Shoes For Kiddies Is Headache For London Mothers

By BARBARA WACE
LONDON—With the first children's parties in the offing, proud but distracted mothers of London's future debutantes and beaux are having a hard time finding party shoes for their offspring.

At Miss Vacani's famous dancing class off Knights Bridge, a pre-war atmosphere of admiring nannies, titled parents and cute little girls in coupon-free net frocks was only marred by extraordinary makeshift footwear.

One small boy solemnly danced his solo polka in dark blue and red thick felt bedroom slippers. Several little girls wore ballet shoes procured at a reduced professional rate of one coupon from theatrical shops in the Grosvenor Cross Road, a district previously unknown to their enterprising mothers.

Several mothers, for whom the shoe shortage seems to be worst, slithered about in slippers made from chamois leather dusters, tied with bright ribbons.

The majority clomped about with lilet skirts and thick "sensible" brown lined Oxfords, which had to do duty for school as well. And one little child, with golden curls and voluminous skirts, led the display in scarlet canvas-topped, rope-soled espadrilles (beach shoes).

A million rubber-soled shoes are promised by the Board of Trade for next year, which should help the shortage of leather ones, but in the meantime London's little Lords and Ladies must "make do," like everybody else.

Slogans have appeared saying: "make your own party and cocktail shoes"—"have your old pumps covered for the house" or "sew the little darlings some bedroom slippers from your old felt hat."

Besides those slogans there are supremely irritating advertisements such as: "Sorry, Madam, but these attractive styles are not yours—yet. They are for export only. In the meantime we keep you UP TO DATE WITH FASHION."

The shoe trade seems to gloss over the unpleasant fact that for grownups the shoe shortage is as bad as ever, even if plastic shoes with high heels are promised soon.

Some fashion writers have made matters worse by the degrading theory that the cause of the shortage in shoes size 6-8 (American 7-9) is that British women's feet never small, are growing even larger. Their reasons—hard work, queues, split soles, and more walking in "utility" flat heeled Oxfords and wooden soled clogs.

The London housewife, glaring dejectedly at the shop notices saying "small sizes only" as she queues on cold November mornings, is not made to feel any better by the thought that as she stands her feet are spreading

Harvest Of Spuds In Lee County Underway

FORT MYERS Fla.—Digging of the winter Irish potato crop in Lee County is new under way, with yield prospects considered generally good, according to County Agent C. P. Heuck.

The crop is a little late this season due to weather conditions, and many growers sprayed with dilthane from two to four times weekly in December to check blight which threatened the plants. Pontiac and Bliss Triumph are the leading varieties being grown. Cold weather during the last few weeks of 1945 also delayed most other crops. Fall tomatoes were much later than usual in coming to market, but the crop has been of very good quality and growers have been well satisfied with prices, Mr. Heuck said.

Lice have been unusually severe on cattle this winter, and Lee cattlemen have been dipping their herds regularly to control these pests, the county agent also reported.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

That the agricultural conservation program has been of tremendous benefit to Florida agriculture is quickly apparent to anyone who considers what has been done under it since its inception in 1936.

In reporting recently that Florida farmers received more than $10,000,000 from the federal government to help them conserve and improve their soil during the nine-year period beginning in 1936 and ending in 1944, Director H. G. Clayton of the Production and Marketing Administration in this state also pointed out that soil and crop improvement practices carried out under the program contributed directly and decisively to the record war crops produced in Florida.

Much more than the federal money was spent on conserving and improving Florida soil during the period, but a major portion of the work that was done would not have been accomplished without the AAA payments to farmers to help them do it. Anyone who considers the half-million acres of improved pasture, the application of more than half a million tons of fertilizing materials to the soil, the 7,407,941 acres that were planted to summer legumes and non-leguminous crops the planting of 31,433 acres of trees, the 31,652,088 linear feet of terraces, and the great amount of other soil and crop improvement work done between 1936 and 1944 cannot fail to see that Florida agriculture and the state as a whole has benefited tremendously from the agricultural conservation program.

These practices enriched, improved and conserved Florida's soils so that farmers could produce record crops to meet the heavy needs of the war period. Of course, the record production would not have been possible without the magnificent effort of the farmers, but the improved and enriched soil was also necessary.

The practices also enabled Florida farmers to come through the war production period with their soil in far better condition than it would have been otherwise. Florida's benefits from the agricultural conservation program have been large indeed, and they will continue to be large in the future, for the practices that have been carried out are of more than temporary value to its soil and agriculture.

Madison Farmers Sell Seed, Plants

MADISON, Fla. (Special)—Sale of 15,000 pounds of crotalaria seed and planting of 146,610 slash pine seedlings have been highlights of Madison County agricultural work during the past few weeks, according to County Agent W. W. Glenn.

