Keith said the leak was in a three-quarter inch residential line.

A spokesperson for Florida Public Utilities said the problem was a minor one.

Effort to fire Lake Mary's city manager narrowly fails

By BOB FROST
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — City Manager John Litton narrowly survived a vote of confidence by the City commission last night after he brought to a head Mayor Randy Morris' request that he resign.

The vote at the end of the 35-minute session before a packed commission chamber, was 3-2 in favor of Litton.

Morris said he and two other department heads had lost confidence in Litton. Precisely why was not stated, nor was it revealed who the other dissatisfied administrators were.

However, two Lake Mary officials, who requested anonymity, later confirmed that the dispute was between Litton and Public Safety Director Charles Lauderdale.

The sources reported the matter apparently started with complaints against Lauderdale by several public safety employees and grew into a dispute over problems involving the department.

The sources would not reveal the identity of the second Department Head involved in the disputes.

However, a third city official, who also spoke only on the condition of anonymity, said of the comments from the other two: "about 90 percent of it (is) nothing more than a bunch of smoke."

Commissioner George Duryea, who backed Litton last night, was angry over the mayor's attempt to force the resignation. "If the Mayor has asked for Mr. Litton's resignation, he apparently decided he was going to speak for this body. But I will not stand for him speaking for me."

Morris responded, "In no way did I tell the City Manager I was speaking for the Commission. The

Joan Hartlef holds Baby during an attempted release yesterday

Attempt to release 'Baby' resumes today

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

GENEVA — Efforts to release "Baby," the timid bald eagle teen, will resume today.

Wildlife rehabilitator Joan Hartlef tried to let the recovered three-year-old female eagle fly free yesterday afternoon, but the bird just sat on its perch, apparently unwilling to take advantage of the opportunity.

"It would not fly away," said Hartlef, owner of the Hartlef Farms Wildlife Rehabilitative Center. "She just kept watching the skyline where her nest is. She looked kind of discouraged."

Hartlef said she'll try again to release the protected bird today. She said she hopes the bird's parents will fly overhead and call her home. The adults have flown over the wildlife ranch frequently during Baby's three-week hospitalization, said Hartlef.

Hartlef said the bird was brought to her about three weeks ago by area youth that were hiking through the swamps about a quarter of a mile from her home. She said the youths found the bird lying on the ground at the base of the tree supporting

Sanford pair focus of burglary probe

By LAGY BOWEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's investigators said today they anticipate the probe of two Sanford residents nabbed in a Central Florida burglary and pawn operation may lead to other suspects' arrests.

"We think we have some burglars here involved in several counties and several burglaries," said sheriff's spokesman George Proeschel. "We anticipate additional charges and more suspects arrested for additional burglaries. Other agencies are working together with us to piece it all together." Proeschel said Orange and Volusia counties and Sanford police have assisted in the investigations.

Larry Dean Rash, 35, and Georgia Landers Bergman, 26, both of 1217 Palmetto Ave., were arrested by Seminole County deputies Tuesday for the May 6 burglary of a home in Apopka. Proeschel and Sanford police say the suspects are familiar to them.

"They are know to our people. There have been prior arrests," Proeschel said. "They're regular customers," Sanford Police Lt. Dennis Whitmire said.

Items taken in the Apopka burglary included $200 cash, a $100 savings bond, two color television sets and a floor standing jewelry chest. Contents of the chest were valued at "several hundred dollars," Proeschel said.

The Apopka victim said he suspected Rash, whom he had contracted to do some painting, and Bergman, who arrests reports state is unemployed. The victim stated that the two were the only people inside the residence prior to the burglary. He said Bergman had been inquisitive about the jewelry box.

Whitmire said Sanford Police Detective Pat Smith was asked by sheriff's investigators to speak to a Sanford small business owner about the matter. An inexpensive necklace with an attached brooch was recovered from the man, who said Rash had sold it to him. Proeschel said. The jewelry was identified as one piece taken in the Investigation underway

Sanford police are investigating an incident at Scotty's, 700 French Avenue, reported last Thursday. Police said a man identified as Ruyard Robert Sardenelli, purchased two power drills valued at $370. Officers said when the clerk determined that his check had insufficient funds, the police were called. Sardenelli was stopped as he drove off, near 28th Street and Highway 17-92. According to the police report, he attempted to give the officer the wrong name, and produced what they considered to be a fictitious Florida ID card. Sardenelli was arrested and placed in jail pending a further investigation in the case.

Disorderly conduct arrest made

Sanford police arrested John Huggins, 30, of Oviedo Tuesday. Officers responded to a call of a domestic disturbance at 714 Oceola Avenue in Sanford. Police said Huggins refused to leave the area and struggled with a police officer. He was charged with disorderly conduct, battery on a law enforcement officer, and resisting arrest with violence.

Man charged with burglary

Mack Christopher Simpson, 26, 100 Archers Point, Longwood, was charged with the March 14 burglary of a Longwood home by Seminole County deputies Wednesday.

Deputies said Simpson removed a set of golf clubs from the garage of the Sanford Avenue home and subsequently pawned them in Casselberry. Both residents were home at the time, deputies report. Simpson was charged with burglary to an occupied structure and dealing in stolen property.

Couple charged with domestic violence

A husband and wife were both charged with domestic violence by Sanford police Wednesday.

Angela Star Hinkle, 18, and Virgil Lee Hinkle, 30, both of 1208 Cedar Creek Circle, Sanford, were arrested at their home. Angela Hinkle said her husband hit her shoulder and pushed her through the doorway of their apartment. Virgil Hinkle told deputies his wife threw a set of keys at him.

Reported to sheriff's deputies

The following incidents have been reported to Seminole County deputies:

A DeBary woman reported a man fired a handgun at her car as she drove west on Interstate 4 between State Road 46 and Lake Mary Boulevard Wednesday. The woman said she had turned on her headlights when it started to rain. She said the man driving in front of her made several hand gestures and struck his palm with a club-type object.

The woman reported as she drove by, the man fired a blunt-nosed handgun at her car, which was not hit. The tag number and vehicle description were traced by deputies to a Sanford man. An investigation is continuing.

Purses reported missing

Forty designer purses, valued at $8,000, were reported taken from a Longwood shoe repair business on West State Road 434. Also reported missing was about $30 in change from the shop's cash register.

Driving charges filed

Bert Alan Hathaway, 39, 844 Upala Road, Sanford, was charged with drunken driving and careless driving Wednesday by Seminole County deputies following a traffic stop near Second Place and County Road 427.

Warrant arrests served

The following wanted persons have been taken into custody:

• John Lee Shepherd, 21, 631 E. Palmetto Ave., Longwood, was served with a warrant for burglary and grand theft Wednesday at the Seminole County jail where he was being held on a prior arrest.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

The following incidents were reported to Sanford police:

A 52-year-old man living in a trailer on West First Street said he was bound by two men claiming to be police early Thursday morning. The man said the suspects knocked on his door at 2 a.m. and identified themselves as police. The man said they forced their way into the trailer, bound him with nylon and took him to the bathroom where one man struck him in the chest. The man reported a shotgun and gold watch, valued at $600, were taken.

Someone fired a BB-gun at a county school bus carrying 10 children as it drove on West Third Street near Mangouline Avenue shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday. A bus window was shattered, but injuries were reported.

