A GROWER OF ROSES
By Arthur Wallace Peach
In the New York Times—
He had a gift with roses, so they said,
Some understanding of their secret ways,
For round his home in fragrant bright arrays
The blooms in clustered radiant spread.
The valley thought him foolish, that one bred
To wide rich fields where useful toil repays
The toiler well should through the precious days
Fool with the roses fading when June has fled.
Yet in the valley after twenty years
They speak of him, his roses like a sea
About his gray old home, serenity.
The name upon the marble disappears,
But on the breath of bloom his memory
Defies the marble's cold conspiracy!
As we get it, one receiver is about as bad as another.
"Old Glory" will hop off to-night—headline. Now, listen to ours.
It seems to us that what the Key Club in Tampa needs is a padlock.
The "Kickapou," something new in ballroom struts, must have been invented for kangaroos.
Now that fire has reduced Sacco and Vanzetti to ashes, maybe the Reds won't be so hot.
Both Elder is another girl planning a flight to Europe. She'll be elder and wiser when she gets back.
We'll bet there isn't anything that would make Redfern so mad as to have someone say to him, "Be yourself."
And if Hathaway has a way, we'll need it with Doyle, Carlton, Sid Catts and Charlie Haines, all in the running.
New Egg Law Being Enforced, says an editorial caption in the St. Petersburg Independent. No hitting below the belt.
Smuggling aliens into the United States by way of the Florida Coast is getting to be almost as extensive a profession as smuggling liquor.
Levine couldn't make a deal with the air pilot Drouhin. The flying millionaire wouldn't do as a companion to settle the French war.
"Do your best, and if it's a mistake, hide nothing and be glad to suffer for it."—from the Private Life of Helen of Troy.—But first of all, do your best.
Among the newest of Florida newspapers is the Seminole County News, published weekly at Sanford. Robert L. Hooker is editor and publisher.—Tampa Tribune.
Comes to our desk an exchange with ads, society and telegraph news all on the front page. A little bit of everything seems to us to make, but hash, but who can say he is wrong and we are right for may be hash is what he likes.
Col. Youngbergh said the people of the county took the stand that "You knife my project and I'll knife yours." The fact is that they are all knitting their own.—Times Star Advertiser. Knifing one section in this section is getting to be as common as it was in the days of the Bowie himself.

Pre-Convention Smoke

A long time ago someone with more common sense than pure wisdom gave utterance to the remark that everything is fair in love and war. Which is true enough as far as it goes, but the same may have been said truthfully about other things, particularly about politics. The very uncertainty of politics has sounded the death knell to the fondest hopes and ambitions of many of the nation's greatest men. Henry Clay, Daniel Webster and James G. Blaine were the victims of that uncertainty which transformed them from formidable aspirants to the ranks of the has-beens.

President Coolidge's declaration that he "does not choose to run in 1928" has started the political bee buzzing and has aroused the hopes of several prominent figures who are casting their eyes longingly at the White House. Three well-defined booms in behalf of Vice President Dawes, Herbert Hoover and James O. Lowden have already been launched and each is gaining considerable support and favor in various sections. The line-up for the impending battle of ballots for the Republican nomination presents a formidable array of strength in all three camps.

There is, however, nearly a year between now and the time the convention convenes and anything can happen in that period. The very nature of politics makes that possible. However, it appears almost certain that the Republicans will have the names of Dawes, Hoover and Lowden to consider. There is little likelihood of anyone of the three retiring from the field before the convention although there is the remote possibility that Lowden and Dawes may join forces at the last minute.

The trio of potential nominees have a dangerous obstacle in their paths in the matter of precedent. "Booms" launched this far in advance of the convention have met with repudiation in dozens of instances. In many respects the Republican gathering of next year resembles that of 1920. The convention opened with three outstanding names before it, those of Governor Lowden, the late Leonard Wood and Hiram Johnson, but these were shoved aside in the mad scramble of balloting and when the smoke cleared the nomination was resting comfortably on the head of Warren G. Harding.

