Rio Grande Subsiding; 62 Are Known Dead

President Declares Stricken Area As Eligible For Emergency Funds

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP)—The Rio Grande was back in its banks today, its receding waters carrying the secret of how many died and leaving mounds of foul, disease-breeding mud.

Hidden in the muck and in the draining waters was the answer to whether the best available figures—62 dead, 90 to 400 missing—fall short of the truth.

President Eisenhower declared the stricken borderland eligible for disaster loans. Gov. Allan Shivers' own state disaster task force flew to the border to work with the federal people. The Red Cross, the federal government and individual had little rest.

Strolling In Sanford

Names of Seminole County girls attending a 4-H Camp at Camp McQuarrie at Astor Park were revealed this morning by Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration agent.

The group will depart via bus from the Court House at noon Monday, and return at about the same time next Saturday. Miss Wilson will accompany the group.

Those attending are Bonnie Cox, Janette Doss, Faye Garner, Charlotte Harrison, Sharon Hirsch, Kay Ivey, Linda Koke, Mary Claire Lewis, Eileen Myers, Dorothy McAlexander, Ja. Osborne, Emily Lou Russell, Ann Schumaker, Sally Wallace, Dolly Hatch and Hilda Eggle of Sanford Clubs; Jennie Beckham, Bonnie Lou Bowers, Ida Cook, Alice Hull, Bette Jeanie Robinson, Margaret Smith and Louise Smith of the Longwood Club; Gayle Burke, at Freeman, Dolores Kirsch and Myrna Williams of the Lake Mary Club; Barbara Griffin, Cathy Griffin and Janet Johns of the Lake Monroe Club; Geraldine Jacobs, Daiphine Phillips, Patricia Stone and Jeanne Markham of the Genea Club; Vera Spivey of the Paola Club and Mary Ann Slayton, Elena Tuhy and Rebecca Tuhy of the Oviedo Club.

The Mayfair Inn Swimming Pool will be available Monday for the use of the members of the Mayfair Inn Bath and Tennis Club. The pool, which is usually closed for cleaning on Monday, will be open and cleaned next Tuesday, instead.

The Sanford pool offer will be closed all day July 3 in observance of the Fourth of July. There will be no city of rural delivery service. Mail will be handled and delivered as usual. All special delivery mail and perishables will be delivered.

The regular meeting of the Campbell-Lovette Post 53, American Legion, scheduled for Monday night, has been cancelled because of the Fourth of July holiday, according to R. Johnson, Jr., commander. The next meeting will be July 19.

Anyone who wants to do a fishbowl over the Fourth of July weekend, had better get it in today or tomorrow, according to Mrs. Letta Edwards, clerk at the County Judge's office. No license will be sold at the Court House after noon tomorrow until Tuesday morning, as the courts will be closed Monday in observance of the holiday. Licenses also may be procured at the Hill Hardware Store, the Western Store and Nelson's hardware store in Orlando, and at Crown's and Hilly's fishing camps.

Activities of the summer recreation program will be discontinued until Tuesday morning because of the Fourth of July holiday, John Angel, director, said today.

Harold Pate, Sanford, was elected councilman of Smithville, one of 16 mythical cities at the 1954 Florida Boys State, while he and Carl Norris, annexberry, were elected representatives in the boys state legislature. Boys State ended recently. As legislators, the boys participated in the presentation and passage of legislative bills which boys and their counselors considered advantageous to the people of Florida. Boys State is sponsored annually by the American Legion as part of its Americanism program. The activities this year were held on the campus of Florida State University, Tallahassee.

More than 300 Seminole and Orange County boating enthusiasts have signed up for participation in the first annual Seminole Indian River Cruise scheduled to be held tomorrow through Monday. The trip, which is being sponsored by the Orlando Chamber of Commerce, Seminole County and the Sanford Boat and Club will begin at Mullet Lake Park.

Israel Charges Death To Arab

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel charged an Arab sniper killed an Israeli soldier today on Mt. Zion, breaking a cease fire ordered after three hours of international shooting in the Holy City.

Israeli authorities said the casualty list stood at 2 dead and 23 wounded at the end of the shooting.

ROK Assembly Refuses To Okay Rhee's Cabinet

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's newly elected National Assembly today rejected President Syngman Rhee's cabinet.

The 280 members of the assembly voted 197 to 83 to reject the cabinet. The vote was a surprise, as Rhee's cabinet was widely expected to be approved.

The assembly's action was a major setback for Rhee, who had hoped to begin his second term with a strong cabinet.

The assembly's rejection of the cabinet was a clear statement of its independence from the executive branch.

The assembly's action was a major victory for the opposition forces in the assembly.

The assembly's rejection of the cabinet was a major blow to Rhee's government.

Rebel Chief, Regime Head Sign Guatemalan Peace Pact

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—Rebel chief Carlos Castillo Armas and government boss Col. Eliezer Monton signed a peace pact here today ending Guatemala's two week old civil war.

The pact provides for a new five-man military junta—Guatemala's fourth government this week—with Monton as top man. The other members include Castillo and one of his aides and two ministers in Monton's outgoing regime.

Authoritative sources said this arrangement would continue for 15 days, after which the junta will elect a "permanent" chief.

The agreement was signed at 4:45 a.m. in the ceremonial hall of El Salvador's presidential house before ambassadors and representatives of a dozen countries and the Vatican. It proclaims a total cease fire in Guatemala.

Castillo's followers invaded their base from neighboring Honduras on June 15, moving to overthrow the Communist-supported government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman. Arbenz resigned last Sunday and a cease-fire followed on Wednesday. The junta which replaced Arbenz after his resignation was in turn replaced by Monton's group.

In addition to Castillo and Monton, the new junta will be composed of Maj. Enrique Olliva, a former Communist, and two other members of Monton's government. Foreign Minister Col. Mauricio Hubos and Defense Minister Col. Jose Luis Cruz Salazar.

Other terms of the agreement provided:

1. Castillo's rebel forces will be incorporated into the regular army of Guatemala.

2. The junta assumes all legislative and executive powers as well as supreme command of the army and will rule by majority decision.

3. The junta will consider whether to abolish or suspend in part the nation's present constitution and Castillo will cancel all orders and decrees issued by his previous regime.

4. National elections will be called as soon as a new constitution is promulgated.

The new junta reportedly will fly to the Guatemalan capital at 11 a.m. tomorrow to take over.

The signing ceremony climaxed two days and nights of negotiations between Castillo and Monton.

The pact was signed in the presence of Gen. Gerardo Barrios, the Guatemalan ambassador to El Salvador.

The new junta faced difficulties at home. Communist supporters of deposed President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman were reported inciting peasants outside the capital to rise against the country's new rulers.

POLICE COLLAPSE

TAURA, Japan (AP)—Police in this small town celebrated the nationalization of Japan's police forces yesterday with oshiruko, a traditional New Year's dish made with sweet red beans.

But what's good in January isn't always so good in July.

Fifty-nine of the 53 police officers of Taura, 23 sent to the hospital suffering from acute numbness. The other 26 were suffering from a violent diarrhea for four days, then testified before the Birmingham jury and left the state. His family said he had entered a Galveston, Tex., hospital for mental treatment.

Meanwhile, the grand jury which called for a statewide campaign against vote thieves will take a brief recess and then resume its probe into election fraud.

The jury yesterday halted an exhausting drive to uncover any links between vote tampering here and the Patterson murder.

Recommending that grand jurors all over Alabama look into complaints of vote fraud, the jury here said:

"Anything short of such comprehensive and determined action will be only an invitation to the crooks, gamblers, fixers, forgers and murderers to stand by for the expected anarchy and move back to their old stands for business as usual when 'blinks blow over'."

The jury also recommended that Phenix City be left off limits to Ft. Benning, Ga., troops, "keeping our young soldiers out of the den of vice and corruption and murder in Phenix City."

Council Anticipates 430 Dead In Nation; 22 Predicted Here

THE AMERICAN Automobiles Association anticipates that the highway fatalities for the July 4 holiday weekend will be 430 in the nation and 22 in this area.

Other thousands went to work with cars packed with sports clothes, ready to catch evening trains, buses and planes for summer resort.

The National Safety Council estimated that with good weather in the South, Saturday and Sunday will see a record number of highway deaths.

At least 400 of the highway fatalities may be from the July 4 holiday weekend. The council estimates that number will be killed in crashes between 6 p.m. today and midnight Monday.

DEATH TAKES NO HOLIDAY

Twenty-two people who are looking forward to the holiday weekend will be dead Monday night as a result of accidents in the states' usual average for a three-day holiday is estimated according to Alvin Frank, director of the Florida Safety Council.

Frank said that the number of deaths will be killed in traffic accidents will be 22 in this area.

Other holiday accidents can be avoided if every man, woman or child who goes swimming or sunbathing in the water observes the simple common sense rules of safety: don't swim too far out and don't swim alone.

Bell Official Expects No Strife From Strike

Says Company Employees All On Job; Only Two WE Men Employed In Area

John Wiley, group manager for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, said today no strife is expected in service here because of the strike called yesterday in the Southeast by the Western Electric Company.

"Our people are all on the job and we anticipate they will continue to be," Wiley said. He did not expect any sympathy walk-out by telephone employees.

Only two Western Electric men are employed in the Sanford area and both of them work on strike. However, their action was insignificant in the service here.

Wiley also said there was no dispute with company employees over a contract at this time.

He said that employees of South Carolina Bell Telephone Company will be busy toward doing a good job.

NEW YORK (AP)—Western Electric Co. 2nd union officials may meet today to try to end the day-old coast-to-coast strike by telephone equipment installers.

Officials of District 10, CIO Communications Workers of America, called the walkout yesterday and to most of its 1,000 members were idle.

