Clock's Time To Return

Harriett Named Chief

Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett was picked unanimously by the Sanford City Commission to be the city's new police chief Monday. The commission scrapped its plan to pick five applicants for interviews and decided to go ahead and name Harriett chief during a special afternoon workshop session.

Harriett, upon learning of the decision, said, "It's a relief off my shoulders. I thought it was going to drag on another month. I'm thrilled. Now we can get on about the business of the police department."

Harriett, 32, a former patrol officer and assistant chief of the Sanford police department, was named acting police chief in the wake of Chief Ben Butler's surprise announcement of his retirement in April. Harriett has since been shuttling between City Hall and police headquarters, juggling the duties of his two jobs. Mary Harkey-Meyer, executive secretary for the city manager, was named acting assistant city manager. She retires July 31.

The city received 60 applications for the job after the Civil Service Board decided to conduct a national search for candidates.

Sanford Backs Plans For Beautifying City

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

After more than an hour of haggling, the Sanford City Commission on Monday approved "in concept" a massive, 16-point plan to beautify the city. The plan will now be turned over to City Manager Frank Faison who is expected to come up with a plan for implementing the recommendations, along with cost estimates, by Sept. 1.

The commission quickly and unanimously approved the first seven parts of the Scenic Improvement Board's "Master Plan For Visual Improvements," which costs no money and requires no additional manpower. But it debated strenuously over the last nine points, which among other things, calls for sweeping reforms in the city's Parks and Recreation Department and the removal of the two ball fields at Fort Mellon Park.

Commissioner David Farr was the lone opponent of the plan.

Scenic board chairman Sara Jacobson told the commission the purpose of the plan was to "elevate Sanford's environmental character" to create community pride, which will draw more higher income residents to

'Future generations will charge us with what happens with this. We can twiddle our thumbs ... and let Sanford turn into a slum.'

—Mayor Bettye Smith

the city. This will in turn "help create economic expansion," she said, which has remained in the southern end of the county.

Nine of the 16 points of the plan will be implemented by the Scenic Improvement Board immediately, the commission decided. Commissioner John Mercer, who motioned for the approval of seven of the points, said adopting them would mean the commission would "put the monkey back on the Scenic Improvement Board to come up with the plans" to implement them.

The nine points are:
• The formation of a voluntary Technical Assistance Committee consisting of professional landscapers who can advise the parks department on landscaping techniques. The board said in its report the parks department was sorely lacking in gardening and landscaping expertise. The board also reported parks workers have little time to devote to landscaping because they are busy maintaining the city's recreation facilities.

• Designing a tree plan to preserve and regularly maintain the city's trees. The board reported some of the city's oaks and palms are diseased and some are dead because of recent freezes. Some of trees just need trimming and a regular feeding of fertilizer, the report said.

• Working with the school board to improve the landscaping around schools in Sanford. Improving the appearance of the schools is a necessity if Sanford is to attract higher income residents, the board report says, because those people are drawn to the nicer looking schools in the southern end of the county.

• Submitting a weekly list of residential, businesses or city-owned properties in violation of city maintenance codes. The board has already turned in a list of 400 violations and says it will make weekly inspections and turn in

2 Seek Lake Mary Commission Seats

Charlie Webster, vice chairman of Lake Mary's Planning and Zoning Board, announced Monday he will seek election to the city commission. Webster said he will run for seat one which Colin Keogh holds. Keogh said last month he would not seek re-election.

Webster, 63, of 530 Webster St., Lake Mary, is the second candidate to toss his hat in the ring. Buzz Petros, local restaurateur and P&Z Board member, has also declared his candidacy. Petros is seeking seat three which is held by Harry Terry.

Last month Terry said he would not seek re-election.

"I have a deep and abiding concern for those residents of Lake Mary on a fixed income. In fact all Lake Mary residents," Webster said in an interview Monday.

Webster, a member of the P&Z Board for more than two years said he can bring a comprehensive view of the concerns of the citizens versus the wants and wishes of the developers. "We know development is inevitable, so we need to control it," Webster said.

"I am going to do whatever I have to in order to win the seat. With the building moratorium due to expire in November, we are going to be flooded with requests for permits, and with the budget coming up a lot of important decisions are going to be made. I think I am good for Lake Mary," Webster said.

Webster, a retired construction company owner, has lived in Lake Mary for 12 years.

"I want to make sure that the tax base is increased sensibly," Webster said. "With inflation under control, I don't think it ought to cost more to run the city government each year," he added.

In other election news, Buzz Petros said he is ready to kick off his campaign for Lake Mary's city commission.

Petros, 33, of 108 Pine Circle, Lake Mary, said that at the city's July 4th picnic he will be passing out brochures and shaking hands.

Webster said he also plans on getting his campaign started at the July 4th gathering.

Petros said if he gets elected, one of the first orders of business he will introduce is a plan he hopes will alleviate the marathon meetings commissioners have been complaining about. Petros said that he will propose work sessions to be held the day before city commission meetings. Petros wants to take care of administrative reports and staff questions before the city commission meets. He explained that commissioners would have a better understanding of the issues if they were discussed beforehand.

"The experience we have received on the P&Z Board will help both of us when we are elected," Petros said, referring to Webster.

There is a $1,000 spending limit on the election and those

Longwood Moves To Save Its Share Of Gas Tax Pie

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The Longwood City Commission has refused to approve Seminole County's proposed formula for distributing revenues from a local option gas tax, claiming it would reduce the city's share of the funds.

Under the proposed formula, Longwood would receive only 4.79 percent of the funds raised in the county, compared to the 5.41 percent it's now getting. City Administrator Don Terry told commissioners Monday night that this would mean an annual loss of $22,931 in revenue for the city. Each city must agree to the revised formula if it is to be changed. If it is not approved, the present state-prescribed plan will continue to be used.

On a related matter, the commission took no action on the county's proposal to add an additional two cents to the four-cent gas tax, noting that the county doesn't need the city's OK to raise the tax.

The commission agreed to enter into an interlocal agreement which calls for the county to assume maintenance of all school zones David Nicodemus of the county's traffic maintenance department said the county would bring up markings and signs to state standards at no cost to the city and minimal cost to the county in an attempt to standardize signs.

He said Longwood and Casselberry were the only cities which had not approved the agreement.

In other business, a 60-day emergency ordinance passed by the commission will keep Lamont Avenue and Shadow Trail, within the Shadow Hill subdivision, barricaded until a regular ordinance can be passed.

The vote was 4-1 with Commissioner Perry Faulkner voting against the emergency ordinance. A public hearing on the regular ordinance was set for July 22.

On The Road... ...With Sanford's Road Rally Team

Editor's Note: Each day until July 4th the Herald will be monitoring the progress of Sanford's father and son road rally team entered in "The Great American Race," which began Monday.

Sanford architect Gerald Gross and his father, Don, braved a blinding desert windstorm and 110 degree weather Monday before completing the first leg of the 3,300-mile "Great American Race," an annual cross-country road rally for antique car enthusiasts.

Gross and his father left Hollywood, Calif., at about noon Pacific Standard Time, in their 1932 Deluxe Model A "Jenny Steamcleaner." They rumbled across the California desert and arrived at Palm Springs at about 5 p.m. "It's a totally incredible race," Gross said in a telephone interview from his Palm Springs hotel. "We felt we had a fairly good run today."

He couldn't say what place they were in because the 92 cars in the race were started at different times.

The cars are scheduled to make 10 more stops before completing the race July 4 in New York City. The winner will take home a purse of $100,000 and get to chauffeur Mayor Ed Koch down Broadway during the Independence Day parade. The entry fee was $6,500.

U.S. Weighs Boycott To Pressure Hijackers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, determined to force movement in the 12-day-old TWA hostage situation, today weighed a possible cutoff of goods and services to Lebanon and isolation of the Beirut airport to increase pressure on the captors of the 40 Americans.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes indicated a limited economic embargo and a shutdown of the airport — possibly in concert with U.S. allies — were among options Reagan received Monday from his top national security advisers.

"We will be prepared to take whatever means are necessary to bring these pressures to bear," he said.

In Beirut, grim-faced American hostages made a taped television appearance as the United States, calling the Beirut crisis "the beginning of war," rejected a new release demand from their Shiite Muslim captors.

Nabih Berri, leader of the Shiite militia, Amal, which holds most of the hostages, called on the United States Monday to withdraw a naval task force cruising off the Lebanese coast.

In Israel, newspapers and radio broadcasts today said Prime Minister Shimon Peres, in an apparent policy reversal, wrote to President Reagan urging official U.S.-Israeli cooperation in dealing with the crisis. Peres confirmed he wrote the letter but gave no details.

"It is noted the letter reflects the current trend in Jerusalem to coordinate with the United States insofar as possible on the hijacking," Israel's Al

Mysterious Lights No Close Encounter

Sanford police were flooded with calls from residents who reported seeing bright, mysterious lights flashing across the sky at about 10 p.m. Monday.

The lights were either caused by a meteorite or a laser show that was being held in Tampa, according to Bill Tobin, head meteorologist at the National Weather Service office at Orlando International Airport. Tobin said the laser lights could travel that far, especially if there was little cloud cover.

Police reported the lights were seen as far away as Titusville.

Shirley Reilly, of 27 Stonegate South, Longwood, said she saw a "huge beam of light" traveling slowly across the sky at about 10:10 p.m. She said the beam was about 200 yards long and there were lights blinking in front of it.

"It looked like it might have been heading for the Sanford airport," Ms. Reilly said.

IN BRIEF

Jetliner Bomb Threats Delay Flights In 3 Countries

United Press International
Three anonymous bomb threats forced the rerouting of two airliners and delayed more than 700 passengers on commercial flights in the United States, Britain and Italy. No explosives were found on any planes.

The threats Monday came one day after the apparent bomb explosion on an Air-India flight near the coast of Ireland that killed all 329 people aboard. Two baggage handlers also were killed Sunday when a bomb exploded in a container from a Canadian airliner at a baggage area in Tokyo's international airport.

In the only incident in the U.S., a jumbo jet with 441 people aboard was forced to make an unscheduled landing at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport after an anonymous caller said a bomb was on the cross-continental flight.

The flight crew and passengers aboard the People Express Flight 002 were evacuated safely from the Boeing 747.

Chicago police bomb experts searched the jet and X-rayed luggage, but found no bomb.

Solzhenitsyns Now U.S. Citizens

RUTLAND, Vt. (UPI) — The wife of Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn has become a U.S. citizen, but naturalization for her husband, who chronicled Soviet labor-camp oppression, was postponed because he was ill.

Natalaya Solzhenitsyn, who has lived with her husband and their three sons in Cavendish, Vt. since 1976, became a naturalized citizen Monday in a 4-minute proceeding in U.S. District Court.

During the ceremony, she repeated the Oath of Allegiance in a strong voice with a heavy Russian accent.

The couple's three sons, Yermolay, 15, Ignat, 13, and Stephan, 12, automatically became citizens when their mother was naturalized. She was accompanied by the eldest.

Solzhenitsyn said her husband, who was deported from the Soviet Union in 1974, "can't be here." A court clerk said the family notified the court that he was ill.

Court officials said it was uncertain when they could reschedule naturalization proceedings for Solzhenitsyn, author of "The Gulag Archipelago" and other books detailing life in Stalinist labor camps.

Killer Dies By Lethal Injection

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (UPI) — A 34-year-old man mumbled an Islamic chant, said he was returning to Allah, then was executed by injection early today for the 1977 death of a female liquor store owner.

"There is no God but Allah, and unto thy I belong and unto thy I return," said Charles Milton, who became a Muslim while on death row and adopted the name Hakeem Saboor Rahim, before he died at 2:33 a.m.

Gov. Mark White denied a stay after the Supreme Court rejected Milton's appeal on a 7-2 vote.

Milton was the 45th man executed in the United States since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

The 46th execution is scheduled for 11 p.m. today in Richmond, Va. Morris Odell Mason, 32, described by his attorney, Lloyd Snook, as mildly retarded with an IQ of 66, was to be electrocuted for the rape and murder of a 71-year-old woman on the isolated Eastern Shore of Virginia.

IN BRIEF

Fear Of American Invasion Sends Tanks Into Streets

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Citing renewed fears of a U.S. invasion, the Nicaraguan army has mobilized tanks and armored vehicles throughout the capital for the first time since last November.

