

Only Christensen Opposes Parks Reorganization

Seminole County Commissioner Barbara Christensen was vocal but outvoted in her opposition to what she called "too many high-powered, high-salaried people" in a proposed reorganization of the county's Facilities, Parks and Recreation Division. County Administrator T. Duran Rose Jr. presented his plan Tuesday before restructuring the division as a commissioners' work board. It will go before the board for a vote next week.

Rejecting the idea of splitting the division into two, he proposed restructuring the division as a commissioners' work board, intact, but placing all its functions under two coordinators.

He would group parks and recreation and grounds maintenance functions under one coordinator because recreation staff is more direct than with grounds maintenance. He said with Percy director of Public Services and Development, the department, which oversees Facilities, Parks and Recreation.

'I don't like all these coordinators, schedulers and supervisors.'
—Christensen

Rose said the change would save $100,000 a year at a savings of about $12,000 per year.

Christensen, however, said she saw too many managerial levels in the plan.

"If the Haveli Bill is not taken back proper passed today, could we merge all three layers of high power managers?" she asked.

"Let's call them workers," Commissioner Job Sturm replied.

"They're not workers," she emphasized. "They're layers of government bureaucracy we're trying to eliminate."

The chain of command in the proposed organizational structure runs like this:

On top is Percy. Then a facilities, parks and recreation manager, a job now being filled by Leonard Caraway. Under Caraway, in facilities maintenance coordinator and a grounds, parks and recreation coordinator.

Next comes schedulers and designers under each coordinator. The schedulers and designers then have supervisors who oversee technicians and workers of various trades.

Christensen said she would like to remove one layer of management — either the facilities manager and have the coordinators report directly to Percy, or the coordinators should go and have the manager deal directly with scheduling.

"I don't like all these coordinators, schedulers and supervisors," Christensen said.

"I don't care what you call them," Sturm said. "But the bodies are still needed."

"The leaner and meaner we get the better off the taxpayers are," Christensen said. "You can't tell me we can't do out one layer because I don't believe it."

"This is as far and mean as we can get without affecting the level of service," Rose said.

Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn and commissioners Bill Kirkhuff and Paul Fraser agreed with Sturm that Rose's plan seems appropriate.

Kirkhuff said he particularly favors the schedules.

In the past he said things just didn't get done around the parks and recreation department.

"Now I'm amazed at how the parks are clean, showers repaired, things painted," Kirkhuff said. "I don't see any more of that stuff done and they said 'We scheduled it.'"

Audit Of St. Johns Board Members' Plane Trips Sought

Florida's auditor general has been asked to make an audit of the travel vouchers of the St. Johns River Water Management District Board of Directors for the past year, giving particular attention to the numerous charter flights by the district chairman from Orlando to Tallahassee.

State Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont, said today that although the management board policy may permit such charter flights, the policy of an appointed board cannot supersede state law. State law states that employees and elected officials are allowed only 20 cents per mile for travel expenses or the amount of the employee's salary, Langley said.

Langley, a member of the Seminole County Legislative delegation as well as a member of a special select subcommittee charged with looking into the operations of the St. Johns water management district, said he is directing Auditor General Ernest R. Ingersoll to make an audit, detailing complete or partial receipt of travel expenses for the past year.

Langley said much of the more than $30,000 in travel expenses is for charter plane trips by board members to Tallahassee.

From Frigione, a member of the water management district for the past 2 1/2 years and currently its chairman, said today Langley can do whatever he wants.

"We have a travel policy and fully document every charter flight we take," he said. "The documents are public record. Langley hasn't had to dig out anything. The travel is a policy we have and we provide documentation for it."

Noting a trip from Orlando to Palatka and back by car takes half a day of travel time, Mrs. Pignone said she said Langley in Tallahassee. She said she often travels to wide spread areas in the district giving speeches when requested to do so and her schedule is tight at times making it impossible to meet those commitments by car.

"I don't know whether Langley thinks appointed board members should give up time from their businesses to travel by car. I don't know whether he assumes a member's time is less valuable than that of a salary to compensate for time spent. I think our air travel policy is reasonable," Mrs. Pignone said.

She added the St. Johns District does not own a plane and two other water management districts in the state do.

She also said the St. Johns district has board charter service the most reasonable way to travel in some instances in the best interest of the district.

Noting the travel expenses total more than $23,000 over a one-year period, Langley admitted this is a small item compared to the district's overall budget of millions of dollars.

"The district is too big to be nipping about $23,000, but if the same attitude is reflected in other agencies, that's what we [the committee] are looking for," Langley said.

"If the travel charges are illegal, the state comptroller will hold full responsibility and we'll see the board members and that's where we are going," the senator said.

Langley said it appears that Mrs. Pignone lives 90 miles from the St. Johns River Water Management District board headquarters and normal driving expenses to the board would not be the claim in a lawsuit.