The dispute over higher wages contemplated transfers and a new procedure could cripple the Bell Telephone System in 44 states and the District of Columbia if the union throws a wrench into the manufacturing arm of the Bell system.

Telephone operators in Texas walked off their jobs yesterday in a show of solidarity, hoisting the installers' picket lines. Operators were reported off at Dallas, Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Mexico, Fort Worth, Mineral Wells, Abilene and Lubbock.

Union leaders have announced they plan to delay nationwide picketing until Tuesday, but also indicated the plan was "subject to change."

With 80 per cent of the nation's phones on the dial system, the full impact of the strike on local telephone users would not be felt for some time.

But cross-country picketing would seriously disrupt long distance calls and various services, such as information. Some 300,000 Western Electric operators are members of the CWA.

An exception to the mass walkout yesterday was in New Jersey, where a local union members stayed on the job.

Informal talks between both parties were held yesterday following the conference, company officials indicated a settlement may take place sometime today.

States not affected by the strike are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Montana. Maintenance and installation work in these areas are handled by the Bell System rather than by Western Electric.

The CWA's contract with Western Electric expires May 2.

The union expects a 6 to 8 percent hourly pay boost and the company has offered 4 to 5 cents. Present pay averages $1.50 an hour.

A company spokesman says that that wages are the prime issue.

The union contends, however, that a company proposal to establish a national work-in-progress fund which installers could work as a strike insurance.

Currently Western Electric has 113 such locations throughout the country. Installers required to work beyond commuting range from their home base are paid travel and living expenses.

The company has proposed to pay new hires at $1.50 an hour in Florida, Lake Charles, La., Macon, Ga. and Saginaw, Mich.

The union opposes such addition of new hires on grounds that an unskilled number of installers would have to give up their present homes and move to the new areas.

The company claims the new hires are needed as a result of increased service requirements.

Southern Entryway Into Sanford Presents Disgraceful Appearance

The southern end of Park Ave. is a disgrace! Scattered profusely for several blocks along the street at the outskirts of the City is a welter of trash — newspapers, paper cups, beer cans and other assorted litter. It looks terrible!

The area between 25th and 22nd Sts. as one travels into the City is a mess. This condition also extends both ways from this section of Park Ave. but is not quite as bad. A service station man in the area told of

Death Doesn't Take Holiday

Editor's Note—The National Safety Council forecasts a record number of deaths over the 4th of July weekend. In the interest of safe and sane holiday, we are releasing the following column which was widely praised by safety officials last year.

NEW YORK—Death got up early this morning. As America began to celebrate the long Independence Day week-end, Death promptly went on over-time.

For when mankind has a holiday for any reason, Death can know no idleness. He must tabulate a great human self-slaughter.

And so it was that Death rose early today. He had a lot to do in the busy days ahead. He had many a mortal rendezvous to keep on highway and byway, in homes and autos, on pond and pavement, on mountain cliff and summer playground.

For Death had a double duty. He had not only his usual job to do of escorting the sick and old and life-worn across his pale frontier. He had his extra holiday clients to attend to. The lost battalion of the needless dead.

On such days as these, Death, the fair weather friend of the foolish, initiates new members into the D.O.A. club. This club has no dues and no life memberships. It is made up of unseeing holiday victims who are brought to hospitals and tagged with a card bearing three initials that stand for "dead on arrival."

Yes, Death got up early this morning. For by next Monday night there are hundreds of Americans he must meet and wave to their doom—a D.O.A. tag. The potential membership crop was large and the land was wide, and Death is conscientious. He didn't want anyone who earned that tag to miss it.

Wherever Americans set out to celebrate the holiday, this skeletal comrade of the stupid and careless went right along for the fun. And here is what he will say to some, or perhaps is already saying even in 10,000 cars rounding 10,000 curves, he whispers to the drivers: "Go on and pass that car ahead picking up trash every morning from in front of the place of business. A resident yesterday was mowing his yard, which was littered with bits of refuse.

This isn't a new situation, either. The refuse has been collecting over a long period of time.

The condition is an outstanding example of carelessness and thoughtlessness. The City should have cleaned up this mess, but it doesn't do much good to clean it up if people continue to leave all this refuse from their automobile windows.

Sanford has been called an attractive community and local residents should at least take enough pride in the city to keep a main thoroughfare clean. What an impression this condition must make on a tourist.

Let's stop this indiscriminate use of Park Ave. as a wasteland and have a neat-appearing entryway to Sanford instead of the deplorable one we have now.

BLESSED EVENT

WASHINGTON—Twenty-five years from now—if by then the Communist wave has receded or is lapping at American shores—the cause may be traced back to this country's decision, or lack of it, on its dilemma of 1954.

The dilemma is what to do about the Communist threat in Southeast Asia where the French, in Indochina, are melting under the torrid

WASHINGTON—Seen on Capitol Hill this week, Mrs. Mabel M. Reese, editor of the Mt. Dew Topic, here for the 60th Annual Convention of the National Editorial Association, Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Farmer, Palatka, launching Congressman Charles Bennett when he was a member of the Florida State Legislature, and her sister, Mrs. J. L. Merrick and niece, Sally Merrick, 12, and Mirkey Mucus, 11, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Warren Leeborg, attending the Democratic Republican charity ball given with their four children, the Democratic won—with Secretary managing—with a score of 2 to 1. Both Democratic runs came in the ninth Carl Duncan (and $200,000) for the construction of two locks on the Oklawaha River in Lake County.

4-H CLUBBIES—Florida's 4-H leaders' winners were here last week. Each year two boys and two girls win trips to the National 4-H camp in Lake County. This year were: Mary Ann Ryker, Madison; Jane Stack Pierce, Billy Miller, Live Oak; Roger Wilson, Milton. Also made the trip were: Miss Bronna Mae Ekins, Assistant State Girls 4-H Club Agent, Tallahassee; W. J. Platt, District Agent, Agriculture Extension Service, Gainesville. Besides their 4-H work they found time to visit the offices of Florida's senators and congressmen to present them with 4-H souvenir letter openers. Also on their agenda were trips to the P.H.U. Washington monument, Arlington, and Mt. Vernon.

RAISE MONEY FOR SPRING
SEVEN SERVICES, N.C.—Sunday mail service will be resumed here July 18.

In what the Post Office Department described as an economy measure, the service was suspended last month.

Then the townspeople got together and raised $136, the amount cost of the service, which they sent to Washington.

It was returned today, along with a letter from F. H. Davis, district mail supervisor at Norfolk Va., reinstating the service.

Communists Cause Dilemma

up to the fact! It may have to fight in Indochina. Yet a day looking at Viet Nam slowly falling to the Communists and little being done to stop it, he said:

"Where do we go from here? How many more Communist victories must be gained in Asia before the free world recognizes the danger?"

He continued: Will the non-Communist countries cling to their feeling it is not worth the risk of fighting when it comes to Cambodia, Laos, Thailand, Burma, Malaya, India, Pakistan, Formosa, Japan, Indonesia, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand?

When the crisis came in Indochina—although all year the Eisenhower administration had been talking of the importance of Indochina and how, if it fell, all Southeast Asia stood in peril—the President's advisers were divided on what to do.

Meanwhile, China, the main enemy, could start aloof, sending supplies to the Vietnam, letting the Vietnam do the fighting. The United States would face another decision: whether to bomb China. That might bring in Russia, on China's side, and start World War III.

But, as Knowland noted, if the United States never moves in any where, the Communists in time will try to take over everywhere. The Eisenhower administration will have to make a decision someday.

AMERICA BY 1975

America by 1975 will have a population of 150 million, according to estimates made by the Social Security Administration.

This will represent an increase of about 25 million over the population of 1954. These figures reflect the possibilities for this country's growth and demonstrate that there is no foreseeable limit on our capacity to produce, if we have the incentives and if we use our physical resources intelligently.

An increase in population and continuance of America's traditionally expanding economy will bring an increase in the labor force to about 25,000,000. This will be at work in 1975 than were in 1954.

Jap Ship Ordered Into Red Waters To Make Rescue

TOKYO—The Japanese Coast Guard today ordered one of its cutters into Russian waters to rescue 14 shipwrecked Japanese fishermen stranded on a rocky point in the Soviet-held Kurile Islands.

The fishermen have been rafting for help from barren Shishiri Island, about 400 miles northeast of Japan's northernmost island, since their boat was wrecked in a dense fog June 29.

The 210-ton patrol boat Tenryu was ordered to land a rescue party on the island, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

"We have also kept requesting Russian authorities to extend help to the Japanese fishermen, but so far have received no answer," the spokesman said.

"The Tenryu is now proceeding at full speed and is continually radioing in Russian territorial waters because of imminent danger to the fishermen and because of lack of a Russian reply," he said.

No Japanese ship has been sent into Russian waters since World War II.

Deputies Disbelieve Signs On Barrels

GOLDSBORO, N.C.—Sheriff's deputies didn't believe the signs on the barrels hidden in woods near here. So they went ahead and tested the barrels' contents.

It was a wash—the kind used to make liquor.

The signs read: "Poison—Cotton Molasses."

An informal reception followed the marriage of Miss Caroline L. Miller, of Orange City, and Robert White, Jr., of Sanford, which was performed recently in Folkston, Ga. The couple returned to Orange City immediately following the service for the reception which was attended by close friends and relatives.

Miss Miller attended public schools in Bethlehem, Pa. DeLand, and Sanford. Mr. White was a student at Stetson Univ. and attended public schools in Zellwood and DeLand.

The couple are presently at home at 212 W. 4th St. in Sanford.

Mildew May Cause Lasting Damage

Any traces of mildew that appear on shoes, handbags, gloves, luggage or other leather goods in muggy summer weather need to be removed promptly before the mildew grows into the leather and leaves permanent stains or other damage, the U. S. Department of Agriculture advises in response to requests for information on this summer problem, says Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent.

