluded that a city manager form of government is better if "federalism accommodability" and accountability when things aren't going well.

"If things are going well, you may not notice the difference between the two types of government," Lee said. "The advantage is how the form of government responds to issues and personalizes what things are going well in the city."

A city manager-based government is best suited to periods well in good and bad times, Lee said, because it combines the leadership of an elected commissioner with the know-how of a professional manager who is trained to handle any type of problem.

"No one elected official has control over city affairs," Lee said. "It allows different views and interests to be considered."

In addition, professional citizens are less likely to negatively impact a city manager form of government, Lee said, adding, "Citizen complaints are kept in check."

Every strong mayor form of government I've seen, always has a person on the commission that seems to be causing problems. Lee, who has served as city manager since 1988, said, "The only downside is that it would result in more conflict between commissioners who were instructed by

Sanford Historic Trust wants to award residents who possess green thumbs

SANFORD — The Historic Trust is looking for a few good yards.

The community organization would like to recognize yards, which are in the Sanford Historic District, for maintaining their landscapes. The goal of the "Certificates of Merit" program is to encourage historic beauty and maintenance of the District.

There are so many young couples moving into the historic neighborhood. Many of them stay on the inside of their houses. This year, we hope to encourage them that maintaining their yards and gardens, which will give the neighborhood curb appeal, to go along with the beautiful houses.

Claypool, who is chairperson of the Trust's Landscape Committee, said the landscape project is similar to the Sanford Scenic Improvement Board's (SIB) Beautification Award.

Each month a yard will be chosen by the Landscape Committee to receive the recognition. The Trust's project, however, will focus on residential landscapes, while the SIB award is given to Sanford businesses.

Once a yard is chosen for the monthly award, the Historic Trust will present the property owner with a certificate of recognition. Claypool said, "A 'Historic Landscape of the Month' sign will also be placed in the recipient's front yard during the month."

The committee, comprised of Claypool, DeDe Robert, Barry Freedman, Marcia Newcome and Steve Chaitin, will make its monthly decision, will based on a landscape's overall appearance, tidiness and resources of the property. Specifically, the group will consider a list criteria, including:

Nationally recognized landscaping contractors keep it all in the family

By Chris Bernhardt

SANFORD — Tucked away, quite literally, underneath the roof at 2000 overland, Girard Environmental Services, goes about its business.

No hidden are these full-service landscaping contractors, the average person might not even know they exist, unless of course they're by one of the enterprising owners over the years right now.

And many, local businesses know the Girard name. One of the most growing privately held companies in the landscaping industry, the business generates more than $20 million in annual revenue through its contracts with national companies such as Fazl's, Saturn, Hampton Inn, Walgreens and Chip's.

"It's excellent quality. They are the leaders of that kind of business," said Jim McDonald of McDonald's Sons in Scotland, a customer of Girard since 1979. "They are the best," said Jim McDonald, a quarterly run, an extremely successful business. But a half over seven years earlier, Jim didn't seem nearly so great. It was then, in October 1993, that the Girards began authoring a story of success, endurance and pride, with moments of both outstanding success and extreme failure.

Rick Girard got into the landscaping business in the 1980s. He spent his senior year of high school working for a small, South Florida lawn maintenance company owned by his girl friend's uncle. A few years later, with some financial backing by his father Leo, Rick set out to start his own lawn service company. Girard's landscaping and

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Server at family restaurant has to carry niece's load

DEAR ABBY: I am putting myself through college working nights as a server in a small, family-owned restaurant. There are only two servers working nights, and a couple of nights a week, I share my shift with Jane.

Jane is very fair with orders, then expects to be served the food, milk, water, and anything else the people at her table might need — in addition to servers' tips, too, even though . . .

My problem is that many of the patrons at Jane's orders directly hand me their tips, assuming I deserve it more than she does. Even though I don't think Jane deserves to be tipped, I feel guilty taking the money, and always end up putting it in Jane's tip jar. Also, according to our employer's policy, I could get fired for keeping the money.

To make matters worse, Jane is the boss's niece. This makes me reluctant to mix the problem to him, which is wrong for me to tell the patrons at Jane's table that I can't keep their tips, and leave it up to them whether they leave anything for Jane? Maybe it would force Jane to work harder. Or should I keep things "as is" and not cause trouble?

