

It's Official: Lake Jessup Is Really Lake J-e-s-u-p

By MARK VOGLER
Herald Staff Writer

It's official. Seminole County residents can expect to see Lake Jessup properly spelled on most future area maps.

Bonner Carter, chairman of the Seminole County Historical Commission, saw to it that federal geographers finally corrected a spelling error that had been preserved for more than a hundred years.

Carter told the Seminole County Commission this week that the United States Board on Geographic Names had researched the matter and concluded that the familiar spelling J-e-s-u-p was incorrect.

Lake Jessup, according to historical documents, was named in 1837 for Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Jessup, commander of the U.S. Army troops serving in the campaign against the Seminole Indians.

But sometimes in 1875 a spelling mistake was made, and it was repeated for many years, according to Carter, whose pet project over the last two years has been to establish historical accuracy for the name of Lake Jessup.

Carter said he believes Jeffries Wyman, the first curator of the Peabody Museum at Harvard University, is responsible for the spelling blunder.

In his 1975 book "Fresh-Water Shell Mounds of the St. Johns River, Florida," a map correctly indicated Lake Jessup. But Wyman spells the name of the lake "Jessup" in the text.

"I guess his finger just kept writing, and he wound up with a typo," says Carter.

"But seriously, the whole point I'm trying to make is that if we're going to name something around here — for history's sake — let's give it its proper name. You know how things go. If you don't stop an error like this, it will go on and on forever," the historian said.

Carter started quite a few area folks in November 1980 when he had the proper spelling of Lake Jessup put on a commemorative marker, placed just off the south shores of what many people knew then as Lake J-e-s-u-p.

Bud Island, in the middle of the lake, is considered to be the geographical center of Seminole County. The nine-mile-long lake extends northeast to the St. Johns River and southeast of Sanford.

Carter said he went to great lengths and undertook considerable research to persuade officials in Washington to correct the spelling.

He furnished the U.S. Department of the Interior with more than a dozen copies of maps and other documents referring to the correct spelling of Jessup prior to Wyman's mistake.

"I asked Rep. Richard Kelly, when he was in office, how the general signed his name. And sure enough, after checking with the Pentagon the congressman found out that Jessup was spelled with just one 's,' Carter said.

"So if the Pentagon has the general signing documents with one 's,' then that's got to be the right way to spell it," he said.

Carter said local residents interested in learning more about Jessup should read Chester Kieffer's 1979 biography, "Maligned General."

In addition to his service in the War of 1812 and the Florida War, Jessup, at the age of 29 in 1818 and after only 10 years in the U.S. Army, was made its first quartermaster general, a position he held for 42 years. The general served under 11 presidents, according to the book.

Carter says he saved the government two to three years in research and the trouble of sending a survey team to Seminole County to authenticate the proper spelling of Jessup.

He jokes that county taxpayers might appreciate the proper spelling too.

"Who knows — too. We might save a gallon or two of paint in the future since we won't have to use the extra 's,' he said.

School Board Policy On Selecting Materials Approved

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A new Seminole County School Board policy on the method of various schools selecting non-state-approved instructional materials was approved by the board Wednesday night.

But a second policy, setting the method for choosing controversial materials and the ways parents could eliminate those materials from the schools, was sent back to the drawing board.

School Superintendent Bob Hughes and the staff were told to examine a Volusia County policy on controversial materials that includes parents in the selection process for new books to be placed on school library shelves.

Board member Allan Keeth sought the delay after the Rev. John Butler Book of the Northside Christian Church, Altamonte Springs, and the Rev. George Crossley, pastor of the Lake Monroe Baptist Church, criticized the lack of parental involvement in the selection process, called for in the policy.

Both clergymen pointed to a Volusia County policy including parents in the selection process of controversial materials for libraries. And to a complaint that it is difficult to get parents involved, the Rev. Mr. Crossley volunteered the 125 members of his church, and the Rev. Mr. Book offered his own services. Both insisted the parents chosen should not be directly involved in the school system.

Mr. Book suggested the school staff and administration do not want parental involvement even though parents supply the children and the finances to support the school system.

The policy concerning the selection of non-state-approved materials had been sent back earlier for revision when Keeth insisted that an amendment, finally included, give careful consideration of materials "which might be objectionable to the various mores of the school population."

Another section was amended slightly Wednesday night before adoption by changing one word — from "or" to "and" — and adding the phrase "if available."

The section as approved says that a recommendation for purchase of the materials should be reviewed by the grade group chairman, the department head or the assistant principal, based on personal review and professional judgment "and" from information in professional library, media or education selection aids or journals, if available.

Another Case Dropped For 'Speedy Trial'

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

The legal clock has again run out, causing all criminal charges against two Seminole County brothers accused of robbing a Sanford motel to be dropped.

Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi dismissed grand theft charges against Roy Victor Eloranta, 20, and Jack Ray Eloranta, both of 3 Lotus Circle, Casselberry, saying the state had failed to prosecute within 180 days of arrest, as required by the state's Speedy Trial Law.

The motion for dismissal was granted Jan. 7, a week after the deadline had passed according to court records.

The two brothers were arrested July 3 in the May 30 theft of a cashbox from the Cavalier Motor Inn, 320 S. Orlando Drive, which contained numerous hotel keys and $350 cash, court records show. Sanford police said Roy Eloranta, a waiter at the motel, removed the cashbox from under the motel counter, then gave the stolen box to his brother, who was waiting outside in a car.

Grand theft is a third-degree misdemeanor punishable by up to 10 years in state prison.

"The case got lost in the shuffle during the administrative changeover of judges," according to Assistant State Attorney Steve W. Johnson who would have prosecuted the case.

"It was never on my list to do anything about it," Johnson said. "Before the changeover, I was before Judge (S. Joseph) Davis (Jr.) and while I was on vacation the switch in judges occurred and it ended up on Judge Salfi's docket without my knowing it. By the time I realized it, the legal clock had run out. But I never saw it on my list for Judge Salfi."

However, Johnson said while he takes responsibility for the case because he filed it, he said he never had the chance to "shepherd it through like I should have been able to because of the administrative changes."

Johnson also said the state's case against the two men was "weak."

"All the real hard evidence I had was a confession by one of the brothers, who later pleaded not guilty," he said. "Also, the police were slow in getting information to us. But, as I said, I take responsibility for the case. Judge Salfi had no choice but to dismiss it.

"We filed that case July 3," said Sanford Police Sgt. William Harnosky. "We have also received a personal apology from the assistant state attorney concerning its dismissal. And as far as I know there were no problems with the Sanford Police Department filing the case with the state attorney's office."

Meanwhile, in light of several other cases dismissed recently because of the state's failure to prosecute within legal time limits, the Altamonte Springs City Commission is currently drafting a resolution to be sent to the state Legislature and the Florida Supreme Court calling for judicial reform.

"Maybe I'm just a voice in the wilderness," said Commissioner Dudley Bates at Tuesday's commission meeting. "But I'm tired of offenders getting off scotfree. Something has to be done to bring about judicial reform, and perhaps this resolution could spur other cities to follow suit to push for corrective measures."

Other commissioners echoed Bates' remarks and requested that the proposed resolution be made ready for review at the Feb. 15 commission meeting.

Education: Bad Times

Bad times are ahead for public education as far as federal funding is concerned.

That is the assessment of Seminole County School Board member Pat Telson, who attended a week-long series of conferences on education in Washington, D.C. recently.

She reported to the School Board on Wednesday evening that President Reagan's plans to eliminate the U.S. Department of Education as a separate cabinet-level department and to move toward tuition tax credits for students in private schools bodes ill for public education.

"The Department of Education was the vehicle to be used for education to have its say," Mrs. Telson declared, adding that its demise will hurt the educational system.

"Funding for education and social services are going to be cut." She said funding for the school lunch programs is "going to be down to nil and will be cut entirely if the administration can."

She noted that federal funding nationwide for school lunches was $3.12 billion in 1980, was reduced to $2.4 billion in 1982 and is expected to be cut further to $1.7 billion.

Mrs. Telson also noted that the powerful Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, which advises the federal government in many areas, does not even include an educator on its board. "The board has all types of people from various governments, but no people from education," she said. "They don't look at us as a governmental body in education. They look at us as educators and administrators," she said.

Mrs. Telson said a move must be made to have someone from education included on that panel.

She assured her colleagues that U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., and U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, have both said they will not vote for additional cuts in education funding, nor will either vote for tuition tax credits.

Robert Walko Named Director, Fess Chosen As President

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Robert W. Walko, 2530 Saginaw Trail, Maitland, has been hired as executive director of the United Way of Seminole County Inc., replacing Margaret Ganas, executive secretary, who is retiring the end of February after 20 years with the organization.

Walko, who has been manager of the Seminole Service Center of the American Red Cross' Central Florida chapter office in Casselberry since last May, has resigned that position effective Friday. Although he does not officially take over as executive director of United Way until March 1, Walko said he will be working with Mrs. Ganas beginning Monday.