In addition to the crotalaria seed, farmers also sold 50 bushels of Dixie Runner peanut seed through the county agent's office.

The pine seedlings were planted on sub-marginal land and in open spaces of farm forest land, Mr. Glenn said.

Nearly 2 Million Boys To Celebrate Boy Scout Week

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 22 (Special)—Nearly two million Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Senior Scouts, and their adult leaders throughout the United States will commemorate Boy Scout Week, which begins Feb. 8, and continues through Feb. 14. The theme of the observance, which marks the 35th anniversary of the founding of the movement in America, is "Scouts of the World—Building Together."

The Boy Scouts of America have created a "World Friendship Fund" and nearly 1,000,000 members have been invited to contribute voluntarily to it. Through the fund, Scout Associations in lands ravaged during World War II are being helped to rebuild their organizations. At the outbreak of the war in 1939, there were more than three million Scouts and leaders in 71 different lands.

Aid to Post-War World
Many Boy Scout Troops, Cub Packs, and Senior Scout Units will mark Boy Scout Week by contributing to the fund through local Boy Scout Councils. The National Executive Board of the Movement authorized the World Friendship Fund, believing it can make a definite contribution to the post-war world, since boys dedicated with agencies of tolerance, friendliness, and democracy, may be the leaders of the world of tomorrow.

Many Troops have contributed from the money earned by salvaging waste paper, while others have given the proceeds of special Scout entertainments. To make certain the greatest good is done with each dollar spent, the Boy Scouts of America secure the advice of the International Scout Bureau in London and has arranged with agencies of the Federal government at Washington to see that the Scout organizations actually get the help in the manner intended. The fund will continue as long as Scouting overseas needs aid for rebuilding.

The Boy Scouts of the Philippines, for many years a part of the Boy Scouts of America, and now an independent association, has received a shipment of Scout supplies and $12,500. Ten thousand dollars of the fund, earmarked for the Philippines, forms

Big Three Divided Remaining Vessels Of German Fleet

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—To the victors have come the spoils of Nazi seapower. Britain, Russia and the United States have divided the German Fleet among them on a share-and-share-alike basis. Amounting to more than 1700 vessels and 30 submarines, every combat unit has gone to the victorious big three.

A British source says the German merchant fleet also will be divided up later, although fishing vessels will not be taken. A firmpower communique disclosed that the decision to split up the German Navy was reached at the Potsdam Conference. Each nation gets ten submarines. Each big three shares what is left—two cruisers, 30 destroyers and torpedo boats, 48 torpedo ships, and 1,679 other units, including minesweepers and harbor patrol boats. All of the Nazis' battleships were sunk during the war, included in the United States share is the 10,000 ton cruiser Prinz Eugen.

Short Says Alert Needed In Dec., 1941

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee resumed its questioning of Major General Walter C. Short today when the former army commander in Hawaii told the committee that he expected Washington either to order an alert in 1941 or give him sufficient information to order it himself.

Short recalled that in June, 1940, General Marshall had sent orders for an alert to the Hawaiian command when a Japanese attack on the islands was feared. A committee Counsel, Samuel Kaufman, suggested that world conditions had changed from 1940 to 1941, and that Marshall had been obliged to place greater reliance on his field commanders. To this, Short replied that conditions also required greater reliance on the performance of the duties of the General Staff in Washington.

General Short placed before the committee a transcript of testi-

5000 Marines To Return From North China Very Soon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—About 5000 Marines returned and a few hundred officers will be homebound from north China within the next few weeks, thanks to a lowering of the post requirements. The commander of the Third Marine Amphibious Force, Major Gen. Keller Blockey, says that Marine strength in north China has been reduced from 22,000 to about 15,000 since the October landing. He adds that he has a good idea of a further reduction in strength. He estimates that it will take three and one-half months to repatriate some 22,000 Japanese remaining in north China.

In Japan, meanwhile, it's been announced that the Tenth Army Corps in southern Honshu Island will be inactivated on Jan. 31, and high point units sent home for discharge. The Tenth Army Corps is the last of the 1945 campaign.

NAMED

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—President Joseph P. Kamp of the Western Union Telegraph Company announced today that Rear Admiral Joseph H. Rosman will become vice president of the company on Feb. 4. Rosman is Chief of Naval Communications for the United States Navy. He commanded the USS Phoenix during the war.

SHOT AND KILLED in her hometown, Ft. Pierce before the war, a 19-year-old child, aged 2 and 4, Max Martha Hall was the first of two of an ex-serviceman who was recently discharged. He and the child shot were named by the Marine Corps, who later found them with the same gun. (International)

Seek Ex-Scouts' Uniforms
A special effort is being made during Boy Scout Week, and the rest of February, to call on former members for Scout uniforms and accessories no longer needed. Each Scout donor has been asked to include his name and address on the equipment. Friendships that may be formed, it is felt, will contribute to the world-wide understanding.