WORKING MY WAY THROUGH SCHOOL IN INDIANA

DEAR WORKING: I have a "tip" for you. The boss's niece feels entitled, and in the interest of family unity, your boss will probably back her up. This can't be the only restaurant in town. With over experience, you are an attractive candidate for a job elsewhere. Best looking.

DEAR ABBY: My mother and I were discussing the traditional custom of tossing the bride's bouquet at my wedding two years ago. A young girl who ended up catching it was only 12 years old and was not with us at the time, but now she does. She says that since females are trying to catch the bouquet at an amazing age — and the child who threw it — should never have been allowed to participate.

At most of the weddings I've attended since then, I have observed very young girls being as young as 3 trying for the bouquet, as well as little boys scrambling to catch the bride's dress thrown by the groom. (At my wedding, the "wings" was a boy of 14.) What do you think about this? Abby? Is my mother right?

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER IN Kinston

DEAR MOTHER AND DAUGHTER: Catching a bouquet or garland is no guarantee that the person will be the next to marry (the "up for grabs"), I see no reason why any guest should be excluded.

DEAR JUDY: I belong to two organizations whose members would love to send messages to our troops. It won't cost anything. Will your Web site, www.OperationDearAbby.com, continue to be available to have all of us to support the men and women in our military?

JUDY IN FLORIDA

DEAR JUDY: Absolutely! In the past, readers have complained because Operation Dear Abby was limited to Nov. 15 to Jan. 14. Operation Dear Abby now is now YEAR ROUND. All messages will be relayed to our troops via a secure military site, which means they'll be bug-free and virus-free in every corner of the world.

Girard

The Girard Service Model, Inc., increased its earnings approximately $135,000 in annual revenue during the first two years, and in the winter of 1991/1992, Leo at the time worked for a large oil company and contractors got promoted and received a raise. At that point Rick decided to pick up his business and sell his former oil central station. They quickly picked up new customers and started growing, and brother Leo joined the business after graduating from Lake Howell High School in 1977. Two years later, Leo became part of the business.

As for slowly things began to unravel, and the personal relationship between the brothers took a sour turn. This all came as local contractors refused to do the bid country protection in October 1992.

"I've never passed the buck with a company," Girard said. "We always take full responsibility for it. It was a lack of financial ability, intestinal discomfort, and not having the will to make the changes that needed to happen to save the business."

Shaken deeply by the feeling of failure and beginning to feel sick at their best financially, the two brothers soon found themselves in a bind by 1993. Want to prove for a solid financial reason, while the two brothers stayed within the family business, they worked at International Lane while Randy attempted to start his own small lawn service.

But working for someone else did not sit well with Rick. In January 1993, he decided to make a bold move again starting his own landscaping business. He said since when he last previously failed he had more contacts and clients. He borrowed $1,000 from his father-in-law and started a company called "Gardens Concepts."

"It was hard," said Leo Girard, now Vice President of Business Development for his son's company. "I was nervous to leave my own business because I had gone through. And I had time that I thought I'd like to see Rick take his talents and work for another company. However, that wasn't what Rick wanted. Rick wanted to strike out on his own to the company he's built today."

Regarding his reputation and standing, Leo took a small effort from Rick. Getting a first opportunity with clients from day one, which only he can do, recently produced results. Now it began to pick up steam over the last few years, and in December 1997 when they became a partner and founded "Gardens Concepts." This fall, Randy has continued to grow his business through word-of-mouth referrals to Gated Community. This fall, Randy has also expanded his business to include a lot of trees.

"A father couldn't be any more proud of his two sons and what they've been though than I am," Leo Girard said. "I am back now, and I have with pride seen the things that they've been able to accomplish. They're great. I'm very proud of them."

He added that he's always been there for his sons and what they've been through than I am," Leo Girard said. "I am back now, and I have with pride seen the things that they've been able to accomplish. They're great. I'm very proud of them."

They've also long since erased the previous debt and made arrangements to prevent it from happening again, gotten back old customers, restored their relationship with vendors and gone a long way in rebuilding their reputation. Now other landscaped businesses call the Girards to discover the lessons the brothers learned through the School of Hard Knocks.

The Girards recently began forming a new company, "Garden Works," according to Rick. It means when it opens, all Girard, Environmental Services and if it doesn't get somebody else, "Gardens Concepts," considering the name. Rick found a way to succeed when it mattered most.

