Bellamy retrial denied

SANFORD — A motion for a new trial in the case of a man convicted in February of first degree murder was denied Monday.

In his motion, defense attorney James Figgatt, who represents George Bellamy, Jr., noted several points during the trial as justification for a new trial. They ranged from the excusing of some jurors during jury selection to rulings on motions. Figgatt's co-defense counsel is Gary Andersen. Judge Alan Dickey denied the motion.

Bellamy was found guilty of killing Isiah Cohn in February 1991 and of armed robbery. Bellamy took stereo speakers from a car Cohn borrowed from a friend.

During the penalty phase of the trial, assistant state attorney Stewart Stone, who prosecuted the case, said he plans to seek the death penalty for Bellamy.

The jurors who found Bellamy guilty are expected to return to court, possibly in April, to decide on the penalty for the defendant.

Top secretary sought

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce is looking for a good secretary. In fact, they are seeking the best secretary in Sanford.

The chamber is conducting its annual search for Secretary of the Year and is urging bosses to submit letters about their top secretary.

"All of the letters will be confidential," said Dave Farr, chamber director. "We offer a witness protection that is sure to work, since we don't announce the winner of the contest until lunch on Thursday, April 22."

The competition has been an annual project of the chamber for over a decade. Last year's winner was Gloria Stewart, nominated by her boss, who is also her son, Dr. Roger Stewart.

"You don't have to be a member of the chamber to enter this competition," Farr said. "We would like to encourage all businesses in northern Seminole County to get involved in this."

Farr also commented, "In all these years, we have never had a male secretary selected, but the Secretary of the Year contest is open to everyone so don't overlook the men who also do such a good job in secretarial positions."

The deadline for submitting entries to the contest is close of business, Thursday, April 15. Send letters to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Secretary of the Year contest, 400 E. First Street, Sanford, 32771.

The event will be culminated at an awards luncheon, Thursday, April 22, at Timacuan Country Club.

Advance luncheon tickets are now available at the chamber office at a cost of $10. For information and/or tickets, phone the chamber at 322-2212.

Strip joint raided twice, 18 arrested

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Two undercover raids about an hour apart at the same strip club this past weekend netted 18 people arrested for violating adult entertainment codes.

"This wasn't any concentrated crackdown," explained Sheriff's spokesman George Proechel. "Our undercover agents periodically check all of the adult entertainment establishments in the county to insure they are in compliance with county ordinances and state laws."

He continued, "The reason we made the second raid was to stress that just because our officers were there once, doesn't mean people can do what they want after we are gone."

The first raid at the House of Babes in Fern Park resulted in six arrests. The second, slightly over an hour later, brought about 12 additional arrests.

Deadline for inaugural health career class nears

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Students who want to be among the inaugural class at the Academy of Health Careers at Seminole High School have just a few days to submit their applications.

The April 2 deadline is fast approaching and the number of applications is high.

"We've had a very good response," said Nancy Julian, coordinator of the academy.

The health academy, the first specialized school in Seminole County, will help prepare students for careers in the health industry.

According to principal Gretchen Schapker, seven out of ten jobs in the future will be in the health care field. Professional training in careers from medical technician to medical bookkeeper, from respiratory therapist to physician will be the most sought after job skills by the turn of the century, she said.

The academy hopes to ensure relevant preparation for students looking to begin careers in the health care industry and to pursue post secondary studies in the health career after graduation from Seminole High.

Mayor won't seek reelection

MIAMI — Xavier Suarez, elected eight years ago as Miami's first Cuban-born mayor, said he won't seek reelection but is considering a run at statewide office.

"I've got a lot of interesting situations around the state of Florida that I'll be exploring. And I also want to stop and smell the roses along the way," Suarez said.

He told a packed city hall Monday that he felt "eight is enough" years, that he had accomplished his major goals, and that he wanted to spend more time with his wife and four children.

Suarez, 43, wouldn't elaborate on what statewide office he might seek in 1994. He hasn't declared his political party affiliation, but said Monday he would expect to run as either Republican or Democrat — not as an independent.

NAACP asks governor to probe death

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The NAACP has asked Gov. Lawton Chiles to order an investigation into the death of a pregnant woman who was jailed on a charge of violating probation.

Michelle Wilson, 24, died of death internally at the jail on March 15 as a result of complications from her pregnancy, according to a preliminary autopsy.

She had been in the Volusia County Jail for six days after she was booked on a charge of violating probation stemming from a traffic violation. A day before she died, a judge ruled she had been punished enough by the days she spent awaiting arraignment.

Ms. Wilson, who was four months pregnant, reportedly had sought medical treatment for dizzy spells three times before her death. She had been wheeled to her court appearance strapped into a wheelchair because she couldn't walk.

38 brown pelicans deliberately killed

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — State wildlife officials said 38 brown pelicans found dead along Volusia County beaches and riverfronts were killed deliberately.

"We're very much concerned about this," said Lt. Vinard Hitt, a spokesman for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission in Ocala.

"Necropsies have revealed that the birds succumbed to some type of trauma to the head, neck and shoulders," according to a commission news release Monday.

Biologists who examined the birds ruled out starvation, disease or shooting as a cause of the deaths, which occurred during February and March.

Family claims harassment

DORCAS — A Florida Panhandle family with an HIV-infected son claim they are being harassed by neighbors who have flooded local officials with minor building code complaints.

Neighbors, however, deny harassing the Todd family.

Some said they either were unaware of Billy Allen Todd's medical problems or doubted he was infected, reported the Northwest Florida Daily News of Fort Walton Beach in a weekend story.

The family says they have taken all they can. "I was willing to live with it, but it's starting to involve the younger kids," said Todd, 24, a hemophiliac who believes he contracted HIV from blood products used in treatment of that disease.

His mother, Glenda Todd, said schoolmates have been harassing her younger sisters, who are not infected, telling them they have AIDS.

