Eisenhower Given Support On Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower got strong bipartisan support in Congress today for his firm stand on Berlin but Democrats took issue with him on the nation's defense needs.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another top-level administration official went before the House Foreign Affairs Committee today to reinforce President Eisenhower's warning that any reduction in foreign aid would weaken the U. S. defense posture.

C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, was called to testify on the heels of Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Herter told the committee Monday that severe reductions in the $3,929,595,000 request by the President would be "very short-sighted" and could render U. S. foreign policy "ineffective."

Some congressional Democrats have indicated they would like to trim the President's requested program by one billion dollars.

Eisenhower took his battle for extension of the Mutual Security Act to the American people Monday night over radio and television. He said there is "no better means of showing our resolution, our firmness, and our understanding of the Communist challenge than to support this program in full measure."

He also said "any misguided effort to reduce them below what I have recommended weakens the sentries of freedom wherever they stand."

Vanguard I Marks One Year In Orbit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's Vanguard I satellite completed its first year in orbit around the earth today with a record of uninterrupted transmission of data from space.

The Vanguard, which is expected to remain in orbit for 200 to 2,000 years, made 3,921 revolutions of the earth and traveled 131,318,211 miles during its first year.

It is the only satellite which has transmitted information from space for an entire year. Scientists say its solar-powered transmitter should operate for tens or hundreds of years to come.

The 3.4-pound satellite was hailed as the "first true space vehicle" Monday night by speakers at a dinner honoring Dr. John P. Hagen and his Vanguard team.

Among the achievements of Vanguard I listed by Hagen and the Navy were: "Revealed that the earth is pear-shaped with its narrow end toward the North Pole. Helped make possible more accurate mapping of Pacific Ocean islands. Demonstrated that solar cells can operate for extended periods without loss of effectiveness in space. Showed that hazards from meteorites are not 'excessive'. Contributed to scientific study of whether solar activity causes seasonal changes in air density at 400-mile altitudes. Offered valuable experience in the tracking and development of other earth satellites."

Child Grievance

MARIE WILSON
Home Demonstration Agent

How many times have your children told you that "you just don't understand?"

Many grievances children feel against parents are inevitable.

We wouldn't belong to this world if children always understood their parents and parents never made mistakes, says Mrs. Ruth E. Harris, Family Life Specialist.

Parents can often find it helpful to remember things from their youth. Think about things you felt were unfair, cruel and hateful in your childhood. Remember some of the things you were forbidden to do and the way you reacted to your parents' suggestions.

Remembering their own feelings, parents should do everything they can to avoid unnecessary grievances, but at the same time not to be upset if children occasionally express resentment.

Long held-up grievances on the part of the child make him feel the world is against him and that his parents don't love him.

If you keep the general atmosphere of your home friendly you don't need to worry about occasional disagreements that are bound to occur. They won't have permanently harmful effects on your children.

Interest in Meals

MARIE WILSON
Home Demonstration Agent

Be adventurous with foods. It's more fun that way, and cooking becomes a creative experience.

Just because you haven't seen a recipe written a way you have in mind or tasted a food served that way doesn't mean it wouldn't be delicious and inviting. Your family may want some foods cooked the same old way, but most families enjoy an occasional change of meals, too, says Bonnie McDonald, Nutritionist-Food Conservation Specialist.

So, take a new interest in the art of cooking in 1959, and try some new food tricks on your family. Experiment with herbs and spices. Try some new combinations. Serve some old favorites a little differently. You will find your interest in foods renewed, revived, inspired. And your family will have fun with new foods, too.

Here are some suggestions for easy-to-do food glamorizing.

Top a serving dish of green beans with herb mayonnaise, made by adding to the mayonnaise a little dill and rosemary and a dash of lime or lemon juice.

For quick and easy tartar sauce to serve with baked fish, stir 2 teaspoons instant minced onion into 2 teaspoons water. Let stand a few minutes, then add to mayonnaise along with some chopped parsley, pickle relish and a squeeze of lime or lemon juice.

Sprinkle your favorite sugar cookies with slivered almonds mixed with sugar.

Serve warm ginger cookies made with raisins and freshly made apple sauce for dessert.

The Legislature will be asked for more than $22 million in Aid to Dependent Children for the next two years. Submitting the request, which represents a $15.3 million increase in state funds for the two-year period, will be the State Department of Public Welfare. This bit of information is contained in a booklet, "Can You Live on 98c a Day?" The booklet is published by the Welfare Department.

In the past two years, Aid to Dependent Children cost Florida $6.07 million. Based on the request, the ADC program would cost the state $11 million annually, an increase of some $8 million per year.

If the Legislature approves the $22 million request, another $6.6 million would be available from the U. S. government. This, too, is contained in the 16-page booklet.

According to facts supplied by the Welfare Department, 13,516 of the children now receiving this aid are illegitimate. This is, roughly, one-fourth as many as the 54,774 of legitimate birth.

Of the total, 49,600 are Negro children, 18,701 are white. According to the Welfare Department, only about 57 per cent of the need now is being met in this program.

Some Seminole County authorities have said that this program encourages illegitimate children among some persons. Dr. John Thurmond, county health director, has cited several cases in which illegitimate children have been born so that the mother "can get one of those checks."

The Herald does not oppose aid to children in need. However, this over-growing problem should be investigated thoroughly before the Legislature appropriates $11 million a year to finance such a project.

Zeb Ratliff Retires

Something very akin to an era has ended with the retirement of Zeb Ratliff, a veteran of 50 years in the printing industry.

Ratliff came to Sanford from Jasper, Fla., 50 years ago and went to work for The Sanford Herald. After 11 years in the mechanical department of The Herald, he went into business with W. M. Haynes and established Celery City Printing Co.

Later he had another partner in the business. For the past 15 years, Ratliff had operated the business by himself. Now, he plans to "play and rock." Ratliff considers a half-century long enough. The personable gentleman intimated that he had missed the opportunity to use his rocking chair during his years in printing. Now, he will attempt to "catch up" on all of that lost time.

It has been said, many times, that printers are a breed unto themselves. Many would have you believe that printer's ink gets into a man's blood.

Literally, of course, this isn't true. But, there is something very similar to a heart beat in the rhythm of a press. At least, there is to men like Zeb Ratliff.