The starting salary for the new post will be $15,500 plus benefits. He will also be compensated for automobile expense by the mile.

Walko has a background in public relations and real estate. He formerly was business manager with the Visiting Nurse Association, administrator of the Seminole County office of Bay Area Home Health Services, in public relations with Martin-Marietta for 14 years, and is an active volunteer with the Hospice of Central Florida.

The executive director ultimately will be accountable to the board of directors. He is expected to keep the president informed and discuss critical issues with him before taking action. He also will be expected to give periodic reports to the board.

In a letter to Walko, David C. Joswick, outgoing president of the United Way of Seminole, said the executive director's responsibilities will include planning and developing United Way fund-raising programs within the structure and in accord with the principles of United Way fund raising; managing the annual operating budget, not to exceed 8 percent of funds raised; managing collections, disbursements and accounting of all funds, ensuring that excess funds are properly invested; consulting with funded agencies and departments of government to maintain high-quality service relevant to community needs.

Also, developing and administering ongoing education and information programs to solicit and increase support for United Way campaigns; assembling resources from within and outside the county to address community health and service needs and the most effective manner of satisfying those needs; serving as principal professional resource to the board of directors and its key committees; and assisting in matters of policy formulation and interpretation. Walko was selected for the job over 11 other applicants by Joswick and the executive committee.

New officers elected at the annual meeting held Jan. 28 are: Dick Fess, president; Larry Strickler, campaign chairman and first vice president; Joswick, second vice president; Jack Weible, secretary; and Val Colbert, treasurer.

Mrs. Ganas was presented with a proclamation of appreciation for her 20 years of service.

The board voted unanimously, on the recommendation of the executive committee, not to permit any supplemental fund-raising by United Way agencies.

Pledges reported at the 1981 victory dinner totaled $314,128.22. Collected as of Jan. 28 in a total of $148,380, and still due, $165,848. The total disbursed to agencies on Jan. 15 was $65,375.

NATIONAL REPORT: — Blowing snow and a flash freeze shattered 20th-century temperature records for the second time this year in the Midwest. A new snowstorm in the Rocky Mountains today promised the Southwest would be the season's next victim. At least 17 people — five in Michigan, four in Indiana, two in Oklahoma, two in Missouri and two in Illinois — have died in snow and rain storms and during this week of record cold. Freak squalls that blew off Lake Ontario muffled a 45-mile-wide corridor along the shore-line north of Syracuse, N.Y., Wednesday, with more than a foot of snow that blew into story-high drifts and closed schools but failed to faze updaters. A heavy snow warning was posted for today over the central and southern mountains of Colorado with up to a foot of new snow expected. Travelers' advisories for 1-3 inches were posted over other parts of the Southwest. Elsewhere, rain was scattered from northeast Texas and southeast Oklahoma into the western Tennessee Valley as well as from Southern California into central Arizona, changing to snow in the Arizona mountains. Gulf of Mexico states had unseasonably warm temperatures. A flash freeze sent readings plummeting to record lows across the Midwest for the second straight month. The National Weather Service's official thermometer at Indianapolis read a coldest-ever 20 below zero. The mercury plunged to 9 below at St. Louis, shattering the previous 6 below record that had stood for 97 years. Other record low temperatures were: Rockford, Ill., 16 below; Peoria and Springfield, Ill., 13 below; St. Joseph, Mo., 13 below; and Kansas City, Mo., 7 below. The cold was expected to recede in parts of the Midwest by the weekend. Forecasters were predicting Chicago, which has had five straight weekends of winter misery, would be basking in 40-degree readings.

Armed Bandits On Prowl In Seminole

By TENI YARBOROUGH
 Herald Staff Writer

It was a night for armed burglaries in Seminole County. Wednesday as bandits robbed a taxi cab driver, photography store clerk and a motorist who had stopped to give his assailants assistance with their disabled vehicle.

Cable, Leonard L. Winer, 51, of Sorrento, Fla.; clerk Cathy D. Wiginton, 18, of 336 E. Tullis Ave., Longwood; and motorist James Greg Sefried, 22, of 331 Melody Lane, Casselberry, were victims of separate burglaries Wednesday evening, sheriff's deputies said.

The burglars were successful in their attempts to rob Winer and Sefried. Sefried was injured during the incident. However, Ms. Wiginton foiled a would-be robber's efforts to steal money from her while she was working at the photo shop, deputies said.

Winer told deputies he picked up his taxi fare at an Orlando bus depot at about 8 p.m. Wednesday and drove the man to Station Street in Altamonte Springs. When Winer turned to accept his $11 payment, the man produced a blue-steel revolver and told Winer he was going to steal the taxi, deputies reported.

Winer objected and the gunman settled for about $45, then fled south on Station Street, across the railroad tracks and west on Williams Street, deputies reported.

Meanwhile, Ms. Wiginton who was on duty at a Photomat store, 1841 Longwood Drive, Longwood, was approached by a young man at about 4:45 p.m. who handed her a note written on a torn brown paper bag which demanded she turn over the money, deputies said. She asked the man if he was kidding and he told her three times to "do as the note says."

Ms. Wiginton refused, slammed the window shut and crawled under her desk, deputies reported. The man took the note and fled from the area. Ms. Wiginton said the would-be burglar kept his hands inside his jacket, possibly to make her believe he was armed, deputies said.

Sefried faced the worst of the three, receiving cuts, bruises and a fractured jaw after he stopped along Markham Woods Road near State Road 434 in Longwood to help a disabled motorist at about 11:45 p.m.

Sefried told deputies he was flagged down by a man apparently needing help with a stalled vehicle. When Sefried attempted to inspect the car's engine, two men hit him in the face with a wrench, deputies said. Sefried attempted to get back in his car, but the men kicked him in the back and stole about $10 from his wallet, deputies reported.

GLASS BREAKING FOILS BURGLARY

A Longwood man foiled a robber's attempt to burglarize his home Sunday night when the would-be burglar woke the man by throwing a concrete block through a window.

Carl R. Julker, 43, of 120 Foxridge Run, told sheriff's deputies he heard the glass breaking and looked out to see a young man running away from his house, deputies said.

LOCAL GROCERY ROBBED

Thieves broke into a Sanford grocery store and made off with an undetermined amount of soft drinks, cookies, candy, meats and other foods.

Jimmy Peterson, 71, owner of Jimmy's Grocery, 1521 W. 13th Street, said someone broke into his store by throwing a rock through a glass door.

The incident occurred sometime between 4 a.m. and 5:30 a.m. Saturday, police said. Peterson is expected to provide police with a complete list of the stolen items later.

LONGWOOD HOME BURGLARIZED

Thieves broke into a Longwood man's home at about 7:45 a.m. Friday and stole an undetermined amount of property. Ellsworth M. Wilson, 55, of 140 Countryside Circle, told sheriff's deputies someone broke into his home by prying open the rear bathroom door.

Deputies said the thieves took numerous items and during the burglary unplugged a clock which read 1:26 p.m. at the time the theft was discovered.

GOLF CART SUNK

A golf cart stolen from an Altamonte Springs man's home was discovered half submerged in a lake near the first tee at Rolling Hills Golf Club at about 8 a.m. Monday.

Deputies said John J. Farley, 65, of 1627 Orlando Ave., reported his golf cart, golf bag and clubs stolen sometime between 4:30 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 a.m. Monday. The thieves apparently entered the garage at his home and stole the items, deputies said.

New Fire Station In Chuluota?

By MARK VOGLER
 Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County officials hope to construct a fire station on abandoned railroad property in Chuluota.

The county is currently involved in negotiations with the state's Department of Transportation (DOT) for acquisition of a one-acre site on Seventh Street.

The County Commission this week passed a resolution to request the DOT to transfer the former Florida East Coast Railroad right-of-way property to the county.

If the county decides not to build the new fire station at that location, the commission said, the land will be returned to the state.

County Fire Marshal Joe McCluan said the county's fire division has considered the construction of a station in the southeastern part of the county for several years but has been unable to obtain suitable land for the project.

The existing Station No. 43, at Seventh Street and Avenue E, is inadequate to meet the needs of the surrounding community on a permanent basis, said McCluan today.

"Right now we have a trailer and canopy set up at the site of the old grammar school. It's kind of a makeshift fire station we've had since 1974," he said.

"We need some permanent place for our people to be. A single-wide trailer is just not the ideal place for a fire station. So we're hoping to acquire this property from the DOT in order to speed up construction of a new, permanent fire station," he added.

The new station would be across the street from the Shop 'N Go and the Chuluota post office.

Building plans and the construction plan for the new fire station are incomplete, said McCluan.

"We hope to have a 200-foot-long and 150-foot-wide concrete-block building that will enable us to store our equipment and our one truck. It would be similar in design to other stations we have throughout the county," he added.

The station, which has six full-time firemen assigned on two-man shifts at any time, is responsible for covering a sparsely populated rural farm area that includes all of Chuluota and the south side of Oviedo.

