Seminole candidates scramble for votes

County commission incumbents face 'serious' challenges

SANFORD — When Seminole County voters go to the polls for the Sept. 5 primary — nine days from now — they'll be making final decisions on three judicial and two school board races.

However, two of three county commission races may require October run-offs.

"When you have three or more candidates in one primary you have a good chance for a run-off," said Seminole County Elections Supervisor Sandy Goard. "To win outright, a candidate needs 50 percent plus 1 vote."

Republican candidates have had little opposition in recent years, but in 2000 there are a number of Democrats, Libertarians and Non-Party candidates ready for recognition in the November general election.

You've seen the signs, received the mailers, and here comes the first voting.

"These are the most competitive races we've had in a long time," said former County Commissioner Fred Streetman.

"The incumbents on the commission have some serious challenges. They're going to have to prove they belong in office."

The most heated race — a Republican

Primary showdown between two-term District 3 commissioner Dick Van Der Weide and former Altamonte Springs mayor Dudley Bates — will be over and done with on Sept. 5. One of the two will be left standing. To be sure, there's little respect between the two, and Republican party officials are trying not to be amused.

Bates, who relinquished his job as mayor to be part of county government, is playing hardball. He doesn't have Van Der Weide's war chest (the most by any candidate), and he did get a late start in

What's the future of city's waterfront?

Commissioners discuss a new development and a new land-use policy that could provide the answer

By Dan Ping
Editor

SANFORD — Commissioners will take the first steps Monday night in deciding what the future of Sanford's waterfront will look like.

Two key planning and zoning issues — one regarding a Planned Development (PD) that could allow up to 100 new homes near the Lake Monroe Inn, the other a land-use policy that would affect waterfront property from Mellonville Avenue to Interstate 4 — are expected to draw intense discussion among commissioners and residents.

The Planned Development is being proposed by developer Michael Murray for 23 acres between Seminole Boulevard and Narcissus Avenue and between Pam Drive and Rachele Avenue. The property is currently in the county, but the commission will have a second reading of an ordinance to annex it into the city. Commissioners will also hold a first reading to rezone the property from A1 Agriculture to PD Planned Development.

Residents on Palm Drive and Riverview Avenue have been vocal in their opposition to the development, citing concerns with drainage and density.

Michael Greanya's family has lived on Narcissus Avenue for more than three decades, and they're concerned the development, which Murray has named Venetian Bay, will drastically change drainage in the area.

"This spring, when we didn't have rain for three or four months, that area was still wet," Greanya said. "That area has always had a lot of water."

State notes increase in minorities taking ACT

By Nick Pfeiffert
Staff Writer

Florida Education Commissioner Tom Gallagher has released state results for the ACT (American College Testing) scores, which show that Florida continues to have an ever-increasing number of minority students taking the ACT test.

Gallagher noted that there was a 12 percent gain since last year for African American students and a 13 percent increase for Hispanic students.

Going back even further in a comparison, the year 1996 to 2000, Gallagher said the increase for African Americans was 223 percent and for Hispanics an increase of 307 percent.

"With these increases, Florida continues to have a more diverse group of students taking the test than is true nationally," he said. Nationwide, only 24 percent of the students taking the test were minorities, while in Florida, the number is 41 percent.

"Larger numbers of Florida students, including minority students, continue to prepare for college education and participate in the ACT testing program," he said. "This is particularly important as we continue to work toward closing the gap and providing a solid educational foundation for all students."

A record number of Florida's 116,500 high school graduates in the year 2000 showed 49,928, or 43 percent, took the ACT, compared to 30 percent ten years ago.

While Florida is above the national average in the numbers of minority students taking the test, the test scores were near average. In the fields of math and reading, the scores remained the same as last year, still slightly below the national average. English and Science Reasoning decreased in Florida from last year. When family income is taken into account, Florida test takers score about the same as the national average.

Sixty-one percent of Florida's test takers are females, compared to 57 percent in the national average. Females scored higher on English and Reading, while males scored higher on Math and Science Reasoning.

On the ACT test, students were asked to identify their majors in college. Less than five percent indicated computer science and communications. Less than ten percent listed General Science, Art/Music, Engineering, Education, and Social Sciences. Health science was the highest at 25 percent, while business majors were second highest at approximately 14 percent.

Church donates school supplies

Members of the LakeSide Fellowship Church donated 34 backpacks with school supplies for students at Idillywide Elementary School. On hand for the presentation were Ernest Startup, guidance counselor; Sona Strickland, church member; Bob Martin, pastor; and David Scott, principal.

Chamber luncheon

Steve Harriet, chief deputy of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, provides information about the department's armored vehicle to Diane Kipers of Seminole Office Products. Kipers was part of a delegation from the Sanford Chamber of Commerce to view some of the department's crime-fighting equipment.

This picture of the First Methodist Church Sunday School was taken circa 1947. There are too many people to identify everyone, but easily recognized are Mr. J.C. Davis, kneeling on the far left, and Rev. J.E. McKinley, kneeling on the far right. Kay Shoemaker is in front of one of the pillars and Dr. Wade Rucker is in front of another. Some of the children in the front rows, (not in any order) are Rochelle Eubanks, James and Ann Davis, Betty Bryan, Gail Bittling, Peggy, Joan and Jimmy Wright, Martha and Jimmy Owen, Ed and Marvin McKinley, Robert Baker, Violet Oglesby, Wallace McCall and Terry Smith. Also recognized are Bob Crumley, Elizabeth Lynch, Ethel Riser, Bobbie Goff and Virginia Burney. If you recognize any others, contact Grace M. Stinecpher (407-322-4381). ## Historical Society discovers Ghost Towns on the St. Johns

By Virginia Powell
Special to the Herald

Special guest speaker Bill Dreggors, folk historian, made a slide presentation, "Ghost Towns of the St. Johns" to members of the Seminole County Historical Society at their general meeting, held in the Agricultural Extension Auditorium behind the Museum of Seminole County History.

Thriving turn-of-the-century communities such as St. Francis, which boasted a hotel are no longer in existence. The hotel burned in 1909 and was not rebuilt. The Harris family was the prominent family living there.

Up the river from St. Francis was Crows Bluff and in the early 1920s, several moonshine stills were operating back in the woods. Timber and cut ties for railroads were a booming industry.

Slides of the St. Johns River showed hydrants clogging the waterways and have since been eradicated. This eradication resulted in the river bank erosion due to wakes from modern speed boats.

After Mr. Dreggors gave his presentation, Charlie Carlson presided over a brief business meeting and announced about 100 Heritage Certificates have been issued. Appreciation was given to Caroline Bistline, who serves as the Certificate Committee chairwoman.

Seminole County Historical Society president Charlie Carlson, left, greets Bill Dreggors, who gave a presentation to the group.

Cecil Tucker, vice president, presented plans for a museum expansion to be undertaken over the next two years. A bus trip to Tallahassee on Sept. 19 is planned in order to lobby for a special category grant of $250,000. All friends of history and the Museum are invited to take part in this trip and see how a grant process works, and also visit the State Historical Museum. The bus trip is sponsored by the Historical Commission and the Seminole County Historical Society. Contact Karen Jacobs at 407-321-2489 if you are interested in making the trip.

Karen Jacobs, museum specialist, announced that many scheduled improvements to the museum building have been completed. Since March, visitors have numbered 1,913 and 16 tours have been conducted. The meeting adjourned for refreshments provided by Etta Jan Ekogh and Lillian Griffin.

Take in the signs, make the choice

This is a great time of the year for sight-seeing in Seminole County, Florida's Natural Choice.

Seminole trails no one in the scenic splendor of palm trees along winding roads, lush vegetation and the names of a score of bold politicians who say they will protect the environment if they get elected.

One of the Campaign 2000 signs off Rinehart is much too close to Oaklawn Park Cemetery. No respectable candidate would stump at a cemetery. Too late for write-in votes, anyway.

There are a number of campaign signs near the Central Baptist Church property on State Road 46 in Sanford. Political posters are not allowed on church property. A couple of years ago, however, a pastor inspired passers-by with a political plug on his church sign.