Unless something out of the ordinary happens in the next few months, the candidacies of Lowden, Dawes and Hoover are doomed. It is the almost inevitable price of picking plums before they are ripe.

The Long Short Of It

None but the tall know the blessings of the short. Romance has it that "he is so tall and wonderful," but ask him who has walked down the street and bumped his head on low hung signs or had his bright new straw knocked into some muddy gutter by a flapping awning which caught him full in the face, how wonderful it is.

Ask him of the long legs if it isn't wonderful to try to get undressed, or better still, dressed, in a lower birth on a fast express train which starts and stops like a bucking bronco on a ranch in southwestern Texas. Ask him if it isn't wonderful when some little shrimp addresses him as "You big stiff" when he has the audacity to express his own opinion even though it may differ with that of someone else half his size and too small for him to hit.

But all these things could be endured graciously and magnanimously if only they had made beds long enough for tall men to sleep in. How often has even the six footer twisted and squirmed in bed, thrown pillows and finally ended lying diagonally from one corner to another, in an endeavor to stretch out full length without curling his legs under him.

We were much amused at the evident sufferings of a young New York novice in length who in spite of his mere seventeen years has already attained the height of six feet four and one half inches and is still going strong. He went down to the City from his home in Berkshire to participate in a boys' amateur golf championship.

Arriving there in his innocence without taking his own specially built seven foot bed with him, he was unable to find in any hotel in the whole city a bed in which he could sleep. Even the ends of most of the beds he found were boarded up so that he couldn't stick his feet through and let them hang over or prop them up in a chair supplementary, as it were, to the bed. Finally he wired home and had his own bed sent to him.

Some day, we hope, manufacturers will make beds to fit the same as tailors do suits sometimes. In the meantime we presume we will have to continue to sleep on a bias or bent double.

Execution Of Sacco And Vanzetti Doesn't Prove Them Guilty

COLUMBUS ENQUIRER-SUN

Since the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti the general tenor of editorial comment seems to be that the men were charged, that their execution was too long delayed, that justice at last triumphed in Massachusetts, and that a smashing blow has been struck at radical activities in this country. These conclusions, no doubt also reflect the opinions of the vast majority of Americans.

Each conclusion, the Enquirer-Sun believes is open to grave doubt. With no desire to question the good faith of the members of the Lowell committee or of Governor Fuller, we submit that their published review of the case revealed no new evidence calculated to erase doubt from the minds of millions of honest men and women who had misgivings as to the guilt of Sacco and Vanzetti. Nothing conclusive was added by these reviews; no clearer light was thrown upon the conflicting evidence brought out during the trial; the committee and the governor merely chose to reject the reasoning for which six years had sought a rehearing for the condemned. Guilty or not guilty, Sacco and Vanzetti went to the electric chair, we believe, with their guilt still not established beyond a reasonable doubt.

As for the assertion that their execution was too long delayed, that can be admitted only upon the premise that their guilt was not evident and proved. If their guilt was not evident, then those who believed them innocent and those who believed merely that they had not received fair trial were justified in taking advantage of every possible legal step to secure a reopening of the case. As long as Sacco and Vanzetti breathed there remained a chance of forestalling what many men believe

As Brisbane Sees It

Shorter School Hours.
Spats at Garden Party.
Kind-Hearted Ladies.
Farmers and Canals.
BY ARTHUR BRISBANE
Copyright 1927 by Star Co.

Mr. WILL C. WOOD, California superintendent of public instruction, says that school hours should be made longer, and recommends legislation to that effect. He is mistaken, the hours should be made shorter if there is to be any change.

Two hours a day, or three at the most, a child properly taught could learn all that its mind could absorb in one day. No hours of sunlight should be spent unnecessarily.

IT IS A TERRIBLE thing, at a dinner party to find five or six forks at your left, and start off with the wrong one. All through dinner you cannot repair that.

But think of poor, climbing Americans that attended a royal garden party at Buckingham palace, decorated with white spats, and found after they arrived that spats had gone out.