Her husband, also named Billy Todd, last year served a year of prison for waving a shotgun at a neighbor during an altercation. Family members say the incident was caused by fear of the disease. The father said he grabbed his shotgun because the neighbor had a handgun in his waistband and threatened Mrs. Todd.

The Todds have been hit recently with complaints over the trailer where the son lives near his parents' mobile home, citing alleged violations of electrical and building codes.

Senate defeats gas tax

TALLAHASSEE — The Senate defeated a proposed 10-cent-a-gallon statewide gasoline tax increase Monday, voting instead for a local option tax to help counties pay for roads and other transportation needs.

County commissions could vote for an increase of up to 5 cents per gallon under an amendment adopted by the Senate to a major growth management rewrite bill (CS-SB 1166), which then passed on a 36-3 vote. It moves to the House, where a similar bill is pending.

Under the amendment sponsored by Sen. Curt Klier, R-Palm Harbor, the county commission could also decide to put the tax question to voters in a local referendum.

"I would hope we could trust our local governments. They're the ones given the responsibility of dealing with growth management," Klier said.

HRS resignations

McKay asks 29 top managers to resign in cleanup

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay, who was asked a week ago to clean up a growing computer scandal at the state's massive social services agency, asked for the resignation of 29 top managers Monday.

MacKay, serving as acting secretary at the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services following last week's resignation of Bob Williams, described Monday's action as an acceleration of the planned decentralization of the agency.

"This department is moving forward," said MacKay, picked by Gov. Lawton Chiles to tackle problems at HRS. "Within the next 60 days we will ensure that we have a team of strong managers committed to our vision of returning government to the people."

Some of the senior managers may be reassigned, although none are guaranteed jobs, said new HRS spokeswoman April Herrie who was brought in from the Department of Commerce to help in the agency reorganization.

"This is not about mass firings. It is about mass change," said Herrie. "We want to figure out how we can best serve our local communities."

The resignations will be effective in 60 days and MacKay will complete staffing changes within that period.

MacKay accepted the resignation Monday of veteran HRS employee Chip Kenyon and Merrill Moody, both deputy secretaries.

The 29 managers asked to submit resignations are all at the agency's Tallahassee headquarters.

"Something had to change," said state Rep. Buzz Ritchie, D-Pensacola, who chairs a key appropriations subcommittee on funding agency programs. "I don't believe for a second that Bob Williams was solely and individually responsible for the problems there. Obviously, something has gone wrong in the department."

The $10 billion department — the largest state agency in the country with 40,000 employees — made about $255 million in welfare and food stamp overpayments last year. The error rates are the highest the agency has made in at least eight years and among the highest in the nation.

The overpayments and a possible $150 million federal fine means HRS's computer-related errors may cost the state $400 million or more.

The agency is also being sued for $46 million in unpaid bills by Electronic Data Systems Corp.

Meanwhile, the Senate has begun looking into the computer error that paid Medicaid benefits for over 100,000 ineligible people — a mistake the agency kept quiet for weeks.

Sailors: Navy is unjust in sex cases

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — Sexual harassment and fraternization rules are applied inconsistently at Orlando Naval Training Center, with some cases ignored and others treated harshly, according to some of the sailors involved.

Other seamen, as well as experts on the issue, agree with three convicted petty officers who say they were punished for activity that others get away with.

The three were among 10 petty officers found guilty last year at the only Navy boot camp that trains women. One sailor was acquitted and another case dismissed.

Unequal application of fraternization rules is common, said retired Navy Capt. James Bush, associate director of the Center for Defense Information.

"It's a policy that is almost impossible to implement equally. For some reason, some people get hit and some people get away with it," he said. "That is certainly one of the big problems with the whole system."

Officials at the center, a liberal-oriented group of private defense analysts, many of them retired officers, said the Navy became oversensitive about cases involving the sexes after the Tailhook scandal, in which dozens of female officers and other women were accosted by Navy pilots at a 1991 Las Vegas convention.

The Navy denies it is bending the rules to get convictions at any cost. NTC officials say the prosecutions of 12 petty officers last year were a matter of discipline and order, the need to get tough with sailors who fraternize or sexually harass subordinates.

"The outcome of the cases supports the fairness of the military justice system," said NTC spokeswoman Lt. Terri Kaiah.

Crime rates still top in nation

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles renewed his plea for more money to combat crime Monday after learning the Sunshine State still holds its spot as America's crime capital.

Nearly 1.1 million crimes were reported in Florida last year — one in every 28 seconds — and 1,263 people were killed. A violent crime took place every 3 minutes and 19 seconds and more than 1,000 times a day a weapon was used in a crime somewhere in Florida.

"The level of crime continues to be intolerable, especially the violence that is terrorizing our cities and communities," said Tim Moore, commissioner of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. "We're way, way, way ahead of the rest of the country."

More than 700,000 arrests were made in Florida last year, including 87,000 juveniles.

Although the final national figures for 1992 will not be announced until sometime next month, the governor was anxious to use the troubling numbers to lobby recalcitrant lawmakers to take action on his crime package.

“The level of crime continues to be intolerable, especially the violence that is terrorizing our cities and communities.”

-Tim Moore, commissioner of the FDLE

"Florida seems entrenched in its position as a national leader in crime," said Chiles.

"Clearly this is no time for horse-trading and half-measures that allow us to scrape by for another year," he added. "These statistics should send a signal to lawmakers about the urgent need for the comprehensive strategy embodied in our 'Safe Streets' initiative."

The governor has pushed a 25-cents-a-pack cigarette tax as a way to build 21,000 new prison beds over the next five years. He also wants new drug treatment and juvenile facilities.

The report wasn't entirely bad news, however. The crime rate per 100,000 residents actually declined by 3.2 percent, meaning that the state's population grew at a faster pace.

The figures also included domestic violence for the first time. Some 109,449 domestic incidents were recorded, including 38,802 spouse abuse incidents. Twenty-five percent of the victims of domestic violence were male and 12 percent were juveniles, he said.