The Chuluota fire station would serve an area of about 4,153 people, according to figures compiled by the Seminole County Planning Department staff, using the 1980 population census.

It's Defense Vs. Prosecution Witnesses

ATLANTA (UPI) — The defense produced a series of witnesses today who portrayed accused killer Wayne Williams as a selfless, hard-working man who admired women and helped children.

Carolyn Bailey insisted that Williams was a heterosexual who made mild sexual comments about attractive women, was a talented photographer and worked hard at trying to help young people break into the music business.

"He wanted us to be successful, not him," she said.

'Did you ever know him to make a slurring remark about his own race?'
 asked defense counsel Al Binder.

'No, he did not,' she said.

Mrs. Bailey said she had accompanied Williams on trips he made to local schools in search of young talent. She said he told her he would never deal with children without first speaking with their parents.

Williams, 23, is on trial for the murder of Nathaniel Cater and Jimmy Ray Payne, two of the 28 young blacks abducted and murdered in Atlanta. Witnesses have linked the black freelance photographer and aspiring talent scout to 10 other victims, said he made homosexual overtures and was disgusted to the point of obsession by poor black children.

Others have testified he was an inveterate liar and braggart who went so far as to claim he flew jet fighters for the Air Force, and was a total washout as a talent scout and music producer.

But Mrs. Bailey, an attractive woman with two children, said he worked unceasingly for his prospects, got her several jobs, and "was very bright and intelligent."

"Did you ever know him to make a slurring remark about his own race?" asked defense counsel Al Binder.

"No, he did not," she said.

"There have been some allegations made here that Wayne isn't straight when it comes to men and women," Binder belted. "Has he ever dated anyone?"

Mrs. Bailey said Wayne had dated her sister, and was known to make remarks like "That's an attractive lady" and "She's sure got something on her."

"Did you ever hear Wayne brag or puff a lot?"

"No, I did not," she said, but she admitted he occasionally "exaggerated his importance."

"Did he ever make a pass at you?"

"No, he did not."

"Did you ever like Wayne Williams?"

"Yes, I did."

"As a woman?"

"Yes."

"Did he know that?"

"I think he did."

Another witness, Howard Peoples, who identified himself as a professional singer, said Williams had "most definitely" helped his career. He said in 1979 and 1980, when the killings were going on, he talked to Williams "almost every night" on the telephone and saw him several times a week.

Williams paid for his recording fees, he said, and was "very serious, very knowledgeable about the music business."

Seminole County School Board Worries About Cars, Vandalism

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

At least 23 Seminole County School Board-owned vehicles currently driven to and from schools daily by school personnel, may be parked there overnight if security can be provided.

The School Board on Wednesday evening instructed School Superintendent Bob Hughes and the staff to look into the operating costs of the 23 vehicles.

The action came after board attorney Ned N. Julian Jr. said that under a recent state Supreme Court decision the vehicles may not be covered by the school's liability insurance unless a policy is adopted limiting their use as part of the job responsibilities of the school employees involved. Not affected by the court decision are vehicles used by 10 other employees of the transportation department, auxiliary services, maintenance and food service, who are on call 24 hours daily.

Julian said that if no policy is adopted, the employees involved would have to give the board proof that they are providing liability insurance on the vehicles.

The 23 vehicles are used by staff members of Seminole, Lake Mary, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley and Oviedo high schools. Hughes said the board may find that it is more costly to leave the vehicles on campus, where they could be vandalized, than to pay the operating costs.

He noted that considerable vandalism has occurred at Lake Howell and Lake Mary high schools.

He said the front doors at Lake Howell High were pulled off with a four-wheel vehicle by vandals and Lake Mary High has been vandalized even though the school plant is surrounded by fencing.

Board member Bill Kroll said Hughes should look into whether a security person could live on the school sites where vandalism has occurred.

Board member Roland Williams noted that industry says it costs $5,000 annually to provide an employee with a vehicle. He added that the schools being heavily vandalized are located outside city boundaries.

Lyman high Principal Carlton Henley was asked how vehicles parked at his Longwood school have escaped vandalism. He said that on Tuesday night someone shot a window out of a driver education car but that generally the cars have been safe because they are parked in a well lighted lot adjacent to State Road 437, a heavily traveled thoroughfare.

Board member Al Keeth's proposal that Hughes be given two weeks to look into the problem was approved by the board.

Volunteers In Class

A host of elected officials, media persons and educators taught classes in the Seminole public schools today as part of the Dividend school volunteer program and in celebration of Florida School Volunteer Week.

The special volunteers included School Board members Roland Williams at Lyman High School, Nancy Warren at Lake Mary High, Al Keeth at Goldsboro, Bill Kroll at Eastbrook and Pat Telson at Rock Lake; County Commissioners Sandra Glenn at Idylwild, Robert G. 'Bud' Feather at Teague, Bob Sturm at Forest City and Barbara Christensen at Casselberry; Seminole Community College director of academic affairs Dr. Margaret Maney at Lake Brantley; School Superintendent Bob Hughes at Lakeview; Charlotte Geyer, coordinator of language arts, at Milwee; Myrna Walters, coordinator of language arts, at Wilson; Clem Boyer, mathematics coordinator, at Crooms; Jim Elliott, coordinator of social studies, at Sanford Middle School; Betty Palmer, coordinator of science, at Lawton.

IN BRIEF

Freeze Produces Unusually Small Florida Orange Crop

LAKELAND (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture says Florida will produce its smallest orange crop in 13 years because of last month's freeze. The USDA issued its first crop estimate since the freeze Wednesday and said Florida lost 26 million gallons of frozen concentrated orange juice.

Murder Victims Found

PALATKA (UPI) — Confessed mass killer Robert Dale Henderson led police to the bodies of three of the 11 or 12 people he allegedly killed during a two-week, multi-state crime spree, sheriff's officials said today. The bodies were found near Brooksville, on Florida's west coast about 60 miles north of Tampa. Hernando County Sheriff Melvin Kelly said the three victims, two men and a woman who were not identified, appeared to have been dead for about a week. Deputies said the bodies were not buried, and were found close together in a sparsely populated hunting area.

Cattle Rustlers Caught

MIAMI (UPI) — A posse of state and local lawmen staked out to catch the rustlers that have been preying on Dade County cattlemen for the last year were arrested four men with the carcass of a newly killed heifer belonging to Gov. Bob Graham. The four arrested Wednesday were identified as Edwin L. Rickenbacker, 50, Charles Clark, 30, George W. Miller, 18, and Raymond J. Zuccheri, 49, all of Miami. All were charged with grand theft, conspiracy and armed trespass. Zuccheri also was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Altamonte Springs Commission Meetings Will Be Televised

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Lights. Camera. Action. While it's doubtful the "show" will ever win an Emmy the Altamonte Springs City Commission is optimistic that broadcasting commission meetings and work sessions over cable television will better educate and inform the viewing public of city business.

"We had tried this once before," said Commissioner Lee Constantine at Tuesday evening's commission meeting. "However, the lights were just too bright and generated an extremely uncomfortable amount of heat. These lights are much better and I'm all for filming the meetings."

There is no cost to the city for airing. It is part of the contract with Storer, and, under the FCC, it's an avenue for them (Storer) to provide a public service to Altamonte Springs residents.

Other commission members echoed his remarks and agreed to allow Storer Cable Communications, of Altamonte Springs, to begin filming the meetings and work sessions for delayed airing.

"With the commission's approval tonight, Storer will begin filming the commission meetings next week," City Manager Jeff Etchberger said. The commission is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall, 225 Newburyport Ave.

"We hope to one day be able to go live with the broadcasts," Etchberger said. "However, we still have to meet with Storer and work out the details."

Storer representatives filming Tuesday's meeting said the broadcast will be aired on cable TV channel 1, a government-access channel.

"There is no cost to the city for airing," Constantine said. "It is part of the contract with Storer, and, under the FCC (Federal Communications Commission), it's an avenue for them (Storer) to provide a public service to Altamonte Springs residents."

In other action Tuesday night, the commission approved a resurfacing plan to upgrade and pave at least 4.06 miles of city streets.

The plan, as presented by Public Works Director Don Newham, calls for the resurfacing of 5.2 miles of city roads at about $2.20 per square yard. The cost of resurfacing will be paid through budgeted funds at no additional cost to city residents, he said.

Newham said the paving work package will be bid on and work will begin when a bid is awarded and favorable weather conditions permit, probably in April.

"We'll begin with the streets that need the work most desperately, then move on to the others," Newham said. "It's a matter of judgment. We'll pave as many streets as possible."

House To Debate Brantley's Plan For Redistricting

The committee-approved reapportionment plan which State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, says will give Seminole County the opportunity to elect three instead of two, persons to the Florida House of Representatives this year was to be considered by the lower house of the Legislature today.