FORTUNATELY, AMERICANS trained in the school of hard knocks, are resourceful. "The Tailor and Cutter," London magazine that tells you what to wear, says that after the garden party, dozens of white spats were found in the shrubbery, thrown there by Americans.

Nevertheless, spats, if you can live up to them, are sensible. They are to the feet, like an overcoat to the body, when worn over low shoes.

THERE IS STAG hunting in England, occasionally feebly imitated in America. The stag is carted in a van to a convenient place. Then the hounds are let loose to catch him and tear him down if they can, while sportsmen on horseback follow the hounds.

Kind-hearted old ladies and gentlemen and some others, that don't go stag hunting object to the cruelty, especially when the stag is driven out to sea by the hounds, brought back by boatmen and killed by the huntsmen when he lands on the beach.

SIR WILLIAM JOYNSON-Hicks, home secretary for the British government, says, "Nothing could be done unless one prohibits the whole thing. Why not fox hunting, why not fox shooting, why not fox hunting, and if shooting, why not every other sort of sport."

You would hardly expect human beings to give up the pleasure of killing animals for sport when they haven't even given up the excitement of killing each other in war.

A GROUP OF well-meaning, but not too intelligent farmers informs the government that they don't want any more reclamation work done, no more irrigation canals, no more land drained or deserts irrigated until the price of farm products increases.

Those are the farmers that have voted to keep out the first class European immigration that this country needs, the immigration that would provide mouths to eat all the farmers can grow and more. They vote to keep out customers for the farms, and would vote to prevent development of the country. But they will not prevent it.

NO EXTENSIVE development begun now would have any effect or add one acre to cultivate land in less than 10 to 15 years. By that time in the natural course of events, the population of the country will increase by twenty millions.

The farmers, more than any other class, are interested in canal development, which would take, as Mr. Hoover has shown six to 12 cents a bushel from the freight charge of export wheat, and in the price of American wheat by that amount per bushel.

MR. B. C. FORBES thinks that some of the glory and prizes that go to athletes should go to mechanics and other workers. A thing in that direction is done already. The Pennsylvania railroad puts photographs of its best and oldest workmen on the menus in the dining cars that the passengers might see and admire.

In Iowa a farmhand recently won a corn-husking championship husking more than 28 bushels of corn in 28 minutes, beating his nearest competitor by more than two bushels.

But you will never interest the public in labor championships as you do in prize fighting, baseball and running championships. Athletic achievement is in the blood of the race, inherited from our ancestors through hundreds of thousands of years. We run and hunt because we like to. We husk corn, distribute letters, dig ditches because we must. There is a big difference.

to the belief of the condemned men decreed their death. But radicalism thrives on oppression. Dead, Sacco and Vanzetti have been exalted in the eyes of radicals to the stature of heroic victims of oppression. Dead, they are become an inspiration to radicalism which, had their guilt been established in a second trial or their innocence at last shown, they could never have become.

If Sacco and Vanzetti were actually innocent, the electric chair has forever closed for them the door of justice and freedom. But beyond that the electric chair has proved nothing. If, in the years to come, their innocence should be proved, Massachusetts "justice"—and perhaps American justice—would receive a blow that might well shake its very foundations.

WOMAN'S CLUB PRESIDENT PRAISES WORK OF RETIRING LIBRARIAN

Regret upon the resignation of Mrs. Anne Van Ness Brown as head of the Municipal Library and an appreciation of Mrs. Brown's work both in the library and in the Woman's Club activities, were expressed today by Mrs. E. A. Douglass, president of the Sanford Woman's Club, in a statement given to The Herald.

Mrs. Douglass' statement is as follows: "The many friends of Mrs. Anne Van Ness Brown in the Woman's Club have learned with much regret of her resignation as librarian in charge of Sanford Public Library, and the probability of her leaving the city.