Rollins Presents 'Owls' Key Chains

More than 300 owl-shaped key chain holders have been presented to the men of VAHS by Rollins Hobby Shop.

The holders were accepted by Dr. Floyd Harris, commanding officer of the Heavy Attack Hood "Owls."

Howard Rollins, retired Naval officer and owner of Rollins Hobby Shop, made the presentation. Rollins was stationed in Sanford during his Naval service, and moved here five years ago upon retirement.

"My wife and I have lived all over the country," Rollins said. "We like the people in Sanford and have found them more friendly and cordial than anywhere else. We have never regretted settling here and going into the hobby supply business."

Harris thanked Rollins on behalf of the officers and men of VAHS. "Your spirit of interest in the Navy is very gratifying and we appreciate your kind regards," he said.

The dome of the Colorado state capitol in Denver is colored with gold leaf mined from native deposits. The building stands exactly one mile above sea level.

Assignment Washington

By Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON — The spectators jammed the back of the room. They came here for one main purpose — to laugh at the racketeers.

That seems to be the only way that an honest, indignant, sensitive citizen can spend his wrath on the cowards — those leeches of the underworld — who cover under the Fifth in the Caucus Room.

The hoodlums, now stripped of their brass knuckles, acid bottles and guns, bend themselves nicely there under the bright chandeliers declining to admit even that they're alive.

When the juke-box racketeers closed down for a 10-day recess, the Rackets Committee had finished listening to a long command performance that sounded like an automatic player stuck on a broken record titled, "Decline."

I laughed just as hard as the rest of the waiters. A belly laugh served as a good substitute for a gratifying punch in the nose. But this 1959 hoodlum act has been a breed more brazen than even those witnesses of the Costello and Tramer type. This is because our courts have recently reassured protection for those "tending to incriminate themselves."

As a result, the once-mighty Senate committee's only remaining effective weapon is the club of ridicule. And on this final day, I'd say they did an efficient job of whittling down those smug thugs. They splattered the hoods with verbal spitballs that most certainly were noticed all the way across the country.

The Fifth Amendment had become so a matter of course lately with those juke-box jokers that the thugs came to the witness chair bearing mass-produced printed cards bearing the "I Decline" song.

Sen. Harry Goldwater (R., Ariz.) asked to see one of the cards, and then he said cynically: "Somebody must pass those out at the door."

When Juke-Box Smitty, a lumpy, red-faced Chicago mobster, stumbled on the phrase, Sen. Karl Mundt (R., S. D.) called out:

"You better read the juke-box answer card."

The hearing hit the height of indignance when Sen. John McClellan (D., Ark.) barked at Juke-Box, whose real name is Thomas Fred Smith: "Are you alive?" The man said he couldn't answer because being alive could tend to incriminate him.

The committee called up Hyman Lerner, alias Red Waterfall and four other names, described as a Chicago juke-box shakedown artist, now of Miami Shores, Fla. "Are you," snarled McClellan, "a common, ordinary, cheap thug?"

And, so help me, Hyman, in a high, thin, nasal whine said he couldn't rightly answer that question without incriminating himself.

Another good laugh therapy for a bystander's frustration came when chief counsel Robert Kennedy informed McClellan that Lerner was once convicted in the Senator's hometown region of Little Rock, Ark.

McClellan grinned a fiendish grin at the witness: "Do you like the climate down there?" and the hood declined to answer because, honestly, he said, that could incriminate him.

I'm glad the juke-box hearing are in recess. Those Fifth Amendment "Americans" with the sun-tanned hides, dark glasses and expensive suits had become somewhat sickening.

Now, perhaps one can turn to less irritating developments on Capitol Hill — like the payrolls of Congressmen.

Retired Officers Schedule Meeting

Members of the Retired Officers' Association and their guests have been invited to a meeting of the Central Florida Chapter March 23 at the McCoy Air Force Base Officers' Club.

In addition to the election and installation of officers for the coming year, Gen. E. A. Walsh will give a report on his recent trip to Washington. The report will cover liaison and legislation in all members.

Reservations for the meeting at 12:30 p. m. may be made with Mrs. Margaret S. Wilks, 2850 Furton Road, Winter Park, March 21 is the deadline for reservations, which include the luncheon and business meeting.

Post Office Plans To 'Rocket' Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Post Office Department expects to fire its first experimental mail-carrying rocket this year, according to a Washington publication.

Washington Science Trends quoted a post office spokesman as saying Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield has asked the Defense Department to let him obsolete snark or regulus missiles for the tests.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — While the memory of Sherman Adams and his telephone calls to the regulatory agencies is rapidly fading, there are still earnest souls who believe that something should be done to curb the influence business.

Two of them, Senators Clifford Case (R., N. J.) and Richard Neuberger (D., Ore.), have just put in a bill that would serve at least to put the whole business on the public record. Their bill would require full disclosure of the financial interest of all top officials in government, including members of Congress. It would also require that all communications, whether by word of mouth or by letter, to a regulatory or semi-judicial agency be made part of the record in all cases.

There would be no more private nudges from the White House or Capitol Hill to members of the Federal Trade Commission. If the nudging had to be done in public, subject to stiff penalties under the law for concealment, it would not be done.

Methodists Plan To Fight Mixing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Methodist churches in Alabama and West Florida will send delegates here Thursday to organize a laymen's union which will lead the fight against efforts to integrate the nation's Methodist churches.

Judge Whit Windham, one of the 34 sponsors of the laymen's union, said about 1,000 are expected to attend Thursday's meeting. Every Methodist church in Alabama and West Florida was invited to send delegates, he said.

Windham said the laymen's group would map a course of action for Southern churches in event the Methodist General Conference attempts to force integration in 1960.

The jurist said "an overwhelming majority of Methodist laymen" fear that a committee appointed in 1956 will report back recommendations next year with integration as the end result.

The General Conference, which is Methodist's central governing body, has labeled segregation in churches "an evil," said Judge Windham, "arousing an overwhelming majority of Methodist laymen against the conference's efforts toward integration."

He said the union was not working for a breakup in the national organization. "That is wholly foreign to what we are trying to do. We are trying to preserve the Methodist church and are working to safeguard its future."

comes before the Senate. Kerr will probably lead the fight against it as he has done before.