President Daniel Ortega and other government leaders in recent days have accused President Reagan of using international tensions created by the Beirut hostage crisis and the killing of four Marines in El Salvador as a pretext to take military action against Nicaragua.

Ortega has made three public appearances in the past week where he has warned of the possibility that U.S. intervention in Nicaragua is imminent.

The tank deployment appeared slightly less extensive than a similar mobilization that took place last November when news reports quoted unnamed sources as saying Nicaragua had received Soviet MIG fighter jets.

Reagan has accused Nicaragua of harboring the headquarters of the political and military leadership of the Salvadoran guerrilla movement, which claimed responsibility for killing the Marines last week in an ambush at a crowded restaurant.

U.S. Military Plane Crashes

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — A U.S.-built Hercules C-130 military transport plane crashed Monday, killing all seven crew members, the air ministry said.

The crash was the second air disaster in Brazil in two days.

Authorities said 17 people died Sunday when a commercial plane crashed in the jungle at Juara, 1,250 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro, after it developed engine trouble.

The air ministry said the Hercules plowed into a hill Monday 2 miles from the Santa Maria air base in Rio Grande do Sul after a 680-mile flight from Rio de Janeiro.

The plane was making a third attempt to land in heavy fog, authorities said.

How To Protect The World

Environmentalists Back Nuke, Population Freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of America's 10 oldest and biggest environmental groups today offered an agenda to protect the world, including a freeze on nuclear weapons and on population growth.

More than two years in the making, the 60,000-word document also calls for tougher air and water pollution laws, more efficient use of natural resources and greater protection of open lands and endangered animals.

In their report, "An Environmental Agenda for the Future," the environmental leaders said public awareness is the key to survival, and proposed courses of action for nations and governments, people and industries.

"The general public and decision-makers need to understand the true costs of their own actions and those of government and private sector and how to weigh the long-term, far-reaching benefits against localized costs or risks," they wrote.

Participating in the call for action were representatives of The Friends of the Earth, The Wilderness Society, National Parks and Conservation Association, National Audubon Society, Sierra Club, The Izaak Walk League of America, Environmental Defense Fund, National Wildlife Federation, Environmental Policy Institute and the Natural Resources Defense Council.

They wrote, "Many of today's problems are global in scope and make local, regional or even national solutions difficult."

"These problems include human population growth that is exceeding the capacity of some countries to feed and sustain their burgeoning numbers; toxic chemicals ... that turn out to be serious threats to health ... and the greatly increased burning of fossil fuels, producing atmospheric effects that could melt icecaps and flood coastal cities."

They said, "Looming over all of this is the specter of nuclear war" that could threaten the "survival of human species."

The 10 environmental leaders offered a plan of action on several fronts:

—Nuclear war: A mutual and verifiable moratorium on production of nuclear weapons by the United States, the Soviet Union and other nuclear nations. Those countries should also re-evaluate arms production policies for their "effect on health and the environment."

—Population control: "To advance the goal of zero population growth, population organizations and other public interest groups should" spread the word about the problems and possible remedies. The Agency for International Development "should incorporate family planning in all economic assistance programs" and the World Bank and other global funding institutions "should give increased priority to population stabilization."

—Pollution: "Despite much progress over the past two decades ... most forms of pollution are not yet under control and many new problems exist." The report called for tougher air and water laws and bolstering of the Superfund program to clean up toxic waste.

—Energy: "The best solution to the U.S. and world energy problems relies predominantly on a variety of energy efficiency improvements in all sectors of the world economy. This strategy ... affords significant economic, social health and environmental advantages over any other approach."

Soviet-U.S. Tensions Weakening U.N.

U.S. Walks Out Of Conference

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A conference commemorating the 40th anniversary of the U.N. charter, marred by a U.S. walkout at a session in Moscow, heard diplomats blame Soviet-U.S. tensions for the decline of the world organization.

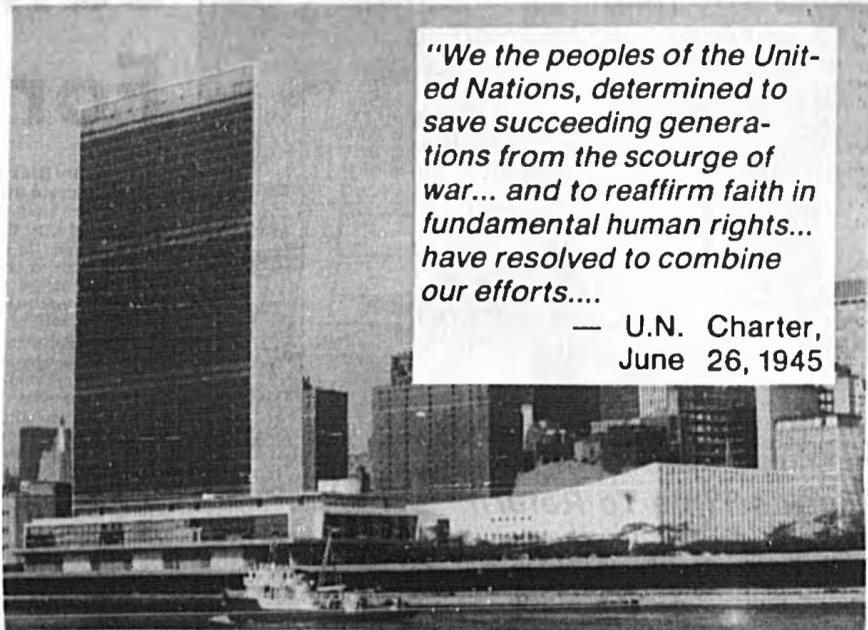

Claude Kemourian, France's permanent representative on the U.N. Security Council, told the opening session Monday the United Nations "is no longer perceived as an instrument likely to facilitate the solution of differences."

In Moscow, the United States cited "gratuitously offensive" Soviet remarks at a diplomats' gathering commemorating the U.N. founding for a walkout by U.S. Representative Mark Parris.

U.S. spokesman Jaroslave Vernor in Moscow said Parris walked out after unnamed Soviet officials "called into question our approach to disarmament and arms control, a subject inconsistent with the avowed purpose of the meeting." Vernor declined to identify the remarks.

Strained Soviet-U.S. relations were cited in addresses in San Francisco at the opening of a two-day conference of U.N. diplomats and scholars assessing the organization's work 40 years after the charter was signed in San Francisco.

Vernor Walters, the permanent member on the security council from the United States, blasted "medieval expansionism for the declining influence of the United Nations.

"The new internationalism and multilateralism envisioned by the U.S. upon the signing of the charter was not one based on dictatorship and repression," he said.

"Communist regimes, in the names of individual freedom and self-determination, have violated the rights of states, peoples and individuals to self-determination and security," he said.

The session opened with a call by China's U.N. ambassador for all nations to recommit themselves to the principles of the world organization.

Ling Qing, permanent Chinese representative to the Security Council, said the charter was achieved while the flames of World War II were subsiding and the people of the world placed their hopes in it.

"Despite its limitations and the fact that its performance has not been totally satisfactory, the United Nations has done a good deal of useful work," Qing said.

"The principles of the United Nations have stood the test of time and displayed great vitality."

Wednesday is Charter Day and will be observed with a luncheon speech by Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar and a black-tie dinner to be addressed by Secretary of State George Shultz.

Needed To Pay Expansion Costs

Water, Sewer Connection Fees May Be Headed For 50% Increase

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

It may soon cost homebuilders 50 percent more to connect their houses to the Seminole County water and sewer utility systems.

To help defray the cost of expanding the systems, County Environmental Services Director Jim Bible is recommending that connection fees to the sewer system be increased from $1,400 per housing unit to $2,100 and to the water system from $425 to $650.

Action on the matter was stalled Monday after Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff objected to the commission hearing testimony from John Wright, a representative of the Homebuilders Association of Mid-Florida, at a county administrator's briefing session.

Kirchhoff said the session is held for County Administrator Ken Hooper and his staff to inform commissioners about agenda items to come before the board at its Tuesday meetings. If testimony were to be taken, Kirchhoff insisted the public ought to be advised so citizens could appear to state their views as well.

He suggested a "full-blown discussion" would be more appropriate at a work session. Commissioner Barbara Christensen insisted just as vehemently that Wright should be allowed to speak.

Commissioners decided to delay a public vote until a workshop can be held, probably sometime in July.

Before the debate ensued, Wright got in a few words of criticism about the proposed increases.

Wright called Bible's proposed connection fee hikes "dramatic."

Bible said the increases are necessary to pay increased costs of services resulting from new construction. The revenues would be used, he said, to buy increased capacity at Orlando's Iron Bridge Regional Sewer Plant near Oviedo and to expand the county's other sewer and water plants.

If the connection fees are not increased, the county's only other source of revenue for the water and sewer utilities is increased rates on all the system's customers, Bible said.

Democrats Losing Grip On County Offices

The Seminole County Democratic Party has lost one of its last three members holding countywide office.

Supervisor of Elections Sandra Sue "Sandy" Goard switched to Republican Friday before she left for vacation. She announced her switch at last Thursday night's meeting of the county's Republican Executive Committee.

Democrat on the county's legislative delegation.

Mrs. Goard, 40, of Geneva was appointed to the office in May 1983 by Gov. Bob Graham, and subsequently won election unopposed in November 1984.

Prior to her appointment, she was the elections office manager before 32-year veteran elections supervisor Camilla Bruce resigned in 1983. She was Mrs. Bruce's hand-picked successor.

Toxic Fumes Force Massive Evacuation

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — An elite military team was called in to help prevent a possible explosion as toxic fumes continued to pour from a smoldering fire at a pesticide warehouse, forcing at least 7,500 people from their homes in three Orange County cities.

A special hazardous materials team from the Coast Guard Pacific Strike Force entered the warehouse Monday night and began removing containers of 20 to 30 different chemicals.

Residents and employees were expected to be allowed back into the 3-square-mile area sometime today.

One of the chemicals in the warehouse, ammonium nitrate, triggered two large explosions April 16, 1947 at a ship and pier in Texas City, Texas that killed 561 people and destroyed 3,500 homes and businesses.

Several people have been treated for minor injuries from the fumes but nobody was hospitalized.

Firefighters and local toxic materials experts, uncertain of exactly what materials were inside the warehouse, let the fire smolder rather than take the chance of pouring water on it and mixing the chemicals into an explosive brew.

Audits: Millions Wasted In Veterans' Payments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government audits suggest tens of millions of dollars a year are wasted in payments for ineligible military personnel, fraudulent claims and administrative bungle at Veterans Administration hospitals or nursing homes.

VA officials say four audits by the agency's inspector general's office identify $8 million in improper payments and provide evidence of a far greater pattern of waste in the VA's $8.8 billion medical care budget.

One federal health care official estimates that the duplicate billing problem in a small segment of VA medical assistance programs — nursing homes — may alone cost the government $40 million a year.

When taken together, the audits are likely to bolster calls of reformers, such as the Heritage Foundation, a conservative "think tank" that favors the shift of VA facilities to private control so veterans could be more efficiently reimbursed for the costs of their care.

The audits of the VA's medical budget, serving 28 million veterans and their families, were issued between November and March. They found:

—The VA Medical Center on Chicago's West Side spent nearly $10,000 a month between 1982 and 1984 on ineligible patients. Because documents proving military discharges or dates of services were not available, $3.1 million in care was provided to patients whose veterans' status qualifying them for free government health services could not be proven.

—A patient with 17 days of military service received 101 days of free treatment — nearly six times the length of his duty — at five different medical facilities in 1983. Twenty-four continuous months of service is required for VA care.

—Illinois nursing homes submitted $3 million in duplicate billings — to the Department of Health and Human Services and the VA — for the same 689 patients between 1981 and 1983. In 25 instances, double payments were made by the VA and Medicare, a separate federal health care program for the elderly.

Auditors blamed the abuses less on fraud than on weak administration, such as poor record-keeping, and until recently, the lack of a system for checking recipients' children's college records or detecting duplicate billings to other federal health programs.

Larry Simmons, the director of health care financial audits for the Department of Health and Human Services, estimates the problem of "double payments may be more than $40 million."

Simmons says that, while attempts are being made to develop a system, there is no way to routinely check for double billings or payments.