It is deemed a distinct loss to the city, for Mrs. Brown's literary ability, knowledge of books, together with a deep interest in educational affairs, she has proven herself to be a most decided asset to the city.

Monte Blue Lives Again Experiences Of Youth In Films

William Jackson Blue, father of Monte Blue, was for more than thirty years a locomotive engineer in Indiana. One of the boy's keenest pleasures was to ride with dad on the engine and it was his ambition to follow the same occupation. When in his husky teens he fired for his father, and would no doubt have succeeded him as engineer, had not the lure of the road led him from the state of his birth.

Part of his longing to be free and afoot came from the long time after the death of his mother, when he lived in a Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's home. His early years had fitted him for a man's work and the Cherokee blood that flowed in his veins made him choose roads instead of roofs and a crust fought for rather than a feast provided.

This is why swinging an axe in the lumber country or a pick in the mines were juts to his mind, for a time. Then he must be up and off Cow punching riding bucking broncos soldiering, galloring, he gave them all a fling. He was a happy-go-lucky wayfarer till the fates with no promptings from Blue himself, landed him in the movies. In the movies he has endeared himself to millions to whom he symbolizes what a "regular guy" should be.

Monte Blue in "The Black Diamond Express", a Warner Bros. production, directed by Howard Bratherston, will be shown at the Milane, the afternoon and night.

WOMEN SHOULD BEGIN GOLFING AFTER MARRIAGE

Denver Tournament Shows Of 41 Women Who Took Off Only 3 Were Not Married; Advice Given Women Golfers

DENVER, Aug. 22.—The woman who harbors secret longings to become a golf champion should start her training now.

This is the conclusion reached by observers of the Woman's State Golf Tournament held here recently.

In the qualifying round of the tournament 41 women took off, and of this number only three were unmarried. From the start it was evident that the champion would emerge from among the 38 grandmothers, mothers and brides and not from among the three misses.

Not only does the present advantage in golf appear to lie with the married women, but a glance over the record of past title-holders shows that this is not a new development. Out of five champions listed only one was unmarried.

The efficiency of the modern matron on the golf course only an added indication of her efficiency in the home?

House-keeping which formerly consumed all of the married woman's time appears to be as well or better done than in the past, they declared. And added that the modern child is happy and healthy as ever his parents were, and he is very often much better behaved.

There is no indication as to which particular phase of the married woman's life especially adds to her ability as a golfer. It was impossible to interview any of the husbands on the question or perhaps the mystery would have been solved.

With all the modern conveniences for doing housework as an inducement to the girls of today to join the ranks of the married, the added vision of golfing glories should be enough to convince the more sporting members of the sex of the advisability of murmuring the fateful "I do."

In five years George L. (Len) Reamey, drug addict and member of Denver's famous million-dollar bunco ring, who turned State's evidence and sent 20 of the gang to the State Penitentiary, has established for himself a record as a prosperous respected business man.

After the trial in which Reamey played so important a part, he was spirited out of the city. He changed his name and appearance and he and his wife took up their residence in a southern city where they have found success and peace.

Reamey is now the owner of a small hotel business. He is a member of a luncheon club in the city where he lives, and he has become the teacher of a Sunday School class, declared Roy O. Samson, Denver investigator, who aided in the round-up of the bunco gang five years ago.

Samson refused to betray the city where Reamey is living or the name which he has assumed. To give this information would be to sign the man's death warrant, the detective believes.

"His comrades call him 'the squealer,' explained Samson. 'The men whom he betrayed are all out of the penitentiary now, save for the few who died before the end of their sentence. Their hatred of him is deadly.'

Robert Sanders To Get Hearing Today In Negro's Slaying

A preliminary hearing for Robert Sanders, negro youth charged with the slaying of Horace Bowers, another negro boy, was scheduled to be held this afternoon at the court house with Judge J. G. Sharon presiding over the hearing. The hearing is to determine whether or not the negro will be held awaiting action of the grand jury in the fall session of the circuit court.