The report also showed cocaine remained the drug of choice, accounting for 53.5 percent of all primary drug arrests. However, heroin arrests increased by 34 percent.

The 161,137 violent crimes committed in 1992 represented an increase of 1.9 percent over the previous year and 72.5 percent over the past decade.

"It is eroding our personal freedom ... we're prisoners often in our own communities and our own homes," said Moore.

Florida has received a spate of unfavorable publicity in recent months around the world as a dangerous place for tourists, but Moore said just 3.2 percent of the total crime involved nonresidents.

Moore joined Chiles' urging of lawmakers to pass the governor's crime package before adjourning at the end of the week.

"Now is certainly not the time to relent on funding criminal justice and public safety in Florida," said Moore, who also said lawmakers need to get tougher on gun control.

It's not the end, but the beginning

Several hundred students and adults had a good time at Fort Mellon Park Saturday. They met to commemorate the conclusion of March as Violence-Free Schools and Community Month.

March may be about over, but concerns about crime and violence cannot stop.

Organizer Charles Rowe, of Sanford's Development office, observed, "This is not the end. It's just the beginning."

Rowe is fully aware that a drive to reduce crime cannot be restricted to only one month of the year. It is a continuing problem, and judging by comments from some of the law enforcement people at the gathering, it is getting worse.

Gone are the days when a person could leave his house unlocked or the windows open on a hot night. Taking an evening stroll around a neighborhood or even downtown, is no longer safe.

A violence-free month gathering at the park is not going to persuade a criminal to cease such activities. It will do little to stop violence.

The aim however, was not at the criminals. Rather it was to convince youngsters that becoming involved in crimes and violence is the wrong direction to take.

If even one youth made a decision to "go straight" as a result of the month's activities in schools and communities, the observance can be considered a success.

Others however may eventually be lured by the thought of easy money. They may feel crime does pay, as long as a person doesn't get caught.

The people are not going to continue to accept an increasing crime problem. Eventually, a major crackdown will occur. Laws hopefully will be changed to prevent perpetrators from being given only a slap on the wrist.

The time to instill the dangers of crime and violence in teenagers can never begin too soon. Let this past weekend's event be a starting point.

On race discrimination

This is in reference to race discrimination wherever it and however it may be. If the NAACP would look real hard into these allegations they would no doubt find some truth but mostly false allegations and trumped up charges whether it may be in hiring or firing or in promotions. As I was a union representative over 20 years many years back before most in NAACP were visible at all. I have seen both sides of the stories and facts. Let it be known we have to have education to secure these jobs and special so-called positions — not to inherit because we are of a different race, and also to have the experience to be promoted.

And as to firings: It doesn't matter what race we are, we have been hired to do our work and down the road some shirk duties to get away from doing a fair day's work for fair day's pay.

As of late these past years I am aware that the race that condemns discrimination is retaliating against whites because they are in head management positions to fire, not to hire, and not to promote people. If all do not live up to normal reasonable, honest standards, then there will never be peaceful communication between all concerned.

Fair ballot access

Awake Americans! George Washington said, (1) "The spirit of party is truly our government's worst enemy." Abraham Lincoln said, (2) "If destruction be our lot, we must ourselves be its author and finisher." Thomas Jefferson said, (3) "If I could not go to heaven but with a party, I would not go there at all."

Since 1916, no one in Florida, has had the opportunity to vote for someone for Governor who was not a Democrat or Republican. 77 years! Florida election laws have kept all but Republicans and Democrats off the ballot for the U.S. Senate, except one, since 1920.

To have good government, good people must run for elected office. To elect good people, their name must appear on the ballot.

Let's have fair ballot access laws in Florida so that we the people can have real choice and select our representatives in free and open elections as our forefathers intended.

Let's not lose the American family

A visit to the local greeting card store startles. Ensnared between the usual birthday and holiday cards is an entire section devoted to divorce. "Getting divorced can be very healthy!" exclaims one card. "Watch how it improves your circulation! Beat of luck!"

It seems a rather sad commentary on the times in which we live when greeting cards celebrate family breakdown. One only imagines what is to follow. Maybe cards congratulating the unwed teen-age mom. Or perhaps cards cheering the newly, not wed, but cohabiting couple.

The traditional American family you remember, legally married Mom and Dad and biologically related kids has hit rock bottom. The decline began three decades ago when both the divorce rate and illegitimate birthrate began to rise.

Half of all marriages today end in divorce. One of every four babies is born to a single mother. If this trend continues, and there is no reason to expect otherwise, fewer than half of American children born in this decade will grow up in the same home with both of their parents.

To lament the decline of the traditional two-parent family is not to disparage one-parent families. There are many single moms and dads out there who are doing their darndest to raise their children and who would love to have a supportive spouse to help them.

But, then, we must also recognize that there are a number of people for whom single-parenthood truly is a "lifestyle choice." They don't want to bother with getting married, with having a spouse around. Indeed, the Census Bureau reports that in 1990, 30 percent of children lived with a never-married parent.

What we have witnessed over the last three decades is a dramatic change in the zeitgeist. Time was when parents would subordinate their own interests, their own happiness even, for the sake of their children. No more. If parents don't want to get married or stay married, the children be damned. The happiness of parents now takes precedence.

This breakdown in the family ethos, and resultant explosion in single-parenthood, has had a devastating effect on America's children. A growing body of both social and scientific evidence shows that by virtually every measure of well-being, children of single-parent families fare considerably worse than those in two-parent families.

Children in single-parent families are six times as likely to be poor. They are two or three times as likely to have emotional and behavioral problems, according to a 1988 survey by the National Center for Health Statistics. And they are more likely to drop out of high school, to get pregnant as teen-agers, to use drugs and to run afoul of the law.