Hattaway prepared the plan calling for Seminole County to be split into four districts, two of which will be composed of the majority of county residents and a third where State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, lives. The fourth includes a small section of Seminole, in the Lake Howell-Goldenrod area, to be included in an Orange County district for Republican Rep. Tom Drage of Orlando.

The Brantley district includes 16,000 Seminole County residents and other residents from Volusia, Marion, Lake and Putnam counties.

Hattaway said the House will also consider a House plan drawing lines for Senate districts. "I don't know if I can support the Senate plan but I may have to because the Senate and House plans are in one package," Hattaway said this morning.

He said the Senate plan calls for "nesting" — lumping three House districts into each Senate district. One Senate district would include part of Brevard, part of Orange, the eastern district of Seminole and the central district of Seminole to be represented by Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach. A second Senate district would be composed of the Brantley House district plus a Marion, Lake and Citrus counties district for State Sen. Dick Langley, R-North Lake Minneola.

Reagan Issues Challenge, Then Makes The Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is serving notice that in the game of "put up or shut up," he makes the rules.

Speaking in the Midwest this week, the president challenged political critics to either come up with an acceptable alternative to his record $73.6 billion budget or quiet down.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., the ranking Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee immediately rose to the test, ran out a proposal, and saw it handled with disdain Wednesday by the White House.

"Simplistic," scoffed deputy press secretary Larry Speakes. "Ridiculous," chided Treasury Secretary Donald Regan. Vice President George Bush flicked a "thumbs down" gesture.

Next came a letter from Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd, asking Reagan to withdraw the entire 1983 budget proposal. Byrd said he has appointed 18 Democratic senators to "formulate alternatives."

Speakes said the White House had no comment.

The fiscal 1983 budget submitted by Reagan is a massive document, 2 inches thick, and contains government spending down to the penny. Speakes did not say Democrats had to be that exact, but did tell reporters the administration still awaits serious alternative proposals. He said that at the moment, Reagan has "no plans to compromise."

Hollings proposed much of the federal budget be frozen at current levels for a year, and the Defense Department be held to 3 percent "real growth" in 1984. Reagan seeks a 10 percent defense increase that would hike the Pentagon's total budget authority to $256 billion.

Speakes said the budget contains "no fat" and there is "no wholesale area" in which cuts could be made.

Hollings also called for a one-year deferral of cost-of-living adjustments in basic benefit programs, the limiting of increases in Social Security and military and civil service retirement benefits, killing this year's tax cut and halving the final phase of the next year's tax cut.

"On its face, this proposal may have a simple appeal," Speakes said. "But that very simplicity masks some very fundamental problems, especially in the areas of taxation, entitlements and defense."

Reagan is opposed to cuts in military spending, and Speakes said the president looks with disfavor at reductions in social programs that go deeper than numbers he has proposed.

Speakes expressed confidence that time will calm the initial shock being expressed on Capitol Hill about the new budget plan. "As Congress considers it, we're confident more and more members will come to see the wisdom of his plan," he said.

Reagan showed up briefly at the National Press Club Wednesday night to swear in Vivian Vahlberg, a reporter of the Daily

Oklahoma newspaper, as the first woman president of the 75-year-old club. "After 74 years, it's about time!" he quipped.

Also on Wednesday, Reagan honored the role of top women in government with a special White House lunch for 250 women who either hold presidential appointments, are members of the government's Senior Executive Service or have senior civil service ratings.

He called for them not to abandon their goals in the "rough and tumble" of political debate and to lend "your commitment, your ideas, your staying power" to his programs.

Syrian Troops Battle

Moslem Fundamentalists

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — At least 1,400 people died in week-long fighting in the city of Hama between government troops and rebellious Moslem fundamentalists urged on by religious leaders speaking from mosques, diplomatic sources say.

President Hafez Assad's government said Wednesday that Washington's accounts of the trouble in Hama were lies, and accused the United States of "flagrant interference in Syria's domestic affairs."

2 U.S. Drug Agents Shot

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — The Reagan administration today angrily pledged to back a hunt for five gunmen who dragged two U.S. drug agents from their Colombian hotel room, drove them to the jungle and tried to kill them.

Agents Charles Martinez, 34, of Miami, and Kelley McCollough, 39, of San Antonio, Tex., were in a hospital at a Colombian military base recovering from bullet wounds.

Poles May Go Hungry

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Military rulers warned Poles of worsening food shortages in coming months and a visit to the Solidarity stronghold of Gdansk showed tension could surge this weekend to mark two months of martial law.

"The winter is yours, the spring will be ours," said a message scrawled in chalk on a door at the port of Gdynia outside of Gdansk. It was clearly aimed at martial authorities and was signed, "Solidarity."

In Warsaw, a military court jailed four more activists Wednesday but gave them light sentences for the severe charges of organizing the strike at the Wujek mine that led to a clash in which seven protesters were killed.

Police Want Investigations Of Misconduct Kept Secret

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Police groups say it is unfair for false charges of misconduct against officers to become public.

News media groups say keeping the allegations secret would allow coverups of actual police misconduct and inhibit individual officers from giving their side of the story to charges already made public by complainants.

The House Government Operations Committee sided with the police Wednesday and by an 11-6 vote approved a bill (HB 209) that would keep investigations of misconduct charges against police secret unless probable cause was found to support the allegations.

The measure (HB 291) was passed 11-6. Representatives of police groups told the panel that effective police officers invariably generate complaints and are often smeared when the complaints are unfounded.

Conceding that most complaints against police are without merit, spokesmen for newspaper and broadcasting groups argued that a blanket exemption from the Public Records Law would go too far. They offered a compromise proposal, which was defeated.

Existing law provides that home addresses, telephone numbers and similar personal information about police are confidential but excludes records relating to internal investigations of an officer's conduct are not.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Clyde Hagler, D-Pennsacola, said lawyers, physicians, engineers, cosmetologists and other professionals regulated by the state have greater protection than police against unfounded charges becoming public.

"This is the only area where regardless of what happens — an unfounded charge or whatever — is brought into the public record," he said.

Police officers have responsibilities different from other professionals, countered Reg Ivory of the Florida Press Association. "We're not talking about a cosmetologist who's curled a customer's hair too tight... We're talking about public safety," he said.

Rep. Spud Clements, D-Brandon, a former Florida Highway Patrol commanding officer, said public exposure of false allegations has led to divorces and forced officers to relocate their homes.

Backyard Subversion

In the Cuban missile crisis of 1962, President John F. Kennedy was willing to risk at least the possibility of nuclear war with the Soviet Union. Why? Because the intermediate range nuclear missiles the Russians were putting into Cuba posed a mortal danger to the United States and were rewriting a strategic equation then lopsidedly in America's favor.

Now, almost two decades later, another President is facing a brewing crisis in the Caribbean and Central America that, in some respects, poses comparable dangers to the security of the United States.

We refer, of course, to the Soviet-designed, Cuban-directed campaign to transform Central America into a string of satellites loyal to Havana and Moscow.

Granted, this campaign is less dramatic, and therefore less visible, than the deployment of Soviet nuclear missiles in the Western Hemisphere. Covert arms shipments, the activation of a global propaganda network, and guerrilla warfare in remote jungles admittedly lack the impact of events in Cuba 19 years ago.

But the difference here is one of tactics, not strategic intent. The Soviet missiles in Cuba were intended in part to guarantee the existence of a secure Soviet base in the Western Hemisphere. The chief purpose of that base was then, and is today, to serve as a springboard from which subversion can be spread to other Latin nations.

The ultimate objective — to surround and isolate the United States and to deny it economic resources and political allies in the Third World — is the very definition of Soviet strategy in the developing world.

Interim prizes for the Soviets and their Cuban surrogates would include de facto control of the Panama Canal, domination of Caribbean sea lanes through which pass most of the United States' imported oil, and proximity to Mexico. Who can deny that the Soviets and Cubans consider a Mexico plagued by poverty, huge disparities of wealth, and rampant corruption ripe for subversion and revolution during the 1980s?

The immediate focus of this Soviet-Cuban campaign is El Salvador, where a coalition of five Marxist-Leninist guerrilla organizations is fighting to destroy a shaky centrist government backed by the United States.

A new guerrilla offensive, heralded by a highly professional assault that damaged or destroyed half of El Salvador's small air force, has apparently begun. The timing of the airport attack, and of the offensive now likely to follow, is obviously calculated to discredit the Salvadoran government and disrupt the country on the eve of next month's parliamentary elections.

We are not suggesting that revolution in Central America is exclusively a product of outside subversion. It is not. But without the arms, funds, and political influence provided by Cuba, the outcome of the ferment for change in Central America would most assuredly be far different. And it would almost certainly not threaten the security of the United States.

What the Reagan administration needs is a coherent strategy for stopping the Soviet-Cuban offensive in Central America. Congressional critics of even the piecemeal steps the administration is taking in El Salvador need to see the larger picture; how events in, say, El Salvador or Nicaragua fit into a grand design for the conquest of Central America by forces implacably hostile to the United States.