Four aluminum plates, valued at $2,000, were reported taken from the construction site at the Sanford Water Reclamation Facility on West Seminole Boulevard sometime between 11:30 a.m. May 20 and 9 a.m. Wednesday.

A $400 cellular telephone was reported taken from a home in the 600 block of Celery Avenue at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

SANFORD — There will be a variety of events taking place this weekend across Seminole County for those who want to be involved in helping the community.

At the old Hopper Academy in Sanford, there will be a fundraiser to help earn money for renovations to the old building. The Cumberland Management Company is hosting a fundraiser for the state Special Olympics. And at Flea World, the Muscular Dystrophy Association will benefit from a clogathon that will take place on the Flea World stage.

For those more interested in politics than philanthropy, there will be a political forum all day at Flea World as well.

Hopper Fundraiser

A May Day Festival will be held Saturday at the old Hopper Academy school. Profits will go to the renovation of the historic building.

The day long event is being sponsored by the Sanford Community Improvement Association. President Charles Rowe said, "This event will help spearhead a fund raiser that will enable the CIA of Sanford to renovate the old building for a future community center for the Georgetown and Sanford communities."

The school was originally built in 1917, and following service as a high school and later an elementary school, it was closed in the early 1960's.

Events scheduled include a flea market, arts and crafts, group singing, games, food including barbecued chicken and ribs, a fish fry, and various types of entertainment.

Efforts to obtain the building and land, as well as raise money with which to refurbish the building, have been underway since early last year. Rowe reported $10,000 in individual donations have been raised to date. The Seminole County Community Development Block Grant Program donated $100,000, and an additional $25,000 of in-kind commitments have been received from business organizations willing to donate materials and services.

Rowe commented, "We still need about $50,000 more if we are to really put it into good condition."

Rowe said, "Everyone is welcome, and we would especially like to have people who were employed at or attended Hopper to join us for this event."

Hopper, often referred to as Harper School, is located in the 1100 block of Pine Avenue in Sanford. Events will take place Saturday, May 30, from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

Special Olympics help

Cumberland Properties, the management company which oversees the Bridgewater Apartments in Sanford, wants to give something back to a special segment of the community.

On Saturday, volunteers from Bridgewater and other Cumberland communities in Orange County will be hosting a fundraiser for Special Olympics.

The day-long event will take place in the parking lot in front of Bed, Bath and Beyond at the corner of U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 436 in Fern Park. The event will begin at 10 a.m. and continue through 3 p.m.

"We have a lot of things planned to help raise money for this very worthy cause," Felicia Donatelli, an employee at the Sanford property, said. "I think everyone will find something they can do."

Donatelli said that the first hour will include a martial arts demonstration with exhibits from various schools in the area.

From 11 a.m. until noon a disc jockey will play records for those who want to dance or just listen to a variety of music.

The lunch hour will be taken up by an auction of items donated by area merchants.

"We think we have a lot of very nice items available for the auction," Donatelli added.

Among the items are dinner certificates, clothing, furniture, electronics and housewares.

For those more interested in eating than in bidding on merchandise, there will be hot dogs available.

The remainder of the afternoon will be taken up with entertainment, including a host of country and western bands who have volunteered their services for the fundraiser.

All the money raised will be donated to the State Special Olympics program, according to Donatelli.

"We just think this is a very special cause," she said. "We got together and decided this was something we wanted to do."

Two at Flea World

The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) will benefit when dancers from across Central Florida kick up their heels for nine hours on Saturday at Flea World.

Wrapping up its month-long birthday celebration, Flea World has been giving the "gifts" to a variety of charities this month.

The Leukemia Society of Central Florida benefited from a Chili Cookoff and a bikini contest. A "Nifty Fifties" celebration helped bring in money for the Humane Society of Central Florida. And now money will go to Jerry's Kids thanks to the loud folk dancers.

The Hollywood East Cloggers will begin dancing at 8 a.m. on the Flea World stage.

They will accept donations from the audience during their performance. They will also be getting pledges from people who want to reward the performers based on the length of time they dance.

Throughout the day, spectators will have the chance to put various community leaders and other volunteers into a dunk tank. The money earned there will also go to MDA.

Also at Flea World on Saturday, there will be a chance for shoppers and others to find out about some of the candidates that will be on ballot in November.

"Flea World offers a town meeting atmosphere for voters to meet candidates, sign petitions or just express their political views," Patti said.

Bye, John

No one could have guessed, back in 1962, when an obscure daytime TV game show host named Johnny Carson took over NBC's "Tonight Show," that this skinny young man with the Nebraska twang would go on to become a popular institution. Nearly 30 years later, after more than 6,500 shows, Carson's durable and enigmatic persona has been etched permanently into the history of a medium that chews up material and talent mercilessly. There's only one Johnny.

Nor is anyone likely to match his record either for longevity or popularity as television increasingly segments itself to appeal to an ever wider variety of tastes. In recent years, only Carson, Middle American to the core, seemed able to capture the broad audience that made him TV's "King of the night," a tribute to his ability to make people feel comfortable (even as he often seemed ill at ease), and to turn his own imperfections — his multiple divorces, his frequent flubbing of punch lines — into part of an act audiences never tired of.

He also had an uncanny knack for tapping the country's underlying mood, and for ridiculing public figures (every night in his opening monologue) without quite insulting them.

Those who couldn't understand Carson's appeal never will; those who did, who liked him just the way he is, will always appreciate him and, no doubt, miss a friendly, reassuring presence that seemed likely to be part of their lives forever. That's high tribute to a first-rate entertainer.

Agnew busted again?

Along the galleries and corridors of the U.S. Capitol, the government maintains a marble bust of each of the men who has served as vice president.

It's a list that ranges from some of the most distinguished names in American history to the completely forgettable. But all are represented except for one — Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned in disgrace in 1973 just before his president and running mate, Richard Nixon, also exited the scene.

History hasn't been as forgiving of Agnew as it has been of Nixon. There have been no presidential pardons for him and no lucrative contracts for books of his memoirs. He ended his public career pretty much as federal prosecutors discovered that he had begun it — as a common grafter.

In the end, he was allowed to make a deal in which he agreed to resign and to plead non-contest to one charge of tax evasion for failing to report his income from bribes; in return, he only drew only a $10,000 fine and a three-year suspended sentence.

That's pretty small potatoes, contends Matthew Scully, a one-time editor for the National Review and now a speech writer for Vice President Dan Quayle, who's leading the effort to persuade Congress to have Agnew's head mounted at a cost of $50,000 to the taxpayers.

Scully points out that at least one other vice president, Schuyler Colfax, got tangled up in corruption — though he never resigned for that reason. And Aaron Burr was tried for treason, though eventually he was acquitted of the charge.

Even so, Scully argues, Agnew should be included as a matter of "historical thoroughness."

Scully is perfectly correct in arguing that the bust is not based on merit: Neither, for many people, is getting nominated as vice president in the first place. Agnew in retrospect appears not so much a villain as a nonentity. And as such, some might contend that his service is quite adequately represented by the blank space that now exists.

But history is best when it acknowledges its warts. And on that basis, Congress should spend the money to give Agnew his head. If that troubles anyone, maybe they can put an asterisk on it.