The Scouts are seeking Boy Scout shirts (without badges), hats and caps, shorts, neckerchiefs and slides, lanyards, belts, stockings, and shoes. Scout equipment being collected for shipment overseas includes axes, knives, mess kits, duffel bags, haversacks, sleeping bags, tents, bugles, compasses, fire-making sets, first aid kits, signaling flags, whistles, and Scout literature.

Items contributed in the eastern half of the United States will be shipped to countries of Europe while material collected in the western half will go to the Philippines and China. The World Friendship Fund will defray all shipping costs.

Nationwide Observance
Boy Scout Week will observe in nearly every city and town and in nearly every village and hamlet in the nation. Since Feb. 8, 1910, when the Boy Scouts of America was incorporated at Washington, D. C., more than 12,500,000 men and boys have been in Scouting. The active membership today is more than 1,250,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Senior Scouts, and adult, volunteer leaders.

Hundreds of former members will gather at Troop Reunions, which this year, in many cases means returned Scout Leaders and Senior Scouts mustered out of the armed forces. It is estimated that one-quarter of the men in the armed forces were once Boy Scouts.

There will be District Pot Luck Dinners and Scout Ballies, bringing together many Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and their parents. In this way parents get to know more about the Scouting programs, the boys with whom their sons work and play, and the high type of volunteer leaders that are attracted to the movement.

IN EVER INCREASING NUMBERS . . . the men and women of the Sunshine Service organization who have been serving in the Armed Services are now coming back to civilian life, coming back to resume their job of rendering Sunshine Service.

And they're happy to be at your service once again, happy to again become your neighbors and fellow citizens, happy to get back into peace time ways and peace time life, in the communities they love and are helping to build.

Yes, it's good to be back . . . it's good to have preserved the things and the way of life they are coming back to . . . and to live in a nation in which the limit of opportunity is measured only by the extent of service to one's fellow man.

President Truman is planning a trip to Florida, sooner or later they all come to this state.

President Truman calls for a two million man pace time Army. Congress should have acted upon that bill six months ago.

The President's budget message suggests that the federal debt will be reduced by 7 billion dollars in 1917. We'll take that bet.

The steel workers have joined the meat packers, the electric workers, the farm equipment workers and the automobile workers in a nationwide strike. Ho hum! Just one big happy family.

Seeing where the Mead Garden is planning a Camellia Show this week makes me wonder whether there will be a flower show in Sanford this year. Not that we have anything to display. Keeping our grass cut takes all our time. But we always enjoyed the flower shows they used to have. I would like to see them again.

The State Democratic Executive Committee has ruled that negroes will be allowed to vote in Democratic primaries. To what extent this move will benefit the public will depend in large measure upon the caliber of the men seeking office. If they begin making mistakes which they can't possibly fulfill in order to lure negro support, the negroes themselves may be the first to regret the rights they have so recently won.

Although hourly wages in this country are higher today than ever before in the nation's history, this nation's "real income"—that is, the relation of average income to average prices—actually dropped 21 cents during the year. In other words, if you are making the same wages today that you made one year ago, in terms of actual purchasing power you are about 20 percent worse off. Every time a man quits work, whether because of a strike or for some other reason, it means a salary cut, in terms of "real income."

The Seminole County grand jury taps unauthorized gambling and calls upon law enforcement officers to enforce the law. "What is the difference?" someone asks, "between gambling on the dog races and buying bolita tickets?" Well, the former is legal, made so by specific vote of the people; the latter is against the law which the law enforcement officers are sworn to enforce. If the people want to make bolita legal, there is a way for them to do it; but until they do, the law which the police enforce against it should be enforced.

Whether or not it pays to spend taxpayer's money on health and educational programs for the benefit of the public is shown by figures recently released by the State Department of Education which reveals that sixty-two former tuberculosis patients, cured of their disease at the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium near Orlando, and then trained by the Vocational Rehabilitation Service, were able to earn last year a total of $123,500, or an average of $1,975 a person, and together paid $19,744 to the government in income taxes. Every dollar spent by the government in rehabilitating sick men to health or in training them to hold a job is money well spent.

The Florida State Guard is having a tough time getting enough men to operate, now that the war is over and men's minds are wandering away from military training. Young men who have served in the Army will not return to the State Guard, says a source here. Some have had their training, but the need is not there any more. In the meantime, the State Guard is having a hard time getting enough men to operate, now that the war is over and men's minds are wandering away from military training.

New Gadgets

Many new and hitherto unknown devices are already beginning to appear in the markets, despite the difficulties of the production. Many more will make their appearance just as soon as labor difficulties are settled and factory wheels begin to turn again.