"All I ever really wanted in February of 1990 was for my wife to be able to go grocery shopping and not worry about the cost of living," he said. "Just the basic necessities of life. I just wanted them to be there. And now you look back and say we do this and what we've got and what our plan is, it's just overwhelming."

"We were all just young. They're kind of the same," he added.

"This year, we've tripled almost everything, we've got company bought in $1.7 million in revenue in the first full year and has grown to be percent since. I am now operating a lot of more than 40 vehicles and employ 100 people. And they have done well all over Central Florida, at dealerships, churches, educational facilities, healthcare facilities, hotels, conventions centers, office buildings, restaurants, banks, business centers and residential developments."

A father couldn't be any more proud of his two sons and what they've been through than I am," Leo Girard said. "I am back now, and I have with pride seen the things that they've been able to accomplish. They're great. I'm very proud of them."

"Money and the voice are the most controlling factors," Williams commented. "The mayor still has to get three votes on both of those."

Commissioners do, however, too, Lee agreed, but rarely have control of day-to-day operations.

District 1 Commissioner Art Woodruff said if the business continues to grow, it will likely have strong environmental impact. Last week, members of the Board of County Commissioners voted to support a study of a form of government.

Lee said the chamber's new role was not unusual because business organizations perceive a strong mayor as having the ability to act quickly and decisively on "My mandate is that business people, particularly individuals who are very charismatic and want to get something done, like the idea of having one person in charge who either succeeds or fails," said Lee, who said he has been a long-time supporter of chambers of commerce and other business organizations. "I think the there's perception that there may be some presidential treatment. If we have one person in charge, I'm not saying all business people think that way, but some do."

And while good laws can be generated in the private sector, Lee continued, it's academic to believe all to be the business model at the city government level.

environment.

"Government should not be run like a business," Lee said. "Business's goal is profit. Government's goal is service. Municipal finance is nothing different than business. You have over 100 revenue sources, in municipal government."

Service to the citizens is the community's responsibility of all government. Lee noted, adding, "any changes in government is going to come with a new set of priorities."

"Think about what's right when times aren't so good," Lee said. "You must consider how your government will deal with problems not just successes."

He also suggested re-examining the boundary to understand elected officials.

"The struggle which counties have, regardless of the form of government, is to make sure that every in compromised," Lee said. "I think the county council doesn't have to make sure that you have to represent the very strong on-call members who serve in those positions."

and believe it's every citizen's responsibility to be involved."

After a strong mayor system was proposed, Lee said he believes environmental issues have power. However, one person — the mayor — controls

"and you have the power, for example, is if there are some employees not being treated the same you as a community, isn't that what the mayor does?" Lee said. "It's not accountable to (commissioners) like a city manager."

District 2 Commissioner Vernon Williams was one of those attending the Town Hall meeting and asked Lee how a change in government would change his role.

"Money and the voice are the most controlling factors," Williams commented. "The mayor still has to get three votes on both of those."

Commissioners do, however, too, Lee agreed, but rarely have control of day-to-day operations.

Genxco 4th Service, Inc.
 The existing service center
 only generated revenues approximately $125,000. In annual revenue during the first two years. But by the winter of 1990-1991, with all the M&A worked out, most the interested companies had determined to transfer to Orlando. At that point, Lee decided to pack up his business and move his family to Central Florida. They quickly picked up new customers and started growing, and brother Randy joined the business after graduating from Belleview High School in 1991. Two years later Lee became part of the business.

 Yet shortly Randy began to unravel, and his decision to start his own business became clear. That all came in about when he was forced to file for bankruptcy protection in October 1994.

"He never passed the buck
 with the bankruptcy," Girard said. "He always takes full responsibility, our S. O. [was] a lack of financial acumen. He knew what he was doing, and my brother had the tools to make the changes
 he had to do to try to save the business."

Since October is the feeling of failure and needing to get back on their feet again, the three Girard brothers found itself in a bind by Lee's brother, a local construction firm, who had been asked, without the knowledge of the others, to work for Environmental Care while Randy attempted to start his own small lawn care business. But working for someone else just didn't sit well with Rich. In January 1996, he decided to make a truly bold move again starting his own lawnmower business in the same town he had previously failed

and started his own business with borrowed $7,000
 from his father-in-law and started a company called Girard Landscapes.