Sanders was expected to produce witnesses in an effort to establish an alibi, while police authorities announced the discovery of additional evidence against the alleged slayer. The boy was arrested when he claimed to be a witness of the slaying.

MISS HOYNE AND MR. WILLIAMS ARE MARRIED MONDAY IN JACKSONVILLE

Real romance has crept into the lives of Miss Ruby Hoyne, popular Sanford girl, and Roy G. Williams, Sanford's young police chief, whose marriage comes as a complete surprise to their many friends in this city. The wedding is the culmination of a whirlwind courtship whose existence was known to only two of the most intimate friends of the young couple.

Miss Hoyne, formerly of Boise, Idaho but for a year and a half a resident of Sanford, became the bride of Mr. Williams at Jacksonville Monday morning. Their only attendants were Miss Nell Williams, sister of the groom, and James H. Lee, close friend of Mr. Williams. Both had accompanied Mr. Williams and his fiancée to Jacksonville on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Williams met her husband only a short time ago, with friendship ripening fast into love. So close did the young couple guard their secret, that neither of the groom's parents were aware of the courtship. Mrs. Williams left Sanford Sunday afternoon with her former home in Idaho as her destination. Last minute plans, she told friends, caused her to decide to accompany Mr. Williams, his sister and Mr. Lee as far as Jacksonville in their automobile.

Then followed the decision to be married at once. After the ceremony, the groom, accompanied by Mr. Lee, sped by motor to Sanford where he received a 30-day leave of absence from the City Commission in session yesterday afternoon. Returning to Jacksonville, he and his bride left that city this morning in their car for an extensive motor trip which will take them to points in Tennessee, Louisiana where they will visit relatives of Mr. Williams, followed by a visit to Yellowstone Park and Boise, where the couple will visit the bride's parents.

Since coming to Sanford, Mrs. Williams has made a host of friends by her unusual charming personality and winsome manner. She is a general favorite among the younger social set of this city and was the recipient of many delightful social courtesies just prior to her departure.

Mrs. Williams was born and reared in Boise, Idaho. She attended the University of Idaho at Moscow where she was prominently identified in numerous student activities. The bride came to Sanford in the spring of 1926 and for some time has been connected with the Seminole County Bank.

The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams of this city. He has made Sanford his home for the past several years, four of which he has served as the chief of the local police department. At the time of his appointment to the post, Mr. Williams had the distinction of being the youngest police chief in the United States.

Mr. Williams has made an impressive record as an official and is popular in local business circles. The groom possesses many friends in Sanford as well other parts of the state where he is well known.

The host of friends of the young couple will join in extending their best wishes for every happiness.

Prof. Leon Osborne of Zellwood spent the day here Sunday as the guest of friends.

Mrs. C. L. Nottingham and daughters, the Misses Marigene and Rosa Caine, Nottingham of Cape Charles, Va., arrived here Monday and are the guests of Mrs. Nottingham's niece, Mrs. Lloyd F. Boyle at her home on Park Avenue.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 29 (INS)—Unless rain should again intervene to make another break in the already much interrupted Women's Lawn Tennis Championship tournament at the West Side Tennis Club here, Helen Wills, queen of the American courts, will battle Miss Helen Jacobs, and Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, who dethroned Mrs. Molla Bjurestedt Mallory, in 1926 championship on Friday and will meet Miss Betty Nuthall, the English girl, in the semi-finals of the singles matches this afternoon.

RUTH LEADS GERRIG

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (INS)—Ruth is two up on Bunter Gerrig today in their home run duel, this being the greatest advantage enjoyed by either slugger in game time. The Babe's 42nd homer yesterday was his second in two days. He is traveling at a faster pace than Gerrig, but is six behind his record of 1921 when he walloped 59.

MARATHON SWIM

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (INS)—More than 100,000 persons will see the 21-mile Wrigley marathon swim here Wednesday, it was estimated today. Leading swimmers from every part of the world, with a $50,000 purse, are completing their training to-day.