In its 1981 report, "Agenda for Progress," the Heritage Foundation called for the dismantling of the VA health care system, saying local governments or private groups could more effectively deliver care to veterans.

Opponents of that plan argued that community hospitals were too crowded and that general health care facilities would not be equipped to deal with the special problems that veterans face.

Rejecting the argument of veterans' special care needs, the foundation said most diseases or medical problems were contracted during civilian, not military life, and that local medical facilities are equipped to handle those disorders.

In a related report, VA auditors said they were finding similar abuses in VA educational benefits. They concluded that more than 38 percent of Baltimore area veterans sampled in 1984 were not entitled to the average $710 premium pension and benefit payments they were getting from claiming college-age children as dependents.

The children were either not in school or were not taking a sufficient number of hours, the auditors found. In other cases, recipients simply did not notify VA when their non-college-bound children turned 18, the termination date for premium benefits. Loss detected in the small sample: $242,000.

Beer Revolution Finest American Brew Starts Small In Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — James Koch looks more like a lawyer than a brewer when he strolls into local restaurants in his blue pinstriped suit and inquires how his new brew is selling.

Samuel Adams Boston Lager is catching on in this namesake city, where it was introduced in April.

Two months after Koch started selling his beer, Samuel Adams Boston Lager was voted the finest beer brewed in the United States over 91 other contenders. The award came June 1 at the Fourth Annual Great American Beer Festival in Denver.

"This is what beer is supposed to taste like," Koch says, raising a glass of his cold, frothy, amber brew in the air. "The real trick is making beer that has a bite but is still smooth and balanced and enjoyable to drink."

The beer's namesake, Samuel Adams, was a Boston patriot, signer of the Declaration of Independence and colonial governor of Massachusetts. He was also a prominent brewer in the days when beer was always made and sold locally. At one point, Boston had 20 local breweries. Now it has none.

That local quality concept has Koch dreaming of a revolution of his own. He wants to help recapture some of the beer-drinking market that has been taken over by imported brands.

"Samuel Adams' life work was to throw the foreigners out. Nowhere in the world but America do they drink imported beer. Here, imported beer is popular because our domestic beer is so bad. My work is to give Americans an alternative to drinking foreign beers," Koch said.

"I want to start a revolution in the way people think about American beer, because traditionally people have perceived local beer as crummy, cheap beer."

"There is nothing the matter with standard domestic beers for what they are. They are clean, consistent and cheap. But they also are bland and mediocre. They are mass market products. People can recall off the top of their heads the advertising, the slogans, and the music for most beers, but they can't remember the taste."

Koch's beer is sold by word of mouth, and by table-top display cards in about 80 bars and restaurants in and around Boston. His company consists of himself — the brewer and chief salesman, two drivers, an accounts manager and a part-time bookkeeper.

For the time being, Koch is limiting sales to the Boston area. Until he can restore Boston's old Haffenreffer brewery and open a local plant next year, he is making his lager in Pittsburgh.

When word of the national beer award got out, he had to turn away possible new accounts, or temporarily put them on hold. He said he also turned down requests from distributors in Washington, Colorado, Ohio, Kentucky and Alaska.

"I told them to forget it. I can barely supply my Boston accounts at this point," Koch said.

Dr. Joseph Owades, San Francisco-based consultant and dean of American brewmasters, calls Koch's beer "truly a masterpiece of the brewer's art. No American brewer has made a classic lager this good for a hundred years."

Until last year, Koch, 36, worked for an international business consulting firm. The Harvard Business School MBA graduate took a gamble on this new business because brewing beer runs in his blood.

His family has the longest line of brewmasters in the United States, starting with the first Koch brewmaster who came to America from Bavaria in the 1840s. Ever since then, every first son for six generations became a brewer.

"I was the first oldest son in 150 years who didn't become a brewer. So it was something I always wanted to do," Koch said. "And if Samuel Adams Boston Lager succeeds, I've got a son who can carry on the tradition."

Koch uses a family recipe developed by his great-grandfather, Louis Koch, in St. Louis in the 1870s. He uses two-row summer barley, and expensive Hallertau Mittelfruh and Tettnang hops from Bavaria. The chilled beer, available only in bottles, contains no preservatives that Koch says alter the taste of other brews.

Business is growing slowly. He now brews 250 barrels of beer once a month. When his Boston brewery is in operation, he plans to make smaller but more frequent batches of 50 barrels at a time.

"I've been a big success by my standards," Koch said. "I've sold as much beer in the last two months as Budweiser makes in about six seconds."

Challenger Scheduled For July Spacelab Flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The shuttle Challenger takes off in 18 days on a weeklong, around-the-clock Spacelab mission devoted to studies of the sun, deep space and Earth's energetic solar environment.

It will be the 19th shuttle flight in four years and the first primarily devoted to astronomy, with $72 million in experiments crammed inside the spaceship's 60-foot-long payload bay.

"If you looked at the cargo bay and all the wiring and equipment that's really physically out there for this flight, it's kind of like looking inside an old 1950-something TV set," flight director John Cox said.

"It's just wall-to-wall wires and mechanisms out there," he said. "And since there's so much out there, there's a fair chance that maybe something won't work at some time during the flight."

Taking no chances, astronauts Story Musgrave and Anthony England have been practicing a variety of "contingency" spacewalks in the event something goes wrong and they have to attempt an emergency space repair.

Their crewmates are commander Gordon Fullerton, co-pilot Roy Bridges, Karl Henize, John-David Bartoe and Loren Acton.

Henize, an astronomer-astronaut, will be the oldest man to fly in space at 58. Bartoe is an astrophysicist at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington and Acton is a staff scientist at the Lockheed Palo Alto Research Laboratory in California.

Four sun-watching telescopes are mounted on a $60 million German-built "instrument pointing system" in Challenger's cargo bay, which Cox described as the most important element of the mission.

NASA plans to use the system in early 1986 on a shuttle flight to examine Halley's comet and next month's mission should verify that it works as expected.

Unlike the first two Spacelab missions, this will be the first without a manned laboratory module in the cargo bay. The five NASA astronauts and two civilians will be working from inside the shuttle's cramped crew cabin throughout the flight.

Casselberry Man Gets Jail Term For Wounding Dog

A 27-year-old Casselberry man has been sentenced to 26 days in the Seminole County jail for animal cruelty in connection with a shooting rampage at a Chuluota home which left a Siberian husky badly wounded.

Eltan Newton Buettner, 27, of 532 Eldorado Way, was sentenced Monday by Seminole County Judge Alan Dickey who ordered the jail time be served on weekends. Buettner was also scheduled for trial this month on related burglary charges. Dickey gave Buettner credit for six days already served.

He was arrested March 20 and charged with armed burglary, reckless display of a firearm and later animal cruelty following the break-in and fracas at the home of Calvin Brown, of 561 3rd St.

According to court records, Buettner went to his stepfather's Chuluota home, broke in and chased a Siberian husky named Nikki through the house, unloading a .357-Magnum and a .25-caliber pistol at the dog. The dog was wounded in the rear legs and later had to be destroyed.

Buettner was apparently angry because three weeks earlier the dog bit his girlfriend's son, according to court records. The biting was investigated by the county Animal Control Board which cleared the dog.

ROBBERS AT HOME
A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who responded to a disturbance call at an Altamonte Springs home found a resident struggling on the floor with a man he said was a burglar.

A second suspect, said to be armed, was found in a bedroom and a small .22-caliber handgun was found under a plant in the dining area, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

The pair was charged with armed robbery and possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana after a small bag of pot was found in their car, the report said.

The victim, Michael C. Core, 28, of 304 Cypress Landing, told deputies when he drove up to his home the pair approached him, one put a gun to his head, took a gold chain from him and they entered the house, a report said.

When deputies searched the suspects' car they reportedly found a diamond ring that belongs to Sally L. Price, also a resident of the burglarized home.

Charged at about 11 p.m. Saturday were Benjamin Nieves, 19, of 621 Lasale Drive, and Jose Antonio Santana, 19, both of Altamonte Springs. Both have been released on $4,950 bond each and are scheduled to appear in court July 8.

BATTERED WIFE
A Geneva man, who reportedly had been out drinking with his wife and then followed her to a party and punched her in the face, forced her into a pickup truck and then pushed her out, has been charged with battery.

Terral G. Kinnaird, of P.O. Box 636, state Road 46, Geneva, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she had left a Sanford bar without her husband Sunday and went to a party at Avenue C and First Street, Geneva, where her husband assaulted her and then drove away, a sheriff's report said.

While Mrs. Kinnaird was talking with deputies the man drove by and was pursued by deputies to Mrs. Kinnaird's sister's home on Lake Geneva Drive, Geneva, where he was arrested at 5:02 a.m., the report said.

Harold Monroe Kinnaird, 36, has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court July 3.

CONCEALED WEAPONS
Sanford police searching for an armed crime suspect stopped a car and charged the occupants with carrying a concealed .44-magnum pistol which was found under the driver's seat.

The driver of the car was also charged with driving with a suspended driver's license. Both suspects were charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, a police report said.

Arrested at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Sanford police station after being picked up on 15th Street and Oleander Avenue, Sanford, were Billy Lee Cotton, 30, of 33 William Clark Court, Sanford, and Eugene Terrell, 34, of 116 Anderson St., Sanford.

Cotton was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond and Terrell was released on $5,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court July 8.

Acting Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said the pair were stopped because their vehicle matched the description of one of two or more cars from which shots were being fired on West 15th and 16th streets Saturday.

Harriett said the shooting is under investigation and may have not been random. One man was slightly wounded by the gunfire, he said.

A third man who was driving a car matching the description of one involved in the shooting was also stopped. That man was arrested for carrying a concealed pocket knife, hidden under a tape player in his car, a police report said.

Frank Fitzgerald Hillman, 19, of 27 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was arrested at about 4 p.m. Sunday on Olive Street in Sanford. He has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled for court July 3.

AUTO THEFT ARREST
A 35-year-old Altamonte Springs man driving through Lake Mary ran into trouble when his car was clocked traveling 69 mph on Rhinehart Road. The car he was driving had been reported stolen in Orlando.

The man was stopped at about 7:35 p.m. Sunday and charged with grand theft auto, possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and driving with a suspended driver's license.

The car reportedly had been stolen from National Car Rental and a small quantity of pot was found under the driver's seat, a Lake Mary police report said.

LeRoy Howard, 35, of 821 Bay Breeze Lane, has been charged in the case. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

THREE KNIVES
Sheriff's deputies who received a tip from a woman that her husband was armed and causing problems nabbed the man in a traffic stop and charged him with carrying a concealed weapon. Three knives were found in his possession, a sheriff's report said.

The man, who lives at 2275 Marquette Ave., Sanford, was arrested in front of 2250 Marquette Ave., at about 8 a.m. Sunday, the report said.

Deputies reported finding a sheathed knife with a four-inch blade on the suspect's right hip, a pocket knife with a three-inch blade in his front pants pocket and a sheathed knife with a six-inch blade in his vehicle.

Robert Leslie Gaaney, 23, has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court July 3.

MOTHER TAKES
Seminole County sheriff's deputies are searching for a 25-year-old Claxton, Ga. woman who allegedly abducted her four children from a Lake Monroe home around 2 p.m. Friday.

The four children of Gloria Coleman Lyons: Teresa, 9 months, Jerod, 6, Stephanie, 4, and Crystal, 3, were reportedly taken from the home of Sara A. Troutman, 29, of 4520 Richard Allen Road. They had been placed with Ms. Troutman by the state Health and Rehabilitative Services, a sheriff's report said.

The children were taken by Ms. Lyons and a man who drove away from the home with the children in a green and white Ford with a Georgia license tag, the report said.

Law enforcement officials are searching for Ms. Lyons who may have returned to Georgia with the children, the report said.

STOLEN TRAILER
An Apopka man has been arrested and charged with grand theft after a boat trailer was stolen and sold.

A police report said the man borrowed a car on June 5 and went to a house on Georgetown Drive in Casselberry where he hooked up and drove away with a boat trailer.

The man drove to Quality Marine, 97 W. state Road 434, Casselberry, and tried to sell the $750 trailer for $75, but failed when he could not produce a registration slip for the trailer, according to the report.

However, the man did sell the trailer later the same day to Southside Outboards, 6505 S. Orange Ave., Orlando, the report said.