Cooms Committee Action Clarified By Blackshear

J.C. Ringling of Sanford, center, past Democratic candidate for the Seminole County School Board, gets help collecting cash and checks for the money.

The money was donated to the Seminole County branch of the NAACP, which hopes to have $30,000 available for a court fight if any decision should be made to eliminate Cooms or the use of the Cooms site for a viable, regular school, said Seminole County NAACP education committee chairman Velma Williams.

Superintendent of Schools Bob Hughes said today his recommendation on the future of Cooms will be available at 7 tonight.

The black community's contributions were at a "Save Cooms subcommittee last night at the Allen Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church in Sanford.

Who Ringling, president of the county NAACP, opened, said an audience of about 300. If necessary, the funds would be used to argue in court against a Cooms closure based on a 1970 federal court desegregation order stipulating Cooms have the ninth grade of Seminole High School.

The Seminole County School Board voted last month to merge the two schools, housing all the students at Seminole High School.

Hughes said today "everyone knows" a lawsuit to "save Cooms" is under way.

At last night's "Save Cooms" meeting, state NAACP Vice President Tom Poole said the NAACP is disturbed by the School Board will be useless.

"You can't win that battle before the merger because that's the way you've got to muddy the water."

"You've got to take the game and anything playing like that."

"You've got to muddy the game and you've got to muddy it in a hurry."

At the meeting, Poole said that first approach of the United States Justice Department for permission to enter the desegregation case with private counsel. This is because the department was the attorney of record in the case, he said.

Court Fight Possible Blocks Part of Some Crooms Plans, Poole

"I don't like all these coordinators, schedulers and supervisors," Christensen said.

"I don't care what you call them," Sturm said. "But the bodies are still needed."

"The leaner and meaner we get the better off the taxpayers are," Christensen said. "You can't tell me

"Then," he said, "if we in the black community feel the (school) board's decision is unfair or unjust, we will seek out the state supreme court in Tallahassee or in Orlando."

Only that court can determine what is in line with the intent of the desegregation order of the NAACP, he explained.

Further, he said, Christensen will be sought to put the NAACP in a position to appeal the District Court decision to the state supreme court.

"Thanks in Seminole County we'll become more political to have an input into decisions of Seminole County by registering and being involved in political organizations like the NAACP," he said. "The School Board makes decisions that are political with or without our input."

"For the benefit of the kids let me put it more clearly: You lose of me."

He said the Cooms issue is just fallout from a larger problem. For instance, one of the things the state Legislature is considering in regard to schools is raising the standard educational achievement for athletes.

"This is a disputed effort to take away that little bit you are good at," he said. "I don't want you. If they're tired of you, you're out. There are a lot of you everywhere."

"If any of you think you're not one of them, just hang around a little longer."

He said the issue of Cooms was not just the issue of sentimental attachment to a school.

"Your main reason for attempting to save Cooms goes beyond sentimental attachment. It's stress, potholes and negligence. The community has been neglected. And you know they will never make a first class neighborhood unless they put something worthwhile in them."

"Once you save your school, you'll be able to take care of your community," Poole said.

Crooms Committee Action Clarified By Blackshear

Crooms High School Principal E. L. Blackshear said today the Cooms Middle School Advisory Committee did not suggest Cooms be used for a maintenance facility or any other purpose other than a school.

He said he wanted to correct an impression given by the personal committee of the advisory group's chairman, Shirley Mook.

He said the advisory committee met for the purpose of soliciting input on the possible transfer of Sanford Middle School students to the Cooms facility.

Many diverse comments and suggestions were given by all members of the committee," he said. "The majority of the difference of opinions did not lend itself to a consensus, consequently a compromise motion was made to the effect that a request for a new middle school for the north end of the county be submitted to the school board."

Sepp Says People Should Sound Off More, to Him

watched "Day in the Legislature" on television to hear S. L. Spud' Robinson, D-Brandon, say to a committee that legislators ought to be given a pay raise.

"He remembered that one of his constituents told him earlier he wouldn't oppose paying legislators more money when they were at home and not in session. Sepp said the man felt the Legislature does little public work when they are at home and not in session. Sepp said during the session, I saw it on television," Sepp said.

"I think we would have to raise at a significant rate, rather than a small one of living raise," the Assemblyman said. "I don't think he would not consider a pay raise of any description for himself, unless next term."

"I ran for a job that pays $12,000 a year. I know what the pay was going to be. What would occur to me a significant pay raise is that would be the notion that the Legislature should be in Tallahassee more, or be in session more," Sepp said.

"I think the Legislature should be in session less. Back home, if someone is having a problem with the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, as an example, let us see how we can solve the problem. Here we spend out time sitting in session, but not in committee meetings," he said.

Sepp said the greatest thing Florida has going for is a part-time Legislature and the longer I'm in Tallahassee the more I believe it."

He said other than when some groups from other states are visiting the legislators are in total environment of bureaucrats. "And bureaucrats are a pain in the rear."