The Democrats reply by pointing out how the Eisenhower Administration has appointed lawyers and businessmen to the regulatory agencies who were then called upon to regulate their former clients and associates. What is more, these same men after serving a year or two went back to practicing law and appearing before their former commission associates.

This kind of in-again-out-again cycle came up the other day when Senator Case questioned Charles A. Webb, a legislative assistant to former Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio who had been nominated to a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Bricker was ranking Republican member of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, with authority over several regulatory agencies, before his defeat last November.

It developed during the questioning that two other former Bricker associates had been named to the ICC, which regulates the railroads. Owen Clarke stayed on the commission for five years and then resigned to become a vice-president of the Chesapeake and Ohio at a salary much larger than government pays. After two and a half years on the commission Robert Minor went to a New York Central vice-presidency at a reported salary of $60,000 a year.

What was not noted, if only because of the delicate business of Senatorial courtesy, was that Bricker during much of his service in the Senate had continued to share in the proceeds of his Columbus, Ohio, law firm. That firm represented the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Safety Award Won By Squadron One

The safe-driving award for February was won by Heavy Attack Squadron One, during its first full month of duty at Ramey Field.

The Cer. John H. Bear Memorial Plaque has been presented by Capt. Lionel A. Arthur to Cdr. Sid Boney, commanding officer of the "Tigers." The plaque is given monthly to the squadron with the best safe driving record during liberty hours.

The winner is determined by a demerit system. Demerits are awarded according to the seriousness of the traffic violations.

Cdr. Boney said "Our motto is work hard, play hard and drive slow." A safety council composed of Naval and civilian officials supervises the safety campaign.

But if publicity is required for this practice, then surely it should cover the relationships between business and government, and the mutual benefit society that results. The one, so readily understandable, is peanuts while the other, so much more subtle and submerged, involves influence measured in millions of dollars.

Louisville Getting Tourney Backing

By JOHN G. DIETRICH
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The records and the ratings made Cincinnati and West Virginia the favorites today to meet in the finals of the NCAA basketball tournament here Saturday night, but Louisville's own come-back kids were getting plenty of support.

Mid-Florida Plans Two Special Dates For Area Golfers

Two dates of interest for Seminole County golfers are on the Mid-Florida Golf course, west of Longwood, according to Terry De Mars, club pro, and Vernon Dunn, manager.

On Friday, March 27, 25 clubs from Orange, Polk, Lake, Volusia and Seminole counties have been invited to send ladies' teams to Mid-Florida for a "Pro-Amette" tourney, sponsored by the Mid-Florida Pro-Am Golf Association.

Sunday, April 5, is the date for the Orange Memorial Hospital Day at the Longwood links. The total receipts for the day will be donated to the Orlando Hospital's drive for funds for additional space and equipment.

Special events are planned during the afternoon, DeMars said. "We consider this a very important date on the club calendar, and we are anxious to have the course crawling with players, for we feel deeply the need for additional hospital facilities in Central Florida."

World War II amputee DeMars knows how important hospitals can be.

Chief Gets Award In Rifle Matches

Chief Charles Vining returned to Sanford with the classification of sharpshooter in all the matches entered last weekend at Winter Haven.

Vining entered seven matches. He won the 50-yard kneeling position and placed second in the other six.

The annual spring match was the fourth for the Winter Haven Rifle Club. The small bore competition was the first for Vining, who is experienced in large bore competitive shooting. In 1957 he was a member of the winning team in the All-Navy matches.

The leading chief petty officer in Heavy Attack Squadron Nine's radio division, Vining feels that competition shooting is a wonderful sport, and should be encouraged. "It promotes firearm safety and develops physical coordination to an amazing degree," he said.

Second Base Key To Braves' Chances

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves didn't win a pennant until they came up with a top-drawer second baseman and it is entirely possible they won't win this year unless they obtain another one.

In short, the Braves' chances of winning their third straight National League title depend largely on finding a first-class second baseman to fill the shoes of Red Schoendienst, who may be out the whole season recuperating from a siege of tuberculosis.

Until the Braves acquired Schoendienst from the Giants during the 1957 season, they could only make a pass at the pennant but never quite win it. With him in the lineup, however, they won the past two years and even beat the Yankees in the 1957 World Series.

Warren Spahn, recognized as one of the best left-handers of modern baseball; Lew Burdette, Carlton Willey, Bob Rush, Juan Pizarro, Joey Jay and Bob Buhl. That leaves him for relief Don McMahon, Bob Trowbridge, Humberto Robinson and possibly Rene Conley when he gets through playing basketball for the Boston Celtics.

READY FOR MATCH RACE — Ben Jacques' fleet Kiego is ready for a special Inter-City match race against Sarasota greyhounds tonight at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club. Kiego ran second in the home and home series opener at Sarasota Friday.

Local Dogs Meet Sarasota Tonight

For about 30 swift seconds, Sanford dog racing fans will be on the edge of their seats tonight when three local speedsters will be pitted against champs from the West Coast.

The third and sixth boxes will be vacated for the unusual racing. The Grade-A highlight will be preceded by two other Grade-A contests.

Happy Joe finished first, covering the three-eighths mile distance in a fabulous time of 38.15 seconds, better than the local club's all-time record.

The big red fawn gets is the youngest of tonight's sextet, but looms as champion of inter-city competition.

Kiego, who drew the eight box for tonight's 10th race event, finished second and (7) Tears wound up third. (7) Tears will be in the second dog house tonight.

Roman Story, a sleek light brown dog, won the Tampa Derby by event, ran fourth Saturday night, but drew the rail spot for the re-match.

Pretty Debbie strolled to honors in the final game of the Sanford Junior Basketball League Tournament Saturday, winning the title.

Stemper took Robinson in an earlier game, 24-21, which put them in the contest against Seminole Sporting Goods, but couldn't keep the pace in the final.

The tilt was tied in the first period 10-10 but Seminole went ahead at the end of the second quarter, 15-14. In the third period, Seminole made 11 points, while Stemper could only basket once, leaving the score 24-13.

Paul Crews, for Seminole Sporting Goods, was high for his team with 14 points. Joe Bograts was high for Stemper with nine points.

Ronald Perry, Sanford Recreation Director, today thanked the National Guard for the use of the Army, which made it possible for the 15 sports-minded boys to compete against each other in this newly-formed Junior Basketball League.

Perry said this year was very successful and expects next year to be as good, or better.