I'm surprised at how few candidates use their picture on their campaign signs. Sheriff Don Eslinger isn't shy about using his handsome mug. Some think Sheriff Don looks like the actor Patrick Swayze. Catch the irony — wasn't Swayze in "Dirty Dancing?"

Bob West's signs are so creative they have sent visitors off in many directions. West, who's running for the District 5 County Commission seat has borrowed the Interstate-4 logo. If you're confused where you're going, ignore the I-4 West signs.

I don't know whether to be grateful or hurt that none of the candidates has asked to put a sign on our front lawn.

Haven't had anyone knock at the door yet, either. Just as well, my desk is cluttered with campaign leaflets and mailers.

You talk about gall. I can't believe there are so many individuals who think they invented honesty, integrity and wholesomeness. Are we ever lucky to have them in Seminole County.

I greatly appreciate the warm, fuzzy family portraits the candidates want to share with their constituencies. If some of these men love their wife and kids that much, what are they doing in politics? Keep raising children, not taxes.

Dick Van Der Weide, an incumbent county commissioner, sent an oversized post-card showing him paddling a canoe with three of his grandchildren. Is the guy trying to tell us he's up the creek?

As a critic, I look for campaign brochure typos. A couple of years ago a candidate said he would be an honest public servant.

One candidate said, "Please vote! Tuesday, September 5 in the Republican Primary. I wish more candidates would say, please. I prefer polite public servants."

Many of the individuals who are running list their accomplishments. One said he donated 17-plus gallons of blood. Another says he has a positive demeanor for a judge. One is a soccer dad, another a soccer referee. One says he understands human nature. Several say they are not politicians although they send paid political advertisements.

Don't give it away

Developer Rami Yosefian wants the city of Sanford to give him land to build a condominium complex. The city should say 'No thanks.'

Rami Yosefian has big plans for Sanford. The man who sparked the idea of a hotel/conference center along Sanford's lakefront recently unveiled his plans to build a $22 million, eight-story condominium complex on the shores of Lake Monroe. It's a fine looking project, and one that holds promise for Sanford.

However, before the city becomes too enamored with downtown high-rises, it's worth noting that Rami wants something for nothing. Specifically, he wants the city to give him the 2.7 acres of land so he can build his condos. The city should respond with a resounding "No deal!"

For too long the city of Sanford has squandered its assets, namely its historic downtown on the waterfront. Now, just as the city is beginning to recognize its potential, is not the time to give those assets away. There's nothing wrong with leasing city land — as proposed for the hotel/conference center — or selling it outright for a well-planned and appropriate project, but to give the land away would be an injustice to the taxpayers.

Rami, of course, argues the city would get the better end of the bargain. We say that you get what you pay for, and if Rami believes this project is worth doing, then it's worth paying for the land.

The city has been down this road before. The city fathers in the late 1970s gave a sweetheart deal to their cronies to operate the Mayfair Country Club. The current Commission questioned that deal and recently settled a legal dispute that benefits the taxpayers more than its does the old guard. Would the Commission want to repeat their predecessors' mistake? We hope not.

Rami presents an intriguing plan, one we can support if all the details are satisfactorily resolved. However, he seems to believe only he can "build" Sanford. Rami is not a modern-day Moses single-handedly leading the city of Sanford across the Jordan River into the Promise Land. Many Sanford residents have already laid a nice foundation which developers like Rami can build upon. People like Walt Padgett, who opened the Higgins House Bed & Breakfast and also heads the Main Street Organization; Mike Morgan, who split with Rami and opened his own successful restaurant downtown; and Joyce and Bernie Fitzgerald, who own and operate one of the many thriving antique stores along 1st Street. These and many others — including high-dollar developers — will build downtown.

Has Sanford reached its potential? Absolutely not. Can Rami help the city achieve that potential? Yes he can. He can't do it alone, though. And he shouldn't be allowed to do it with free city land.

Wren speaks out on abortion issue

To the editor:
I applaud you for allowing the truth to be printed in the Seminole Herald (Saturday, July 16, "The Truth Behind the Supreme Court Ruling") regarding the partial birth abortion (D&X) and the D&E abortion procedures. I am aware that many people prefer not to hear what types of abortions are available and how these procedures are performed. It is indeed painful, at the very least, to realize such brutality toward another human being, particularly a vulnerable infant, partially born.

However, it is because of this same brutality that we so desperately need to be informed. It involves all of us. It even involves our tax dollars. It involves what kind of nation we wish to be and what kind of nation we will be. It involves what kind of legacy we will leave.

Ignorance of the facts does not free us from responsible action. We need the facts, the truth, to be able to make an informed choice of what we will do. Thank you for your journalistic integrity.

Sincerely,
Laurie Wren

Woodruff asks for quality growth

To the editor:
Recently, the Seminole Herald published an article about the rezoning of 55 acres of land near Narcissus Avenue (New lakefront project concerns nearby residents, August 4, 2000). I was at the Planning and Zoning Commission meeting described in the article, and while the story accurately reflected the discussion, I found what was missing from the story more interesting than what was included.

First, this 55 acre project was not the only proposal for development that current residents considered incompatible with their area. Silver Lake residents were fighting to keep industrial development out of their low density, single-family neighborhood.

Second, what I thought was the most important comment of the evening came from commission member Andrew Kutz. He questioned when the city was going to get a plan that directed the developers rather than letting the developers plan the city one project at a time.

Zoning, a city resident at the meeting said, should protect residents. The people who live in Sanford should be able to expect that the city will protect their homes. However, developers buy land with a use other than its current zoning in mind. They then expect the city to change for their benefit.

The city planner's report on proposed changes to the comprehensive plan states that most of the changes are "due to changed expectations". What had changed for the properties that prompted the most opposition were not expectations but ownership.

At the planning commission meeting, a resident suggested that changes to the comprehensive plan should not occur for the purpose of increasing the wealth of a single landowner, but to benefit the city and its residents. Who at the meeting were the residents? The city planner, who recommended the changes to the commission, is not a resident of the city. Most of the attorneys and engineers who presented the plans for change are not residents. It was the people speaking in opposition and the commission members themselves who were the residents at that meeting.

An article in the Orlando Sentinel (Small landowners stuck, August 21, 2000) stated that Orange County politicians are no longer concerned with intense growth for its economic benefit. Instead they are now concerned with how development effects the quality of life. Let's hope that the voice for quality that we hear from Sanford's residents drowns out the voice of growth-for-growth's-sake that comes from the developers, new land owners, and the city planner.

Sincerely,
Art Woodruff

Schaffner disputes claims in letter

To the editor:
In response to Pat Herring's letter dated Aug. 20, I would like to set the record straight.

I have not taken leave from my position as Director of Community Involvement and Public Information because to do so during the beginning of the school year would leave the department I supervise very short-handed. This is the busiest time of the year for the Community Involvement Department, and I would be negligent in my duties to put my own campaign for School Board above the needs of the schools.

For example, on Aug. 5, I coordinated the entire effort to provide free school supplies to more than 2,000 needy children, who would have started the first day of school without necessary school supplies or new clothes. Thanks to the generosity of people in this entire community, both financially and volunteering their time, these children had the opportunity to start the first day of school just like every other child — new backpacks stuffed with supplies, books, and other items, as well as new clothes. What kind of irresponsible administrator would I have been to abandon this project and other similar programs in our schools from my own political campaign?

I have made every attempt to limit my campaigning to non-working hours. When it has been necessary for me to attend interviews, etc. during working hours, I have taken the appropriate leave, all fully documented at the Educational Support Center and approved by my immediate supervisor.

I have never at any time told anyone that I would stay in my position as Director of Community Involvement and Public Information when I am elected to the School Board. Florida Statute 112.313(10) specifically prohibits a member of a governing board from continuing as an employee of such an entity. I pride myself on obeying the law and maintaining high ethics. Following my election to the School Board, I will most certainly resign from my position as Director of Community Involvement for the Seminole County Public Schools, a statement I have made repeatedly.