If we want to make life better for the next generation of American children, we must deal squarely with the breakdown of family structure. We cannot continue to pretend that a child's life chances are unaffected by the kind of family in which he or she is reared. Clearly, it is in the national interest to encourage two-parent families.

It seems a rather sad commentary on the times in which we live when greeting cards celebrate family breakdown.

Tax policy linked to energy future

In judging President Clinton's economic plan, full weight should be given to how he proposes to enlist the environment as the economy's ally.

To meet the challenges of debt, deficit and the need for economic renewal, Mr. Clinton has put forward a triad of spending cuts, job investments and new revenue measures. They are designed to shield the vulnerable while asking the most from those best able to pay.

Mr. Clinton is winning public support for his initiative by margins of 2-to-1, according to opinion surveys. There is a sense in the land that finally gridlock is giving way to needed and positive change.

A key element in the president's plan is a measure to raise $71 billion in revenue over four years by phasing in new energy taxes. Once fully implemented, the average American household's share in increased energy costs is estimated to be between $100 and $150 annually.

The tax is to be based on a given fuel's heat content, or what are termed British thermal units. This course was chosen, the president tells us, because it is the fairest. Among the energy alternatives considered, including taxes on gasoline or carbon content, the Btu proposal treats different parts of the country and different sectors of the economy as equally as possible. The measure would apply to fossil fuels and hydroelectric power, but exempt solar and wind energy to help spur their development.

The proposal also embodies an important new direction. The president wants to create a clear link between tax policy and the nation's broader agenda, in this case our energy future. He is asking that our economic and fiscal needs work in tandem with our environmental priorities.

Higher prices are one of the market's best signals to either consume more efficiently or to seek lower cost alternatives. Using every source more efficiently and accelerating the use of alternatives to fossil fuels are the exact adjustments most needed in our current energy diet. Recognizing this, the president's plan seeks to make what is required for revenue serve also to stimulate the nation's best interests.

Whether counted in tons, barrels or gallons, every unit of fuel consumed and businesses squeeze more power out of or get from non-fossil sources translates into a packet of ripple effects. Like one less unit of nitrogen oxide in the air we breathe, and a unit of acid rain that won't fall, and a unit taken away from the buildup of climate-warming emissions in the atmosphere.

The ripples can begin at home. Ask yourself, or better yet call your local utility and ask them how much your monthly bill could be cut by investing, say, $400 to $600 over the next few years in better weatherization and insulation for your home. And ask how much of that investment the utility is willing to finance, so it can save by not having to build costly new power plants.

The president has also enlisted the environment in his plans to cut government spending.

He has called for a fundamental rethinking of the nation's attitude toward exploitation of our public lands. For over a century, the nation's vast timber and mineral wealth, its grazing lands and its waters have flowed at discount into helping populate and vitalize the West into strengthening commerce throughout the country. Those aims have been achieved with spectacular success. But they have entailed a sometimes staggering environmental cost that only recently has become evident in such things as severely depleted forests and a residual of pollutants seeping from abandoned mine sites.

President Clinton proposes phasing out an estimated $400 million in direct and indirect tax subsidies now contributing to the environmentally destructive use of public lands. He is advancing two principles: that the nation not countenance the unsustainable use of its natural resources and that those who profit from public lands pay the costs associated with their use of those lands.

Adopting those principles will ease the treasury's imbalance as it helps assure that future generations will be able to draw their fair share from the nation's trust fund of natural resource wealth.

Throughout President Clinton's plan runs the theme of ending the era of confrontation between the environment and the economy by putting both in harness for the nation's betterment. The approach is both refreshing and deserving of support.

Full weight should be given to how he proposes to enlist the environment as the economy's ally.

Women earn their sporting chance

When I was a high-school freshman in 1966, I was on the girls' track team. We practiced every night for three months. If there were Florence Griffith-Joyner's back then, we didn't know about them. You didn't see young women athletes in Teen or Seventeen magazine. If there were any, they were the best-kept secret since reliable sex education.

The overwhelming feeling I had when my one sojourn into the world of sports ended was that nothing I had been through for the last three months was very important. We went to one track meet, it was rained out; we rode the bus home, and the meet was never rescheduled. I didn't go out for track again.

Seven years later, in 1973, my friend Nancy Appelquist Allen was finding out the same thing in nearby Springfield, Mo., a town of about 100,000 then. She and her friend Tanya Carson, a good swimmer, circulated petitions asking for a program of inter-scholastic sports for girls. The only sports available to Springfield girls at that time were intramural games. They played against their own schoolmates. No crowds, no popcorn, no cheers.

Nancy and Tanya collected over 2,200 names, some of them adults, and went to a school board meeting with their petitions.

Nancy will be the first to admit that the only way she could make it onto a basketball team is by offering to stand on a ladder and hold the net. But she was astonished when one of the board members, knowing she wasn't an athlete herself and was always in school theatrical productions, needed her: "And just what sport will you be participating in, Miss Appelquist?"

A local newspaper story about that school board meeting is a fascinating piece of history. The coordinator of secondary athletics argued that the school system didn't have the facilities to accommodate girls' sports — and besides, girls would abandon a Saturday sports event to get ready for a dance, if given the opportunity. The school superintendent suggested that they might just do away with the school's two musical productions, which Nancy always participated in, so that the gym could be used for girls' sports.

A couple days after the school board meeting, a group of eight girls at one of the high schools tried to go out for the school's track team. The track coach met this challenge by refusing to come out of the locker room. I'm not making this up. I couldn't make up stuff this good.

Ironically, Title IX, the law mandating equality in women's and men's athletics in any institution that receives federal funds, had just been enacted. Few in Springfield noticed, except the children.

The school board did vote for a girls' athletic program and it began in the fall of 1974. This year, a young Springfield woman, Rhonda Blades, is a starter for one of the best women's basketball teams in the nation, Vanderbilt. If you like sports and haven't watched any women's collegiate basketball lately, try it. Some of the NCAA tournament games will be televised and you'll find them surprisingly fast-paced, physical and thrilling.

