The man who would be governor

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE - He says that one of the grandest things that ever happened to him was being selected to be the batboy for the Boston Red Sox at their 1968 spring training camp in Winter Haven.

Thirty years later, the kid who wanted to be like Carl Yastrzemski, wants to be governor of Florida.

"The more I get into this, the more I feel it's the right thing to do," Rick Dantzier said on a visit to Sanford.

Dantzier, 42, relinquished his Florida Senate seat for a chance to succeed Lawton Chiles as governor. He needs

Old murder, new challenge

SEMINOLE - The State Attorney's Office continues to protest a Seminole County woman's request for a full pardon in the murder of her husband. If the governor pardons her, she can practice law in Florida.

"She is a master manipulator," said Brevard-Seminole State Attorney Norm Wolfinger. "I will continue to do what I can to persuade the board not to do an injustice to Perre and the citizens," said Wolfinger.

A Seminole County jury was also not convinced by Kimberly Soubielle's claim that she had been abused by her husband, Perre, and had acted in self defense when she killed him in 1987. Soubielle (21 at the time) shot her husband (25) seven times (four times in the back) with a six shot .357-caliber Magnum.

board, consisting of Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet, reviewed Soubielle's case. Soubielle became the first woman in Florida released from prison based on the Battered Woman Syndrome. She had served six years of her 15 year sentence.

Now the Soubielle case is back before the same board, considering this time Soubielle's request for a pardon. A pardon would restore Soubielle's civil rights which include the right to vote, to serve on a jury and to bear arms.

Soubielle has lived a model life since her release from prison. She went on to get a college education. After graduating from Florida State University Law School in the near future, Soubielle hopes to be

Residents sue to change policy in public housing

By Lacy Lear

SANFORD - Her 33 years working in the celery fields, back aching, callused hands cramping, never allowed Margaret Knight to move away from a lifetime in public housing.

But she never felt she wasn't free...until the director of Sanford's Housing Authority told her she wasn't. Told her about a policy that residents were not free to entertain unauthorized guests on housing authority property.

"I didn't think that was right. As long as I paid my rent and didn't commit crimes, I thought I had rights. I thought something had to be done," Knight said.

At 53, Knight is permanently disabled with arthritis and diabetes. She lives with her daughter, Twinkle, and her baby granddaughter, Teyonika Louis, 3, in an apartment at Lake Monroe Terrace. She has painstakingly decorated her home in red, black and gold; a dramatic flower arrangement shades a Spanish senorita doll perched on a chrome and glass table. Red lace drapes over living room windows. Toys are neatly stacked in one corner.

Knight sits up straight on her long black couch, hands clasped in her lap. Her smooth, unlined face belies her age and years in the sun.

She had dreams as a young woman in the fields, packing celery, picking peas, sorting bell peppers from 4 a.m. till 6 p.m. Her husband, Charlie B. worked at Stein's Machine Shop in Sanford. Twinkle was 3, with two older brothers, 5 and 6, to protect her. The couple hoped to buy a home, work hard and get out of public housing.

"My husband came home one day, and just didn't feel good. It was hot, real hot. He took a cold bath, but he had a heat-stroke. He died." Charlie B. was 32.

Widowed at 27, Knight stayed in public housing, uneventfully raising her three children and

Winter Springs to balance nature with development in Town Center

By Tony Tizio
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER SPRINGS - A packed house recently attended the third out of 10 public meetings to discuss the proposed Town Center project, a downtown rejuvenation effort.

Winter Springs Mayor Paul Partyka appearing by way of video tape while in Germany, said: "This is the first plan, the first concept, the rest is up to you. Let's go out and build the best Town Center we can."

Presiding over the meeting was Vice Mayor Cindy Gennell.

Also present was Seminole County Commission Chairman Randy Morris who said, "I'm going to be brief, because the star is the Town Center. I salute your Winter Springs Commission and your staff, but most of all I salute you."

The planners and consultants include: Dover, Kohl & Partners, Gibbs Manning Group and Michael's Design Associates. They were gathered together for a 10-day period to gather information such as financial and geographical data for the Town Center.

Consultant Charlie Gibbs discussed how his firm was doing a market analysis of what will be support stores in the project. Researchers asked various groups of residents, shoppers and store owners questions such as income and number of children. The study told them that the area was a suitable, growing economy.

The potential types of businesses include a pharmacy, full service restaurant, food specialty such as a bagel or ice cream shop, candy store, a cards and gifts store, a personal service shop like a hair salon or copy shop plus a store front clothing store, etc.

Mom, son rebuild lives after loss from deadly tornadoes

LAKE MARY - With a whole lot of help from her family, friends and kind individuals she is just meeting, Amy LeFila is getting a new start in life.

LeFila and her two-year-old son, James, survived the recent tornado but lost their trailer home, the boy's pony and rabbit and everything else they owned.

That James escaped without serious injury is what really matters, LeFila says. "He's the reason - I know it's not me," she said. "I believe God has something special planned for James. He kept me alive to see it."

Amy LeFila, a 33-year-old single mom, shielded James when the horrible twister struck their home on Myrtle Ave. They were swept out the back of the trailer which was reduced to rubble. Dazed, LeFila said when she awoke she Will county commissioners let adult clubs stay put?

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE - At 10:00 Tuesday the door was open for the Seminole County Schools Board to be expected to be called for a hearing that has about the public hearing.

A group of religious, operation radio operators and other persons, along with a larger group of individuals in Park Casselberry residents.

The group gathered with a 35 ft. limit to the radio tower. The Fern Park Casselberry area is also the site of the adult strip clubs and sexually oriented businesses from their area.

The group also discussed the possibility of the same and development code to be decided on by the board of Seminole County Commissioners.

It could be a good idea, says Commissioner Wil

"It would be ludicrous even thinking about moving these businesses to Sanford"
Commissioner Daryl McLain

Neither the radio operators nor residents of Fern Park Casselberry may be pleased with the result of the hearing.

Several of the commissioners don't think it is fair to neighbors if the fellow next door erects a 60 ft. radio tower. More than likely they will vote for a 35 ft. limit.

The commissioners also seem to be ready to approve grandfathering the existing adult entertainment establishments and sexually oriented businesses in the Fern Park area.

Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide said Friday that the board was going to approve the grandfathering by a 3-2 count. "I don't see any change in direction," he said. Van Der Weide and Grant Maloy are both opposed to the grandfathering.

Maloy said he had talked to residents who wanted to know why there was no limit to the grandfathering ordinance. "Under ordinary conditions, a business would lose the grandfathering exemption when it changed owners," Maloy said. "These strip joints apparently will be able to go on forever."

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale, who will attend Tuesday's hearing, said he will re-emphasize to the city commissioners that the city would not pass an interlocal agreement with the county unless the Fern Park clubs were grandfathered.

Dale told the county commissioners that he was not threatening the county. "We're trying to cooperate and be a partner," he said. If the Fern Park clubs were not grandfathered, they could move in 1990 to sites in Sanford.

"It would be ludicrous even thinking about moving these businesses to Sanford," said Commissioner Daryl McLain. "I'm opposed to this, and I encourage people in Sanford to be at this hearing Tuesday night."

Another concern for the county are the legal fees that surely will arise if the clubs are not grandfathered.

The county already is in court action against two new clubs that opened while it was strengthening its adult entertainment code. Sassy Merlot's won the right to stay open, VIP Gold lost as two circuit judges delivered opposite decisions.

"We're right in limbo," Van Der Weide said.

I-4 bridge construction still years away

State revises schedule and includes design work money

By Nick Pfeiffauf
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - The city's Director of Planning and Development, Jay Marder, calls it "good news." Motorists who fear driving over the St. Johns River bridge on Interstate 4 may say, "It's about time!" Unfortunately, it's still years away.

Marder has reported that the Florida Department of Transportation has revised the tentative work program to include $2 million in fiscal year 1989/2000 for preliminary design activities, including survey and geotechnical work for the I-4 St. Johns River bridge.

The money however won't pay for the work expected to be planned Metropolitan Orlando, the transportation partnership which has been pushing for improvements on the bridge. has estimated it would take possibly $12 million. Fund-seeking is already under way toward reaching the higher amount.

Originally, when the FDOT five year work program was announced, there was no money allocated toward making improvements in the bridge, much less working on the design for improvements.

In order to promote improvements on the bridge, Volusia County's Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) joined with the Orlando Urban League in creating an alliance.

Harold W. Barley, executive director of Metropolitan Orlando says the reason for the change of heart by FDOT is apparently the public sentiment expressed during alliance conducted workshops on the matter in Orlando as well as Daytona Beach. He says they apparently now understand the importance of accelerating this project and they support the cooperative planning efforts exemplified by the Alliance.

One of the reasons people have demanded work on the bridge is the ever increasing number of vehicular accidents, interstate traffic speeding along at the recommended speed limit, suddenly finds the bridge with extremely narrow and dangerous sides. Some vehicles slow down causing others to rear end them, while others veer away from the sidewalk only to strike another vehicle or go out of control.

While the initial planning is now expected to be financed in the 99/00 fiscal year, there was no indication regarding how many years it may be before actual widening work can get under way.

Lake Mary explores downtown site for police station

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

LAKE MARY - As the city discusses the building of a new public safety complex near Interstate 4, one city commissioner would like to see the police department relocate to a downtown site.

"I'd like us to really fully explore the downtown option," Commissioner Gary Brender said Thursday at a work session that dealt with the public safety building. Brender said he thought it would be a "kick start" for downtown development.

Lake Mary has been considering a 6-1/2 acre parcel on property Siemens Telecommunications wants to develop. Siemens would trade the property to the city for impact fee credits for the Development of Regional Impact (DRI) the company hopes the city will approve.

The new public safety building would replace the current home of the fire and police departments on Rinehart Road. Voters approved a $1.7 million bond issue that would pay for the project.

The city has been looking for a site for several months. It came up on the Siemens site last fall. Siemens original offered a choice of two parcels; the commissioners decided on the southern parcel adjacent to Primavera.

Orlando architect T. Gray Frazier advised the city that building one building for both departments would be the most economical.

Police Chief Rick Beary said Friday that, while he projects most of the calls for services from the police department will be in the business district along the I-4 corridor, he supports the idea of a downtown police station.

"It's one of the proposals I made three years ago," Beary said. "It came full circle."

Beary agreed with Brender's comment that it would be a nice addition to city hall and Brender felt it was a wise move on the city's part since it would have eventually had to invest in infrastructure and retention when downtown development starts.

The commission now has two options, continue with the proposed public safety complex on the 6-1/2 acre site in the Siemens' DRI or split the police and fire, using the 2-acre parcel in the Primavera DRI for the fire station, and look for downtown property for the police department. In either case, Mehl suggests the purchase of the property for a satellite fire station.

Frazier, who presented a preliminary site plan to the commission at the work session, was directed by the commission to proceed with an environmental study, soil boring and survey of the Siemens' site. The study will cost between $5,000 and $6,000, but Mayor David Meador said it was necessary to proceed should the commission eventually decide to build on the proposed site.

Frazier should present the results of the study at a later work session. In the meantime, City Manager John Litton will have staff study the price of the second option, presenting the commission with a total package cost for splitting the departments.

What does Oviedo taste like?

By David Frazier
HERALD STAFF WRITER

OVIEDO - Eating is an enjoyment everybody shares, and there are 20 reasons why, at the annual Taste of Oviedo. Twenty premiere local and area restaurants will sample their entrees on May 2. The event, now in its fourth year - keeps growing like the city it is in.

"Taste of Oviedo is the concept of one of our longtime, loyal members," said Rich Sloane, executive director of the Greater Oviedo Chamber of Commerce. Sloane said that the idea behind the event was to showcase the city and the growth that envelops it.

The event usually takes place on Alexandria Boulevard off of Alafaya Trail and, for now, has no plans of leaving that spot. It has grown from 12,000 visitors in its first year to 40,000 last year. "We knew it was getting bigger when, in the second year, the Church Street plane flew overhead," said Sloane.

The Taste has many exhibits and attractions in addition to the food sampling. The Classic Car Exhibition will make a return visit again showing off vehicles from collectors and even from Church Street Station. The Citrus and Celery Cook-off is now under the sponsorship of Citizens Bank of Oviedo and will continue to be an annual event. For those who wish to participate in this year's cook-off, call the chamber at (407) 365-2500 for details.

At the main stage, visitors can be entertained by the likes of blues woman Jackie Jones.

Richard Roy (left), president of Creative Printing and Publishing in Longwood, looks on as Jim Koeveng, poster artist, points at an item in the poster he created for the Fourth Annual Taste of Oviedo.

country band American Steel and others. There will also be a fine arts show and special activities for children.

Admission is free to all and there will be parking available at the new Oviedo Marketplace plus shuttle service to and from the mall. Sloane said that past tastes have been frequented by visitors from Ocala, Sebring and Tampa, just to name a few.

The official poster for the Taste of Oviedo is now available at the chamber located at 200 West Broadway in Oviedo and also at The Artistic Hand located at 453 North Central Avenue in Oviedo. The cost is $15. The original watercolor poster was created by longtime resident Jim Koeveng. He has won numerous awards at shows including the prestigious National Watercolor Society, the Midwest and Southern Watercolor Societies, and the Florida Watercolor Society. The poster features the historic Whitney-Walcott House on Lake Charm. Built in 1886, the house will be 112 years old this year. Creative Printing and Publishing, a Longwood based company, donated the printing of the poster.

The committee for the Taste of Oviedo has no plans to radically change the format of the event. For now, members will keep it just the way it is. "We want to show folks what little old Oviedo has to offer," said Sloane.

Lake Mary man indicted for fraud

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY - A federal grand jury, in charges made public Friday, has indicted William J. McCorkle, famous for his infomercials, for fraud.

McCorkle, 31, his wife, Chantal, 29, and two associates, Brian Higgins, 38, and Sammy Smith, 49, both of Orlando, were charged with 90 counts of fraud and money laundering.

The charges stem from McCorkle's nationwide telemarketing business that promised the opportunity of a lifetime by using his foreclosure-purchasing system.

The initial information packages cost $60 and additional materials could cost up to $2,400. Records indicate McCorkle's companies were collecting $5 to $6 million a month selling the packages.

McCorkle's infomercials were noted for showing a mansion and other luxury items supposedly belonging to McCorkle. The indictment charges that these items did not belong to McCorkle and were used to lure customers.

Mark Horwitz, Chantal McCorkle's attorney, indicated the couple will surrender next week and plead not guilty.