While sitting in committee meetings, 15 to 20 bills will be considered each work day, he said, adding all the members here is that the secretary won't like this or the other bill, he said. "I don't see how we never hear what the people of the state think of the bills. It's the bill that has a problem like that," Sepp said.

He said one legislator begins to see if full-time quirkers were in Tallahassee most of the time they would be influenced by the bureaucratic environment and be touched with the people back home. It is so easy to get carried away and get out of the grasp of the people back home, he said.

"In Tallahassee we are so thankful some people from back home make trips up here. I would like the people to keep in touch," he said. "I don't want to come back to the district on weekends and find what the people are thinking."

Sepp urged Seminole County to write him in Tallahassee at 221 E. Washington St., Tallahassee, Florida 904-488-0458, or to write his district office, 20 S. W. College Ave., Tallahassee district office 834-8505.

IN BRIEF Move To Take Sex Out Of Insurance Rates Nixed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter's hopes for changing sex as a factor in setting automobile insurance rates have been dashed a second time within a week.

On Tuesday, the 1st District Court of Appeals said an insurance department rule that proposed setting "maternal and obstetric achievement as rating factors was an invalid exercise of delegated legislative authority."

At the heart of the legal issue is a Florida law prohibiting insurance companies from "unfairly" discriminating "solely" on the basis of sex, mental status or scholastic achievement.

The court majority said the Legislature had improperly rejected proposals to enact a blanket prohibition, like that encompassed in Gunter's rule, against the use of the three factors in setting rates.

Last week, Gunter-sponsored legislation that would have authorized the same ruling by statute was beaten back in the House commerce committee.

In testimony before the committee, Gunter said the use of such factors distorted the rate structure. The insurance industry says the use of the three rating factors would tend to eliminate them would raise rates for women and lower them for men.

No Strike At Disney

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Union members have made it official: there will be no strike by Mickey Mouse and his pals at Walt Disney World.

In testimony before the committee, Gunter said the use of such factors distorted the rate structure. The insurance industry says the use of the three rating factors would tend to eliminate them would raise rates for women and lower them for men.

Members of the Service Trades Council union cast ballots at a series of meetings throughout the day and it was announced Tuesday night the contract had been ratified.

The contract, which was agreed upon by union and Disney officials, provides for wage increases up to 12 percent for the more than 8,000 employees who are represented by the union.

Hawkins Faces June Trial

ORLANDO (UPI) — A prominent Orlando businessman and civic leader, charged with tax evasion, was taken into custody last week on the first of five charges against him.

Charles Hawkins, president of a savings and loan and a member of the Orlando Utilities Commission, pleaded innocent Tuesday before a federal magistrate told 19 charges against him.

Slicing Up The Education Pie: Public Vs. Private

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Legislators in the House have pondered for a month how to divvy up state dollars used to pay Florida students through college and how tax money is best divided between public and private institutions.

This week the Senate education committee waded into the fray, which often pits lobbyists for the 88,000 students at private colleges against those who represent some 230,000 students at public universities and community colleges.

The Senate panel begins tomorrow to take a look at how Florida State Assistance Grants and tuition vouchers are given out.

In terms of college students' budgets, a big winner is involved. This year the state did out $15 million in the assistance grants, which are available at both public and private institutions. The tuition vouchers, $750 checks given to each student at a private school, amounted to $82.5 million.

At issue is whether the state should emphasize a commitment to keep private colleges functioning — offering Florida's a broader range of educational opportunities — or divert more money to state schools more frequently attended by students from lower income groups.

Critics have attacked the tuition vouchers as discriminatory. They have questioned whether public money should be used in religious-oriented schools, such as Florida Southern College in St. Petersburg.

Representatives of the private institutions say the tuition vouchers and the FSACG given to private students don't equal the public subsidy of about $3,500 a year for each public university student. That subsidy is the difference between the amount of tuition paid and the actual cost.

"This sort of gets to the heart of the matter. Whether you're a millionaire's son or someone who can't afford the financial aid program we can fund for you, the state's going to subsidize your education," said Rep. Harvey Thurman, D-Lakeland, a member of the higher education committee.

Committee member Rep. James Burke disagreed.

"The fact that a millionaire's son and a poorer son are equal doesn't necessarily mean we have to subsidize them equally," Burke said.

The issue was kicked up this year by recommendations of the Postsecondary Education Planning Commission, which advise the governor and Cabinet.

The PEPC council said the tuition vouchers are a method of making up for the disparity in funding between public and private colleges, and therefore should not be viewed as financial aid. But the FSACG grants are financial aid, and they should be structured so that poorer students get more, the council said.

Supporters of the private schools beat back an attempt last week to divert a large majority of FSACG to the public universities. Rep. John Coakley, whose Coral Gables district includes the University of Miami, said the move would have "emasculated" the private schools by taking away 80 percent of their FSACGs.