To remove mildew from leather goods, wipe with a cloth wrung out in a mixture of denatured alcohol and water, half and half. (Undiluted alcohol might affect the color of the leather.) After wiping, brush the leather with a stiff brush and dry in a well-ventilated place. Do not use a hair dryer or other artificial heat, as this may crack the leather.

Keep leather shoes or luggage clean and well polished with a good wax dressing toward off mildew. Many housewives have found that in humid weather it pays to keep shoes and luggage high and dry on an upper shelf instead of in the usual location near the floor of clothes closets. Leather handbags and gloves may be kept in summer kept on open racks rather than in closed unventilated dresser drawers.

Betty Hutton Wins Her Second Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Betty Hutton has been awarded a divorce from her second husband, dance director Charles O'Curran, after testifying that he flew into rages that once left her paralyzed for a month.

The 33-year-old blonde song and dance performer testified yesterday that he "was a perfectionist and a human being cannot be perfect."

Miss Hutton married O'Curran March 18, 1952 and separated last April 20. He did not contest the divorce.

A Smooth Summery Pie!

After a long, pleasant Sunday afternoon in the sun, there's something luxurious about inviting neighbors to sit on your back porch in the gloaming, with the lights slowly blinking in the sky. A quiet evening of talk, then into the dining room for hot coffee and the cool, delicious smoothness of banana coconut cream pie handed, so nicely garnished and attractively served. And so easily achieved, too, in just half the time it used to take. When you make it with a vanilla pudding and pie filling mix.

Banana Coconut Cream Pie
 1 package vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
 2 cups milk
 1/2 cup shredded coconut
 2 ripe bananas
 1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Combine pie filling mix and milk in saucepan. Add shredded coconut. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat. Cool only about 5 minutes, stirring once or twice. Slice bananas, reserving about a fourth for garnishing, and arrange in cold pie shell. Cover with the filling. Chill. Garnish with whipped cream, the remainder of the banana slices, and maraschino cherries.

Hollywood Suffers From Bad Publicity, Is Self-Inflicted

HOLLYWOOD — A man is judged by the company he keeps, figures Robert Ryan, the same old actor for Hollywood.

Ryan, one of the screen's solid citizens, today lashed out at some of his fellow townsmen for attaching themselves to figures who bring bad publicity to Hollywood. For instance, Porfirio Rubirosa, the 20th-century Don Juan.

"I think a guy like that should be shunned when he comes to Hollywood," said Ryan, an ex-Marine who speaks plainly and has muscles to back up his statements. "Instead, people rush for the opportunity to throw him cocktail party and reception."

He said the lathari's current amour, Zsa Zsa Gabor, hasn't profited from the headlines. Her film salary is still small.

"And that's just what she's worth as far as ability is concerned," he said.

"During my career I've often wondered if I shouldn't go after the more sensational stuff," he said. "Every actor thinks about it, especially those who are 'hot cups' like myself. I have a wife and family and lead a very quiet life. I've never been in any scandal."

"It's just as well nothing like that ever happened to me. After all you have to live with your self. And I'm convinced that scandals don't help a career, despite thinking to the contrary."

"I've done a lot of traveling on the road in the past few years, talking to theater men and ordinary citizens all over the country. I found out that Rita Hayworth's career was actually hurt at the time of her romance with Alvin Karpis."

"I don't know about Bob Mitchum, but I imagine he was hurt during his scandal. Afterward, well, that's a different matter. People have short memories."

He observed that Hollywood has changed in recent years, a change somewhat favorably in the direction of respectability. This is a good thing, he said.

Better Grooming, More Vacation Fun

It's as simple as that! So here are a few practical suggestions from one who knows—Katherine Potter, Director of a Beauty & Grooming Information Service.

She says that all smart girls, who wouldn't think of going to market without a grocery list, shouldn't think of going on a vacation without a packing list. Then you won't be furious at yourself for forgetting the belt that simply makes an outfit... or the white earrings that set off your beautiful new tan.

And be sure to list your cosmetics. Most of them are sold everywhere, of course—but why take up fun time shopping for them? Particularly when you can take them with you. More economical, too. Just pour from your big sizes into small plastic bottles. For stockings and underthings, take pairs of different colors. And never set forth without your favorite sunbath. A vacation success depends a lot on looking your best, and nothing makes you feel tackier than knowing your hair isn't right. Especially when the man might turn up, any minute!

A Redhead By Fall? Hair Color Trend Expert Says Yes

Redheads are coming back, hair detective, Harry Robins, says that before the snow flies you'll have a yen to be a redhead.

Robins, director of educational research for a hair preparation house in St. Paul, Minn., makes surveys of hair trends. Says he: "Funny thing about hair color is that it is regional and runs in cycles. But one shade always predominates. The West Coast has been slaphappy over red hair for a long time. Movie stars Lucille Ball, Rita Hayworth, Susan Hayward and others helped influence blonde to chic."

Robins got interested in detecting hair colors on a regional basis when he ran into a St. Paul, Minn., hair preparer looking for "best" tests and got no results. Someone suggested Chicago. There he was deluged.

Lighter hair shades are more likely to predominate in states bordering water, he says. New York and Boston favor a blond, whereas in Midwest coastal states preference is red.

Robins says the red head is becoming increasingly popular at beauty shows and in national surveys of beauty experts. Let your advance predictions of popularity indicated ash blonde, and such was the case, he says.

Even gray haired women think nothing of coloring their hair in youthful shades these days, he says. Some go in for silver blonde hues or smoky tones. Others color their hair but leave a little gray at the temples to give their hair a more natural look.

New hair coloring processes are quicker and easier, he says. New colors have a developer action which works very quickly coloring and lightening the hair in one process, taking only from three minutes to one-half hour as compared to yesterday's tedious coloring jobs.

Not every woman should color her hair, Robins advises. Eyes and skin must harmonize with hair color. Lighter shades are fine for older women providing skin is light, but olive-skinned types must select medium hair colors.

Reds and dark reds go with almost any type, however. Medium ash blonde is good for women in the 40s and 50s, Robins says.

"Whatever happens let the woman beware of trying to get the hair color she had at 16. Skin pigmentation, face lines are changed. A good hair colorist should be consulted to help make hair color look perfectly natural."

Serve asparagus, either fresh cooked or canned, with cold cut or stuffed eggs for a summer luncheon or supper plate. Arrange the asparagus stalks on romaine and drizzle with a well-seasoned French dressing.

Miss Linda Cullum Honored By Parents On Third Birthday

Miss Linda Cullum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cullum, was honored by a party celebrating her third birthday Thursday evening. The affair was held at the Cullum home on Catalina Dr.

Refreshments were ice cream and cake, especially decorated for Linda by her uncle, Frank Aliss, cold drinks, and candy.

Attending the family party for Miss Cullum were Mrs. E. E. Cullum, her grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moore, Mrs. Frank Donohoe, Bobby and Elizabeth Moore, Michael Donohoe and Joyce and Johnny Cullum.

Strange But True, Warmth Is Cooling In One Instance

During these hot summer days, we are always looking for ways to cool off. It is not as strange as it sounds, but a warm tub bath soaking for twenty minutes just before bedtime is more cooling than a cold shower. Warm water causes the blood vessels to dilate so that much of the internal heat can reach the skin and leave the body. So relax and cool off several times a day by bathing in warm water.

Story League Concludes Year With Dinner Meet

The final meeting of the Sanford Story League was held Wednesday evening at Elmer's Restaurant, on the Orlando Highway, where the group met for dinner. The president, Mrs. W. L. Roche, presided.

After calling the meeting to order, Mrs. Roche read a note received from Mrs. E. D. Browlee of Inverness, an honorary member of the League, in which she expressed regret that she could not accept an invitation to attend the meeting.

A request was made for volunteers to tell stories to the intermediate Girl Scouts and Brownies at Silver Lake during the early part of August. Plans were made for a picnic to be held at Rock Springs on July 8.

Mrs. Roche then presented a summary of the group's activities for the past year. The magazine, "National Story Art" recently carried an account of the April program of the local league. This was considered quite an honor.

The next national Story League convention will be held in Tampa, and was announced at the meeting. This event is scheduled for 1956.

Headed By Women Is Big Success

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Women rule the loose at the imposing fifty-story national headquarters of a fraternal life insurance organization in the heart of downtown St. Paul.

Women hold down the offices of chairman of the board, president and secretary of the Degree of Honor Protective Assn., with assets exceeding 25 million dollars. Since its origin in 1893 as a social auxiliary to a men's fraternal organization, the all-woman association has become an independent group which has paid out more than 23 million dollars in benefits.

Mrs. Frances Olson, now chairman of the board, quit teaching to learn the insurance business after being widowed about a year after the turn of the century. In 1904 she was elected to the top (but unalarmed) executive post of the Degree of Honor, with chapters in 21 states.

Working in a male world a decade before women had the right to vote, Mrs. Olson set about the monumental task of molding the loosely joined state groups into a national women's organization with insurance rates on "an adequate and scientific basis." It took her 20 years, but in 1918 the association finally was united and took up headquarters in its present impressive building.

Shipping out of the national headquarters last year after 45 years of service, Mrs. Olson still plays the major role in directing the activities of the association. Resignation from a recent illness, she says.

Working in a male world a decade before women had the right to vote, Mrs. Olson set about the monumental task of molding the loosely joined state groups into a national women's organization with insurance rates on "an adequate and scientific basis." It took her 20 years, but in 1918 the association finally was united and took up headquarters in its present impressive building.

Three Busy Lives—And One Woman

SEATTLE—Mothers who complain that there just aren't enough hours in a day should take note of the three lives of Mrs. Elana Brittain.

