WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—A government official said today the public may have to do something about farmers who are obdurate or careless about protecting their land against damaging erosion.

H. H. Bennett, chief of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, made this observation in a report which said soil erosion has become a great problem that some people favor public control in use and management of productive land.

Bennett added, however, that American as a whole still feel that soil conservation should be a cooperative effort among farmers and their government.

"It is generally believed," he said, "that this can be obtained without resort to any form of regulation, at least for the present."

Bennett said, on the other hand, it must be conceded different circumstances might call for public action of some kind, particularly where there is evidence of persistent or willful carelessness.

"Productive land belongs to the farmer for only a lifetime at the most, while the government's interest in the continuing produc-

Minister To Face Misconduct Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12. (AP)—Dr. J. Whitcomb Broughter, Jr., 46, pastor of the Glendale, Calif., First Baptist Church, faces charges of misconduct with women members of his congregation.

The complaint was filed yesterday by Mrs. Stacie Williams and Fletcher Edgar Maxwell, who said they were some 50 members of the church.

The suit alleged that Mr. Williams and Maxwell said to come to the attention of the church membership evidence of "fornication" and "immoral conduct" had been observed by the pastor, but that Dr. Broughter removed deacons who favored presenting the charges.

The action continued further that Dr. Broughter, who has been pastor of the church for 21 years, "knows and is in a position to know" of the conduct of the pastor, but that Dr. Broughter removed deacons who favored presenting the charges.

Mrs. Williams and Maxwell said of the court to direct Chairman R. L. Hand of the board of deacons to call a church hearing and to make a full investigation of the charges, and that they are to be heard in court by a jury. In addition to Dr. Broughter, the suit is directed against other church members, including 20 deacons and 10 members and ten trustees.

Activity of the land is a serious matter, Bennett reasoned.

Hal Boyle Says Children Are Best Writers In World

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the best writing today is done by children.

The late Arthur Hays Sulzberger was once saying that if you put the best of the world's writers in a room with the best of the world's children, the children would win.

It is probably true. For they are so much more likely to be put down by the older writers. They are not so much put down as they are put down. They can better cope with the view of life by spinning through the bars of their own imagination.

It is not that they are so much better than the older writers, but that they are so much more natural. They are not so much put down as they are put down. They are not so much put down as they are put down. They are not so much put down as they are put down.

When children see natural writers, they are not so much put down as they are put down. They are not so much put down as they are put down. They are not so much put down as they are put down.

When children see natural writers, they are not so much put down as they are put down. They are not so much put down as they are put down. They are not so much put down as they are put down.

HOME DEAL CHICAGO (AP) — Two painters

brothers came to repaint a home in suburban Deerfield. The older brother told the lady of the house the decorative railing on the roof of the sunporch should be torn down.

"One strong wind," he said, "and poison!"

The railing was removed. The next day the younger brother came to the woman, pointed to the discarded railing and said: "May I have it? I'd like to put it on my house."

He did, too.

Reds Reveal Terms To End China's War

Demands Call For 8 Point Program Amounting To Sur- render Of Nationals

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14—(AP)—The Chinese Communists tonight announced terms on which they are willing to end the civil war—an eight-point program amounting to outright surrender of the Chiang Kai-Shek government.

Simultaneously they announced Communist troops had broken into Tientsin in an all-out assault on that great northern city.

The peace terms were contained in a long statement by Mao Tse Tung, Communist chairman, broadcast in both Chinese and English by Communist radio.

Mao rejected Chiang Kai-Shek's New Year's peace proposal as "sheer hypocrisy." His own terms included abolition of treaties with the United States, and he lashed out at length against American support of the Chiang government.

Mao, accusing Chiang Kai-Shek of warring against the Communists because he was lured by the glitter of American weapons, called upon the Nationalist leader to show the sincerity of his desire for peace by accepting Mao's conditions.

Mao said China was depending on United States support against the peoples' will. He added that Red soldiers will liberate them.

Robert Brown Tells Lions Of County Boy Scouts Needs

Need of assistant scout masters and of sponsorship of new scout troops by civic organizations, was today stressed in a talk to Lions at the Tourist Center by Robert Brown, chairman of the executive committee of Boy Scouts in Seminole County. He was introduced by Clyde Ramsey.