Executing deranged murderer serves no purpose at all

Fourteen years ago, Alexander Williams committed an unspeakable act: the kidnapping, rape and murder of a teen-age model. Now the state of Georgia is considering whether to match Williams' cruelty by executing him — even though he had been horribly abused by his mother, misrepresented by his lawyer and is certifiably insane.

The case of Alex Williams is a catalogue of the caprice, injustice and irrationality inherent in capital punishment. Not that Williams is innocent. In a recent, if rare, moment of lucidity, he wrote a letter apologizing for the 1986 murder of Aleta Bunch, a 16-year-old South Carolina girl whom he abducted from an Augusta, Ga., shopping mall.

But if capital punishment is intended to inflict upon the condemned the same horror his victim felt, there is no point in executing the 32-year-old Williams. He is a lunatic, incapable of understanding the magnitude of the punishment he faces or the cruelty of the crime he committed. He is judged legally sane enough to be put to death only when he is force-fed anti-psychotic drugs.

Diagnosed with chronic paranoid schizophrenia, he once attacked his attorney because he saw "a little red man" in his lawyer's eyes; he crawls around on the floor of his cell to converse with imaginary frogs and rats; he believes a spirit stole his left eye and replaced it with a shell; and he places Sigourney Weaver at the head of a pantheon of goddesses he worships.

If capital punishment is supposed to fall on the shoulders of those whose maturity makes them fully responsible for their crimes, then Williams should not be put to death. He was 17 years old at the time of the crime, not yet mature enough to drink or even vote.

If the courts are to live up to their promise of equal justice for rich and poor alike, then Williams ought to be spared. Had he been affluent, his family would have hired a competent attorney who would have made sure the jury knew of his history of mental illness — documented before the murder — and a childhood scarred by physical torture (his mother once used a hammer to pound a screwdriver into his toes, among other cruelties) and fiendish psychological abuse (his mother sometimes locked him out of the house, naked, in broad daylight).

As it was, Williams, born poor, was represented by a court-appointed attorney who made no effort to present the mitigating circumstances. Indeed, the lawyer's incompetence was such that he was later stricken from the rolls of attorneys called the race. "What I bring to the table is sound leadership and sound judgment," said Bates, whose fliers to registered Republican voters included silhouettes of two people as if they were own a popular quiz show and were being asked: "Is that your final answer?"

Inside the campaign letter, Bates asks Van Der Weide:

- "Doesn't it seem improper, Mr. Van Der Weide, that you cost Seminole County citizens $17,000 or more by suing your own Board's Chief Financial Officer because she won't pay $1,100 of your European travel expenses for which you can't produce receipts?" Bates asks.

- "Wasn't it an obvious conflict of interest when you, a Seminole County Commissioner, took a job in Volusia County which paid you to draw businesses, tourists and their dollars to Volusia's hotels and motels to the possible detriment of Seminole County's economy and tax base?"

Bates said he wants to debate, but Van Der Weide keeps "ducking." The two were scheduled for a panel show on WMFE-TV, but Van Der Weide said he could not attend. (He was taped later).

Van Der Weide, a narrow winner over Bates in a straw vote at the Seminole County Hob Nob (45 percent to 39 percent), remains confident he'll be re-elected. He's sending constituents campaign postcards with a picture of him paddling three grandchildren in a canoe.

Awaiting the winner of the Bates-Van Der Weide contest are former County Commissioner Win Adams, who is running on the Non-Party ticket, and Libertarian Zea Proctor.

Daryl McLain, the two-term incumbent in District 5, and opponent Bob West did a TV panel show, squabbling on and off the air. Don Nicholas is also running in the District 5 commission race which, McLain predicts will be over on Sept. 5.

"There won't be a run-off, I'm going to win," he said.

Whoever the Republican winner is in the District 5 primary will face Libertarian Franklin Perez, Non-Party candidate David Albert and Democrat Dean Ray in the November general election.

Grant Maloy, a surprise winner four years ago in District 3, faces a serious challenge from Tom Hagood in the primary. Stephanie Smith is also entered. Hagood, a commissioner from Oviedo, won in a recent straw poll at the Seminole County Hob Nob. Experts expect there will be a run-off between Maloy and Hagood.

The Republican winner in District 3 will face Democrat Andrew Van Gaale and Libertarian James Coakley in the November election.

Bob Goff and Larry Furlong are trying to hold on to their School Board seats. Goff is challenged by Dede Schaffner, who is part of the school administration. Furlong is opposed by Sylvia Pond. Both winners will be decide in the Primary voting.

Circuit Judge Debra Nelson is expected to defeat Sylvia A. Grunor in the Group 10 Primary and Judge Tom Freeman to defeat Norman Levin on Group 11. Jeff Deen and Mark Herr are the candidates for County Judge Group 3.

Waterfront

Betty Giles, who has lived on Riverview Avenue for 20 years, is also concerned about the drainage.

"Whenever it rains, that water comes from Highway 46 across our land to Lake Monroe," Giles said. "The land is also lower than the lake, so if the lake is up, the water sits on our property until the lake goes down. Just look at the hospital. During the rainy season they can't use their parking lot for weeks until the lake goes down low enough to drain all the water away."

Murray says the development will improve the drainage.

"This will totally change the permeability of the land," he said. "We're going to stop that water flow from going to other areas because this development will keep it self contained. If the water from this land is contained, that solves a lot of these folks problems."

Benny Austin, a resident on Palm Drive said the number of homes Murray plans to build is inappropriate for the surrounding neighborhood.

"I'm not as concerned with the water as some of them are," Austin said. "I just think that is too many houses to build. I have 200 feet of frontage, and if he builds that many house, I'll have three directly behind me and two to the south of me."

Austin said he understands development will come, but like many home owners, he is unsure how much growth is good for the community.

"Sometimes you hate to see your neighborhood grow so fast," Austin said. "But then, everything else is growing so fast around here. This has been pasture land since we've been here."

Commissioners will debate how much growth is good for the community when they take up the proposed land-use policies in a first reading of the city's new Comprehensive Plan. A key element in the plan is the creation of a Waterfront/Downtown Business District (WDBD) that includes 411 acres of public and private property along the Lake Monroe waterfront from Mellonville Avenue to Interstate 4.

The WDBD designation would allow mixed-use development, including residential, retail, recreation and governmental. A key element of the WDBD proposal is the substantial increase in the allowable density, which could be as high as 50 residential units per acre, allowing developers to build high-rise structures along the waterfront.

The purpose of the WDBD designation, according to the Comprehensive Plan is to:

- Generate a revitalization effort that attracts private sector investment and strengthens the city's economy.
- Establish the district as a regional center.
- Strength public/private partnerships.
- Enhance the livability of North Seminole County by encouraging improved residential, retail, education, cultural and entertainment opportunities.

- Provide a framework for redevelopment and infill.

Giles said the proposed Venetian Bay development along with the creation of the WDBD designation could drastically change the city's waterfront atmosphere.

"We could have jammed up next to each other just like Daytona Beach," Giles said. "I'm not against development, but who does the development benefit — the developers or the people?"

upon to provide indigent defense in Richmond County (Augusta), Ga.

Five jurors have said recently that if they had known about Williams' traumatic childhood and mental illness, they would not have handed down a sentence of death. In an affidavit, juror Stephen Dickson said:

"(Williams' attorney) did nothing to change the prosecution's depiction of Alex as an unfeeling young man who chose to do evil. ... Faced with nothing to help me understand who Alex was, or how he had come to be capable of such violence, I resigned myself to accepting the prosecutor's portrayal. ... For years, I have harbored a silent regret over my role in that jury room."

Originally scheduled for an Aug. 24 execution, Williams has been granted a temporary stay by the Georgia Supreme Court. The reprieve gives Georgians the chance to think over Dickson's words and reconsider Williams' execution.

Are we so hard-hearted that we see value in taking the life of a man who has only occasional flirtations with sanity? Are we so callous that we cannot be satisfied unless we kill a man whom fate has already condemned? Isn't placing Williams behind bars for life sufficient punishment for his deeds and protection for society?

Executing Williams would not bring back the pretty young Aleta, or guarantee an end to her family's understandable nightmares. It would serve only to highlight America's place among the few pariah nations that execute the young and mentally handicapped.