Did you know that the radio watch is the very latest thing? These, according to the Home-Institute, are midget pocket radios which promise to give the time of day, weather reports and spot news items. About half the size of a package of cigarettes, some of these radios will be battery operated and others will be plug-ins for desk and table use.

Automatic washing machines that have no-vibration and can be installed without anchoring to the floor have been announced. No special base is needed because these machines have a self-leveling device that automatically adjusts them to uneven floors. Overall washing time has been reduced from 45 to 25 in this new model. A stuffing operation, which separates the clothes so that they can be removed from the washer individually, and the use of less hot water are additional features.

Glass-doored fireplace shields are constructed so that sparks, dirt, fumes and smoke can't get into the room but heat can. The frame is made of brass or copper and the doors are made of specially-treated glass that will withstand 650° F. The shields can be installed by anyone and fit any standard coal, wood or gas fireplace. Draft-control is regulated by sliding doors at the base of this novel fixture.

Fuel tablets of wax used by our combat troops for cooking and illumination are now available to the civilian. Each tablet is about the size of a yeast cake and will burn from 10 to 15 minutes. Campers will find them useful for cooking and householders will kindle fires with them.

Children's phonographs have been made to resemble a merry-go-round. And they do go round and round as records are played. The surface, decorated with nursery rhyme characters riding carousel-type horses, is scratch-proof and washable.

Four-purpose is a two-unit electric grill that will be on the market soon. It consists of a single or double hot plate. A coffee-maker ring, which can be placed in a groove on the hot plate converts the grill into a coffee-maker. A plated wire holder can be attached to the rim of the coffee ring for a toaster. A grill plate, when placed over the coffee brewer ring, converts the model into a grill. Probable price will be $12.95.

Clotheslines that will not rust, corrode or rot are made of plastic. They have a velvety-smooth surface and can be cleaned easily by wiping with soap and water.

Pressure cookers that provide the last word in safety have been demonstrated. The cooker is constructed so that the top will not pop open while there is still pressure inside. Locking of the cooker is a one-hand operation. A quarter of a cup of water is all that is needed in cooking vegetables and all vegetables can be cooked at the same pressure.

Tiles of plastic are now in production. They will come in nine marbled and nine solid colors. Two types, one for floors with a stain finish and one for walls with a high gloss, are being produced. These plastic tiles have a feel similar to rubber and will resist acids and alkalis, grease and fluids of any kind. Their natural sheen will not wear off so that they require no waxing. The floor tile can be laid on any smooth floor, wood or cement and will not rot. When moist, they encourage gripping rather than slipping.

Visitors From The Sky

Not all the world's dangers are somebody's fault. This was proved lately when a meteorite landed in a busy Rotterdam street, fortunately injuring no one. Dutch officials reported that the meteorite, upon landing, broke into three pieces, each about 18 inches long and three-quarters of an inch thick. That would have made a considerable impression landing on a human head.

Meteorites, fragments of metal from the outer atmosphere, have been hitting the earth since the beginning of time. A king of the ancient Hittites in Asia Minor speaks of possessing "black iron from heaven." The most famous example is undoubtedly the Kaaba or Black Stone of Mecca in Arabia, revered as sacred by Mohammedans. The biggest known landed in Greenland and weighs 36 and one-half tons. The United States has a lot of meteoric craters, the largest being in Canyon Diablo, Ariz. Its rim is 4,200 feet across and the hole is 600 feet deep.

But the meteorite that made the most impression on the earth in recent times is one that struck Siberia in June, 1908. So violent was its impact that a train 400 miles away had to stop for fear of being derailed. All trees within 60 miles were blown flat, and all living objects within several miles were killed. This sounds a good deal like the atomic bomb, and proves that whatever man does, nature can rival or surpass. Had the meteorite fallen five hours later, there would have been one of the greatest disasters in history; for the rotation of the earth would have made it hit Leningrad.

Sad Report On Germany

"Before I visited Germany," says Dr. Eduard C. Lindeman, professor at the New York School of Social Work, "I did not realize what would happen to a modern nation if you eliminated all its sensitive, humane people. The degenerate rule the country. When this goes on for six or seven years the effect on the population is completely devastating."

No encouraging signs of democracy were found by Dr. Lindeman in either the schools or the churches. German teaching methods are either antiquated or Nazi. He found a classroom that displayed a map of the universe showing Berlin as its center.

The children will play a specially important part in determining Germany's future. The birth rate, according to this report, rose three per cent under the Hitler regime. Consequently an unusually large part of the population is under 21.

Maybe the children can learn something. But a prolonged occupation may be necessary as a visible reminder of who won the war.