Mr. Brown outlined the progress of boys entering scout work and told how they work through the various stages of scouting until they become boy scouts at 12. Ataining the rank of eagle scout means much hard work, thinking and ability, he said.

At 15 a boy may take up work in one of three branches of scouting, Sea Scouts, Air Scouts and Explorer Scouts, he declared. Sea scouting involves boat handling and life saving; air scouting provides basic information of value to those later taking up aviation and explorer scouting develops skill in building bridges and in other projects. Mr. Brown requested that the Lions sponsor a troop of scouts or girls.

Clyde Ramsey reported that six (Continued on Page Two)

Britain, Poland Sign Five Year Trade Agreement

Exchange Of Goods Amounting To $520 Millions Is Agreed

WARSAW, Jan. 14 (AP)—Poland and Britain signed today a five-year trade agreement calling for an exchange of goods worth $520,000,000.

It was the largest trade deal between countries of Eastern and Western Europe since the war. The British agreed to release all Polish assets, amounting to about $2,000,000,000, frozen during the German occupation. The Poles agreed to use these resources by paying them into a special bank of England to account toward liquidation of post-war debts to British creditors.

Members of the British Trade Mission said the accord fixed a pattern for deals with other Eastern European nations. The terms for the trade was described as a "conservative minimum."

Reginald Stacy, undersecretary of the British Board of Trade, said Britain will get mostly foodstuffs and timber from Poland and send her wool, rubber, crude oil, tires, tractors, farm tools, machinery and other capital investment goods.

Stacy said payments for British properties nationalized by Poland embraced in the Polish agreement to pay pre-war creditors. The nationalized British properties here are estimated to be worth from $100,000,000 to $140,000,000.

The British success in getting an agreement to pay for seized industries was viewed as a precedent for dealings with other Eastern European countries.

Governor Warren proposes that Florida highways be lined with white crosses to designate places where highway accidents have occurred as a warning to motorists.
Attorney General Ervin demurs and calls the suggestion a "ghoulish practice." We are afraid that some of our winter visitors might think the crosses were placed there by the Ku Klux Klan.

A friend of ours calls from Winter Park to tell us what a good guy our new city manager, Clifford McKibbin, is. In this day and time, with the price of groceries currently selling for what they are selling for, you don't talk for half an hour over long distance telephone about the virtues of another fellow unless you really mean it. Mc-Kibbin evidently has been city manager of Winter Park long enough for the folks down here to know what a good man he really is. It seems that Winter Park's loss has been Sanford's gain.

Glad to see the Country Club making some much needed improvements to its club house. The course has long been recognized as one of the best in the state, and when it is in good condition, as it is now, any golfer will find it interesting we don't care where he is from, and even the best of them will have plenty of trouble. But the club house has been the big drawback, particularly the kitchen and the ladies' locker room. This defect has at last been remedied and further improvements are being planned. The Country Club is one of Sanford's biggest tourist attractions.

The President of the United States cannot live on $75,000 a year, with an additional $40,000 a year expense, so a bill is rushed through Congress to increase his salary to $100,000 a year and his expense account to $90,000. Meanwhile, congressional tax committees pour over budget figures and study plans to cut salaries of everyone else saving over $6,000 a year by increasing the income tax.
Salaries of cabinet officials and other bureau and department officials will be increased later. If George Greley were alive today, he would not say "Go west, young man," he would say, "Go to Washington."

Florida oranges are now bring-result of the California freeze time being. Florida orange growers would be wise if they would make sure that all Florida oranges reach the northern consumers at this time are superior to, or at least as good as, California oranges. We do not want northern housewives saying, "Where will I be glad when California oranges are back on the market?" Florida oranges are better, but

National Scholarships

The theory that any young person who has the mental ability to cope with a college education should be given one at government expense, if necessary, is back of a movement sponsored by the National Education Association to provide scholarships for college-age youths.

A bill which would finance 20,000 such scholarships, each amounting to from $500 to $1000 annually, is to come before the eighty-first Congress. Its proponents believe the bill is likely to pass. It has the support of leaders of both parties and the approval of the administration.