The Way We Were: Bridge is the name of the game in 1922

Today you will learn more about happenings in Sanford in 1922 taken from the May 31, 1922 edition of the Sanford Daily Herald.

Evening Bridge Club Meets
Mrs. George Knight had entertained the Evening Bridge Club at her attractive home on Magnolia Avenue the previous evening.

Quantities of Shasta daisies and snap dragons were used in charming profusion in the rooms where the card tables were arranged.

High score among the ladies was made by Mrs. E.F. Housholder, who was presented silk lingerie, while Judge Housholder was high scorer among the men and was given Thermos cups.

Following the awarding of the prizes, the hostess served a tempting salad course.

Those enjoying the evening were Dr. and Mrs. S. Puleston, Judge and Mrs. E.F. Housholder, Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. F.E. Roumillat, Mrs. D.L. Thrasher, Dr. Ralph Stevens, Mrs. D.P. Drummond and Col. Knight.

Duplicate Bridge Club Meets

Mrs. R.A. Newman was the hostess the previous day at a bridge party at her home on Fourth Street. The guests included members of the Duplicate Bridge Club and one extra table of players.

The rooms were decorated with Shasta daisies and ferns.

At 1 p.m., a four-course luncheon was served, after which several games of duplicate bridge were played. The prizes of silk lingerie were won by Mrs. Frank Miller and Mrs. E.F. Housholder.

Those enjoying the afternoon were the Mesdames George DeCottes, Forrest Lake, Deane Turner, D.L. Thrasher, Frank Miller, E.M. Galloway, B.W. Herdon, E.F. Housholder, A.P. Connelly, F.E. Roumillat and S. Puleston.

hard work put into it by the artist.

The piano used in the musicale was loaned by the J.H. Hintermister Piano Company of Sanford and was one of the celebrated Lester Pianos which added greatly to the success of the program.

There were several interesting advertisements on the newspaper, and I'll give you a few of them:

Routh's Bakery

This bakery was advertising Sanford Maid products by saying, "Why buy out of town when Sanford Maid can't be beat." Pound cake was 35 cents, layer cake was 30 cents, nut layer cake was 35 cents. This bakery was located next to the Princess Theater on West First Street.

Clyde Line

This was a large display ad telling of Summer Excursions on the Clyde Line. They Clyde Steamship Company had offices in both Jacksonville and Sanford. J.B. Calder was the Sanford agent.

The trips being advertised were from Jacksonville to New York and return for $59.18. This included excellent meals and stateroom accommodations. One could upgrade for an additional cost and receive such amenities as larger staterooms and suites. Some came with double beds and private baths.

Tickets would be on sale May 15 through Sept. 30; sailing would be every Monday, Thursday and Saturday at 2 p.m. on one of these steamships: the Mohawk, the Commanche, the Apache or the Lenape.

One could also sail from Sanford to Jacksonville and return for only $10, which included meals and stateroom berth. This was touted as "A daylight and searchlight trip on the Beautiful St. Johns River."

Lake Mary Amusement Casino opens

George E. Phillips, owner and manger, was announcing in a large display ad the opening of the Lake Mary Amusement Casino on Thursday evening June 1 at 8 p.m.

It was advertised as the coolest resort in Florida with the finest dance floor south of Jacksonville (85 feet by 45 feet).

Music would be by the Orlando Country Club six-piece orchestra on Monday and Wednesday nights. There would be dancing classes — waltz and one-step — five lessons for $5.

There was a fine, hard, white sand beach, 600 feet long, with no alligators. There was also a 190-foot fishing pier. There were 150 dressing rooms available, with a room, suit and towel renting for 50 cents. You could also rent boats.

For the little ones, there was a safety pool and other playthings for their amusement.

Mr. Phillips motto was "A strictly respectable resort for respectable people." He said this was just the spot for outing, picnics and fish fries. He invited everyone to come and get acquainted; you would find him a subservient host.

Munson Musicales Revisited

In this write-up, the Herald was apologizing for leaving out the name of Miss Fannie Reba Munson in a previous article about the Munson Musicales. In addition to the apology, the article went on to praise Miss Munson by saying that she had played one of the most difficult, as well as one of the best pieces on the program.

The number was called the "Polaise," by Mac Dowell, and Miss Munson gave it a real artistic touch. The music lovers present realized what a difficult piece it was and all the

FSU can repeat as No. 1

A shortened preview

Seminole dominates, but Mother Nature puts on a show

By H.W. Siner
 NEA SPORTS

NEW YORK - College football's two best teams of the 1990s are likely to clash for the national title at the Orange Bowl on Jan. 3, 2001. Defending champ Florida State figures to edge Nebraska.

Going into the 2000 season (The Pigskin Classic: Florida State vs. BYU is today [Saturday] and the Kickoff Classic: Southern Cal vs. Penn State, is Sunday), here are the major contenders for the top spot (ranked in their approximate order of strength).

1. FLORIDA STATE: With No. 1 finishes in 1993 and 1999, the Seminoles led Division I-A teams during the decade by posting a win percentage of .893 (109-13). For 13 years in a row, FSU has finished in the Top 4.

Coach Bobby Bowden has 14 starters back from last season's 12-0 team, including 28-year-old senior QB Chris Weinke, a Heisman Trophy candidate. Other star vets: RB Travis Minor, LB Tommy Polley and DE Jamal Reynolds.

2. NEBRASKA: The Cornhuskers, second best over the past 10 seasons at 108-16-1 (.868), won national crowns in 1994 and 1995. They shared another in 1997. Now coach Frank Solich has 20 starters back from a 12-1 team.

Behind top-ranked blockers, QB Eric Crouch (16 rushing touchdowns in 1999) and WR Bobby Newcombe (3 TD catches) are dangerous. LB Carlos Polk and E Kyle Vanden Boesch anchor the defense. The special teams really are.

3. WISCONSIN: Coming off back-to-back Rose Bowl wins, the Badgers, under coach Barry Alvarez, are counting on defense. They return eight starting defenders, including CB Jamar Fletcher and T Wendell Bryant.

At center, Casey Rabach tops the vet blockers for play-action QB Brooks Bollinger, the Big Ten freshman of the year in 1999. RB Michael Bennett succeeds Heisman winner Ron Dayne. Plus: The kicking is strong.

4. KANSAS STATE: Like Wisconsin, K-State features defense and special teams. Unlike the Badgers, it has an easy schedule. The stumbling block for coach Bill Snyder's Wildcats is at home Nov. 11 vs. Nebraska.

SS Jarod Cooper, LB Ben Leber and DT Mario Fatafeh are returning stars. So is K Jamie Rheem. Likewise, KR-RB David Allen (the NCAA's best punt returner), WRs Aaron Lockett and Quincy Morgan are threats, too.

5. VIRGINIA TECH: Heisman hopeful Michael Vick, the NCAA's pass efficiency leader, directs the attack. Key weapons: WR Andre Davis and RB Andre Kendrick. OLs Dave Kadela and Matt Lehr lead the blocking.

Good thing the schedule isn't tough. Hokies coach Frank Beamer lost eight defensive starters. That includes the entire DL, two LBs and both CBs. Safety Cory Bird is the only defender still starting at his old spot.

6. MICHIGAN: No team in Division I-A can match Michigan's all-time record of 798 victories. Not even Notre Dame (767 wins), which is second-best. Coach Lloyd Carr has won 49 games in five years with the Wolverines.

His only unproven skill-position player is QB Drew Henson. TB Anthony Thomas (1,297 yards, 17 TDs) carries the load. WR David Terrell is back. Blockers Steve Hutchinson and Jeff Backus are solid. Defense is a worry.

7. ALABAMA: Roll, Tide? Roll. Freddie In 'Bama's SEC title victory, Freddie Milons lined up at ORLANDO - The Seminole High School football team put on a dominating, albeit short, performance for the fans against host Jones High School in the Pigskin Classic at the Florida Citrus Bowl Friday night.

Playing in the huge (90,000 seat) facility did not seem to faze the Fighting

Seminole, who did not allow the Tigers to get past their own 35-yard line and scored both times they had the ball.