JUST SOME QUESTIONS

BY MALCOLM W. BINGAY, Detroit Free Press

Of all the left-wing writers, Thomas F. Stokes is, in my book, the most intelligent and conscientious. He is the sanest southpaw duck in the pond. He never lets his passionate sympathies for the underprivileged overheat his head. So, when Tom two-fingers on his typewriter an explanation of the left-wing movement behind the battle between General Motors and Walter Reuther of the UAW (GM), I'm eager to listen. Stokes reports that the basic issue is that wages and prices must be tied up with profits, "both in the interests of the worker and the consumer"; that here is developing "another angle of government intervention comparable to some of the more notable in the past."

"The union," he says, "is seeking a greater share in decisions of the business affecting its interests. This is the real issue. The workers, as an economic unit, share with management information about profits and prices. Labor more of a partner in industry."

"It must properly be considered against the background of the gradual intervention of the government of the people on behalf of the people and also in the light of what is happening in England. . . . There the government is taking over basic industries."

"This is a strike, then, not so much over a wage scale, but for the acceptance by industry of a new economic-political philosophy. . . . 'In the light of what is happening in England.'"

"That is socialism."

"This may be, as its prophets proclaim, the new order. It may be superior to the capitalistic system. That is not the point. If that is the issue why do not the proponents of it come out and say so?"

Stokes says that it is in "the interest of the worker and the consumer." Let us drop the consumer out of consideration. An England?" From where then, will the initiative come which has kept alive the competition which created this industry?

Has anybody ever known a government to run a business that has ever created a profit? Twice in its brief history General Motors has failed under bad management. If the element of competition is abolished, and the lure of brain and initiative removed, will the consumer have as good a car at as low a figure?

If under some new management General Motors should lose its efficiency and thereby lose money, would the Government decree that the workers would have to take a cut in pay to help meet the losses?

Is the new plan a system to put a penalty on success? The only alternative to that is government ownership—as in England. That means the end of our expanding economy, the death of individual initiative, and state regimentation.

Expenses Of Care And Treatment Make Poliomyelitis One Of Costliest Diseases

NEW YORK, Jan. 23, (Special) Expenses of care and treatment that make poliomyelitis one of the costliest diseases known to medicine were detailed today by Dr. F. V. Coombs, President of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. Coombs, now conducting the study of the disease, said that the cost of care for a single infantile paralysis patient costs more than $2,500 a year, he said. In many cases, requiring special nursing attention 24 hours a day, may run to over $7,000 a year. Some cases cost less, some much more, depending on the severity of the attack, hospitalization and other factors.

"New families," Mr. Coombs said, "can meet the cost of extended poliomyelitis treatment. That is why the National Foundation and its chapters throughout the country are pledged to see that no victim of infantile paralysis goes without treatment for lack of funds, regardless of age, race, creed or color."

"The high cost of this crippling disease," he continued, "is due to several factors. Patients who are hospitalized require almost constant attention from nurses, nurses and physical therapists. Additional personnel are frequently needed to prepare and apply hot packs and special equipment and materials, such as braces, wheelchairs, iron lungs, etc., are often necessary."

Nursing care is the costliest single item in the care of infantile paralysis patients. Paralyzed persons, especially children, require the utmost attention of hospital personnel. Such patients must be fed, and need help in all natural functions.

Thus, nursing care alone for an infantile paralysis patient in a metropolitan hospital will cost more than $400 a day. Approximately $15 each will be expended for two day nurses and $12 for a night nurse. This is exclusive of hospital charges and the additional services which may be necessary, such as physical therapy treatment, hot packs, orthopedic surgery and the like.

Second most costly item in the treatment of poliomyelitis is special equipment such as hot pack machines, hydrotherapy equipment, iron lungs, braces, orthopedic shoes, massage tables, heat lamps, walkers, crutches and wheelchairs.

The cost of an iron lung is approximately $1,400. Hubbard Tanks used in hydrotherapy treatment, from ten to twenty, orthopedic shoes, electric hoists, thermocouple controls and stretcher, run about $3,500 each. Massage tables cost from $80 to $140; hot pack machines, $125; deep heat lamps, $200; and wheelchairs, $45.

An example of the expense involved in respiratory cases is that of a young man in upstate New York. Since May, 1944, the National Foundation has disbursed an average of $700 a month for the care of this patient.

The hospital bill for this patient covering the month of November, 1945, breaks down as follows: Nursing care, $329; room and board, $108.60; drugs and laboratory, $10.35; special treatments, $46.00; rubber collars, $15.25—a total of $710.15 for one month's care.

Some cases of infantile paralysis require orthopedic surgery, in which the average operation is prolonged and "follow-up" treatment is usually extensive. One operation to counteract spinal curvature, known as a spinal fusion, requires at least 16 weeks of hospitalization and costs a total of about $1,600.