Girls would abandon a Saturday sports event to get ready for a dance, if given the opportunity.

LOS ANGELES — On a night that was supposed to honor women in movies, the names to remember were Clint and Al.

Clint Eastwood and Al Pacino, overlooked by Oscar voters despite more than 50 years of acting between them, finally broke through Monday night. Eastwood's moody Western, "Unforgiven," brought him awards for best picture and best director. Pacino, the bitter, blind Army veteran of "Scent of a Woman," was named best actor. Neither became famous by smiling a lot, but they each had something funny to say as they picked up their long-awaited Oscars and received well-earned standing ovations.

Pacino, nominated six times before this year, obviously arrived with high hopes. He actually wrote an acceptance speech. The actor quipped "You broke my streak," and then rambled on, offering plenty of thanks and memories.

Midway, he paused and apologized: "Indulge me for a minute, because I'm not used to this."

Scholarship-Trial

All told, the scholarships were worth approximately $3 million. Scott's scholarship is valued at $2,000, according to the National Achievement Scholarship Program.

Scott, who writes a weekly column for the Sanford Herald, hopes to become a doctor after earning an undergraduate degree in biology.

She is an active member of the National Honor Society, the Tribe honors club, the Health Occupation Student Association (HOSA) and has been honored as one of the Florida Outstanding Black High School Students.

"The students who are selected for these scholarships are among the finest students in the country," Elaine Detweiler, a spokesman for the National Merit Scholarship Foundation, said. "They are outstanding students."

The students selected for the scholarships were selected from among 90,000 black students who took the PSAT in 1993.

Raid

The first raid took place at approximately 1 a.m. Saturday. Later in the same early morning, at approximately 2:15, officers of the Joint City County Investigative Bureau, (CCIB) conducted the second undercover raid at the same establishment. The officers' reports indicated the raids were made "due to complaints."

Proechel could not comment on what type of complaints had been made. "We don't have the resources to continuously watch over adult entertainment establishments," he said. "So we just conduct surprise visits from time to time to be sure the laws and ordinances are adhered to."

Listed among the dozen persons arrested on the second raid were: Alfred Davon Rogers, 51, of Orlando; Aaron Ward Dozier, Tramel at Castle Brewer Court in Sanford with a handgun. As a result of the shooting, Tramel is confined to a wheelchair.

Prosecutor Jerry Jones this morning outlined the scenario surrounding the June shooting. He explained that sometimes during a trial, witnesses aren't called in chronological order and an overview allows jurors to know where a piece of testimony fits similar to the pieces of a puzzle.

Jones gave this account: On June 24, David Tramel was visiting his girlfriend Ruby Ford and her children at Castle Brewer Court. The couple was sitting under a large tree near the playground at the housing project. Ford had just kissed Tramel when she heard shots. When the woman looked up she saw three men coming across the playground and she reported she saw Falsion shooting.

Jones said as the group scattered, several people ran for apartment 22 of the housing project. Jones said Ford was to have testified that she heard bullets going by her head and when she turned, she saw Tramel on the ground. Jones said Ford turned and yelled at Falsion not to hurt her children. Tramel was transported from the scene with a bullet in his left shoulder.

Tramel was also scheduled to be called as a prosecution witness.

The defense attorney, Chris Smith, had reserved the right to give his opening statement at a later time.

In a deposition taken in the case, Tramel claimed he had never seen Falsion before he was approached on a ballfield near the housing project where he was shot. Another bullet during the shooting incident allegedly went through the cast-iron rear window of apartment 22 Castle Brewer Court resulting in the second charge against Falsion.

which school they are zoned to attend, is eligible to attend the academy.

Transportation will be provided by the district for all those who are accepted into the program. Schapker said that applicants should be ready to make a four year commitment to the program.

The academy is broken down into three levels of study: those who want to go to work immediately after graduation, those who plan some post-secondary study at a community college or vocational school and those who are planning to study at a four year university or attend medical school.

"There's something for every level of interest," Schapker said. She said that she hopes to enroll about 100 students in the first year of the program.

Applications are available at all middle and high school guidance offices.

Julian said that students can mail in their applications or they can bring them to Seminole High School in person.

"We've had a lot of students who wanted to come by and see what we could offer so they brought by their applications in person," Julian said.

Roast

The roast will be held May 22 at the Sheraton Orlando North in Maitland. The cash bar and reception are scheduled for 6 p.m. Dinner follows at 7 o'clock. Tickets are $100 per person, a tax-deductible donation. Reservations may be made by calling 862-6316 or 322-3324.

The roast will be sponsored by a loosely-knit group of Seminole County politicians who simply call themselves "The Committee." The group has held the banquets every year or so since 1980. This year, the 19-member committee is chaired by county planning commissioner Harry Hagle. Vice chairman is Beth Hattaway.

Original Committee members include Stum, Grinde, Hagle, and Seminole County port director Dennis Doigner. Other members this year include Sanford Mayor Bettey Smith, former Lake Mary mayor Randy Morria, and Sanford lawyer Mack Cleveland.

Last year, beginning with the roast to honor outgoing commissioner Streetman, Committee members decided to focus their efforts on the Good Samaritan Home for the next several years.

The 1992 roast raised about $28,000, which GSH administrator Thelma Wilson Mike used to replace the home's leaking roof and buy a new commercial washing machine for the 30 to 50 clients that stay in the assisted-care home at 1704 W. Ninth St.

Mike is the daughter of the home's founders, "Mother" Ruby Lee and Timothy "Pappy" Wilson. The couple began the home 45 years ago to provide housing, care and comfort for the less fortunate regardless of race. The current facility can house 50 clients, offering them meals and round-the-clock care.

Mike's daughter, business administrator Ruby Blake, said the center costs about $250,000 per year to operate. Up to half that amount is for 15-member staff. Food accounts for about 12 percent of the budget, she said.