Why did airport board do that?

We'd like to know who the engineer is that is trying to railroad Orlando Sanford Airport Director Steve Cooke out of his job.

In a decision Tuesday that was no surprise in light of the outcome of the subcommittee meeting held Feb. 12, the Airport Authority decided to terminate Cooke's contract Sept. 30 and seek qualified candidates to review. Cooke, members explained, was welcome to submit his resume.

Chairman William Miller, members Col. Charles Gibson and Ken Wright and General Counsel Steve Coover comprise the subcommittee that by consensus decided to recommend the cancellation of the contract that expires Sept. 30, 1998 but would have automatically renewed through Sept. 30, 1999 unless members took the action they did. Members claim the existing contract was inadequate.

But Mr. Cooke's performance is not. After discussion at the subcommittee meeting, another consensus was reached to research and draft a relevant contract and a third consensus that the authority should "initiate a process to review qualified candidates for the executive director position, including Mr. Cooke."

"I don't know what they don't like. They just didn't make that clear. I told them I would be interested in continuing to serve as executive director, but I believe I'm deserving of some clarity in what they believe has been wrong," Cooke told us.

We agree, because it would appear that nothing has been wrong. Cooke has presided over the best year thus far in airport operational history, 1997. This year promises to surpass last. Cooke is well-respected in the industry, among employees and by other industry leaders.

So why does this move smack of politics instead of sound business judgment? Possibly because Cooke is not political; he has not aligned himself with any political coalition in the county, he is not owing to any group, he runs his airport profitably and well. So why do we feel somebody is trying to... fix something...that isn't broken?

We just wonder who might be prodding members of the Aviation Authority to do things his or her way. Our airport should be run by a board, not by a person trying to control its members.

The airport board may wish to update the professional contract extended to an executive director, but this veiled ploy to railroad a fine director is on the wrong track.

Kudos to chamber director

My husband and I recently had the pleasure of doing volunteer work at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. We are very impressed with the chamber's new executive director Ronald Rose, who reminds us so greatly of our late friend John Krider. John was the chamber's executive director for a number of years, as many people will remember.

Walter and I enjoyed reminiscing with Mr. Rose about the good ole days at the chamber when we were active members. At that time, Walter was publisher of the Sanford Herald. We believe Mr. Rose will do a great job for the chamber members and will bring the chamber to great new heights.

In just a short time on the job, Mr. Rose has made a big difference. The chamber building looks so clean and neat inside and out. The board of directors room is especially beautiful and the office is also neat with no "clutter" on the desks. The big meeting room is as clean and neat as it could be. The building is newly painted and no one could pass it by without noticing it.

"Second Hand Rose"...Remember the song? That's what the man Sanford stupidly elected for mayor wants for our police officers to move to Building 31, which the sheriff is vacating. We don't want it! We need a location accessible to the people of Sanford.

Isn't it sweet of Eslinger to offer all the junk he doesn't want. I know how much the present Police Department has. After the June 9, 1975 fire at the old jail, we worked out of that building. They don't need a "Taj Mahal" like the building being built on 17-92. They need a decent building with modern equipment.

I see all the money and time put on parks, the baseball field on W. 24th Street, not to mention the money put on the golf course.

People of Sanford, don't you think our Police Department deserves a large enough building so officers can work without being cramped? And for goodness sake, one that is properly maintained?

I bet if the shoe was on the other foot, if the

Some thoughts on Seminole County politics

Influence peddling in Seminole County

Well, questions are being asked again regarding the influence some of our citizens may have on our politicians. This isn't new. There have always been those who seem to be more involved than appears appropriate. The important word here is "appears". I do think that there is a perception that perhaps all is not right, when in fact it may well be. My answer to all of this is to limit the number of county and city boards, and others, that one person can serve on at one time.

Certainly there are many citizens that can fill these appointments. It would be wise for the county commission to pass such a ruling in cooperation with city governments. Something on the order that one person can only serve on one county board and one city board at any one time. The problem with serving on more than one board and being involved in other county business creates, as I said before, the perception of possible undue influence upon the commission itself. This is not new in this county and in the past it has caused problems.

Roads beautification

As before, we're obviously going to hit a snag on this one. Certain roads scheduled for beautification have been more talk than action. The initial presentations are much better than the end results. Is this going to be another program where perhaps we hired more people to give less service? It certainly appears that way.

Ernie Hatton II

Ernie Hatton II is a veteran member of numerous government boards and is a civic activist in the interest of good government.

What is this going to lead to? No doubt questions need to be asked as to why we created departments that have lots of blueprints and more employees but no visible signs of actual beautification projects taking place.

We have heard about all that is going to be done, when in fact many have already been reduced in scope while the department and personnel grows. As in the past with the roads department what has been promised, in writing to citizens, is far from what is going to be received. Apparently that department still does not have it's act together.

Commissioner Adams has refused to sign off on one of these programs because it is not what was promised. The roads department won't do as agreed. So the citizens tired of meetings and broken promises are left with wasted time and effort. No more meetings just do what was promised! This is a wonderful program for the county and should certainly continue, especially with the money already invested. I would suggest that the personnel hired and those that were already employed by the county get to work before we have another uprising against our road department.

Abusive language

Are you all getting tired of the abusive language being thrown about by our politicians about one another, not only here but everywhere? It seems like a prelude to the fall of Rome. Will we destroy ourselves from within? I know that I am no longer interested in the president's PERSONAL dilemma and all others that seem to be the target of one political party or the other. The problem in Washington has gotten so far out of hand that many Republicans wish that it would go away simply because they, the wise, see the terrible repercussions all of this may have on the country.

I'm tired of the spending of tax dollars on this mess and would like to see it all come to a conclusion soon. The mentality in this country to destroy political enemies by whatever means necessary is contrary to our own survival. If we continue on this road we are going to have serious misfits in government because our best will not seek political futures or offices. In fact, we're probably well on the road to that scenario now.

Kudos to our students

A look back at some very special people

Coming up next month is the one year anniversary of "Special People". Since we now have many new readers we thought we would celebrate early and show you a little of what you may have missed by highlighting some of our best interviews.

5/11/87 - "A Special Young Man"

A great part of doing this column is the mail we get. One of our first letters was from a lady named Nancy M. Lodge. In that very moving letter, Ms. Lodge told of her courageous young son Michael. Not long after this I interviewed Ms. Lodge. She told us that Michael is a very intelligent and curious 10-year-old boy, whose feet and right leg are paralyzed from a tumor located inside his spinal cord.

This tumor was noticed more than two years ago. It was removed at that time and was found to be non-malignant. Michael wears a long leg brace on his right leg, a short leg brace on the left leg and uses crutches to walk. He uses a wheelchair for long distances. Michael is a quiet, but strong willed young man and tries not to let any of this affect his dauntless determination.

11/8/87 - "Volunteering, in Action"

Ms. Jean Hughes is a friendly 69-year-old widowed mother of three, whose courage and convictions are an inspiration to us all. Suffering from a stroke in 1985 has left her left hand and leg paralyzed. It has taken extensive physical therapy to get her where she is today. Her recovery has amazed many people. She does require a nurse at night because of her inability to move when her leg brace is off. This amazing lady has endured all this and it has not hampered her love of life or compassion for others. Ms. Hughes manages to volunteer each week for the "Seminole Reads" program.

12/21/87 - "Eddie Rose"

We have said it many times, there are special people all around us. They may not be what you would call disabled, but they have overcome health and life difficulties and have gone on to make their world a better place. One of these people is Mr. Eddie Rose, the City of Altamonte Springs commissioner/vice mayor and local speaker.

A tireless public servant, Eddie doesn't let anything slow him down. Not even when he was diagnosed with cancer seven years ago. During that time Eddie was given six weeks to two months to live, but like everything else, Eddie beat the cancer. Four years ago he had quadruple by-pass surgery.

A friendly man, Eddie always greets people with a smile and a joke, even during these times.

12/22/87 - "The Teacher Who Teaches Others"

We introduced you to another outstanding Altamonte Springs resident, Ms. Doreen Kirk. Doreen was born 46 years ago in Rochester, NY. She is a friendly woman who speaks quietly.

At age 11, Doreen had a stroke and a cerebral hemorrhage, leaving her with paralysis of her right side, a condition that is worsening. Doreen spends most of her time when health permits, involved in voluntary causes. For many years she has taught youngsters in remedial reading, kindergarten, learning disabilities and emotional disability. Nowadays, she teaches adults by her volunteering efforts.

Rocking the boat and watching your tax bucks

Walk, don't run

A school board candidate was telling people the other day that she was running for office on the platform of not "rocking the boat!" What I don't understand is why she is even running? If you don't run against an incumbent to rock the boat, to change the character of the board's votes on issues--then why run at all? Just to change one rubber stamp for another? A bit of advice, candidate--if you are not running to make things better than what we have now--then get out of the race. The kids in the schools deserve better!

Inquiring minds want to know

Channel 9 suddenly changed the viewing time of the second part of the expose' on Ken Wright's "cozy" relationship with County Commissioner's Daryl McLain and Win Adams. Very interesting! Was there some pressure applied? Or was there so much more important news that the scent of possibly corruption was blown away by the events of the day? Inquiring minds want to know!

Many people who turned in at 6 p.m. (as advertised) missed the segment at 5:30 p.m. Those who taped the expose' say that requests for copies are strong. There is an unconfirmed rumor that Carlton Henley wants 5,000 copies. Must be a mailing coming up. Don Nicholas and Paul Lovestrang are reputed to have put their copies in safety deposit boxes to make sure nothing happens to them before the elections in 2000.

It's a shame Channel 9 missed the fact that Ken Wright is Win Adam's campaign manager--and sits on both the Port Authority and the Airport Boards. What was it that the UCF Ethics professor said about a smell test?????

Lean school budget year

The word from the Department of Education in Tallahassee is that this will be a lean year for any Seminole County School Board budget increases. I've suggested that this is the year to actually drop inefficient programs in our schools before funding new programs. Talk about a radical idea? I'm going to ask my mother if she was abducted by aliens, because some of the looks I got made me think I was from another world.

Bob Goff

Bob Goff is a member of the Seminole County School Board, representing District 5

Around the block

The School Board has been to both Lake Howell and Lake Brantley to receive student, parent and teacher input on Block Scheduling. It seems as if the board heard from every honor student and AP student on both campuses. Who we didn't hear from were the kids at those schools who are in the bottom 25 percent grade-wise. I wonder if they have the same view of block scheduling as the honor students and their parents? Has Block Scheduling helped them or hurried their exit from education?

Changes, changes

What does it say when the Clerk of the Court asks for a change of venue from her own courthouse? If it's a capital murder trial, it means that the defendant doesn't think they can get a fair trial because of prejudicial pretrial publicity. If it's the clerk's current court battle against a county commissioner--it means that the clerk doesn't think that she can get a fair trial from the judges she serves. What's that tell you? What's that tell them? Every time she doesn't like what she hears in depositions or from the judges and attorneys, she asks for a new judge. Hang on, this may require a change of venue to another state!

The buck stops where?

Another one of Goff's good ideas--I suggested that when the school system staff tells us about how much money they have saved--the money should actually get put in a bank account where

Wasteful government

A wasteful and disloyal system of government is ours.

In a recent article dated Feb. 23, I applauded Seminole County Commissioner Grant Maloy's concerns about his fellow commissioners' (comrades) muffled efforts in wasteful spending of more than $200,000 in legal fees without success regarding the nude club issues.

While this is a new road for Mr. Maloy, for his fellow comrades in government, it's their way of life. During my tours of duty overseas, I know this country's system of government has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in screwdrivers and coffee mugs. Right here in this county and in city government, officials have spent several thousands of dollars studying ditches.

Governments' wasteful spending and disloyalty to its taxpayers and supporters is no secret, but is their way of life. One of the main functions of this system of government is to be fraudulent and disloyal to its supporters and taxpayers and to constantly provide doses of disappointments.

This worldly government is immutable and supporters must understand that they are only needed because of the system election process and once their supporters' mission is completed, the government and elected officials are no longer obligated to serve them with the truth.

At one of the county's public hearings on the nudity issue, I recall Pastor Bruce Scott speaking against this issue and quoting a scripture from II Chronicles 7:14 which reads: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

That night the people turned deaf ears. For a nation that is supposed to be One Nation Under God, this country as well as this county, is suffering from many social ills with no relief in sight.

This system of government is not designed to improve ways of life, but rather to destroy ways of life. This system will continue causing or tending to cause diseases and death because of its perverted ways. This system will continue allowing its supporters and taxpayers to come to meetings expressing their opinions, moaning and groaning, just to have their prescription refilled with another dose of disappointment.

Where I live, a liar will not tarry in the mist, but in this country of government, if perjury was a crime the people would be free, and the majority of government officials would be locked up for life. This system of government will continue to be partial, favoring their good ole boys; prejudiced and biased. It will continue to plow up land, destroy nature, build great buildings and cause much destruction upon this earth and still be asking the same ultimate question, what happened?

Where I live no man is greater than his Creator and for that reason this system is destined to fail. The pestilence in this country from mudslides, earthquakes and storms of all magnitudes, sickness diseases, etc. will continue until this reprobate system seeks God's righteousness.

God bless you all.

it can be accounted for. If Mom wasn't abducted by aliens—Dad must have been!

It's only money

Here's a campaign issue for someone. At the last School Board meeting, a staff member, attempting to justify using a higher priced bid instead of the low bid, said "$50,000 (more) is just a drop in the bucket. When compared with the total contract price, it's not of consequence." Do you make $50,000 a year? The average family in Seminole County only makes $41,000 a year. $50,000 ain't a drop in my bucket, it's a Chateau La Fite '32 in a silver chalice. No wonder people think governments waste the taxpayer's hard earned money. All it takes is a few comments like that to turn public sentiment against anyone connected to that branch of government. And trust once lost is hard to regain.

For real

The Lake County School Board moved their upper level administrators out of their office and into portables and then put the administration building up for sale. Orange County just leased out the top two floors of their big building—earning a million dollars. Seems like our neighbors on both sides have quit talking about making changes and are doing things that are outside of bureaucratic thinking box. I wonder what the fourth floor of the ESC building would lease for? Just kidding guys and gals...or am I?

Adult entertainment and the Hindenburg

Recently the Seminole Herald had me quoted that the county's attempt to crack down on the adult entertainment industry was "going down like the Titanic." One person commented that I was being too kind on the county commissioner's handling of the strip joint issue. In their opinion the county disaster more resembled a different ship...the Hindenburg...more like a crash and burn.