Arrested was Larry Dee Suggs, 20, of S. 138 Thompson Road, Apopka. Suggs has been arrested and charged with grand theft on three other separate incidents since January, according to police reports. Those cases are pending. Suggs is being held in the county jail on $13,000 bond.

Practical Proposal

The phone company has been broken up, but it's still too soon to treat AT&T (or, rather, what's left of it) as just another long-distance provider. No doubt, AT&T still has the advantage of nearly a century's head start in this business. And as fast as the new competitors seem to be gaining on it, federal and state regulators still have good reason to watch AT&T to prevent it from using its enormous resources to stifle the budding competition.

On the other hand, it does consumers no good if AT&T is tied up in a regulatory straitjacket. When the company needs regulatory permission for every new service or discount it wants to offer, when the mere process of filing for that permission lets its competitors know what the company is planning; when, indeed, the competitors can use the regulatory process to impose yearlong delays on AT&T marketing initiatives, while they themselves are subject to no such restrictions, it is the consumers who ultimately suffer. They are stuck with the inconvenience but denied the full benefits that the new competition was supposed to bring.

Somewhere in between the two regulatory extremes is where state public utility commissions and the Federal Communications Commission should be trying to locate themselves. And AT&T's own proposal for doing so makes a great deal of sense.

The company has suggested that in place of the traditional regulatory process of reviewing every rate and service change, the regulators establish a small band of acceptable prices and profit levels for AT&T to stay within. As long as the company did so, the regulators would not get involved in policing specific marketing strategies.

The regulators, under this proposal, would retain the right to step back in with more regulation at any time, if they thought competition in the industry wasn't developing apace. And they could still impose penalties or set new rules if AT&T exceeded its limits. But barring that, AT&T would be able to compete at less of a disadvantage, which ought to result in all the competitors lowering their charges and improving their service.

In giving AT&T this freedom, the regulators would not have to abandon the small, out-of-the-way consumer. AT&T could still be required to provide long-distance service to anyone who wants it. Under the company's own proposal, it would also have to continue charging the same price per mile for calls no matter where they're made, even though AT&T's competitors are offering discounts for calls made on heavily trafficked telephone routes.

The result is not a traditional regulatory approach, but an eminently practical one — a mixture of consumer protection and deregulation to match the mixed situation in the current long-distance market. In that respect alone, it has much to recommend it. By establishing a band of acceptable profit and pricing levels, it even provides a certain regulatory incentive for the company to improve its productivity, something more traditional regulations usually do not do. In one form or another, it is the approach that state and federal regulators should adopt.

Orators And The Less Than Eloquent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In preparation for its annual convention in August, the International Platform Association has asked 300 politicians, schoolteachers, journalists and others in the communication field to pick five new members of the Orators Hall of Fame.

I was invited to participate but I rather doubt I will be mailing in a ballot. The reason is that I feel constricted by the list of nominees chosen by the association's board of governors.

To be eligible for enshrinement, an orator must be one of 18 candidates selected by the governors. That rules out Demosthenes, who to my thinking is well qualified and long overdue.

Being alive and a native born American are not among the requirements. The nominees include several foreigners, some of whom are slightly defunct.

They may not be as late as Demosthenes, who expired back in 322 B.C., but they are nevertheless as dead as they are ever going to be. So I feel no compunction about championing a long-gone Greek for the honor.

Demosthenes, as you know, gained fame as an orator after overcoming such handicaps as a harsh voice, weak lungs and awkward gesticulations.

Had he been an American, he probably would have run for the Senate. But in ancient Athens, apparently, a speaker needed to overcome oratorical drawbacks before getting into politics.

So Demosthenes could be heard orating above a booming surf with pebbles in his mouth.

It may be argued that some of this year's Hall of Fame nominees are more likely to have rocks in the head than pebbles in the mouth. I'll not dispute that point. I'll simply duplicate the list and you can draw your conclusions.

Charles de Gaulle, Vladimir Lenin, Mohandas Ghandi, Anwar Sadat, Huey Long, Theodore Roosevelt, Eleanor Roosevelt, Fidel Castro, Walter Cronkite, Mario Cuomo, Robert Dole, Jerry Falwell, Jesse Jackson, Edward Kennedy, Henry Kissinger, Golda Meir, Pope John Paul II and Margaret Thatcher.

Nor would I quarrel with the assertion that some of the nominees are more persuasive when addressing small groups than eloquent in lecturing to large crowds.

Jackson, for example, proved himself highly persuasive in talks with foreign leaders holding American prisoners. But when on the stump as a candidate for U.S. president, he must have been less eloquent.

Furthermore, it may be stated with reasonable accuracy that some of the nominees probably couldn't talk their way out of a paper bag if it were for their speech writers.

I don't know how many of the 18 hire ghosts but I like to think that Demosthenes could have availed himself of the services of Diogenes, who is reputed to have walked the streets with a lantern looking for an honest man.

Any orator adopting such an approach should go far in politics.

And some of Demosthenes' most famous speeches were delivered after he was offered a gold crown.

That also sounds a lot like Diogenes, who lived in a tub.

VIEWPOINT

School For Terror

By Ronald de Valderano

Editor's Note: The author of this article is a leading European specialist on terrorism. He lectures at U.S. defense centers.

Islamic Jihad has served notice on the foreign community in Lebanon that any Americans or Europeans who remain in that country will be regarded as either actual or potential spies and treated accordingly. The British are moving out, and the embassy has been closed down. The Americans are leaving, the Italians and Scandinavians are pulling out and many others will follow. Those who remain are subject to assassination or kidnapping.

Faced with Shiite fanatical fury and the suicide bombers in the south of Lebanon, the Israelis are pulling out as fast as they can, and their minister for defense has openly said, "We have never faced an enemy such as this." What then is so strange about this particular enemy of Israel and of the whole Western world?

Islamic Jihad is not a single organization, indeed, it is hardly an organization at all. It stems from a meeting which took place in Tehran in March of 1982 following the Ayatollah Khomeini's call the previous month to export the Islamic Revolution world wide and to "cleanse the world of satanic influences." These exhortations were accepted as authority to declare Islamic Jihad holy war.

If Islamic Jihad has a head quarters anywhere, it's in the Taleghani Center in Tehran, almost opposite the old American Embassy. But the "Holy War" is composed of many different organizations and groups working in dependency of each other.

The recent acts of kidnapping appear to be the work of Hezbollah (The Party of God) of which the Ayatollah Sheik Badr Gaffari is the leader in Iran, with local lieutenants in Lebanon. In fact, there is every indication that the kidnapped men are already in Iran. This organization operates terrorist training camps, and is probably foremost in the recruiting and training of the suicide volunteers who pledge themselves to undertake missions which must inevitably result in their own deaths.

At the garrison of Beheshtiyeh in Karaj in the Eastern Province of Iran, women are also being trained for such missions, including some 300 women from Europe, America, Asia and Africa. Here young women are converted to Islam, and some months ago 30 from Northern Ireland were identified, 45 from Central America, six British women, an unspecified number from the U.S. in addition to the great majority of Islamic young women.

The prospect of peace in Lebanon seems infinitely remote, and the attempts of Westerners to mediate have achieved nothing.

Wounded Knee Rioter Now 'Positive Influence'

WASHINGTON — Dennis Banks, who earned his reputation — and a prison sentence — as a hothead of the American Indian Movement, is winning a new nickname: St. Dennis. Banks, who after serving a three-year sentence for assault and inciting a riot before the 1973 Indian takeover of Wounded Knee, has emerged as a leader respected by inmates and staff alike at the South Dakota state penitentiary in Springfield. He had been a fugitive until last October.

A few weeks ago, after a tornado destroyed homes and farms in the area, Banks was among the first to volunteer for cleanup work. He has also been instrumental in having a

Why No Indignation?

One of the remarkable things about the Walker family spy case is how little public indignation it has aroused.

Here is a group of spies who for relatively small amounts of money have been willing to put the vital naval leg of the deterrent triad at risk. Over an extended period of time the Soviets have thus had access to the most sensitive communications data, and presumably have been able to track our nuclear submarines at sea. Yet the scandal has created no moral shock waves.

Compared with the classic Soviet spies of the 20th century, the Walkers seem to be curiously empty believers only in cash, spies in double knits. Julius Rosenberg, after all, had a certain perverse dignity, he considered himself a "soldier of Stalin," as he put it. Alger Hiss, Klaus Fuchs, Bruno Pontecorvo, Kim Philby — all of them believed in the future as promised by scientific socialism. But the Walkers? There is no evidence that they admired the Soviet system. And Western civilization meant so little to them that they were willing to endanger it for small change.

Why are these people not widely condemned as the moral insects they actually are?

Is it possible that we have fallen into the habit of thinking about the "two superpowers" to the extent that we have lost sight of the enormous differences between them?

Has our terminology itself tended to make us morally tone deaf? The Soviet Union, after all, is not our "adversary" but our "enemy," and itself makes no bones about the fact. Has all the talk about "dialogue" and "detente" and "convergence" dulled our sense of the actualities?

Or perhaps even loyalty is out of fashion. This society has a right to expect a minimum of loyalty from those who enjoy its privileges, and that loyalty at one time was reinforced and brought to attention by various ceremonies — pledges of allegiance, flag salutes, commemorations, parades. These were celebrations of the social contract, implicit recognition that we depend upon each other at the very minimum for survival, as well as for an entire range of amenities.

No society can demand that civic loyalty rank as every individual's number one priority, but has the sense of loyalty become so eroded that a phenomenon such as the Walkers causes scarcely a ripple of moral indignation?

It strikes me that the very word "communism" is scarcely ever used in public discourse or impolite company. The enemy may be in a pinch, be called "leftist" or "Marxist," but hardly ever "communist." Does that represent a deep desire to turn away from the reality?

And what about the furor over Bitburg and Joseph Mengele? Do we really believe that Hitler and the Nazis are a prime threat to us today? If a 70-year-old man in Paraguay or some such place is really a threat to us then maybe the Nazis were a master race. The preoccupation with the Nazis, it seems to me, is merely a way of not thinking about the real threat and about the realities of 1985. It would be reassuring if some prominent liberals were demanding a tightening of our security procedures, or demanding that the FBI become more efficient. After all, John Walker would still be in the spy business after 20 years if he had not been turned in by his ex-wife. The liberals are not demanding better security.

In its substantive damage to the United States, the Walker case is appalling. But even more unsettling is the emotional vacuum into which it has fallen. Dan Rather is probably angrier at Jerry Falwell than he is at the Walkers.

The only bright spot in all of this for me was the crack by a colleague:

"The family who spies together fries together." Only, regrettably, that will not happen.

Reform Could Be Costly

Congress and the nation are hearing a variety of viewpoints on the administration's tax proposals. From this healthy exchange of views should emerge a much clearer understanding of the impact of the proposals and the possibilities for constructive amendment.

Among the most interesting views expressed to date are those set forth in a special report issued by Business Week. In its issue for June 20, the magazine addressed the question of what tax reform really was. To this end, Business Week looked at the impact of the administration proposals on economic growth, the split between capital investment and consumer spending, the corporate balance sheet, the stock market, bond and credit markets, and real estate.

The magazine reported that investors view the administration plan as a "plus for stocks" and suggested that it would "spur bond prices." On the other hand, it argued that the plan "would boost U.S. housing costs and depress new construction." As a result, it said that real estate values "could take a severe beating." It quoted economist A.G. Schilling as saying that tax reform as the administration proposes it, "would be the kiss of death for commercial building."

The most ominous prediction contained in the article is that the "tax reform" would slash capital investment by $48 billion. John Rutledge, chairman of the Claremont Economic Institute is quoted as saying "I don't think you'll see any heavy capital investment for the next couple of years." This is a very disturbing prediction inasmuch as U.S. industry is in need of massive capital investment in order to maintain its competitiveness at home and abroad in the face of fierce competition from Japan, South Korea and other countries. The nation's basic industries would seem to be a prime casualty of the administration's "tax reform" plan. Indeed Business Week makes that point very specifically.

What the tax plan would do, in the magazine's judgment, is redirect the tax system from encouragement of investment to encouragement of consumption. That would be a boon to retail businesses but injurious to enterprises that are capital intensive.