"I was scared," said Lee Girard, now Vice President of Business Developers for his son's company. "I was worried whether he could handle the stress because I'd seen what he had gone through. And I had done that I thought I'd like to see Rich take his talents and work for another company,

 discover that wasn't what Rich wanted. Rich wanted to show out to build his company
 he built today."

Rich's initial expansion
 took off with the support of his father, getting a loan from Rich. Getting a first assignment with clients proved difficult, though once
 he did it, his early produced results caused him to begin to pick up more clients. The debt had gone down to December 1997
 and Rich took on a partner and started Girard Contract Management. They ill-fated partnership ended fast through the poor economy in October 1998, but Rich had made
 the right decision,
 becoming his own boss.

"The bank would not take my business and loans out," Rich said. "So I came in with some money and tried to basically burn the rest of the company. At that point, I realized I still know my business and I want me home back on the clock."

Rich soon got himself up with Randy and Girard Environmental Services. And
 over time he learned from past mistakes, the Girards learned the way they not only run their business but the way
 they treat their customers.
 "I'm very careful

when I'm talking to my customers. We maintain both a strong dependable
 workforce and a solid colla-

"There's much more drive
 for success," Girard said.
 "I'm not afraid to fail." said Brian Weatherby, Service Manager
 who worked with the Girards
 during their previous business ventures. "Before they were willing to take people out and do different things even if they weren't making money. But you're more of a business person than the way a business should run. Before it just seemed like we were all just young.

 They've learned from their mistakes."

Those new include growth almost immediately, as the company brought in $1.2 million in revenue in its first full year
 and has grown 10,000 percent since. They now operate a fleet of more than 42 vehicles and employ 120 people. And they have done work all over Central Florida, in six states
 where environmental facilities,
 healthcare facilities,
 hotels, convention centers,
 office buildings, restaurants,
 day-care centers and residential developments.

A father couldn't be any more proud of his two sons and what they've built than than I am," Lee said.
 Rich added, "I sit back now and I have pride seeing the things that we've been able to accomplish.
 There's 12 hours, 13-hour overtime. Saturday and Sundays included, is a lot of time."

They've also long since erased the previous debt and made arrangements to prevent it from happening again, gotten back old customers, repaired
 their relationship with vendors and gone a long way in rebuilding their reputation. Now other downtown businesses call the Girards to discuss the letting the business learned through the School of Hard Knocks.

The Girards recently began
 using a new cleaning route.
 When it comes to cleaning for Rich,
 it makes him a money,
 calls a few Environmental Services and if it doesn't call somebody else, it approaches considering. But how stuck found a way to succeed when
 it makes him a money.

All seven initially opened in February of 1998 was not my idea to be able to go grocery shopping and not worry about the cost of food," Rich said.
 "Just the basic necessities of life. I just wanted them to be there. And now you look back at it, we've done and what we've got and what our potential is. It's just overwhelming."

application of other limited measures that was voted to be imposed?

After a short, mostly generic speech, Lee said he believed limited power can be a good — the only — choice
 we city officials.

"When you have the power for example, if it there are other employees not being treated the same, you as a manager can deal with that through the manager. Lee said. "It's important not accountable to government
 and like a city manager."

District 2 Commissioner Velma
 Williams was one of those attending the Town Hall meeting and said Lee had a chance to give citizens a chance to voice their concerns.

"Money and the budget are the most controlling factors," Williams commented. "The mayor
 still has to get three votes ratification
 of those budgets, but mayors have control of day-to-day operations."

District 1 Commissioner Art
 Woodward said if the business world is to be successful,

community leaders from across
 major governments last week
 members of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, City Council and County Commission, plus the Mayor of Sanford.

Lee said the chamber, a non-profit organization, received a strong message at having the ability to act quickly and decisively in times of emergency.

"My suspicion is that business world, especially individuals who are very concerned
 to get something done, like the idea of having one person in charge who either enforces or fails," said Lee, who said he has been a long-time supporter of chambers of commerce and other business organizations.

 Municipal finance is facing diffi-

Service to the citizens is the main responsibility of any government, he said, adding that every citizen of government should be involved in community service.

"I think about what is best when times aren't so good," Lee said.
 "You must consider how your government will deal with the times not just themselves."

The new mayor, who is a member of the City Council, said
 he tends to be more conservative than his predecessor.

"The strongest thing a mayor can have regardless of the form of government, is to make sure the money is competitive," Lee said.
 "More money means more jobs. The world is flat, but you have to compete for that. It's very tough on individuals who serve in their community."