A University of Washington organization for older women did it gave her the "Woman of Achievement" award.

She is the mother of four school age children.

She is a full-time University student.

She works evenings as a professional cook.

In addition, she helped remodel the home in which she and her children live with her mother and stepfather. She hopes to get her degree in August.

"Someday," she said, "I would like to have a home for children of broken marriages."

Pan-fry special. Mix a cup of spaghetti in tomato sauce and a small can of salmon that you have broken into chunks. Fry in a shallow baking dish. Top with buttered crumbs and a heat in a hot oven. Serve with green salad.

WE ARE PROUD OF IT!

The editor recently received from one of our Ocala readers a note that apparently was intended to be derogatory criticism of our recent efforts. The note read, in part, as follows:

"I think your Magazine is getting rotter each week instead of pictures of Florida now you have Advertising that covers most of the entire magazine."

Since we are a comparatively new publication, we are proud of the fact that numerous business firms have taken an interest in All Florida Magazine as an advertising medium. This interest has encouraged the publisher to make definite plans for increasing the editorial and advertising content of our publication by doubling or even possibly tripling the present number of 16 pages in the near future.

Yes, we are proud of our increase in advertising. Without it we could not plan to give our readers a bigger and better All Florida Magazine.

ALL about FLORIDA

By
ASH WING

"Mayor of Hogtown Creek"

FLORIDIANA — A POUT Orange housewife looked out her kitchen window one morning last month and saw a car crash into a tree, hurdle an embankment and plunge into a canal.

Yelling to her three children

to stay where they were, she dashed out of her home, climbed the embankment and waded into the canal after the man. She grabbed him just as he was going under and held his head out of water until help came.

Then she went back to her home, dried off, changed clothes, and continued her household chores. The most unusual thing about the brave act was that she was expecting her fourth child!

Never underestimate the courage of a woman!

A Stetson College graduate of 1933 recently sent the Athens Theatre in DeLand $1.25 for "his conscience."

"While I was a student at Stetson in 1933," he wrote, "I was taken as a child and was admitted to your theatre five times for ten cents. . . I have been convicted and want to do what is right."

A Clearwater glass shop owner, Pat Patterson, recently decided to look into the shattering of rear windows in cars. Mysterious shatterings had occurred, he recalled, and he wanted to find out for himself how much pressure it took to break one of the windows.

So he placed one of the curved windows on a concrete slab and asked a 250-pound friend to step on it. He did and nothing happened. The glass bent, but did not break or shatter. Not satisfied, Pat then placed the window under the rear wheel of his truck and backed over it. Result? Same thing. It bent but did not break.

You figure out why car windows shatter!

TV VIEWERS—That WBAY-TV station which has been crowding your local TV outlet off the screen is not in Panama City as some believe. It's in Green Bay, Wis.—nearly 2,000 miles away from Florida.

Incidentally, TV people expect Florida to have 15 stations in the next five years.

Before Mr. O'D. had a chance to answer, the young lad cried, "Is it a girdle like Mummy's?"

OPERA-SINGING POLICEWOMAN GETS SAND IN HER BROGUES

By NEIL MEFFERT

Detroit's gun-totin', opera-singing chief of women police has retired after a 25-year career filled with excitement and achievement to settle down to a quiet life on a small farm near Ocala.

Violet Kidder Ferrell and her husband, Ralph, a retired Ohio farmer, have chosen the green rolling country of Marion County as the place for them to spend the rest of their days.

Before her retirement last year, Mrs. Ferrell, in her early 50's, headed the women's division of Detroit police, a department composed of 76 policewomen, 12 ranking officers, 14 police matrons, a clerical staff of eight, and eight men detectives.

The powder puff police brigade handles all of Detroit's cases involving sex offenses against women and children, juvenile delinquency, missing women and children, and other phases of law enforcement affecting women.

Trained for Opera

A graduate of the University of Michigan, a trained soprano who studied under nationally recognized instructors, "Vi" Kidder's friends and family were aghast at her choice of career when, in 1927, she elected to join the police force.

She ignored their horrified comments, went right on with her work, became a crack marksman, achieved promotions in the division—and kept right on singing opera.

Her repertoire includes operatic arias in French, German, Italian and English. She sang many roles in Detroit Opera Guild productions, among them the lead soprano in "Cavalleria Rusticana," Katisha in "The Mikado," and the witch in "Hansel and Gretel."

Expert Weaver

If the quiet life on the small farm palls, the lady of many talents has another trick up her sleeve. Her hobby of many years is weaving — both she and her husband wear suits made of cloth woven by Mrs. Ferrell.

"We've been here only a short time and already it seems like home. Florida sand is in our shoes, sure enough," declares the ex-police chief.

SCIENTIFIC TRAIL-BLAZERS

TWO YOUNG ST. PETERSBURG SCIENTISTS ARE ON THEIR WAY TO BECOMING THE FIRST TO COMPLETE A TRIP TO THE REPUBLIC OF PANAMA BY LAND IN A POWER-DRIVEN VEHICLE. THIS IS THE FIRST PUBLISHED REPORT OF THEIR PROGRESS, TAKEN FROM A DIARY KEPT DURING THE ADVENTURESOME TRIP.

By LLOYD E. OLSON

"... a stretch of mountains, and winding trails ..."

"... we forded the river ... knee deep ..."

Come tropical rainstorms, dust, short money, no roads and political coups, it looks now like two young Florida scientists will be the first to complete an overland trip from Mexico City to the Republic of Panama in a power-driven vehicle.

A big, broad highway from Mexico City to Panama has long been the dream of engineers, Central American citizens and tourists. So far only sections of the roads here and there are complete. Sometimes a fine road runs smoothly up to the state border and ends, leaving a jungle wall.

The Florida boys have made it over the toughest "hump" already—a stretch of mountains, rivers and winding trails and rain forests—no roads—and are now in Guatemala. When the political situation clears in Nicaragua, they are looking forward to relatively smoother sailing on marked roads to Panama.

Once in Panama they will be the first known to the authorities to make the trip with a power-driven vehicle, without aid.

The boys, H. Morgan Smith, 26, anthropologist, and H. Robin Mills, 27, geographer, both of St. Petersburg, left St. Petersburg early in November last year. Known as the Zundapp Mid-American, they will do anthropological research in cooperation with the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

Both boys are graduates of Florida State University and have received technical advice and the loan of jungle survival equipment from Dr. Hale Smith, head of the University Anthropology and Archaeology Department.

No joy ride just to be the first to make the trip, the young scientists are photographing, sketching and collecting surface collections of pottery, bones and implements. They are also photographing and surveying areas of prehistoric human occupation.

As if that isn't enough, they are doing ethnobotanical and ethnographical research. According to Smith this "will include cataloging vegetation both edible and that used in the manufacturing of clothing and articles by native tribes."

They have had good luck. Four months after leaving St. Petersburg the Florida scientists were in Oaxaca City, Mexico, in the Rio Grande section on the western slope of the Sierra Madre Del Sur.

Villagers there showed them a stone, nine feet long, three feet wide, weighing three tons which was covered with hieroglyphics. Mills and Smith searched the area and found eight more slabs which they photographed and measured. In Oaxaca City they got in touch with Ignacio Ber-not a leading Mexican expert on ancient Indian cultures.

"... the mud... We could not go downhill in first gear."

Bernal said the discovery was of very great importance. The New York Times in a recent issue devoted three-fourths of a column to the new find. Also Time Magazine has had a story of the boys' find with a picture of one of the stones.

Saul Smith: "It's hard to say which was our greatest thrill finding the important ruins near Rio Grande or making it over the roughest stretch of the trip through the State of Huehuetenango."

The boys are traveling on two specially equipped Enduro model Zundapp motorcycles supplied to the expedition by the International Motorcycle Co. of New York through the local distributor in St. Petersburg.

The motorcycles have raised exhausts and "snorkel" tubes on the carburetors to prevent them from drowning out while fording streams.

The following are excerpts taken from Smith's diary written during the trip over the most difficult part of the journey and in part transcribed to Dr. Smith at Florida State University.

"We made it through all the way on the machines and are in good shape. The people and police of Guatemala are very good to us. Will first give you a run-down on the trip through the 'impossible' trail.

"We left Las Casas on April 3 and had a nice trip on a gravel road to Comitán, Mexico (44 miles).

"We left Comitán on April 5. From Comitán to the border town of Ocotlán it is 50 miles over fine macadam road which drops out of the mountains into tropical rain forest near Ocotlán. From Ocotlán to the border it is four kilometers.

"The roads stop completely at the border. There is a narrow foot trail for one mile winding through rain forest type vegetation and across dry and wet stream beds. While we were at the border guard's house, they said two Frenchmen on motorcycles had gone through before. But they said the Frenchmen used mules to transport their machines part of the way.

"The first one-half mile after leaving the guard's house was easy although the trail is traveled only by foot, mule and horses. We started down a mountain and the trail became quite steep and then steeper. We began to zig-zag back and forth. It is rocky and sandy, and on each zig or zag you gain about three feet. The temperature was around 95 degrees.

"It took us two and one-half hours to make it to the top. In many places we had to move large stones so the machines could make it. The average slope of the trail is about 22 degrees.

"At the top the trail was 12 inches wide and followed along the brink of a canyon. We couldn't see the bottom. I guess the trees would have stopped a fall. On top it was about a mile or so of twisting trail, but fairly flat rocks. Dogs, cows, mules, horses and people were the only road hazards. Mules and horses raise heck when the motors go by. Dogs bark and chase them. Cows stand in the way. Bulls kind of worry a person. People run and finally get off the trail.