CHUCK STONE

Waiting for Perot and three VPs

ST. PETERSBURG — Even non-presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower did not keep the electorate twisting in the winds of indecision as long as non-candidate Ross Perot has.

But the Texas billionaire continues to tantalize the American public with his cunningly cute non-candidacy and Mario Cuomo-like dalliance.

"My polls show that he cuts across all segments of the American public," said Mervin Field, head of the highly regarded Field survey. His poll was the first to show Perot leading both Bush and Clinton.

Field was one of the many polling and survey experts at the annual meeting of the American Association for Public Opinion Research in this sun-drenched Garden of Eden by the Gulf.

When scholarly papers weren't being debated, conversations easily drifted into speculations about why voters find Perot so attractive. Many older voters see in his feisty success story some of Harry Truman's blunt-speaking, give-'em-hell style that upset a favored Thomas E. Dewey in 1948.

Voters of all ages are sick with disgust by a morally corrupt Congress that seems more concerned with its members' perquisites than its constituents' needs.

Women now see more clearly than ever the danger posed to their equality by a male-dominated fielddom infected with sexist inquisitions like Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa.

And blacks caught between the Scylla of Republican contempt and the Charybdis of Democratic indifference are hungering for signs that Perot might be willing to reach out to them.

But the voters who have already jumped party ship to Perot's political lifeboat haven't the slightest idea where he stands on most gut issues. Nor do they care. As Wendell Wilkie said, "It's all campaign oratory, anyway."

More important to this turned-off segment of the 1992 electorate is a political upheaval that they hope will accomplish two goals: throw the rascals out and provide a spiritual catharsis.

Voters are also intrigued with Perot's potential for winning enough votes to permanently retire the favorite target of America's comedians, Dan Quayle. But that may be too charitable a characterization for the nation's highest-ranking featherbrain, who blamed the Los Angeles riots on the "Murphy Brown" television show.

Is it any wonder that voters have been waiting for Perot for a long time?

Having raised potentially high hopes for Perot's candidacy, I am just enough of a historian and political scientist to realize that he absolutely cannot win the presidency, although I would love to see that happen — as of this moment, anyway.

Perot's only hope is to siphon off enough of the 537 electoral votes from Bush and Clinton to prevent a majority and thereby send the election to the House of Representatives.

That kind of standoff could be avoided if Bush switches to a more electable running mate. Almost nobody with an I.Q. above 50 would disagree that a Bush-Gen. Colin Powell ticket would dramatically improve the president's prospects.

The Texas billionaire continues to tantalize the American public.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Ozone depletion alarming?

WASHINGTON — Consider, if you will, the following hypothetical situation.

You go to the doctor with some unspecified ailments. He puts you through a battery of tests, then takes you into his office, sits you down, and says: "Mr. Smith, the tests we have given you seem to indicate that you are suffering from a very rare and quite possibly fatal disease. But we cannot be absolutely sure that you have this disease yet. It is extremely difficult to diagnose in its early stages, and it may be many months, or even years, before we know for sure."

"That means we are left with two options. We can begin treating you now. The treatment is expensive and painful, but, if we catch the disease in its early stages, the cure rate is high. Or we can wait until we are completely sure you actually have the disease before we start treatment. If you don't, then you won't have to go through the cost and the pain of treatment. The problem is that if we do not start treatment until we know for sure, the disease will likely have progressed to the point where the survival rate drops to less than 20 percent."

What would you do? This is almost exactly the situation facing governments, scientists and industry as they debate whether the ozone shield over the Earth has thinned because of environmental pollution to the point where we face a potential ecological catastrophe.

Many environmentalists and some governments argue that we simply can't take the chance. We must begin immediately to rapidly phase out ozone-depleting chlorofluorocarbons that are increasingly released into the atmosphere by industry and through use of common consumer products.

One leading group pushing an immediate chlorofluorocarbons ban is the British-based European Ozone Secretariat. They recently released a study funded by the 17-nation European Community, which concluded, in the words of Secretariat head Neil Harris, "We are simply running out of time."

The European Arctic Stratospheric Ozone Experiment concluded that the northern ozone layer decreased by 10 percent to 20 percent from December 1991 to January of this year, and then the next month, decreased by another 5 percent to 15 percent. Many northern European monitoring stations reported their lowest ozone measurements ever for winter months.

"It confirms that we are taking risks with the environment," said one of Britain's leading environmental scientists, Joe Farman, who discovered a hole in the ozone over Antarctica in the mid-1980s.

A more cautious, but still alarming position, is taken by the head of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, William Reilly. He says, "The ozone has thinned 4 percent to 5 percent, and this means 200,000 more cancer deaths over the next 50 years."

But Reilly's position is not the official position of the Bush administration, which is siding with industry and political conservatives who believe that not enough evidence yet exists that ozone-depletion is occurring, or that, if it is, it is being caused by chlorofluorocarbons.

Former Washington state governor and Atomic Energy Commission head Dixy Lee Ray shares this view. In a recent op-ed piece she wrote, "Careful scrutiny shows that evidence supporting both global warming and ozone depletion scares is sparse and questionable."

Some scientists blame recent low ozone levels on the eruption of Mt. Pinatubo in the Philippines. The massive amount of ash released into the stratosphere has caused exceptionally low concentrations of nitrogen dioxide and the increased destruction of ozone. They say this will pass as the stratosphere returns to normal.

Many who downplay recent studies that suggest an environmental disaster in the making like to quote Melvyn Shapiro, a respected weather and atmospheric scientist working with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. In a recent interview Shapiro said he sees, "no major alterations in ozone patterns." He points out that weather disturbances can often eliminate high percentages of ozone in a given spot for a very short period. But these are common occurrences. He does believe in theory that chlorofluorocarbons can deplete ozone, but does not see it happening now.

The problem, he says, "is worth further study."

That is exactly the position George Bush is taking to Rio. He is willing to sign an international agreement, watered down at his insistence, that says we should keep a close eye on the problem but not attempt any economically painful cures until we are absolutely sure the earth has really caught the ozone-depletion disease.

This thinning means 200,000 more cancer deaths over the next 50 years.

Dissension rises under 'Big Tent'

WASHINGTON — The late GOP strategist Lee Atwater coined the phrase "Big Tent" to describe a Republican party that showed tolerance for those members who support abortion rights. In a sense, it was a way of protecting a minority within a minority party.

But now it's the pro-choice minority that is trying to give the boot to one of the most vocal pro-life activists in the country, and particularly the Congress. There's apparently no room in the big tent for Robert Dornan, a conservative mud soldier.

Regardless of the outcome of the California primary on June 2, the poison politics now playing out in Orange County promises to spread throughout the country, potentially undercutting Republican fortunes this November.

The National Abortion Rights League and its California chapter (CARL) announced earlier this month that it had kicked off its largest congressional campaign ever on behalf of Judith M. Ryan, the first pro-choice GOP challenger Dornan has faced. The Orange County GOP has warned Ryan that her candidacy would "damage the national party."

The national abortion rights organization began radio ads recently on four local radio stations blasting Dornan's pro-life advocacy: "... let's say you're a Republican. There's a woman you really ought to get to know. She's Judy Ryan, and she's running for Congress against Bob Dornan in the June 2 Republican primary. After 13 years, Dornan's been in Washington long enough."