Bill Boyd, a lobbyist for the Florida Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, said when FSACGs were created in 1972, they were intended for the private schools but supporters of Florida's 67 community colleges and nine public universities had the bill amended at the last minute to give public colleges some.

He said while the private higher education system gets $1.7 billion a year from the state, about $1 million is spent on public institutions.

Approval of the department's policy by agreeing to a police recording for $440 to purchase more tape recording equipment for patrol cars.

Although several members had voiced concern about the practice, the measure passed through council without discussion.

Meanwhile, Smith contends the practice violates the First and Fifth Amendments to the constitution.

"As private citizens, we are free to carry on conversations with whom we choose and not have the government monitor them," said Smith.

Secret Police Recording To Continue

ORLANDO (UPI) — The chief of the Orlando Police Department says the secret tape-recording of suspects in patrol cars has been effective for the past decade, and he has no intentions of shutting off the equipment.

A lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union contends the practice is unconstitutional and "tricky."

But both men agreed on one thing Tuesday — the subject could wind up in the Supreme Court.

With a somewhat meek voice to carry the message, the Orlando City Council granted what amounted to public

The Cost Of The Imperial President

Our former presidents should retain a certain dignity in their later years.

Thomas Jefferson had to sell his library in order to pay debts after he left the White House and almost lost Monticello to his creditors.

Ulysses S. Grant lost all his money in a bank failure and had to turn to writing magazine articles about his war experiences to support his family. Mark Twain, the famous author, became the publisher of Grant's memoirs, which rescued the former president from financial hardship.

We don't want our former presidents to have to scrape to get by living or foraging for food as presidential ex-presidents do, that they might have a nice retirement.

However, the public cost of our ex-presidents' dignity is getting to be almost infinite. This year it is expected to top $700 million.

An article in the current U.S. News and World Report discusses the three former presidents — Ronald Reagan, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter — and lists some of the bills they submit to taxpayers.

Take telephones, for instance. Nixon's phone calls last year, $31,000; Ford's, $34,549; and Carter's, $24,800. Secret Service protection for the three former presidents and their families also mounts up. It totaled $12,074,720 last year.

Each of the former presidents receives a $70,000-a-year pension. But there are additional Ford gets another $30,000 for his congressional and military service and Carter gets another $80,000 for his air force and military service. Ford will drop to $26,000 in July as Carter's 30-month taxpayer period ends.

Office expenses of the three also are billed to the taxpayer. Carter's office expenses last year were $202,890, and Nixon's, $238,902. Ford's office bills for this year are not available.

The presidential commemorative libraries — there are seven of them — cost another $14 million a year, raising the total to $200 million. The Herbert Hoover Library in West Branch, Iowa, to $2,073,800 for the Lyndon Johnson Library in Austin, Texas.

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., says all this presidential aid has got out of hand. He has introduced a bill that would gradually eliminate presidential allowances for staff and office expenses and end Secret Service protection for all but the president's immediate family.

Positive action of Chiles' bill would be a real break for the nation's taxpayers. Ex-presidents should not be left in penury; neither should they be cared for like potatoes.

Another Chance

Leaders of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters have only themselves to blame for their union's unsavory reputation. Three of the last four teamster presidents have been convicted of crimes.

The union's management of its pension funds has been a continuing scandal for years. So have the links between top teamster officials and members of organized crime syndicates.

When teamster President Roy L. Williams resigned as part of a recent deal to stay out of jail while a year-long criminal conviction charges were attempted bribery, the union's executive board had an opportunity to begin refurbishing the teamster's tarnished reputation.

Instead, the board chose Jackie Presser, a corrupt official from Cleveland. Presser, notorious, that he has never been convicted of a crime or even indicted on charges he does and that local have been targets of federal investigations. And Presser has been linked in published reports with organized crime figures.

Presser's election as president has already seems likely to recede the union from its undesirable, but wholly deserved, reputation.

To do better than he did, Presser promised an "open-book administration." He asked that the public know the union's largest source of money — dues — and that he called "transparency and accountability" by unnamed sources. Fine. Presser now has an opportunity to show that his critics are wrong.

But the election of Presser has already led to the members of this union will have every right to feel themselves betrayed once again by their leadership.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Postal Service has announced that it will give you your legal right to have mail delivered to your home.

Without consulting Congress, the Postal Rate Commission or — best of all — the public, the post office pebbles in Washington have been making and installing "clusterboxes" — eight or more individual mailboxes clustered together in convenient neighborhood locations.

The convenience, of course, is an add-on to the Postal Service's "customer service" including the elderly and handicapped, on no longer pick up their mail from the front door or curb, but must trudge out in snow, rain, heat or storm to get their mail. And, of course, clusterboxes may be a break away.

Obviously, the clusterboxes are an answer to the Service's "customer service" where the authorities are going about it can best be described as high-handed or underhand. Here's how the TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Legislators looked tough on crime and good to the voters over the years by passing laws including a new ceiling. The inmates are getting a new ceiling.