"At dusk we entered a beautiful wooded area and could see a valley ahead. It was cooler now, but tree roots and rocks hidden in leaves were continually fouling up the tranquility of the scene.

"Got to a place where there were a few rocks. It's here that the trail starts down. It was totally dark. The trail started this old zig-zag business again. This time with tree roots and trunks to contend with.

"We were half way down when

"... at Florida State University in Tallahassee, our alma mater, we stopped for technical advice and the loan of jungle survival equipment."

a flashlight appeared coming up the trail. It was three men from a little village called Santa Rosa. They had heard the crashing, cussing and had seen the headlights pointing at various angles. Where there was soil exposed on the trail it was either slick mud or dust... this helped!

"We made it to one of the men's house in Santa Rosa at 10 p.m. The whole town came up to look at the machines and the fools riding them. They gave us hot water and bananas. Believe me hot water was the only thing nothing could have been better. We slept there... sleeping bags."

The next day the boys made it to Democracia, seven miles in seven hours.

"Leaving Democracia was more of the same type trail up and down through sand and rocks except for a couple of long muddy stretches. We made 11 miles for the day and stopped after dark at a house in a lush tropical spot... bananas, mangoes and other tropical fruits.

"We had a large papaya (five cents) and coffee (four cents) for breakfast and headed for Chemichí. A few miles out of town there was a swinging and bucking suspension bridge over a river... after that all rocks and uphill. In places it must be a 1,000 feet or more straight down from the path to the river below.

"The cliff walls and trees are covered with ferns, philodendrons, orchids, bromeliads with red, yellow and green bloom spikes. Also white orchids, brown and yellow speckled ones.

"Later we arrived in San Pedro Nectar just ahead of a severe thunder shower. We ate and left in a light rain. We had to push the machines about 200 yards uphill because the clay trail was slick as ice. The trail climbed through beautiful pine forests where the wet clay and pine needles stopped the wheels by packing quite solid between the fender and tire. We could not go downhill in first gear... steep hill too!"

We finally arrived at Chemichí where there is a vice and cable swinging bridge which is for foot traffic only—we forded the river knee deep. The trip from Chemichí to Guatemala City was via good gravel roads to Huehuetenango, Aguacatán, Sacapulas, Santa Cruz del Quiché, Solola, Patzún, etc."

"The motorcycles have raised exhausts and 'snorkel' tubes on the carburetors to prevent them from drowning out while fording small streams."

"The average slope of the trail is about 22 degrees... It is rocky and sandy, and on each zig or zag you gain about three feet. The temperature was around 95 degrees."

ROMEO

Whether it's helping the sheriff spot fugitives from the air, scouting tropical storms, rescuing young Robinson Crusoes stranded on an island, flying air-ambulance hops, or just plain picking up downed aviators, it's all in a day's work for the men of Pensacola's Search and Rescue Unit. They go by the call letters . . . "Romeo-Coco" . . . these Minute-Men guardians of the Gulf Coast.

By LT. ROY ROBINSON
Official U. S. Navy photographs by Jack Kib, PH3

Navy Major George Ross (seated) checks the location of a downed aircraft on an area map, as Lt. Gene Jones takes crash information from Corry Field Tower over the crash phone.

Cast out southward from the magnificent arc, over 1,000 curving miles in length from Brownsville, Tex. to Key West, lie the millions of acres of green water known as "the Gulf."

This vast sea, which laps at the shores of the entire southern part of the United States, provides the livelihood for thousands of Gulf coast fishermen, a matchless seaside playground for other thousands of tourists, shipping lanes for bustling southern industry and international commerce, and a definite danger area for hundreds of Navy pilots that fly, indeed learn to fly, above its rolling surfaces.

From somewhere out over this expanse, a few weeks ago a pilot's voice, obviously alarmed, came crackling over the radio: ". . . This thing is cutting out! . . . there she goes again . . ."

Mayday, Mayday, Mayday, this is Charlie Baker Four Four. I've got a dead engine. . . I may have to ditch! . . ."

Immediately the call was picked up by another pilot in the area, "Charlie Baker Four Four, what is your position?"

"This is Charlie Baker Four Four. . . I'm out over the Gulf about 10 miles south of Wolf Field. . . I'm going in!"

Instantly the monitoring pilot radioed again, "Crash, crash, crash. . . Romeo Coco, this is Charlie Baker Six Nine, water landing ten miles south of Wolf Field. . . I'll circle and try to spot the pilot, let's get Dumbo and the Whirlybird out here!"

At Corry Field in Pensacola, Navy Search and Rescue headquarters for Northwest Florida, Marine Major George Ross's free hand flew to the crash buzzer. The buzzer sounded twice, and everybody in the operations lounge knew it was time to move or get run over.

Between the time the report had come over the squawk box and the time both planes, with a total of 10 men, were airborne, two minutes and 57 seconds had elapsed.

Four minutes later, the pilot, who now was circling the downed aviator, sighted the helicopter bearing straight for him. He rocked his wings to further identify himself, stayed until the helicopter reached the area, and then peeled away towards land and home.

As the helicopter approached, a slanting column of reddish flare smoke, boiling up from the surface of the sea, marked the pilot's position. He was floating, it seemed almost languidly, in his yellow, one-man life raft. Bob Gould jockeyed his whirlybird into position from downwind, and hovered directly over the raft. Doc Wiley emerged through the open hatch behind the pilot's seat, and was lowered by a steel cable towards the sea. He splashed into the chill waters beside the raft, helped fit the sling under the pilot's arms. He then swam and pulled himself back along about 15 feet of the slack cable, clamped his own sling onto the cable, and signaled thumbs up for the helicopter to hoist.

The cranking mechanism squawked, and the cable drum began to wind like a giant reel, hoisting its two human catches in, one by one. The helicopter swallowed the two men, tilted nose down and whirled away towards shore.

At the Mustang Beach Officer's Club parking lot, an ambulance waited. The whirlybird settled neatly down amongst the parked cars, and the victim clambered from the "copter" to the ambulance and was whisked away to the hospital, some 200 yards distant, for a routine check-up and observation.

From the time the pilot had made his first startled call for help until he walked into the hospital, 26 minutes had elapsed. Wonderful as this rescue operation seems to the layman (and its direct beneficiaries, the rescued) it's all in a day's work to the men of the Search and Rescue. They are inclined to look upon the feat of snatching some hapless soul back from a watery grave with the same excited fervor they feel towards brushing their teeth in the morning, or putting on clean socks.

This casual attitude, however, is reserved almost entirely for "afterwards." On the way out, and while a rescue is in progress, they work together with the split-second precision of a Swiss watch. Of necessity a highly coordinated unit, the crews compete furiously with each other to see which outfit gets off the ground quickest.

Times vary with the season. The helicopter usually makes it "off the deck" in less than 60 seconds, while average time for the PBV is two minutes—in the summer. During winter months, as engines must be warmed up to safe operating temperatures before take-off. To combat this, the crews warm up the engines every two hours during the winter, although, as pilot Bill Hamby drolly observed, "We usually have enough business to keep the equipment warmed up all the time."

Oddly enough, though it's a Navy unit, with Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard people, a good portion of the men's missions are flown to aid civilians.

When the sheriff phones on behalf of a distraught mother whose four children have been missing in a rowboat since morning, the Navy can almost always be counted on to help.

There are times when misunderstanding between the rescue pilots and people on the ground generally confuses the mission. A few hundred souls were not only confused, but considerably startled recently, when the good citizens of Mary Esther, Florida's smallest incorporated city, heard a bull-horn voice from up in the sky warning them to clear out of the area immediately. Frightened residents poured out of their houses searching for the origin of the voice, and then began evacuating, as they were directed. An oil barge close by had caught fire and was expected to explode at any minute. The voice belonged to Chief G. D. Mitchell and it came from a loudspeaker rigged to the under side of the helicopter, which had been equipped with a public address system for just this purpose. Fortunately, the barge didn't explode, but the Coast Guard relied on several informative messages radiated by the whirlybird, in getting the barge fire under control.

On another occasion, the Coast Guard, which keeps tabs on all surface vessels plying through local waters, lost track of a barge loaded with explosives, which had broken away from the pushboat. A tree-drafting barge loaded with nothing more ominous than chocolate bonbons is hazzard enough to other craft that are cruising around the bay. The knowledge that this particular barge which had gone AWOL was a potential block-buster lent a note of desperate immediacy to the situation, and caused the Coast Guard to call in Search & Rescue instantly. The helicopter soon spotted the recalcitrant barge meandering casually around in the center of the bay, and led surface craft out to take it in tow.

When Captain "Red" Miller joined the Marine Corps and learned to fly in 1944, he expected a certain amount of excitement, but he didn't anticipate that several years later, in the normal line of duty, he would be helping a Florida sheriff try to catch three rape suspects who were on the loose. That was an-

Back at the field, an injured man is unloaded in the stretcher by waiting corpsmen and crewmen.

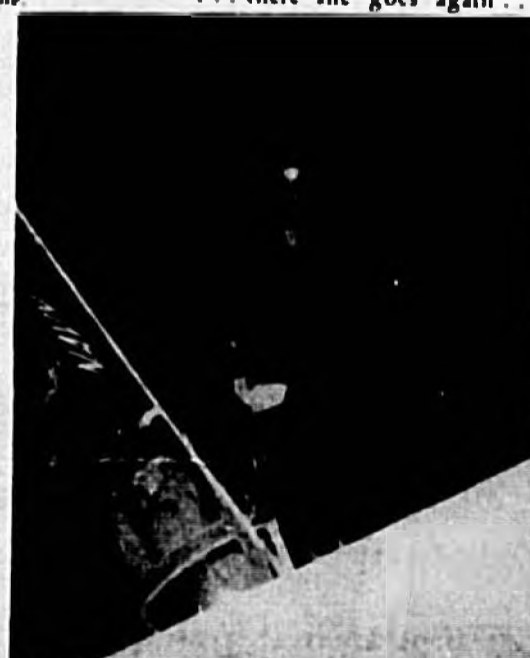

The "chopper" nears a pilot who has "gone in" close to the beach.