HELEN WILLS IN FINALS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 30 (INS)—Helen Wills, of California, queen of the lawn tennis world, will battle Miss Helen Jacobs, for the Women's National Lawn Tennis championship here today in the semi-final of one of the most important tennis matches in many a year.

In addition to being a crack swimmer, Miss Zabriskie goes in for tennis, archery, trap-shooting and golf.

Giants Playing Great Ball Are Nearing The Pennant Of The National League

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (INS)—With the winning runs in the nightcap, the Pirates slicing to the right, the Grover Alexander of the Cardinals, Cardinals hooking to the left and won a 2 to 11 duel from the Cubs floundering in a sand trap, the Giants are thundering down the National League fairways today in a drive that threatens to land them in first place. The slipping Bruins were flattened twice by the Giant juggernaut yesterday, leaving them only 2.5 games in front of the Cardinals and Pirates, who are tied for second place.

With New York only one game behind St. Louis and Pittsburgh, the race is becoming closer than last season's nightmare. Thirty thousand rabid fans saw the Giants scorch the Cubs twice, won the hero of both games. Der Heinie hit a home run and a single in a seven-run rally in the third inning of the game and drove in the winning runs in the nightcap. Jess Petty of the robins hit two

Rumors That Al Smith Will Not Seek Nomination Seem Inspired Only B Faint Hope

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (INS)—These recurrent rumors that Governor Al Smith will not seek the Democratic presidential nomination probably are inspired by hope. The truth seems to be that with William G. McAdoo pushed pretty well out of the picture, many Democrats—especially in the south—test that their brethren who have supported Smith should also eliminate the governor in the interest of party harmony.

What happened was that the southern Democrats, realizing that no good would come out of a repetition of the Madison Square Garden mess of 1924, decided that the party must start with a clean slate, so that chances of a successful campaign would not be ruined by bitter warfare over prohibition or religion. They practically disowned McAdoo as the candidate of the "dry, Protestant south," no doubt much to McAdoo's disgust, but it does not appear that they obtained any promise from the Smith folks to do as much on their side of the fence.

Smith Has Largest Following The trouble was that the greater part of the McAdoo strength was enlisted in behalf of a cause while the bulk of the Smith strength was attracted to a personality. Thus southern and western Democrats could discard McAdoo and choose another standard-bearer with few regrets, but the northern Democrats might be expected to fight to the last ditch for Smith. The general result of the change in the Democratic lineup is that while a majority of the

TUNNEY TO FIGHT CAUTIOUSLY

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 30 (INS)—There is every indication here that Gene Tunney is preparing to fight Jack Dempsey cautiously when he meets him in Chicago Sept. 22. Tunney went into the Philadelphia fight with but one prayer, to stay ten rounds and outpoint Jack. He learned in this fight, hollow shell or no hollow shell, that the Manassa Mauler is a dangerous man every minute he is in the ring.

BRITTON WINS

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (INS)—Jack Britton, a ring veteran of 23 years in the fighter he used to be when he was welterweight champion of the world, but he can still handle most of the modern fighters. That much was demonstrated here last night when Britton returned to the ring and whipped George Tupland coming welter. Although he missed frequently, Britton won six of the ten rounds.

Slim Harris of the Red Sox and Jack Quinn of the Athletics turned in pitching masterpieces, Harris held Cleveland to two hits, winning 10 to 2, while Quinn blanked Detroit to three bingles and Detroit's sixth straight defeat. The Braves dropped two to the Reds, 4 to 2 and 6 to 5, and fell in the seventh place. Rain in a seven-run rally in the third inning of the game and drove in the winning runs in the nightcap. Sullivan and who is here with Gene as a member of his board of strategy, is in constant touch with Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, at Chicago and he has his nostrils dilated for every little breeze. Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!