Cuba and the Soviet Union need to be told that unless outside subversion in Central America is halted, a crisis potentially as serious as that in 1962 is building in the Caribbean.

Should these warnings fall on deaf ears, the Reagan administration must face the necessity for direct action to stop the flow of arms and supplies from Cuba and Nicaragua.

Another Look At 'Granma'

When last discussed in this space, Granma was still stuck in Boston.

With a lot of company — all, in the tentative opinion of the Treasury Department, having run afoul of the 1917-vintage Trading with the Enemy Act.

Granma, in case it all hasn't instantly come back to you, is the official organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba. With similar ideologically oriented material from the island addressed to subscribers throughout the United States, it was impounded after Treasury was alerted by customs officials that it was coming into the country in quantity from Canada.

Canada is involved in this only because it has been making its good postal offices available to two parties who haven't been writing to each other directly for two decades. Mail from Cuba to U.S. addressees these days is routed through Montreal to Boston.

The impounding was last May, and it triggered a lawsuit on behalf of more than 100 American individuals, publications and organizations charging the Treasury with a First Amendment violation.

As Treasury read the 1917 law, American subscribers required special import licenses from its Foreign Assets Control Section to receive the Cuban material since payment was involved.

As the plaintiffs interpreted Treasury's interpretation, its purpose was political rather than economic — the proscription to Americans of certain information.

Well, Granma's case may be in the process of being settled out of court.

Treasury is calling off its embargo and changing its rules on the handling of political material, not only from Cuba but also from three other nonfriendly — Vietnam, Cambodia and North Korea. Henceforth, Treasury has decided, "single issue" subscriptions will be deliverable within the United States without the bother of the license.

Some 100,000 pieces of Cuban mail that had accumulated in Boston, creating a severe storage problem, are now released and the matter would appear to be settled. The appearance, however, could be deceiving.

There's a catch, and it's in that term "single issue." Multiple subscriptions — any number more than one taken out by a subscriber for a single publication — will still require licensing. The Treasury's reasoning is that this represents a bulk order, and such are automatically presumed to be commercial transactions.

So what if an institution, say a think tank or university, wants several copies of Granma for as many interested parties on its staff? No problem, so long as each arrives via separate subscription. But should one mailing be preferred as a billing and distribution convenience, Treasury will define the arrangement as trading with the enemy. Your license, please.

This would appear, however, to run counter to the plaintiffs' definition of the basic issue, which is that Americans should not have to be licensed to receive information.

"Look," says Sarah Wunsch, an attorney with one of them, the New York-based Center for Constitutional Rights, "one thing this administration has criticized in East Europe is that the population there can't receive information from abroad. Well, under these circumstances neither can we."

The plaintiffs are conferring to determine where to go from here.

FBI—Waste Watchers Are Squabbling

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's waste-watchers have shown such enthusiasm for tracking down fraud in federal agencies that it has aroused concern in, of all places, the FBI. The G-men are upset at the way some inspectors general have been encroaching on the bureau's turf.

Things have reached such a pass that a closed-door meeting was held two months ago at the FBI training center in Quantico, Va., supposedly to resolve the jurisdictional squabble between the bureau and the various offices of inspectors general (OIGs).

Just how seriously the FBI takes this bureaucratic brouhaha is illustrated by an internal memo directed to the "personal attention" of FBI officials by Director William Webster.

"Historically, with few exceptions, the FBI has exercised primary criminal investigative jurisdiction involving allegations of fraud and bribery in U.S. government programs and

The Altamonte Springs police department has a new officer and he's only 2½-years-old.

The new addition to the force weighs about 100 pounds, is black and brown and works for free. His name is Bullet.

Bullet is the one-dog pilot program initiated recently, and announced during the City Commission meeting Tuesday night. He will be working with Officer Robert Boynton in such cases involving drug detection, building searches for bombs, crowd control, officer protection, and obedience training. Boynton will be paid an additional $2 per day to cover "Officer" Bullet's meals.

According to City Manager Jeff Etchberger, Bullet has passed all of his canine training requirements (about 400 hours) to become a police dog and has been state-certified through the Orlando Canine Unit. Plans for the program were laid by Police Chief Barry Cook, Etchberger said. Cook resigned as chief last week. So, how effective is Officer Bullet in doing his job?

City officials and members of the audience at Tuesday commission meeting got a dog's-eye view, watching the four-legged cop track down a bag of marijuana planted in an unknown location in commission chambers.

Bullet stalked the room, sniffing and smelling. Boynton led him up one aisle and down another until Bullet stopped, stuck his snout into my briefcase and pulled out a double-wrapped bag of more than 20 grams of marijuana.

Someone yelled, "Arrest this woman." But, as I said, it was a plant. Prior to the opening of Tuesday's meeting, Etchberger asked me to "be a sport" and let him plant the drug in my briefcase. When Bullet made his discovery, Etchberger explained the circumstances to the commission.

Etchberger also told the commission that Bullet found a lost individual in the Altamonte Mall in about 20 minutes. Normally such a search would have required about seven to 10 officers and much more time, he said.

The commission offered its compliments to Officer Boynton for his work with Bullet and expressed their excitement over the prospects of the new project.

Etchberger said the pilot program will continue until budgetary considerations are made. At that time, the commission will be given the opportunity to review the status of the program and decide whether or not to include a canine unit in the police department.

Until such time, Officer Bullet will do his doggone best to sniff out crime and prove he's worthy of being called "one of Altamonte Springs' finest."

The Mobility Crisis

The United States is fast approaching a mobility crisis.

Ten years ago, gasoline sold for 30 cents a gallon. Travel by automobile for business or pleasure was inexpensive. Indeed Americans regarded cheap auto travel almost as a natural right. In summer, highways were crowded with cars as Americans toured the land and introduced their children to the wonders of the continent.

Today, all that is changed. Gasoline sells in the neighborhood of $1.25 to $1.50 a gallon. People with modest incomes have to be very careful about how they use their cars — even if the cars are much smaller and get greater mileage than the old gas guzzlers of the 1960s and early seventies.

The situation isn't any better with respect to air travel. With deregulation of the airlines has come diminished service. Planes are crowded and serve fewer markets. Higher fuel costs have forced the airlines to boost their fares to a shocking degree. Before long, only business travelers with expense accounts may be able to fly.

While automobile and air travel opportunities have been reduced, the meager Amtrak system has been cut back since it was first created. For example, no train serves the important route between the Middle West and Florida vacation areas.

All this adds up to significantly less mobility for ordinary Americans. Yet a high degree of mobility has been a feature of American life for generations. It has been a major contributor to national prosperity.

There's little we can do to improve the situation with respect to travel by auto. While there is a temporary glut of oil, petroleum is a precious commodity. Its price will remain high as far into the future as we can see. This suggests that the great age of the auto has passed.

Little more can be done with respect to air service. The airlines have heavy capital expenditures ahead of them as they replace the first generation of wide-bodies jets. The next generation of commercial aircraft will be designed to serve large markets such as Chicago, Los Angeles, Atlanta and New York, not the smaller cities of America.

Rail travel may be the one area where improvements are possible, assuming that everyone has a positive attitude. The biggest deterrent to expanded rail service is the archaic set of labor rules now in effect. If trains could be manned on a reasonable basis, private enterprise might get back into the passenger business. Even on Amtrak, certain services such as food handling could be contracted out, with improvements for the public.

Even under existing conditions, several states, notably Ohio, are exploring new high speed rail services. The states already are paying Amtrak for expanded service. More of this sort of thing could be done, but the U.S. Dept. of Transportation has to recognize rail travel as a valid option.

Free enterprise has to be encouraged to get back into passenger service. This encouragement should be forthcoming. An inexpensive substitute for individual transportation is a necessity. The alternative, as Trains Magazine said in December, "will be less and less mobility for the majority."

If the American people find they are forced to stay home, there will be a shock of recognition of the problem they face.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

AMPAC And Its Maladies

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The American Medical Political Action Committee "is an independent organization and has no branches or subsidiary committees," Lee Ann Elliott testified in mid-1978 before the Federal Election Commission.

In the ensuing five and a half years, two events of note have occurred:

First, the FEC — after conducting the most extensive investigation in its history — concluded that the claims of AMPAC independence proffered by Mrs. Elliott and other officials of the organization were false and misleading.

Second, Mrs. Elliott was honored by being offered a seat on the FEC. She is a member of the commission today, earning $8,500 per year and sitting in judgment on the integrity of AMPAC and other political-action committees.

Shortly after she joined the six-member federal agency, the FEC considered a request from AMPAC for an advisory opinion about the propriety of soliciting campaign contributions not only from physicians but also from their spouses.

Other FEC members who have faced similar situations in previous years have excused themselves from participating in both the debate and the vote on issues that involved the appearance or reality of a conflict of interest.

Although Mrs. Elliott was on the AMPAC payroll for 19 years — including 10 years in the 1970s as its second-ranking staff member — she apparently had no similar qualms.