That's the long range effect of the tax reform proposal, in the view of Business Week. What of the short-run effect? Again, the magazine is specific. "The overriding conclusion," it says, "is that tax reform could cost the economy dearly in the next two years." It quotes Lawrence Chimerine, President of Chase Econometrics, as saying "If the President's tax reform program is adopted, it would have a depressing effect on the economy and heighten the chances of a recession next year."

So-Called Fans Deserve 72 Hours Of USFL Reruns

If you call yourself a prep football fan and didn't see Saturday's first Florida Georgia High School All-Star game, your punishment is 72 consecutive hours of United States Football League reruns. Make those Los Angeles Express-Orlando Renegades reruns for good measure.

Saturday's game — a 23-7 victory for Florida's seniors — was a collection of the finest talent of two excellent college football producing states. Just 35 select players on each squad. The announced attendance was 15,826. That's a pretty good crowd for Orlando Stadium. The Gades average more, and the UCF Knights average less.

Still, a game of this magnitude deserved better. This wasn't some all-star game where the players came to town two days before the game and went through the motions. These two squads — coached by Tallahassee Leon's Gene Cox and Valdosta State's legendary Nick Hyder — worked nine days to get ready for this game.

The squads were loaded with talent and tenacity. There was no body left unturned when the 60 minutes were over. Florida and Georgia played, well, like Florida and Georgia — their college counterpart on that great day every year in Jacksonville.

This game was so good, several sportswriters were overhead to say, "I'd pay to see this game." And you know what freeloaders some of these scribes are right?

Since the Renegades played Friday night at the O-Bowl that probably hurt the gate. Although another newspaper in this area would want you to believe that Orlando has become a football mecca that's not really the case. Orlando just isn't ready for back-to-back blockbusters. The prep game was easily more exciting than the exciting Renegades.

Although the game didn't draw like it should have, it still was the most exciting football experience for Lake Brantley's Curt Mull, a center in the Floridaans who will play with Georgia and not against it this fall.

Mull said he expected a bigger crowd but came away real impressed with the organization for the 10 days by the Florida Citrus Sports Association. The proceeds went to the Florida Elks Children's Hospital in Umatilla.

Mull, a well-spoken 6-6 290-pounder, was a very visible figure during the 10 days. He was on the brochure which the FCSA circulated and made several appearances on television, once during a visit to the Children's Hospital.

The Lake Brantley giant earned himself well on and off the field and was an excellent choice for Semnole County's first representative and just one of a select few from Central Florida.

Monday night Mull said he came away from Saturday's clash a little tired but not too sore. "I would have liked to play more but we were switching each quarter," he said. "I thought we were in better shape than Georgia. They were sucking wind at the line of scrimmage after awhile."

Mull said he thought the practices went pretty well despite the fact the coaches had very little time to prepare. Overall, the organization was okay, he said. There were a lot of changes at practice but they did a pretty good job. It was a first class operation.

The game and practices aside, Mull said he enjoyed the simplicity of the locker room and roommate camaraderie. "I roomed with Chris Buch, Richard Starowesky and Frank Brunner. I had a great time just sitting around and talking to those guys," he said.

Although it was the initial meeting between the two states, Mull said the rivalry needed no prodding. "We were racing down the slides at Wet 'N Wild," he said. "We competed the whole

What's Altamonte Encore?

All-Stars Have Tough Act To Follow After 1984 Success

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Talk about a tough act to follow. What does the Altamonte Springs Little League program do for an encore?

Manager Gene Letterio's Senior League All-Stars won a World Championship at Gary, Ind. Manager Jerrey Thurston's Major National League All-Stars finished second in the World Series at historic Williamsport, Pa. The Nationals were the top team in the U.S.

"It's definitely going to be a tough act to follow," said Altamonte Springs Little League President Jim Hoyis. "That was the first time any league had two teams in the World Series the same year. But we're taking pride in defending both championships."

Along with two Altamonte teams in the majors, the south Seminole County city will have a junior and a senior entry. Oviedo will have one team each at the major, junior and senior level. All begin District 14, Division 2 play July 5 or thereafter.

● In the major (11-12 year-old) division, manager Mike Morro's Altamonte American League All-Stars play manager Wayne Jacobs' Oviedo team on Tuesday, July 9 at Altamonte Springs at 7:30 p.m. This rematch will feature many of the same players who battled in the Top Team Tournament, which was won by the Americans. The other major game pits Duke Plecones' Altamonte Nationals against West Volusia. The game is set for 7:30 p.m. at DeLand on July 9.

Tigers Fit To Be Tied, See 7A

● In the junior (13-year-old) division, manager Kelly Wainscott's Altamonte squad faces Deltona in the opener on Friday, July 5 at Deltona. Oviedo's team, managed by Tommy Ferguson, meets the winner of Altamonte-Deltona on Saturday, July 6 at 7:30 p.m. at Oviedo.

● In the senior (14-15 year-old) division, Altamonte, managed by Woody Woodward, battles Matland at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 8 at Matland. Manager David Austin's Oviedo team, which won the Top Team Tournament, takes on Deltona Tuesday, July 8 at Deltona. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Although a repeat of either of last year's senior or major finish will be quite a feat, most observers feel that Wainscott's team — supplied with seven members of the major World Series team and a bunch of good one from last year's other league — has the best chance in post-season competition. "Everybody thinks we'll go again but it's not going to be that easy," said Wainscott, who will be assisted by Thurston, Jim Brubaker and Roger Beathard. "Everybody will be gunning for us."

Wainscott doesn't discount the talent, however. "Oh, we've got the talent," said the Expo skipper whose team won the league and the Top Team.

Holders from last year's USA champs are Jerrey Thurston Jr., Greg James, Aaron "The Sheik" Iatarola and Danny Albert from Thurston's Astros; Chris Radcliff from the Tigers; Jason Varitek and Jamey Wallace from the Phillies. Another Phillie on the squad is Chance

Oviedo, Cobb Walk To Title

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

WINTER GARDEN — The way the pitching staff was going, two runs was often enough to give the Oviedo Orioles the victory. The same held true Monday night but, for good measure, the offense provided Richard Cobb with enough runs to win 10 games.

Cobb tossed a two-hitter and the Oviedo offense took advantage of 19 bases on balls as the Orioles completely dismantled West Oak Ridge, 21-1, for the District 14 Senior Top Team Tournament championship.

The Orioles finished the season with a 25-3 record and are the first team from the Oviedo Little League to win a tournament title (Top Team or All-Stars).

"Pitching is the one thing that carried us through," Oviedo manager David Austin said. "Richard (Cobb) and Alan (Greene) did tremendous work. We had some close ballgames and it was the pitching that kept us in it the whole time."

Cobb, who pitched 21 innings in Top Team play, allowed singles in the second and fifth innings, struck out four and walked four. The lone run for West Oak Ridge was scored in the second on a suicide squeeze and, at the time, it was good enough to tie the score at 1-1.

Oviedo scored its eight runs on five hits in the third. Key hits included two-run singles by Poochie King, Cedric Watson and Michael Kinnard along with a pair of bases-loaded walks.

In the fourth, Oviedo tallied seven runs on just one hit, that a two-run single by Greene. The Orioles took advantage of eight walks in the inning.

Oviedo went on to add single runs in the fifth and sixth with one hit in each frame and three more in the seventh on no hits.

They (West Oak Ridge) were at the end of the barrel," Austin said. "They just ran out of pitching. I can hardly explain what happened. We were just going 90 feet at a time. We weren't trying to run it up, just trying to get the ballgame over."

King led the way on offense for the Orioles as he went 3 for 6 and drove in three runs. Greene and Watson added two hits each while Kinnard was 1 for 2 and scored four times. Cobb and R.D. Pellarin scored three times each.

"We waited until the last game before we finally exploded," Austin said. "It was a good effort all the way around."

"We weren't even picked to finish first in our own league," added Austin. "But the kids just played super ball. They played good team baseball, everybody contributed."

Cubs looked like money in the bank. Banks closed his eyes a moment trying to block out the memory. "I was in Oklahoma City for a baseball card show and I was watching the game on television in between signing autographs," he remembers.

Banks admits, "I wasn't dealing with reality. I still didn't believe the Cubs had lost." When he reached O'Hare Airport in Chicago, his wife was waiting for him. He searched her face for some clue, but she didn't have the heart to tell him what she wasn't sure he knew.

Errors Drop Gamblers, 31-21; Oakland Hosts Bandits Sunday

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Gamblers should have known they were in trouble when they had problems making hotel reservations for Saturday's U.S. Football League playoff game in Birmingham, Ala.

The best Houston could do, thanks to a square dancing convention, was Tuscaloosa, Ala. — 60 miles away from Birmingham.

Monday night, the Gamblers had problems at home in the Astrodome, where three first-half turnovers — a blocked punt and two interceptions — resulted in 17 points for Oakland and helped the invaders to a 31-21 victory.

The invaders' win also avenged a 42-7 loss to the Gamblers in Oakland's third game of the season. "We were just getting started then, and we have definitely jelled as a team," said Oakland coach Charlie Sumner. "We seemed to put it together and got a string of wins going into the playoffs, which definitely gives us an advantage."

The Western Conference champions with a 13-4-1 record, the invaders will host Tampa Bay on Sunday in the first round of the league playoffs.

The invaders' defense keyed the victory. Interceptions by David Greenwood and Oliver Davis led to a 44-yard field goal by Novo Bojovic and a 1-yard TD run by Albert Bentley.

Red Wings Hire Neale As Coach

DETROIT (UPI) — Harry Neale has brought his well-known sense of humor to a place it is badly needed — the Detroit Red Wings.

A grim-faced quartet, representing Red Wings management sat stone-faced Monday as General Manager Jimmy Devellano introduced Neale as the 14th coach of the Detroit hockey coach in 18 seasons.

"He is personable, witty, articulate and he's also a teacher," Devellano said in announcing the signing of Neale, fired as the Vancouver Canucks coach-general manager at the end of the season. Neale signed a two-year contract as the successor to Nick Polano, bumped upstairs as Director of Player Development and Assistant GM.

"Thanks for the glowing compliments — I hope you remember them next winter," said Neale, who has earned the tag "King of the One-Liners" around the league for his ironic sense of humor.

Neale's quips during his tenure as coach and/or general manager of Vancouver earned him recognition around the league. He showed up in hockey notes columns with regularity.

Mary Track Meets Begin Friday

Lake Mary track coach Mark McGee said he needs help in running off the meets and encourages parents of kids or anyone interested to help.

Justus Hosts 1st Diving Meet

Twins Are Stale In Fresh Start

The Orlando Twins received a fresh start Monday night when the Southern League opened the second half of its season.

The O-Twins, however, continued their stale ways by losing a double-header to Knoxville, 3-0 and 4-1, before a Merchants Night crowd of 4,326 at Tinker Field.

The Twins could muster just seven hits against winning pitchers Mike Yearout and Steve Davis. It the third time this season the Twins were swept in a twinbill.

Orlando tries again tonight at 7:30 against Knoxville.

Astros Push Lead To 6 Games

Osceola's Astros extended their lead to six games with a 6-4 victory over Winter Haven in Florida State League baseball Monday night at Winter Haven.

Osceola, 46-31 in the FSL's Central Division, hosts Clearwater tonight at 7:30. Bob Parker stole a base for the Astros.

Juniors Lose 2 Of 3 At State

After being knocked into the losers' bracket, the Sanford Recreation Junior League softball All-Stars split a pair of one-run games this past weekend in the State Recreation Junior Softball Tournament at Davenport near Haines City.

In game one Saturday morning, host Haines City knocked off the Sanford stars, 10-5.

Sanford came back in game two to pull out a 9-8 victory over Southwest Volusia to stay alive.

Sanford jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first on RBI doubles by Quetta Presley and Belinda Thompson. Southwest Volusia scored once in the bottom of the first but Sanford responded with three runs in the second for a 5-1 lead.

Trice Brown's RBI single and Lulu Chisholm's two-run double were the big hits in the second frame.

Southwest Volusia then held Sanford scoreless for the next three innings and built up a 7-5 lead in the process.

Sanford came back with four runs in the top of the sixth to take a 9-7 lead. Consecutive singles by Adrian Hillsman, Lelia Dellafield and Tina Jones produced the first run while Brown singled in Jones for the second. Tasha Wynn then stepped up and drilled a triple to drive in Brown and Wynn scored the fourth run of the inning on Presley's single.