Let's look at the history of this epic tragedy. Originally hopes were high that the county was finally going to address the problem. The board was moving 5-0 to correct serious problems in our code. In early workshops the direction of the board was unanimous to:

1. Stop topless and bottomless dancing and require dancers to cover up as in Orange or St. John's counties.
2. Change the land use from commercial to industrial without grandfathering...to get strip joints away from main thoroughfares and neighborhoods.
3. Solicit the assistance of a legal firm who volunteers their expertise to counties and cities across the country in fighting adult entertainment.

Under this scenario I felt that overall the citizens of Seminole County would benefit the most to reduce the secondary effects associated with strip joints such as high crime and decreasing property values.

GRANT MALOY

Grant Maloy is a Seminole County commissioner who lives in Oviedo.

If we stayed the course Seminole County would stop being the only total nude area in metro Orlando, clubs would disappear from main entryways into the county and would be delegated to the back of industrial parks where their impact would not be as great. With free legal help on board the taxpayers would be protected and with any luck the clubs would want to move to a county or city where codes would be weaker.

Somewhere along the line the ship started sinking. The unanimous votes to crack down on the strip joints switched to 2 to 3. Commissioner Adams was telling local pastors how great it would be for the county to end total nudity but then changed his mind and switched his support to total nudity. The free legal help was replaced with a politically connected law firm with a price tag of $200,000 so far. Seeing that this attorney was Commissioner Adams main fund-raiser it caused Channel 9 to do an investigative story on good ole boy politics in Seminole County.

The vote coming this Tuesday will be the spark that lit the Hindenburg. Voting to grandfather the clubs is much more than just selecting a site. It means giving the strip joints everything they wanted...great location, and a protected monopoly. Combine that with total nudity and floor dancing and the county commissioner will be guaranteeing these clubs huge profits for years to come.

A mother of three told me recently that as she and her husband returned from a vacation, they were listening to their CB radio on I-75. Three truckers were in a conversation as to where the best strip joints were located in Central Florida. Their conclusion was Seminole County with total nude dancing. "Thanks" said one trucker... "maybe I will stay in town an extra night to see the clubs." This mother told me, "This is not what I want my community to be known for!"

The people of Seminole County want strong regulations on adult entertainment, especially if it's near their neighborhoods. As it stands today, we are about to have the weakest codes around and hundreds of thousands of dollars in questionable spending. This could change if one commissioner, who once talked tough on strip joints, would take a stand.

Our students were shining examples among 1,100 at the Junior State Conference held in Washington D.C.; well prepared, good appearance and in the opinion of many, the best. Florida now has three chapters: Seminole County, Tampa and the Miami area.

Not bad, from none since 1934 to three this year. The directors were so impressed that they believe in a few short years Seminole will be prepared to have its own Florida Conference. My question is where was the support for these students? The school board needs to get in touch with Lake Howell High where it all started and give some support to this program. There are debates being planned now to take place in Florida. Our students should be supported in these endeavors. These students and their parents should be applauded for their efforts.

A fiscal news note

The big news is the Seminole Herald, published in the county seat of Sanford. The question I have been asked most frequently is "What are the advertising costs?" This is not a question I can answer, but it certainly is a good sign for the newspaper. The other question has been, "Will I be able to get the newspaper easily?"

The content of the newspaper has always been praised by those I have talked to over the past two years. We are proud of our newspaper.

Paul Lovstrand

Paul Lovstrand is a Longwood city commissioner.

Austerity has paid off in Longwood

The result of the Longwood elections was a "clean sweep" for those who campaigned on a platform of austerity. The incumbents had high ambitions: a new city hall, a new firehouse and the purchase of Sanlando Utilities to encourage aggressive annexation. In addition, a 1-mill tax was passed just weeks before because of the financial constraints these ambitious programs had brought to the city. The water-sewer enterprise fund had just illegally "appropriated" almost 1 million dollars from the general fund. This depleted the city's reserves and left the water-sewer fund $965,000 in debt.

The new city commission canceled the building program and sewer expansion plans and immediately instituted a 10 percent budget cut. Six months later, upon a new review of finances, another 5 percent cut was instituted.

In January of 1991, in a citywide referendum, the voters overwhelmingly approved a Charter amendment, which required voter approval for long-term borrowing. Throughout '91, finances continued to be tight. The end of the year budget carryover was hardly enough to meet a two-week payroll. Salaries for 1992 were frozen. Public works projects such as road repaving were delayed. The city eliminated 10 percent of its manpower. "Austerity" was the watchword.

The austerity program paid off. By 1992, the budgets began to show surpluses. The water-sewer enterprise fund began to pay off its debt. Efficiency improved, enabling us to manage with fewer people.

The results? Today the surplus in the water-sewer enterprise fund is over $3 1/3 million dollars. This amounts to 120 percent of the $2 3/4 dollar budget. The general fund has a surplus of over $5 million dollars on a $12+ million dollar budget or 47 percent. By September this year, all bonds will be paid off and Longwood will be debt free!

Yes, we may borrow in the future if low interest rates make it advisable and if the people approve the debt in a referendum. Currently, our city commission is considering the need for a new or improved community building. In addition, last year the city gave its workers a substantial "catch up" salary increase. Presently, Longwood has the ability to pay cash for a new building. We have found that austerity and a "pay as you go" policy is a good one.

The bottom line has not yet been written. In the near future we hope to translate this efficiency into a tax cut!

We must protect the trees

"The nation that destroys its soil destroys itself." (Franklin D. Roosevelt). It should be said, "a nation that destroys its trees destroys itself."

Trees are life—they produce the oxygen we breathe. They are the oldest known living things. They are home to wondrous animals; birds, squirrels, and many other creatures. Trees provide food; fruit and nuts, and shelter from the sun. Their wood gives us homes, furniture, fuel, books and newspapers. Trees help preserve water and soil and provide recreation areas.

Here in Central Florida whole forests are destroyed as trees are "slaashed and burned." According to Pam McVety, head of Florida's environmental permitting, "We are clearing 450 acres of land a day, twice the rate of the Brazilian rain forests. We are also seeing the failure of entire ecosystems—whole communities of plants and animals."

I grew up in Central Illinois where trees were scarce and fields of corn were the tallest things that could be seen for miles. I have always loved trees. When I was two my favorite tree held a swing which a neighbor had made for me. We moved down the street where silver leafed poplar trees lined our back yard and we had a huge pear tree, a cherry tree and a maple. My father and brother built a tree house in the pear tree which gave us endless hours of fun. My family picked cherries from our cherry tree which my mother quickly turned into delicious cherry pies. Our maple tree had the most beautiful fall colors—red, orange, and yellow leaves which we raked and enjoyed again as we roasted marshmallows over their dying embers.

Years later I married a soldier and we lived in the United States and Germany for the next 22 years. Trees were a part of our wonderful experiences. Every fall we enjoyed nature's colors from the hills of the Hudson River at West Point, New York to our neighborhoods in Fairfax, Virginia and Carlisle, Pennsylvania. In Kansas, in the fall, we picked apples at a nearby orchard and during the winter marveled at beautiful snow covered trees in the park across the street. I've seen America from the green pine covered woods of Maine to the giant Redwoods of California—from Minnesota's lush forested lakes to the deserts of El Paso, Texas.

Germany is one of the most beautiful countries in the world because of its trees. We lived there for eight years. Many of our best times were spent enjoying the forests and mountains. I'll never forget skiing and hiking in the mountains in Berchtesgarden and hiking in Nuremberg's forested parks. Our most beautiful Christmas tree came from the top of an already fallen 50 foot pine tree. Germans were so strict about cutting trees that the forest ranger had to give permission for any tree to be cut.

After 32 years in the Army my husband retired and we moved to the Oviedo area. We chose our neighborhood because of its beautiful trees and our home because of the woods behind it.

A few months later I witnessed the slaashing and burning of a forest across the road from us. I couldn't believe that this could be allowed!

In early May 1995, our county commissioner met with over 100 nearby residents about Knights Crossing, a huge student housing project which was to be built across the road from us. (Since we were in Seminole County and the project was in Orange County we were never notified of the initial hearings.) Our commissioner promised that the trees on McCulloch Rd. would remain. The next day bulldozers knocked down some of the trees. That day I became an activist.

Since then, thousands of acres of trees have been destroyed. Our air and waterways are fouled with smoke and ashes. What is the cost to our health, environment, and quality of life?

Something must be done. First, elect only those who will protect people and the environment. Enact a law against the slaashing and burning of trees. Pass a law to leave or plant a 20-25 percent tree buffer of land acreage between neighborhoods. Make a law that Fish and Game issue a final building permit only after a total environmental survey is done and gophers, tortoises, etc. are relocated. Do not allow developers to hire agencies to do their wildlife assessments as they are often grossly underestimated and gophers, tortoises, etc. are being destroyed.

"We have taken over the planet as if we owned it, and we call it progress because we think we are making it better, but in fact we are regressing. Species are dying in the wake of this 'progress' and we seem not to realize that our life depends on theirs. The destruction of species is more critical for the world than the greenhouse effect and ozone depletion, because it is moving faster and is inevitable. Peter Raven, director of the Missouri Botanical Gardens in St. Louis, predicts that over the next 30 years human beings will cause the extinction of a hundred species a day." her sister's four children on the money she earned in the fields. Her boys grew up and left home. Twinkle, now 29, came home recently when her baby's father died.

When the women moved to Lake Monroe Terrace last year, Knight explained, she was told by Director Timothy Hudson about the policy that offended her.

"New residents were called for a meeting. He (Hudson) said he wouldn't have any gathering, drinking, running in and out after 11. I have eight sisters, and we like to visit. I didn't think that was right, no gathering. What he said, I didn't feel I was a person. I made me feel bad."

Knight asked Central Florida Legal Services, Inc. to help her. Managing Attorney Treena Kaye saw a clear violation of Knight's constitutional rights that protect free speech and association.

"While they (the Knights) want to live in a community without fear of crime and without fear of losing their home, they also want to freely exercise their First Amendment freedoms to associate with whomever they wish to see in their homes or on public property," Kaye said.

Kaye, along with attorney Rob Hornstein, with Southern Legal Counsel, Inc., filed suit in federal court for Margaret and Twinkle O. Knight, charging among other complaints that the Housing Authority's practice to deny residents the right to free association was violative of the First Amendment.

"The Housing Authority should put as much energy and effort into providing decent housing as they have in cutting corners on the Constitution," Hornstein said.

Hornstein, who defends civil lawsuits in the public interest, and has taken the Knight case pro bono, believes that many residents of public housing feel intimidated by the system and are often taken advantage of by it. And if the public tends to not care, the intimidation persists.

"So much is in the form of threats. These are people who don't have much and don't want to lose the little they have. The problem is made worse because some people also feel tenants in public housing shouldn't have rights."

Margaret and Twinkle O. Knight won.

On Jan. 30, United States District Court Judge Patricia Fawcett issued a preliminary injunction against the City of Sanford Housing Authority prohibiting Hudson from enforcing the policy that provides there shall be no unauthorized gatherings on Housing Authority property.

Other complaints filed in the suit have also prompted the Sanford Housing Authority to cease the collection of non-rental charges through the use of illegal notices. Still pending is a challenge to the legality of the authority's requirement that public housing tenants waive their right to a jury trial in legal disputes arising under the rental agreement.

Neither Hudson, nor the Housing Authority attorney, Clay Simmons, returned repeated phone calls for this article. Hudson, in past interviews, has maintained that his strict policies are necessary to rid public housing of drug-related activities.

"There's a certain majesty when the voice of someone without easy access to the courts is heard by a federal judge," Hornstein said.

"It was the right thing. I feel good helping other people know they have rights," Knight said, perched on a lawn chair in front of her home, in a gathering of family and friends. A gathering she fought for.

Other items included in the projections are apartments which could be located upstairs, office spaces and single family detached housing. As Victor Dover says, "It can be a walkable neighborhood where residents can walk to stores." Each store is expected to have 2-1/2 parking spaces per store.

Other concerns were a master plan being done with the Water Management District, roads, utilities, etc. The purpose of permitting of the master plan is to expedite permits in the future.

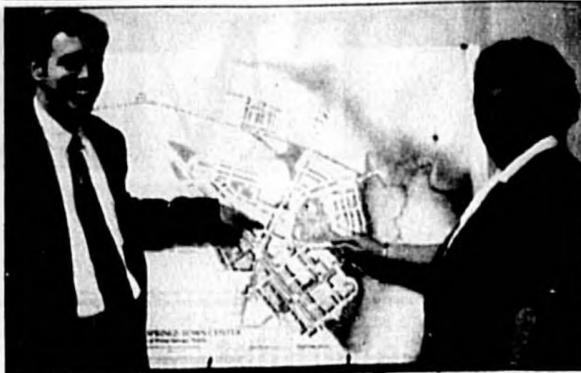

The environmental concerns were that the center will contain portions of the Cross Seminole Trail, a Seminole County project. The trail head will be a very important part of the center project. The trail network could tie into other trail areas.

One possibility proposed puts the equestrian and walking areas of the trail around the center. Consultant Forest Michaels said that from day one they have tried to strike a balance between developers and the environment.

Members of the South Lake Jesup Homeowner's Association asked why they were not put on the mailing list. Gennell answered that Southlake is in the county and it was an oversight.

When asked if another planned Town Center in Winter Park will affect Winter Springs, officials said, "We don't know the answer to that."

One person asked if a medical center was a possibility and was told that it could be if a proper site is found. Several groups of people were thanked for their participation in the project including Rollins College students. City Manager Ron McEmore said about the project, "This has been a remarkable process with remarkable people and a remarkable plan."

When planner Victor Dover spoke he also presented a slide show which started with the words "The Heart of Winter Springs". He said they anticipate this will be a great work in progress and will mature as the area grows. The planners and consultants will come before the City Commission on March 23.

Winter Springs cops seek third burglary suspect

From Staff Reports

WINTER SPRINGS - Winter Springs Police Department arrested one adult and one juvenile and are now looking for a third suspect in connection with a burglary to an occupied dwelling. On March 4, three young males kicked in the front door of a house on Tradewinds and entered. As one was going up stairs he encountered the 81 year old occupant, who yelled she was going to call the police. All three youths ran from the residence. Two of the suspects were apprehended a short time later. The clothing worn by the suspects at the time of their arrest matched the description given by the home owner. The shoes the suspects were wearing matched the foot prints left at the scene. The third offender has been identified and a warrant is being sought.

aren't many people who know me. This could be to my advantage because they can't have any preconceived notions about me or dislike me."