The group quickly let it be known that the Dornan-Ryan race would be a political dogfight, and beating Dornan would be the biggest trophy yet for the pro-choice community. Although there are about a dozen die-hard pro-life congressmen in California, it's no accident that Dornan is a primary target.

Dornan has hit back hard against Ryan, zeroing in on the fact that she lives outside the district and is a single-issue candidate who concedes to being "recruited" to run against him by pro-choice groups.

The Jesuit-educated Dornan has not straddled the issues during the primary season.

During a recent debate on whether to allow federally-financed family planning clinics to dispense abortion advice, Dornan said in a speech on the House floor: "What are we really fighting here? To have a high-school kid who is all enamored up in this abortion cult thing ... to be able to advise other high school kids to have an abortion. ... You folks ought to stop twisting the truth on this so-called gag rule. We don't use family planning money to kill babies."

Two CARL letters sent out recently underscore the urgency: "Extremist," one letter states. "Few congressmen are more fanatically anti-choice than Bob Dornan. On this issue, few are more dangerous."

Ironically, pro-choice supporters within the GOP are now imposing the very kind of litmus test they once blamed for fraying the fabric of the GOP. Inviting pro-choice activists into the tent was designed to make the Republicans a kinder, gentler party.

"It is just a major liberal, Democrat effort in a Republican primary to take me out," Dornan told us "It was just unbelievable thing of why — why would she pass up this open seat where she had a better than even chance to go to Congress. It's obviously a one-issue campaign."

Regardless of the outcome this year, Dornan vows to stick to a long-standing promise not to run beyond 1996.

Court allows lawsuits over AIDS

By GARY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Medical malpractice laws cannot shield blood banks from negligence lawsuits, the Florida Supreme has ruled in cases where people got AIDS through blood transfusions.

Also Thursday, the court sentenced to life in prison a mentally impaired man the justices decided should not die for the 1980 sex slaying of a 4-year-old Pensacola boy.

The court, in a 4-3 decision, ruled that Southwest Florida Blood Bank Inc. was not a health care provider like a hospital or surgical center. That means it and other blood banks can be more easily sued than those providers.

Two families who did not wish to be publically identified filed negligence lawsuits against the blood bank, one in 1980 and one in 1981. In one case, a mother contracted AIDS through a transfusion while giving birth; in another, an infant got the deadly disease from a transfusion while hospitalized for meningitis.

In both cases, the blood was supplied by Southwest Florida, and the transfusions occurred before development of the test for the HIV virus which causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome. That test was invented in 1985.

The 2nd District Court of Appeal upheld dismissal of the two lawsuits, reasoning that Southwest Florida was a "health care provider" and thus entitled to a two-year statute of limitations on medical malpractice suits. The lawsuits were both filed after that date had expired.

The two families argued that Southwest didn't qualify as a provider and should be liable for lawsuits under the four-year negligence statute of limitations.

The Supreme Court majority sided with the families. Justice Rosemary Barkett, writing for the majority, said blood banks don't fit the definition intended by the Legislature to limit the liability of hospitals and other health providers.

"Southwest played no role in determining the nature of the plaintiff patients' illnesses, did not treat those patients, and did not attend to the personal needs of those patients," Barkett said. "In this case, Southwest was simply the supplier of a product."

Justices Ben Overton, Parker Lee McDonald and Stephen Grimes dissented, but only Grimes and McDonald issued an opinion.

They said Southwest was a health care provider, but even so was not protected by the shorter statute of limitations in this case because the company provided no diagnosis, treatment or care.

In the murder case, the justices decided 6-1 that Circuit

Judge Carl Harper should not have overridden the jury's recommendation of mercy for Michael Glen Patrick Reilly in the slaying of Jonathan Wells.

There was no evidence that Reilly planned the killing and sizable evidence that he suffered enough mental problems, including an 80 IQ and severe learning disabilities, to warrant a sentence of life, the court ruled.

"We cannot say that the facts suggesting a sentence of death are so clear and convincing that no reasonable person would differ," the justices wrote. "The jury's recommendation for a life sentence must be given great weight."

Justice Stephen Grimes dissented, saying there was no evidence that Reilly suffered from a mental disturbance that kept him from understanding the magnitude of his crime.

"It seems obvious that the jurors simply felt sorry for Reilly," Grimes wrote.

Reilly, 28, was sentenced to death after a second trial for the Feb. 2, 1980, strangulation of Wells. The first death sentence, which was recommended by that jury, was vacated by the Supreme Court because of an error in jury selection.

Trial testimony indicated that the testimony indicated that he went fishing at a neighbor's dock. About four hours later, his bruised, battered body was found at a bayou near his home.

logical reason why I asked for the resignation was that I had lost confidence in him. I didn't reflect more than one opinion."

The Mayor added, "Actually, I like the guy, but I find I'm faced with a decision as to what is best for the entire City."

Commissioner Paul Tremel sided with Morris. "I think any member of this Commission should certainly have the right to approach a man and ask for his resignation."

Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore said this morning, "I thought we were calling a special meeting to discuss the personnel problems, and we end up hearing that the Mayor has asked for the City manager's resignation."

Jore commented, "All of us are under a gag order not to discuss the other people who might be involved in this dispute, but what it looks like to me is that the Mayor is trying to make a power play out of this entire thing."

Litton defended himself and said he wanted to continue. "These past two weeks have been painful both personally and professionally," he said. "On May 13th, the Mayor asked for me to resign in lieu of possibly losing two senior department heads, and possibly others who no longer desired to work for me."

The two "senior department heads" mentioned by Litton were not identified. The organizational chart for the City contains only five positions at the top level of the various departments. Those are Public Safety Director Charles Lauderdale, Finance Director Robert Lockridge, Recreation and Parks Director John Holland, Public Works Director and City Engineer Bill Temby, and City Planner Matt West. The administrative policy says each "reports directly to the City Manager."

Lockridge, Holland and Temby have been hired since Litton became City Manager.

Litton continued, "If a majority of the City Commission feels that Lake Mary is best served by my resignation, then I will comply. However," he added, "if a majority of the Commission has confidence in me, then I will continue with a promise to deal with the perceived managerial problems, but no longer compromising accountability and professional conduct among my staff."

"Therefore," he said, "I am now asking the City Commission for your vote of confidence."

In a memorandum issued to Morris prior to the meeting, City Attorney Ned Julian wrote, "The charges and counter-charges have not been fully investigated by the City Commission." He also determined, "...that no proper determination has been made as to the truth of any of the various charges."

Even before Litton's comments, Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore made a motion to give the City Manager a vote of confidence. "I think he is doing a good job, and if we approve this, I would want the City Manager to get back to running the city as he's supposed to do."

Morris commented on the situation. "When I first heard about this problem, I said to them, 'Work this out yourselves,' but nothing happened." He continued, "Then, Commissioner Meador tried to bring the individuals involved together, but they still couldn't resolve their problems."

"My main concern, Morris said, 'was to do what is better for the future of the City.'"

When the final vote was called, Commissioners Jore, Duryea and David Meador supported the vote of confidence, with Mayor Morris and Commissioner Tremel voting against it.

As the measure passed, a packed audience in the commission chambers broke into applause in support of Litton. Many of them were city employees including most of the department heads as well as members of the police and fire department.

