Raines Expected To Sign With National League Today

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Tim Raines, a free agent since January after six All-Star seasons with the Montreal Expos, is expected to sign a major-league contract today with a National League team, the Herald has

The source, who requested to remain anonymous, said "everybody will be surprised at the choice of the team." The source did disclose it was a National League team and "we will be able to see more of him.

Raines, agent Tom Reich and the team's representative negotiated the contract late Wednesday night and the source said the team's representative "would fly in" to complete the deal Thursday afternoon.

Raines is presently in Sarasota and was not available for comment.

Reich has talked with Houston, Atlanta, San Diego and Los Angeles of the National League's West Division. Raines has said he prefers a warm weather site.

Lately, however, Raines has grown frustated with the lack of progress in negotiations with the West Division teams and said he "wouldn't mind playing with the Chicago Cubs."

The Cubs and the Braves both have Super Stations, which would qualify the source's statement of "we will be able to see more of him."

The Cubs also signed Raines' former teammate and best friend Andre Dawson earlier this year.

Raines led the N.L. in hitting last year with a .334 average. He earned $1.5 million with Montreal and said he would not play for "much less" than that figure this year.

Alternate Site Sought For Children's Home

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

Judge Kenneth Leffler's proposed site for an emergency shelter for abused and neglected children near the county jail and juvenile detention center at Five Points was deemed inappropriate by a majority of the county com-mission, but the commissioners agreed to look for an alternate.

In a 3-1 vote Tuesday the Seminole County Commission rejected a request to give the property for the home. Commission Chairman Fred Streetman voted against the motion to deny.

An alternate site was proposed near the county sewage treatment plant off Dike Road in south Seminole. The commission will hold a work session on finding a suitable site at their April 14 meeting.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen moved for the denial because she felt land around the jail and county opera-tions complex would be needed for county use in the future and the site near the jail and detention center was inappropriate for these abused

"The only problem I have is that with everything going on in there, it will not be a good site near the jail and juvenile center." she said. "And with the way the county is growing we are going to have to expand some of the facilities ourd need about 11/2 acres, "and that's just not proper planning."

She suggested "a nice site" would be near the county sewage treatment punt of Dike Road, even though it is not as centrally located as Leffler's group's first choice. Leffler is with the Sharing Concern for Seminole County Shelter Children Inc., a private group wanting to start the home.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff seconded Mrs. Christensen's motion, and it passed with Commissioner Sandra Glenn's vote. Commissioner Bob Sturm was still absent, recuperating from See SITE, page 16A

Group Starts Petition For Sanford Pool

Herald Staff Writer

The move for a community swimming pool in Sanford was buoyed this week by a new citizen's group, but may be sunk by site and cost considerations.

The ad hoc citizen's group, which has about 10 members, is circulating peti-tions to garner additional support and will approach city commissioners at their April 13 meeting to discuss swim center proposals, according to the group's founder, Bob Ball.

Sanford commissioners say they'll be receptive to hearing what the group has to say, but add that price and locale pose potential stumbling blocks.

The same obstacles were considered during commissioners efforts last year to work towards locating a community pool in Sanford.

Ball, a Sanford resident and businessman, said the group's members 'see the need in Sanford for a pool in an area that's accessible to as many specific ideation, but wants commissioners to appoint a committee that would look into potential locales and also the use of Lakes Jennie and Ada as

In addition to a pool, "The two lakes would make beautiful swimming spots," Ball said. "The city could haul in sand to make appropriate beach type areas and build bath houses.'

The Lake Jennie parcel is on county land, near 27th Street, Ball said, Lake Ada lies off city land, west of U.S. Highway 17-92, south of 25th Street, behind the Cavalier Motor Lodge.

possibility of a community pool last year with little result. A commission proposal to use the Sanford Regional Airport's pool was shot down by airport authority members as being too dangerous due to nearby runways and industrial complexes.

Commissioners and the Seminole County School Board began discussing a land swap last year that would yield a potential location for a pool. However, although the land swap discussions are expected to resume next month, the site the school board is interested in has been leased by the city until 1997 and the lessee said he doesn't plan to leave the site before then.

Wes Rinker runs the Florida Baseball Schools at the city-owned Memorial Stadium, off Mellonville Avenue, just north of the school board's headquarters. In return for this parcel, Sanford commissioners seek a vacant school board site off French Avenue, Rinker's Memorial Stadium lease has two renewal clauses, giving him the option to run the baseball school at the site until 1997. He presently pays the city $5,485.71 a year in rent, as payback for the roughly $50,000 purchase price and interest he owes on a light system the city installed at the stadium in 1982. After the payback is complete in 1989. Rinker's rent drops to $1 a year until 1997.

The possibility of looking into a lease buy-out has been raised by Mayor

School Board OKs Plan For Further Building

The Seminole County School Board Wednesday approved an implementation plan for phase two of it's $120 million five-year comprehensive building plan, eliminating the role of bond project facilitator to economize.

travel time to and from project sites located throughout the district and to maximize on-site inspection. Spear said in his recommendation memo to the board. He said it is the board's desire to minimize change orders and to document deficient work in place and this can only be done by constant inspection of the project with adequate time available for project documentation.

As a general rule, deficient work is only corrected at the time it is performed. For example, roofing installations which are not observed by an on-site inspector as deficient work are not often discovered until the roof leaks. Spear said.

Spear recommended a phasing-in of four additional clerk of works personnel from July 1, 1987 to July.

1989 which was approved by the board.

The role of the bond project facilitator requires building code inspection and certification to the board of the contractor's compliance with the contract documents insofar as life safety elements are concerned and does not provide daily on-site inspections. Spear said. Those services can be provided by the additional personnel, he said.

The salary plus fixed charges for the four additional project inspectors required for phase one and two is $37,237 ($31,031 plus $6,026) times four equals $140,948 per year.

The money set aside for the bond project facilitator is $279,000 which covers a one year period for con-struction of 12 projects and 18 months for the Seminole High School project.

In other business, the board: Approved ratification of the county's "career ladder" plan which aims to reward teachers with extra compensation for superior performance and ability. The plan will be sent to the state Department of Education by March 31 to be eligible for funding next year if the 1987 legislature appropriates the proposed $90 million needed to fund it.