Tall (almost 6-foot-5) and athletic looking, Dantzler will not go unnoticed as he tours the state looking for support in the 1998 election. He looks people in the eye, holds out his right hand and says, "I'm Rick Dantzler. I'm running for governor."

He said he senses people are yearning for someone to tell them the truth, someone who is capable of making big decisions, someone who'll be honest with them."

Dantzler said he was prepared to talk to citizens throughout the state. He marvels at a week he recently spent campaigning. On a Tuesday he visited Fort Walton and the Panhandle, on Wednesday he was in Tampa and the weekend in Miami.

"It was like being in three different states," Dantzler said. "The diversity of Florida is unbelievable. There is no other state like it."

Dantzler and his wife, Julie, frequently will be staying at an apartment they have rented in Broward County. He said that 25 to 30 percent of the Democratic primary votes are in the Broward-Dade-Palm Beach county area. He'll need to work the territory.

Before making his run to be governor, Dantzler was a fixture in Tallahassee. In 1994 he was elected to the Florida House of Representatives. He served eight years as a representative and eight more as a state senator.

Since he election to the Senate, he's been chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, Agriculture Committee, Corrections Committee and Subcommittee A of Ways and Means.

His accomplishments include the Everglades Forever Act, a Workers Compensation reform, Juvenile Justice Reform, Solid Waste Management Act, creation of the cross Florida Greenway, and Private Property Act. As chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, he worked to cut 235 programs that saved the state $270 million.

Health care ranks high on Dantzler's list of priorities in his run for governor. "People are tired of not being able to go to the doctor of their choice," he said. "They're weary of HMO employees overruling the decision of a doctor. Sadly, people have insurance but they don't have coverage."

Dantzler is concerned, also, with the challenge to people and the state's natural systems as more and more people move to Florida. He said that 288,000 moved into the state last year. "We need to have the vision to see where it is going," he said.

It is important, he said, to get more aggressive in mass transit. Dantzler wants to see better planning. He envisions a system for the I-4 corridor and a day when commuters get home from work more quickly than they do today.

Dantzler would like to see communities develop "Safe Havens" for schoolchildren to go after classes. "They've developed some programs like this in the Tampa Bay area," he said. "Some of the churches there have networked with schools. It would be good to develop more programs like it."

Recently, Dantzler opened up a web page on the Internet, announcing "Rick Dantzler is in the Race to Stay."

The first response to it read: "See You on the Campaign Trail, Jeb Bush."

able to practice law, which she is forbidden to do with the felony conviction on her record. Since the murder she has worked on battered spouse projects. Soubielle has also worked as an intern in the governor's legal office.

Not everyone sees Soubielle as a model citizen deserving of a pardon. Wolfinger, Linda Kuhn, victim's advocate with the State Attorney's office and Prosecuting Attorney Steve Plotnick went before the board in December, 1997 to present their objections.

Wolfinger's characterization of Soubielle as a "master manipulator" is partially based on that Soubielle has worked with the very people in the governor's office who will now consider her request for a pardon.

Wolfinger, Kuhn and Plotnick are quick to point out that a jury of 12 Seminole County citizens heard the evidence presented by both sides and rejected Soubielle's claim of battered spouse defense finding her guilty.

One juror also wrote in a letter in response to Soubielle seeking clemency. "This is written to confirm my confidence in the decision reached by the jury."

Wolfinger said he is encouraged because the board is taking its time in coming to a decision.

Sheriff's Lt. Billy Lee was the investigator on the Soubielle case in 1987. "Kimberly's allegations of being a battered spouse weren't corroborated as part of the homicide investigation," said Lee. "And all evidence indicated she kept her lewd activity from Pierre and her family."

For more than 20 years, Kuhn has worked as a victim's advocate with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office and the State Attorney's Office. Kuhn has worked closely with the Florida Coalition Against Domestic Violence, but Kuhn finds herself in the unique position of being on the opposite side this time. Unlike Kuhn, the Coalition strongly supports Soubielle's battered spouse defense.

Kuhn has built her career being an outspoken supporter of victim's rights. "If there had been evidence of the abuse I'd be screaming from the rooftops," said Kuhn. "For justice to work we have to speak out when it is not justice."

Wolfinger, Plotnick, Kuhn and Lee all support the battered spouse defense. They simply believe the Soubielle case is a poor example. They fear that this case could jeopardize legitimate battered spouse syndrome cases in the future.

The director of the Florida Coalition Against Domestic Violence did not return phone calls. Kimberly Soubielle could not be reached for comment.

The Soubielle murder

The Soubielles were living with Kimberly's parents. Their two-year-old daughter was asleep in the house at the time of the shooting. Following the shooting Soubielle cleaned up, lined the trunk of her car with plastic, moved Pierre's body to the garage and called her father, Orville Bliss for help disposing of the body. After Bliss arrived he convinced Soubielle to call 911.

After 21 hours of deliberation, the jury found her guilty of second degree murder and shooting into an occupied dwelling. In April 1988 Seminole Circuit Judge Vernon Mize Jr. sentenced Soubielle to 15 years in prison and 15 years of probation following her release.

Soubielle testified that during their three-year marriage, her husband had raped her, stuck needles in her breasts, burned her with cigarettes, cut her with knives, and forced her to become a topless dancer and a prostitute.

During her eight hours on the stand Soubielle told of the argument she says led up to the shooting and her plans to leave her husband and move with her daughter to Houston, Texas. She had received a full scholarship to attend Rice University. During the argument Soubielle admitted to Pierre she was having an affair.

Defense attorney Chan Muller presented testimony from Clinical Psychologist Lois Veronen, an expert in the study of abused women. Veronen testified that Soubielle's life during her marriage was consistent with the life of a battered woman.

Dr. Lloyd Wilder testified as to Soubielle's state of mind at the time of the shooting. Wilder testified that Soubielle was very fearful at the time. "I think she shot because she feared for her life," testified Wilder.

Prosecutor Steve Plotnick attacked Soubielle's claims of abuse and being forced to work as a dancer. The prosecution presented evidence from another dancer who helped Soubielle break into the business.

The woman testified that Soubielle asked her not to tell Pierre that she was dancing. According to the witness Pierre believed she was hosting at a country club. The witness also testified that Soubielle wanted to spend the money she was earning dancing, but in a way that Pierre would not realize how much money she was making.

A man who had befriended Soubielle while she was dancing testified for the prosecution. The witness testified that he had never seen any evidence of the physical abuse that Soubielle had alleged even though he had seen her dance unclothed.

The witness also testified about purchasing the gun, used to kill Pierre, for Soubielle. Soubielle indicated she would feel safer if she had a weapon because of problems in her neighborhood, but the witness was not aware of any abuse by her husband.

Soubielle's case has also drawn national attention. Wolfinger, Plotnick and Kuhn have been interviewed for an upcoming edition of Public Eye With Bryant Gumbel.

LeFils

Fern Park.

On Sunday (March 8) from noon until whatever, Ray Williams and Carol Pullin, the owners of Big Ray's Possum Bay at 4650 E. Hwy. 46 in Geneva are conducting a fund-raiser barbecue for Amy and James. Eat all you can and donate what you may. "Help us help them put their lives back together," is written on a flyer.

LeFils isn't sure how long it will take to have a new home - with concrete block - at the lot where she and James lived in a trailer. She realizes the costs will be significant. She will get a small amount on insurance for the trailer and disaster help from FEMA.

"We want to be where we were even after what happened here," she said. "We love the rural life. James had a pony named Shadow and a rabbit he named Trader Jack. Neither survived the tornado, and I still don't know how to tell James."

LeFils is pleased that James has slept well each night since the storm except for one when there was thunder and lightning. She hopes that he is too small to have lasting memories of the horrible night. LeFils, herself, would never forget.

"I was in a deep, deep sleep," she said. "I'd been up watching TV and saw the tornado warnings for places like Lake and Sumter counties. I didn't think we would be affected."

"The night felt odd. It was hot and very still. I fell asleep and woke up suddenly at 12:03. There was loud thunder and lightning. Some force told me to run in and get James. I got him and was pacing up and down, trying to decide what to do next."

"Then, it hit like a bomb. Something got me in the neck. It may have been the dresser or book shelf. I think now that we were sucked out the back door. The next thing I remember was being outside and hearing James call. He was atop a pile of debris."

LeFils said she had blood all over her and began praying, "God get us back before it comes again." David Glaspy, a neighbor, discovered the two and took him to his place which had not been damaged.

Amy LeFils and James were transported to the hospital in the same ambulance with Ashley Ann Himes, whose family died in the storm. LeFils remembers Ashley being alert and jabbering away after being found 200 yards away from the demolished trailer that was her home.

A draftsman for Conklin, Porter & Holmes engineers in Sanford, LeFils is eager to get back to work.

"There's a lot to replace" she said. "But they are material things. Chairs and a sofa, and it doesn't matter if the sofa is yellow and the chairs are green. What happens now centers on James. He's the reason to be glad, not sad."

Sanford to air goals

By Nick Pfeiffner
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Although the Sanford City Commission has a short agenda for Monday afternoon's work session, it will begin at the early hour of 3:30. It is expected that discussions on setting goals will take the bulk of the time.

For several months, individual members of the commission have been adding to the list of goals. Now, with most of them in written form, it's time for a final decision on the aims for the city during the remainder of this year and in preparation for the budget for next fiscal year, beginning Oct. 1.

Basically, there are two separate lists of goals. One is the Prioritized Policy Goals. The other involves those which require financing and are listed as Prioritized Budget Goals.

For budgeting purposes, the list at present includes midge control, lakefront development, downtown revitalization, courthouse expansion, and special developments and projects connected with the Orlando-Sanford airport, police department, and revitalization of certain streets and areas including 13th Street, Sanford Avenue, and U.S. Highway 17-92.

Many of the policy goals involved the same areas, but are more closely connected to planning and setting up work schedules for the various endeavors.

Possibly a second item on the work session which may require extensive discussion is a city code review.

Observations and thoughts on the spring sports season

SANFORD - Just a few random thoughts as winter turns to spring in Seminole County sports.

For those of you not familiar with the paper, this is a great forum to put out little thoughts I've collected that weren't big enough for a column but would make me lose sleep if I didn't get it out.

I think: The Oviedo girls basketball job will be one of the most highly sought-after jobs in Seminole County history. Who wouldn't want Mary Lou Johnston for two years at a school that has built a winning tradition steadily over the past few years.

I know: A: Uglyly bunched as the boys basketball teams were in the county this season, the baseball teams should be the same way. Seminole and Lake Brantley are powerhouses, and Oviedo, Lake Mary and Lake Howell aren't far behind. Each have at least one strong starter on the mound that will play after he graduates from high school.

I think: Dave Rogers has finally turned the corner with his Seminole softball program. It's a far cry from where it was this time two seasons ago and it's still a young squad.

I know: Greg Stanton will turn the Lake Mary football program around. He's enthusiastic, demanding and an offensive wizard.

I think: Lake Brantley shortstop Felipe Lopez and Seminole first baseman Clyde "C3" Williams are the two best players in the county.

I know: If you like soccer, you'll love lacrosse. Check it out.

I think: How could the Jacksonville Jaguars have let Natrone Means go back to San Diego? Do they honestly think James Stewart can be The Man? It's not like there's a load of talent coming out of the draft, even though the Jags have two first-rounders after the Rob Johnson deal.

I know: Not only did Mary Lou Johnson, Mary Leah Sutton, Ashlee Ballance and Lauren Bradley deserve their all-SAC honors, but there's something wrong if they don't get all-Central Florida as well.

I think: Of all the golf tracks in Central Florida, Alauqua, over in Longwood, is the prettiest.

I know: The arbitrator who ruled on Latrell Sprewell's NBA punishment last week should be disbarred.

I think: Even though the wins haven't always been there, Winter Springs High has a lot to be proud of, fielding varsity teams in every sport except football in its first year.

I know: There were dozens of kids in the Lake Brantley outdoor swimming pool Tuesday, even after the temperatures dipped into the upper-30s. You've got to admire that kind of dedication to water polo.

I think: Kevin Ollie is Darrell Armstrong with a defensive game. He's only been with the Magic for two games, but he's a spark plug and he's no Spud Webb.

I know: Anybody who follows sports should stop by Seminole Community College to see some great baseball and softball. Each team fields kids who were on Seminole County high school teams in the past two years and the quality of play is excellent.

I think: The unsung hero in the Lake Mary girls' state basketball championship was Stephanie Dale. Several pundits that went to Lakeland said she was the key to the team, doing a little of everything without the attention.

I know: Lake Mary girls soccer fans need a new cheer. "LAKE-MAIR-EEE" sounds like a town in France, not the name of the school.

I think: Xiomara Cruz of the Lyman girls basketball team was the county's most underrated player.

I know: Spring high school football practice starts in about one month.

Last Second Shot: If Sports Editor Dean Smith doesn't like this column, surely I can come in and strangle him, punch him around and threaten him with a two-by-four without being fired, right? Didn't the arbitrator in the Sprewell case just set that precedence?

Lake Mary girls erase memory of a year ago

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

WINTER PARK - As the Lake Mary girls soccer team ran off the field after last night's 2-1 win at Winter Park's Showalter Field, coach Bill Elisele had a message for his team.

"We're not done yet," he shouted to his team as it celebrated.

The Lady Rams had every right to be happy. Last season, everything ended early when they lost, 3-0, on the same field to Winter Park. The Rams were favored in that game, but came into last night having lost the district final to Oviedo and the memories of last season in the back of everyone's mind.

the season and will now travel to Orange Park (south of Jacksonville) on Tuesday to take on Orange Park, which knocked off Niceville.

Both teams were highly ranked: Lake Mary second in the state and Winter Park third, but the Rams came off the field like they had just won the state title.

Castro kicks Lions girls past Braves

OVIEDO - As difficult as it may be to believe, when the Boone Braves visited the Oviedo Lions for the Class 6A North Region 1 semifinal girls' soccer match Friday night, it seemed for much of the first half that neither team really wanted to be there.

Coaches and officials alike commented about the half-speed play of the teams at halftime, the coaches challenging their respective teams to step up their effort if they wanted their season to extend by at least one more game.