Exeter lights up Deltona

Senior guard scores record 54 points

By Bruce Daniels
Sports Editor

WINTER SPRINGS — It has long been known that Winter Springs Ryan Exeter is one of the best players in Seminole County.

But the senior guard advanced himself to legendary status Monday night by putting in a county record 54 points as the Panthers ended an early season loss to Deltona, 75-54, to post their 10th victory of the season and get over the .500 mark.

Exeter, who's built-in body besides the scoring machine that he is, not only broke the school record he established last season for points in a game, 42, but also hit an amazing 11 three-point field goals, also breaking his own school record of 10 set last season.

Not just Exeter, he also had 12 assists and 10 rebounds as the Panthers (10-4) averaged 11.38-15 overtime losses at the hands of the Wolves (8-9) earlier this season (5-2).

Also contributing to the victory were senior guard Kyle Hill with six rebounds and sophomore guard Brett Hodges with 15 points.

In other boys' games from Monday:

Lake Howell got 19 points from David Edwards as the Silver Hawks got past

Lake Mary, 52-46. Darryl Merle had 14 points and Eddie Willingham pulled down 11 rebounds for the Rams.

Stuart scored 23 points and pulled down 13 rebounds as The Lancers' Academy blitzed Deltona-Trinity Christian, 76-41. Joey Phillips had six assists for the Eagles.

Jackson scored 19 points but it was not enough as Calvary Christian outscored Almonte Christian, 73-71.

The Boys' State Foss were released on Tuesday with Ocoee ranked No. 6 in Class AA, Lake Howell No. 6 in 5A, and Dringwood Christian getting votes in 1A.

SCC stumbles at home

Central Florida sweeps Raiders

By Bruce Daniels
Sports Editor

SATURDAY — Seminole Community College's basketball coach will have little time to regroup their forces after both teams suffered rough Mid-Florida Conference losses at home Saturday.

Both teams made big rallies in the second half after very slow starts, but neither squad could maintain the momentum as Central Florida Community College from Ocoee at 4a, E.C.L. Health and Physical Education Center, Seminole coach William Wilescoen (far left), who had just three points at the end of the first half, finished with a game high 24.

The Raiders have to recover quickly as they will host talented Florida Community College (4-4) from Jacksonville in a non-conference knight (Wednesday) at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center.

Both teams are extremely crucial for the Raiders as the winner need the win to keep their playoff hopes alive, as do the men, who will be facing a Stetson team that was 15-1 and ranked in the top 10 nationally before dropping two of their last three conference games.

The women's game will begin at 6 p.m. with the men set to start at 8 p.m.

Saturday — Central Florida women's basketball team won their home opener Saturday night, defeating the University of South Florida 65-54. In addition to her points, Debrae Jones scored 10 rebounds. The Raiders will be at home for a crucial doubleheader tonight (Wednesday) as they host Lake City (1-3) and Central Florida from Lakeland (1-3) at the E.C.L. Center.

The Raiders will be at the E.C.L. Center for Wednesday's game against the Knights (Wednesday) at 6p.m. E.C.L. Health and Physical Education Center. The women start at 8 p.m. and the men at 10 p.m.

Admission is free.

was the only Seminole Community College player to score at double figures as the Raiders men suffered their first Mid-Florida Conference loss of the season, 63-56, at the hands of Central Florida Community College from Ocoee at 4a, E.C.L. Health and Physical Education Center. Seminole coach William Wilescoen, who had just three points at the end of the first half, finished with a game high 24.

The Golden Knights

outscored the Panthers by a combined score of 14-7 during the extra stanza led by Abellard who scored seven points. UCF was finally able to distance themselves from the Panthers scoring their final five points at the free throw line and getting several key rebounds late in the second overtime.

UCF will be back in action against on Thursday, Jan. 30 when they host Belmont. It will be the first of two home games for the Knights, as Samford will travel to UCF Arena on Saturday, Feb. 1. Tip off for both games is 7:30 p.m. The voice of the Golden Knights Marc Ondrak will call all the action and can be heard on AM 740 The Team.

MCMILLAN LEADS STETSON OVER CAMPBELL

DELAND — Alex McMillan had a career-high with 21 points, and added eight steals, seven rebounds, and six assists as Stetson defeated visiting Campbell 69-57 in an Atlantic Sun Conference game

Wednesday evening at the Edmunds Center.