The state's prison population is the fourth largest in the country now and the Legislature must find a way to pay for judges to build the state correction system.

A federal judge has found the prison system to be so overcrowded that inmates are crisscrossed cruelly and unusually and has established inmate positions now which the Department of Corrections was barely able to meet last year and probably will be unable to meet this year.

Florida's prison system continues the way they are going. The inmates are getting a new ceiling.

The House and Senate correction committees take up this week a proposal that dramatically changes Florida's criminal justice system by sending only violent, dangerous criminals into prison and establishing community-based, non-detention programs for other types of prisoners.

WASHINGTON WORLD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the ending of this year's legislative session, aides who worked behind the scenes in the Senate have decreed that winter is over. The Senate will not be in session until the first of the new year.

As it stands, "The House is three weeks from play to work, the drafters of Capitol Hill sometimes go about their business as if winter were over.

For instance, after years of playing by "rules we have taken for granted," the House will be in session until the first of the new year.

In fact, the seven committees of the USCFP have drawn up no less than 27 rules for the new year. The rules have generally accepted in low-pitch softball.

The most intriguing is rule 23 which states: "Alcoholic beverages shall be restricted to alcohol."

Which is a painful prohibition for a rights lawyer who has spent his entire life would love to take his will to the beer out to the pasture.

More serious significant is the requirement that at least three females must be on the field.

This is a radical departure for anyone connected with the Senate, which has traditionally consisted only of men and regulations imposed on all others — including the ban on discrimination.

What's the Crooms issue?

The Sanford Middle School Crooms issue is a great concern to many people in North Seminole County.

I share in this concern in every way as a parent, as a Sanford Middle School Advisory Chairman, as a business- man, and above all as a taxpayer.

The School Board is not revealing the true reason behind this issue. There are just too many advantages to approve a move to the County facility. The public work session of the 19th provided very little justification for the move. It appears that the board is using the Black Community's concern for the Crooms' program as a ploy to avoid an undiscussed reason for the move. There is little conflict among the White Community to recent changes in the Crooms. This can be easily accomplished by retaining the Middle School.

Having children in Crooms High School?

If you have children in Crooms High School, you will feel a certain spirit for the facilities and staff there, and appreciate the care and attention given to your child.

On the other hand, I once attended the old Seminole High School, now known as Sanford Middle School, and quite frankly, I have fond memories of this school.

However, I believe that the School Board is correct in the financial assessment of two schools, one effectiveness, facilities, etc.

One of the best ways to make sure to move to Crooms is to have presently Sanford Middle School, that the spirit of compromise should be preserved. The Black community wants to preserve the name of Prof. Crooms.

It is not as if I was truly a great educator. Since educators know no distinction of color, race or religion, I suggest that Sanford Middle School be renamed Crooms Middle School, or Crooms School.

Education Leaders Hope Bad Report Card Sparks Reforms

(UPI)—Boys and girls may not go along with reform ideas from the National Commission on Excellence in Education — especially those calling for 90 to 110-month school year, a seven-hour school day and more homework.

But leaders of the nation's public schools — 16,000 independent schools — are now beginning a sampling of responses show.

The report, by the commission, created last month ago by Secretary of Education Terrel H. Bell, was handed out to 600 U.S. public schools, saying:

"An unfriendly foreign power had attempted to impose on America the mediocre educational performance that exists today, we might well have viewed it as an act of war."

Signs of mediocrity include a lack of Scholastic Aptitude Test scores and declines in reading, science and mathematics performance.

Other deficiencies, shell said, include: a lack of emphasis on mathematics, foreign language education and computers — threaten to blunt the nation's edge in high technology.

"Scott Thimmon, executive director of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, reacting to the report said:

"Schools can improve, and that is a fact that principals, other administrators and teachers must realize. But we can't waste a minute waiting to create improvement."

"Society must understand that education is an investment in America, and that everyone has a role to play in that investment."

Thimmon made note of the numerous comparisons in the report between U.S. schools and those in Japan.

"I don't people believe that the Japanese get greater productivity from their educational system than we do, the simple fact is that they contribute greater support to their schools."

In the 1978-79 Japanese fiscal year about 7.1 percent of the national income was spent on elementary and secondary education, according to the Ministry of Education, Science and Culture.

By comparison, in 1981-82, about 4 percent of the U.S. gross national product was spent on schools.

"The commission's report came out during the annual convention of the National School Boards Association in San Francisco."

A series of resolutions followed and recommended local school boards:

- Review high school graduation requirements and course offerings to bolster programs in English, mathematics, science, social studies, computer science and foreign languages.
- Develop written school board policies that call for "more rigorous and measurable standards and higher expectations for academic performance and student conduct."
- Explore ways to add more instructional time, either by lengthening the school day and year or by using currently available time more efficiently.

—Design and implement plans to gain public support for educational reform and a commitment to provide money needed.