Such a program is bound to give rise to much controversy. Educators fear every contact of politics with education. Those who favor the proposal, however, insist on safeguards against discrimination and point to the fact that administration would be at state level and carefully supervised.

One angle which has not been brought out is the personal one. The young person who finds himself a summer job and thrifty lays by his pay toward college expenses has taken a step toward independence. The youth who helps out in the college office or tutors younger students may not have so much time for extra-curricular activities, but is developing self reliance and power. Such youngsters might with profit be given enough help to make their paths smoother. A student needs free time enough to get the full benefit of reading and discussion which contribute so much to the college experience. A mere hurried passing of courses between jobs is not a college education.
Whether such good students would really profit by complete government support is another question.

No Worries

A former British coal mine owner, interviewed by a newspaper man, described the change in his status from owner to manager in U. S. News and World Report.

He admits some advantages in the present system. He is paid a salary for his work, and is also gradually collecting payments on government bonds given him for his mine.
He has charge of immediate problems of production and hiring, but general policy is taken care of in London. Good management is rewarded by a bigger job and more money, and poor management leads to loss of the position.

Some former owners adapt themselves to the new order, while others rebel at rod tape and bureaucratic inefficiency and cannot make a go of it.

Some of the losses under a Socialistic regime are in-tangible. On the surface, a life without worries seems attractive, especially to those who lack initiative. Actually such a system may foster indolence and sap self-reliance.
As the rural philosopher had it, "A few fleas is good for a dog!"

Doing It First

Russian claims to have been the first to make a discovery or invention have become so commonplace that Americans are only amused by the recent announcement from Moscow that the first airplane was flown by a Russian 21 years before the Wright brothers made their flight at Kitty Hawk. The Russians, in attempting to build up their own historical background, must have overlooked a point which puts reverse English on the claims, in the eyes of Western onlookers.

If the Russians made all these discoveries so long before the rest of the world, isn't it too bad that they weren't able to do anything with them?

As in the past, no classes will be

Mr. Barr praised the work of the and others.

he retorted. "How about Satchel mighty fast ball, and looked mighty good during the short time I saw him work," he declared.

"It was a great series, and I am mighty proud I was selected

Chandler as a memento of the series.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Our column yesterday made the point that Russia isn't ready for war now, but would make war whenever she was ready and thought it would further her aims.
We added that what the Democrats have to do is pursue their present strategy of intensive preparedness—and hold the line.

That brought me a telephone call in New York from Sigrid Arne, one of the star members of the AP Washington staff. She gave me a kindly nod on my thesis and she suggested this corollary:
"We aren't a war-making crowd, but the Russians are. We are in a time-race. We've got to get the drop on them now. And we must keep that advantage—for maybe a hundred years."

That's a good line from one of the best observers and reporters I know. Sigrid also has a tidy, analytical mind that she often applies to foreign affairs—a subject on which she is well informed.
She has, by the way, helped report numerous big international conferences. So let's pursue her general line of thought:

As I pointed out yesterday, the western strength is too great now for Russia to tackle. Both sides in the "cold" conflict are building strength as speedily as is feasible.
The democracies are building defensively—the Russians defensively.
Each side recognizes that it must work fast in order to keep pace with the other. This is one of the great moments of history.

Since the Moscovites are bent on conquest by aggression, it is up to the Western Powers to maintain the peace. How can that be done? Only by holding a solid balance of power. Russia mustn't be allowed to outstrip the west in building up strength.

The West must maintain the advantage for maybe a century grew out of the role Britain played from about 1815 to the outbreak of world war I in 1914—a hundred years. During those ten decades England's huge navy made her mistress of the seven seas.

None dared challenge that might. The result was that general peace was maintained. There were isolated wars, to be sure, but no global upheaval such as has afflicted us twice in the past generation.

Those world wars have sapped the strength of many powers, and Britain has suffered greatly.
America has become the paramount power, and Uncle Sam is putting his sturdy shoulders to the task of preventing another global upheaval and of helping weak nations preserve their independence.