In the second half, it was host Oviedo (18-3-4) that stepped up its game, controlling the ball for much of the final 10 minutes and keeping Boone bottled up in its half of the field. That made Jamille Castro's first-half goal stand up as the game winner as the Lions advanced with a 1-0 victory.

Rams boys clobber Winter Park

by Keith Williams
HERALD STAFF WRITER

LAKE MARY - What started out as a battle for continuing the season ended in just a plain old battle.

Class 6A-District 3 boys soccer champion Lake Mary (21-5) hosted Winter Park (18-8-3) in the first round of the state playoffs last night. While both teams played very aggressively, the emotions got a little out of control near the end of the second half, putting a slight tinge on the Rams 6-1 win.

No one was quite sure what to expect out of Lake Mary last night in light of the past week's events.

Last Saturday, former team member and Florida State University freshman Dustin Garber was killed in a car accident in Longwood. Also in the car was David Trausneck, a current team member who will miss the rest of the season due to non-permanent injuries sustained in the wreck.

On Tuesday, Lake Mary pulled a very emotional win out over conference and district foe Lyman, winning 2-1 in a game the team decided to dedicate to Garber. Wearing black arm bands with the number 19 on them in honor of their former teammate and friend, Lake Mary put their emotions aside for 80 minutes and advanced to Regional play with a sudden-death penalty kick.

SAC picks basketball's best

By Dean Smith
HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - As was to be expected, the choices for the All-Seminole Athletic Conference basketball teams came down to a school of two thoughts.

The boys' team was as diverse as the season was, with one player from each of the five schools that made a run at the conference title making up the first team.

The girls' first-team, on the other hand, was dominated by the state champion Lake Mary squad, just like the regular season.

SAC Coach of the Year honors went to Seminole's Bob Traina over Lake Howell's Steve Kohn in the boys and Lake Mary's Carl Brown over Lyman's Bruce Boneventure in the girls.

The choice for SAC Players of the Year were pretty much a foregone conclusion, and both will have an opportunity to repeat next year as Lake Howell junior point guard Reggie Kohn paced the boys' team, with Lake Mary junior superstar Lauren Bradley topping the girls' list.

Boys' conference champion Seminole was represented by senior shooting guard Daryl Redding, who came on late in the year when Arrow Force VI rallied to win the crown.

Other first-team members were senior point guard Seth Fowler from Oviedo, Lake Brantley senior forward Drew Morgan and Lake Mary's rebounding machine, senior forward Ben Kersenbrock.

A player who most might have figured would make the first team, Lake Mary's Paul Beik, was limited to the Second Team because he only got to play a partial conference schedule due to a season-ending knee injury.

Seminole had two players tabbed for the second team, senior point guard Zeke Seymore and junior center Cornelius Blue.

Also selected to the Second Team were Lake Howell senior center Ryan Smith, Oviedo senior guard Scott

From Staff Reports

ORLANDO - The Lyman High School boys' soccer team bounced back in fine fashion from its tough loss in the district finals to whitewash Class 6A-District 4 champion Dr. Phillips, 2-0, in a Class 6A-Regional Quarterfinal contest in Orlando Friday night.

The Greyhounds, the runners-up from Class 6A-District 3, had been limited to only two shots in losing to Lake Mary in overtime in the district finals on Tuesday night.

But Friday night, Lyman kept a lot of pressure on the goal, ripping 21 shots at the Panthers' goalkeeper, with sophomore mid-fielder Ryan Potts finding the back of the net twice in the first half on assists from senior mid-fielder Mark Lewis and Sayas Markovic.

From there the Greyhounds' outstanding defense took over led by senior goalie Shane LaPlaca, who turned away six shots in recording yet another shutout.

Lyman, under head coach Ray Sandidge (who will retire at the end of the season after 14 years at the Greyhound helm), is now 16-6 on the season and will play Lincoln High School from Tallahassee, which crushed Pensacola High School, 11-1, Friday in the Regional Semifinals on Tuesday.

Dr. Phillips finishes the season 18-5-1.

"Beating them after what happened last year was the main motivation," goaltender Jordan Kellgren, who was nearly flawless in the win, said. "Our defense really stepped up."

Defender Allison Weber also remembered last season and the feeling of walking off the field after the final game.

"We played with knowing they beat us last year all season. We thought about it ever since that game ended."

Eiselle has been repeating the standard "one game at a time" motto since the start of the season, but he knew the Winter Park win was special.

"Since last year, it's been on our mind for 12 months," Eiselle said. "That game motivated us all year."

If the Winter Park game wasn't motivation enough, the sudden-death shootout loss to Oviedo did the job. Lake Mary never trailed until missing on the first shot of the sudden death which meant the Rams would have to be Road Warriors to get to the state finals.

"I think the loss to Oviedo was our wakeup call," Eiselle said. "They overcame adversity at school all week and we proved we can come back."

Winter Park came out strong, dominating play early, but Kellgren, a senior headed for Gainesville in the fall, was up to the challenge. She and the Lake Mary defense of Weber, Kristin Hoyle, Adrienne Elker and Jackie Van Looven, kept the Wildcat offense from scoring until finally, Winter Park scored at the 22:00 mark of the first half on a Julia Erasao direct kick.

Lake Mary countered just one minute later when leading scorer Aly Benitez scored on a direct kick of her own to knot the score.

The second half belonged to the Rams as they controlled play and took the lead at the 26:00 mark of the half on a Christina Cooley shot off a perfect Ryan Shaw feed. From there, Kellgren stopped the little Winter Park had to offer and the Rams celebrated.

goal.

Fortunately, the Lions didn't need one. The combination of a close-marking defense and an attack that kept the ball in the offensive half of the field for much of the game allowed Oviedo to limit Boone to six shots on the night. Christiansa only had to make three saves in recording the shutout.

Getty said that from here on out, the Lions would have to guard against overconfidence.

"We've defeated the No. 1-ranked team in the state in Lake Mary and we were able to come back and post an ugly win over a good Boone team," said Getty. "Hopefully, by winning this game, it got us over the hump emotionally."

"You always have to be worried about your next opponent. Right now, however, I think we're confident that we can play with anybody left in the tournament."

Duvall, a junior, struck out five and allowed no earned runs in raising her record to 4-1 on the season.

"We played well and stayed focused," said Seminole head coach David Rogers. "We showed a lot of maturity and I think we're starting to turn some heads. They are really playing together as a team and I'm happy that we are competitive this year. As long as we stay focused we should be alright."

The Tribe took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning and the score stayed that way until the hosts scored two runs

In each of the fourth and fifth innings to take a 5-0 lead.

The Panthers scored both of their runs in the top of the seventh inning with the help of two Seminole errors.

Senior outfielder Kelley Langton was the star for the Tribe as she was two-for-three with a double and two RBI and also made a good diving catch in the outfield.

Also contributing offensively for Seminole were Duvall (1-for-4 with a double), Tamara Sleep (1-for-2), Julie Keefer and Melissa Witte (both 1-for-3), Sherril Eiland (sacrifice, RBI) and Amanda Mustakas (sacrifice).

The Fighting Seminoles are now 4-1 on the season and will be in Orlando to take on 5A-5 foe Oak Ridge on Tuesday at 4 p.m., stay on the road to play a Seminole Athletic Conference game at the Oviedo Sports Complex on Thursday against the Lions at 5 p.m., and then return home to host Lake Mary at 6:30 p.m. next Friday.

Burleson a big part of Lake Howell's baseball rebirth

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

WINTER PARK — As the Lake Howell baseball season crawled to a close last year, pitcher Danny Burleson sat on the bench and never complained.

Sure, deep inside, he wondered why he wasn't getting a chance to take the mound — had had only two starts all season — but he kept it all to himself.

The Silver Hawks finished 9-20 and the losses mounted and enthusiasm declined.

Now, it's all changed at Lake Howell. The Hawks are off to a 2-0 start and are in a cluster of teams near the top of the district and conference races.

Burleson has been a part of the winning equation, off to a 2-0 start, including a masterful shutout of Mount Dora last Monday, but he has other ideas about who gets the credit.

During the off-season, the Hawks brought in David Vince to take over the Hawks' helm. Vince has brought new life to a program that is playing some inspired baseball in the early part of the season.

"It's a great feeling," Burleson, a senior, said. "I'm loving it all this year because it's so much more fun. We have to give all of our success to Coach Vince. He has put so much effort into rebuilding us this season and working with everybody."

He has a lot to work with. The top of the Lake Howell batting order consists of shortstop Chris Gase, a strong defensive player who knows how to get on base; second baseman Jimmy Bloodgood, Roberto Santana and Joe Santillo, who has already launched three homers this season.

In addition, Lake Howell has been bolstered by a strong defense, strong in the infield and featuring ball hawk Nick Hajek in center field.

The Lake Howell pitching staff also has some depth after going with a two-man staff for most of last season, led by Luke Lockwood and Chad Parsons. This year, Lake Howell adds Burleson to the mix along with 6-foot-8 basketball star Ryan Smith who hopes to pitch for the University of Georgia next season.

Smith is expected to fill out the rotation as early as next week after a break from the Hawks' district champion basketball season.

The pitchers are getting the job done, but they have plenty to back them up.

"There's definitely a different attitude and we're a lot better defensively," Burleson said. "It's such a change from last season and it all goes back to Coach Vince."

Burleson brings it in the mid-80s which won't impress too many scouts, but he styles himself as a pitcher who can hit the corners like his role model, Atlanta Braves' Tom Glavine. He said all of his teammates should benefit from Vince's aggressive style of contacting college coaches.

He said Vince has sent out over 100 handwritten letters for many of the players to try to extend their baseball career after this season.

Vince met with his players for the first time after taking over for longtime Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin, the only coach the Hawks had ever known.

"When we first met Coach Vince, right away we knew he was the real deal," Burleson said. "We used to goof around a lot but that isn't happening this year, but he still stresses having fun."

For Burleson, last year wasn't nearly as much fun.

"I would get discouraged sometimes, not being able to pitch, but I never wanted to be negative. I always tried to stay positive, but sometimes I would wonder why I never got a chance."

Now that he's gotten it, he's taken advantage even though the season is still young. It might be too early to compare him to Oviedo's Ben Knapp and Lake Brantley's Robbie Sitz, but Burleson said he thinks he can hold his own against either of them. In fact, he and Sitz attended a tryout with the Pittsburgh Pirates last season.

It's still early to tell if Lake Howell can hold up against state champion Lake Brantley or the always-strong Oviedo and Lake Mary squads, but, for now, the Hawks are having fun.

That's the attitude that comes with winning.

Rams

"This has been a very emotional week for us," said Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle. "It's been tough on everyone and I know the kids are going through a lot. They probably aren't thinking too well right now and that is to be expected."

Once again last night, the Lake Mary soccer team was able to put their tragic and emotion filled week behind them and concentrate on the task at hand.

Good defense and smart play on both sides of the ball kept the game scoreless until sophomore forward Danny Wymer scored his first goal with 15:19 left in the first half. He struck again :49 seconds later to put the Rams up 2-0.

Wymer would complete his second hat trick of not only the season, but his career with 8:06 remaining in the period.

"Getting a hat trick is nice any time," Wymer explained. "But the fact that the only two I have ever accomplished have come in post-season play is really special to me."

At the half, Lake Mary was up 3-0 and Winter Park was trying to figure out what it could do to stop the Rams' attack.

The Wildcats figured it out in the first two minutes of the second half when mid fielder Sage Martina finally put one past Rams goal keeper Kurtis Musson. Their celebration was brief, however, and they would not get another chance to put points on the board.

Lake Mary regained their composure quickly and continued to put the pressure on.

Senior forward Pat Mangan placed one in the net with 18:00 left and Fernando Villalobos, a sophomore mid fielder, had a header for one with 11:13 remaining in the game.

Then something happened. A fight broke out on the field that took almost a minute and all of the officials to break up.

After a lot of commotion and speculating, the officials told the coaches that a fight broke out between the players and they were red carding Winter Park's Dave Monnett and Lake Mary's Mike Raymond. Despite protests by McCorkle and Wildcats coach Robert Avosaa, the calls stood and the game resumed.

Only minutes after the short lived brawl, Ian Pierce put the final score of the game on the board for Lake Mary and the remaining minutes were basically played out without much spirit.

Despite the little interruption, the game as a whole was played very well by both sides. Lake Mary just had tremendous defensive pressure throughout the evening and Winter park just couldn't get the edge.

"We're playing our best soccer now, which is very good considering we're in the post season," McCorkle said. "All of the kids did a solid job, especially our unheralded heroes like Ian Pierce, Ben Neri and Rob Hall. We just have to keep our heads about us and remained focused if we want to keep playing."

Remaining focused may be a big concern for the players and coaches, who are still pretty shaken by the recent happenings. One bright spot in the whole ordeal has been that the team has learned how important they are to each other.

"I think since all of this has happened we have really bonded more," Wymer said. "We've concentrated more on soccer and our goal of returning to the final four, and we've had to step up our play to combat the emotions we're all feeling."

Sometimes emotions can hinder a team and at other times they can help. The enormous loss that Lake Mary has suffered will always be a sad memory for the team. If they can, however, make it back to the state finals, they will have more than just the title to play for. They will be playing for their fallen teammate.

The Rams will play their Regional Quarterfinal on Tuesday at home against Niceville, a 5-2 winner over Lake City-Columbia Friday night.

SANFORD — It's about time the PGA Tour got underway.

Sure, the Tour (they scream if you don't use the capital T), has been moving along for the last six weeks, but most of the big stars either haven't been out, or playing in Dubai.

The western leg of the tour consists of a lot of non-descript golf tournament that give up scores like John Huston's record breaking 28-under three weeks ago, and various celebrity programs that the professionals either love or hate.

To get to the real tour, Florida is where it all starts. That's when the big boys show up to tune for the Masters, and the courses become a little more treacherous.

That's where the Tour started this week at Doral. For the next four weeks, the Tour becomes a full-time job for the Big Names. This weekend, Doral in Miami features one of the longest and most traditionally-rich courses in the country.

Next week, at the Honda in Fort Lauderdale, most of the Big Names tend to take the week off, then comes Arnie's party at Bay Hills and the Players Championship in Ponte Vedra Beach which annually contains the strongest field of the year on the Tour.

You still have two weeks to get badges for the Bay Hill Invitational, one of the best-run events of the year. It's the closest the show comes to Central Florida and the course is demanding, but spectator-friendly.