The doctor, safely back aboard, helps haul in the rescued man.

The doctor on duty sprints the last few yards in slungover style. Coast Guard Lt. Comdr. Bob Gold, veteran Search and Rescue pilot, usually gets his whirlybird "off the deck" in 60 to 90 seconds.

When the crash buzzer sounds, it means "Move!" Hospital corpsman, a photographer, and plane crewmen run for the "P boat" on the double. The big patrol plane is usually airborne within three minutes.

other routine mission which fell to the unit's lot recently. The fugitives were not located, but during the course of the flight, "Red" was able to give the county officers their first report of a truck accident which occurred on a highway directly beneath him.

Other helpful little gestures performed by the unit in behalf of the general public include such details as spotting young forest fires and reporting them so they can be snuffed out early, locating picnickers, hunters, and young explorers that get lost in the woods, flying reconnaissance on hurricanes and storms that are brewing out in the Gulf, aiding in drowning cases, rescuing fishermen from swamped boats, and in many cases, recovering the boats, also.

The three-buzz signal which sends pilots out on boat-hunting missions, or others which similarly are not of life-and-death urgency, indicates a deferred take-off is permitted, or, in the words of "Honey Bear" Danielson, "Don't bust your tail getting off." Incidentally, it is the signal heard least frequently. Shades of the days of Paul Revere are reflected in the other alarms; one buzz signals a crash on land, and two buzzes sound if the call is at sea.

Because of the three-man load limit of the helicopter now in use, in case of rescue at sea only the pilot and the doctor go. The doctor does the rescuing himself, handles the hoist, gets the victim aboard, and, if necessary, treats him on the way back to shore.

When a crash occurs on land, another crewman accompanies the doctor and pilot. The whirlybird can sit down, the extra crewman is on hand to assist the doctor, and can be left at the spot to be picked up later.

Though the buzzer system—which sounds simultaneously in the ready room, the photo lab, the dispensary and the tower—is the spark which touches off the action, it is by far the simplest part of the communications system which is so vital to split-second operation. Major Ross oversimplifies when he says, "A good Search and Rescue unit is really just a good communications center," but the means of getting "the word" spread instantly is the heart's core of the operation.

The coordinator is in direct contact by radio with not only the towers, but the operations offices of all the outlying fields; in direct contact by "hot-line" (direct phone) with Maxwell Flight Service, the Air Force Rescue Service at Maxwell in Montgomery, Ala., 140 miles away; in contact through teletype circuit

You can't live in a parka or an old Mother Hubbard in the summertime — particularly in Florida.

More of you shows, as CHARM reminds us, so you might as well make the best of this summertime skin exposure.

That means a sleek, smooth skin — on face, arms and legs. Even if nature has endowed you with too generous a supply of hair, there's no reason for saying "Kismet" and permitting these misplaced locks to wave in the breeze.

Today we have at least five different ways to remove superfluous hair at home with the help of creams, waxes, abrasives, tweezers and the good old reliable razor. But don't let us catch you shaving your face!

* That Florida sun is wonderful —but it will also tan your skin into old tooled leather, if you don't use that ounce of prevention. That means suntan lotions, creams and preventatives according to your own needs.

These are the days when the nighttime creaming is more important than ever. You don't want your skin to dry out and shout your age before you're ready, do you?

A casual hairdo is perfect for summer, if it's casual rather than careless. But remember that sun and wind in unlimited doses can turn your crowning glory into an unglamorous thicket. Try oil treatments before your weekly shampoo, to keep that natural gleam in your hair. If you use coloring of any type, PLEASE wear a hat or scarf or carry a parasol unless you want your golden locks to get a greenish tinge.

Now to news: That tousled Italian look is on its way out. Instead, Paris has reversed the line and your hair will flow up and back with swirls the key word. In Manhattan, some hair stylists report a trend to longer hair, sometimes four inches long, arranged in sort of a V-shaped chignon at the back of the head.

In makeup—the pastel complexion look for summer is encroaching on the suntanned "golden girl" appearance.

For added femininity and that coy look, Marie Antoinettes "beauty spots" are reappearing on the best-groomed faces. You'll find them in madcap colors, all sizes and shapes from stars to crescents, in sequins for evening fun?

If you have a make-up problem on which you'd like advice, drop us a note.

with the Naval Air Station's small boats dispatcher by telephone.

In most cases, the flying boat acts as a relaying station, as the helicopter must fly very close to the surface, where radio cannot be picked up from the base. In these instances the P-boat circles the disaster scene, climbs to an altitude which will permit it to receive calls both from the coordinator, and the whirlybird flying below it, and relay information back and forth between the two.

Rescue work is not the least rigorous type of flying known for either pilots or crew. Men are on duty from noon until noon, and even when they're home they are on one-hour call. Neither is it completely devoid of peril; but, to the last man, they find it extremely satisfying. As with any job, a good part of the pleasure derived comes from having one's work appreciated. And it's hard to find anyone more appreciative than the person whose life you've just saved.

The guava is as colorful a part of the sub-tropical Florida scene as red hibiscus and pink oleander. We are inclined to take it for granted, but in 1526, when it was first reported on in the Americas, it was a rare find. Since then it has been found in almost all of the regions of the world—India, Southern Asia, Africa, Australia, the Orient, parts of the Mediterranean, Hawaii, and the West Indies.

It is a fruit of unusual quality. During the last war government agencies, concerned with the nutritional welfare of our fighting men, turned to the utilization of the guava as a relatively cheap and reliable source of vitamin C in their rations. Allied troops in all combat zones were supplied with guava products in their emergency rations to help maintain resistance against infections and for more rapid healing of their wounds.

This summer as the guava crop comes in, every Florida home pantry should contain its full quota of canned and frozen guava products, as well as nectar, jam, jelly, butter and paste, sweet spiced pickles, relishes, chutney, and catsup. Guava nectar is an excellent substitute for orange and tomato juice and makes a delicious party punch. Baked in a pie, in a salad, or in ice cream, the guava will rate high on your dinner table.

In answer to several requests from our readers for a Guava Paste recipe, we list one below.

Guava Paste

1 part sugar
2 parts guava pulp

Use pulp or pomace from the jelly drip, or pulp from fresh guavas. Put through strainer or fruit press to remove seed. Measure. Cook until thick; add sugar and cook until the mass clings to spoon as it is stirred. The paste will require constant attention as it nears the finishing point. A wooden paddle having a square edge is decidedly better than a spoon for stirring. Never use a tin or an enamel spoon to stir. The faster the paste is cooked the clearer it will be.

The paste should be cooked until it is so stiff that when the paddle is drawn through it the mass will not readily flow together again. The paste may be molded, cut in squares, placed on cardboard and wrapped in waxed paper or cellophane, first covering the cardboard with cellophane or waxed paper. It may be molded in small wooden or tin boxes lined with carefully fitted wax paper.

Just before removing the paste from the stove, various mixtures—nuts and crystallized citrus fruits—may be stirred into it for the purpose of giving variety to the best of all fruit pastes. It should stand at least 12 hours before it is cut. You may dust with powdered sugar or roll into shredded coconut which has been slightly moistened with heavy syrup. Dry thoroughly. Wrap and pack.

For still further variety, the paste may be cut into various shapes, dried thoroughly and coated with fondant or chocolate.

THIRST QUENCHERS

Guava Juice for Punch

8 pounds firm ripe fruit

2 cups water

Wash, remove blossom and stem ends and blemishes. Slice. Add water, bring quickly to boil and boil about 20 minutes. Strain through jelly bag. Reheat juice to boiling, pour immediately into hot, sterile containers and seal at once. Process at simmering five minutes.

A juice canned for jelly-making purposes must not have sugar added to it. A juice intended for punch, however, may contain sugar in the proportion of  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup to each quart, if desired.

Tropical Cooler

2 quarts guava juice
1 cup fresh lime or sour tangelo juice
Cracked ice
Sugar or honey to taste

Blend well, pour over cracked ice and serve with thin slices of citrus fruit.

Summer Frost

For a 2 quart shaker (a half-gallon fruit jar may be used),

Cream or ice cream

Place guavas in baking dish, about 1 $\frac{1}{2}$  quart capacity. Combine flour, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Sprinkle over guavas. Add lime juice and dot with butter. Cover with pastry rolled thin to fit the top. Cut slashes in pastry for steam to escape. Brush with milk. Bake in a hot oven for 30 to 40 minutes, or until guavas are tender. Serve warm with cream or ice cream.

Cream Dressing

1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons flour
1 tablespoon powdered sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup thick cream, sweet or sour

1 teaspoon butter
Few grains cayenne
1 egg yolk
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup lime juice

Mix dry ingredients in top of double boiler and slowly add butter, egg and lime juice. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken. Cool and add to heavy cream, beaten until stiff.

Guava Ice Cream

3 cups guava pulp
1 pint cream
1 pint milk

2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice

To the guava pulp, add the sugar and lemon juice. Scald the milk and combine carefully with the fruit mixture. Add cream and freeze in the usual way. After freezing, allow an hour or more to ripen before serving.

Any foundation ice cream recipe may be used. Then just add pulp of the guavas, with seeds removed, as you would peach, strawberries or other fruit pulp.

mash 3 bananas to a pulp. Add 2 cupfuls of guava juice, the juice of 4 limes and 2 cupfuls thin cream. Sweeten with honey. Fill shaker with shaved ice and shake until outside of the shaker is frosty. Serve in tall glasses with a beverage spoon and straw.