 Approved the expansion of its agreement with the Private Industry Council in Sanford which provides job opportunities for the underprivileged and will give the school system $173,000.

High Court Rules Affirmative Action Applies To Women

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, in a landmark affirmative action victory for women, ruled 6-3 Wednesday employers may consider applicants' sex in hiring and pro-moting candidates for jobs traditionally held by men.

The ruling, which completed the court's review of affirmative action this term, brought immediate praise from women's groups and condemnation from conservatives, including three members of the court who viewed the ruling as perverting the intent of Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act.

Title 7 bars discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin."

The ruling also was another in a long line of lefeats for the administration, which basically iews affirmative action as reverse discrimina-

Penda Hair, an attorney with the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, inc., said the ruling "represents the Supreme Court's most expansive interpretation of affirmative action law to date."

Turnout Low At Plan Update Meeting

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

"A bit disappointing" is how Longwood City Planner Chris Nagle described the turnout at the Land Planning Agency workshop to get public input and discuss the status of the Comprehensive Plan update and opportunities and issues facing the city as they relate to the plan.

point where the planning consultant has enough work done to hold meetings or bi-weekly," he said.

Nagle said he has a list of about 50 opportunities facing Longwood, such as traffic congestion and lack of buffers between commercial and residential areas.

Nagle said it is very important that the public become involved in decisions enough, we may break up into two groups to discuss different parts of the plan", he said. "If we don't get public participation it is easy to overlook day lives. For instance, he said, if there was a statement of policy that all 12 miles of unpaved streets must be paved over the next 10 years, property owners on those streets should be concerned about the cost to them.

"One important part", Nagle said, "is the land use element which designates land use for all property in the city. Once it is adopted then the city can go out and rezone property where the land use designation has changed. The city has to do whater it takes to make the plan work."

Nagle said if there had been better

Grand Theft Defendant Gets Acquittal Verdict

A man accused of using county materials and labor for private gain was acquitted Wednesday before the case went to the jury.

On trial on a charge of grand theft was Joseph E. Priest, 44 of Ovledo. Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. granted a defense motion to acquit. He said the evidence presented did not support a charge of grand theft.

Two codefendants in the case entered pleas and await sentencing in May.

Marion Preston Priest. 53. of Oviedo and cousin to Joseph E. Priest, pleaded no contest to a lesser of charge of petty theft.
Joseph Albert Hill, 25, of Geneva, also charged in the case, pleaded guilty to the lesser charge of petty theft. Eaton set sentencing May 1 for Hill and May 5 for Marion Priest.

The men were accused of taking road-building material and using heavy equipment without permission between February 1985 and August

In question was the paving of a strip of road in front of a business owned by a relative of Joseph Priest and the use of shell rock to grade McClain Lane where another relative lives. according to court records.

Steve Laurence, Priest's attorney, argued that county equipment had parked on the relatives' property for several years without payment and the rock was to repair the heavy equipment damage and that the paving was similar to improvements to nearby-by businesses and needed to get rid of a traffic-hazard half-foot drop-off.

Midwest Storm Ebbs, Goes East

United Press International

A violent spring snowstorm that pounded the Plains for four days abated today after prompting haylifts to feed stranded cattle in Kansas, sweeping snow into 12-foot drifts and closing hundreds of miles of roads in three states.

The storm, which was cen-tered over the Great Lakes early today, had weakened and was not expected to produce any more wintry weather, the National Weather Service said. Rain fell today in the Great Lakes and from the upper Ohio Valley across much of the Northeast.

Three traffic deaths - two in Oklahoma and one in Kansas - have been blamed on the storm since Monday. .

In central Nebraska, westbound Interstate 80 from Kearney to Elm Creek was so packed with snow and ice Wednesday night that road crews were forced to plow a 15-mile stretch on the shoulder so hundreds of stranded motorists could get through.

"They had them backed up nine miles from Kearney waiting to get through and it's moving slowly." said Cathy Sigler, Nebraska State Patrol dispatcher, shortly before midnight Wednesday.

1-80 was closed for much of the day Wednesday because of blowing snow and stalled Faith Cedar, guest service representative at the Holiday Inn in Kearney, said 150 motorists had been stranded there since Tuesday. "We've had several people check in from Grand Island -40 miles away - and (they) said it took them eight hours to get here," she said. The storm has spread snow

"It's so packed. The lanes are like big ruts," Sigler said. State police said a 60-mile stretch of in a 200-mile swath across central Nebraska since Monday. On Wednesday, northwest winds up to 50 mph blasted 20 inches of snow into drifts 12 feet high in Broken Bow, cutting visibility to less than one-fourth mile.

Gov. Kay Orr declared a state of emergency Wednesday for central and western Nebraska. in addition to the emergency declared for eastern Nebraska Monday because of floods caused by heavy rains.

National Guard troops were helping evacuate flood victims near Beatrice, where the Big Blue River rose to 11 feet above flood stage Wednesday, forcing highways and businesses to close.

"There's lowland flooding all over everywhere," Gage County Sheriff Jerry Dewitt

In western Kansas, also hit hard by the storm, officials said helicopters would begin haylist operations today to feed cattle in Gove and Grego counties.

"They've been four days without feed," said Major Joyce Cole of the adjutant general's office in Topeka. "Nobody can get anywhere to feed the cattle. ... It's especially important now since it's calving time."

Parts of Interstate 70 and other roads were reopened Wednesday, but many roads west of U.S. 281, a north-south highway running through central Kansas, remained closed or impassable. Gov. Mike Hayden's disaster declaration remained in effect for 46 counties west of U.S. 281.

In central South Dakota, Interstate 90 was reopened across the state Wednesday afternoon after heavy snow and poor visibility had forced closure of about 200 miles of the highway from Chamberlain to Ellsworth Air Force Base Tuesday night.

By Genie Lindberg Herald Staff Writer Lake Mary's Planning and Zoning Board Tuesday agreed to recommend to the city commission that an area of land directly across Country Club Road from Lake Mary Elementary School be re-zoned from professional office (PO) to general commercial (C-1) as requested by the city.

Jim Talmadge, P&Z chairman, said Commissioner Paul Tremel had initiated the process for re-zoning based on a transporta-tion study done for the city. The precise location of the land is south of Lake Mary Boulevard, east of Country Club Road and west of the railroad tracks.