Litton, who has an annual salary of $62,000, has been employed as Lake Mary City Manager since April, 1989.

"I suspect it was a food fight," said Hartlef. "She's real particular about her food."

Lab tests were performed and Hartlef found Baby had an infection from the wound. A local veterinarian prescribed medication and the bird recovered.

Hartlef has a state permit to care for injured wildlife at her ranch. The ranch is operated solely on donations and her husband's auto dealership earnings. She can be reached at 349-1127.

Slugging it out in court

By LAURIE ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Self-styled psychic Uri Geller's claim that he could perform supernatural feats, such as bending a spoon with brain power, was disputed by magician James Randi.

So Geller did what millions of Americans do every year — he filed a lawsuit.

Slugging it out in court is the American way, but critics led by Vice President Dan Quayle say things have gotten out of control. Too many attorneys and lawsuits are harming U.S. competitiveness in the world market, says Quayle, himself a lawyer.

Walter K. Olson, author of "The Litigation Explosion," agreed. "Our legal system has been set up to encourage litigation and it has been a great disaster," he said.

That's bunk, say the legal industry and other critics who accuse the Bush administration of fudging numbers.

"There's no litigation explosion," said consumer activist Ralph Nader. "We used to litigate more in 1830 per capita than we do now ... (Quayle) is only against lawyers who represent victims; isn't that strange?"

The National Center for State Courts counted 18.3 million civil suits filed in state courts in 1980, following a steady rise from 13.5 million cases in 1964.

Burglary

Apopka burglary. The recovery led to the pair's arrest.

"Acting upon information supplied by an unnamed source, we contributed to the investigation and recovery of some property," Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said.

Bergman was already in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, charged with armed burglary and grand theft in a May 14 incident at a Winter Park home in an upper middle class neighborhood. Sheriff's reports state a "vast" amount of items were taken from the residence, including diving equipment, a shotgun, a camera and credit cards.

An investigation revealed that Bergman used the Winter Park victim's credit cards to make several purchases, including gold jewelry, in Daytona Beach. One credit card transaction totaled $1,700, reports show. She later pawned some of the items in Daytona Beach, Proschel said.

"We are very interested in both parties. We are reviewing all the claims and witness statements," Proschel said. "They (investigators) know they have something, they just don't know what it is, yet."

Harriett pledged Sanford's support during the investigation.

"Will we assist them? Absolutely. Sanford Police Department has cooperated and will continue to cooperate with appropriate agencies in this investigation," he said.

from the Seminole High COMSAC (Community and School Action Committee).

High on Freer's list of important issues that he would emphasize if he were a candidate are drugs and the economy. "Before anything, we'd have to get drugs off the street and out of the nation," Freer said.

He said that he believes that drastic steps must be made to turn the economy around.

"We need to make changes," he noted.

Freer said that John Cullum, his English teacher, had made an assignment of the question of what students would do if they were presidential candidates.

"He encouraged me to enter the (Kiwanis) contest," Freer said. "I'm glad he did."

supply." County Manager Ron Rabun said a work session has been tentatively scheduled for June 23 at 10:30 a.m. County development review staff will detail their borrow pit review process, what information is required of pit applicants and if staff believes there are any deficiencies in the process.

Commissioners made the decision to review their pit permitting Tuesday afternoon after residents and environmentalists said they didn't understand the potential impacts of the pits on surrounding areas.

Commissioners voted 3-2 to approve a pit on a 4.3-acre site west of South Sanford Avenue sought by expressway builder White Construction Co. Commissioners Jennifer Kelley and Larry Furlong opposed it. White has also applied for permission to dig three more pits in the area. One other pit is under county review near Silver Lake Drive. After the pit decision was made and other scheduled items considered, Furlong asked for a moratorium on new pit approvals. A similar request by Kelley had failed immediately following the White pit vote. Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said he would not allow the vote, even though Kelley joined the request.

After discussion, Kelley withdrew her support and Sturm called for another commissioner to support the vote. Angered by Sturm's actions, Furlong walked out of the meeting.

"A chairman's job is to conduct meetings, not to impose his own agenda," Furlong said this morning.

Sturm said this morning he could allow a vote for a moratorium because County Attorney Bob McMillan had said earlier in the meeting declarations of moratoriums require a prepared ordinance and two public hearings before a vote can be made.

Courtesy busing fee studied

By VICKI BUCHANAN

SANFORD — Though the Seminole County school district has been able to save more than $300,000 by eliminating most courtesy bus routes across the district, but they might be willing to reinstate them for a price.

The school board agreed yesterday to send out surveys to more than 2,300 parents whose students will now have to walk to school to see if they would be willing to pay $300 a year to ride the bus.

State law requires that students who live more than two miles from their zoned school be provided with transportation if they need it. The district receives some reimbursement from the state for taking those students to and from school.

However, students who live less than two miles away must provide their own transportation unless the route they must traverse can be proved to be hazardous.

In the past, when there has been room on buses, students who live closer than two miles and whose routes have not been deemed hazardous have been allowed to ride to school as a "courtesy" from the district.

The increased number of students and the decreased dollars from the state have forced the district to eliminate the courtesy.

According to Jerry Klein, director of transportation for the district, almost all school districts have had to eliminate courtesy bus routes from their budgets and at least one district (Volusia County) provides transportation for those students who live nearer than two miles if they are willing to pay for it.

John Hoffield, director of transportation for the Volusia County schools, said that parents are charged $234 per year to have their children ride the bus if they live within two miles of the school.

The district will develop a survey to check public interest in paying for transportation.

Water association thanks city for help

By J. MARK SANFELD
Herald Staff Writer

MIDWAY — A director of the Midway-Canaan Community Water Association thanks the people of Sanford for helping the utility cooperative emerge from a sticky financial mess.

On May 13, the city sued the cooperative in an effort to collect about $90,000 in unpaid wholesale water sold to the association for distribution to Midway homes. At the time, the association hadn't made a payment since December, said city Utility Director Paul Moore. On May 19, the association paid $4,000 on the debt. It currently owes $86,501, said Moore.

The city has asked Circuit Court Judge Wallace Hall to appoint a receiver to assume management of the association until the debt can be settled.

Johnell, a member of the association board of directors, said the city is helping the Midway residents by filing the suit.

"We really appreciate it," said Jackson. "We are grateful to the citizens of Sanford for doing this for us. We are not denying anything."

Jackson said the association will increase payments to the city to reduce the debt by discontinuing payments on a Farmer's Home Administration loan used to finance the water system during the 1980s. Jackson said about $80,000 is still owed on that debt.

Jackson said since a new group of Midway residents took over control of the 26-year-old organization they have found the system is in such poor repair, the water rates cannot support repairs and maintenance. The original directors were ousted by residents following a state attorneys investigation into accusations of misuse of association revenues. Charges were not filed.

Road work on State Road 46 revealed an aging, leaking main water line. The Florida Department of Transportation broke its tradition and completed the $170,000 replacement of the leaking portion of the line last month. FDOT officials said they will decide later who to attempt collection of the expense.

Seminole County reallocated about $700,000 in drainage, street paving and sidewalk projects to replace the system throughout the community. Jackson said had the system been in good repair, the new board might have been able to manage the debts, but the expenses were too great for the higher-than-average rates.