Then, for the ultimate test in target golf, just hop on AIA for an awesome drive, through St. Augustine, and into Ponte Vedra for the Players.

After that, the next chance to see the Tour comes in October when everyone (well, not everyone; most of the Big Names who have clinched their cards for 1999) will come back.

Simple Solutions to Tough Weight Loss

A weekly column by
CAROL FREEMAN
Health and Fitness Consultant

Q: I see ads for diets that claim I can lose 10 or more pounds a week. Can that be true?

A: Not really. Although under rare circumstances a few people can lose 10 pounds a week, I doubt if they can lose 10 pounds of fat. Your body will only burn a very small amount of fat a week.

Lesson #1: "Fat loss" is different from "weight loss". One to two pounds of "fat loss" a week is what's known as "effective weight loss". Any additional loss will be from water, muscle and bone. Loss of muscle will lower your metabolism and bone loss leads to osteoporosis. The more muscle you lose, the lower your metabolic rate is and the slower you'll burn calories (fat) in the future - making it harder yet to lose fat.

Lesson #2: Have realistic expectations. Self esteem comes from reaching realistic goals. When you're active and eating a healthy diet, your body can only burn about 1 to 2 percent of its weight in fat a week. And some weeks, for reasons only your fat cells know, you won't see and progress on the scale at all. Don't be discouraged. Slow but steady wins this race.

Brother, sister team win state dead lift contest

By Pam Kelley
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

Brother and sister weight lifting duo placed in the 1998 Sunshine State Bench Press and Dead Lift Contest on Saturday, Feb. 20, proving at last, that strength does add up in the scheme of genetics.

Both Patricia Daignault and her brother, Richard Kelley, also found self-determination and the supportive energy surrounding them were key in their victory. "The audience was cheering her on after she put up the first weight," Kelley states, reflecting on his sister's accomplishment.

Daignault proudly won first place in the woman's drug-free division by bench pressing more kilograms than any female in her weight class. "I always wanted a trophy," Daignault said, smiling into the glossy reflection of the plaque awarded her.

As with training, Daignault found mind-over-matter determined her success. "Adrenaline got me through the first lift but I was too relaxed during the second." Every contestant lifts three times, increasing the weight with each lift. Although she failed in pressing the second weight, Daignault relied on mental strength and proceeded in putting up the winning weight during her third and final round.

She also credits the spectators and competing athletes. "I had lost of fun," Daignault exclaims. "I met many, really nice, supportive people." Having her husband, Stephen Daignault, present to lift off the weight, no doubt assisted in boosting her morale.

Kelley, Daignault's brother and primary competing motivator, also found comfort in his near-by family and encouraging atmosphere. He placed second in the men's 198 pound, drug-free division, by bench pressing more weight than all but one of his competitors. Regardless of his successfulness, Kelley finds disappointment. "I had a great time but I am discouraged that I did not reach my personal goal," he says.

Kelley's goal was to press 405 pounds, which he achieved prior to getting the flu. He plans to continue competing, pressing for new goals and success in the up-coming State and Regional contests. He may find himself competing solo, however, as his sister, Daignault, has racked the weights for now, choosing to focus instead on Cardiovascular and Isometric work-outs.

Health & nutrition seminar

The public is invited to attend a health and nutrition seminar on March 8, 1998 at 1:45 p.m. at the Courtyard by Marriott in Heathrow. (I-4 and Exit 50). Dr. Cynthia Foster, author of the book "Medicine Exposed-the Deadly Truth about Your Doctor," will present a seminar sharing her story of recovery from a serious illness and will teach listeners how to take charge of their own health.

Seating is limited and admission is free. For reservations contact Ray Sica at (407) 321-0031.

40/40 vision?

Nearly 90 percent of people over age 45 wear glasses all or most of the time.

"Loss of the ability of the lens to focus up close is a normal biological change after people turn 40," said Dr. Richard Lewis, an ophthalmologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

To help focus on fine print and relieve eye stress, many people in their 40s resort to over-the-counter reading glasses.

"These are acceptable for the average person who isn't unusually nearsighted or farsighted and who doesn't have a significant problem with astigmatism," Lewis said. "But they should not take the place of a complete, regular eye examination, which can detect glaucoma and other problems that tend to develop around middle age."

The Benefits of Nutrition

Proper nutrition has many positive effects in our everyday life. It has inner, as well as outer benefits. The inner advantages are lower blood pressure, less chance of heart disease and aiding in the control of diabetes. The outer advantages are better physical appearance, less stress and ability to participate in sports, such as golf and tennis, with more energy. Getting the proper nutrition program to blend into your daily schedule is the key to good health.

'Brief' encounter Longwood businesswoman's invention is a success

Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD - Cindy Michels, the first woman to get a utility patent on men's underwear in the United States, has just launched marketing efforts for a revolutionary product - e2u's.

When Michels' husband came to her complaining about the tremendous discomfort and problems caused by his underwear, she took it on as a personal and professional challenge to research and develop the perfect underwear for men.

These days, it seems as though sending a man to the moon is easy, but finding him underwear that doesn't bind, pinch, or give him wedgies is impossible. Well, no more.

After three and a half years of research and extensive testing, Michels, an information systems engineer, with a background in biology and chemistry, built a product the way one should be built.

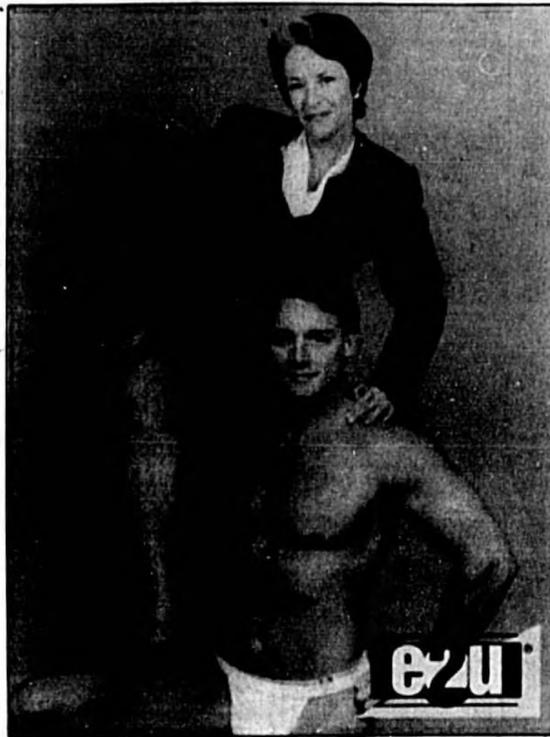

She discovered the problem-pinch, binding, wedging, and the excessive heat and moisture build up that standard men's underwear create. She found a market - 80 percent of the male population. With input from physicians and sports medicine experts who said "it can't be done," and surveys from over 2,100 men, she created the solution-e2u's.

e2u's are designed exclusively for the male anatomy, an option men have never had before. They provide the freedom of a boxer, with the support an athlete requires. Even more exciting about e2u's, are how they greatly enhance and compliment the male physique. Now, the manufacturer announces the addition of T-backs, thong briefs, to its line of ergonomically engineered underwear. The T-back has a "barely there" feeling, while it provides gentle support. As in the original full brief, the front panel is still the anatomically correct 3-D pouch, and the waistband continues to be seamless. The T-back has a flat V-shaped flare at the back of the waistband, narrowing to the thong.

The pure 100 percent combed cotton knit makes the briefs soft and comfortable. The colors are the same as the full brief: white, black, teal, and royal blue. The e2u T-backs are available in sizes small, medium, large and extra-large, while the full briefs come in sizes 28-56.

e2u's are manufactured in Ergo's new facility at 1372 Bennett Drive, Suite 164, Longwood.

Cindy Michels (top) is riding high on the success of her company that manufactures men's briefs.

Have a healthy respect for the downside.

I just finished a meeting with a client in which we discussed the purchase of a business. The conversation brought back a lot of memories for me about my 20-plus years as a small businessman. The client was focusing on the rewards side of the business and giving scant attention to the risks. Now I don't believe you can be paralyzed by fear or doubt but you need a healthy respect for the downside.

As we talked I asked them what obligations the seller had to them if there was a material change in the business. They started telling me how the seller would assist them with the relocation of the business so they would lose. I then asked what economic incentive did the seller have to do this? Both of them looked at me and said well that is what they said they would do. I asked well who pays for this service or is it part of the sales price? They said it was included in the sales price. Let me stop here and relate that the sales price was to be paid in the following manner, 50 percent up front and the balance within 90 days. This is a service business that relies totally on one client for 100 percent of its revenue. No long term contract exists between the vendor and the customer. So at anytime this customer could change vendors.

The amount of money involved is in the low 8 figures, an amount that for most working people involves putting almost all of their assets at risk. So here was some very hardworking people putting up most of their savings to buy a business with very little security that the customer would remain long term. On top of that they were relying on a promise to assist them to find other customers if they lost the first. This assurance was given even though there was no economic benefit to the seller to do so.

Now when we were children we believed in Santa Claus but as adults we need to bring a measure of skepticism to sales inducements. As we explored their options, we began to talk about what was fair to them. First and foremost never give a seller all of the money up front or on a very short payments schedule. Second, look at the assets you are buying and do not pay a large amount for "good will". Third, if the success of the business depends on a small number of clients, make sure they are tied up in some type of long term arrangement.

The art of a deal is making an agreement that all parties can live with and have an economic incentive to honor. Yes, you can use the courts to enforce an agreement, but look at the wasted effort by all parties. If a deal has incentives for all parties to perform then you have much fewer problems.

Charlie Carlson

Strange Florida: Writer to tell Heathrow women about local history

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURES EDITOR

HEATHROW - Delving into the supernatural excites Charlie Carlson almost as much as digging into his ancestral roots.

He used to hang out in the spiritualist camp of Casadaga when he was kid.

His mother, Gladys Elizabeth Hawkins-Carlson was a "genuine Florida Cracker Queen and psychic extraordinaire." In the dedication of his new book Strange Florida: The Unexplained and Unusual, Carlson writes, "She taught me to make images out of the clouds and I became an artist. She inspired me with her Florida folklore and I became curious. Then she told me of ghostly encounters and scared the hell out of me!"

Book Review

Carlson's book might not scare the hell of you, but it will certainly give you pause to stop and think about another Florida, one far away from sunshine, oranges, tourists and condominiums.

"Florida's history is filled with strange stories and oddities, most can be explained as folklore, natural phenomena or hoaxes," Carlson writes.

In the Heart of the Hammock

A resident of Oviedo's Black Hammock wants to preserve a way of life

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURES EDITOR

OVIDO - In 1987, Jim and Jo Anne Logue carved their initials in the soft bark of a wild orange tree near a sulfur spring on the shore of Lake Jesup, in the heart of Black Hammock.

If you didn't know where to look, you'd never find the carvings that have stretched beyond recognition from more than ten years of growth.

As a matter of fact, if you didn't know where to look for the spring, you'd probably never find it. But Logue seems to know the area like the back of his hand.

Ambivalent about unearthing well-kept secrets, Logue recently gave a tour of the property purchased by the St. Johns River Water Management District in 1997.

A tract of 1,241 acres located on Elm Street, Logue estimates that 75 percent is wetlands. A cattle rancher and real estate broker, Logue was a friend of Everett Williams, the head of the Williams Family Trust, which owned the land. Logue was involved with the sale of the land to the district. His land is adjacent to the district land.

Logue is a native Floridian, born in Tampa and raised over there by Colonial Plaza when Mr. Lee had cows over there.

"He's been living in the Hammock for 25 years, after he was pushed out of Altamonte Springs."

"I was living over there by the Altamonte Mall before the mall." He said he remembers seeing the sign announcing "Florida's Largest Mall" at the corner of Palm Springs Drive and State Road 436. "I'll never forget," he said of seeing the sign. "I said man, this is one of those Florida land scams. Ain't nobody ever coming all the way out here to shop."

Logue said the sign was all that was on the land for a couple of years, until, "in one day's time, they unloaded heavy equipment and, I mean, they took every blade of grass off that place that there was

An open letter to the city of Winter Springs...

...as read by Jim Logue at the recent commission meeting:

To all the laws, rules and regulations, I say to hell with them. I am going to tell it to you like it is. Why do I say to hell with it? Because inch by inch we are creating hell here on earth. Some of us, specifically those of us who finally settle here in the Black Hammock are trying to preserve a little island of peace in all this insanity. And it seems you would care no less than to throw it away. So, read this with your heart and I most respectfully and from the bottom of my heart ask that you dare not do such a thing.

What we live in is what's left of a big swamp. It's been drained, cut, burned, drilled, farmed, poisoned, abounded and left to grow back! Some of it is still in oranges, there are a few cows, there's a strawberry patch where city folks come to pick their own.

Mostly for years it was just a forgotten mosquito infested waste land with salty drinking water that smells like rotten eggs.

But, it is home to the most endangered species left. A very special breed of people. A people that are looking for a home. People that want to grow where they are planted. People who want roots.

My neighbor on my left has been my neighbor for 20 years. Across the street 18 years, another 16 years.

You can live in a $10,000 house or a $510,000 house. Nobody has to cut their grass. In fact you don't even have to have any grass.

We have the old world craftsman and people who work out of their house and in their house.

Ego trips and status seekers leave all that at work. Around here we're all the same.

People wave at each other—some do and some don't.

Please see Letter, Page 3C

This old house: Before and after

Jim Thompson (right photo) stands on the front porch of a house in downtown Lake Mary that he and his son, Jeff, recently renovated. The house (left photo, as it originally looked) was located on property owned by First Presbyterian Church of Lake Mary. The church property is located at the corner of Country Club Road and Wilbur Avenue. The church wants to expand on the corner property and demolished several buildings in the fall of 1996. They hoped to be able to save the 'little yellow house', as it was called. It was moved by Thompson to property he owns on East Crystal Lake Avenue in October of 1996. The Thompsons began the renovation of the circa 1930s house in July of 1997 and completed it early this year. Thompson said it had to be stripped to the frame and only part of the original siding and flooring was saved. The whole intent was to retain the character. The two bedroom, two bath house has a white picket fence and is landscaped with palms and dwarf magnolias. Thompson is trying to retain the character of the old neighborhood in the historic downtown area. He is also working on restoring the home he was born in, next door to the new yellow house. 'I've got a lot of leg work to do with the city,' Thompson said before he can get going with that project. Several other projects are in the works for the historic area as the city begins a study of the downtown district. The city of Lake Mary received a timeline from the consulting firm involved in the downtown redevelopment study. A tour of the downtown area was scheduled for Feb. 20. The tasks of the study include mapping the area, a planning analysis, engineering analysis, traffic circulation analysis and economic analysis. A final report is scheduled to be presented to the city the week of April 27.