She participated fully in the commission debate, offered an amendment to enhance AMPAC's position and joined her colleagues in a unanimous vote in AMPAC's favor.

In the high-stakes world of campaign finance, AMPAC is a major participant. The country's largest business and industry PAC, it raised and spent more than $1.7 million during the 1979-80 election cycle while its state affiliates collected almost $5 million more during the same period.

The American Medical Association, AMPAC's parent organization, purports to be concerned about issues such as better health care for slum and rural areas, improved mental health, reduced medical care costs, alcoholism and drug dependence, malnutrition and the pollution of the air, water and land.

The materials subpoenaed during the FEC investigation indicate, however, that AMPAC has a markedly different agenda — a set of priorities that could be characterized as parochial at best and selfish at worst.

AMPAC's internal documents stress the organization's concern about legislation affecting doctors' professional corporations, their retirement benefits, the tax treatment of their income and the cost of their malpractice insurance premiums.

The FEC probe of AMPAC was inspired by complaints that the organization routinely circumvented the provision of the Federal Election Campaign Act that places a $5,000 ceiling on the political contributions made by any PAC to any candidate for federal office during a single campaign.

The statute specifically includes "anti-proliferation" language to prevent evasion of the law, for example, by labor unions or corporations claiming that each union local or company plant is an independent, separate organization.

AMPAC, however, regularly coordinated its campaign contributions with the PACs maintained by state medical societies throughout the country — while Mrs. Elliott and other AMPAC officials persisted in claiming that their organization "is not controlled by, nor does it control, any other organization which has a PAC."

After an exhaustive investigation, the FEC identified more than 200 instances during the four-year period from 1975 through 1978 in which AMPAC and the state medical PACs made $615,000 worth of combined campaign donations in excess of the legal limit to candidates for House and Senate seats.

Revolving Raiders Spin Vikes

SCC's flashy guard Travis Filer muscles his way past St. Johns' Oscar Holmes for two of his game-high 28 points. The Raiders won, 96-77.

Filer Fires SCC Past St. Johns, 96-77

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Sports Writer

In the revolving door that has become Seminole Community College's starting lineup, a couple of old, familiar faces combined with some fresh blood to fuel the Raiders past St. Johns River, 96-77, Wednesday night.

The visiting Vikings hung tough throughout the first half against the Raiders, who missed both Bruce McCray and A.J. Jackson with injuries.

Ten first-half points by Viking center Anthony Holmes kept St. Johns within range at the half, trailing 41-32. But SCC snapped out of its offensive slump of late and combined a sticky press defense and a fast breaking second half offense to run away from the Vikings.

"I'm pleased. We needed the win," said a happy Raider coach Joe Sterling after the victory. "We made some mistakes, but a lot of people got to play tonight and that's something we've needed. It was basically the same type of game as the first one against St. Johns. We broke it open in the second half and didn't let them back in."

While several freshmen faces put on impressive shows for SCC, it was the veterans who nailed the most spikes into the Vike's coffin.

Sophomore wing Travis Filer, playing his best game in a month, piled up 26 points, 11 rebounds and four assists. Fellow soph Lonnie Jones came alive in the second half for 16 points and six rebounds. Spark plug Eric Ervin put on a dazzling passing display as the Raiders got their fast break going in the second stanza, tossing out 14 assists, three short of the Raider's single game record and padding his newly-established career assist mark.

Ervin also canned 10 points and grabbed three boards. Reggie Butler, saddled with two quick fouls at the start of the second period, managed to pop in 10 points and snare six rebounds.

For Sterling's kiddie corps freshmen group, former Lake Howell standout Reggie Barnes and Monkscorner, S.C. product Jerry Rush led the way.

Barnes came off the bench to toss in 14 points and snatch six rebounds while Rush, starting for the first time in place of injured A.J. Jackson, chalked up six points and grabbed four rebounds. More freshmen help came from Ricky Sutton,

JC Basketball

Jesse Woods, Mike Smith and Leon Wright.

Sutton connected for eight points and a pair of assists. Woods contributed a perfect 4-4 effort from the foul line, all coming in the second half break away. Wright dished out a pair of assists in relief to Ervin at the point while Smith came on to spell Butler and turned in a solid defensive effort while canning one jumper and grabbing four rebounds.

"Tonight Travis carried the biggest part of the scoring load for us," pointed out Sterling. "He kind of had a hand in everything. That gave us the opportunity to get some people some game time which they needed. It should help us."

The Raiders face Valencia at home Saturday in their final regular season game before a playoff tournament at Lake City beginning Wednesday that will decide the Division II runner's up berth in the state tournament.

"If we can get that last one Saturday we can get where we want to be, in the third seed," said Sterling.

SCC got some welcome news following the victory. Another check on the status of leading scorer and rebounder Bruce McCray brought a smile to Sterling's face. After suffering a strained ligament injury, McCray's mobility has come around quickly in the last two days. He's scheduled for a deciding visit to the doctor's office today and Sterling is optimistic.

"His knee has come around now and we expect to get the okay to use him a little bit now," said Sterling. "We look for him to play some Saturday, maybe split the game with A.J. and Jerry Rush. We'd like to work him in so he can get the feel back for the playoff tournament."

Another Jame Raider, forward A.J. Jackson, who sat out the St. Johns contest Tuesday with a twisted ankle, provided his own diagnosis for his return to the line up.

"I will be back for Saturday," emphasized the stocky sophomore. "I could have suited up tonight but having this game off will do the ankle some good. Come Saturday we should be back to 100 percent with me and Bruce," he said.

Then the Boone High standout grinned and commented, "The original six will be ready on Saturday. The crowd-pleasing, women-teasing Raiders will be ready to roll."

Call Puts Big Issac On Hold ...Temporarily

Georgia football coach Vince Dooley picked up the telephone Tuesday night and dialed a Sanford number.

At the other end a strapping young man of 6-2 and 241 pounds told the smooth-talking Dooley that he had already committed his Olympic-weightlifting torso to Bobby Bowden's Florida State Seminoles.

Dooley, dismayed at what he was hearing and worried that possibly the best offensive lineman in Florida was slipping through his fingertips, said the two magic words.

The Sanford strongman — tackle Issac Williams — quivered for a moment, realizing he could be opening holes for the man who some people consider the greatest running back ever to don football cleats.

Dooley probably didn't even mention national television, championships or bowl bids. He doesn't have to. Everyone knows for the next two years, if mighty Herschel stays around, the Georgia Bulldogs will be a prime-time attraction.

The Dooley phone hookup put I. Williams on hold for some 24 hours.

"I don't really like all this recruiting," Williams told the Optimists while thanking them for their support of the Seminoles. "I'd just as soon have it over with."

And at 6 p.m. Wednesday night, it was Williams called coach Jerry Posey and the two headed for avid FSU supporter Dr. Mark Williams' house to make it official.

Getting back to the convincing phone call of two days ago, though, it seems Dooley may have been talking to the wrong Williams.

Mamie Williams, Issac's mother, reminded her son that he had given his word that he would sign with Florida State and that, "you don't go back on your word."

"They (Georgia) had him confused there for a while," confirmed Mark Williams. "But his mother kind of put it on him. She was a big influence."

Sometimes it's hard to find a better one.

Prep Wrestling

The wrestlers are coming. The wrestlers are coming.

Lyman and Lake Mary High Schools gear up today for the biggest two days of wrestling to ever hit Seminole County. On Friday at 1 p.m. at both schools, the competition begins. The 4A-9 District opens at Lyman, while the new Lake Mary hosts the 3A-2 Regional.

Why Lyman? Because 'Hounds' statistician Margaret Barnhart just happens to run the best wrestling tournament in the state. In fact, next week's regional will also come to the Greyhound gym. The state meet in two weeks takes place at Tampa.

Why Lake Mary? Because Ram Principal Don Reynolds is like a proud father with a baby stroller. He likes to show off his new school every chance he can get.

Also, the Rams have two tournament veterans as coaches. Head coach Frank Schwartz grew his roots at Lyman (undefeated junior varsity) and Lake Howell (50-10 record). His assistant Doug Peters finished second in the state while wrestling at Lyman. He has been part of the Schwartz program for several years.

"We're really happy we got the tournament," said Schwartz. "A lot of 3A schools don't have the facilities to hold a tournament, but we do."

"It should be very educational for our parents," Schwartz and Peters took the Rams' infant program and finished with a 5-5 record, which is quite remarkable since none of the freshmen and sophomores had previous wrestling experience.

Four Rams qualified for the regional with 128-pound 10th grader Bob Olsen being the best of the quartet. "He's a natural," raved Peters who compares Olsen to Lyman state champion Marc Schuster at the same stage of their careers.

"He's definite state material next year...possibly this year," continued Peters. "He was the county JV champ and he's really a tough kid."

Olsen is 9-2 and also placed third in the district. Schwartz's and Peters' biggest find of the year is literally just that — BIG.