St. Patrick's Day Music Will Haunt This Old Irishman

NEW YORK (UPI)—As Erin's son and daughters parade up Fifth Avenue on this St. Patrick's Day, a silver-haired Irishman in a nursing home one block away will listen wistfully to the wailing of the bagpipes and the beat of the drums.

Clem McCarthy, once America's most colorful sports broadcaster, would like very much to see that parade, or any parade, or a ball game, a good tilt, fight, or an exciting horse race.

But those are only idle streams now for the 75-year-old Irishman as he sits alone in his room at the Dresden Madison Nursing Home in midtown New York.

Clem has been an invalid since he suffered a severe hip injury in an automobile accident two years ago. He later contracted Parkinson's disease and doctors have advised him he'll never walk again.

Pirates Have 'Flag Feeling'

(Editor's Note: This is the second dispatch on the prospects of the major league teams for 1958.)

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor
FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates have "that pennant feeling."

Last year, in his first full season as manager, Danny Murtaugh aimed for the first division and wound up second, eight games behind Milwaukee. That represented a jump of five notches for the Pirates, who were seventh in 1957—the ninth year in a row they had finished in the second division.

"We really started to jell last season," Murtaugh said. "Now we are aiming to jump just one more notch in the standings. My players are confident we can do it, and so am I. We all have that pennant feeling."

Murtaugh gambled and traded away his leading power hitter, Frank Thomas, to get what he felt the Pirates lacked in 1958—a left-handed starting pitcher and a left-handed hitting catcher. He obtained Harvey Haddix, who was 8-7 with Cincinnati last year, and Sonny Burgess, a .281 hitter with the Reds.

Also in the deal, the Pirates obtained Don Hoak to take over Thomas' third base chores.

"We know we lost power, but with Hoak at third we improved our defense and Haddix gives us the left-handed pitching strength we lacked. And Burgess is not only valuable as a full time catcher, if needed, but also as a pinch hitter."

"Now we have to find a big bat to take over from Thomas. I'm looking for our first baseman to supply that."

The player he is looking at most is Dick Stuart, who can hit the ball a long way. He hit 16 homers in 47 games with the Pirates last season and drove in 48 runs. But he strikes out a lot. The only question in Murtaugh's mind is whether Stuart will drive in more runs with his bat than he will get in with his fielding. He's no defensive genius.

Should Stuart fall short, Murtaugh has Ted Kluszewski, who this spring looks like the slugger he was with Cincinnati before he came up with a back ailment two years ago. Kluszewski is swinging freely for the first time since then and he thinks he can do the job.

Then there is Rocky Nelson, who always has murdered the ball in the minors but never has made the grade in the majors. Heck of them also is R. C. Stevens, the best fielder of the lot, but with a weaker bat.

Rest Of Infield Set
The rest of the infield is set with Bill Mazeroski at second, Dick Groat at short and Hoak at third. Mazeroski and Groat form one of the best second base combinations in the majors and most baseball men agree with Murtaugh when he says those key men can beat you more ways than any other shortstop-second base combination in the majors.

If the Pirates have one weakness, it is an infield reserves. The veteran Gene Baker, Dick Schoendienst, who was a disappointment with the Cardinals, and rookie Harry Bright, a .200 batter at Sacramento in 1958, are the only ones who can back up Mazeroski, Groat and Hoak. Baker was hurt most of last season and it's a question whether he could play every day if something happened to anyone of those three.

In the outfield it will be Bob Skinner in left, Bill Vardon in center, Roberto Clemente in right with Roman Manos back of them as the No. 1 utility player.

Murtaugh wouldn't trade them for any four outfielders that any other club in the league has. He's also high on rookie Joe Christopher, who hit .327 at Salt Lake City last season.

Hank Foiles will be the No. 1 catcher, but Burgess will be back of the plate a lot. Bill Hall, who looked so good with the Pirates last year when they brought him up from Salt Lake, and Danny Kravitz are fighting for the third-string catching berth.

Murtaugh figures on six starting pitchers, leading off with his ace, Bob Friend, a 22-game winner in 1958. Then come Vernon Law (14-12), Ron Kline (13-16), George Witt (9-2), Curt Raydon (8-1) and Haddix. The Pirates expect great things of Witt.

Hooker Bonnie Daniels, who won 14 at Columbus in the International League last season, has a good chance of sticking.

Eloy Face, one of the best in the business, will be the relief specialist with southpaw Doc Gross and the veteran Bob Porterfield also in the bullpen. Ron Blackburn and Bob Smith are other hurling possibilities.

Rain Brings Trade Talk; Three Seek Roy Sievers

United Press International
A rainy day in the Florida baseball camps usually produces trades and rumors of trades.

It was that kind of a day on the soggy citrus circuit Monday. Four exhibition games were rained out, in several possible player transactions were reportedly being discussed.

The New York Yankees' recent shoulder ailment, have turned again to the Washington Senators for pitching help. The world champions would like to pick lefty Pedro Ramos or Dick Hyde loose from the Nats. They also are eyeing southpaw Billy Hoeltz of the Detroit Tigers.

The Senators, in turn have indicated they are willing to peddle Roy Sievers to the White Sox. But Cal Griffith, the Nats' owner, insists "we're not going to give cream for skim milk." That presumably means the White Sox will have to offer center fielder Jim Landis as part of the deal.

However, the Cleveland Indians may wind up with both Ramos and Sievers. Frank Lane plans to confer with Griffith Wednesday at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Cleveland general manager is expected to offer outfielder Minnie Mimon, pitcher Jim Grant and infielder Woods Held for the Nats' pair.

Another possible trade involving the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Redlegs reportedly has advanced past the talking stage. This one would send outfielder Gus Bell to the Cardinals for southpaw Vinegar Bend Mizell.

In the only two exhibition games played Monday, the Kansas City Athletics blanked the Tigers, 6-0 and Ted Kluszewski's first spring home run sparked the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

It was that kind of a day on the soggy citrus circuit Monday. Four exhibition games were rained out, in several possible player transactions were reportedly being discussed.

The New York Yankees' recent shoulder ailment, have turned again to the Washington Senators for pitching help. The world champions would like to pick lefty Pedro Ramos or Dick Hyde loose from the Nats. They also are eyeing southpaw Billy Hoeltz of the Detroit Tigers.