God...in the midst of the storm!

By Dr. William Robert (Bob) Parker
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH MARKHAM WOODS

"The worst tornadoes in the history of the state..." have been media headlines defining the most recent Central Florida disaster. Other captions read: "Twister killed at will" and "Hoping, praying all they could do!" One person, who witnessed the total destruction of his mobile home, jumped out the door and fell flat on the ground holding to a metal pole. He lived to exclaim: "It is by the grace of God I'm here today." In a miraculous survival of a young child, the father stated that his family believes that God must have a special purpose for this boy.

Physical phenomena

The lowering of the temperature to a point where the air can no longer hold all the moisture is the basic condition necessary for the formation of rain. As well, meteorologists tell us that tornadoes form when certain atmospheric conditions come together. Usually, warm, moist air spreads from the Gulf, and cool air from higher levels flows over the warm moist air. The cold air then sinks while the warm air rises. Air rushes in from all sides at lower levels replacing the rising warm air. Then, this air begins to rotate; at first, the twisting is random, but suddenly it forms into a vortex (or whirl) that extends downward. These conditions-tornadoes-bring three destructive results.

1. Heavy winds which can reach 300 miles per hour.
2. Explosive force-a sudden dip in air pressure on the outside of a structure where the air inside cannot escape fast enough to equalize pressure on the inside walls, thus, the roof and the building explode into pieces.
3. Strong lifting force in the updraft of air in the funnel.

and they went to work and it hasn't been the same since.

"Then I thought, well I'll move to Oviedo. Surely, nobody will ever want to live in Oviedo. Nobody ever even heard of Oviedo."

Logue has been an advocate for reducing the impact of development in environmentally sensitive areas. He has spoken against the Battle Ridge development proposed for the area south of Toll Road 417 and adjacent to Lake Jesup.

He calls the district property "The Final Frontier, this piece of property here, and its becoming a public place."

"We're real happy it can be protected," said Jo Anne, a Vermont native who met her husband at Black Hammock Fish Camp.

Logue said the district property, known as the East Lake Jesup Conservation Area, is replete with bird and wild life, another thing he'd rather not let anybody know; "they come out here and poach as it is." Deer, panther and black bear have been spotted and "there's for sure every other kind of critter that's native to this area."

Lorne Malo, of the SJRWMD told him the conservation area has one of the widest varieties of birds in the state.

There is also a shell mound

Now, the description of the cause of rain tells us why we get wet if we are without an umbrella! As well, if we are confronted by a tornado, the cause is explained by the make-up of the physical atmosphere!

The big question

Can it be said that the atmosphere forms tornadoes just because it does? Is it simply natural or accidental that tornadoes happen? Could the power behind such events be some nebulous power? The answer lies in the providence of God which is God's ongoing relationship to His creation to do two things: govern and sustain creation. For example, the Scriptures say that God causes it to rain on one city and not on another. At one point in history, God caused it to rain 40 days and 40 nights covering the whole earth with water at one time (Genesis 7:12). We affirm that God is Sovereign or He is not God. He is over all things, and by Him all things exist. God is certainly not handcuffed by His own universe! We must remember, however, that nothing is out of God's control. He would not be God. Our minds, thoughts, and ways do not equal God's in understanding. We definitely do not get the whole picture now. We, too, must remember that though this is God's world-it is imperfect, sinful and a fallen world. All of creation "groans" with sinful imperfections waiting until there will be a new heaven and new earth. John the writer of Revelation says: "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away...And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away" (Revelation 21:1-4).

The awakening to reality-the good

Since we are made in the image of God, we must face suffering, disaster, and death with intellectual and spiritual integrity. This means asking the right questions if we expect right answers. The question is not: "Why would children die?" or "Why did one family member survive and the other one die?" Here, we should question our questions. In reaction to suffering and disaster, we can be bitter and selfish, or we can be thankful and compassionate to others. Questions concerning disaster are not for speculation but should be for compassion and involvement. Behind many questions are presuppositions that you believe to be true and by which you live your life. Disaster and death have a way of saying that life does have meaning even if life can be taken in a moment's time. Life is far more than being "on a treadmill to oblivion."

Consolation in disaster!

Our consolation is not in the belief that all those who die though disasters are said to have been rewarded by the Creator with spiritual life everlasting. Biblical faith and everlasting life do not come through our death as a meritorious sacrifice, but it comes through the gift of the death of a Redeemer. This rightly defines spiritual life as being "justified by faith" not by human works. One thing is certain! In disasters and other human experiences (however bizarre they may appear), God calls us to look to Him and trust Him with the outcome.

Life is worth living, because God has put value into His universe. God does maintain order even when we conclude that something has gone wrong. It is God who made man, and it is He who determines what is "good" and what is "bad".

Life is extremely fragile. Preparing for a storm can mean the difference between life and death. However, preparing for the new heaven and new earth is far greater because it is forever!
Think about that.

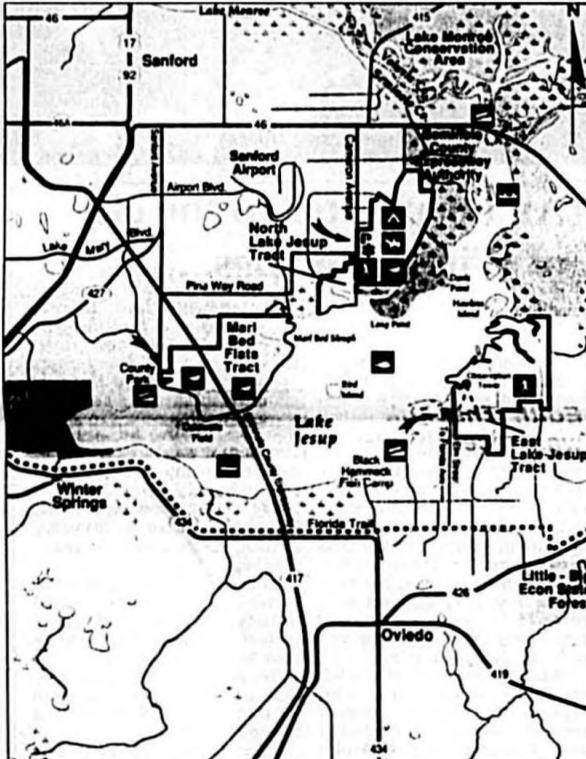

near the sulfur spring. "I don't know if its what an archeologist would officially call an Indian mound, but there's certainly been Indian activity here evidenced by the shells and pottery that's easily found."

Now, I don't know if anybody's ever come out here and documented it and written it up, but I've never told that many people about it because people already come out here and try to dig and vandalize the thing and carry off pieces of the stuff."

The district will soon be installing a parking area at the entrance off of Elm Avenue and Logue said he had heard an observation tower, near the lake shore, is planned.

A natural hiking trail already exists on the property; a tram for a narrow gauge railroad, that ran from the Elm to Sweetwater Creek, about a mile. "It's a nice hike."

Logue said the railroad was probably used to haul celery from the field to the lake, for transport by steamboat. Logue found a set of wheels and an axle from the train that he donated to a railroad museum in Winter Garden. He said that since the district bought the property, he would like to get the wheels back, to display in the conservation area. "I'm trying to get them back and bring them back to this area. That's all we've got of our history."

"But some accounts are not so easily explained away leaving us intrigued by an unexplained mystery."

Take for example the Skunk Ape, Florida's version of Big Foot. Could sightings be explained away as an overactive imagination describing a black bear. Carlson says bears often walk upright and emit a skunk-like odor, but they're hardly eight feet tall and leave a 15-foot print.

The facts and fantasy don't stop there. Did you know Florida had a volcano?, or that the Garden of Eden might have been in Florida. All of this and more is included in Strange Florida.

This book should be on the reading list of every native (or almost native) Floridian. It's more fun than counting out-of-state license plates on a road trip up U.S. Highway 1, or stopping at a roadside stand to buy tacky souvenirs like plastic palm trees or baby alligators.

Carlson's book is available on the Florida shelf of most Booklands and Barnes & Nobles.

Charlie Carlson will present a program of the history of the Markham Woods area to the Heathrow Women's Club on Monday, March 9. Carlson will recount the history of the area before Jenó Paulucci and Arvida.

Carlson's great-grandfather was one of the original settlers of the Markham area. He herded cattle there. The area was also known for its turpentine distillery and saw mill. The Heathrow Women's Club meets the second Monday of every month at the Heathrow Country Club. Business Meetings begin at 10:30 a.m., the luncheon is at 11:30 and the program follows. For information on membership, please contact Linda Wish at 333-3702.

There is a swimming hole you can swim naked in. There has been over 12 people baptized in my pond including myself.

I have never locked my house in 22 years but I have six gunnies, eight peacocks, a biting goose and seven dogs. There are single women living out these dreams here. More than you would think. Here they live in peace not having to worry about being peaked at, hit on, locking doors or keeping up after a man if that is their wish.

Here we are free to do pretty well as we please. The more people who come, the more problems that come. Five acres is barely enough. When you get more people than that, along with it comes street lights, sirens, lawn mowers on the weekends and busy bodies.

We live here because this is where we want to live. We aren't crying for someone to fix the place. We love it like it is for what it is. The value is not measured in dollars. It's in the flame red maples in the fall. In the green leaves that explode in spring. In the way nature is growing in around us. In our ability to grow with her.

Dogs live till they get old and die. Babies are born at home. I've seen snakes mate, spotted lawn nurse. Hawks pull the heads off my baby chicks. It is a place where one can take a lifetime to grow up. Where you can plant a tree and be here when its big. Where we put back some of what our own kind has taken away. A place where one can say, "my grand daddy walked these trails and kicked this dirt and my grand children can do the same thing". What price will buy that. Only the dedication and devotion of a special kind of person.

There is no other place like this place. Think about it. Really. Where else can we go. You may say go north or south or far away. Unfortunately, most of us must work in society to survive. This is the only place left where we can have our dream. It's not for everyone, but we are a special people. We don't need to see each other to love one another. We don't have to agree to respect each other. We live miles apart but we are one.

Am I fool enough to think that this letter of the things described here will change your mind. I hope so. What else can I really do. You can believe I with my neighbors will fight with every tool the law allows to preserve what we have. But, the price of defeat is too great. We cannot afford to lose. If we do lose, you lose too. We've made a place for eagles, and tortoises and frogs and critters with names you can't pronounce. For the sake of God, give us a place to. A place where you, yes you can find the hand of another human being. A special kind of human being. One you can come back and find 10 years from now, still here, still real and just like you left him.

WINTER TRAVEL

From tropical paradise to winter wonderland

After Betty D. Smith had served as mayor of the city of Sanford for 12 years, she and her husband, Dr. Robert (Bob) J. Smith took the trip of a lifetime to Egypt. Here they explored ancient civilizations, traveled the majestic Nile River, visited historic sites such as pyramids and studied today's modern civilization.

The Smiths have recently returned from a trip to Costa Rica which Betty describes as "so entirely different from Egypt." Instead of associating with millions of people in crowded

SENIOR EDITOR

DORIS DIETRICH

Calro, the Smiths encountered flowers and critters in the dense evergreen Costa Rican rain forest, a paradise created by Mother Nature. Exploring this facet of nature has been on the couple's travel list for some time. They back-packed and walked and walked and enjoyed the exercise. They traveled down the Rio Frio to the Cano Negro Wild Life Refuge where the marvels of nature unfolded. Later, when their boat, carrying 15 passengers to the Tortuguero National Park got stuck, Bob helped push the crude craft to safety.

Their humble home away from home, Cariari Resort, although new and clean, did not include quarters with such luxuries as screens on the windows, to say the least of air conditioning. They were warned to shake out their shoes and clothing before they dressed in the morning. The Smiths did not encounter any critters in their clothing, but some members of their party did. Their wake-up call was jungle sounds including monkey-talk.

Explaining that the state bird is the slate-colored robin, Betty said the birds in the refuge are "gorgeous." There were blue birds, red birds, snake birds, shore birds, macaws, toucans, parrots, herons, egrets, kingfishers, hundreds of other birds, three kinds of monkeys, iguanas and crocodiles. She mentioned they saw a perfectly atrocious crock that "make gators look like a pussy cat."

Betty and Bob were very impressed with nature's fireworks, Arenal Volcano, Costa Rica's most active volcano, with glowing embers shooting out of the 5,358 foot-tall volcano.

The Smiths visited a volcano which had not erupted since 1969. Betty said discos and motels have been constructed on the sides of the cone. They also visited banana and coffee plantations. The chief economic industry of Costa Rica (next to tourism, of course) is agriculture, sugar and cocoa.

Betty said they had a lot of good food "including a savory red beans and rice dish that is 'not like ours.'" She explained the rice was small grain and stood alone. "I liked it," she said. The bananas, pineapples, mangoes and papayas were "gorgeous," she said.

The Smiths were very impressed with Costa Rica and its peoples. Betty added that Costa Ricans are educated and well-dressed with a 93 percent literacy rate.

Dr. Horace Boyer to lead History of Gospel Music Workshop

Musicians Guild presents a History of Gospel Music Workshop. There is no history like Black history and there's no music like gospel music.

The Sanford/Central Florida Musician's Guild will combine the two to get the history of gospel music. What a gospel explosion you will have.

On Saturday, March 21, the Father of Gospel Music History, Dr. Horace Boyer, a native of Winter Park where he received his bachelor's degree in music from Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach. He furthered his study of music by earning the Master of Arts and Ph.D. Degree from Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, New York.

Dr. Boyer's career includes tenures at Albany State College, George, the University of Central Florida at Orlando and since 1973 he has been at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst where he is Professor of Music Theory and African American Music.

From 1973 until 1977, he was director of the Voices of New Africa House Workshop Choir, an ensemble of 50 voices drawn from Smith, Amherst, Mount Holyoke and Hampshire colleges and the University of Massachusetts.

With his brother James, a professor of education at Kansas State University, Boyer has traveled throughout 40 states performing gospel music as the Boyer Brothers and has recorded on the Savoy and Nashboro labels. They have appeared in concerts, festivals and on TV with gospel greats as Mahalia Jackson, Clara Ward, Alex Bradford, Dorothy Love Coateo and James Cleveland.