But the small crowd was treated to only 11:08 of football as lightning forced the game to be suspended with 0:52 left on the clock in the first quarter.

At first it was decided to wait until 8:30 p.m. to make a decision, but a weather reported said that a hail storm was headed for Orlando and the game was canceled with the Tribe leading 10-0.

Seminole head coach Jim Worthington was fairly pleased with his team's play, but did not want to see the rains come.

"We're disappointed that we had to stop and not get the whole game in," said Worthington. "We needed this work to get ready for a great team like Lake Mary."

Seminole will host the Rams in the season opener next Friday night at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium starting at 7:30 p.m.

Matt Groover showed right from the start that the Fighting Seminoles place-kicking game is in good shape as the junior nailed the opening kickoff out of the end zone.

The Seminole defense then held Jones to no yards on three plays and took over on its own 46 after the punt.

Oviedo rained out in debut

By Tony DeBormier
 HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER PARK - Oviedo High School's football preseason last-ed all of 8:31.

That's how far the Oviedo Lions and the Winter Park Wildcats were into the first quarter of their Preseason Pigskin Classic in Larry Gergley Stadium at Showalter Field Friday night before the officials sent both teams off the field because of lightning.

The meteorological conditions just got worse - and in a hurry - from there.

After about a half an hour, it was apparent that the field would be in no condition to be played on any more that evening (or Saturday evening, for that matter). It then became a matter of waiting out the stubborn cell of thunderstorms so that the small crowd still left in the stadium could leave safely.

According to Oviedo coach Greg Register, the game will not be played. With Oviedo High School's Open House scheduled for Monday night, there is not enough time to get the game in and allow the Lions time to prepare for next Friday's season opener at Lyman (7:30 p.m. at the Carlton Henley Sports Complex).

Winter Park was leading the game 14-0 at the time of the interruption.

The Wildcats took the opening kickoff and moved 79 yards on eight plays, scoring on a 17-yard touchdown pass from Steve Moffet to Ryan Terry. Steve Harrar's attempt on the point-after kick was wide.

Winter Park scored again less than three minutes later when defensive back Tray Wright picked off a pass by Oviedo quarterback Brett Murphy and returned it 26 yards for a touchdown. Lantres Jones rushed for the two-point conversion and a 14-0 Winter Park lead with 8:34 remaining in the opening quarter.

Oviedo responded with an 11-play drive that covered 65 yards. Nick Tenekedes completed the drive when he pulled in a 10-yard scoring pass from Murphy. Tenekedes bobbled the ball then caught it and, according to the official, held on to it long enough before a tackle from behind knocked the ball loose.

Three big plays accounted for most of the yards in the drive. The first was a 14-yard run by punter Steve Asby, who got the ball after a bad snap and turned it into a first-down rush. On the next play, Winter Park was whittled for a 15-yard unopposed like conduct penalty.

Finally, an 18-yard pass from Murphy to Dwayne Allen set up the Lions at the Winter Park 10-

LAKE MARY/LYMAN TO TRY AGAIN TODAY

 LAKE MARY - Things started off very happily for Lake Mary Friday night as their cheerleaders jump for joy (right) after the Rams scored on the first play of the game.
 Lyman answered with a touchdown run of its own on the Greyhounds' first play, but moments later referees Don Jonas (dark hat, middle photo) and George Lawson (white hat) and Lake Mary booster Bo Kessler were forced into the concession stand as a severe storm (top) raged over the field and forced suspension of the Pigskin Classic until 5 p.m. today (Saturday) at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Williams caps off big weekend with win at New Smyrna

By Hank Sanders
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

SAMSULA - It was a big weekend for past champion Mike Williams as he finished second to Dick Anderson on Friday in the SunBelt Super Late Model Series at Orlando, and came back to win in Bobby Sears' #9 Ace Hardware car Saturday night in the Late Model feature at New Smyrna Speedway.

Randy Dye's #43 Country 93.1/Speedway Dodge Avenger came away with the runner-up spot ahead of rookie challenger Chad Pierce in the #57 Biscuits and Gravy/ASM Chevy. Chad Allman was fourth over Phil Bessette's #17 Pontiac.

The SARA modifieds paid a special visit and Robert Ham took advantage of Jerry Symon's running out of fuel to get the hard fought win. Dewayne Lawhon finished second ahead of Larry Martin, Rusty Dixon and Steve Perez.

Check out all the details at the SARA website: www.sararacing.com.

Veteran Ted Vulpius in the Greener Side Up Pinto added to his long list of wins in the Mini-Stock feature as he managed to finish ahead of rookie Marty Pierce in the #75 BBM Mustang. Rookie (14-year old) Eric Powell got a career best third, with Charlie Statts and Ron Dubeau rounding out the top 5.

Bob Andercheck's #90 KOA/Marines Camaro looked like a potential winner in the Sportman feature, but a bad fuel cell cap cost him the black flag and the race.

This let veteran racer Tommy Johnson roar his way to his first win of the 2000 season in the Edelman Air/B&K Auto Monte Carlo. Bill Fuller ran strong in the #43 to take second over Heat winner Steve Reddit in the #1 Pontiac. Randy Newby was back in a pretty #54 Daytona Beach Hilton Monte Carlo, and finished fourth. David Meyers was fifth at the stripe.

The Super Stock feature again had a big field and was the crowd favorite as current point leader Charlie Merz from Daytona, who experienced motor trouble last week, was back in fine form to get the dominating win over arch rival Jim Winterstein in the #13 Oldsmobile!

Mike Soucup is steadily getting stronger in the #45, and ran a strong third ahead of Ted Helm's #61 Buick and "The Lady's Man, King of the Doll House", Homer Gordon's #22.

Strictly Stock had a first time winner as Brett Brown got the victory over Richard Boulton, Kerry "two-barrel" Payne, Carl Smith, and Rod Moss.

Tonight (Saturday, August 26th) the Allison Legacy Cars will take to the track along with regulars...

SEMINOLE PONY MEETING

FIVE POINTS - Seminole PONY Baseball will be holding its annual meeting on Sunday, August 27th at 8 p.m. at the Seminole PONY Complex at 1400 State Road 419 between 19-92 and 434.

The public is invited.
For more information call 407-323-5570.

FAST PITCH PLAYERS NEEDED

DELTONA - The Deltona Red Hots, a 12-and-Under girls fast pitch softball traveling team is looking for players for the fall tournament season.

Players must not have turned 13 before January 1, 2000.
For more information call Mary Palmer at 407-322-1899.

Poll

WR (his usual spot), RB, KR, PR — even at QB. During the season, he set a school record for receptions (65).

Coach Mike DuBose's real QBs — Andrew Zow and Tyler Watta — play in back of a Great Wall. Blockers Dante Ellington and Paul Hogan excel. DLs Kindel Moorehead and Kenny King hit hard. LB Saleem Rasheed hits harder.

8. TEXAS: Coach Mack Brown might do a two-step. Nobody else has a pair of QBs as good as Major Applewhite and Chris Simms. Hodges Mitchell totaled 1,600 yards running (mostly) and catching.

For the Longhorns, DLs Casey Hampton and Shaun Rogers form another dynamic duo. Half of the 18 returning UT starters are defenders. The schedule — they don't face Nebraska or Kansas State — isn't overwhelming.

9. SOUTHERN CAL: Ten starters from USC's big-play defense are back. It led the nation in takeaways last season (39). No wonder coach Paul Hackett is hoping for better days after going 14-11 in two years with the Trojans.

Star DLs Ennis Davis and Sultan

Abdul-Malik get support from LBs Zeke Moreno and Markus Steele. On offense, QB Carson Palmer (returning from a broken collar bone) throws to WR Kareem Kelly. The tailbacks aren't stars.

10. MIAMI: Happy days? Here again? Perhaps. But coach Butch Davis (39-19 in five years at UM) knows the real score. The Hurricanes haven't beaten either Florida State or Virginia Tech since 1994.

Young QB Ken Dorsey has help at skill positions. WRs Santana Moss and Reggie Wayne are tops. RB James Jackson is nearly as good. On defense, LB Dan Morgan and FS Al Blades lead nine returning starters.