Both Sanford and the county are considering taking over the water system once the replacements have been completed.

County animal control officers' training OK'd

By J. MARK SANFELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners formally adopted training standards for animal control officers Tuesday that exceed state minimum standards.

Commissioners voted unanimously to adopt the minimum standards and to turn over their authority of granting citation-writing powers for animal control officers to the chief animal control officer.

Frank Kirk, acting Animal Control official, said the county's training standards assures the animal law enforcement officers not only know state legal requirements and restrictions but their "home turf" as well.

"The ordinance exceeds the state standard," said Kirk. "It requires successful completion of a 90-day internal training program which familiarizes them with the neighborhoods and Seminole County ordinances before they are permitted to write citations."

Under a 1980 state law, all animal control officers (ACOs) must complete a 40-hour state-approved training course before they can respond to animal complaints. Kirk said the course includes training on state laws, handling animals and dealing with the public.

But before an ACO can issue fines to violators for the county, they must complete the 90-day training period which also serves as an employment review period, said Kirk.

"We're real concerned about the way they deal with the public," said Kirk. "They receive training in every section of the division from scrubbing fish with the shelter workers, to working the computers up front. They'll ride with another officer for about 60 days of the period and we'll give them a small area of their own to respond to minor calls."

Because the state-approved classes are offered infrequently, some new ACOs have completed the 90-day training but have not taken the state course. Of the six county ACOs, only two have citation powers although five have completed the county's training program, said Kirk.

Kirk said the power to grant citation-writing authority has been with commissioners since before the county charter was adopted in 1980. Kirk said the authority is administrative because the animal control official knows the day to day performance of ACOs.

Economy now doing better than thought

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy grew at a somewhat faster rate than first thought during the first three months of 1992, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the upward revision in the gross domestic product, the broadest measure of the economy's health, put growth at a 2.4 percent seasonally adjusted annual rate from January to March.

In an advance estimate last month, the department had said the sum of all goods and services produced within the U.S. borders grew at a 2 percent rate.

The revision brings growth to the brisk pace since the early months of George Bush's presidential term. However, most of the added strength in the new estimate came from greater production of manufactured goods for inventories.

Because the stock of goods held on shelves and backlogs was fatter than first thought, there is less pressure on factories to step up production during the current quarter.

In a more positive accompanying report, the department said corporate profits surged at an annual rate of 8 percent, the best gain in four years.

Analysts are convinced that GDP growth is strong enough to avoid a repeat of last year, when the recovery fizzled out after a late spring surge. However, they also say the rebound is much slower than typical post World War II recoveries and it likely will be months before the unemployment rate — the politically most important barometer of the nation's economic health — declines appreciably.

"It's sort of a laid-back recovery so far. That's what we're getting and that's what we're expecting," said economist Robert G. Dederick of Northern Trust Co. in Chicago. "If the unemployment rate breaks through 7 percent, we'll be lucky."

Bush is counting on a pickup in the economy to boost his re-election prospects. But, in April, 7.2 percent of American workers were looking for jobs, only a tenth of a percentage point below the recession's peak of 7.3 percent.

As in the first report, the American consumer was the star performer in the economy during the first quarter. Consumer spending, representing two-thirds of the entire economy, grew at a 3.1 percent annual rate, slightly better than the initial estimate of 5.3 percent.

Spending rose an especially strong 18.4 percent for durable goods such as automobiles, home furnishings and appliances.

Analysts attributed the surge to lower interest rates, which put more cash in many homeowners' pockets via mortgage refinancing, and to reduction in the federal income tax withholding rate, which had the same effect.

First quarter growth also was helped by an 11.1 percent gain in housing construction, a health increase but not as good as the 18.8 percent surge reported originally.

Perot brings his campaign to this area

By BOBBY McCARTNEY
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Unofficial presidential candidate Ross Perot is pressing the flesh in Florida and beaming his voice and face to five other states in trying out a rally-by-satellite that some say — and worry — is the campaign style of the future.

The billionaire businessman, whose name is already on ballots in nine states, plans to substitute extensive reliance on satellite communications for typical barnstorming.

"This is a practical way of campaigning, I hope," said Perot spokesman James Squires. "That's the old way — go five different places and spend all that time going and no time there."

In Orlando today, Perot's stage will be an old-fashioned campaign venue — a livestock pavilion stage on which he'll be flanked by 150 bales of hay and a huge map of the nation, organizers said.

But the barn scene will be broadcast by satellite link to rallies in Ohio, Alabama, Kansas, Wyoming and Idaho, from where supporters will be able to ask Perot questions.

The red-white-and-blue affair is expected to draw a caravan of buses and 5,000 people, according to Perot organizer Kevin Burnett in Florida.

Satellite appearances are "nothing new in politics." But substituting travel for television is, analysts said.

"I think he may lose something by doing it that way," said Brookings Institution analyst Stephen Hess. "He might have learned some things if he had gone out, shook hands and met a lot of people. You can't do that sitting in a studio and talking to another studio."

"I don't doubt that other people will pick up on this because it can be very efficient," Hess said. "This has been coming for a long time. ... With or without Perot, we're getting there. And in some ways we're the poorer for it."

Squires said Perot has no trouble drawing attention, and has no need to raise money. Traditional campaigning, at least for now, isn't necessary in Perot's opinion.

"We asked why everyone does it the other way, and none of the questions and none of the answers apply to this deal," Squires said. "This really is nothing more than being practical."

Some experts wondered whether Perot can sustain enthusiasm for his campaign, and convince voters he wants the job, without a hectic coast-to-coast effort.

"How people will care about that, I'm not sure," said Duke University presidential scholar James David Barber. "There is so much television now, and people have so much relation to it, that they may not really mind."

Another centerpiece of the Perot crusade will be "electronic town hall meetings," where Perot speaks with groups from around the country from a television studio in Dallas.

"Can it work? You bet it can as long as he stays popular," said University of Texas political scientist Bruce Buchanan. "If he goes down as his image takes on more substance, then you may see more traditional campaigning."

Candidates, though, do learn from shaking hands, kissing babies and meeting face-to-face with voters, Buchanan said. But if Perot finds a better way, others will soon copy.

"There is a need for retail politics at some level," he said. "As for ritualistic travel from this flag factory to that Kiwanis Club, I don't think that's necessary."

Perot is preparing an independent presidential campaign and is leading or placing second in state and national opinion polls.

Cyclones crank up Saturday

SANFORD — The Sanford Cyclones, a baseball team made up of Seminole High School students, will open its season on Saturday with a 10 a.m. doubleheader against Orangeview Christian at the Seminole High School field.

Kenne Brown and Rod Ferguson, the assistant coaches on Seminole's Class 3A state championship team, will lead the Cyclones.

SYFA registration coming up

SANFORD — The Sanford Youth Football Association will register players and cheerleaders this Saturday, May 30, and again next Saturday, June 6, at Chase Park.

Registration, which costs $50, will be available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on both days.

The SYFA is a member of the Mid-Florida Pop Warner Football Association, which offers tackle football and cheerleading activities for children between the ages of 7 and 15.

ALTIMONTE SPRINGS — For those looking to increase their speed and jumping ability, Lake Brantley High School boys' track coach Charlie Harris will hold a four-day speed clinic from June 1-4.