The Raiders (4-1, 1-0 A-Sun) posted their first two-game winning streak of the season, while Campbell (4-12, 1-5 A-Sun) fell for the 10th time in its last 11 games.

"I thought our aggressiveness and intensity picked up in the second half," Raiders head coach Derek Waugh said.

"Defensively, our guys new that we had to make sure we put ourselves back in position to make the conference tournament."

Johnson led the Camels with 17 points on 7-of-12 shooting.

SCC baseball hoping for big things in 2003

By Bruce Daniels
Sports Editor

SANFORD — With optimism from its first State Tournament appearance in over 15 years and ever-so-reducing players who have already made commitments for next year, the Seminole Community College baseball team looks to the 2003 season with great expectations.

The schedule, which consists of 56 regular season contests, including 38 home games at Sander Field, is highly rated by SCC coaches, who expect the team to be in mid-division for the 2003 season.

SCC open the season on the road at

Temple Terrace (Tampa area) against Florida

College this Friday (Jan. 31st) and then kicks off its home campaign the very next day, Saturday, Feb. 1st, against 2002 State Champion Manatee Community College from Bradenton.

That game will begin at 2 p.m. The Raiders will also be at home next Monday and Wednesday, Feb. 3rd and 5th, to face Polk Community College from Winter Haven and St. Petersburg College, respectively. Those games are set to begin at 3 p.m.

SCC finished as the Mid-Florida

Conference runner-up last season and came within an extra-inning loss of winning the title.

As if that wasn't enough, locations got riced up even more when six of the returning players signed early with top-flight Division I programs and a seventh linked a Letter-of-Intent with one of the best

Division II schools in the country.

Water is high and fishing is good on the Kissimmee Chain of Lakes

Special to the Herald

OCALA — Due to excessive rainfall within the Kissimmee Chain of Lakes watershed, the 2002-2003 Lake Tohopekaliga Extreme Drawdown and Habitat Enhancement Project has been postponed. If weather conditions permit, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) plans to implement the project during 2003-2004.

In the meantime, Marty Mann, a fisheries biologist at the FWC's Freshwater Fisheries Office, suggests visitors to make plans to visit Lake Tohopekaliga and the rest of the chain.

"The water levels in the lakes are at or near high pool and will remain there through the duration of winter," said Mann. "The fishing is extremely good as plenty of largemouth bass are being caught in Lake Tohopekaliga. It also has been one of the best bass fishing seasons ever recorded in the lake."

Because of the extreme water levels and hazardous conditions associated with the planned drawdown, many anglers chose not to visit the chain of lakes this winter and spring. This has had a negative financial impact on local fish camps and other businesses dependent upon the fishing opportunities in the lake.

However, with the current high water and good fishing, locals and non-residents who can make some last minute plans should take advantage of the situation and get in on the great fishing action and available accommodations.

Right now the fish camp business is slow and anglers can get some great last minute accommodations," said Mann. "At the same time their business will help out the local businesses which are struggling because of the planned and now cancelled lake drawdown." So, please, hurry back to the lake because you might catch your trophy and help fish camp owners with additional businesses." Affected fish camps include Big Toho Marina (407-846-2124), Richardson's Fish Camp (407-945-6549), Skirvin Al's (formerly Red's) (407-891-3474), and Southport Park (407-933-3522). Note: Mentioning these businesses does not imply endorsement by the FWC.

Please note that the catch-and-release regulation for largemouth bass enacted on January 6, 2003 for Lake Tohopekaliga has been rescinded. Tournament anglers wishing to schedule tournaments on Lake Tohopekaliga are encouraged to do so.

SILVER MULLET PUBLIC WORKSHOPS
The Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) has scheduled public workshops in Homestead and St. Augustine regarding the silver mullet fishery. The FWC is seeking public input on the status of the fishery and management options for reducing the recreational and commercial harvest of silver mullet.

The FWC has received concerns from the public during the past year about the status of silver mullet, including an observed decline in the Atlantic coast silver mullet population since the mid-1990s. A recent silver mullet stock assessment, completed by the Florida Marine Research shot-around and suffered a sprained ankle, forcing her to miss the game.

SCC got off to a very strong start, maybe because they were playing for the first time in 10 days, while the Patriots got off to a good start behind the inside outside combination of Renae Tabor and regular Raider players Kaitlynne Kay and Stephanie Clegg.