In an interview Wednesday. Tremel said the transportaion study stated that a commercial zone has a heavier traffic flow than a professional office zone. He said that due to the close proximity of the elementary school and the desire to keep C-15 south of the railroad tracks zoned as residential, he recommended that the process for re-zoning that area be looked into by P&Z and brought back to the commission with a recommendation.

Don Davis of Miller Enterprises questioned the board about what will happen to the Handy Way Store his company has on the site after re-zoning. "I'd like to know if there's a fire, can I put my store back up?" he asked. "We've got a business there, and basically what you're doing is taking away my business."

Talmadge said that the board did not mean to take away anyone's business and added that the Handy Way might be able to be "grandfathered in" but that any questions being asked should be answered by the city attorney.

Jim Glenn, representing Chevron Oil Company, said that his firm had secured a building permit from the city several years ago for a gas station to be huilt at the site being considered for re-zoning. Chevron did not want to be premature in putting up the gas station and waited until the growth in Lake Mary had increased, Glenn said, but Chevron now has plans for building the station during 1987. "If the area is re-zoned.

as a special exception?" he asked. "A project such as ours is automobile related and people related, and I would think that It would add to the community rather than detract," he said. "The area is transportation centered with a lot of people working in Orlando."

Linda Beckham, a Lake Mary citizen, reminded the board that with the proposed widening of Lake Mary Boulevard, "you can tell there's quite a traffic problem developing here and people need gasoline."

The P&Z recommendation to re-zone will go to the city commission for final approval. In other business the P&Z

Consider Turmoil Without Contras

Consider for a moment the strategic implications of a collapse of the anticommunist resistance movement in Nicaragua, due to a cutoff of American aid by the Democrats who now control both chambers of Congress.

First, Managua's Sandinista regime, unfettered by the U.S.-backed Contra insurgency, would be free to consolidate its grip on Nicaraguan society. The supposedly temporary suspension of civil liberties guaranteed by the new Nicaraguan constitution would become permanent. Pressure on the ruling Sandinista Front to end repression of the Roman Catholic Church and the press would

Without the Contras as a military counterweight, any incentive for the Sandinistas to negotiate a regional peace settlement would evaporate as well. Nicaragua's closet neighbors recently accelerated efforts to find a diplomatic solution to the conflict in Central America, but this endeavor would be among the first casualties of America's abandonment of the Contras. In the past, the Sandinistas have at least paid lip service to similar diplomatic overtures by the Contadora nations. With the Contras eviscerated by the Democrats, however, Managua would have absolutely no reason to make concessions to its neighbors.

On the contrary, with the Contras no longer standing in their way, the Sandinistas would be free to expand their domination of the region. Nicaragua's Soviet-sponsored military buildup would leave Managua well positioned to intimidate its neighbors. The Sandinistas have amassed by far the largest army in Central America, with 62,000 active troops, 57,000 reserves, and scores of Soviet tanks, attack helicopters and artillery pieces. (In his heydey, the dictator Anastasio Somoza had no more than 10,000 soldiers, three aging Sherman tanks and three artillery pieces.)

The new Sandinista arsenal would be no match for Costa Rica. Honduras or El Salvador. These weak neighbors would become almost totally dependent on U.S. military intervention to counter Sovietinspired subversion or to repel a Nicaraguan invasion (The miles of this control will be borner in testimony to the threat of linvation of perceived in Tegucigalpa. Increasing the risk of direct American military involvement in Central America would be only one of the potential consequences of halting aid to the Contras.

From the Kremlin's perspective, a Contrafree Nicaragua would enhance Soviet influence in the Americas and provide a strategically located base for fomenting Marxist revolution in El Salvador, Guatemala and, ultimately, Mexico. In time, Sandinista troops almost might serve as Moscow's proxies in other regions, as Cuban soldiers have in Angola, Ethiopia and elsewhere.

As the vote in the House shows, support in Congress for the Nicaraguan resistance has ebbed dangerously amid changing political circumstances in Washington. Chief among these is Ronald Reagan's weakened presidency due to the illegal diversion of profits from Iranian weapons sales to the Contras. The unexpected resignation of Contra leader Arturo Cruz, a moderate widely respected on Capitol Hill, has further eroded backing for the anti-Sandinista cause.

But before Democratic lawmakers rush to curtail support for the Contras, they must not ignore America's larger strategic interests in Central America. Because of the president's self-inflicted wounds in the Iranian arms scandal, the congressional debate on Contra aid is dominated by partisanship rather than consideration of America's vital interests. Are the Democrats prepared to acquiesce in expanded Soviet meddling in the Western Hemisphere simply to repudiate the Reagan administration's disastrous policy toward Iran? That is a question that too few lawmakers have asked themselves.

More Than You Want To Know About Corks

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Assuming you have opened a bottle or two of wine or champagne in your time, did you ever wonder where the cork came from?

I didn't either, mainly because the brand of wine I customarily buy isn't sealed with cork. But even the most expensive wine was not sealed in County Cork, Ireland, most likely.

That county also is the home of Blarney castle, where tourists may kiss a stone. The historical reference of how a rock acquired a reputation for eloquence is easy to cross-index. Queen Elizabeth I is said to have complained that the castle owner never said what he meant. "This is all Blarney," the queen opined, and

Anyway, according to the National Geographic Society, the world's leading cork-producing country is Portugal, which is a long way from Ireland and probably farther than you could throw the Blarney Store.

Cork, the Geographic says, has hundreds of uses besides its role as a beverage stopper. Other uses include serving as a heat shield on rockets. Bet you never knew that, did you? We are told that "most quality cork," presumably including the 6.5 million wine bottles that are corked each year, is harvested by hand. I once met a man from that region who remembered pressing grapes with his feet, but that is another story.

A cubic inch of natural cork may contain as many as 200 million air pockets. "making it four times lighter than water." No wonder it makes a better stopper than metal caps, which tend to be heavier than water.

"When people open a bottle of wine, they don't think the cork was once the outside of a tree." one Portuguese official was quoted as observing, and I suppose he is right.

My thoughts, at least, seldom run in that direction, which may be away from the Mediterranean toward the Irish Sea. I am more inclined to think of Blarney when I am opening

But that may be because my brand doesn't require a corkscrew. Twisting the metal cap will

Trees are indeed involved in keeping more expensive wine from overflowing - specifically, the quercus suber, an evergreen also known as the cork oak.