HAVING HIS headquarters in Washington, Philip Murray makes a despairing gesture as he announced that a nationwide steel strike "must take place" following the U. S. Steel Corporation's rejection of President Truman's compromise. (International)

$3,000,000 in the past 17 months for educational purposes and for scientific research in poliomyelitis covering virus studies, prevention and treatment of after-effects, public health, and nutrition as related to susceptibility.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, founded by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1938, is a non-profit corporation supported entirely by the American people's contributions to the annual March of Dimes.

War Department Announces Liberal Enlistment Policy

ORLANDO, Jan. 23, (AP)—The War Department, thru the Orlando Army Recruiting Station, has announced a far more liberal policy in the enlistment of former Army officers, Warrant Officers, and Flight Officers as Master or First Sergeants. Men who served during World War II with those ranks and have been discharged from the Army on or after May 12, 1945, may enlist in the regular in the grade of Master or First Sergeant provided they do so by the deadline date, Jan. 31, 1946.

After that date the former officer has 30 days from the end of terminal leave to return to service in grade one. This new enlistment policy will permit enlistment in a high rank of many men who were discharged last summer and autumn.

The Army Recruiting Station also announced that Mar. 1, 1946, is the last day the Adjutant General, Washington, D. C., will accept applications of former commissioned officers for an appointment in the Regular Army. Forms and information may be secured at the Recruiting Station, Fidelity Building, Orlando.

GI Joe Learns Shopping Tricks While Overseas

TIENSTIN, China—Returning overseas veterans will be canny shoppers, with a new interest in household furnishings and accessories, but will be unimpressed by high-pressure advertising and sales methods, according to an experienced salesman who now handles a First Marine Division post exchange.

Having his opinions on his findings of almost two years of dealings with Marines in the Pacific, Corp. Clinton L. Reeves, 30, of Paris, Ill., said that although they are always willing to listen to a sales talk they have definite aims in mind, that of what they want and have learned to judge products solely on their merits.

In the household field, he promised, they will take an active interest in the purchase of any item, from furniture to hardware fittings. Even the purely decorative frills will not escape their attention, for they have missed them, and admit it, in the sparseness of military life.

The corporal, who has had more than 12 years of wholesale and retail sales experience and was assistant manager of the Montgomery Ward Company's branch in Paris, Ill., when he entered the Marine Corps, said he was amazed at the interest many of the men have shown in home planning and improvement.

"Even in the battle zones you will find them scouting around for pieces of rugs, tap pictures and even vases, anything to make their tents or huts comfortable and homelike," he said, "and when they get home they'll be looking for comfort and privacy and won't take any half-way measures."

Two factors which Reeves believes will affect the veteran's purchasing are what he describes as a "universal taste" acquired from constant association and interchange of ideas with men from all over the nation, and enough experience with mechanical equipment and tools to enable him to evaluate a product both in workmanship and performance.

"The Marines, for example, have seen others use various types of razors, toilet articles

Clair Bee Has Led SKIN with ZIPPER Basketball Teams For Past 22 Years

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newfeatures Sports Editor
NEW YORK—Clair Bee has been coaching cage teams for 22 years, 15 of them at Long Island University, and his mania for thoroughness in his basketball teaching has increased every season.

You can be sure that any Blackbird basketballer is as much a master of the game as an expert teacher can make him. If he's had three or four years under Bee, then he's had the works in offensive and defensive instructions, and there just isn't any more to learn.

Probably no other coach spends as much time on basketball play as Bee. He's got a miniature court and practically everywhere that Clair goes, so does his portable court. He has brightly colored spools to represent the players, and how he moves them around.

Slip into the L.I.U. dressing room during the half and you'll see players gathered around the miniature court discussing new maneuvers. They've gone back on the Madison Square Garden floor more than once to win games in which they were trailing during halftime.

Bee regularly presents an offense and a defense made to order for the particular style of play his team is facing. Then if the opponents switch, the Bee-men go to their little court, work out the problems, and they're off for another win.

All players reporting to Clair first must master every fundamental of the game. Then follows seasoning with the reserves as the candidate learns to become expert at both the man-(or)-man and zone defenses, switching from one to the other at irregular intervals to confuse the enemy.

Besides the little court, the Blackbird coach uses huge white cards to put out different plays, and how to execute them. On another card for all to see every practice are these words: "No team will ever be great unless EACH and every player realizes the importance of 'fensive play!'"