The home is totally supported by client's Social Security benefits, grants from United Way and the county, and private donations.

Through Committee efforts, Lennar Homes painted the home's exterior and dining room last year. Hagle said negotiations are underway with two companies to build planters for the entrance and to landscape the grounds.

Blake and Mike said their goal this year is to have the interior of the home remodeled to give the austere facility a more homelike feel. Mike said old plumbing needs to be replaced, too.

"We have made a lot of progress, but there's always more to do," said Mike.

Damage suits filed

SANFORD — Two damage suits have been filed by two women who claim they were injured when they fell at a local 7-11 store.

Renee Marie Keith and her husband, Aaron D. Keith and in a separate suit, Rosie Lee Skiba and her husband, Thomas Skiba have sued the Southland Corporation, the Texas based company which operates the 7-11 chain.

Each suit seeks to recover damages in excess of $15,000. The two women claim they went into the 7-11 store at 25th Street and Airport Blvd. on Dec. 17, 1990 so Mrs. Skiba could purchase a fountain drink. Both suits allege that the company was negligent in allowing ice and water to be on the floor. When Mrs. Skiba began to slip and fall, Mrs. Keith's suit claims she tried to come to her friend's aid and fell, too.

Jamie, owner of Secret's converses with Dide, owner of Scarlet O'Hair about new ideas. Dide works her magic with model at hair seminar.

So Much Is New, Just For You...at Secrets!

SCHOOL 'DAZE' FOR SECRETS OWNER
Jamie Benton, owner/operator of Secrets Hair Design goes to school and we get the benefit! Early in March, way up in Atlanta, Georgia, Creative Learning Systems held an intensive 3 day - hands on - seminar; Jamie saved his nickles and dimes, packed his bags and was on his way! Creative Learning Systems is a team of Master Stylists that use live models, video taping, hands on teaching and all the latest and best in styling techniques. Jamie learned a great deal from Linda "Dixie" Pellrey, President of Creative Learning Systems (pictured above). In plain simple language this seminar offered advanced educational classes in hair care and design, taught by nationally acclaimed stylists. Some of the NEW Ideas that Jamie has brought back to us include:

- Personal Design Filing System
- Blueprint Sketching • Canvas Cuts
- Microscope Analysis • Design Thru Art

Don't be shy ask Jamie about the new ideas, techniques and tools he learned about in Atlanta! He has so much to tell you!

COME BE A MODEL, NO KIDDING!
Secrets Hair Design is starting to hold In-House Workshops to teach new techniques. Jamie is looking for people (all ages, male, female) to be hair models. Call Secrets to volunteer and for more details 324-8484. You'll get your hair styled, meet the staff and have a BLAST!

Jamie is our area Director for the Florida Cosmetology Association. He is very involved in the association and is hoping to get other area stylists to become members. The benefits are too numerous to list...again, call Jamie for more details.

THE TEAM AT SECRETS
Brenda (Hair Stylist-Designer), Judy (Hair Stylist-Designer) and Claire (Nail Technician-Artist), the best beauty team anyone could ask for - "held down the fort" while Jamie was away. These gals really know their business and have extensive experience. This is one staff that will do their best for you.

DEVELOP YOUR PERSONAL STYLE
Style is a statement of personality. Your style matters to Secrets Hair Design. Your individual style, as unique as you, different from all the rest, let Secrets bring out the unique you!

Whether your style is Bold, Striking and Dramatic...or Subtle, Soft as a Whisper - Jamie and Staff can help you - look like YOU. Call then, you'll leave Secrets feeling good about you!

A NEW FEATURE: BEAUTY TIPS FROM SECRETS!
To remove hairspray build up - Mix 1 tsp. baking soda to 1 oz. of your shampoo, use one time a month.

FORT LAUDERDALE — Jimmy Key combined with two relievers on a five-hitter and Don Mattingly went 3-for-4 with two RBI as the New York Yankees beat the Florida Marlins 4-1.

Rich Monteleone and Steve Farr followed Key, with Farr getting his second save.

Mattingly provided the Yankees with a 2-0 advantage against Chris Hammond, who was making his Marlins debut following his acquisition from Cincinnati. Mattingly singled in a run in the first and added an RBI double in the third.

Luis Aquino, also in his first game with Florida, surrendered a two-run home run to Gerald Williams in the sixth inning.

Singles by Orestes Destrade, Jeff Contne and Dave Magadan provided Florida with its only run in the fifth inning.

CASSELBERRY — They can come from behind too.

The Paddy McGee "Mice" women's softball team from Oviedo proved Monday night that they could play from behind as well as with a lead as they came back from a 6-2 deficit to defeat the Ball Busters 10-9 in Seminole County Recreation Department Women's Spring Slowpitch Softball League action at Red Bug Park. "It was a good game," said Mice head coach Mickey Norton. "They (Ball Busters) erupted for six runs in the second inning and we had to battle back all night. We got three runs back in the bottom of the second inning and then took the lead by scoring three more runs in the fifth inning."

Lake Brantley, Seminole ranked in first state poll

SANFORD — The top two baseball teams in the Seminole Athletic Conference last year are the top two teams again this year.

At least they are according to the first Florida Sports Writers Association high school baseball poll which was released Monday.

Defending Class 3A State Champion Sanford-Seminole, which leads the SAC standings at 4-0 this season, is ranked No. 5 in this week's poll, while Lake Brantley, which won the SAC last season, is ranked No. 9 in the Class 4A poll. The Tribe, which is 12-2 on the season and were ranked fifth in the nation last week by Baseball America, received 54 votes and trails Tampa-Jesuit, Tallahassee-Leon, Jacksonville-Englewood and Bartow in the 3A poll.