The Senators, in turn have indicated they are willing to peddle Roy Sievers to the White Sox. But Cal Griffith, the Nats' owner, insists "we're not going to give cream for skim milk." That presumably means the White Sox will have to offer center fielder Jim Landis as part of the deal.

However, the Cleveland Indians may wind up with both Ramos and Sievers. Frank Lane plans to confer with Griffith Wednesday at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Cleveland general manager is expected to offer outfielder Minnie Mimon, pitcher Jim Grant and infielder Woods Held for the Nats' pair.

Another possible trade involving the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Redlegs reportedly has advanced past the talking stage. This one would send outfielder Gus Bell to the Cardinals for southpaw Vinegar Bend Mizell.

In the only two exhibition games played Monday, the Kansas City Athletics blanked the Tigers, 6-0 and Ted Kluszewski's first spring home run sparked the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Old Pro, Newcomer Face NIT Action

NEW YORK (UPI)—St. Louis University, an old favorite with New York fans, and Oklahoma City University, a newcomer to the big town, open their bids for the National Invitation Basketball Tournament championship tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The towering Billikens, seeded second, will face upstart Providence College and fourth-seeded Oklahoma City will meet New York University in the concluding two quarter-final games.

The St. Louis-Providencia winner will square off against St. John's and the Oklahoma City-NYU survivor will play top seed of Bradley in the semifinals Thursday night.

St. Louis, appearing in its eighth NIT, has been installed a 10-point favorite over Providence in tonight's 7:30 p.m. east opener.

Oklahoma City playing in its first NIT, is a six-point underdog against NYU, which reached the quarter-finals by knocking off Denver, 90-81.

Lake Mary Plans For Little League
Little League has hit Lake Mary. Forty-four boys turned out for the first baseball season, eager and ready to play.

The team will be managed by Harold Hockeramth. The Rev. John Hiley is in charge of equipment and collateral duties.

To organize the parents, a special meeting has been called Wednesday night at 7:30 in the educational building of the Community Presbyterian Church.

The boys will play their first game April 11.

Congressmen Use Fists Now, Guns Once

By FRANK ELEAZER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Our Congress had been in business less than a decade when, in 1798, House members named Matthew Lyon and Roger Griswold had at each other with fists.

Even as the House investigated this breach of the peace, hostilities were resumed. Griswold went after Lyon with a pair of fire tongs. To quote the House record: "There was an affray, which was with difficulty stopped."

Ever since, our lawmakers from time to time have assaulted each other with weapons from harsh words to and through knives, pistols, and flying cuspidors.

Rep. Randall S. Harmon, an Indiana freshman House member, got his name in the papers recently for putting both his wife and his front porch on the public payroll. He may or may not have been sporting a pistol around the Capitol, as a newspaper reporter alleged and as Harmon subsequently denied.

Pre-Civil War Rowdiest
Either way, Harmon can cite long and honorable precedent. Officially, the House and Senate always have taken a dim view of firearms on the persons of members. Periodically, however, the statesmen have seen fit to ignore this prejudice, with results frequently lively and sometimes pretty near deadly.

According to all accounts, the pre-Civil War period was about Congress' rowdiest. Somebody was always taking offense on sectional or philosophical grounds. It is said also that tempers more often than now were aggravated by a pre-session bending of elbows, many members having their quarters over nearby saloons.

On April 17, 1850, Sens. Thomas H. Benton of Missouri and Henry S. Foote of Mississippi exchanged unpleasantness about the national issues then brewing. Benton called Foote a liar. Foote called Benton a calumniator, which apparently is worse.

Cocks Revolver
Benton heaved out of his chair with fire in his eyes. Ditto Foote, who also had a loaded five-chambered revolver in his hand. He managed to cock it before kill-joys intervened and disarmed him.

On May 22, 1850, a South Carolina House member named Brooks took umbrage at remarks made by a Massachusetts senator named Sumner. So he marched across the Capitol, found Sumner at his desk in the Senate chamber, and proceeded to beat him nearly to death with his walking stick.

The Senate was aggrieved, but took the view that punishing Brooks was up to the House. Brooks quit and went home for a reaffirmation of faith from his electorate, which he got.

On April 23, 1864, a House member named William S. Moore pulled a gun on another member, and fired. It was a poor shot, though, and the victim was a Capitol policeman who was critically injured. The House locked Moore up for a while while wondering what to do, but eventually turned him loose.

Leave Guns At Home
In recent years members have left guns if any at home. But they have felt free periodically to assail each other with less lethal weapons. One of the more successful contenders among sitting members is Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.), who is credited with two wins and a draw.

A former member named John Phillips slapped Cannon one day in 1951. Phillips gave his account of the fray only after getting his lip sewed back together.

Cannon also drew blood once from Rep. John Taber (R-N.Y.). But when he tangled with the late terrible-tempered Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, Cannon executed a strategic withdrawal after McKellar brandished his cane.

Early-Morning Nip Keeps Him Active

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — John Moser Sr., probably the oldest active shoe merchant in the world, celebrated his 95th birthday recently by doing what he's done every day for some 75 years: He arose at 6 a.m., had breakfast and a "nip" of whisky and then walked to work.

Moser has been in the shoe business here since 1883 and has lived in the same home for 69 years. Before coming to the U.S. in 1882, he spent four years in shoe shops in Germany where he was born.

His wife died 22 years ago and four of his six children still are living. He has nine grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren. One of his three daughters, now a widow, lives with him.

Moser attributes his good health to "learning how to pace myself." He says he has "always been too busy to worry about anything."

"I always have a nip of whisky about 7 a.m. and once in a while before I go to bed," he says.

Moser, who puts in a full day's work—in fact he arrives an hour before his employees—says he has never thought of retiring.

"Time passes so much quicker when I'm at work than when I'm sitting at home," he explains.

Mayflower To Go On Display Again

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — Mayflower II and the other exhibits of Plymouth Plantation will be open to tourists starting April 17.

The Pilgrim replica ship will be located at the State Pier here as she was last season. The vessel's interior has been altered to conform more closely to 17th century conditions. The galley, cabins and modern binnacle installed for the 1957 Atlantic crossing have been removed and the modern wheel is being replaced by a wheel of the type used to steer the old sailing vessel.