Why did Britain weaken? Well, many things have contributed to her difficulties, but perhaps one of the most important was playing Chiang heads the Red list of "war criminals," followed by Madame Chiang, who is now in the United States.

2. Cancellation of the constitution.

3. Calendar years to be counted from Anno Domini and not from the Republic of China's founding.

4. Elimination of "reactionaries" from the government and army.

5. Confiscation of "bureaucratic" capital.

6. Land reforms. "treacherous"

7. Formation of a state council to include all Chinese elements, except reactionaries.

Meanwhile, several big buildings in downtown Tientsin were reported hit by artillery shells in a stepped up shelling of the besieged city.

(The Communist radio in a broadcast heard by the Associated Press in San Francisco announced an all out assault to take Tientsin was started by Red troops at 10:00 A. M. Chinese time. The radio added that many troops had entered the city and were "exploiting their successes.")

(The radio said the attack followed a 24 hour cease fire order, which had not been reported previously by any other source. The Tientsin Red commander, General Lin Ya-Lou, gave National troops that period in which to lay down their arms, the radio said.)

(The broadcast said the cease fire order was given to a four man commission from the Tientsin city council. The Red commander, it continued, told the commission that the Communists did not want to destroy North China's first industrial city and guaranteed life and property to all soldiers of the government who stopped fighting.)

too much trust in the peace-mindedness of Germany's chiefs. Anyway, the democracies now look to the United States for leadership and material aid.

In short, America is maintaining the balance of power on the side of peace.

Fortunately the U. S. A. recognizes that this involves more than the power of mind over matter.
You can't enforce peace merely by thinking beautiful, peaceful thoughts. You've got to carry a gun and be prepared to use it these days. That's distasteful, but it is fact.

Maintenance of the balance of power on the side of peace is terribly costly. It's tough on the average fellow's pocketbook, but it's a mighty sight better than marching into battle.
The next world war will involve all of us actively—sons, fathers and granddads.

hang today, was given a last minute reprieve. He is Franz Weiss, 48, German army sergeant, accused of shooting a wounded G. I. at Stattmatten, France.

The Army said Weiss's case will be reviewed by Clay.

Today's hangings raised to 97 the number of war criminals executed at Landsberg since Oct. 15.
The executions, which were held eight consecutive Fridays, were stopped Dec. 3, and not resumed until today.

Those executed today were:
Hans Engendhammer, 48, German railway official, accused of helping a crowd fatally beat an American flier who landed near Munich.

Josef Ehlen, 35, and August Viehl, 40, Nenterhausen labor camp officials, accused of participating in the death of four parachuted U. S. airmen.

Hans Schneider, 30, medical sergeant accused of shooting a wounded American soldier at Stattmatten, France.

Eugen Ziehlmer, 48, Flossenburg concentration camp "trustee" charged with beating one inmate with a sledge hammer and killing others by forcing a water hose into their mouths.

Hans Merbach, 38, SS lieutenant, who shot inmates on a death march from Buchenwald to Dachau concentration camp. Some 5,000 began the trip and only 1,100 arrived.

The Simpson Commission on a visit to Europe last summer recommended that the sentences of all except Merbach be commuted to life.

In view of the joint ownership of the manufacturing and operating ends of the business, the Justice Department said there is "an absence of effective competition" which has resulted in higher prices paid for telephone equipment."

The petition asserted that if and when Western Electric is broken down into three new companies, the Bell System should be required to buy telephone equipment "only under competitive bidding."

Clark asserted in a statement:
"The chief purpose of this action is to restore competition in the manufacture and sale of telephone equipment, now produced and sold exclusively by Western Electric at non-competitive prices.

"This, in turn, will lower the costs of such equipment and create up. Thus far no Europeans have been involved.

Bands of natives, each hundreds strong, surged through the center of the city, chanting war songs.
Several thousand burst into an Indian area of the city, bent on sacking and violence. They stoned shops and beat up the Indian owners.

The fighting began last night after an Indian was reported to have assaulted a young negro boy. Angry natives attacked Indian groups, shops and conveyances. More than 60 were injured in last night's fighting.

There were no figures available on the casualties today.