Sophomore Robert Rawls, all 6-9 and 310 pounds of him, was impossible for Schwartz to miss since most wrestling coaches always have an eye for a heavyweight anyway.

"I first noticed him at student orientation," said Schwartz.

"Who couldn't see that giant walking around?" confirmed Peters.

It wasn't hard to notice his wrestling skill either. "He's pretty much a natural too. He uses his weight real well," pointed out Schwartz about Rawls, who is a student in the Lake Mary Educable Mentally Handicapped program.

Rawls has a third place district finish and a second place Seabreeze Christmas Tournament spot. Rawls has won seven of 10 matches, all with pins.

But more than the physical victory, Peters feels that the matches have given him a sense of confidence and belonging. "He wouldn't hardly talk at first," remembers Peters. "It did a lot for his confidence. He went out and got his drivers' license, which may not seem like a big deal to everyone, but Robert has really accomplished a lot this year and everybody's proud of him."

The Rams qualified two more grapplers — Todd Beauchamp (116) and Ned Kolbjornsen (189) — for Friday's big meet. Beauchamp is just a freshman who has "a lot of fight in him" says Schwartz. See Wrestlers, page 6A

Lake Brantley Boasts Pitching; Greyhounds Claim Hitting Prowess

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Lyman baseball coach Bob McCullough feels his 1982 squad will hit the ball this spring. Lake Brantley trainer Sam Mornary thinks his club will get some solid pitching.

If these two diamond marvels are right in their predictions, look for big seasons from the Greyhounds and Patriots.

As has been the case the past few years, however, the 'Hounds don't hit and all the Patriots do is hit.

"We scored eight runs a game last year," pointed out Mornary about his potent attack. "I doubt we can do that this year, but our pitching and defense should be better."

The pitching could have been superb if junior lefthander Craig Bolton had stayed around. "He might have been the best pitcher in the Five Star," warned Mornary. Bolton had a no-hitter to his credit last year.

The smooth-throwing lefty had some domestic problems and dropped out of school.

With Bolton gone, Mornary turns to senior Jerry Wallens as his stopper. "He's going to have to do the job, so we're going with him from the beginning," he said about Friday's 3:30 p.m. opener against the 'Hounds.

Racking up Wallens will be senior righthander Billy Green (1-1) and righthander Scott Killam (6-1), Brantley's most consistent hurler last year.

The Patriots return eight starters and most of them have big bats. Centerfielder John Sinas may be the best hitter-sluggler in the conference. He batted .360 last year and led the Patriots in runs batted in.

He is flanked by two newcomers.

JOHN REICH KENNY BROWN

The right side of the infield is solid with senior Scott Killam at first base when not pitching and hot-hitting second baseman Brian Wright. He batted .340 last year.

The Patriots may live and die on the left side where two precocious sophomores have nestled in. Switch-hitting Brennan Asplen takes over at the pivotal shortstop spot. He has good breeding. His father — Brennan — played for the Washington Senators.

At third base is Jimmy Robbins. Catching is in good hands with Joe Mincey. The senior handled the duties behind the plate last year too.

Mornary can look for help from basketballers Bill Powers and Mark Cochran. Powers will move right into an outfield spot with his .300 average and Cochran is a pitcher-infielder.

Cochran's twin, Craig, a junior outfielder, Gene Divita (pitcher) and promising freshman catcher Blair Patton complete the Patriot roster.

Moving to the Greyhounds, McCullough just may have his best hitting group in years. The five-bunts-a-game Greyhounds may be a thing of the past.

The outfield is especially strong. Junior centerfielder Todd Marriott already has the scouts' eye. He is a solid .300 hitter who plays all-out all the time.

In left field Tom Perkins will bat cleanup for the 'Hounds. Perkins is a potentially good hitter. Both Perkins and Marriott are just juniors. Rightfielder Rick Humphrey, a part-timer last year, fills right field.

First baseman John Reich is the mainstay of the infield. The excellent-fielding lefthander can hit the other way well and is penciled into the number two spot in the lineup.

Speedy Kenny Brown takes over at second base, while newcomer Jorge Sierra brings quick hands and lightning reflexes to shortstop. Junior Lee Jenkins handles the hot corner.

Behind the plate, the Greyhounds have one of the best catchers in the conference in Brent Smartt. The tall senior also saw some mound duty this summer for McCullough's Legion team, but the veteran Lyman skipper plans to keep Smartt behind the plate exclusively.

Righthander Kevin Brubaker gets the nod for Friday's opener. He was the Greyhounds' best pitcher down the stretch last year. He is backed up by senior Pat Burkhart, "unretired" Dwayne Johnson, junior Mike McArdle, Jeff Barefoot and Bill Pashe.

Infielders Tom Gibbons, Rusty Huff and Steve Lorenz give the 'Hounds added depth. Bob Brooks is the fourth outfielder.

Thursday's game between Seminole and Lake Howell has been rescheduled for Friday at 1 p.m. because the backstop is not complete yet at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Templeton-For-Smith Deal, Nears 3-Month Completion

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — When Whitey Herzog first began talking about trading Garry Templeton for Ozzie Smith, he said the deal might take three days, three weeks or three months to complete.

It's been closer to three months, but Herzog, the manager and general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, apparently will see the deal become a reality.

The Cardinals scheduled a news conference for 10 a.m. CST today, at which they were expected to announce completion of the deal for Smith, shortstop for the San Diego Padres the last four years, for Templeton.

The trade had first been proposed during baseball's winter meetings in December, but Smith had invoked a no-trade provision in his contract to block the deal.

'Not So Mean' Greene Retires

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — How Joe Greene wants to be remembered and how he will be are as different as the Pittsburgh Steelers of the 1950s and '60s and the Pittsburgh Steelers of the 1970s.

The defensive tackle upon whom Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll built a football dynasty formally retired after 13 seasons Wednesday, with a simple request that he be remembered "as a man who loved the game, who loved the camaraderie, who loved participating, a team player, a competitor who knew he was only as strong as the weakest link ....

"Just remember Joe," he added in a moving farewell address, "as a good football player who wasn't really mean."

...Wrestlers

"Big Ned" was an outstanding football player for the Hams and is the hottest Lake Mary wrestler of late. He has four straight victories, but will face a really tough weight class Friday.

Schwartz likes Bishop Moore's chances of repeating as the regional champion. Coach Handy Jesse's Hornets have several performers returning from last year's team which tied for the state championship.

Hornets' James Severson (100) is 17-1. Dennis McKechnie (123) is 16-2 and Robert Provost (136) is 12-3.

Thirty-two schools will compete during the two days. Oviedo has three legitimate shots at going to state. Steve Berg (116) is 11-7, while Shawn Krapp (100) is 10-3 and Mark Clemens (142) is 7-2. Tickets are $2.

The state meet is next week at Ft. Myers.

(On Friday the Evening Herald takes a look at the District 1A-B at Lyman which is looming to be a classic battle between Lake Brantley and the host Greyhounds.)

Words Of Love Best Rx For Drug Users

DEAR ABBY: I received a telephone call at 2:30 in the morning from the emergency room at one of our hospitals. My 18-year-old daughter had been injured in an auto accident. I rushed there and found her covered with blood and so drunk (or stoned) they had to tie her down to sew up her face! There was little they could do about her teeth. They were back at the scene of the accident.

Now she is trying to recover. Within 48 hours, her "friends" arrived. Their biggest concern seemed to be what type of drugs she was getting "for free" in the hospital.

As long as my daughter is in the hospital, I can rest at night knowing that she can't drive over an innocent person or kill herself. When she gets out, I will lie awake nights waiting for the phone to ring again. Maybe next time it will be the morgue.

Abby, please write to my daughter and say the words she needs to hear right now but will mean nothing coming from her father. I don't want to lose my little girl.

DAMNED IN DALLAS

DEAR DAMNED: My heart aches for you, but the "words" your daughter needs to hear right now will mean nothing coming from me. She needs to hear her father say, "Honey I love you. Let's not talk about yesterday. The Lord spared you because he wanted you to live. When you get well, please take a serious look at the precious life you almost threw away. You can depend on me to help you in any way I can."

Father, you alone can't "save" her. She will have to save herself. But letting her know that you love her is a good beginning.

There are some excellent programs in your area for teens with drug problems. If you need further help from me, please write again. I care.

DEAR ABBY: You asked why it is considered bad luck to seat 13 at a table. It's very likely because there were 13 people at the Last Supper, and you know what happened then.

Dear Abby

If you use this letter, please don't use my name. I am now retired, but when I was an active bishop living in New York about a dozen years ago, you printed a letter I had written saying that Jesus had turned water into wine, and it took me three months to answer all the complaints I received from people in the Bible Belt who said, "If Jesus turned water into wine, he should not have done so!"

THE RIGHT REVEREND (NAME WITHHELD)

DEAR SIR: Right on, Right Reverend! Enjoy your retirement in peace. You've earned it.