Chavez kept finding the open spot in the Raiders' zone at the top post and scored 13 first half points, but when SCC made the adjustment that left

Thompson open on the wing and the former Evans Trojan hit three consecutive three pointers, and four for the half, to give CPCC a 40-21 halftime margin.

The break did wonders for the Raiders as they came out of the locker room a different team.

Sparked by a tenacious defense, SCC went on a 19-5 run behind freshman Rosanna Davis and A. Kingston McCollum to close to within five points, 45-40, with 11 minutes left.

But back-to-back turnovers resulted in five points and a 10-point lead for the Patriots and the Raiders would not score again until Darcie Terrell's layup with 4:57 on the clock, a drought of over six minutes during which time CPCC scored 13 points to take a 58-40 advantage.

LaTanya Johnson led SCC, which fell to 15-6 overall and 3-2 in conference, with 10 points and seven rebounds, while Kaitlynne Kay had eight points and no scoring to move into the all-time leading Raiders all-time scoring list.

Renae Tabor and Davis had 10 and 9 points, respectively, in the second half.

McCullum had 10 points and 10 rebounds, while Stephanie Clegg had 12 points and 10 rebounds.

Coach Stan Chapman's team altogether had seven losses before their 10-game winning streak, which came to an end at the hands of Terrell.

Morris came down with the flu and could not dress.

The men also got off to a sluggish start, again maybe because of a seven-day layoff, and CPCC quickly built a double digit lead.

Freshman Rushawn Johnson came off the bench to hit back-to-back three-pointers which breathed life into the Raiders, who closed out the half on a strong note, closing to within three, 28-25.

The second half started with the Patriots scoring twice to build the lead back to seven, 32-25, and things were looking bleak.

But just as suddenly, SCC came by the behind instantaneous decision by Jamala George and Daniel Jackson and the absence of Kitus Witherspoon.

The Raiders scored 11 straight points to take a four point lead, 36-32, with 14:23 to play.

CPCC answered with four points to tie the game at 36-36, but CPCC went on another run, outscoring the Patriots 10-9 to take a seven point lead, 52-45, with 10 minutes remaining.

CPCC had a toe warmer game themselves forced the momentum back to CPCC, which was on a 10-3 run to begin the fourth quarter.

Again the lead, 55-52, and the Patriots would end the game on an 8-4 run.

Maurice Vaughn (14), Pat Hillman (12) and Milo Johnson (10) led the way for CPCC, which is now 14-10 overall, but more importantly, the Patriots have won consecutive conference games to go back in the race with a 2-2 mark.

Witherspoon was the only Raider in double figures with 16 points. He also pulled down nine rebounds.

Lyman's Josh Houston chipped in with nine points, while Corey Williams and Johnson tallied eight points each. Jackson finished with seven points and 10 rebounds, while leading scorer J.D. Bracy (15.5 per game) was smothered defensively. All right by the Patriots' Greg Boyd and scored only four points.

The loss dropped the Raiders to 17-6 overall and into second in the M-PC with a 2-1 record.

Santa Fe, which SCC defeated in Gainesville on Saturday, moved into sole possession of first place with a 70-66 win over Daytona Beach. The Saints, who are ranked No. 19 in the nation, are now 20-3 overall and 3-0 in the M-PC.

The world comes to Daytona for Rolex 24

Special to the News-Journal

DAYTONA BEACH — The top 100 car drivers from around the world will converge on Daytona International Speedway this week to begin the 2003 racing season with the most grueling race in North America — the Rolex 24 At Daytona.

The historic 40th anniversary of the Rolex 24 At Daytona will draw drivers from across the globe, as the current entry list includes drivers representing 24 countries or territories. Nearly a third of the drivers racing in the 24 hours race will travel to Daytona from abroad to kick off the racing season.

However, America's best will also be on track during the sleek, twice-around-the-clock event, with racers from 27 states entered to run in the Rolex 24.

The Rolex 24 At Daytona draws not only the best apes to drivers in Daytona's 3.5-mile road course, but also top road-racing drivers, even disciplines in racing — Formula 1, Indy Car, Grand Prix, Stock Grand National, CART, Craftsman Truck and Trans-Am.