When a cork oak is about 20 years old, and the outer bark is more than an inch thick, it is stripped with what one reference work describes as a "long-handled hatches" The process that may be repeated every nine years or so for 150 years, or however long the tree lives.

Cork of the bottle-stopping variety generally in found after the second stripping, when the trees are about 40. I once got hold of some cork that had been stripped from the tree with a short-handled hatchet, which may explain my predilection for cheap wine.

Cork also has been credited with being compressible and fire-retardant, insulating, resisting friction, absorbing vibrations and not deteriorating with age.

But then those who write on that subject may have kissed the Blarney Stone.

Unholy War In Schools

Judge W. Brevard Hand of the federal district court in Alabama has handed liberals a hot potato if there ever was one.

For years liberal organizations such as the American Civil Liberties Union and Norman Lear's People for the American Way have been busy making sure that no slightest whilf of religion was allowed to contaminate America's public schools. Their theory has been that this is forbidden by the First Amendment clause barring an "establishment of religion."

The courts have generally gone along with the liberal contention that this raises a "wall between church and state" that forbids any sort of religious instruction or observance in the schools - even a brief nondenominational prayer. Parents can teach little Johnnie or Suzy any religious beliefs they want to: at home.

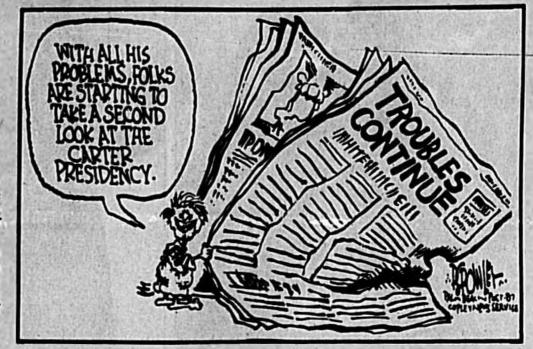

At first this seems fair enough. It does, to be sure, condemn a lot of jumgsters to growing up without any religious exposure whatever, since many parents are too lazy or ignorant to provide any. But Norman Leur is entitled to argue entitle in the bridge of the learning of the Recently, the profinet City ing to govern oncoming generations thus "educated" has made even certain prominent liberals queasy. New York Governor Mario Cuomo, for one, has suggested cautiously that the schools might risk teaching a few "values" such as "Love thy neighbor" (though that one would seem barred under the prevailing interpretation of the First Amend-

But by and large liberals have been quite satisfied with the substantive content of the public school curriculum, once the last vestiges of religion have been stamped out of it. And slowly it has begun to dawn on devout parents why this is so.

The false assumption is artfully concealed. We are supposed to believe — without inspecting the proposition — that when all religious training has been eliminated from a child's formal education, what is left is merely neutral on the subject of religion: neutral not only as between religions, but on the subject of the validity of religion per

But that, of course, is simply not true. What the average youngster in an American public school receives today is an education based on a world view that regards religion as misleading at worst and unnecessary at best. It is the world view historically known as "secular humanism.

Enforce The Contract

Mary Beth Whitehead's biological motherhood was established the moment her child was born.

The "surrogacy" of Elizabeth and William Stern's adoption followed.

But both sides in the dispute and the media - have caused a miscarriage of understanding by reversing these maternal designations.

It's really very simple: No logic dictates that the biological mother of a child should suddenly be called a surroute (Even the Bady, who has been treated the trophy in a national fertility sweepstakes, has three names - Sara, Melissa and Baby

However, all this is just a matter of "designations."

It doesn't address the central question — the contract.

Until Sara's biological mother, Mary Beth Whitehead, reneged on her contract with Melissa's parents, William and Elizabeth Stern, blological vs. surrogate motherhood wasn't a controversy requiring Solomonic wisdom.

We accepted the distinction in the past, with the courts tending to favor the biological mother.

But the courts also have ruled in the past that evidence of maternal unfitness - dope addiction, chronic drunkenness, mental incompetence, degenerative disease - could be grounds for denying custody.

In the meantime, foster parenthood and adoption - irrespective of class or status - have been on the

Unfortunately, some elected officials under a rock in a cave have been dredging up race to prohibit adoptions.

Only two issues are finally pivotal. Did the two parties knowingly enter into a valid contract? Is the contract legally enforceable?

This doesn't stop my appreciating the rage expressed in a statement of support for Whitehead signed by prominent women writers and professionals over the dehumanization of Baby M's biological mother.

During the trial, psychiatrists equated Whitehead's dyeing of her hair with "narcissism" and the fact that she played patty-cake improperly as evidence of inadequate motherhood.

(My mother improperly played cards with me when I was a little kid; the new lease to the the control of the cards and the cards are the cards and the cards are the cards a Sterns are a model couple. Fairness dictates that the final decision will ignore those distinctions and simply honor the contract.

Or do we simply toss out centuries of common law? As a man, as a father, I have felt acutely insecure about this case. But I have always respected the right of women to decide what happens to their bodies - whether it be uterus rental, abortion or even prostlution.

In this instance, however, an overriding canon of law by which both men and women live must prevail.

If a man legally contracts with a woman to allow artificial insemination, the court must honor that

For those who argue that Melissa's mother could not give up a child with whom she had developed a nine-month attachment, I would point out that Sara's mother also developed an equally tender nine-month attachment by virtue of expectancy.

The issue is simple: if the Baby M contract is legal, enforce it.

AIDS Sparks Violence

By Gayle Young UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) - The fatal disease AIDS may have sparked a backlash of violence and abuse against homosexuals in the past year, according to a psychologist who studies "homophobia."

"When a controversial group becomes more visible it is common for people to attack it," said Gregory M. Herek, an assistant professor of psychology at the City University of New York Graduate Center.

Herek said the spread of the deadly disease may be inciting people who are already prejudiced against homosexuals to rape, kill and beat the people they dislike or

No federal agency keeps tabs on violent acts specifically aimed at homosexuals and only a handful of cities have recently begun keeping separate records on violence against homosexuals, Herek said in a recent interview.