Southwest Volusia pulled within 9-8 in the bottom of the sixth and then held Sanford scoreless in the top of the seventh. Sanford pitcher Chisholm came back to retire Southwest in order in the bottom of the seventh as Sanford held on for the win.

The Juniors then advanced to a losers' bracket game against Leesburg and Sanford got out of the gate fast three runs in the top of the first. Brown led off with a single and Wynn followed with a two-run homer. With one out, Presley doubled and scored on Tracey Mitchell's single.

Leesburg responded with four runs in the bottom of the first for a 4-3 lead.

Both teams scored once in the second to make it 5-4 and Leesburg scored twice in the third for a 7-4 lead. Sanford scored once in the top of the fourth when Hillsman tripled and scored on Dellafield's single to make it 7-5 but Leesburg responded with one run in the bottom of the inning for an 8-5 lead.

Sanford scored two more times in the top of the fifth pull within 8-7. With one out, Presley singled and Ann Perry drew a walk. One out later, Phyllis Moore singled to load the bases and Hillsman followed with a double to drive in two runs.

After Sanford went down in the top of the sixth Leesburg moved out to a 9-7 lead in the bottom half. Sanford then had its last chance in the seventh and Presley got the inning off to a good start with a leadoff homer that cut Leesburg's lead to 9-8.

Perry followed with a base hit to put the tying run at first but Leesburg then truned a double play on Mitchell's grounder and Moore flew out to left for the final out.

The Sanford Lassies were also supposed to compete in the state tournament but did not. Robbie Robinson, Sanford Recreation Department employee, said no reason was given for their absence.

Traditional Rain Mars Wimbledon

Tennis

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Rain is as traditional an element at the Wimbledon tennis championships as over-iced strawberries, officious officials and amazingly patient fans.

So this year's tournament got off to a predictable start when rain washed out almost all play Monday.

Spectators waited vainly but in good humor for long hours under umbrellas for play to begin. Gatekeepers and court ushers tried everyone's patience even further and there was little to do apart from allow the strawberry sellers to make a killing.

Intermittent showers were forecast for Tuesday as well, threatening further delays in getting Wimbledon properly under way.

The only match that was completed, out of the 67 scheduled for the opening day, took place on No. 1 court, where men's second seed Ivan Lendl - with difficulty - ousted American Mel Purcell 6-4, 7-6 (7-2), 7-6 (7-2).

No play was possible on any of the 16 outside courts.

Top seed John McEnroe got onto Centre Court and briefly into action, but his defense of the men's singles title was barely under way when McEnroe successfully appealed that the court was too slippery to play on.

McEnroe was even at 3-3 in the first set against Peter McNamara of Australia when the American made his appeal, which was seconded by the tournament referee and Grand Prix supervisor.

One player glad of the rain disruption was Chris Evert Lloyd, seeded joint No. 1 with Navratilova among the women.

Evert Lloyd strained a neck muscle last week, and asked for a postponement of her first round match against Mary Lou Piatek.

With Tuesday's schedule concentrated on catching up on Monday's postponed matches, Evert Lloyd's request for an extra day's recuperation was quickly granted and she is now due to play on Wednesday.

Lead, Time Evaporate; Tigers Try Again

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

MOUNT DORA — As the time evaporated Monday night so did the lead the Altamonte American Tigers had built up over Ocoee.

Altamonte rolled up a 7-0 lead after three frames only to see Ocoee come back to tie it at 7-7 in the bottom of the sixth. The game then went into extra frames with neither team scoring in the seventh or eighth.

The game was stopped after eight innings because of the 10 p.m. curfew. The District 14 Major Top Team Tournament finals will resume tonight at 6 with a second game, if Ocoee wins the first, to start immediately after the first is over.

"We made some errors that we shouldn't have and let them back into the game," Altamonte manager Mike Morro said. "If we lose the first game we have to play right after that."

"The hard thing for me is Chuck Lamb pitched a beautiful game for eight innings but I can't put him back in there (tonight)," added Morro. "It's not worth putting a kid back in for one day and risking him hurting his arm."

Morro said Kevin Morro will most likely take over on the mound when play resumes with Chris Jackson available should Ocoee force a second game.

It was the bottom of the Altamonte batting order that came through in the early going Monday night as the Tigers built a 7-0 lead after three innings.

Number nine hitter Pablo Abreu, only a 10-year-old, walked once to drive in one run and had three hits including a two-run single in the second. Number eight hitter Billy Moore knocked in two runs with a single in the third inning and one in the second on a bases-loaded walk.

in the fifth to pull within 7-5. In the bottom of the sixth, Altamonte was within one out of winning when Ocoee's Jason Clinger slammed a two-out, two-run homer to tie the score at 7-7.

While Clinger ignited the Ocoee comeback, both Moore and Abreu came through with clutch plays in the field that kept Ocoee from winning. Abreu, the third baseman, made a nice stop of a hard-hit ball and forced a runner at second to stop on Ocoee rally and Moore, the first baseman, prevented the winning run from scoring in the bottom of the seventh when he gunned out a runner at the plate.

Astros Buck Tigers For Bronco Division Title

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Astros were considered underdogs when they went up against the powerful Tigers for the West Seminole Pony Baseball Bronco Division title this past weekend at the West Seminole complex in Forest City.

The Tigers went in with a 19-1 record but the Astros weren't going to be denied as they swept the best 2 out of 3 series.

Thursday's opener was played in a driving rain that forced it to be postponed and continued Friday night. The Astros came out of the rain-delayed opener with a 9-3 victory behind the strong pitching performance of Gary Czachowski.

The offensive punch was supplied by Jason "Mr. Bunt" Froemming and David Williams, each with two hits, while Hector Rosado had a big bases loaded triple that sealed the win.

Shortstop Brantif Bonaventure and catcher Kevin Steinke anchored a virtually flawless defensive game.

Baseball

Game two, which was played Saturday morning, turned into a thriller which pitted Tigers ace Dennis Harvey Jr., against Bonaventure of the Astros, who had not pitched more than three innings in a game during the regular season. When the dust had cleared, the Astros had pulled out a 10-9 victory.

Bonaventure went the distance for the win and helped his own cause with a booming triple and double. While the Astros defense was sharp on Friday, it was shabby on Saturday and that enabled the Tigers to stay in the game.

The Tigers jumped on top in the first with two runs while the Astros countered with one. The Tigers widened the gap to 5-1 after two innings.

The 'Stros answered came back with four runs in the fourth to tie it at 5-5. Key hits in the inning included Bonaventure's RBI triple, run scoring doubles by Williams and Steinke and Brian Hoster's single that tied the score.

The Astros went up 9-5 but the Tigers battled back behind Harvey and Fred Tucker to tie it at 9-9 going into the bottom of the seventh.

In the bottom of the seventh, Williams was on second with one out when Hoster stepped up and smashed a hit down the right field line. Williams easily scored what appeared to be the winning run but the Tigers appealed at third and Williams was called out for missing third base.

Once order was restored, Hoster was on second with two outs and moved to third on a wild pitch. Czachowski then nubbed a slow roller down the third base line for an infield single which scored Hoster with the winning run.

week. It was a tremendous week."

Ten days he wouldn't have missed for the world. And 10 days he encourages every county footballer to strive to achieve. "I just had a great time," he said. "A player should work as hard as he can and try to make it to this game. It will be the best time you ever had. It's such a great feeling to play with guys who will be stars in college."

Mull was most impressed with Apopka rival Sammie Smith. "It was kind of weird after playing against him for two or three years and then being able to block for him," said Mull. "His size (6-2, 215) is great. He's so big and runs so fast and he can break tackles. He runs hard on every play in practice, even when he 20 yards past the line."

Mull leaves Sunday for Athens but he will take with him many memories of Saturday's win. "Even though I didn't get to play as much as I would have liked, I was in there on the big plays. Sammie's run (73 yards) and (Michael's) Timpaon's touchdown (76 yards on a pass from Moses Collins) were really something."

War On Drugs To Heat Up As Customs Hiring Freeze Ends

MIAMI (UPI) — The fight against drug smuggling in Florida, the entry point for an overwhelming majority of the country's illicit drugs, will soon get a boost with the addition of 89 new U.S. Customs Service investigators.

A Customs hiring freeze officially ended Monday with the announcement that the new officers would be stationed in Miami, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Pierce, Key Largo, Key West, Marco Island, West Palm Beach and Marathon. Officials said most of the new officers would be involved in criminal investigations.

Any violations to the Code Enforcement Board. Miss Jacobson emphasized the board would be looking for violations of city codes, not what it considers to be "ugly."

• Providing free lawn and garden counseling for residents and businesses. The service will include pamphlets and referral to professional lawn services. The city will also award a "Yard of the Month" award to promote lawn care.

• Creating planting designs for City Hall and the lakefront. Miss Jacobson has called City Hall a "cold, unwelcoming fortress" in need of "softening." The board recommends that more trees and shrubs be planted in the parking lot and around the building.

• Designing a promotional campaign to persuade clubs and businesses to adopt a city park for improvement.

• Using the Code Enforcement Board more to handle violations of the city code and revising its procedures to make it more efficient.

• Creating a Historic District Council to preserve the historic quality of the downtown area. Sanford's historic downtown district is one of the city's selling points, the board reported. That quality needs to be protected by such a council which would review plans for new construction in the area to make sure it's compatible with its historic design.

The other seven points were turned over to Faison who will bring back a plan for implementing them in September. Among those points are:

• Adding "master" and "junior" gardeners to the parks department, as well as earmarking more of the department's money for more maintenance workers and gardening and landscaping supplies.

• Removing the ball fields from Fort Mellon Park and creating a "passive" scenic park.

• Enforcing the maintenance agreements on city-leased property, including the park at All Souls Catholic Church, Jaycee Park and Rinker Stadium. Included in this is the board's recommendation to buy out the lease on the stadium and sell it to the school board.

• Holding seminars for city workers and volunteers to improve their professional appearance and communications skills.

• Placing a moratorium on planting new plants and building new parks until the city can maintain the parks it has.

Farr praised the board's hard work but said he did not agree with the whole plan. He drew applause when he said, "I don't agree that we should remove the ball fields from the (Fort Mellon Park)." Farr said he also disagreed with selling Rinker Stadium and the overemphasis on beauty to the detriment of emphasis on "function."

Wes Rinker, who leases the stadium, also defended it, saying it draws about 3,000 families a year to the city who come to watch baseball games. He also said the stadium, which he said is correctly named Sanford Memorial Stadium, is a source of community pride.

He also staunchly defended the parks department from what he perceived to be accusations that it wasn't doing its job.

"The Parks and Recreation Department should not be turned into the 'Parks and Beautification Department,'" he said. "I have four teenagers at home and beauty don't mean zip to them if they don't have a place to have fun and recreate in the city."

But Miss Jacobson said, "It is not the intent of the Scenic Improvement Board to eliminate the recreational aspect of the parks department" but more money is needed for beautification.

Other haggling centered round whether or not the city manager should be ordered to work with the board on the recommendations; something Commissioner Milton Smith said he should be doing anyway.

But Commissioner Robert Thomas said the commission should not let its wrangling paralyze action on the plan. He was applauded when he said, "Change is difficult" but is needed if the city is "to move into the 20th century."

Mayor Bettye Smith, also calling for action on the plan, compared Sanford to her hometown in Alabama, which she visited last weekend.

"It was run down, it was dirty, it was littered," she said, adding that she was "depressed" by the sight of what was once a clean and charming town.

"We are at the crossroads in our town's history ... Future generations will charge us with what happens with this. We can twiddle our thumbs ... and let Sanford turn into a slum," she said. The audience also indicated support for her statement by applauding her.

Miss Jacobson said she was pleased with the commission's action.

"The commission gave it a tremendous endorsement," she said.

Hamishmar newspaper said.

CBS News said Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev was pressuring Syrian President Hafez Assad to push his Lebanese Shiite allies to end the hostage-taking because of Moscow's concern that the crisis will allow Washington to beef up its military presence in the Middle East.

Amal officials have been negotiating the demands of the hijackers, who are seeking the release of Arab prisoners in Israel for the Americans. Israel released 31 of the 764 Lebanese prisoners Monday.

