which Rayenal misjudged just joing snough for him to be so late in arriving at where the ball fell, that it dropped from his hands. Culbreth went to third on the play. However, the scoring chance was short-lived as Lake forced Headley to foul out to first.

The only other tight spot came in the ninth when Prine, hitting a hard ball to Harrison at third, reached ascend as Harrison threw wild to first. Prine was the first man'up, and things looked dangerous. Strickland whiffed at three atrikes; Schlitz filed out to short left, and then what might be called the fielding feature of the day took place when Manager Deetch, racing into abort Jeft field, caught Harrell's almost sure hit with his back to the grandstand. Boy, that was a peach of a catch, and the Indian's last chance went glimmering.

Indian's last chance went glimmering.

In the mesatime, Bill Strickland, the former Georgia Tech ace, was also pitching a great game, although he was in trouble oftener than Leke. Bill was touched for aix hits by the ambitious Yeds, and, sitheugh he struck out nine, he did not bypear to have the stuff he usually has.

Sanford had a good chance to score in the second, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh innings, but, the old batting punch fust wouldn't come through. In the second Mc-Lanahen, first man up, singled through first. Allen, the new catcher, came to bat looking as though he would knock the old ball a mile, but, his best effort was a high fly to center field. Harrison had trouble in finding his batting eye, and struck out, and Wright, after fouling two along the base lines, ended the inning by flying out to deep center, Provost making a grandstand catch.