But some political and social homosexual groups that keep an unofficial tally are reporting an apparent rise in violence and abuse against homosexual men and vomen, he said.

women, he said.

Harek, who testified in Celebration of the said in the said i justice, said the unofficial tallies indicate more and more attacks in the past year have included slurs and remarks about AIDS.

Herek has interviewed dozens of people who have attacked homosexuals and he said he believes AIDS has given homophobics an excuse for violent acts.

The disease first appeared in America among homosexual men and quickly spread to the heterosexual population.

"They think, 'these people are passing AIDS so it's okay to hurt them'," he said.

But, people who are not homophobic to begin with are probably not moved to violence by the AIDS epidemic, he said.

"I would suggest AIDS is not increasing prejudice against homosexuality," he said. "It is being used as an excuse by people who hate homosexuals to hurt them, when perhaps they would not have hurt them physically before."

Most attacks against homosexuals are committed by young men in their late teens and early 20's. Herek said. They often commit assaults in gangs, beating up lone homosexual men whom they don't know personally, sometimes fatally, "They have an irrational need to blame homosexuals for something. now its for AIDS," he said.

SBA Official Committed No Crime

WASHINGTON - The Small Business Administration recently rehired its former congressional liaison, Richard Nelson, as a $286-a-day consultant — just days after the U.S. attorney decided not to prosecute him on charges of illegal lobbying activities.

Congressional sources any Nelson now works with the SHA office that decides if a business is the proper size for agency help. Ironically, Nelson had been accused of lobbying Congress illegally on this very

According to a Feb. 10 letter to the SBA, the federal prosecutor here said he did not bring the case before a grand jury because Nelson had not violated "current interpretations" of the law. Under these interpretations, federal agencies may not engage in grass-roots lobbying that might load constituents to contact their member of Congress, but direct lobbying of members by agencies is permitted.

Nelson resigned from the SBA last January, shortly after we reported that the results of an inspector general's investigation of him had been sent to the U.S. attorney for possible prosecution. Nelson has refused to talk to us, but a spokesman said he feels we should retract our earlier report because the decision was made not to prosecute, or even to take administrative action against Nelson.

There is nothing to retract, but an update is appropriate. After the prosecutor determined that Nelson had committed no crime, our associate Stewart Harris saw copies of the investigative file in a follow-up report prepared by the inspector general. Here's what they

- At a cost of $4,000 and uncounted man-hours, Nelson ordered the printing of 120,000 copies of a pamphlet titled "Future of the SBA" and its distribution to newspapers, trade groups and Congress.

The pamphlet laid out President Reagan's plan (since dropped) to dissolve the SBA into the Commerce Department. But because it didn't explicitly ask the public to contact Congress on behalf of the dissolution plan, it was not considered improper lobbying by the agency. - Nelson misrepresented a business group's survey he sent to Congress, which indicated its members did not support an independent SBA. In a note attached to the survey, Nelson said the group, the National Federation of Independent Businesses, had not conducted another poll since that one. But the federation had done a follow-up survey that showed its members favored the continued existence of the SBA, and wanted only some of its programs cut. The group's Washington lobbyist said of Nelson's effort: "It is clearly an attempt to try to build a case on half-truths and omissions."

- Trying to block a House Small Business Committee proposal to change the way the SBA decides who gets help from the agency. Nelson told several congressmen about businesses in their districts that would be hurt by the proposal. But congressional aides told the inspector general that much of Nelson's information was outdated. and some of the businesses had already gone broke.

Nelson and three agency employees worked for three weeks to identify the supposedly affected businesses. He told investigators he wasn't lobbying, "only educating (members of Congress) on the adverse effects" of the bill.

- When a congressman asked for the personnel file of an SBA appointee, Nelson plucked out a sensitive document before turning the file over. The document was a White House account of the appointee's political activities. But the U.S. attorney declined to prosecute Nelson for this because, he said. "evidence of criminal intent" was lacking.

NEW YORK (UPI) - Hollywood celebrities, the head of CBS and others who invested in a billion-dollar tax fraud scheme may owe the government at least $200 million in back taxes, interest and penalties, authorities said. A federal grand jury in Manhattan Wednesday indicted three partners in a scheme that may be the largest tax shelter fraud ever, said U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani. None of the investors was indicted.

The investors included actors Lorne Green, Michael Landon, and Sidney Politier; the late artist Andy Warhol: CBS President and chief executive officer Laurence Tisch and his brother, U.S. Postmaster General Preston Tisch, and television producer Norman Lear.

In addition to paying back taxes, the investors will be charged interest on what they owe plus penalties of up to 50 percent, said Walter Margolies, chief of the criminal investigation division of the Internal Revenue Service in Manhattan.

Viet Gang Kids Roam City Streets

BOSTON (UPI) — The wisp of a girl, so small that the handcuffs kept falling off her wrists, had a loaded handgun and a 10-inch butcher knife in her handbag.

She was one of a dozen youngsters milling about a Vietnamese restaurant in Boston's Chinatown when police arrested their gang leader on extortion and armed robbery charges. Detective Kathy Johnston booked the girl, a 13-year-old who could pass for 10, for unlawful firearms possession.

"I said to myself: 'Where is this going to end? She's this small, this young, has a gun and a knife in her pocketbook. She thinks she has the knowledge of the world now, and she's just a little kid," Johnston said.

The problem of roving gangs of young Vietnamese preying on other Asian refugees in at least two dozen North American cities has raised another issue - how

In the Boston case, a juvenile judge gave the girl two years probation. Her mother never showed up in court, so the child was sent to a foster home.

"I'm afraid if she runs away from this foster home, she'll go right back with the same bunch," Johnston said. "I see her running away again, see her getting involved in drugs, or some of these robberies — or dead because of one of the two."

Family Awaits Fate Of Hostage Amid Reports Of Syrian Rescue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Relatives of American hostage Alann Steen awaited a videotape from his kidnappers today amid reports Syrian troops have located the hideouts where Steen and three fellow hostages are held.

Steen's kidnappers, the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, have said he is gravely ill and promised to release a videotape by today revealing the nature of his Steen, 47, was kidnapped from Beirut University College Jan. 24 with three fellow professors - Americans Jesse Jonathan Turner, 39, and Robert Polhill, 52, and Indian-born U.S. resident Mithileshwar Singh.