The Patriots, 10-3, received one first place vote and a total of 31 votes. They trail Gonzalez-Tate, Coral Gables, Apopka, Naples-Barron Collier, Sarasota (whom Lake Brantley was scheduled to play Monday night), Miami-Columbus, Tallahassee-Lincoln and Miami-Jackson in the 4A list.

Boating death questions to be answered

ORLANDO — Florida investigators have resolved most of the questions surrounding a nighttime boating crash that killed two Cleveland Indians pitchers and injured a third a week ago. The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission has scheduled a news conference for 3 p.m. EST today at the Holiday Inn in Orlando on International Drive, to make public its findings of its investigation into the incident.

Vinard Hill, announcing the report of the wildlife commission's findings of the March 23 accident was ready sooner than expected. The 18-foot Skeeter bass boat owned by Crews slammed into the end of a private pier on the small lake at what investigators earlier said was near full-throttle. All three occupants suffered head injuries.

Crews, who had recently moved into a large home and ranch on Little Lake Nellie, was an avid fisherman. The players had gathered at his ranch with their families on a day off from spring training in nearby Winter Haven, and the three went fishing at night.

Sorority involved in continuing education for youth

By SHIRLEY K. BAKER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Graduation from college doesn't always mean the end of sorority participation for those who pledged while in undergraduate school, especially if a graduate chapter of their sorority exists in their community. Membership in a sorority's graduate chapter involves participation in community activities that are not focused as much on social functions as they are civic and community needs.

Sanford's Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority includes members who joined the sorority while in undergraduate school as well as those who became members after graduating from college. One thing that women who desire membership in D.S.T. must understand is that "membership in D.S.T. Sorority is a lifetime commitment."

Although Delta women in Sanford are involved in various community activities such as voter registration, Habitat for Humanity and the aged, one of the sorority's main interests is the continuing education of young people. In addition to the awarding of scholarships each year to deserving high school graduates by the sorority, some members provide tutoring service for children who may have certain skill deficiencies in the lower grades that may affect their attitude and success in high school. Sorors Sylvia Stallworth, a retired Seminole County elementary teacher, and Linda Gaines, a counselor at Tusawilla Middle School, provide individualized instruction to interested students at St. John's Baptist Church's annex each Wednesday afternoon from 4:30-5:30 p.m., Soror Evelyn Clark, also a retired elementary school teacher and Sylvia, both of whom are musicians, have been volunteering their time weekly as accompanist and co-teachers with the newly formed Midway Elementary School Chorus. Soror Gracia Miller, teacher and choral director at Midway Elementary School said, "The chorus has had several performances both on and away from campus. Each has required extra rehearsals for which the ladies have lovingly and wonderfully cooperated." She continues, "The chorus is gaining some renown and I recognize that this Holy Spirit blessed partnership is a major reason this is so." Soror Miller is very appreciative of the time given to the chorus by Sorors Clark and Stallworth and would like to announce that performance opportunities are welcomed. The chorus' repertoire includes a program of Negro spirituals as well as traditional and contemporary music.

The Sanford Chapter of D.S.T. is now in the process of planning its Jabberwock which will feature many talented Sanford youths. Proceeds from this entertaining activity will be used for scholarships. Students planning to graduate from Seminole County high schools in June may check with their counselors for applications nearly next month.

Abby's calendar entertains students

DEAR ABBY: I know you don't like to devote too much space in your column to patting yourself on the back, so I'll keep this short.

I have two friends whom I'll call "Cory" and "Marion." For Marion's Jan. 3 birthday, Cory gave her a Dear Abby 1993 Desktop Calendar. You would not believe the hours of entertainment it has given them and the discussions it has sparked. Every day at midnight they look forward to reading the new day's advice. They call it "Abby with an attitude," because of your short and witty answers.

They use the calendar as a supplement to your daily column in the Minneapolis Star-Tribune. Marion saves every day's page to look back on. Cory says she does it because they will become collector's items!

Marion begrudgingly gave up one of her favorites for me to send to you, Abby, if you print it. I guarantee that you will make two college students very happy.

M. NICKOLOPOULOS, CARLETON COLLEGE, NORTHFIELD, MINN.

DEAR "M," CORY AND MARION: All right, you asked for it: From the 1993 Dear Abby Calendar — March 5 (Friday):

Dear Abby: Why are there more Democrats than Republicans? — Curious

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Curious: Because most Republicans sleep in twin beds.

DEAR ABBY: "Bugged in St. Paul" is lucky to have a husband who is a good provider, even if his grammar is not so hot.

My first husband's grammar was impeccable — he was, however, the loudest husband alive! He was unfaithful, and both physically and mentally abusive. I divorced him when I realized he would never change.

I then married a man whose grammar is also "not so hot," but he is the dearest, most caring man I have ever known. He provides for me well enough so that I could quit working at 57 and become a homemaker again.

So, if his grammar "don't matter" to him, it sure as heck "don't matter" to me, either.

HAPPY IN NEW SMYRNA BEACH

DEAR HAPPY: I'm glad you're happy. However, many readers were not very happy with me for failing to take a firmer stand against poor grammar.

DEAR ABBY: You advised your readers to loosen up at Christmas time, and leave a little something for their faithful mail carriers. I agreed, and would like to share this little story with you.

My dear friend, "Mary," called just before Christmas to tell me she had left a little gift in my mailbox — two boxes, one containing a homemade fruitcake, and the other, a box of stuffed dates.

On my next trip to the mailbox, I found nothing but my regular mail. I was mystified as to what could have happened to Mary's gifts. I was sure that no one in this neighborhood would steal anything.

The next day, when I went to my mailbox to pick up my mail, I found a Christmas card with the following message: "Mrs. Gantert. Thanks for the nice presents. Very thoughtful of you, but one would have been plenty. Your postal carrier, Marvin."

NANCY GANTERT, PENN VALLEY, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: My family recently suffered a tragic loss. My husband's younger brother, Andre, was murdered on the streets of Manhattan for nothing more than his wallet and his watch. The murderer has not yet been apprehended.