The clinic will be aimed to help all athletes, not just those in track. Registration is $30.

For more information, call Harris at Lake Brantley High School, 892-1776.

Tampa in Division II finals

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Joe Umo had five hits, including a two-run homer, to lead the University of Tampa to a 15-2 drubbing of Lewis and a berth in the NCAA Division II baseball tournament championship game on Saturday.

Winning pitcher Sam Steed (10-6) limited Lewis (45-22) to one hit and two runs over six innings.

In Thursday's late game, Tony Flores hit a three-run triple as Cal Poly San Luis Obispo beat Mansfield 9-2. The Mustang win forced a rematch between the two teams Friday for the right to face Tampa (41-19) on Saturday.

Portland advances to finals

SALT LAKE CITY — The Portland Trail Blazers took a road that few teams crossed all season to advance to the NBA Finals.

The Blazers, behind a smothering second-half defense and 18 points each from Clyde Drexler, Jerome Kersey and Terry Porter, handed the Utah Jazz just their fifth defeat in 50 home games, 106-97 Thursday night, to win the best-of-7 Western Conference finals 4-2.

The victory moves Portland into the NBA Finals for the second time in three years against the winner of the Chicago-Cleveland series that the defending champion Bulls lead 3-2.

Lemieux, Penguins go up 2-0

PITTSBURGH — Mario Lemieux, who has made the 1992 Stanley Cup playoffs his personal showcase, scored his 14th and 15th goals of the postseason tournament Thursday night to lead the Pittsburgh Penguins to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks.

Lemieux broke a 1-1 tie with a power-play goal at 12:55 of the second period. He later clinched it with another goal at 15:23.

The way goaltender Tom Barraso and the Pittsburgh defense played, that's all the goals the Penguins needed to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Thursday leaders keep pace

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Gator's and Church of God/Florida Sportswear used contrasting styles to move to the head of the class in Sanford Recreation Department Men's Thursday Night Spring Softball League action at Pinehurst Park.

Gator's rebounded from last week's first loss of the season to defeat Stenstrom/Stump Construction 12-2 while Church of God/Florida Sportswear got a two-out, two-run double from Steve Woodley in the top of the seventh inning and survived a bases-loaded, two-out situation in the bottom of the seventh to edge Ed Bussard's Pro Base Guide Service 10-9 in a battle of 3-1 teams.

In the other game, DeLand Nissan kept First Baptist Church of Sanford winless with a 12-4 victory.

Gator's and Church of God/Florida Sportswear are both 4-1 with DeLand Nissan and Ed Bussard's a game back at 3-2. Stenstrom/Stump is 0-4 and First Baptist 0-5.

Next week, Florida Sportswear takes on First Baptist at 6:30 p.m., Stenstrom/Stump challenges Ed Bussard's at 7:30 p.m. and DeLand Nissan battles Gator's at 8:30 p.m.

Nelson Pomales (sliding) and his Stenstrom-Stump Construction teammates couldn't get anything going offensively Thursday night against Mic West (right) and the rest of the Gator's, dropping a 12-2 decision. Pomales, who had singled, was trying to score from second base when he was thrown out at the plate.

Veteran defense leads Seminole into jamboree

By ROBERT STOCK
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — If defense wins ballgames, then Seminole football coach Emory Blake must be anxious for tonight's spring jamboree at Seminole High School and the upcoming fall football season.

The Seminoles return nine starters from a group that allowed no more than 21 points last season as they take on Lake Howell in the fourth quarter and Oviedo in the final quarter.

Lake Mary and Lake Brantley will square off in the first half of the jamboree while the Silverhawks and Lions battle during the third quarter.

Although the Tribe loses nose tackle Carlo White to graduation, juniors Richard Peterson, James Matthews, Claude Hittell, Emory Green, Sam Bicker, Matt Parker, Gerard Shrine and Johnson Montgomery will look to stuff opposing offenses. Johnny Golden takes over at nose tackle.

With the wealth of experience, the defense didn't just acquaint themselves with the fundamentals during spring workouts.

"We let our guys familiarize themselves with what they need to do for the upcoming year," Blake said. "We were just tuning them up. It (the spring) is a stepping stone for our guys preparing for the upcoming season. We tried to get the guys to a different level."

While Seminole's strong defense can stop opponents, it may have also had an additional benefit for Blake: helping his young and inexperienced offense mature.

Sophomore Todd Braden takes over the helm at quarterback and Blake will shape his offense around the mobile right-hander.

"We might play it a little bit differently," Blake said. "Todd is a little bit more of a runner than a passer. But we'll still be 50-50 (run/pass percentage)."

Senior Tyrone Williams will be one of the primary horses trying to establish a ground game. Phillip King, who played on Seminole's state championship baseball team and Gerard Shrine will also line up behind Braden.

When Seminole looks to throw, Tony Duncan and Matt Diemer will be on the receiving end of Braden's tosses.

But for either the ground or air attacks to work, Seminole must receive a solid performance from an entirely new offensive line that features three sophomores and two freshmen. Andre Key, Stephen Davison, Sean King, Johnny Dennis and Thomas Wilks have taken a crash course in how to handle a good defense during the past three weeks.

Rams to go airborne against Patriot defense

By ROBERT STOCK

SANFORD — When facing an immovable object, up and over is often the only way past it.

That's what the Lake Mary football team will try to do tonight when they clash with the tough Lake Brantley defense in a spring jamboree contest at Seminole High School's Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

The Rams and the Patriots will square off in the first half of the jamboree. They will be followed by a Lake Howell-Oviedo showdown. Seminole will then take on Lake Howell in the fourth quarter and Oviedo in the final quarter.

Lake Brantley returns seven starters to a defense that consistently stuffed the run, even against a bigger Gainesville-Buchholz squad in the 5A-Section I contest. Inside linebacker Daryl Bush, who recorded 231 tackles last season, leads the physical Patriot defense.

But the weakness that doomed Lake Brantley against Buchholz has not been fixed: passing defense.

And that's exactly what Lake Mary's offense will be geared to do tonight and next year.

"I think we'll probably use the pass to set up the run," said Ram head coach Doug Peters. "In the past, we've been more run-oriented. We have most of our specialty players back. I think they'll be outstanding."

Lake Mary quarterback Jason Rasmussen, who completed 82 percent of his passes last season and threw for almost 900 yards, will look to strike through the air. He has an experienced and talented array of receivers, including Pete Kuc, one of the top Seminole Athletic Conference's receivers last year.

Eric Leister and Mike Werner will also look to beat the Patriot secondary, which features two new starters.

But the Rams will not abandon the run, especially with 6-foot, 3-inch Terrell White behind Rasmussen. However, White could have trouble finding any holes with three new linemen — Jason Oliver, Jody Cline and Tyler Wright — in front of him. The trio joins Steve Bailey and Marcus Feazell in the trenches.