A newspaper in the United Arab Emirates reported Wednesday that Syrian forces deployed in Lebanon to end fighting among rival militias in and around Beirut had located Steen and his hostage colleagues and that they would be free "before the end of this month."

"The Syrian forces acting in Beirut have recently succeeded in locating the hideouts where three American professors and an Indian-born U.S. resident were being held," the Abu Dhabi newspaper Al-Ittihad said.

Policeman Killed In Ghetto

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - President Pieter W. Botha, kicking off his campaign for a May 6 whites-only election, accused the United States of "selective morality" and charged that sanctions encouraged political violence in Speaking in the conservative town of Lichtenburg Wednesday night. Botha said that he declared a state of emergency last June 12 to ensure "freedom and justice" in South Africa.

The government Bureau for Information said today a black policeman was shot and killed Wednesday by four black men, thought to be anti-government radicals, in the cast coast ghetto of KwaDebeka.

He was the third person killed in ghettos near Durban since Sunday and at least the 58th police officer to die in political violence since a black uprising began in September 1984.

Polish Leader Vows Reforms

WARSAW (UPI) - Polish leader Wojciech Jaruzelski pledged new Soviet-style economic reforms in Poland and agreed to lower planned food price increases, drawing initial backing from the nation's official trade union alliance.

In a speech to the government commission in charge of economic reforms Wednesday, Jaruzelski echoed Soviet leader Miknail Gorbachev by pledging tougher measures against alcohol and eigarette consumption.

Missile Pact Urged

MOSCOW (UPI) - Soviet and East bloc foreign ministers rejected U.S. demands that any agreement to remove mediumrange missiles from Europe include limits on shorter-range missiles.

But the seven foreign ministers, in a statement issued Wednesday at the end of their two-day meeting in Moscow, said the deal on intermediate-range missiles opens the way for elimination of all nuclear weapons from the continent.

The statement urged the United States and the Soviet Union to sign an agreement for withdrawal of medium-range missiles from Europe immediately and pursue negotiations for withdrawal of other weaponry separately.

'As far as other theater missiles are concerned, the U.S.S.R. is prepared immediately to begin talks with a view to fully reducing and eliminating them." the statement, carried by the Tass news agency, said. "The conclusion of an agreement on medium-range missiles as soon as possible would open the way for the complete deliverance of Europe from nuclear weapons."

Deputy Foreign Minister Vadim Loginov told a news conference there was "no controversy" among the ministers on the issue.

"They were unanimous that an agreement ton short-range missiles) can be reached only after an agreement on the elimination of medium-range missiles," he said. "As soon as agreement is reached, we will be ready to get down to the discussions on operative tactical missiles."

A Little Leader Minimizes Effect Of Angler's Lure

When should fishermen use a leader? This is a question that has baffled many saltwater an-

There are times that the decision to use a leader or not is not an easy one. If you are snook fishing with a lure, you realize there is a possibility that the sharp gills of the snook might cut through your fishing line. If you use a heavy monofilament leader or a light wire leader, you might hinder the action of the lure or scare off a keen-eyed

The best solution to a predicament like this is to use as little leader as possible to minimize the effect on the lure, but use enough so that the line will be adequately protected. The correct choice would be to use a 30-40 pound test monofilament leader for the snook.

Bulky leaders - and even snaps and swivels — can destroy the action of some lures to such a degree that fish will refuse to

Winnipeg Continues Superiority Over Calgary With 10-1 Victory

United Press International

Although they reside one spot behind Calgary in the Smythe Division standings, the Winnipeg Jets have displayed a superiority over the Flames as the playoffs

Doug Small collected his second career hat trick and Brian Mullen added a goal and an assist Wednesday night to pace the Jets to a 10-1 rout of Calgary at Winnipeg. Manitoba.

Tonight at Calgary, Alberta, the Flames get another chance to reverse their losing trend against Winnipeg. The Jets have won five of six games over the Flames this season. The teams also play their last game of the season against each other April 5 at Calgary.

The teams are guaranteed to face each other in the first round of the playoffs, with the major factor now being which one gains the home-ice edge. The Flames are four points ahead of Winnipeg, and both have five games left.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles whipped Detroit 6-1, New Jersey routed the New York Rangers 8-2, Edmonton dumped Hartford 5-3, Minnesota topped Toronto 6-2 and Chicago tled St. Louis 4-4.

UPI Names Robinson Tops

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Ironically, had David Robinson realized his potential, he would not have stayed at the Naval Academy long enough to become United Press International's Player of the Year.

"If I had known I was going to be this good. I would have left, no questions about it." the 7-foot-1 center said Wednesday after he was voted recipient of the award.

Robinson decided against transferring from the academy after his sophomore season, accepting the Navy's five-year military commitment. Officials in January ruled because Robinson exceeded the ruled because Robinson exceeded the Navy's height limit for active service, he will be obligated to just two years of "restricted" active duty, followed by four years in the

"I was just exploring my potential at that time (when he committed after his sophomore year), and it was a tough call," he said. "But I didn't know that, and with so many things up in the air with basketball it was going to be a lot smarter to take that safe option (remaining at the academy) where you know you're going to be in good shape when you graduate."

In his four years at the academy. Robinson grew from an unnoticed small forward to the most dominant center in college basketball.

He averaged 28.2 points, 11.8 rebounds and a nation's best 4.5 blocked shots in leading Navy to a 26-6 record and a third consecutive Colonial Athletic Association championship and NCAA tournament bid. He capped his collegiate career by scoring a school record 50 points in the Midshipmen's opening-round loss to Michigan in the NCAA

Robinson was selected by a panel of 50 sportswriters and broadcasters from across the country

The son of a career Navy man. Robinson was a virtual unknown after playing just one year of scholastic ball at Osbourne Park High School in Woodbridge, Va., and was recruited by few Division I schools.

He entered the Naval Academy as a 6-foot-7 computer whiz who happened to play basketball, but his pituitary gland changed all that. He sprouted six inches and bulked up to 235 pounds by his senior year, while developing into the undisputed top center in the collegiate game.

"It's tough at a service academy because the classwork is really intense — it's not designed for you to be away half the semester," Robinson said. "I spend a lot of time behind the computer and I spend a lot of time making up a lot of subjects. I'm fortunate that I'm kind of gifted when it comes to academics."