(Durban, principal city of South Africa's main ports, had a European population of 124,702 in the 1946 census. Latest figures on the native population are not available, but it outnumbers the European in most of South Africa by more than two to one. The Indians are a minority group in South Africa, and the government of India has charged in the United Nations that they are subjects of harsh discrimination.)

Some 200 cases of looting of Indian shops were reported. Owners and assistants huddled in the rear rooms of their premises while mobs of natives took what they pleased from the stores.

About 200 natives threatened a European officer who had detained a native for assaulting an Indian, and he had to give the native up.

peace would be achieved.

However, the Jews once more blamed the British for dampening the prospects of a lasting peace in the Holy Land by moves in Egypt and Trans-Jordan, both British allies.

The British liberal weekly, Economist, backed up the Jewish view by commending Britain lately seemed to be inviting her Arab allies "to summon armed forces to their side" on the borders of Palestine. The weekly said American Zionists have "strong grounds" to complain Britain is trying to crush Israel.

Officials in Washington said the United States and Britain seemed to have reached a better understanding on Palestine. The comment followed a special call on President Truman by the British ambassador. Truman said American policy is aimed at creating peace and stability in the Middle East. The basic difference is that the United States for months has supported Israel and the British are bound by treaty to Arab states fighting the Jewish state.

He added that he will try to do

Connally said Acheson discussed "intimate and delicate" questions of policy.

that the greater part of his secret testimony dealt with relations with Russia.

Lie On Floor To Get A Beauty Lift

By BETTY CLARKE
Lie on the floor to get a beauty lift!

In Hollywood the latest glamour craze is the "beauty angle." This charm step started in the East at a Fifth Avenue salon years ago, but movie queens now are devotees of the routine—and they work at it, unlike plain Jane who all too readily gives up any glamour program that involves a little work.

Take a leaf from starlet Jacqueline White's beauty notebook. She says this charm builder takes only a few minutes before bedtime and results are worth it. Here's what she does:

She removes makeup thoroughly with several applications of cold cream, applies a thin layer of facial mask, soaks two cotton balls or squares in which have, and is all set for her beauty angle.

This means lying on the floor with a hard pillow or two under your middle section, head and shoulders on the floor and feet up against the seat of your bed or couch, which hasel pads on the feet.

Five to fifteen minutes of this will promote better circulation and you will feel wonderfully relaxed.

Pollo Expenditures

(Continued From Page One) paid, and unpaid bills amount to $230. Bills for the care of another child in the Orange General Hospital have not yet been received, it was ascertained on New Year's Day. In addition, braces for the two former patients have been purchased. The Harry-Anna patient will probably have to remain there two more years at a cost in excess of $2,500. Costs for the other boy may easily amount to $2,500 Dr. Rupprecht declared. "Whether or not we will be able to take care of these children and restore them to health and useful life depends on the generosity of every person in Seminole County," he asserted.

Lions Meeting

(Continued From Page One) pair of glasses had recently been given to underprivileged children by the club. Dr. Frank Quillman commented that this has resulted in much improvement in school grades, and given the children a "new lease on life." E. A. Ball and Claude Newman of Arcadia, N. Y. and Donat Fallo of Montreal, were welcomed as guests.

Court Awards Judgment To Bund Leader

Tribunal's Decision Gives Klapprott New Hearing On Citizenship Ruling

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—On grounds there had not been a fair trial, the Supreme Court today set aside a lower court judgment cancelling the American citizenship of August Klapprott, one-time president of the German-American Bund.

Justice Black wrote the majority opinion in the 5-4 decision. It was sharply critical of the handling of Klapprott's case, saying: "It is clear that for four and one-half years this petitioner was held on charges that the government was unable to sustain. No other conclusion can be drawn except that this long imprisonment was wrongful."

Justice Reed, dissenting, declared that any suggestion that Klapprott's trial "has been carried on in a way contrary to concepts of justice as understood in the United States and in a manner incompatible with the pattern of American justice falls far in view of the simple facts."

The effect of the high tribunal's decision is to give Klapprott a new hearing on the issue of whether his citizenship should be taken from him.