As a vocal soloist, he has appeared in numerous solo recitals as musical director in the musicals "Purlie", "Do Lord, Remember Me", and James Baldwin's "Blues for Mr. Charlie". He has toured many countries.

Boyer is engaged in research into African American vocal music, published over 40 articles in journals such as Music Educators Journal, the Black Perspective in Music and the Black Music Research Journal. He served as advisor on gospel music to the New Grove Dictionary of American Music. As a clinician and lecturer he has appeared at Yale, Harvard, Temple, Howard and Tuskegee Universities, the Studio Museum of Harlem and the Harlem School of the Arts.

One of the highlights of Boyer's career was his selection as Curator of Musical Instruments at the National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Instruments, a position he held from 1985-1987. Boyer's book, How Sweet The Sound, the Golden Age of Gospel, was published by E-Mott and Clark Publishing in September of 1995.

This workshop will present an entertaining workshop on the history of gospel music from slave songs to Negro spirituals, and rap. Dr. Boyer will present a session on vocal technique plus classes on choir decorum and other topics on March 21 at 9:00 a.m., First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church located on Elm Avenue in Sanford. Choirs can register for $50 and individuals for $5. The workshop choir under the direction of Dr. Boyer will

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Floyd McKenna

Dana Louise White, Daniel McKenna exchange vows

Dana Louise White became the wife of Daniel Floyd McKenna on Saturday, Oct. 4, 1997 at 5:30 p.m. in a formal wedding ceremony held at Markham Woods Presbyterian Church, Lake Mary, with the Rev. Ernest H. Flaniken and Father Sean Hesslin officiating.

The bride, a former resident of Lake Mary, is the daughter of Jerry White of Shelbyville, Ind., and Cheryl White of Indianapolis, Ind. The groom is the son of Joan McKenna and the late Floyd McKenna of Newark, Ohio.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows formal-length gown of white bridal satin. The fitted bodice was adorned with pearls, lace and iridescent sequins and the wrist length sleeves were of lace. The skirt was edged with two rows of scalloped pearls and a rear bow cinched the waist, also with scalloped edges. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses accented with Queen Anne's lace, caspia and tulle ribbons.

Attending the bride as maids of honor were Renee Workman and Carrie White-Vogel. The honor attendants wore gowns of premier blue satin halter tops and organza skirts. The bodices were accented with rhinestone buttons trimmed in gold. They carried pink roses and Queen Anne's lace with tulle ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Kim White, Robin Jones, Shannon Stewart, Tara Self, Cecelia Patterson and Lisa Vergara. Their dresses were identical to those of the honor attendants.

Serving the groom as best man was John Parker. Groomsmen were Phillip Hall, Brian Young, Chris Marshall, Joe Mastrello, Brian Jones and Tim McKenna. Ushers were Bobby Jones and Jonathan Gluhan.

Flower girls were Ashley Vogel and Jasmine Atkinson. DeBary Golf and Country Club was the site of the reception.

After a wedding trip to Sandals-St. Lucia, the couple are making their home in Seattle, Wash., where the bride is a Health Services Administration educator and the groom is employed in manufacturing engineering.

Among the other places the couple visited in the tropical paradise were: the San Carlos Valley, butterfly garden, Los Angeles Cloud Forest and Playa Dona Ana. Don't be surprised if the couple gets homesick for the fine-feathered friends, critters and rain forest of Costa Rica. It's anybody's guess where the Smiths will travel to next. But you can bet the season travelers will enjoy every minute of it.

FOGLE-MILLERS SKI IN COLORADO

For the past 12 years, Beth and Jim Fogle-Miller have been going out west to ski every winter. And the past six years have been no different since the birth of their daughter, Carlene, who will be 7 in April.

At age 2 1/2, Carlene took to skiing like a duck might take to water.

The family flew from Orlando to St. Louis and landed at Yampa Valley Regional Airport in Colorado which caters to the large jets during the season. Their destination was Steamboat Springs, northwest of Denver.

"It was wonderful weather," Beth said. "Clear and sunshiney."

Bath said the highlight of the trip was watching Carlene's delight as she progressed with her skiing prowess.

By 8:30 in the evening, the Fogle-Miller family was ready to sack out. Beth said their bodies were on eastern time, and after a day of hard skiing, they were ready for bed.

It may be good to be back to home sweet home, but the Fogle-Millers are already talking about "next year."

Seniors kicking up their heels

County's Happy Hoofers strut like teenagers

By Eida Nichols
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

The sound of clicking taps rings out three mornings a week at the Casselberry Senior Center, while jazzy music plays.

A look inside reveals older women in dance practice attire generally associated with high-stepping teenagers. So what is really happening here? It's the Happy Hoofers Dance Troupe in a regular dance class, led by Evelyn Chester.

Now, Evelyn is no Johnny-come-lately to the dancing profession. She grew up in a theatrical family with her father being a famed circus performer. She also studied tap and ballet from age 3 and later, she and her brother formed an adagio team. Evelyn has studied with some of the top professional teachers in New York.

When she and her husband, Tony, moved to Florida several years ago, she soon became bored and joined a class of line dancers. But line dancing was not her cup of tea. Hearing that the Senior Center in Casselberry was thinking of starting a tap dance class, she became interested and was quickly asked to try and get a group of people together who would like to learn to tap.

An ad was placed in the paper, and on the day the group was to meet, pandemonium broke out. Fifty men and women turned out, all believing they would soon become an Astaire or Kelly.

Evelyn was quite astonished at the response, but quickly placed the people in lines and started out with the old shuffle-step, shuffle-step. A television station was there to tape the proceedings. Now, 7-1/2 years later, the Troupe is going strong with an Advanced, Intermediate and Beginner class.

The Happy Hoofers are known throughout the Central Florida area as giving exciting and colorful performances several times a year, performing both tap and jazz numbers. Both men and women take part. Songs are sung by the group as well as a soloist. They are in demand at retirement homes, nursing homes, conventions, civic organizations and club meetings. Donations to the group are used for costumes, music, electronic equipment, etc.

Most of the people in the group never had any dance experience at all. So, starting from scratch, Evelyn had her hands full.

After a short period of time, she divided the large group into an Intermediate class and an Advanced Class. The advanced group had 12 members. Today, five of those original members are still dancing in the Advanced Class, while others are constantly being moved up from the Intermediate Class as they become more proficient.

Costumes are delightful to look at and the dancers love the different ones for each dance. These are designed by Evelyn and the audiences seem to be enthralled at the many changes the dancers make during a performance.

Evelyn choreographs all her own dances and correlates them to the perfect music for each dance. Being a professional dancer, she knows exactly how she wants the steps performed. She has a wonderful sense of timing and lots of original ideas.

A few of the dancers have had professional careers as a dancer, or have taught dancing. But the majority may have never had the opportunity to take lessons when they were youngsters.

Evelyn has volunteered her time and energy gratis to the group from the beginning. The dancers are highly appreciative of her efforts, and she herself admits to having a lot of fun, saying, "It's challenging and I enjoy trying new things. I like to teach, but I love doing the choreography. It's such a pleasure to watch the group grow in ability and professionalism."

Husbands of the dancers are loyal supporters, encouraging and applauding their wives' dancing. Explaining why they enjoy being in the Hoofers, one dancer said, "It's wonderful exercise!" Another said, "It keeps me sharp mentally!" Another noted, "Evelyn gave me self-confidence!" Another added, "I love the gals, all are so nice and congenial!" Then one quietly added, "What would we do if we didn't have Evelyn and the Happy Hoofers?"

It's hard to believe that the dancers are all Seniors, ranging in age from 55 to 80. As a line in one of their songs goes, "I want my kids and all those grand-kids of mine, to know I'm not passe, but just in my prime!" really is true when these gals and guys start kicking up their heels.

Virginia Francisco celebrated her 95th birthday at Lake Mary Woman's Club meeting

Lake Mary women learn to make living baskets

The February meeting of the Lake Mary Woman's Club was a very special day. It was Virginia Francisco's 95th Birthday. Virginia, who doesn't look a day over 75, has been a member of the Woman's Club for 67 years. Club members gave Virginia a beautiful plant with balloons.

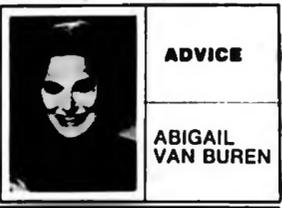

MARY ROWELL

Bette made her first living basket because she was tired of all that fake plastic yellow, pink and green stuff that people put in children's Easter basket. Her first living basket was a living Easter basket. It's so simple Bette said anyone can do it. First you take a basket. Line it with a clear (and clean) kitty litter bag. Fill with potting soil. Generously sprinkle with grass seed. (Any kind will do.) Sprits with water. Cover lightly with more soil and sprits again. Pull the bag up and seal it at the top. Place the basket where it will get about three or four ours of morning sun a day. In a few days, you will have a living Easter basket with real grass. And if the grass is a little too long, just pull out your scissors and cut it.

The annuals will look good for three to four weeks. Then, when they start to decline, take them and put them in your garden. They'll perk up and you can enjoy them even longer. The soil in your basket can be reused for your next living basket. Club members will be very busy for the next few weekends. On Saturday, March 14, the club will hold a garage sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 103 Oak View Circle in Country Club Oaks across from the Hills of Lake Mary. On Saturday, March 21, the club will be selling Lake Mary License Plates at Publix from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday, March 28, of course, is Olde Lake Mary Days. The club will be at the annual festival with a membership information booth. They will also be selling handkerchief dolls. If you'd like more information on joining the Lake Mary Woman's Club, you can call Jerry Keeth at 322-1415.

Friendly man poses as priest

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to warn your readers about something that happened to me. Perhaps it will save them the embarrassment I caused myself. My friend "Emily" met a priest while walking her dog in a neighborhood park. "Father Conway" came across as friendly and courteous. He and Emily became friends. From what Emily told me, he loves his ministry and is very knowledgeable about church doctrine, the sacraments and different parishes in our area. He is not a full-time priest because he has a full-time job. He doesn't live at a rectory; he has his own apartment. I accepted that, believing the church of his choice didn't have an opening available and that he wanted to work full-time and fill in for vacationing priests.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

When I married last year, he performed the ceremony. My fiancé, now my husband, wanted a simple wedding. I wasn't attending church on a regular basis. Father Conway offered to perform the ceremony at the catering hall. We paid $150. We had premarital counseling at his apartment. When I thought about it, I realized that Father Conway never mentioned other priests, never invited Emily or me to any of the Masses he said he performed, never discussed his school days at the seminary or his early years as a young priest. However, he did talk incessantly about how much he had spent on his priestly garments, staves, gold candlestick holders and other religious articles. Everything went off without a hitch, until one day I met a "Father Reynolds" on a flight back from Florida. His parish is near my home. I began telling him about Father Conway, and he said he had never heard of him. About two weeks after, I received a call from Father Reynolds. He told me there's no record of any Father Conway in the diocese or with any of the neighboring dioceses. When Emily and I asked Father Conway about his background, he became evasive. We asked him where he went to college and seminary school and when he graduated. The seminary and the university had no such graduate in their records. Father Reynolds knew several professors at the seminary that Father Conway claimed to have graduated from. His professors had never heard of him, either. Father Conway was nothing but a fraud. When I thought about it, I realized that Father Conway never mentioned other priests, never invited Emily or me to any of the Masses he said he performed, never discussed his school days at the seminary or his early years as a young priest. However, he did talk incessantly about how much he had spent on his priestly garments, staves, gold candlestick holders and other religious articles. Next time I meet a man of the cloth who doesn't live at the rectory, I'll check his background and speak to the priest he fills in for. I'll check the headquarters that the priest/minister answers to. Had I done that, I would not have been taken in by an impostor. WISER NOW IN MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR WISER NOW: What a mess! I took your problem to an indisputably legitimate man of the cloth, Cardinal Roger Mahony, archbishop of Los Angeles. His response: DEAR ABBY: Please permit me to answer "Wiser Now in Massachusetts". DEAR WISER NOW: I am very sorry that you were victimized by a man pretending to be a Catholic priest and I recommend you do two things in the aftermath of this fraud. First, contact the district attorney in your jurisdiction to see if "Father Conway" has violated any civil laws. If he is not authorized to officiate at weddings by the state, he may be liable to criminal prosecution. Second, if you have not already done so, make an appointment with your parish priest to have your marriage blessed by the church. This should not be a complicated matter, and I am sure your parish priest will be very sympathetic to your plight. Your experience highlights the importance of the local parish in the life of every Catholic. Always approach your parish priest for the sacraments, even when you would like a priest from outside the parish to witness a marriage or to baptize a child. The parish priest will be able to ensure that a visiting priest has the proper faculties and delegation from competent church authorities. Wishing God's blessing on you and your groom, I am ... With so many seafood restaurants in the area, it's sometimes hard to choose which one to spend a Friday evening and some hard earned money with.

Search no longer. Altamonte Springs is the place to be when seafood is what's desired for dinner.

Shell's Seafood Restaurant has the best food for the best price in the area. The huge menu is filled with selections from every price range and every item is cooked to order and prepared with only the freshest ingredients.

All of the sauces are made on the premises, including the unique Cajun Alfredo sauce. In addition, all of the seafood is served fresh daily and in dishes that aren't run of the mill.

tions include fresh oysters, conch fritters and a variety of the common favorites. The daily made, from scratch clam chowder is also a great appetizer choice.

For dinner, good luck deciding. Besides the fresh catch and various selections such as fried, broiled or grilled anything you want, there are also many specialty pasta selections to choose from. A half order of crab legs can also be added to any meal, an additional bonus for any crab lover who wants to sample another entree as well.

Salad and bread are optional at Shells. Not only does that keep the cost of the dinners to a minimum, but also allows those who usually aren't able to finish an entire meal the opportunity to concentrate on dinner without filling up on bread and salad.

The atmosphere at Shells is also second to none. The large bar area is surrounded by several dining areas that are all decorated with an ocean motif. If the great outdoors is what you like, there is also a large covered patio where diners can sit.

In all, Shells is the place for great atmosphere, reasonably priced meals and some of the best seafood this far inland.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It benefits you today to dress and conduct yourself in harmony with your peers. Setting yourself apart in any manner could represent a poor choice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Being your self today will be far more effective and attractive than trying to imitate someone else's style. Do not play roles that don't suit you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're spending more than your budget allows, keep in mind the bills will be due eventually. Do not set yourself up for a case of spender's remorse.