Defensively, Lake Mary also has muscle to stop the run, including three-time All-SAC linebacker Paul Clayton. Greg Menello also returns at linebacker. On the defensive line, Jason Perry, James Davis and Ryan Gamble, all starters last

Mom : Alcohol ads affect kids

DEAR MARY: I am the mother of two teenagers and this may not be a big deal, but it seems to me that most of the beer ads that I see on TV and in magazines feature actors that don't look old enough to legally drink and are geared to kids still in school. Doesn't that mean that these ads are "pitching" to kids too young to legally buy or use their products in many cases? Talk about mixed messages — no wonder our kids don't listen to us about things like this. On one hand we're telling that they are breaking the law if they use alcohol, and then the TV shows and magazines geared to young people tell them how much fun they'll have and how much more popular they'll be if they use it. If I'm wrong tell me; my kids would love it.

STRAIGHT-LACED MOM
DEAR MOM: Believe me, you are NOT wrong! (Sorry kids.) The alcohol industry spends hundreds of millions of dollars on advertising every year featuring super star spokespeople, cartoon-like characters, pets and humor, all of which have great appeal to teenagers and even younger kids. One beer commercial advertises its product as the beverage served at "87 percent of the parties your parents would never attend." The ad that I find most offensive personally, features a sweet-looking, black-eyed dog as the brewery's mascot and then markets a full line of toys, stuffed animals and child-sized T-shirt featuring the dog.

8- to 12-year-old could name 5.2 kinds of alcoholic beverages but only 4.8 U.S. presidents.

So, Mom, you are very right. Perhaps you may want to direct your next letter to some part of the alcohol industry, acknowledging their need to advertise, but expressing your concern about promotions that have such strong and direct appeal to children and teenagers.

Cool, clean water

Know your facts before buying water purifier

I received a call last week around 8 p.m. The person on the other end asked me if I was interested in a free 5 night, 4 day Bahama cruise for me and one other person and all we would pay was the port tax. I told them it sounded too good to be true. She assured me it was not! All they wanted to do was come to our home and test our water to see if it was "bad" and if we would use a water purifier. By me letting them come, we could get our name in a hat to be drawn for the cruise. I told them I was a home economist and if I was concerned about my water, I would call the Environmental Health section of Seminole County government. I also decided it might be time to print a story on water purifiers.

CONSUMER FOCUS

you into buying a water filter or other type of treatment unit, particularly because the chances are quite high that you don't need one. Although drinking water from some sources, particularly private wells, can in rare instances pose a health hazard, the major portion of our water comes from public water supplies that comply with safety standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency. Unfortunately, some marketers scare consumers into believing that even water that meets the government's safety standards is contaminated.

Free tests?

Be wary of "free" home water tests. The people trying to sell you purifying units should not be the ones determining whether your water needs them. Put another way, most "free" tests are part of a sales gimmick designed to "prove" that your water requires treatment.

If you are concerned about possible contaminants or if you obtain your water from a private well, you may want to have your water tested by a private laboratory. In that case, make sure to deal with the lab yourself; some fraudulent sellers offer to send water samples to an independent laboratory for you and then alter or misrepresent the results. For a list of state-certified laboratories, call HRS Seminole County Public Health Unit Environmental Health Section 321-5479, Ext. 2604 or 2605.

Government doesn't endorse

Do not deal with sellers who claim that their water treatment units are government-approved. The government does not endorse or approve water treatment units or companies. It's true that the Environmental Protection Agency assigns certain products registration numbers. But those numbers are not stamps of approval, as some unscrupulous manufacturers would suggest. They simply are an indication that a company has convinced the government certain substances in its product won't at least cause any harm.

Who to contact

To obtain reliable information regarding treatment units, the EPA recommends that you contact either of two independent, not-for-profit organizations: NSF International (formerly the National Sanitation Foundation) or the Water Quality Association. While neither one recommends particular brands of treatment units, both provide advice and literature about the industry as a whole as well as about specific types of units.

Write or call NSF International, 3475 Plymouth Road, P. O. Box 1468, Ann Arbor, MI 48105, 1-313-760-9010; or the Water Quality Association, Consumer Affairs Dept., 4151 Naperville Road, Lisle, IL 60532, 1-708-505-0160.

Husband's fate sealed with kiss

DEAR ABBY: During our four years of marriage, there have been a number of occasions when I've questioned my husband's fidelity. For example:

My "Mel" was in the hospital for a few days undergoing minor surgery when his secretary forwarded his office mail to the house. I went through it to see if anything needed immediate attention — perhaps a bill to pay. One envelope looked like a business letter, so I opened it. It was from a very attractive businesswoman who had both met at a convention recently. She said she is looking forward to seeing Mel in Tokyo soon! (Mel travels to Japan on business, and evidently she travels, too.) She enclosed her business card on which there was a bright red lipstick "kiss"! I was shocked, and now I'm suspicious.

Mel says I'm being stupid — that many businessmen put their lip imprints on their business cards. Is this true, or could there be something "personal" going on here?

MEL'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I hate to judge your husband guilty on circumstantial evidence, but yes, I would say there could be something personal going on.

When a woman puts her lip print on her business card, the message is not very subtle, and the business could also be pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: My 35-year-old sister-in-law was recently visited by her nephew and his wife who live in Wisconsin.

During their three-day visit, this nephew and his wife tried desperately — without being point-blank — to find who was named in her will, and to what extent.

Abby, if you were that sister-in-law, how would you have handled that awkward situation? As you may have guessed, there was quite a lot of money involved.

CURIOUS IN IOWA

DEAR CURIOUS: I would have told the nephew and his wife. "It is customary to wait until the will is read to disclose that information." Period.

"A FRIEND FOR LIFE"

Do you have a relationship in your life, one which really and completely fulfills your needs?
Does that relationship exist the needs of another? Perhaps it is one which revolves around the spontaneous exchange of affection...one which thrives upon the togetherness of those that care. Most probably, that relationship asks little, yet gives much. The successful ingredients of such a twosome are likely to be such special qualities as faith, trust, unquestioning love, and unrequited joy.
Do you have the need for such a bond in your life? God is waiting for you in His house. Take advantage of this opportunity to make His acquaintance. You will find a friend for life.

Religion

Methodism founder portrayed

First United Methodist Church of Deltona presents "Worship with John Wesley," who was founder of worldwide Methodism, on Sunday, June 7, at 4 p.m. in the sanctuary. John Wesley will be portrayed by the Rev. Graham Hardy.

The Rev. Graham Hardy served in interim ministry in West Virginia and in three cities here in Florida.

Hardy moved from England to Scotland at the age of 11 when his father was appointed to the Shetland Isles. This began his "Scottish connection," which turned out to be 33 years there. He also spent 20 years in Sydney, Australia, during which time his church was attended by Queen Elizabeth II when she visited there. He received the Medal of the Order of Australia for his service to religion and the community.

Another great interest in Hardy's life is music. He has a diploma in piano from the Royal Academy of Music in London, and his wife, has a Bachelor of Music degree, also from the Royal Academy. He is an accomplished author, having written and published a number of books in Australia, where he also had a radio ministry for 18 years. Now, at the age of 70, he has just completed his Doctorate in Ministry, which he "never found time to complete" when ministering in large churches.

The music for this special service will be provided by the church's New Covenant Choir. The music has been specially selected to be music Wesley himself heard, or music of English origin. The Rev. Hardy's attire will reflect the proper dress of an 18th Century English parson.

Sanford. Barbara Yeager, right, of First Presbyterian Church, Sanford, served the soup, corn bread and a cool slice of watermelon to Jessica Ward, Stephanie Weitel and Charlie Weitel, bottom left.