Bee's basketball philosophy could well be used in every day life. He says:

"QUITTERS and GRANDSTANDERS may be great offensive players but seldom, if ever, do anything on the defensive. Check up on yourself. A grandstander may make one impossible shot in a game and miss 10 like attempts. No team can consistently win on 'hope' 'prayer' shots... Keep the ball until you or your teammate gets a good shot, and the spectators, players, and coach will respect you. Throw the ball away on 'hope' shots and bad passes, and none will respect you."

or "cigarette lighters" and have heard them talk of different clothing styles and foods. They will try them as soon as they have the opportunity, and in many cases will continue to use them," he said.

Britons Outraged Over Posters At Trafalgar Square

LONDON—A battle is raging round the eighty-five foot column in Trafalgar Square, from which a seventeen-foot Nelson looks down through the London mist to Whitehall and the Houses of Parliament.

"Tear down the abominable boardings (billboards) vulgarizing our national monument," protest the town planners and art lovers of London.

"We need the money more than we ever did" defends the National Savings Movement spokesman, who has used the base of the column for posters. "This is the finest site in the world, and all our drives have centered there."

Weekly throughout the war, Londoners have scanned the strident slogans and gaudy pictures which have hidden the four bronze bas-reliefs depicting Nelson's four great naval victories. Now, though anxious to pay the war debt, they don't want to spoil their famous landmarks to do it.

"Everything can be justified during a war," declared Sir Lawrence Chubb, Secretary of the Society for the Prevention of Defacement of Town and Country, "but surely the time has come when we can get back to the decencies of life."

"Absolutely abominable," snaps Sir Kenneth Clark, Director of the National Gallery, as he gates out at a huge, glibly colored rural poster facing his office window. "And don't tell me that one of those posters has ever made the slightest difference to the amount of money anybody gives to war savings."

During World War I "Kitchen-or-Need-a-You" recruiting posters adorned the Nelson column.

When the great Bronko Nagurski played football for the Chicago Bears, one of the end zones was named in front of the Chicago dugout. One Sunday, the Bears were on the three yard line. They really needed the score badly, so they naturally sent the Bronk right through the middle. Ladies flew right and left as Nagurski brought his big plant legs up and over. Head lowered, he ran right through the opposition. Then he kept going, until he reached the rail of the dugout where he tumbled down 475 feet onto the concrete floor. Nagurski's teammates ran over to pick him up. One of them asked, "Gee, Bronk, didn't you get hurt?" The Bronk brushed himself off and said, "Now, but that last guy sure hit me hard."

Most usually think of a football coach as a former player who learned everything there is to know about the game by playing it for years. But the venerable Amos Alonzo Stagg's top scout is a woman. In fact, it's none other than Mrs. Stagg.

Football coaches on the Pacific coast, where Stagg now coaches at UCLA, agree that Mrs. Stagg is a professional grid player and a good one. She's been disarming plays for her husband since the days when he first moved to the University of Chicago.

An assistant coach at UCLA, A. J. Sturzenegger, recalls that last fall he sat in the end zone bleachers during the UCLA-California game to observe Cal's line

Short Places Blame On War Department

Radar Equipment Was Held Up While Installations Finished At Other Places

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24, (AP)—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee heard new testimony from Major General Walter C. Short today to the effect that the War Department was more to blame than he for the disaster at Hawaii.

On the witness stand for the third day, General Short told the committee that radar equipment for Hawaii was held up by the War Department in 1941 while similar installations were being completed in New York City, Seattle, and San Francisco. Short read a telegram which he said he received yesterday from an Army Signal Corps officer, Major George Leask. The Signal Corps officer said that when he was transferred to San Francisco on Dec. 10, 1941, he found three radar towers lying on a pier.

It was not until several weeks later, he said, that he received instructions to ship them to Hawaii at once. Furthermore, the Signal Corps officer continued, Army officers had to fend for themselves in setting up the equipment in Hawaii, whereas on the mainland experts from the Radio Corporation of America had been called into help install the radar.

Earlier in the day's testimony, Short said that information gleaned from intercepted Japanese code messages was withheld from him, but it was made available to General MacArthur in the Philippines. Had the information been placed in his hands, Short continued, he would have concluded that an enemy attack on Pearl Harbor was a probability.

As it was, he was encouraged to believe that only internal dangers might be expected by a message sent him by Major General Sherman Miles, then head of Army Intelligence. Miles sent him a warning message telling him to prepare against sabotage.

When the attack finally came, General Short continued, none of the permanent radar stations on Oahu Island was in operation. It was a mobile station, being used for practice purposes, that picked up the approaching Japanese planes. The information was not correctly interpreted. Short told the committee he had not recommended disciplinary action against the officer who dismissed the radar report of approaching planes because he knew the officer was inexperienced.

Japanese Must Obey Potsdam Declaration

TOKYO, Jan. 24, (AP)—General MacArthur has formally ordered the Japanese Government to obey that section of the Potsdam Declaration which guarantees respect for fundamental human rights.