CHARLEY GRIMM, CAPTAIN OF CUBS, DIAMOND CLOWN

Field Pilot Of Chicago Team Has Caused Lots Of Trouble On Northside But Has Made Capable Leader For Players

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (INS)--It seemed strange that a man of such genius should select a clown to captain the team he expected to win a pennant but Joe McCarthy knew what he was doing when he named Charley Grimm, crack first baseman, field general for the Cubs. Grimm, legally Charles John, but popularly "lefty", has always been a trouble maker on the northside. He never attained the degree of efficiency in annoyance that Op Pete Alexander and Tony Kaufmann boasted, but he caused a lot of disturbance.

His principal shortcoming, and his only one, was his insatiable desire to clown. No matter how tense the situation or close the play, Grimm had to exhale a certain amount of horseplay.

Carries A Banjo

He travels the National League circuit with a battered old banjo and does his practicing on trains, in hotel lobbies or anywhere else that the opportunity and desire arrests him. He also possesses a bass tone voice that gets a lot of play in the moments.

Charley's penchant for tomfoolery was a source of great mental agony to McCarthy just year when he took over the Cubs, for it was evident Grimm was paying up to par for himself solely because of his refusal to take seriously the business of baseball.

McCarthy gave orders for no more story telling while running bases and the like of such inconsistencies, and drove home the order by naming Grimm captain.

It was a master stroke and brought invaluable results. Grimm has rounded out into the best first baseman in the senior circuit. He has one equal in taking low and wide throws, the long Earl Sneezy of the White Sox. In the matter of throwing to the bases, Grimm stands out like a dime in a bum's palm.

He is hitting well over .300 and it is not likely that he will slump with the heat of a pennant beacon carressing the Cubs on the cheek.

An Aggressive Player

Grimm is a fiercely aggressive player of the never give up type and is a fiery leader. He constantly analyzes his pitchers and rushes to the mound with words of advice and inspiration when they lag or seem to be slipping. Grimm hates to lose.

In Pittsburgh, whence he came along with Rabbit Marvulle and Wilbur Cooper in 1925, he was regarded as a shiftless player with out a winning complex and a matter-of-fact temperament. But his play for the Cubs in this pennant campaign, which has not exactly been futile at this writing, has discredited all the opinions Pittsburgh ever formed of him.

"He's the greatest field captain I ever had," McCarthy said recently. "He's the seventh wonder as a first sacker, and if we don't win the pennant, it won't be 'Lefty's' fault."

From jester to captain hasn't stopped Grimm's banjo playing, but it has curtailed much of the theatrical in his baseball.

I. W. W. SCARE OF HARVEST FIELDS IS THING OF PAST

Solicitation Of Organizers Is About Ended, Director Of U. S. Employment Service Makes Encouraging Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27--The annual I. W. W. scare in the harvest fields of the past appears to be a thing of the west, according to Richard T. Jones, director of the U. S. Employment Service.

While organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World may be plying their trade of selling "little red cards" to workers in harvest camps and upon freight trains, their solicitation has ceased to spread alarm among the farmers and townspeople in the great wheat belt, Jones declared.

"There really has been no serious trouble between authorities and the I. W. W. for several years, but this season we have had virtually no reports of any kinds of activities," said Jones.

SURPLUS OF SHIELD Surplus of Labor

"The situation has been brought about largely through the Federal Employment Service and the cooperation of citizens residing in the states west of the Mississippi."

"One of the great difficulties of the past has been a sudden surplus of labor at some particular point. This was often due to misleading advertisements concerning the need of laborers. The employment service seek to fill the demand and to avoid these surpluses."

"For years the employment service was faced by labor agitation in one particular section of Kansas. An investigation showed that in thousands of unsigned handbills had been sent out urging 3,000 laborers to come to this town immediately."

Too Many Jobs

When they arrived only a few could find jobs. Naturally this large number of idle and disappointed men felt that they had a grievance.

"We find that with payment of fair wages and intelligent direction to the workers and the farmers set along very well and both appear to be benefited."

More than 100,000 migratory workers have entered the harvest fields this season despite the increase in labor saving machinery. The demand for harvest workers was cut 18,000 in Kansas alone by the introduction of combine machines, which cut and thrash the grain.