The presence of the tank force, led by the nuclear aircraft carrier USS Nimitz, "makes us add another condition — and this time on behalf of Amal — for the release of the hostages," Berri said in a statement.

"That is that the American fleet moves away from our seafloor," he said.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger quickly rejected the demand.

"It is a war and the beginning of war," Weinberger said. "That's why these various military movements ... have to be made and why they should be treated as military movements in wartime."

He said the task force was in international waters and should remain close to Lebanon "whether we are needed or not."

Reached for comment on

Weinberger's remarks, senior Amal official Ghassan Sabitni said, "As long as the United States ships are in Lebanese waters, that means they are thinking of a military option and are ruling out the choice of peace."

As the deadlock continued, Amal officials Monday gave U.S. television networks a videotape of 12 of the hostages.

In the edited footage, recorded three days ago by Amal at an undisclosed location in Lebanon, the hostages — many of them unsmiling and unshaven — responded briefly to questions posed by a militiaman not seen on the tape.

Several said they were in good health and were being treated well. But when hostage Blake Synnestvedt was asked if he wanted to be free, Synnestvedt, unshaven and appearing sullen, replied: "Of course I want to be free soon."

Synnestvedt replied "no comment" when he was asked if he wanted to say anything to his family.

Synnestvedt's father, Ray, told CBS his son "was given the opportunity to say 'no comment' or else make some phony statement about how well he is doing and how well he is being treated, and I think he's too honest to do that."

Gunmen are believed to be holding the hostages in several locations. U.S. intelligence officials said they believe some hostages are being held in a Shilte military barracks in the eastern Lebanese town of Baalbeck, an area under Syrian control. The Washington Post reported today.

Amal politburo member Akef Haidar Monday said the three American crewmen left on board the commandeered jetliner at

Beirut airport: were being allowed "walks and showers."

Another official reported pilot Capt. John Testrake received treatment for severe stomach pains. But the doctor who examined him declined to discuss his condition under threats from a hijacker.

Man Crushed By Forklift Serious

A 22-year-old Sanford man was in serious condition today after he fell off a forklift and was run over by it.

Melvin Angle, of 1912 1/2 Sanford Ave., was operating the forklift at S and H Fabricating, 2650 Jewett Lane, Sanford, at about 4:45 p.m. Sunday when he fell from the machine, which then ran over his lower abdomen and thighs, a rescue report said.

Angle suffered a broken leg and hip, as well as groin injuries and puncture wounds to his legs. Rescue workers controlled the bleeding in his legs and then took him to Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Company officials would not comment on the incident.

Gross' two brothers, Ken and Ted, are following the car in a separate van. Together they are called the "Chicago Connection."

The car is decorated with the official flag of Sanford, which Sanford enthusiast Gerald Gross hopes will bring the city national publicity. The race is being covered by the national television networks.

Gross said actor Telly Savalas was also driving in the race.

Thousands of people lined the roadway from Hollywood to Palm Springs, Gross said, cheering the drivers on.

"It's a heck of an experience. It's the highlight of my life," he said.

Gross said the toughest leg of the race was to come today — the road from Palm Springs to Flagstaff, Ariz. Temperatures are expected to be about 112 degrees, making the temperature in the car's cockpit about 120 degrees, he said. The heat could drive many cars out of the running. About 14 cars were lost last year on the way to Flagstaff, he said.

...Harriett

That move was sparked by protests from citizens who said the city was "rushing" to make Harriett chief.

Of the 60 applicants, the Civil Service Board chose 10 finalists for the commission's consideration, including Sanford police Sgt. William Hasson.

During Monday's workshop, the 5-member commission used a secret ballot point system to rate its top five candidates. In the first tally, they were to give their top choice 5 points, second choice four and so forth. Harriett received 24 points, followed by James Younger with 11 and Gus Beckstrom with 9. Younger and Beckstrom are both with the Winter Park Police Department; Younger is a patrol commander and Beckstrom is an intelligence officer.

Hasson was tied for fifth with two other applicants.

After the first tally, which overwhelmingly showed Harriett the favorite, Commissioner David Farr suggested that the commission go ahead and name Harriett chief.

"I am perfectly satisfied with chief Harriett," Farr said, adding that the tally indicated his colleagues felt the same way. He said he believed most of the community and the police department wanted Harriett as chief.

Commissioner John Mercer agreed, saying, "I think Steve would be happy if we chose him now or chose him after we interviewed other applicants," indicating such interviews would be useless.

Commissioner Milton Smith, saying Harriett has had his support since he became acting chief, said Harriett "has something the others don't have — the best rapport with the officers in the department."

Mayor Bettye Smith said she has received calls from residents once opposed to Harriett being chief who have since changed their minds.

Commissioner Robert Thomas, who said last week at least two of the applicants "out-distanced" Harriett, remained silent.

The commission took a second tally which showed Harriett getting a unanimous vote. The commission then made the action official at its 7 p.m. regular meeting with a 5-0 approval.

"I think we've done a good job," said Mayor Smith, adding that Harriett "will grow in the job."

Farr said, "We have a young man that we can look forward to have a lot of years."

Thomas said after the meeting he hopes Harriett "takes charge" of the department and "changes its posture" toward minorities.

"I think he's on the way to doing that now," Thomas said.

Harriett said Monday he hired a black officer, bringing the total number of black police officers in the department to four. Another auxiliary officer, who is black, will join the force fulltime after he completes more training, Harriett said. The total number of sworn officers is 55, he said.

Thomas said he didn't vote for Harriett on the first tally because he questioned his maturity and his past connection with the department and chief Butler.

"I didn't want to see things go the way they have in the past. It was disgusting the way that department was run (under Butler)," Thomas said.

But after seeing that Harriett had the overwhelming support of his colleagues, Thomas said he threw in his vote for Harriett on the second tally.

"There was no need to make any waves," he said.

Harriett said hiring more minority officers is one of his goals for the department.

"I'm out to change that," Harriett said, speaking of the number of black officers. "I'm actively recruiting more minority officers."

Harriett said he "wants to lead the department in a more progressive way," using up-to-date technological and administrative tactics to improve the department.

He said the major changes the department needs has already occurred with the elimination of the assistant chief position and the consolidation of the department into two divisions — enforcement and support services.

Harriett said he will now concentrate on beefing up the patrol division and putting more emphasis on training and community relations.

plained about four-wheel drive vehicles and speeders from outside the subdivision cutting through and knocking down mail boxes and poles.

Although the barricades are knocked down from time to time, Diane Taylor, president of the Shadow Hill Homeowners Association, asked that they be retained because they have taken care of the problem.

City Attorney Gerald Korman advised against permanently closing the public streets to outside traffic because that would make them private roads and public funds could not be used to maintain them.

Also Monday, commissioners voted unanimously to annex lots 4 and 5, Block A, Oak Grove Park, located on the west side of U.S. Highway 17-92, one mile north of state Road 434. The annexation of lot 5 was requested by Sheldon J. Stone, owner of Stone Furniture Co. The annexation of lot 4, occupied by Sign King, was requested by Forrest and Norma Brown.

A vote on annexation of lot 1, Irenedale, located on the east side of 17-92 one-half mile south of state Road 434, was tabled at the request of owner Roger Jablonaki and developer Rufus B. Kite-Powell Jr. until after the city's Land Planning Agency reviews a proposed site plan.

The men said they did not want to be annexed if their plans were turned down. The matter was tabled until the July 8 city commission meeting.

The commission unanimously voted to rezone the southwest corner of state Road 434 and Oxford Road from R-1A single-family residential to C-2 commercial-office, which conforms to the future land use plan, at the request of Vite Investments.

Terry told the commission that Charles Kennedy, a member-at-large on the Code Enforcement Board, is unable to attend meetings because of his work and asked commissioners to name a replacement.

Work sessions on the 1985-86 budget have been scheduled for July 9 and 11 at 7 p.m. in city hall, 175 W. Warren Ave.

Bar-Hopping Boyfriend Enjoys What He's Doing

DEAR ABBY: "Jimmy" and I have been living together for two years, and we get along great. My problem is Jimmy's buddy (I'll call him Leo).

Jimmy and Leo used to go out and make the bars before Jimmy and I started to live together. Then Leo moved out of town, and I was relieved.

Now Leo is in the picture again. He comes to town nearly every weekend and encourages Jimmy to make the bars with him. Leo has no steady girl — he's a womanizer, and when he and Jimmy go out together, they stay out practically all night. Jimmy never goes near a bar until Leo comes in town. I've tried to explain to Jimmy that we are a couple, and I don't want to be left sitting at home while he's out bar-hopping with Leo.

Jimmy says he and Leo were best buddies before he even knew me, and besides, we aren't married, we're just giving together. Well, I consider him my husband, and I feel like I'm his wife.

Leo knows how I feel, but he continues to encourage Jimmy to go with him. What should I do about Leo?

FEELING THREATENED

DEAR FEELING: Your problem isn't Leo, it's Jimmy. He's doing what he wants to do; no one is forcing him. Don't blame Leo — thank him. He's showing you a side of Jimmy that you might not have seen until it was too late.

Dear Abby

he used it or not.

When John called and asked if you knew of anyone who wanted to "come along," you had every right to assume that John was offering the ticket at no charge, since there was no mention of money.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question I hope you can answer. My dad was married three times.

With wife No. 1, he had a son. With wife No. 2, he had two daughters.

With wife No. 3, he had me. What relation are his son and daughters to me — stepbrother and stepsisters? Or half-brother and half-sisters?

Would wife No. 2 and wife No. 3 be his son's stepmothers? Would wives No. 1 and No. 2 be any relation to me?

ALL SCREWED UP IN OHIO

DEAR ALL SCREWED UP: The son and two daughters of your father are your half-brother and half-sisters. Wives No. 1 and No. 2 would be no relation to you. But wife No. 2 would be the former stepmother of your half-brother, and your real mother would be his stepmother.

DEAR ABBY: Recently a friend of mine (whom I'll call John) bought four theater tickets — one for himself, one as a birthday gift for me, and two for friends of his. It was my understanding that John's friends were going to pay him for their own tickets.

About two hours before the performance, John called and asked if I knew anyone who would like to come along because one of his friends had canceled at the last moment.

I found a friend who was glad to go, and we all enjoyed the evening. Afterward, I was astonished to learn that John expected payment for the ticket! It was my impression that the ticket would have gone to waste if it hadn't been used.

Who should pay for the ticket? John? The friend who canceled? Or my friend who came along at the last moment?

STICKY SITUATION

DEAR STICKY: If John's two friends agreed to pay him for the tickets, then the friend who canceled at the last moment should have paid John whether

Lash Blue Book Cars Make Sense And Save Dollars

Most people would probably love to have a new car, however, it may not make economic sense to buy one. Steve Lash, general manager of Jim Lash Blue Book Cars, says the best way to solve transportation problems is with a good used car.

Lash said that most new cars depreciate at least $2,000 the minute they are driven off the showroom floor. "If you buy a used car that has been well kept, than most of the financial loss will have been suffered by the previous owner."

Blue Book cars, located at 4114 S. Orlando Ave. in Sanford, specializes in used cars. But not just any used cars, only those with a good track record and ones that have been maintained by their owners.

"Regular servicing, low miles, and autos that have already depreciated are the things we look for in our used cars," Lash said.

Lash, a former supervisor with the Chrysler Corp., said he understands what a customer's money means to him. "$6,000 spent here on a used car means the same to a customer as $24,000 spent for as new car," Lash said.

Blue Book is usually stocked with more than 100 used cars. Lash said he specializes in family-type cars and specialty cars, like Mazda's RX-7. "We have cars in all price ranges and all except those under $1,000 leave here with a free service and labor warranty," Lash said.

The warranties, he explained, are from 30 to 120 days depending on the car.

While other used car dealers come and go, Jim Lash has worked hard to establish a good reputation for his business. In fact, Blue Book Cars has been at the same location for over 10 years.

In addition to car sales, Blue Book also has one of the most complete and comprehensive repair facilities in town.

"We do work for local government agencies as well as other dealers," Lash said. Part of the reason Blue Book's repair facilities are used so much is because of the personnel and equipment. Lash has competent, trained mechanics who know what they are doing as well as modern equipment and the proper tools. But the biggest reason Blue Book's Service Center stays so busy is because of the reputation Lash has achieved.