Under terms of the directive, the Japs have been ordered to cease numerous social abuses practiced for centuries in Japan. Among these is the practice under which Japanese families sold their daughters into slavery. Such sales frequently were conducted against the wishes of the girls.

"FIFTH FREEDOM"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24, (AP)—Senator Andrews of Florida has proposed a solution to the nation's labor troubles. Andrews is seeking the establishment of courts of arbitration to settle labor disputes, in cases where collective bargaining and government conciliators have failed. The Florida Senator also is sponsoring a constitutional amendment to establish what he calls "fifth freedom." The amendment would provide that the inherent right to work and bargain freely shall not be infringed upon by any law or any organization.

Nazis Accused Of Murdering 29,000 French

Prosecutor Declares Execution Orders Came Chiefly From Keitel, Goering

NUERNBERG, Jan. 24, (AP)—The French prosecutor at the war crimes trial accuses the Nazis of killing at least 29,000 hostages during the occupation of France. According to the French, orders for these executions came chiefly from Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and ex-Reichsmarschall Hermann Goering. Both of these Nazis are among the defendants on trial.

The French prosecutor, Charles Dubost, produced a letter he said Keitel wrote. It said: "In the future, the death penalty should in general be carried out."

According to the French charges, Keitel and Goering talked efforts of the German Foreign Office to obtain clemency for persons accused of so-called "communist activity."

Navy Lifts Curtain On Atomic Bomb, Seapower Tests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24, (AP)—The Navy has just raised the curtain on its plans for the long-awaited test of the atom bomb against seapower. From all advance indications it will be a tremendous show. The Navy plans to stage the test beginning in May in cooperation with the Army.

The details have just been handed to the Senate's atomic energy committee by Deputy Chief of Naval Operations Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy. He is head of the Navy's division on special weapons.

Blandy says the gigantic experiment—generally expected to revolutionize sea warfare—is known by the codeword "operations crossroads"—possibly symbolic of the fact that the test will be conducted at the crossroads of their future.

Approved By UNO After Byrnes Urges Creation To Prevent Atomic Race

LONDON, Jan. 24, (AP)—Secretary of State James Byrnes is on his way home. He left London today on a trans-Atlantic flight to Washington.

LONDON, Jan. 24, (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly has voted unanimously for the creation of a special atomic energy commission. The vote was 49-0-1.

Almost simultaneously, the UNO World Security Council has agreed to meet tomorrow to consider explosive complaints, involving Iran, Greece and Indonesia. Iran has protested to the security group against alleged Russian interference in Iran.

However, it is announced that the council will not act at the same time on the question of selecting a nominee for the key post of secretary-general of the UNO. The five major powers apparently are deadlocked on this point.

Intimates Government Considering Operation Of Nationally Owned Steel Plant

CHICAGO, Jan. 24, (AP)—The striking AF-of-L Meat Packers Union has telegraphed all its locals to stand by for instructions. The orders will come from the union's general office and probably will deal with the Saturday seizure of packing plants by the government.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24, (AP)—President Truman has issued a stinging rebuke to Benjamin Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corporation in a sharply worded statement.

Mr. Truman has declared that he does not see how, at the present time, the steel works can return to their jobs unless the management accepts his compromise wage proposal. He said Fairless should accept it. Furthermore, Mr. Truman told his news conference today, the government is considering operating a big government-built steel plant in Utah. This sort of came up when he was asked about a CIO proposal that government-owned steel plants be turned over to individuals willing to give workers the pay increases recommended by the President.

The Chief Executive made this comment on the proposal by Fairless that the President call a wage conference of employers. He said he is always ready to talk to business leaders. But he added, the best thing Fairless can do is send word that he accepts the White House proposal for settling the steel wage dispute.

At the present time, Mr. Truman went on, he does not believe it is practical to seize the steel plants. He would not say that such action might not be taken in the future. Should the plants eventually be taken over by the government, he said, the workers would have to go back at their old wages. This Mr. Truman said, is the policy the government intends to follow in the meat industry, too.

The President then declared that both management and labor have too much power, and that it is time for the government to assert its power and to labor the people's power. Present labor disputes, he said, are a struggle for power between management and labor.

Gen. Spaatz Will Succeed Gen. Arnold

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24, (AP)—President Truman had appointed General Carl Spaatz to succeed General Henry Arnold as chief of the Army Air Forces. Arnold will retire when he returns from his current tour in South America.

General Spaatz—known as the "Flying Dutchman"—was one of the first 25 American military pilots. In 1942 he became head of the United States Eighth Air Force in England, to direct the strategic bombing of Germany. Later he commanded Anglo-American air units in North Africa, and finally he was named by General Eisenhower to lead all American Strategic Air Forces in the European Theater.