Dr. Paul Stinson, executive director of the American Association of School Administrators, hoping the commission's report is an indication that President Reagan has finally realized the nation has a state education.

The association frequently has expressed concerns about White House proposals to reduce funds for public schools.

Recent graduates of America's schools have been criticized for low marks

4-H Council Elects Officers

The Seminole County 4-H Council has elected officers for the 1982-84 year. The council is a 4-H youth governing body comprised of members from each 4-H club in the county.

New officers include: Missy Warner of Oviedo, president; Terri Bodnar of Sanford, vice president; Shaw Bogawski of Sanford, secretary; Laura Turner of Altamonte Springs, treasurer; and Jenni Metzler of Sanford, chairman.

Thalitha Moore was picked to be recreational leader and Tammy Moore was elected delegate. The sisters are from Altamonte Springs. The alternate delegate is Jaime Bogawski of Sanford.

The group's educational objective is emphasis on leadership, community service and newsworthy. Accomplishments this year included welcome signs at all activities, County giving leadership to all 4-H activities and housing and planning the 4-H Leader's Appreciation Banquet and membership on district and state councils.

OPEC Output At 13-Year Low

LONDON (UPI) — OPEC oil production fell 10 million barrels a day in 1982, the lowest level since 1969, according to a Shell Oil Co. report distributed by the OPEC news agency.

The 15-member states of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries provided only 34 percent of the world oil output in 1982 vs. 51 percent in 1977, Shell said.

The study estimated that OPEC exports of crude oil and refined petroleum products dropped by 4 million barrels to 16.9 million barrels a day last year from 20.8 million barrels a day in 1981. It was the third consecutive annual decline in OPEC output of this magnitude.

OPEC oil revenues plummeted to $201.9 billion in 1982 from $222.9 billion the year before, Shell said. Iran was the only OPEC member to record higher oil revenues $10 billion last year from $4 billion in 1981.

The Shell study said both Saudi Arabia's and Kuwait's oil revenues decreased 33 percent in 1982. Saudi Arabia had revenues of $27.2 billion and Kuwait earned $4.9 billion.

The company said total world oil and gas production slipped 5 percent in 1982 to an average 56.4 million barrels a day, largely because of a 21 percent decline in output from the Middle East.

10666 East oil and gas production decreased to 12.9 million barrels a day and accounted for only 23 percent of world output compared with a high of 38 percent in production in 1978.

OIL demand in the non-Communist world fell 2 percent to 43.5 million barrels a day in 1982, Shell said, with the United States and Japan each recording drops of 9 percent.

Shell said the decline in oil demand reflected slowed-down industrial activity, conservation and the shift to alternative fuels.

Meet Pussycat, The Feline Hero

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dogs are said to be man's best friend, but two Long Island men are unconvinced, claiming they have no better pal than "Pussycat," a white feline housed Tuesday for saving their lives in a fire.

The 6-year-old Pussycat received a gold medal of honor from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals at an annual Humans Awards luncheon.

ASPCA Chairman George Green presented the medal at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel as co-owner Royal Cuccia held the meowing cat.

Green said Cuccia, "Is here today because of that white bundle of fur he has under his arms."

Cuccia, 60, was asleep on April 27

last year in the East Hampton home he shares with James Hamelin, 58, when the blaze broke out.

The cat came into Cuccia's bedroom and meowed and clawed him until he awoke and saw the fire, an act enabling him and Hamelin to escape unharmed.

Washington, Paris Split Over Namibia

United Press International

A public rift has developed between Washington and Paris in the search for an independence settlement in South African-administered Namibia, a territory also known as South West Africa.

The United States and France backed to the five-nation "contact" group charged with mediating the conflict that pits South African forces against Namibian guerrillas who enjoy sanctuary in Angola.

The other nations are West Germany, Britain and Canada.

The talks are stalled over a demand by South Africa and the United States making a South African withdrawal from Namibia contingent on a peace of the estimated 30,000 Cubans making the attempt to link a Namibia settlement to a withdrawal of Cuban forces, who help Angola's Marxist government fight off guerrillas belonging to a South African-backed organization called UNITA.

Last week, France made clear it also opposes the linkage.

At a U.N. conference on Namibia in Paris, French Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson rebuffed Washington and Pretoria for the linkage approach, which he considers would impinge on Angolan sovereignty.

He also said, "It is not appropriate that the Namibian people should serve as hostages" in the need to solve problems on Namibia's borders.

Speakers at the conference singled out U.S. policies as the main hitch in the negotiations on the future of Namibia, a former German colony administered by South Africa in defiance of U.N. resolutions.

The contact group — Britain, Canada, France, West Germany and the United States — has sought implementation of U.N. resolutions calling for a cease-fire followed by democratic elections under U.N. auspices.

The Soviet-supported South West African Peoples Organization is all but certain to win any elections in the territory.

Many Africans believe South Africa is holding the Cubans in Angola so they can return to retain its hold over Namibia, a territory rich in diamonds and uranium.