For a former overall winner of the Rolex 24 At Daytona will be back, looking to add one more win to his resume, including five-time winner Hurley Haywood (1972, 1975, 1977, 1979, 1981), who holds the record for the most overall wins.

That in the history of the 24-hour road course currently stands 100 drivers drivers. Bill Vukovich (1961), Jim Hall (1962, 1963), Mike Park (1964), Scott Sharp (1996), Didier Theys (1998, 2000) and Andy Wallace (1990, 1997, 1999).

The racing excitement will get underway at Daytona International Speedway tomorrow (Thursday, January 30), with practice sessions and first round qualifying for the 41st Rolex 24 At Daytona. Additional practice sessions, as well as second round qualifying, will be held on Friday, January 31, and the grand day will fall in to start the historic race on Saturday, February 1 at 1 p.m.

Tickets for the 41st Rolex 24 At Daytona are available online or by calling the Speedway ticket office at 361-234-RACE.

SPEEDWAY OFFERS PRERACE ACCESS DURING SPEEDWEEKS 2003

The pre-race action at Daytona International Speedway may not be what entices fans to buy a race ticket, but it's one of the best shows in motorsports. Daytona's pre-race entertainment includes superstar concerts, celebrity appearances, and for those far-holiday enough to be among all the action, a chance to get up close to pit road and see the teams as they prepare for the start of the day's races.

For the first time, Daytona International

Speedway is giving selected holders an opportunity to experience pre-race fields, pit oval and pit road, pre-race to race with help available to them through hospitality programs or spectator solutions. This year, the gates are open to anyone who has a ticket through the pre-race pass program.

For $100, Frontstretch and Superstretch ticket holders can upgrade their experience and get out of the grandstands and into the action. The pre-race pass offers access for four days during Speedweeks, including Saturday, Feb. 8, for the Budweiser Shootout; Thursday, Feb. 13, for the Cataract 125; Saturday, Feb. 15, for the Koolie 300; and Sunday, Feb. 16 for the Daytona 300.

The $100 pre-race pass will give fans an opportunity to get up close to the S.H.E.Q.A.Y concert before the Budweiser Shootout, on the track for the parade of driver introductions for the Cataract 125, and for the entertainment prior to the start of the Koolie 300 and the Daytona 300.

Pre-race access is subject to weather and changes in the race schedule. Ticket holders can upgrade their spectator experience with the pre-race pass by calling 1-800-PITSTOP today.

CAR MEMORIAL TIRE SATURDAY

SAMSUNG — The old saying, "third time's a charm" is exactly what PASCAR and the Daytona Newspaper Tire Off Memorial Orange 125, is counting on this weekend.

After two postponements from friend weather, the forecast for this weekend is sunny and warm. The first race of the PASCAR Sunbelt Super Late Model Series should go on without a hitch.

And it is important to get the event in the weekend as the annual nine days of the World Series of Asphalt is set to begin with practice and sign-ins on Thursday, February 6.

Practice for the Super Lates this Friday will begin at 3 p.m., to 7 p.m. Expected entries are 2002 Sunbelt Super Late Model Champion Michael Williams, 2001 Sunbelt Super Late Model Champion Dick Anderson, David Ragan, Jimie Ellington, Jack Coco, Berry Wilbourn, 2002 AACCS Champion Justin Darwyl, U.S. National, Jacob Warren, David French and many more.

Qualifying for the Tire Off Memorial Orange 125 will be Saturday at 9 a.m. Late Models, Open Wheel Modified, Sportsman, Mini Stock, Super Stock and Specialty Stock will run "ladders only" also on Saturday night.

Dicky Orr, president of Charles "Pete" Orr has been named the Honorary Starter for the Pete Orr Memorial Orange 125 sponsored by the Daytona News Journal.

Buskalter and Howell are the most recent monthly returnees for each other. Buskalter and the duo were heroes at the plate with their power that saw the Raiders hit the ball out of the park at a record pace.

But the return of pitchers McCarty and Thrun are also crucial as no team can win an offense alone. The team will also get to see many players whom they'll never see in high school and have them back to play close to home.

Among the newcomers are Seminole High School and American Legion Post 93 standouts Victor Gilbert, a right-handed pitcher, outfielder Chris Knoll and a left-handed pitcher Dylan Hartman, who had returned home after a year in Tennessee.

Other area players on the squad this season are pitchers Cory Nordman from Deland and Kyle Komiske, who calls Winter Springs home.