Weekly Household Hint: To save time when making cookies, roll or spread the dough over the entire baking pan. Cut in squares after baking.

INVADERS FROM AFRICA

By JULIUS STURM

Our country is being invaded! Not by a gray-clad soldier from Russia, but by another enemy who carries his house with him, and who has 80,000 teeth and a voracious appetite for garden vegetables. The invader, the Giant African snail, has traveled 8,000 miles for his attack, and has been on the march for nearly 150 years.

The odyssey began early in the last century when they were introduced from Africa into a French colony in the Indian Ocean to provide material for soup. Since then the movement has been relentless, even in the face of such defensive measures as cyanide gas, live steam, poison bait, and flame throwers. Through the tea plantations of Ceylon, where they wiped out the young plants, to the rubber plantations of Malaya, then into the gardens of Java, Thailand, the Sumatra. He was found eating whitewash off walls in Singapore in 1930, and in the next 15 years he moved on to New Guinea, the Mariannas, then to the Hawaiian Islands.

Recently he has been found contentedly munching green lettuce near San Pedro, Calif. So the invasion is on! The situation is much worse than one might imagine at first glance. This is another of the 45 known small invasions of our shores. The others have cost us millions of dollars in preventative measures and in the crops they've destroyed. None of the previous attackers, however, have measured up to the size and potential of the Giant African snail.

The situation was considered so serious that the National Research Council was called on to investigate means by which the beach-head could be exterminated. They sent one of their top entomologists to Kenya, East Africa, to collect as much information as possible about this invader. What he located was a much smaller variety which seemed to have no other ambition than to destroy and eat the Giant African.

It was decided to establish colonies of both varieties on Agiguan Atoll in the Mariannas, and let them fight to the finish so the battle could be studied. Difficulties were encountered in transportation, since the smaller snail was found to enjoy eating members of its own variety as well as those of the Great African species. They had to be induced to "estivate" or sleep in their shells, as snails habitually do when their habitat gets too dry or their food supply grows short.

Just what will be accomplished in this Pacific arena only time will decide, but in the meantime Congress has passed legislation against importing snails—the harmful varieties, that is.

Not only is the Giant African included in this prohibition, but others that serve as hosts for various diseases, such as schistosomiasis, which is known to have attacked 140,000,000 persons, principally in the Far East and in Africa.

Knowledge concerning the more than 100,000 varieties thought to exist is centered principally in the Smithsonian Institution's Division of Mollusks. A geologist in 1917, sent to the Division for identification some snails he found in Lithia Springs, right here in Florida. To their dismay, the curators identified them as Thiara, a species notorious as the host of the Oriental lung fluke which has attacked millions in the Orient. The Thiara had never before been found in this country.