Bruxism

Teeth That Are Into The Grind

United Press International
When Dr. J. Fred Young looked into the mouth of a 26-year-old woman, he found a serious case of bruxism. She had worn a mouthpiece for a year to protect her teeth from a nocturnal habit of teeth grinding.

"When you have been in practice as long as I have, you find for what teeth are supposed to look like related to the shape of the jaw and the way the teeth are used," said the Winston-Salem, N.C. dentist. "You can't tell bruxism from a person's appearance."

Teeth jaw in the morning and a specialist would be needed to determine the cause. The only indication of bruxism is the grinding sound. Besides causing excessive wearing of the teeth, bruxism can affect the jaw and cause headaches, toothaches and earaches.

John Brock, a spokesman for the American Psychological Association in Chicago, says 14 to 20 percent of the American adult population has bruxism.

"The teeth aren't worn just a little bit, but they're worn down to the point where the grinding sound you hear is like the grinding of a millstone," he said. "You don't realize you're grinding in front of your eyes."

Decides are divided about what causes bruxism. Some believe it is a habit, others believe it is a symptom of a nervous system disorder. Some believe it is a sign of a personality disorder.

Young believes the stress is the cause. "If you're a high achiever, you're more likely to bruxism," he said. "You're grinding your teeth because they're 'musical'—they're continuing to work."

New Light-Drug Treatment Helps Leukemia Patients

By Patricia McCormack
NEW YORK (UPI)—A new experimental drug may help leukemia patients fight the side effects of chemotherapy, according to a study by researchers at Columbia University.

The researchers found that the drug, called "leukemia-fighting," helped patients tolerate the side effects of chemotherapy better. The drug is called "leukemia-fighting" because it helps patients tolerate the side effects of chemotherapy better.

Young People Can Do It

By Dick Young

Neil Allen is right, out of a 100 percent. He is Canis with not the clown's makeup, but the monkey crying on the inside. He is the Mets club's poster, the fake, but deep down honest, former pro-ball player who has been in the game since he was 16.

Sunday night, it all came apart. Neil Alen phoned Frank Cashen at home and confessed he is a boomer. He is ready to go to work for treatment.

Frank Cashen, who has raised a large family, didn't panic, instead, the Mets' general manager sent him to the Smithers Management Institute in San Francisco. The Smithers Institute in Manhattan for an 18-month course. There he found that Neil Allen had been trained to create a vacuum of stress in the last two weeks.

In other words, he had gone on a fast to force his brother, because of the old days, back the American language because he was so sensitive. He is not a bona fide boomer.

I know I shouldn't say boomer. I should say I've used alcoholic. How about the '70s? Maybe that's a bit soft enough.

Maybe that's big part of the "vulgar abuse theory." The "HIT" things with "fear words," condemn expressive. We cover up the dark deed. We are specialists in obfuscation.

We're so stung in our lightning. We're not a dog, no shame. That is the hallmark of our pervasive society, the sheer: "I like a junkie and say he has a good problem."

God Almighty, who are we afraid of? Making a mistake is an easy for people to do wrong, so convenient. Almost fashionable. Break all the rules. Don't worry, you won't be punished. Punished? You'll be rewarded. How about a month's vacation with pay? Two months?

What type of place has become popular in baseball and other sports. There are several of them. The most popular seems to be the one in Arizona. It's called "Mojave." Quite a number of clubs send their drug and alcohol cheer there. There is nothing new in this. Generations ago, they called it "drying out." The patient was referred to as "moking." Sentences were mostly for rich drunks.

That's what too many athletes have come so much money and they really don't know how to handle it. "Cocaine," says Bob, "is said: 'Is God's way of telling you that you have too much money.'"

Booze is for the poor. Neil Allen, I am told, preferred vodka. He is making only $450,000.

Young Ideas

Next year, he was supposed to make it big. His two seasons contract runs out at the end of this year. He still will be one short of the $1 million a year. He is a free-agency boomer, but sometimes you can get so much, or almost as much, from your own club by going up for your walking out. This is what Neil Allen envisaged going into the season. It is what he has done and the result is what we see in the above.

Neil is not the answer in the bottom of the bottle," says Frank Cashen. "We all know it's not there."

Last season, especially in the second half, Neil Allen didn't do as well as expected. He retained his status as the Mets' No. 1 pitcher in the last part but saved only 19, and was 3-and-7 from win-loss.

The Mets were trying to dismiss this or the grounds of physical fitness; he had been "tossing" that caused a weight loss of 15 pounds. This led to a sore elbow while trying to pitch with the velocity of a strong NFL player.

If we had have Allen the entire season," George Humberger said during the winner, "we'd have saved about $5.5 million. I'd have gone for the sky on my contract. I'd have saved about $5.5 million."