BEST OF THE REST: Tennessee, Penn State, Florida, Michigan State, Southern Mississippi, Texas A&M, Purdue, Georgia, Ohio State, Oregon.

yard line. An incomplete pass later, Murphy and Tenekedes hooked up.

In the abbreviated contest, Oviedo had 26 yards rushing and 28 yards passing. Asby's 14-yard rush led the Lions. Drew Bailey-Barnett had three carries for eight yards while Tenekedes picked up four yards on a carry.

Murphy was 2-for-8 throwing the ball with an interception.

Winter Park amassed 62 yards in rushing, Moffet carrying the ball three times for 51 yards while Jones gained 11 yards on four carries. Terry's 17-yard touchdown catch was the only pass thrown by Winter Park.

flushed and somehow found a receiver, gave Jones its first, first down of the game.

But after a two-yard run and an incomplete pass, the Tigers quarterback tried to roll out, but John Litton got to him and as he was going down, tried to throw the ball away, but it went right to Diron Torain, who returned the interception to the 15.

Three plays advanced the ball to the one, from where Locke dove in for the touchdown, and Groover's PAT made the score 10-0 with 1:40 left in the first quarter.

Jones finally got to return a kick, but still only got to the 26-yard line and after one play, the lightning came to put a halt to the action.

"I thought we executed pretty well," said Worthington. "But we did have two holding penalties and that's not good."

Bennett finished with 25 yards on five carries, while Hunter had 24 yards on four carries and Locke had one yard on one attempt.

Locke was also 1-for-3 passing for 15 yards.

The Seminole defense finished the night allowing only another nine yards rushing on five plays and giving up 26 passing yards on two completions, on five attempts, and had an interception.

UCF on display tonight

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - The University of Central Florida football team held a "dress rehearsal" that focused on preparing for possible game scenarios in a two-hour practice Friday afternoon at the UCF practice fields.

The Golden Knights continue to prepare for their season opener coming up in just eight days in Atlanta against Georgia Tech (Saturday, September 2nd with kickoff at 7 p.m.).

UCF will conduct a full-practice at the Florida Citrus Bowl today (Saturday) at 8:30 p.m. (moved up from 7 p.m.) as part of the Golden Knights Classic. The Golden Knights had originally planned a full scrimmage for Saturday, but have decided to scale the outing back to a full practice.

The practice is open to the public. UCF head coach Mike Kruczek commented on the development of senior quarterback Vic Penn (Miami Senior High School) who heads into his second year running the Golden Knights offense. Penn passed for 3,078 yards last season, and Kruczek expects Penn's play to continue to improve.

"I think Vic has a stronger feel for the system this year (than going into last season)," said Kruczek. "Actually, the system is more extensive now than even when Daunte (Culpepper) was here. We've added to it in order to make us more effective as a team, and I think Vic will have an outstanding season this year."

Although several players are still banged up, no new injuries were reported on Friday. Offensive lineman Kurt Baumann (Chiefland High School), cornerback Travis Fisher (Tallahassee/Godby High School) and freshman running back Alex Haynes (Orlando/Evans High School) were all cleared to return to full-contact drills in practice.

Baumann had suffered from strained cartilage in his chest. Fisher had been limited by a lateral hip strain and Haynes had been hampered by a groin pull.

When to say goodbye to your old car

That old car sitting in your driveway doesn't look like much, but it's been hauling you around for years and you regard it as something of a trusted friend.

Now, however, your friend is showing its age, and ominous rattles seem to threaten sudden breakdowns and gargantuan repair bills.

Should you dump your pal and buy a new — or newer — car? Many people let their vehicle decide the old-car-vs.-new-car debate for them. As their road warrior closes in on 100,000 miles (or about eight years of typical use), owners tend to hang on until it breaks down or needs a major repair. But is it worth $1,000 or more for a new transmission or an engine job, when another costly failure could be a matter of months, weeks or hours away?

There's no easy answer, because so many variables come into play. Here, though, are some checkpoints to help you determine whether you and your old wheels have come to the end of your road together.

— Is it safe? Because there's no effective way to retrofit up-to-date safety features like air bags and antilock brakes in older cars that lack them, your first consideration in determining whether to keep a car or not should be: Is it safe to use? Typically, parents hand down their clunker to a teenager. Bad idea. Less experienced teen drivers have the highest death and injury rate of any group on the highway. Elderly drivers also have higher than average accident rates and are more vulnerable to injury. They, too, should choose a vehicle with as much safety equipment as they can afford.

— What's it worth? Most cars drop 15 to 20 percent in value after their first year on the road. Other milestones that herald a 5 to 10 percent fall in a vehicle's value are the expiration of its warranty — usually around three years or 36,000 miles — and 60,000 miles or so, when the timing belt may have to be replaced on some cars. At 80,000 miles, parts wear out and problems can show up in drivetrains — the engine-transmission system — resulting in another plunge in value. But once a car makes the 100,000-mile mark, the value hits a floor that slopes downward at a gentler rate. To check your vehicle's worth, consult the Consumer Reports Used Car Price Service — 800-258-0327 or www.ConsumerReports.org — where individual reports cost $10. Free price information is available from Kelley Blue Book (www.kbb.com) and IntelliChoice (www.intellichoice.com).

— How's it running? You may want to start thinking about an end-of-life strategy for your vehicle by the time it has between 75,000 and 80,000 miles on the odometer. An inspection should tell you what work, if any, your car needs immediately, and reveal the status of its major mechanical systems. And at that point, it may still have retained enough value to give you a plump down payment on newer wheels. You can get your car a good looking over at the garage that normally services it, but for a second opinion, you may want an assessment from a mechanic who doesn't have a financial stake in doing the repairs or in selling you a new car.

— Are there any fatal flaws? The inspection could uncover problems that ring a death knell for your car. As a general rule, any repair that costs more than the vehicle's trade-in value isn't worth making. Short of those problems, cars these days can be restored to health even if their engine and transmission are shot.

Whatever you decide — new car or old — experts say you can make your vehicle run longer by following manufacturers' maintenance schedules.

Eckerd's honors women volunteers

From staff reports

In an effort to salute extraordinary women volunteers, Eckerd Corporation is recognizing women in a number of communities in Florida. In all, nearly 2,700 store nominees are to be recognized for their dedication to hands-on volunteerism.

Nominated by Eckerd Drug Stores in Seminole County were Susan Lewis and Amelia Colon of Altamonte Springs, Shari Denaro, Rachel Mort, Louise Draper and Marilyn J. Middleton, all of Longwood, and Angela Adams and Olga Heck of Oviedo.

Each honoree will be given a certificate of recognition.

"The tireless volunteer efforts have made our communities a better place to live," said Mary Beth Fox, Director of Community Relations for Eckerd. "The Eckerd Salute to Women program is our way to encourage their volunteerism and say thank you for taking time to help."

From the 2,700 nominees, 100 women will be chosen as The Eckerd 100. Each winner will receive a $1,000 grant in her name to the nonprofit organization of her choice, an invitation to attend a symposium on volunteer and women's issues in Washington, D.C. in September. The decision will be announced Sept. 20.

necessary permits. As soon as that is accomplished, the existing drive-in facilities, never used by Federal Trust and left over from a previous banking establishment, are to be torn down.

"That will only take a few days," Brodnax said. "We expect construction will begin on the new facilities within 40 to 60 days. We are looking for a completion date of the end of this year, but definitely by the first quarter of next year."

EYI: Federal Trust Bank has been in existence since May 1988. Its first branch in Central Florida opened in 1990 in Winter Park.

The Sanford branch opened in October 1998. In addition to normal banking service, the FTB Financial Services Inc., offers mutual funds, stock, bonds, and other alternative investments.

Business at the Port

Sanford's success story

Port of Sanford Administrator Dennis Dolgner stands in front of one of the buildings at the port. The port is now more than 98 percent occupied and continues to grow. Herald photo by Tommy Vincent

The Port of Sanford is becoming the city's commerce center

By Nick Pfeiffaut
Staff Writer

With Sanford being an inland city, newcomers and visitors are often surprised that there is such a place as "The Port of Sanford." It's not a seaport where tankers and ocean-going passenger ships are docked, rather it is an inland port where commerce and industry co-exist with pleasure boats.