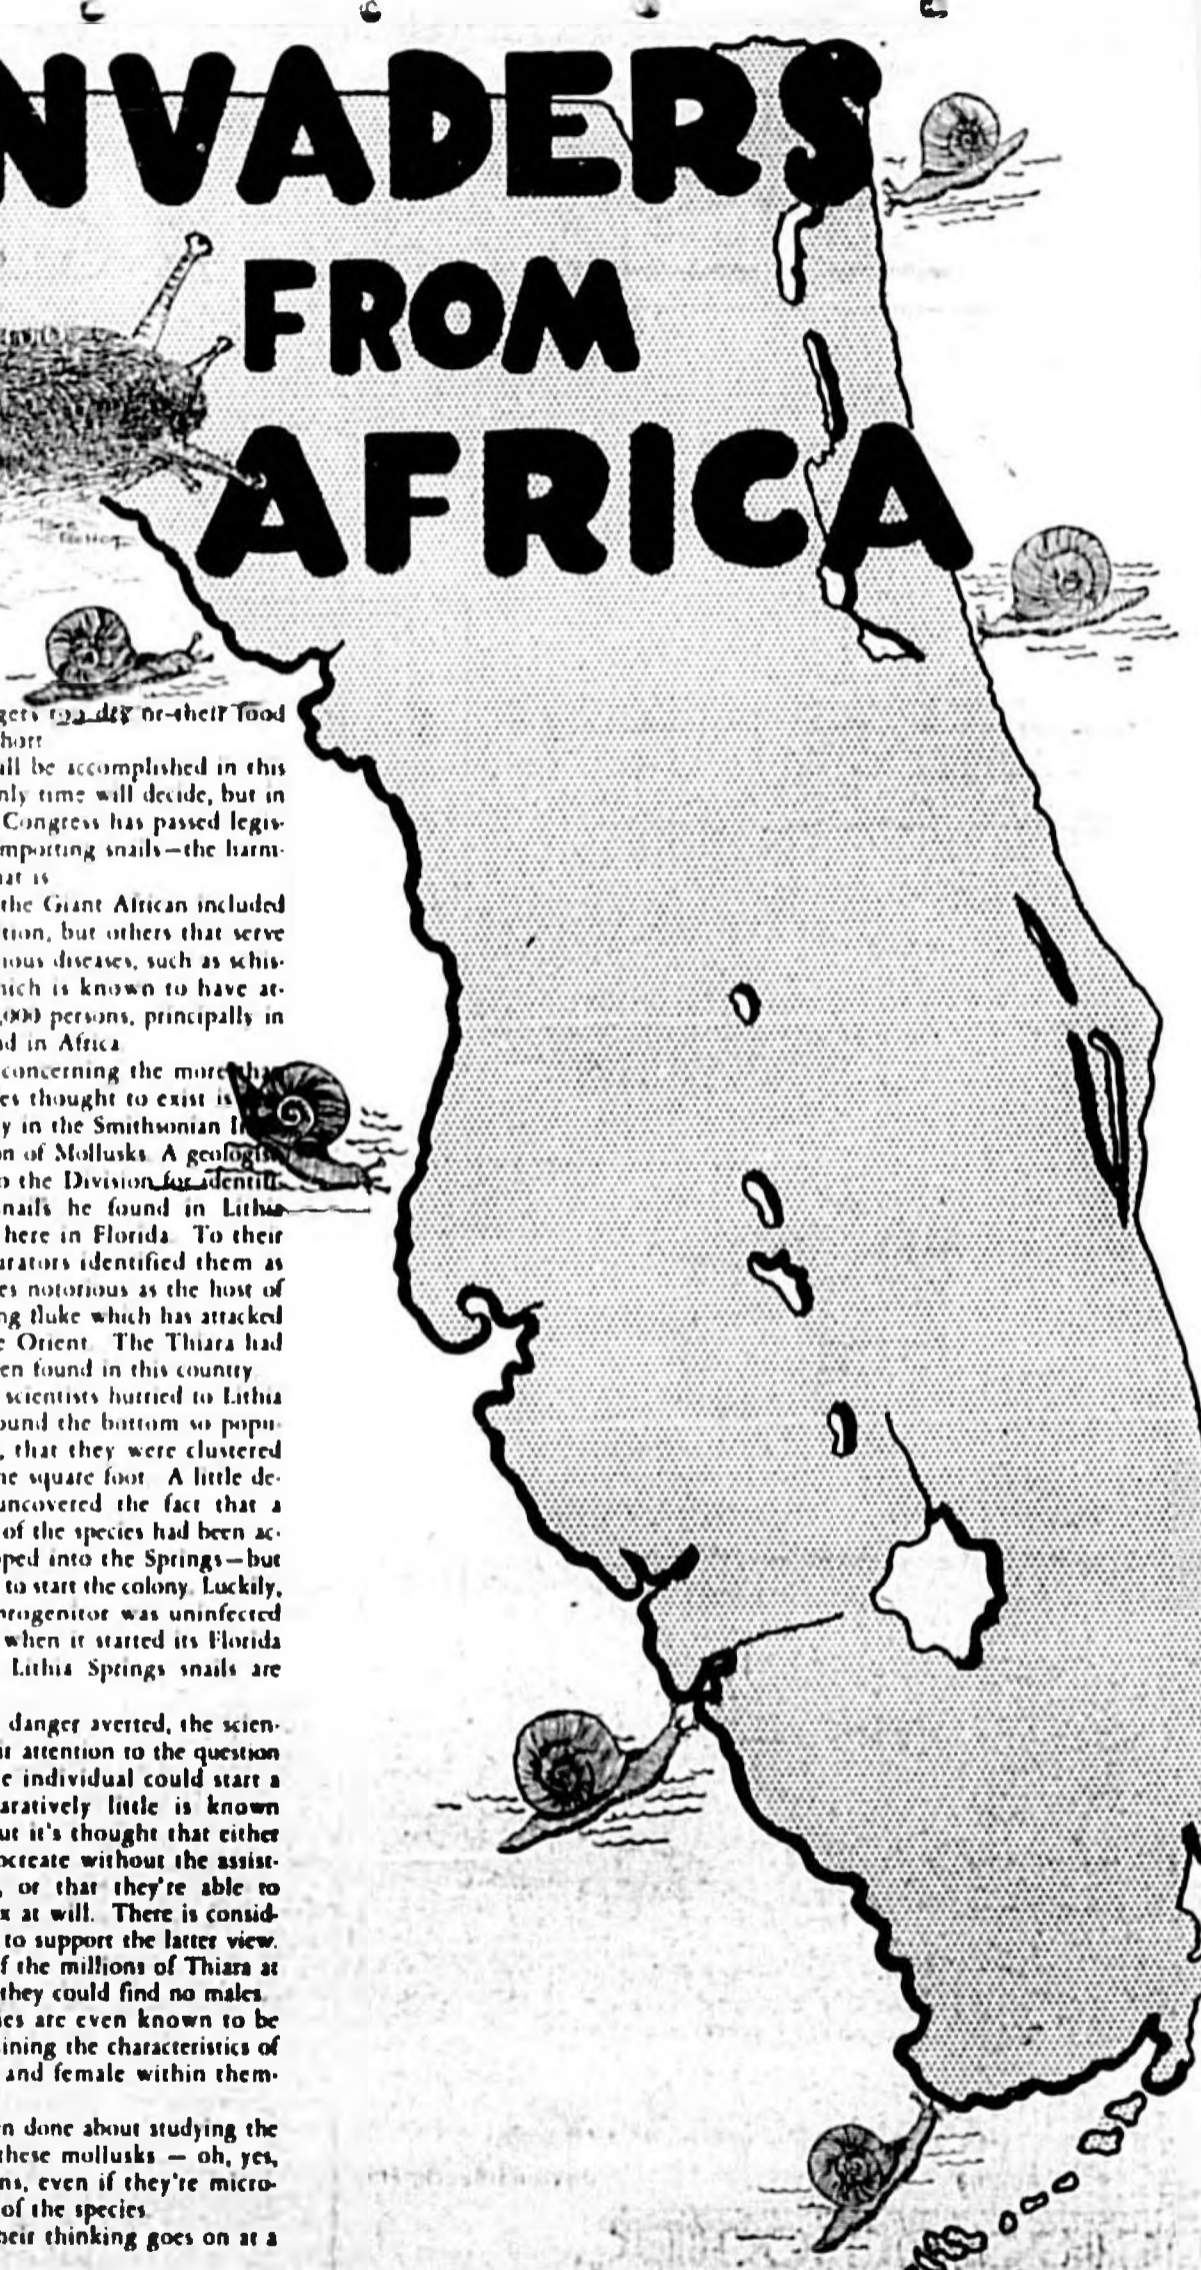

The worried scientists hurried to Lithia Springs, and found the bottom so populated by Thiara, that they were clustered about 400 to the square foot. A little detective work uncovered the fact that a single member of the species had been accidentally dropped into the Springs—but it was sufficient to start the colony. Luckily, however, the progenitor was uninfected with the fluke when it started its Florida family, so the Lithia Springs snails are harmless.

The possible danger averted, the scientists turned their attention to the question of how a single individual could start a colony. Comparatively little is known about snails, but it's thought that either the females procreate without the assistance of males, or that they're able to change their sex at will. There is considerable evidence to support the latter view. In any event, of the millions of Thiara at Lithia Springs, they could find no males.

Some varieties are even known to be bisexual—containing the characteristics of both the male and female within themselves.

Little has been done about studying the psychology of these mollusks—oh, yes, they have brains, even if they're microscopic in most of the species.

Wonder if their thinking goes on at a snail's pace?

A GUIDE THROUGH DARKNESS

By BILL FISHER JR.

This is Mr. Robert Bunker, the Floridian who lost his eyesight in his teens, then rose to become college graduate, teacher, publisher, newspaperman and—now—head of a multi-million-dollar social service organization.

A former executive director of the Florida Council for the Blind, he now guides the widespread fortunes of the American Foundation for the Blind and the American Foundation for Overseas Blind in New York City—the largest organizations of their kind in the world. As their top man, Bob manages a smoothly running staff of close to 200 employees, and directs life-giving services to the blind which reach into every corner of the globe.

How did he do it? Bob's explanation makes it sound simple. This is the way he told it to CBS broadcaster Edward R. Murrow on "This I Believe":

"Blindness is a very serious inconvenience but not in itself a moulder of character—the character should be there to begin with. A human being can meet and carry through any circumstance in life if he possesses a willingness to work beyond tangible compensation, the capacity for restraining selfish desires for passing pleasures, a sense of humor about himself and the world, and a strong, abiding belief in some deity, regardless of the earthly format of his creed."

And it is this philosophy which has carried the 38-year-old native of Jacksonville to top spots in many fields. Graduated from Stetson University at DeLand in 1930, he stayed on to become public relations director and instructor in journalism. In 1935 he was appointed DeLand Bureau Chief for the Daytona Beach News Journal—one of the most demanding news gathering jobs in the Sunshine State. Three years later he was named executive director of the Florida Council for the Blind, and as a result of his outstanding work there was elected president of the National Council of Executives of State Agencies for the Blind.

Still Floridian at heart, Bob, his wife, Sara Ellen, and their children, Sylvia, 10 and Bobby, 8, still make periodic visits to the Sunshine State, where they own a home at Lake Helen, near DeLand.

UNCLE JACK'S ANIMAL STORIES

By GENEVIEVE T. SIBELON

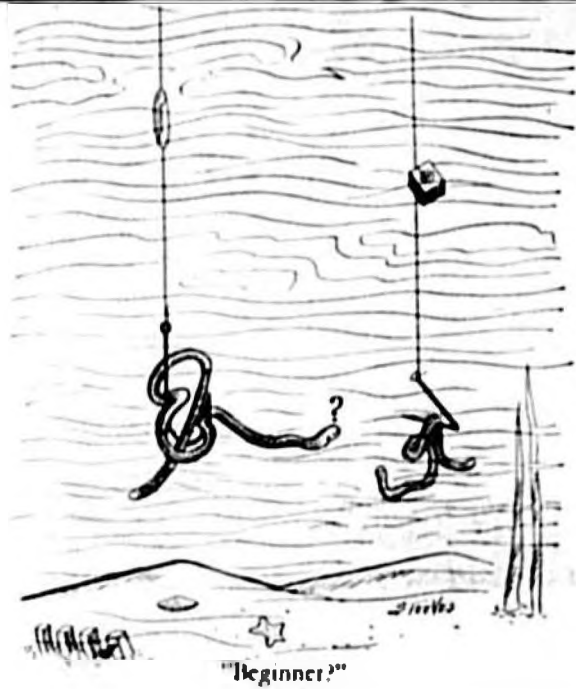

When Johnny Morris was put on the big plane that was to take him to visit his grandmother in a distant city, he was both excited and scared, for it was his first trip in the air. The stewardess and the flight attendant had both assured his parents that they would look after him, and they did, showing him how to fasten his seat belt, giving him a magazine to look at, pointing out the round window to his parents on the ground, waiting to see the big plane take off.

Just before flight time, a man had taken the seat beside him, but Johnny did not look at him, because the plane was rolling down the runway, his parents out of sight in an instant, and in no time at all, he was looking down at the city where he lived. Johnny liked the sensation. It was wonderful.

"You may unfasten your seat-belt now," said a voice beside him, and Johnny did so, looking at the man next to him. He was a large, sun-tanned man, with a pleasant smile.

"It's my first plane trip," said Johnny. "I was a little scared at first, but I feel fine now." He looked down toward the earth, and could see green fields, far below. A few white clouds floated between the plane and the ground, and Johnny realized that he was already very high up in the air. The engines hummed.

"It is an old story to me," said the man. "I have flown all over the world. Maybe some day you will, too." Johnny looked at the man more closely. "You know me?" laughed the man, then.

"You're John Sims, the big-game hunter!" exclaimed Johnny. "I've seen your picture in the papers, and in the movies, and on television, too! Gee, this is wonderful!"

"Do you know," said John Sims, "you are not the only passenger taking his first plane ride. I have a little companion with me."

He reached up to the shelf above, and brought down a small traveling case, handle on top, and screen wire at one end. Johnny peered through the screen and saw something small moving about. It looked like a kitten. Mr. Sims opened the screen and lifted out the small animal, while Johnny's eyes grew larger and larger.

"It's a baby leopard!" he exclaimed, and the man smiled and nodded. "Tell me, tell me!" cried Johnny.

"I have just returned from India," said John Sims. "I had a big crew with me, 14 men. We captured animals and brought them back alive for zoos in the United States. We lost only one on the way... this little fellow's mother. When we unloaded the crates from the ship at San Francisco, she was dead, but the baby was as lively as could be. He is too small to ship alone by freight train, as the others travel, so I got special permission to carry him with me on this trip East." He gently placed the squirming animal back in the crate as he smiled at Johnny. "How about it now?" he added. "Have you almost forgotten that this is your first plane ride?"

Johnny laughed and looked out the window, for he had forgotten all about it. He could see nothing below the plane but clouds. He turned again to Mr. Sims, and settled back in his seat.

"Could you tell me more about the animals?" he asked, and John Sims began to talk. He told Johnny of many, many adventures in the wild parts of the world, of wild animals such as lions, elephants, zebras, gazelles, leopards and crocodiles. Johnny was fascinated.

"Look out the window now," said Mr. Sims, finally. "Time to fasten your seat-belt, too." Johnny fastened his belt as he looked and saw the ground getting closer and closer. "We're there!"

Johnny's first plane trip was over, and when his grandmother asked him how it felt to fly, he scarcely remembered. But he never forgot John Sims and his wonderful adventure stories.

DRUSA WHEELER of Lake Worth passes along a story of how Cocoa, Florida, got its name.
This story has it that long years ago, when Cocoa was first settled its residents knew it had everything—climate, coastline, location, etc.—but neglected to select a name. Then an enterprising citizen saw an empty wooden box in front of the general store. The lettering was handsome so he pulled off a board and hung it on a signpost. The box had been used for shipping Baker's Cocoa.
The board on the signpost said simply "Cocoa." We're not vouching for the accuracy of the story —and perhaps residents of Cocoa can provide further information.

Florida's wonder strawberry is called "Florida-90." It is an all red berry, the coloring extending through the fruit. Its heavy green foliage protects it, makes it a a premium price.

"Build here," said the Lovely Lady, "a great church. And tell people to pray and do penance and walk in processions." This was done and soon the wonderful Shrine of Lourdes was built. The Spring is still there at Lourdes, France and is visited by millions of pilgrims from all over the world!