DEAR ABBY: I found this in the "AORN Journal" — a publication put out by the Association of Operating Nurses: "The Chickenization of Women"

"Women are frequently referred to as poultry. We cluck at hen parties. When we aren't henpecking men, we are egging them on. In youth we are chicks. Mothers watch over their broods. Later we are old biddies with an empty-nest syndrome. It is just a coincidence that so many women's wages are chicken feed!"

ANN D'ARCHY, OKLAHOMA NURSE.

DEAR ANN: No. And ain't it how? Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 28923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

UDC Studies Gen. R.E. Lee

The Norman de Vere Howard Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held the last meeting at the home of Mrs. L.D. Hastings.

A "Welcome back Home" greeting was extended to Mrs. Linda Martin Zike, chapter member, who moved to Colorado. Following the death of her husband she is now living back home in Longwood.

It was announced the chapter will continue sending gift subscriptions of the UDC magazine to Seminole Community College and to Ret. Commander G.R. Strickland, and continue to support the six general U.D.C. projects.

The speaker was Mrs. Troy Ray, a chapter member, who spoke of Robert E. Lee's military fame. She said he was a master at self-control and example in victory as well as in defeat. He was a true soldier of the Cross in his deep religious conviction and his faith in the God of our fathers, his devotion to duty, patience and tolerance of others made him a true Southern gentleman.

Mrs. Ray said the great dignity and kindness of General Lee's soldierly bearing was strengthened by a confidence to command. His winning the hearts of both North and South by his sincerity, kindness and human sympathy left a lasting impression by his manly, noble appearance.

For his good looks and perfect record of no demerits, his classmates at West Point called him the "Marble Model," Mrs. Ray said. Thirteen members attended the meeting.

Binghamton's Poisoned State Office Building

By TOMTIEDE BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (NEA) — It didn't seem like much of a worry when an electrical fire broke out in the state office building here last February. A transformer was destroyed, and 180 gallons of toxic material were released, but officials thought everything could be cleaned up in a week.

PCB-ridden state office building in Binghamton, N.Y., is bound to prove expensive, even if the suits against the state fail. It cost $17 million to build, and $4 million has been spent since the fire. If it's gutted it could cost $10 million more, or $20 million to $25 million if it's torn down.

That optimism changed when the damage was more closely assessed. The toxic material was found to be polychlorinated biphenyls, PCBs, and when it interacted with the electrical malfunction it produced dioxin and dibenzofuran — two of the most potentially deadly chemicals ever created.

In other words, the largest structure in the city had been poisoned. Dioxins and furans are known to be carcinogenic. The office complex was immediately cleared, the doors were bolted, emergency warning signs were posted, and the 18-story building was closed down until further notice.

That was nine months ago. Further notice has not come.

Today the huge tower continues to be closed. Even the underground garage is sealed by a tarp. Boys sometimes race by the barriers to write graffiti in the dust on the windows ("PCBs are good for you"), but otherwise the lifeless building looks as if it has been struck by a neutron bomb.

And according to some opinion here, it may as well have been. When the fire broke out, the chemicals were carried to every crack and corner of the structure, and many people in Binghamton say it can never be cleaned. The tower will be sealed forever, they add, like an urban tomb.

State authorities involved with the matter say that claim is nonsense. But they also admit that the contamination has proved to be far more complex and frustrating than they would have wished. As a result, they are still not certain when or how the state office building will be purged.

One problem is that officials still do not seem to agree on how dangerous the contamination is. Initially, the state said that samples taken from the building contained 3.5 parts per million of dioxin, and 200 parts per million of one furan compound. Gov. Hugh Carey said it was safe enough to drink.

But subsequent investigations indicate the pollution may be 10 times this level. And doses of the samples have killed some laboratory animals. Carey has since apologized for treating the subject too lightly. During the summer the county health director, Arnold Schecter, said the tower may always be a hazard; he has since been removed from his position.

Even when officials do agree on the level of the risk, they bicker about the solutions to it. At first, the state tried to wash away the PCBs with Tysol and water; now there is a belief that the entire interior of the building might have to be gutted, and then buried for all time.

Naturally the state does not want to gut the structure. That would take years, perhaps, plus legislative approval, and state business could suffer; the office workers have been transferred to an old schoolhouse where morale has nosedived and efficiency has gone down.

Besides, gutting would not remedy the most sensitive part of the cleanup. That is, how to get rid of the contaminated air. Officials think it will have to be filtered and then vented into the city; that notion serves to disturb many of the 60,000 residents of this industrial community.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, February 12, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY

February 12, 1982
You and your mate may not see eye-to-eye on several important issues today. Should a rift occur, try to patch things up later with a little peace offering.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If things don't start off too well early in the day, ask yourself if it's because you're repeating unproductive procedures. Don't duplicate old mistakes. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your new Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone of whom you're quite fond could do something today which may hurt your feelings. Rather than dwell on it, be the one who forgives even though it wasn't your fault.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your initial tendency today may be to dodge difficult decisions, but when you meet situations head-on, you'll find adequate solutions.

TALUS (April 20-May 20) Coworkers may be a trifle difficult to get along with today, but if you keep in mind your collective goals the rough spots can be smoothed over.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your loved one may not live up to your expectations today. Rather than making an issue of what occurs, strive to be understanding and forgiving.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You and your mate may not see eye-to-eye on several important issues today. Should a rift occur, try to patch things up later with a little peace offering.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though you will be able to see others' frailties today, try to overlook their shortcomings. Praise them in terms designed to awaken their better qualities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to be very discerning today regarding how you spend your money. If possible, eliminate all nonessentials. But only what is necessary.

LIDHA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In involvements with outsiders today, you'll do all the right things to win their approval. When dealing with family members, you may not exude the same warmth.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Early in the day you could restrict your progress because you may have predetermined that what you've planned won't work out. Later, your attitude will brighten.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a possibility you'll permit your hopes to be overshadowed by pessimism today in areas relating to your security. Don't. You can withstand adversity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Important goals are achievable today, but they may not come about as your first plan. You'll find ways to accomplish your purpose despite setbacks.

Laxatives Often Habit Forming

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 20-year-old female who has been taking laxatives for the last two years. I started taking them because I was having a problem with constipation, but that was nothing compared to the problem now.

Dr. Lamb

I can no longer have a bowel movement without laxatives. I desperately want to stop taking them as I now see how damaging constant use is. I have been trying for about two months without them and eating almost nothing but bulk-producing foods. But I get so constipated and uncomfortable that I find I must take them again.

There is no specific exercise but physical activity, such as jogging, can stimulate increased bowel action. If you are not active try to develop an exercise program.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-8 Laxatives, Enemas and Suppositories, for more information. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Could you please advise me of any way in which I could get myself back to normal? Perhaps there is some sort of exercise to get it working again.

DEAR READER—Your story is typical of why I do not recommend the frequent use of laxatives. Bulk-producing substances are a different matter but the chemical laxatives that stimulate your bowel to contract and empty can cause a person to develop a bad habit. No one should take these regularly without the recommendation of his doctor.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband is taking Coumadin for a heart condition. His doctor prescribed it after he recovered from a heart attack. I know quite a few people who also take this medicine. What does it do for your heart? Will he have to take it the rest of his life? Are there any dangers in taking it?

You might want to use a bulk-forming agent. Also increase your fluid intake. Fruit juices are not a bad choice. After three days if you have not had a bowel movement you could use a room temperature tap water enema. Follow this procedure and try not to use an enema unless really needed. In time your bowels may regain normal function. Do not take any of the chemical laxatives.

DEAR READER—Coumadin, also known as warfarin sodium, is an anticoagulant. Many people call these medicines blood thinners but they do not thin your blood. They just interfere with the normal clotting process.

They are commonly prescribed after heart attacks (and taken in the acute phase in the hospital), strokes and any condition that is associated with blood clots, such as thrombophlebitis.

Many people have been on this medicine for years to prevent more clots or attacks. The main danger is that too much of the medicine may cause bleeding. Or a person may have a disease, such as ulcers, that will bleed because of the anticoagulating medicine.

Indred it would be a loser if West had led from A-Q-10-3 or A-Q-9-3 since it would let East score a surprise trick with the 10 or nine, depending on which one he held. It would also break even if West had led from A-Q-7-3.

It is very unlikely that West would open into South's bid spade suit with four to the ace-queen. Now look at the actual hand.

West has found the only winning lead! If East is expert enough to play his eight of spades at trick one, he will get in with the ace of diamonds and lay down his king of spades. He will get to pick up dummy's jack this way. South will have used up the queen or 10 to best the eight at trick one. Now, when East leads the six West's ace and nine will be winners. The king of clubs will then be the setting trick.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Soniat

Ninety-nine percent of East players would put up the king of spades at trick one. It would look as if the play of the eight could not be correct.

We have called this type of play by East a "Bracket" play. He has bracketed dummy's honor and caused it to become valueless. The bracket play is sometimes made by a defender on lead as we will show in tomorrow's article.