Besides the ship, the Plantation's waterfront exhibits will include replicas of two early Pilgrim houses.

Big Marine Loses To Small Japanese

MEMPHIS (UPI) — A tiny Japanese girl was granted a divorce from her husky Marine husband yesterday by a judge who refused to believe the Marine's complaints about her.

"I put little stock in a Marme merchant's allegations of physical violence by a 96-pound woman," Chancellor Ceylon Frater said. "If so, I think we need a new Marine Corps—and I am a great admirer of the Marines."

The shattered East-West romance involved Yoshi Nishioka Burleson, 27, who said she was in love with her adopted country, and William M. Burleson, 29, now stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C. Yoshi, who weighs 96 pounds, was granted an interlocutory decree, a bed and board divorce for one year.

Burleson had filed for divorce, claiming among other things that Yoshi was "very jealous" and on one occasion hit him.

Yoshi admitted that she hit her husband with a bathroom scale, but claimed she did so in self-defense. She testified that Burleson told her that he loved both her and another woman "and couldn't make up his mind between the two."

She also charged that Burleson accused her of "being stupid" because she couldn't speak English clearly.

Said the court: "This was a case of a bride being brought to a country that was strange to her, but she attempted to fulfill her duties as a wife. Perhaps the difference in race origin caused some of their difficulties."

"It is plain that the sercant is possibly interested in another woman or other women. He has tired of that which he felt desirable in Kobe, Japan."

Frater dismissed the 210 pound Burleson's bill. Yoshi's allotment of $137.10 monthly will continue, and she was awarded their trailer home and furnishings.

Highlights Of Eisenhower's Berlin Crisis Address

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of President Eisenhower's television address Monday night on the Berlin crisis, defense and mutual security:

We have no intention of forgetting our rights or of deserting a free people. Soviet rulers should remember that free men have, before this, died for so-called "scraps of paper" which represented duty and honor and freedom.

The shirking of our responsibilities would solve no problems for us. It would mean the end of all hopes for a Germany under government of German choosing.

Certainly, the American and Western peoples do not want war. Global conflict under modern conditions could mean the destruction of civilization. The Soviet rulers, themselves, are well aware of this fact.

But all history has taught us the grim lesson that no nation has ever been successful in avoiding the horrors of war by refusing to defend its rights — by attempting to placate aggression. Whatever risk of armed conflict may be inherent in the present Berlin situation, it was deliberately created by the Soviet rulers.

Our final choice in negotiation, even while we continue to provide for our security against every threat. We are seeking meaningful negotiation at this moment.

The Soviet note of March 2nd appears to be a move toward negotiation on an improved basis. We would never negotiate under a dictated time limit or agenda, or on other unreasonable terms. We are, with our allies, however, in view of the changed tone Soviet note, concerting a reply to that note.

It is my hope that thereby all of us can reach agreement with the Soviets on an early meeting at the level of foreign ministers. Assuming developments that justify a summer meeting at the summit, the United States would be ready to participate in this further effort.

If the United States, alone, had to carry the full burden of defending its interests from the Communist threat, we would have to draft a much larger portion of our manhood into the armed services, spend many more billions of treasure, and put a more intense strain on all our resources and capabilities. We would become more and more like a garrison state.

Fortunately, we do not have to adopt such a desperate course. Nearly 30 nations have joined with us in a cooperative effort to protect freedom.

Of late I — and I am sure the American people — have heard or read conflicting claims about our defenses.

We have heard that our military posture has been subordinated to a balanced budget, to the jeopardy of our national defense.

We have heard that our defenses are presently — or they will be sometime in the future — inadequate to meet recurrent Communist threats.

We have heard that more manpower in our forces than I have recommended is essential in the present circumstances, for psychological reasons if for no other.

My friends, such assertions as these are simply not true. They are without foundation.

I am sure: That we have the courage and capacity to meet the stern realities of the present and the future. We need only to understand the issues and to practice the self-discipline that freedom demands.

Together with our allies we stand firm wherever the probing finger of an aggressor may point. Thus we lessen the risk of aggression: Thus we shall with resolution and courage, struggle ever forward to the dream of a just and permanent peace.

God helping us, we shall stand always equal to the challenge.

Fellow Americans, of one thing I am sure: That we have the courage and capacity to meet the stern realities of the present and the future. We need only to understand the issues and to practice the self-discipline that freedom demands.

Is Leaning Tower Leaning Too Much?

MBA, Nely (UPI) — Is the leaning tower of Pisa going to topple? And if so, what can be done about it?

Many experts predict that the 177-foot tower, built almost 800 years ago, will fall over anywhere from 50 to 300 years from now unless something is done.

Their predictions are based on the fact that the white marble structure has been leaning at an alarming rate in recent years. Now 17 feet, 2 1/4 inches out of plumb, it has tilted 3 1/2 inches since 1910 — about twice the rate of the preceding 80 years. In 1958, it leaned 0.46 of an inch, greatest in any recorded year.

All agree that the lean is due to the soft, water-permeated ground under its base in the Piazza del Miracolli. In fact, the tower started leaning right at the start — back in 1174 A.D. After building the first three stories, the co-architects, Bonanno and Giulielmo, gave up in disgust. Two hundred years later, another architect finished the job. He tried to correct the slant by angling the last five floors perpendicular to the base, but they leaned too.

Prof. Giovanni Boaga, a Rome engineer, is one of those advocating drastic action — and right away. He proposes that the tower be dismantled and that a thick concrete slab be sunk 40 feet into the ground, over which the structure would be reassembled. He estimates that it would take five years and cost about $6,000,000.

Another proposal is for pumping out some of the sand about the base on the far side of the lean, thus enabling the tower to shift back to a vertical position by itself.

But the "Pisanos," the town folk who depend for their daily bread on the great curiosity of tourists in the leaning tower, are fearful of any meddling.

are, with our allies, however, in view of the changed tone Soviet note, concerting a reply to that note.

It is my hope that thereby all of us can reach agreement with the Soviets on an early meeting at the level of foreign ministers. Assuming developments that justify a summer meeting at the summit, the United States would be ready to participate in this further effort.

If the United States, alone, had to carry the full burden of defending its interests from the Communist threat, we would have to draft a much larger portion of our manhood into the armed services, spend many more billions of treasure, and put a more intense strain on all our resources and capabilities. We would become more and more like a garrison state.