Dennis Dolgner serves as administrator, a post he has held for 22 years. Prior to that time, he was assistant Administrator at the port for four years.

Dolgner is extremely proud of the progress at the port, especially in the number of businesses filling the many buildings.

"Right now," he said, "we're at 98.9 percent occupancy and have been for the past six months. For the past five years, we have averaged better than 97 percent occupancy."

One of the reasons for the success is what is called the Incubator Program.

"We started this in 1975, when we decided to have multi-tenant buildings," Dolgner said. The concept was established to help small businesses share buildings, and often office services. "We wanted a place where they could afford to set up their businesses without the necessity of having to hire a secretarial staff, receptionist, and other needs," he explained.

The program is being accomplished through the assistance of Seminole Community College, cooperating with small businesses in what is called the Business Assistance Plan.

In late 1996, the first building for the Incubator Program was built. It was 12,000 square feet.

"We had it entirely booked six months before the building was finished," Dolgner said. Then, a second and larger building was built, and eventually, a third, with 22,500 square feet. SCC is using 10,500 square feet of it as a high-tech center with an office and laboratory, funded in part through a grant from NASA.

Hubcap king

David Lebeda takes pride in making cars look good

David Lebeda and his brother Steven, of Deltona, decided to go into business for themselves three years ago. Wanting to get away from the rat race and be able to spend more time with their families, the brothers decided to follow in the footsteps of their father, Les, and uncle, Joe. The name of their business is Hubcap City Central, and is located on Highway 17-92 in Sanford. If you haven't guessed by now, David and Steven are wheeling and dealing in the world of hubcaps, wheels, and tires.

Borrowing a little merchandise — and a lot of experience — from their father and uncle, the brothers converted a former bicycle shop into Hubcap City Central. Today, David and Steven are surrounded by more than 35,000 hubcaps and wheels.

Herald staff photographer, Arthur Zielinski, sat down and talked with David about how it feels to be "king of the hubcaps."

Q: What do you find so fascinating or rewarding about hubcaps?

A: I guess the personal satisfaction of making cars look good. You might find an old hubcap and think "I'll never sell this" and you end up selling it the next day. I also like dealing with the public — you never know who's going to walk through the door.

Q: What is the most expensive hubcap you own?

A: Well, the wire hubcaps sell for about $100 each. Some of the old ones from back in the '60s will average between $15 and $20. It depends on which one — meaning the ones that are hard to find will command a higher price.

Q: How do you find most of your hubcaps, especially the odd and hard to find ones?

A: They get to us in all sorts of ways. Trade. We go to junk yards. Highway workers — the people who cut the grass — bring them to us by the truck load. Sometimes I'll see one on the side of the road. I always stop — that could be $20 laying there, you never know. Sometimes they're broken, but you get lucky every once in a

What to do when a backsaw needs bite

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: Do you know of anyone who can retooil, set and sharpen a backsaw that has 18 teeth per inch?

Also, do you have an address for Locks of Love? I would like to cut my hair, and it would be such a waste not to put my long locks toward a good cause.

Do you know where I can get an antique cast-iron wood kitchen stove restored?

BRYNNE SCHRANTZ,
Ottsville, Pa.

DEAR BRYNNE: We suggest you go to a local lumberyard and ask if they know of anyone who sharpens handsaws. Chances are that they will, and that person will probably be able to retool and sharpen your saw.

For those of you who don't know, Locks of Love is a non-profit organization that provides hair prosthetics for children under the age of 18 who have developed long-term hair loss. The custom-fitted prosthetics are provided free of charge to deserving children whose parents or guardians can prove financial hardship. The guidelines for donated hair are:

The hair must be at least 10 inches long.
Hair should be washed and

Ask Ann & Nan

dried, then put in a ponytail or braid before it is cut.

Hair must be unprocessed (no color or perms).

Hair must be clean and dry before sending.

Hair swept from the floor is unusable.

Put hair into a plastic bag, then into a manila mailing envelope, and send it to Locks of Love at 1640 S. Congress Ave., Suite 104, Palm Springs, FL 33461; (888) 896-1588.

As for restoring your antique wood stove, we suggest you go to the Yellow Pages and look for "wood stove dealers." Ask if they know anyone in your area who does this kind of work.

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: I was wondering if you could help me. I'm a big Yankees fan, and there's no place around here to buy Yankees merchandise. Could you find an address for a catalog so that I could buy Yankees baseball caps and other things with the team's logo?

LINDA SESCO,
Mansfield, Ohio

DEAR LINDA: We found a Web site on the Internet where you can buy Major League Baseball items. Go to www.majorleaguebaseball.com, or call (800) 704-2937. They sell items with team logos, from hats to jerseys to coffee cups. Prices for hats run from $12.99 to $24.99. They don't publish a catalog, but you can give them a call and see if they have what you want. You can also buy Yankees merchandise at the Yankees' Web site at www.yankees.com. Most Major League Baseball teams sell team merchandise through their Web sites.

STUMPED: WHAT TO DO WITH DOG AND CAT POOP

Michelle Fields of Woodward, Okla., writes, "I am organically inclined, all the way down to having my very own compost pile in my backyard. My problem? I also have a cat that is stuck indoors (plenty of extra "litter") and an 82-pound dog that helps considerably with my organic refuse pile. I am not supposed to add these (they may carry disease) to my compost, nor am I supposed to add bones, meat, fat or fish. Any suggestions for these other byproducts?"

Write to "Ask Anne & Nan" at P.O. Box 240, Hartland, VT 05048. Our new book, "Clean It, Fix It, Find It," is ready. The price is $14.95 plus $4 shipping and handling. Mail your order to Enfield Distribution, P.O. Box 699, Enfield, NH 03748.

Lebeda

need a computer to keep track of all of them?

A: No. We don't use a computer, my brother and I keep it all in our heads. It looks like a mumbo jumbo, but there is a method to our madness. We know just about where everything is and can go right to it.

Q: Do you consider collecting hubcaps more of a hobby or a business?

A: Definitely a business. We sell a lot of hubcaps to people who collect them, or a business like McDonald's that will use them as decoration.

Q: After three years in the business, and growing up working with your father and uncle, do you ever get tired of looking at all these hubcaps?

A: The business is doing great. It's nice to work with my brother, it takes a lot of the stress out of the business. The trust is there. Right now we're trying to build up the business so we can spend more time with our families. Our main goal is to create a good family life.

Port

The Port of Sanford is an entity all its own. Dolgner said it's a special agency, a public corporation, created by state statute in 1965. The port has not taken any Seminole County tax money for 19 years and is completely self-sustaining.

"In fact, we turn approximately $30,000 a year back to the county each year. We present our annual budget to the county, but they have no control over us," he said.

The operating budget at the present time is $1.3 million. The port will make a profit of 35 to 40 percent this year, and for the past five years has made better than a 30 percent average profit.

Listed among major building lease tenants are Acme Industries Inc., Aqua Dynamics Molds Inc., Port of Sanford Boat & RV Storage Inc., Water Specialists Environmental Tech., Florida Extruders International, and Featherlite Luxury Coaches. Featherlite, doing business as Vantare, is believed to be the largest single employer at the port. The company builds, services and sells motor coaches and RV vehicles.

The Port of Sanford is located on the St. Johns River, off Orange Blvd., just west of Interstate-4. It occupies a total of 125 acres of land, with 70 acres actually usable.

The port is overseen by a nine member board of directors, eight citizen/business leaders and one member of the Seminole County Commission.

The wedding ceremony was held in Apopka's Errol Estate Country Club. Matt Ullman presided over the ceremony.

Carl Tipton and Jeff Futrell gave the bride away in marriage before she recited vows she wrote. She wore a two piece white straight dress that tied in the back. It had appliques on the top along the shoulders.

The bride's headpiece was a rhinestone tiara with a long veil, and her round hand-tied bouquet included white and lavender roses.