Last summer. Robinson led an inexperienced U.S. team to the gold medal in the World Championships at Barcelona, Spain, and along the way out-played the Soviet Union's talented 7-foot-2 center Arvidas

The international competition helped Robinson develop more aggressive offensive moves and made him more active on the offense end. Robinson, however. fearsome a defensive player as he is a prolific scorer, blocking more shots than any other player in NCAA history in a career (516), a season (207) and a game (14).

"Every time that I go out on the court I have to feel like I'm the best player out there, that there's nobody out there better than me, because if you have the slightest doubt, your game just goes down so many notches," Robinson said. "Confidence is a really big thing, so I go out with that attitude."

He is the only player in NCAA hisotry to score 2,500 points (2,669), grab 1,300 rebounds (1,314) and shoot better than 60 percent from the field (61.4) for his career.

Robinson ended his career as the NCAA's 10th all-time leading scorer, while passing the likes of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Elgin Baylor, Rick Barry, Jerry West and Bill Bradley on the all-time scoring list this season. His scoring average was third in the nation, while his rebounding average was fourth.

The 21-year-old, who will serve the Navy as a Civil Engineer, recorded 15 30-pointplus games this season, including four 40-point-plus outings. His two biggest statistical games came in losses — a 45-point. 14-rebound. 10-blocked shot output against Kentucky on Jan. 25 and the 50-point, 13-rebound performance against Michigan on March 12.

Robinson was also named the winner of the 1987 Naismith Trophy and the Eastman Award as the top collegiate basketball player and was nominated for the Sullivan Award as the nation's top amateur athlete.

Final Four Project Excites Musburger

CHICAGO (UPI) - Brent Musburger of CBS likens himself to Peter Pan come NCAA tournament time. He is like a kid who doesn't want to grow up.

Musburger is one of the few network sportscasters who works all major sporting events, including the World Series, Super Bowl, All-Star baseball game and Final Four.

But for excitement and sheer drama, the CBS telecaster says the Final Four has climbed into the arena with the Super Bowl and one day may surpass football's showcase as the No. 1 sporting event in the United States.

Musburger, scheduled to telecast Saturday's semifinals and the NCAA title game next Monbecome blase about covering the major events. The Final Four. his adrenalin to flow.

part of the rhythm of my life: I'd be lost without it."

Musburger has some theories on why the NCAA tournament, and the Final Four in particular. has grown in terms of television interest.

"It's the only one that continues to grow. Every year the day from the Superdome, hasn't tourney seems to get bigger and bigger," Musburger said. "I don't know what the limit is on like the other majors, still cause it. It's one month of action. something the others don't have. "Yeah, I'm like the kid in the It's like having the World Series for a month. It's gone from the old days when you'd walt for the Final Four to a full month of Musburger, 46, concedes the Super Bowl still has the mystique of holding the nation's don't get nervous and excited it collective interest for a single reaching the point where it is drawing as much national inter-

"The Super Bowl is still No. 1 in the ratings with the raw numbers in the USA. For a month period, the NCAA is bigger because so many of the schools are located in small towns and you have the broad interest," Musburger said. "It's not a major market sport like the NFL, where we sit around and hope the Bears or Giants get in. We don't sit around and want the St. John's or DePauls because the tourney sells itself."

The ratings on the tournament are misleading compared with the other majors. Musburger explains, because the initial figures on the NFL or baseball

"Overnight ratings can be very misleading. You have to wait for the smaller towns, especially in the Midwest, to see how popular it is," Musburger said. Musburger has served in just about every capacity for CBS sports but elected to get back down "in the trenches" and remain doing play-by-play along with expert commentator Billy Packer.

"I obviously could have stayed and done the studio bit but I was losing touch." Musburger said. "It's different with the NFL than the Final Four. I really enjoy the play-by-play and still do baseball on radio ... It's a great mix for me.

CBS paid a whopping $50 million a year to secure the rights for the Final Four for the next three years. Musburger says in addition to the financial plusses, the goodwill among CBS affiliates is tremendous because of the telecast of the tourney.

"I think what we do for the affiliates can't be measured. It's so prestigious: if you are the affiliate in Champaign or in Laramie or in Iowa and you are the station carrying the game, it's a great plus," Musburger concentrate solely on major cit- said. "There's no question in terms of TV it is a real lewel. right up there with the World Series. We battled to lower the rates in the NFL but they went up in the NCAA and will continue to go up.

The lure of the tournament, Musburger insisted, is the knockout punch.

"There is a finality in it. Every time you televise a game, that's sudden death. In the others, you alt around and hope for a seventh game."

Mineral Oil Laxatives Not For Long Use

DEAR DR. GOTT - Three years ago, a proctologist found a small tumor at the edge of my rectal opening. He recommended I do nothing but take a tablespoon of laxative every evening. This helped my constipation, but I'm concerned about the long-term use of the medicine, because it is mostly mineral oil. What do you think?

DEAR READER - If your "tumor" is a growth, it should be removed. If it is simply a swelling, such as a hemorrhoidal vein, it can be treated without surgery. Mineral-oil laxatives are not appropriate for long-term use; they can cause laxativedependency, vitamin deficiency, stomach cramps and (if ac-cidently inhaled) a type of interstitial lung disease called lipoid pneumonia. Try giving up laxatives. Instead, use bran. vegetable fiber and/or foods rich in potassium, such as prunes and apricots. And check back with your doctor for a followup.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I had a mild myocardial infarction six years ago. My doctor (now retired) suggested that I take an aspirin a day to help prevent another attack. My present doctor recommends at least two buffered aspirin daily, but articles I've read say a baby aspirin is sufficient. How many should I be taking?

DEAR READER - Two adult aspirin a day is probably more than is needed to reduce your blood's tendency to form clots. One baby aspirin a day is sufficient. Many doctors choose a middle ground and recommend one adult aspirin a day for patients who have had strokes or heart attacks.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I had a mammogram after the doctor diagnosed some fibrous tissue in my breast. During the next six months, I developed two cysts (which were aspirated) and a nodule (which was surgically removed). Could the mammogram have caused the cysts? I'm 42.