Fortunately, we do not have to adopt such a desperate course. Nearly 30 nations have joined with us in a cooperative effort to protect freedom.

Of late I — and I am sure the American people — have heard or read conflicting claims about our defenses.

We have heard that our military posture has been subordinated to a balanced budget, to the jeopardy of our national defense.

We have heard that our defenses are presently — or they will be sometime in the future — inadequate to meet recurrent Communist threats.

We have heard that more manpower in our forces than I have recommended is essential in the present circumstances, for psychological reasons if for no other.

My friends, such assertions as these are simply not true. They are without foundation.

I am sure: That we have the courage and capacity to meet the stern realities of the present and the future. We need only to understand the issues and to practice the self-discipline that freedom demands.

Together with our allies we stand firm wherever the probing finger of an aggressor may point. Thus we lessen the risk of aggression: Thus we shall with resolution and courage, struggle ever forward to the dream of a just and permanent peace.

God helping us, we shall stand always equal to the challenge.

Racy Lines Amuse Princess Margaret

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret laughed Monday night through a French bedroom farce which had such racy lines the leading man appeared embarrassed.

She watched the touring troupe of the Comedie Francaise present Paydeau's "Le Dindon" — The Turkey Cock — in French. The play is a 19th Century comedy with recurring triangle situations, a cast of seducers and flirt, and beds as the main stage prop.

Stage seducer Jean Mayer was embarrassed both for the naughty French lines and the fact that the girl he wooed in the play was English and named Maggy.

Denise Noel, who played the part of Maggy, said the princess seemed to enjoy it immensely.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, Lady Churchill, Lady Eden, and a host of other names of British society were in the audience. So was the lord chamberlain, Lord Scarborough, whose job it is to censor all performances in the British theater.

Mayor Confesses; Razor Attack Fake

GREENSBURG, Ind. (UPI) — Authorities today considered perjury charges against Mayor Sheldon Smith who admitted he faked a razor attack to cover his appropriation of $7,178 in city funds.

Decatur County Prosecutor Richard Garvey said Smith, 41, confessed Monday night after taking a lie detector test in Indianapolis state police headquarters.

Smith told police he took the money to cover a loss he sustained when an unidentified man widdled him out of $6,000 in a "pigeon drop" confidence game.

The mayor originally claimed three men lured him to his private office, where he also operates an accounting service, Feb. 21 and attacked his with razor blades. He said he fainted and the assailants looted his office of $5,000 in city court fines and $2,178 in cash bonds.

One of Smith's duties as mayor is to serve as city judge, handling mostly traffic cases. He also is chairman of the County Republican Committee.

Smith, married and the father of three children, has been mayor in this community of 1,600 for nine years.

U. S. May Agree To European Zone If Issues Settled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States was reported willing today to discuss with Russia some sort of demilitarized zone in Central Europe if it is tied in with a general settlement of the problems of a divided Germany.

American officials in making the report acknowledged that this approach differs with the reported British view.

The British believe creation of such a zone separating Communist and Western forces would in itself, be worthwhile in easing European tensions—even if it were not related to specific progress on the German problem.

Reconciling the divergent British-American views on "disengagement" is seen here as one of the major tasks facing President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in their week-end conferences.

Eisenhower and Macmillan appear to have reached general agreement—although for different reasons—on the need to hold a summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and French President Charles de Gaulle.

Macmillan is convinced, his aides report, that agreements with Russia to settle some of Europe's problems can be achieved only by direct talks with Khrushchev himself.

Eisenhower still hopes for some "southwest results" at a prior foreign ministers' meeting in mid-May in Geneva.

Roy Reiter, Longwood land developer, will supply a mummy for Rollins College President Hugh F. McKean and Mrs. McKean, and a team and wagon for the Fiesta King and Queen candidates.

The parade will end in the Sand spur Bowl, where the celebration will be held.

Defense Boss Says Reds Will 'Probe'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy warned today that the free world must be prepared to resist "one probing action after another" by Communist Russia or China.

In testimony before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, McElroy strongly supported the Eisenhower administration's request for authority to spend $3,930,000,000 on foreign aid in the 12 months beginning July 1.

He said: "If the free world can not stand up firmly to these probes when they are initiated, we may well be forced with the major conflict as the Communists, pressing ahead with their war-by-threat policy, make it imperative that at some point we meet the issue squarely."

McElroy said it would be "short sighted indeed" if this country spent more than 40 billion dollars for its own armed forces but declined to spend "the much smaller sums needed to maintain and modernize the forces of our allies which are essential to our whole defense concept."

Reedy To Assume Command At Jax

Captain James Robert Reedy will assume command of the Jacksonville Naval Air Station next July, succeeding Capt. Elliot W. Parish Jr., who is retiring after 30 years service.

The Lexington has just returned to San Diego from a trip to the Far East and will leave again April 23. During the next tour, Capt. Reedy will be relieved to take over his duties at Jacksonville.

During his Far East command, Mrs. Reedy and their five children have remained in Sanford at Silver Lake. Capt. Reedy will arrive here Tuesday for two days leave prior to the next Far East tour.

Players Await Sunshine To Start Training Here

What do baseball players do on a day when the weatherman refuses to cooperate?

Read, swap tall tales, sleep, talk about the weather and their chances for a pennant in 1959.

Heavy rains since Sunday have made baseball spring training an "outdoor sport" for the minor league teams of the San Francisco Giants training in Sanford.

Club officials have been busy going over rosters, breaking out new gloves (many of which arrived today and other equipment, and planning the training schedule when the sun does poke through a heavy overcast.

Yesterday, Corpus Christi was forced to pass up its first exhibition game with the Mobile Bears of the Southern Association. Today, three other teams were scheduled to join Corpus Christi and Phoenix players at the Giants dormitories on McEllenville.

Stated for arrival today were Springfield, Fresno and Hastings. Already here, in addition to players on Phoenix and Corpus Christi rosters, were the Giants' chief scouts, team managers and other club officials.

"Just waiting" isn't easy, especially when officials are cooped up with a bunch of eager youngsters. With one eye on the sky, officials were cautious about the start of training.

However, drills will start as soon as possible. After all, there are exhibition games to be played, players to be assigned and pennants to be won, the weatherman notwithstanding.