The matron of honor was Tisha Futrell, who wore a lavender dress and carried a bouquet of lavender roses and daisies.

Bridesmaid Shauna Greer wore a lavender dress and carried a bouquet similar to the Seminole County Historical Society Vice President Cecil Tucker points to a portion of blue prints for the proposed Seminole County Historical Complex. The Society is traveling to Tallahassee to obtain grant-funding for the project, which should be completed in two years.

Harris celebrates 95th birthday with party

Hannah "Leslie" Harris was surprised with a 95th birthday dinner in her honor recently. She was born August 14, 1905, in Orangeburg, S.C., the daughter of the late Samuel and Essie Cheeseboro.

Surprising her mother was Mrs. Harris' daughter, Ernestine Williams of Jacksonville, along with niece Julia Davis, and nephew Willie Fred Cannon of Melbourne. The Rev. R.T. Davis was master of ceremonies for the joyous occasion, when over 75 family members and friends gathered to honor this great lady on such a grand day in her life.

Her grandsons' presence was indeed a great joyous moment in the life of Mrs. Harris. She is the mother of three children, two deceased, and a loving daughter. Sharing all of the surprised joy with their grandmother were her grandsons and their wives, grandson Curtis Hall (wife Debra) of St. Louis, Mo., Melvis Hall (wife, Gloria), of Columbus, Ga., Jimmie Hall of Oakland, Calif. A program of praise and honor was dedicated to Mrs. Harris. The birthday message was delivered by her grand-nephew Pastor Fredrick Cannon of Cocoa. Musical renditions by Cannon Crew of Cocoa.

Out of town guests were Harris' sister Margie Patterson of Bartow, as well as family and friends from Miami, Jay, Jacksonville, Tampa, Palm Bay and Sanford.

Harris is the grandmother of 13 grands, 13 great-grands and two great-great-grands.

Historical Society traveling to Tallahassee in hopes of obtaining grant

Children learn from reading about history. But, they learn more and remember more when you involve their senses.

The Seminole County Historical Museum will soon be the Seminole County Historical Complex. Children will be able to see the way celery was grown in the county. There will also be a gazebo, a tractor and wagon display, a barn building with agricultural equipment, a cane mill, a syrup kettle and more. And, they will be expanding the transportation area.

The project is starting immediately with completion scheduled in about two years. This concept will be unique in Central Florida. A major addition will be an archival room for negatives and important documents. Currently, those are being stored elsewhere.

The museum complex will also have a room for traveling exhibits, such as the Smithsonian exhibit that is coming to the Lake Mary Museum next year.

Cecil Tucker, the vice president of the Seminole County Historical Society provided an update on the project to society members at their August meeting. The society is very fortunate to have had the full support of the Seminole County Commission with this project.

The society is seeking to expand their support and bring in a grant in the process.

Members of the society will be heading for Tallahassee on Tuesday, Sept. 19, to meet with a state grant committee and hopefully persuade them the complex is worthy of a $250,000 grant. The society is inviting all interested parties to travel with them to Tallahassee for support. They will be taking a bus to the capital.

The cost of the bus trip is $45 per person (less if a lot of people come). The group will be staying at the Cabot Lodge. If you're interested in taking the trip to support the society contact any of the society members or call the Seminole County Historical Museum.

The deadline for reservations is Aug. 30.

After the great news about the historical complex, Society President Charlie Carlson introduced speaker Bill Dreggors, executive director of the DeLand Museum. Bill's family, Charlie said, came to Florida before Spanish moss. Like Charlie, Bill was also in "The Blair Witch" movie.

Bill is a folk historian who came to talk to the society about the "Ghost Towns" of the St. Johns River.

There are many small towns that once thrived along the river. Some have vanished without a trace, some have left only a few remnants to mark their passing. Bill told the members about three such towns, Hawkinsville, Crow's Bluff and St. Francis. He showed slides of what the St. Johns River used to look like. It's a far cry from what it looks like today.

The banks of the St. Johns has eroded back, in some places as far as 14 feet because the Army Corp of Engineers took out all the hyacinths in the river. Now there is nothing to protect the banks from the wave action of the boats, so the banks are eroding.

There were a dozen packing houses around DeLand in the old days where workers could earn up to 75 cents a day packing oranges. Now there are none.

At the old St. Francis site, not even a brick remains of the old packing house that used to stand on the river. St. Francis was a thriving town in the late 1800s. The St. Francis hotel burned in 1909.

Little native heritage remains on the St. Johns River. There are still some mysteries from the old days. In the early 1900s, there was a colony of Japanese living near St. Francis. The entire colony disappeared overnight. No one knows what happened to them. Members of the colony were good workers who were well liked, so everyone was taken by surprise.

Bill had a great slide of an old car with a license plate on it. It had just three raised numbers. In Florida, Bill said, all of the counties had their own tags until 1917 when the state began making tags. Unlike the county tags, which had raised numbers, the state tags were just painted. A lot of people caught on after seeing their friends or neighbor's tags and began painting their own tags. The next year, the state went to raised letters.

Crow's Bluff and Hawkinsville were once decent size towns with a healthy population base.

One of Crow's Bluff's residents was a man named Hardin. Hardin came to Florida from New Jersey because of his arthritis. He was a gun collector and soldier of fortune. He was also relatively well off. Although the town he lived in is gone forever, his way of life and the town are documented in pictures from the era.

Bill has compiled many of the pictures into a videotape he narrates with stories about the old ghost towns. If you're interested, contact the DeLand Museum for a copy.

Eyeful turns to earful after woman blabs

DEAR ABBY: I am a 66-year-old woman, married 48 years. We own a family farm not far from our home, which we share with our daughter and her husband, who are in their 40s. We are a close family and always have been. The farmhouse is old and has never been updated, so my son-in-law has built a shower outside. He works hard when we are there, mowing, etc., and the shower works better for him than a tub bath.

Recently I was sitting in a lawn chair not too far from the shower, and he came in from hours on the tractor in the hot sun and commented that he was going to take a shower. I didn't think he meant just then, but looked up to see him naked in the water. I didn't really mind — I wasn't offended. Besides, he's a good-looking man, and I'm happy for my daughter. He obviously didn't mind and wasn't the least bit inhibited.

I later mentioned the incident to a group of my friends when we were discussing in-laws. They were very upset with me. They called me a "voyeur" and said I should have excused myself immediately.

Help, Abby. What have I done wrong?

CONFUSED IN HOUSTON

DEAR CONFUSED: You blabbed the story to your friends. Everything was just fine until then. It's a wise person who learns from her mistakes.

DEAR ABBY: I hope my letter will benefit others.

I am going to be 50 next year, and recently started a job in a 22-story office building. I have never been self-motivated when it comes to exercise. However, I recently hit on the idea of using the stairwell in my office building to get regular exercise, and it is working out very well.

I arrive at work half an hour early and change into shorts and a T-shirt in the washroom. Then I go to the stairwell, and walk up all 22 stories, take the freight elevator down to the bottom and do it again.

Sometimes I do it a third time if I have the time and energy to spare. Just walking up gets my heart really pumping, so I thought your readers might appreciate this idea. It's cost-free, convenient and not time-consuming — unlike going to the club after work.

Because I don't perspire much, I just wipe myself down with a wet paper towel, dry myself with another one, change my underwear, get dressed and go in to work. I am so awake and alive by the time I start the day — I recommend this to anyone.

The challenge each day is whether I can do it faster than the day before, and there is a real sense of accomplishment when I reach the top. I feel this would not be the case if I just ran around the block a couple of times.

FIT AND HAPPY IN TORONTO

DEAR F AND H: I commend you for your commitment to personal fitness. However, your regimen could be dangerous to anyone with an undiagnosed heart condition. Those who decide to try it should first consult their doctor about having a stress test.

May I also suggest that most people who exercise strenuously tend to perspire profusely (perhaps more than you think) — and a sponge bath with a damp paper towel may not be enough to deal with the problem. Out of consideration for your fellow employees, perhaps you should consider running the stairs after work instead of before to avoid the possibility of offending anyone. (Whew!)