"The thing we stress the most is fair pricing. We may not be the cheapest and we are not the most expensive, but we are the fairest. You get what you pay for," Lash said.

Rental cars, all with automatic transmissions and air conditioning can be rented from Blue Book for as little as $9.99 a day. These cars come with 100 free miles daily.

Insurance Changes Confusing? Bud Baker Has You Covered

Have you noticed the limits of your insurance coverage decreasing while your premiums are increasing? Have you had some or all of your coverage dropped or had your insurance company go insolvent?

Well, you are not alone.

In 1975, the worst year for insurance companies, 20 companies became insolvent in the United States. In the first six months of this year 15 insurance companies have folded.

Others have become more selective in the states they do business in and clients whom they insure. Florida is one of the worst states for accidents.

How can you hope to understand all of the rapid changes in the business and do what is best to protect yourself?

For one thing you can call on Bud Baker at his office in Suite 611 in the Atlantic Bank Building at First Street and Park Avenue in Sanford for advice on the best coverage for you. As an independent agent, Baker said, "We have put ourselves in the position to render the kind of service we have always provided, but now we have broadened out and have more companies from which to choose when determining the best coverage for a client's needs."

Bud and his wife, Florence, because their agency is a "Mom and Pop" operation can offer you more personalized service.

The Bud Baker Agency, which has been in Sanford for almost five years, moved to its new location six months ago. It offers a full line of personal insurance such as auto, homeowners, life, health, motorcycle, truck, and commercial coverage as well.

One of the best axioms, according to Bud is to "stay put," and don't start shopping around just to save a dollar or so. If possible, he said, if you are insured by a company keep your policy. Stay with a company which writes a one-year policy. Although some companies offer lower premiums, there's no guarantee they won't raise your rates at the end of the six months.

But on the other hand, you can't afford to just renew automatically without looking into other options available. Bud will be glad to explain the changes taking place and advise you on the advantages of changing companies in order to do a better job.

Call Bud and Florence at 322-0501.

Administration Supports Bill For Alien Amnesty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New legislation to grant amnesty to some illegal aliens already living in the United States but seeking to keep others out by punishing employers who hire them won administration support Monday.

The administration endorsement came from Attorney General Edwin Meese and Commissioner Alan Nelson of the Immigration and Naturalization Service at the third day of Senate hearings on the bill.

Meese was in California because of the death of his father, but called for "regaining control of our borders" in a statement read by Deputy Attorney General Lowell Jensen.

But Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M., chairman of the Congressional Hispanic Caucus, said the new bill offered by Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., is still "punitive" and "lacking in fairness."

The bill, like earlier legislation that did not make it through Congress, is opposed by Hispanics and some church leaders who say proposed sanctions against employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens would lead them to discriminate against all "foreign-looking" job seekers.

"There's a great fear among Hispanic people that sanctions would discriminate," Richardson said at the hearing presided over by Simpson.

Richardson, who strongly hinted at a division among members of the Hispanic Caucus, said immigration reform was "a national priority" and called for immediate action on "a fair and equitable" bill.

"If there is no Hispanic Caucus bill, there will be a Bill Richardson bill," he told Simpson, who said he expects at least three different House bills.

Richardson also took a critical view of a provision in the Simpson bill that would grant legal status to illegal aliens who arrived before 1980 but delay it until a presidential commission finds immigration controls are working.

The administration statements also took note of that provision — not included in earlier bills — with Meese saying it would be "the subject of careful discussion and study within the administration and with Congress."

Nelson said the provision was "worthy of serious consideration" because public concern over illegal border crossings even threaten the continuation of legal immigration.

He strongly supported employer sanctions, saying they were the "cornerstone" of the bill and "absolutely essential to gaining control of our borders."

The administration witnesses supported proposed increases in funding for the INS and the U.S. Border Patrol.

Warning: This Toy Could Be Hazardous To Child's Health

Age, Risk Labels Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Choking more than 100,000 injuries to children every year, a public interest group today petitioned the government to require age and risk labels on all toys.

"This is one example of a program that could help protect America's children," said Ann Brown, chairman of the Consumer Affairs Committee of the Americans for Democratic Action.

The committee presented its petition to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which has prodded toy makers with mixed success to put age and risk labels on all products.

"Presently, many toys are labeled for use by children of certain ages. But the committee said most parents mistakenly believe those labels inform them only of the mental ability needed to play with the toy, not the product's safety risk.

"Besides, most parents think their kids are baby geniuses and will buy a toy labeled for an older child without even considering the dangers," said Fred Goldberg, a committee attorney.

Goldberg said parents should also take into consideration the size of the toy's parts, which could be swallowed by a youngster, as well as the sharpness of the product's edges.

Elaine Tyrrell, child safety project manager with the Consumer Product Safety Commission, agreed with Goldberg's concern and said the agency is trying to develop "comprehensive and objective labeling guidelines" for toy makers.

Tyrrell said some toy manufacturers now use labeling "to get around" the commission's ban prohibiting toys with small parts for children under age 3.

She said some of those toys are labeled for children over age 3 without mentioning the potential of toddlers to choke on the products' small parts.

The ADA committee, which conducts an annual quality and safety survey of new toys, urged the commission to develop "informative and clear mandatory labeling" to replace "the ineffective and haphazard existing system."

Brown said, "The CPSC's own statistics show there were over 118,000 toy-related injuries reported in hospital emergency rooms in 1983, just the tip of the iceberg."

She said, "The commission is not doing all it could to curtail the risk of injury."

Court To Decide If States Must Follow Federal Phone Rate Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has agreed to decide whether states must abide by a federal rate-making policy that will boost local telephone rates by millions of dollars a year.

The justices agreed Monday to hear arguments next fall on a Federal Communications Commission order requiring states to adopt a new formula for depreciation, which allows utilities to recover plant and equipment costs from customers over a period of years.

The court will consider the issue in five separate appeals from Louisiana, California, Ohio, Florida and Maryland.

Depreciation expenses passed on to consumers make up between 10 percent and 20 percent of a phone company's income.

The policy, already in effect in many states, has resulted in numerous rate increases for local phone companies, including $11.2 million for Southwestern Bell in Arkansas and $40 million for South Central Bell in Louisiana.

At least six states have been ordered by courts to approve rate hikes to comply with the FCC policy.

In Ohio, the state Supreme Court ruled the Public Utilities Commission did not have to follow the FCC order, at a cost of almost $13 million to the Cincinnati Bell Telephone Co. A similar ruling in Maine deprived the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. of a $49.8 million requested rate increase.

In legal papers filed with the court, attorneys for Louisiana, Florida, Ohio and California said the FCC has authority only over interstate telephone rates, not calls made within a state's borders.

The new depreciation formula — designed to encourage utilities to modernize by speeding up their recovery of capital costs — was adopted for interstate phone companies in 1980, but was not applied to in-state utilities until January 1983. At that time, the FCC said insufficient state revenues could be an obstacle to increased competition in the telephone industry.

Louisiana commissioners brought the appeal against the FCC after South Central Bell Telephone Co., won a court-mandated rate hike.

In other action Monday, the court:

- Agreed to decide, in an appeal by Philadelphia Newspapers Inc., who has to prove a newspaper article false in a libel suit filed by a private figure.

PRINTING SALES

If you want growth, recognition of your skill and reward beyond your paycheck, here's your chance.

If you're a good salesperson, there are any number of places where you can work, get paid and get some basic benefits.

If you're concerned with the quality of what you sell and the environment in which you work, then your choices get a little slimmer. So, the question is: what do you really want besides competitive pay?

Celery Printing Company has been around a long time. But Celery Printing is not what it was before. The company is under new management. The attitude is different. The goals are quality, growth, profit and sharing with people who contribute to the goals.

You're invited to make an assessment of three brand new presses and how they can contribute to your sales effort. We'll discuss plans and resources and commitment.

If you're assertive and looking to the future, then come talk with us. You've nothing to lose and possibly, just possibly, a lot to gain. After all, there's more than spending most of your life working for just a paycheck, some medical insurance and nothing else.

Call or write Jeff Heslep or Byron Lawrence. The line is open.

Bobby Pin Can Be Used To Remove Blackheads

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter is 13 and has been getting blackheads in her ears. What can be done about this?

DEAR READER — I may be run out of town on a rail for telling you this, but it is all right to pick at blackheads. Make sure that your hands and your child's ears are clean, then take an ordinary bobby pin and gently but firmly press the oval end over the blackhead. Usually, the material in the pore will be expressed out and up through the loop. If performed regularly, this ritual should alleviate the pore blockage that causes her blackheads.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter is 12 years old and I've allowed her to start shaving her underarms and legs. Is that okay?

DEAR READER — Probably not, but remember that you are committing her to a regular procedure.

Auxiliary hair (under the arms) is natural for both men and women. Shaving it is a cultural preference that is as typically American as apple pie. European women didn't worry about this sort of thing until after World War II, when American customs became fashionable.

In a child of 12, silky sparse auxiliary hair is not a cosmetic problem, except to the extent that your daughter is experiencing peer pressure to appear grown-up. Once she starts shaving her underarms and legs, the new hair will grow in as a coarse stubble — and she will have to continue periodic shaving to get rid of it.

If your daughter is precocious, she may feel more comfortable shaving. Although I can think of no conclusive medical reason why she should not, it would be a shame for her to adopt behavior strictly on the basis that "everyone else does it."

DEAR DR. GOTT — Why do elderly women grow mustaches and beards?

DEAR READER — All women produce male hormone (testosterone) as well as female hormone (estrogen). Before menopause, when the ovaries are in full gear manufacturing estrogen, relatively hairless female characteristics dominate over weaker male features. After menopause, however, the flow of estrogen diminishes and testosterone's effects become more prominent. Hence, as women age, they often experience deepening voices and the appearance of facial and chest hair. This embarrassing hair can be over-come by plucking, wax treatment or shaving; sometimes, estrogen-containing skin cream is effective in combating the effects of male hormone. It may interest you to know that all men produce estrogen, but its effects are usually over-riden by testosterone.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The golden rule of bridge is simply stated and easy to remember: make life easy for partner.

What this means from a practical point of view is that when you see the way to set a contract, you should then ask yourself if there is any way that partner can go wrong. You should keep him from making a mistake, if you can.

The opening lead against four hearts was the spade three. East won the ace and South played the 10. If the spade three was a fourth-best lead, then South had to have at least three spades. If West had the king, East could get a third-round ruff and set the contract by cashing the club ace. Well and good. Back came the nine of spades. South played the Jack and West won the king. You and I know that East can now ruff the third spade, but West was caught up in wondering whether declarer might have started with J-10 doubleton of spades and two little clubs.

If that were the case, a club had to be led through the club king right now. After some agonizing, West laid the club queen down on the table. South called for the king from dummy. East won the ace, and that was it for the defense.

Because East knows that declarer has at least three spades, he must make life easy for partner by cashing the ace of clubs before returning the spade nine. Now West has no excuse for going wrong and will inevitably set the hand.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

JUNE 23, 1985
Seek social outlets in the year ahead that will give you the opportunity to make new friends and contacts. Enlarging your circle of acquaintances will have definite fringe benefits.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Domestic tranquility will be disrupted today if you start rehashing disagreeable marital issues. Let the wounds heal. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others are apt to ignore your plea for assistance today if you demand they drop what they're doing to help you. Be realistic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Relax and enjoy yourself today, but try not to overindulge in the good things life has to offer. If you practice moderation, everything will be more pleasurable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you may be required to adjust your schedule to suit someone else. Even though it's annoying, don't make a big deal out of it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually you're easygoing and tolerant when dealing with friends, but today you might be a trifle short-tempered if pals are reluctant to do your bidding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Ignore temptations today to behave in a showy manner that you think might impress others. Affectations will detract from your image, not enhance it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you might have to deal with someone whose philosophical outlook is contrary to yours. Nothing will be gained from debating values.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think carefully today before injecting yourself into matters that do not directly concern you. You may be asking for trouble that could be avoided.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Joint efforts are likely to fall flat today if you're associated with people whose aims and ideas are not compatible with yours. Get in synch.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Work that you are expecting others to attend to for you today may be left undone. Count only on yourself, not potential helpmates.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid taking risks today on someone else's ideas, especially if this individual bungled something in the past.