Nasser Says Reds Seek Arab World

CAIRO (UPI) — The Middle East News Agency in a dispatch today to have been approved by President Gamal A. Nasser himself, charged today that Russia wants to "subject the entire Arab area to communism."

The dispatch marked the first direct attack on Russia in the United Arab Republic's conflict with communism in the Mideast. Nasser made no mention of Moscow in his speeches last week as saluting the Red-supported regime in Iraq.

Informed sources said however, that Nasser personally authorized today's dispatch saying that Premier Nikita Khrushchev "agitated the battle between Arab nationalism and the new Communist imperialism."

Cairo newspapers carried on the campaign today with a stream of reports about alleged atrocities in Iraq.

One report said 24 Iraqi students were killed in a clash with the Communists Friday, while others had been sentenced to death by kangaroo courts set up by the Red-run students' union. At least one of the doomed was said to have been executed on the spot.

Admiral Says Subs Eye U. S. Defense

HONOLULU (UPI)—Rear Adm. Benjamin E. Moore revealed today that Russian submarines and surface ships have been "snooping" along the Navy's Pacific barrier between Midway and the Aleutians.

Moore commands the 1,500-mile electronics fence whose ships and radar planes extend the DEW (distant early warning) system to the mid-Pacific.

The admiral said Navy radar constellations and destroyer pickets have made numerous contacts with Soviet naval units all along the Pacific barrier area.

"Their surface ships," the admiral said, "have patrolled the length of our Pacific barrier, and we've spotted Red submarines snooping the area."

The Barbers Point based admiral said because of security reasons, it was impossible to specify the times, locations or further identify the Soviet ships.

A spokesman for the 4,000-man naval command said continuous round the clock sea and air patrols are now being run the entire length of the north Pacific where Japan sent its undetected task force to attack Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. High altitude winds of more than 150 miles an hour bring northwestern American and Canadian cities within four hours jet flying time of Russian airfields that dot the Kamchatka Peninsula. Heavy overcasts along the route have made this a built-in avenue to the Americas for any sneak attack launched by Russia.

Admiral Moore told UPI he was certain the Russians were aware that the barrier planes and ships had now reached a fully operational stage.

Two Drivers Freed From Jail On Bond Following Mishaps

Two men who caused separate accidents last night and early today were released from the city jail this morning after posting bonds of $100 each.

Clifton Marvin Wells, 31, was charged with driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident after his car struck a parked vehicle on Geneva Ave. last night.

Police said Wells fled from the scene in his car, which was found abandoned in the bushes shortly after, at 24th St. and Adams Ave. Combined damages were estimated at $600. Wells listed his residence at 2411 Adams Court.

T. A. Green, 34, was taken to the dispensary at N. S. Sanford with a deep laceration of the face when the car in which he was riding struck another on Park Ave. early today.

Driver of the car was William Henry Eudy, also of VAILT. Eudy was charged with driving while intoxicated and failure to have his vehicle under control. The parked car was owned by Joseph Daffron, 1505 Park Ave. Combined damages were estimated at $50.

Two Duel To Death In Hollywood Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two men killed each other today after a room-to-room gun duel in a Hollywood home.

The men duelled over Mrs. Dorothy Chester, 38, who recently separated from her husband, Simon Chester.

Killed was ex-conservative Barney Silva, 25-year-old restaurant chain co-owner, and jazz musician Jack Sorin, 47. Sorin was Mrs. Chester's cousin.

Police said Sorin, who lived with Simon Chester, went to the residence shortly after 2 a. m. and found Silva there. He began to argue with Mrs. Chester and began to beat Mrs. Chester on the head and shoulders.

Silva then drew a .38 revolver and fired at Sorin. The two men exchanged fire as they moved through the house.

Mrs. Chester ran from the house, telephoned her husband and asked him to call police.

When police arrived they found Silva dead and Sorin dying.

Commission Says County Home Issue To Be Settled

The County Commission yesterday protested charges of the Longwood Citizens' League about conditions at the Seminole County Home.

In a release to the press last week, a spokesman said reports had been received that funds from the home's budget had been diverted to other sources.

The statement was relayed by Commission Clerk O. P. Herndon yesterday. He said $1,800 was added to the fund last year when the home ran short of money.

"This board has always taken care of the requests from the home. The state auditor gave us a clean bill of health on the county home. I am sure they will provide the proper money for anything within reason."

In answer to statements that an audit would be demanded, Herndon added, "The state added our books through Sept. 30 last year and gave the county a clean bill of health."

John Krider said, "We are not covering up anything at the county home. This is the last place for people whose families have disowned them, or who have no living relatives. It shouldn't be considered a high class nursing home. We have never refused them food or anything that the management needed money for. "We have just employed an engineering firm to survey all the public buildings. Now isn't the time to put new furniture in an old building, if we may tear it down. Certainly, there are no fruits on the windows and the oil cloth is cracked, but we are concerned with food, medical care and attention."

Present at the meeting were Grady Scott, superintendent of the home, Mrs. Abbie Boyd, County Health Dept. Director, and her assistant, Mrs. Irene Vernon.

Scott told the board that he could manage "pretty well" on the budget of $22,500 a year. He told Commissioners that the patients seemed happy and had gained weight since he came to the home last October.

"We definitely have a problem," Krider said. "The building is old and the condition has accumulated over the years. No one has paid too much attention to it."

Commissioners said they had visited the home and found the food good and the residents "well pleased."

Mrs. Boyd told the Board that up until three years ago her department had made weekly trips to the home until told that "we weren't needed anymore, as there were too many houses."

"It is the Commission's responsibilities to take care of the citizens in the county home. We brought conditions at the home up several times, but we just talked about it. Nothing was done. Repairs were made in accordance with the State Board of Health's recommendations, however," Mrs. Boyd said. She added that citizens should go to Commissioners before protesting in the press.

The Board cited improvements made by Scott since his installation as superintendent. Last week, alarm bells were installed in the halls in case of fire. A telephone in the infirmary was considered another safety factor.

Krider emphasized that the building would be considered under the present survey by James Gamble Rogers. Mrs. Boyd was authorized to conduct a monthly inspection of the home, and Scott was told to get the leaking roof in the infirmary fixed.

Krider concluded the session by saying, "If we are going to remodel the home, it will be refurbishing. These rubble rousers don't know what they are talking about."