DEAR READER - Fibrous (scar) tissue in the breasts is often lumpy and may be associated with cysts; in fact, this condition is called fibrocystic disease. It's unlikely that the mammogram played any role in the development of

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

You can try your skill as declarer if you hide the East and West hands. After doing that, inspect the opening lead of the diamond nine. How do you read it? It could certainly be a singleton. So if you play low. East might win the king, give his partner a diamond ruff and gain the lead with the spade ace to give his partner the setting trick with another diamond ruff. On the other hand, if you rise with the diamond ace, you can then draw trumps and make five heart tricks, three diamond tricks, the club ace and one spade trick for your contract. That's the safe play, so you go ahead with it. But disaster strikes. East ruffs the diamond ace and plays a spade to West's ace. West cashes the diamond no-trump is the final contract.

king and gives East a second ruff to set the contract.

Bad luck! You played it right. but your ship foundered on the shoals of foul distribution. There's a point worth noting. West had hopes of catching East with a diamond void. And his lead of the diamond nine, in addition to being a fine deceptive play, had a strong connotation of suit preference. He wanted his partner to know that he held the spade ace, just in case partner was ruffing that diamond lead.

Maybe there is a different solution to this deal. It's all well and good to get to four hearts, but why shouldn't South simply raise two no-trump to three no-trump? There are no ruffing tricks for the defenders when

Couple Mark 66th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Edward Dobson, 4225 Orange Ave., Sanford, observed their 66th wedding anniversary March 17 with a celebration at Victory Baptist Church, Sanford. Dobson and Cornelia Bessie Hiers were married March 17. 1921, at her home in Hampton, S.C.

Dobson farmed in South Carolina and, according to Mrs. Dobson, making a living was difficult at that time and the couple moved to Sanford in 1922. He built their home, with help from friends. and they have lived in the same home since it was completed in 1922. "We have added to it." Mrs. Dobson said.

Dobson landed his first job at Crown Paper Co., Sanford, manufacturer of tissue paper used for wrapping citrus fruits. Later, he went to work for Roberts Grocery, which was located at the corner of First Street and Palmetto Avenue. During the following years, he worked in meat markets at Winn-Dixie, Food Mart and A & P until his retirement in 1961.

Although the Dobsons had no children, they helped raise his brother's children. Mary Jane Hawkins of Sanford, and Walter Dobson of Fort descends from captive blood lines. 'We're getting the panther close to the people and creating public sensitivity to its plight. This animal is critically endangered and our goal is to ing it and its habitat," Wahl said. State biologists estimate there are only 30 or so Florida panthers left in the wild today.

Mom Put Out Over Friends Soaking Naked In Hot Tub

DEAR ABBY: The other evening, Donna, my 26-year-old daughter, asked me to baby-sit her two children. As Donna and her husband were preparing to leave for the dinner party. Donna remarked that she always loved an invitation to the Smiths (made-up name) because they have a hot tub. I asked Donna whether they had forgotten their bathing suits, since all her husband was carrying was a bottle of wine for the hosts. Donna's reply astounded me. She said nobody wears a bathing suit in a hot tub because it's too darned hot.

Abby, am I old-fashioned and over the hill at 46? Donna and her husband and the other couples apparently soak together naked! I asked Donna how they could do this, and she replied that all the couples involved are "good" friends. Abby, I have a number of very good and close friends, but not close enough to bathe together in our birthday suits. In fact, the only person I would ever share a hot tub with is my husband.

What do you think of what my daughter and her husband and their friends are doing? Is this as common as she makes it sound? Am I the odd duck now?

After we did, I noticed he had bad breath and body odor. I also discovered he didn't wear underwear, and thus his jeans carried a foul smell all the time.

Well, I brought him plenty of underwear and told him I though they were "sexy." I got him deoderant and said it "turned me on," and I showered with him - not for sex, but to be sure he showered. Because of this, he was clean and I was happy. We've been married for five happy years.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in heavy trading of New York Stock Exchange

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 5.59 Wednesday, was up 15.34 to 2378.83 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 655-314 among the 1,422 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 21,749,000

Stock prices closed lower Wednesday for the first time in more than a week as investors took profits after six consecutive record-breaking daily

Analysts agreed there was little real selling pressure, with buyers waiting at the sidelines to seize any opportunity to get into the market.

"There's a strong perception in the Street that the market is due for a correction," said Joseph Barthell, director of technical strategy at Butcher & Singer, "But I think this market has the potential to rise another 200 points before any significant pullback takes place.

Dollar Up A Bit; Gold Declines

By United Press International higher in light trading on most major world money markets today. The price of gold was

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed at 149.40 yen, up 0.05 from Wednesday's close of 149.35.

Dealers in Japan said trading was light because market participants remained concerned over possible joint intervention by central banks of Japan, the United States and other major

West European nations. The Bank of Japan carried out a small-scale intervention for the third straight day, purchasing an estimated $100 million to bolster the dollar, traders noted.

The U.S. dollar opened slightly opened higher in Frankfurt at 1.8315 German marks, up from Wednesday's close of 1.82195.

The dollar opened in Paris at 6.0935 French francs, up from 6.0815, and in Brussels at 38.07 Belgian francs, up from Wednesday's close of 38.00.

The dollar strengthened in Amsterdam, opening at 2.068 Dutch guilders, up from 2.063, and in Milan at 1,305.625 lire. up from 1,299.50.

In London the British pound sterling slipped at the opening to $1.599, down slightly from Wednesday's close of $1.606.

In Zurich the dollar lost ground, opening at 1.5270 Swiss francs, down from a previous close of 1.5275 on Wednesday.

School Expected To Reopen Friday

St. Mary Magdalen Catholic School at 861 Maitland Ave., Altamonte Springs, was closed today because of a break in the water line, but repairs were expected to be completed by 11 a.m. today enabling school to resume on Friday, according to Bill Schoonover, plant manager for St. Mary Magdalen.

Schoonover said a landscaper digging in a utility casement between Spring Lake Road and St. Mary Magdalen's fence apparently damaged the line Wednesday afternoon. Because it was broken on the school's side of the Altamonte Springs water meter it was the school's responsibility to make repairs.

When it appeared repairs would not be made in time for the opening of school this morning. Schoonover said he advised the principal. Sister George Francis to keep the school closed. He said the plumbers found the gate valve on the city's side of the meter was inoperable so it was midnight before the water leak could