We understand from the police that there were 12 murders in that area over a short period of time. Has this led to an increase in the number of police officers patrolling this area? No! Have any of these murders, including my brother-in-law's, been publicized? No!

Last month, a colleague at work lost his brother in a random mugging in an affluent neighborhood of Long Island.

Nowadays, it seems wherever you turn, somebody has lost a loved one through violence. As a society, we must not become desensitized to these murders. We must not sweep them under the rug like they never happened, because if we do, we will lose all respect for life.

It is a sad commentary on our society that rapes are not even reported in the newspaper unless one of the parties is a celebrity. Every violent crime should be publicized. Society should be made aware of the full magnitude of these crimes because it affects every one of us.

Only through public awareness will violent crime get the attention it deserves. We need more police officers on the street, more detectives investigating these crimes, and stiffer penalties for those convicted (including minors)! So many of these murderers have murdered before, and will be set free to murder again. Unfortunately, there is no second chance for the loved ones so violently taken from us.

LORI SCHNEIDER, M.D., GLEN OAKS, N.Y.

DEAR READERS: I send my heartfelt condolences to the family of the late Leo H. Cohen, whom I came to know about 20 years ago when I saw an ad in a magazine for (brace yourselves!) Fat Fanny Pantyhose. Mr. Cohen was employed by H. Glaser and Son Inc. of Holliston, Mass., manufacturer of the pantyhose with the unforgettable name. I ordered several dozen boxes for myself and some well-reared friends and relatives.

Irritable bowel syndrome not a harmful condition

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have severe stomach cramps my doctor has diagnosed as irritable bowel syndrome. He suggested I eat more fiber and take Metamucil. How often should I take it, and am I on the right track?

DEAR READER: I believe your doctor has given you sound advice. Eat more vegetables, salads and fruit. Start with a scoop of Metamucil a day and increase this. If your doctor says this is appropriate.

Irritable bowel syndrome -- which causes gas, bloating, diarrhea or constipation -- is not a harmful condition. It can usually be controlled by the very dietary modifications suggested by your physician.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Irritable Bowel Syndrome." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can anything be done for hypogonadism? Are there any supplements or herbs that can help my condition?

DEAR READER: Underdeveloped sex organs can result from genetic malformations or from external factors, such as mumps infection of the testicles in boys. The basic problem in most cases is a hormone deficiency (estrogen in women, testosterone in men).

If this deficiency occurs before puberty, treatment with hormone supplements will reverse the disorder. That is, with suitable synthetic hormones, the sex organs will develop normally. After puberty, the primary effects of hypogonadism are lack of sex drive, inability of males to function sexually, and loss of menstruation in women. In such cases, supplemental hormones will correct these symptoms, although patients with hypogonadism remain infertile.

Hypogonadism occurs naturally as we age. This is the cause of menopause and the characteristic diminishing sexual abilities in men. Therefore, most physicians use supplemental hormones only for adolescents with delayed sexual maturation and for affected adults during the middle years. The unrestricted use of supplemental hormones has been associated with a risk of cancer in the elderly: Testosterone may lead to prostate cancer; estrogen (without progestin) has been associated with uterine cancer.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
In the real world, you might not find the best line of play, yet you make the contract when a key finesse works or a suit splits evenly. But now the ultimate bridge nightmare has been produced. It's called Bridge Master and was written by Fred Gitelman with some help from Sheri Winestock. It costs $59.95 plus postage and handling; call 800-387-5218.

You are given a declarer-play problem. If you play the cards correctly, you will make the contract. If you misplay, you will go down. The computer will move the East-West cards around so that you always plunge to defeat if you stray from the straight and narrow.

There are two versions: relatively easy and more difficult. In each there are 60 deals, with the middle 20 being in both packages. (Additional packages of 30 deals are available for purchase.)

Today's deal is the last of the middle group. Against four hearts, West finds the annoying trump lead. How do you continue?

You have nine tricks: one spade, six hearts and two diamonds. But how do you get to your 10th trick, the club ace? You could lead a diamond toward the jack, hoping West has the king, but here East will win and return another trump. It is much better to lead the diamond queen from hand at trick two.

If the queen holds, cash the diamond ace and ruff a diamond to get into the dummy. (If the diamonds aren't 4-3, you are in trouble.) Alternatively, if East wins with the king, dummy's jack becomes the required entry. (C)1993, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 31, 1993

Two friendships you already prize could be strengthened even more in the year ahead. In fact, you might eventually have difficulty in deciding which person is your best friend.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't be overly concerned about your image with outsiders today. It's more important to operate in a manner that gives the best impression to those who are truly close to you. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Aries' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) People with whom you'll have important dealings today might not be as frank and open with you as you are with them. Weigh everything that they tell you very carefully.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Don't rely too heavily upon verbal commitments in your commercial affairs today. For your own protection, have all the terms committed to writing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might be even more popular than usual today with members of the opposite gender. However, heed this warning not to thoughtlessly hurt the feelings of a sensitive admirer.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are capable of operating successfully today, but self-doubts could cramp your style and impede your progress. Focus on positive factors, not negative ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Think twice today before repeating hearsay information or gossip. You could unintentionally give credence to something that might be completely false.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Set meaningful objectives today, but don't demand things of yourself that exceed your capabilities and talents. Try to operate within your limitations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do things in accordance with your standards today, even if those with whom you're involved tend to do otherwise. Make them come up to your level; don't stoop down to theirs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your material fortunes today might be more beneficial for others than for yourself. Don't despair, because accounts will be balanced later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In partnership arrangements or developments that require team effort, keep your ego out of the picture if your cohorts are capable of doing things better than you can.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Success could be denied to you today if you do things in an impulsive or haphazard manner. If you want to fulfill objectives, be methodical.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might be a relatively high achiever today, but you might not capitalize properly on whatever you gain. Don't be the one who pries victory from your grasp. (C)1993, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