That reaction was noted in an article published at season's start by a new magazine, Play Sports. The magazine is an all-encompassing popoff by a free-wheeling Allen, taking shots at virtually everyone and everything from Frank Cashen on down to Ron Hodges — with his name in the descriptions. He is the author of Dave Kingman, the inexperience of Ron Garber and Brian Giles, and the winning track record of John Stoen.

Actually, everything attributed to Neil Allen had been written by most newsmen in the past few months. The Mets' No. 1 from a teammate it sounds treacherous. It was such an embarrassment Neil Allen had to deny he had said those things. I'd bet he said them, and if he didn't, he said something else. He has no shame.

This was what Neil Allen called George Humberger on Sunday and told him he would be late at the ballpark because he was fed a vaginal infection and had to take her to the hospital. The manager told him to take the day off, with pay. Linda, Neil's fourth straight passing in a ballgame, hit had returned in the 9th against the Braves, who had a scoreless lead. Before the inning ended, the score was 6-1 and Neil Allen was out of the game. He had been in the game. He went home and tied one up.

Sunday night, Neil Alen phoned Frank Cashen at home, it had been his wife at the phone. She said she was a boomer. "Hello," said Neil Alen.

I hope he straightens himself out. It is simply too much time on his hands, and too much money. So much of that is impending millions. That is what we are talking about.

Too many of them can't handle adversity. They have been extremely pampered for most of their lives, by the public, by the ballclubs, by everyone. Here's a young man, Neil Allen, 25 years old, who has been pampered on the mound and thinks the only answer is to come to a end.

George Humberger called him into the office and tried to tell him that his troubles don't deserve to a half of his contract. He also advised him to get out of the game. He had the best advice in the world. He told Neil Allen to look around him. He said he had seen a lot of young men in fellow nations, and then go out and throw strikes.

Howie Chambliss Hammer Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI) — Remember Hank Aaron, Eddie Mathews and Joe Adcock and how they used to perform day after day on Montreal? Remember how the Braves in the late 1950s and early 1960s?

Well, remember, Dale Murphy, Jim Chambliss are fast becoming the modern day version of that trio.

Howie hit a three-run homer and Chambliss added a two-run homer Tuesday night to lead Atlanta to a 6-3 victory over the Montreal Expos, 5-2. The two bats increased their home run total for the three sluggers to 10 in 21 games.

Aaron, Mathews and Adcock combined for more than 100 home runs between 1956 and 1966.

"We've won three games in a row but that's because we've been able to get our offense going," said Chambliss said. "As long as our pitchers keep on in the game, we're going to win. We have a lot of guys here who can hit home runs, but I'm optimistic about the long ball."

Trailing 1-0, the Braves rallied against rookie Dick Johnson to score six runs in the seventh. Chambliss and Claude Washington singled before Howie hit a sixth home run in the eighth, which was followed with his fifth home run to make the score 4-1.

Carpenter, making his first major league appearance, lost his first decision as he worked in relief of Scott Sanderson. Sanderson started the game but was knocked out of the game by a hamstring injury. Right fielder by Washington, while covering first base in the bottom half.

Howie Brock hit his 18th straight home run for Atlanta to lead the Braves to a 2-1 victory over the last three to record his third save.

"Behrens was just super," said Braves' manager Joe Torre. "He's getting stronger as the time. I received a big deal of the fact that he's been here from AA ball but he's still got the old Yankee swing. I know the offense will come around."

"We're just not hitting the way we're capable," said Montreal manager Bill Veitch. "I know the offense will come around."

Rambis, Nixon Knock Out Portland

By United Press International

Portland, Ore. (UPI) — The Angels' slugger, Mike Rambis, and pitcher, Nolan Ryan, led the Angels to a 6-1 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers in an NBA playoff action Tuesday night.

Rambis delivered the knockout punch to the Portland Trail Blazers in the first quarter, scoring on a layup.

"The coaches can say what they want, but when it comes game time, it's all about the players," Rambis said. "All playoff series are rough. It becomes a test of pride and it sometimes results in a lot of pushing and shoving."

"The fight was just an isolated incident. It happened real quick and it was a real quick fight."

"The Lakers then went on to whip the Trail Blazers 110-109, behind a 26-point lead.

"It's all in a night's work," Nixon said with a smile. "I felt like I had a big game, and I felt I needed a big game. I needed to take some of the pressure off of myself."

The defending NBA champion Portland Trail Blazers will play the Los Angeles Lakers in the second round of the playoffs on Wednesday night.

"The coaches can say what they want, but when it comes game time, it's all about the players," Rambis said. "All playoff series are rough. It becomes a test of pride and it sometimes results in a lot of pushing and shoving."

'Determined' Arent Finds Pah To Seemingly Impossible Goal

February, Arent received the gold medal for her routine on floor exercise and silver medal for her performance on the balance beam. Arent has been taking gymnastics at the Sanford club for a year. The former Rosewood student is currently training at a special program for the handicapped at Seminole Community College.

Arent will attend a training camp in Tampa on May 25-27 and there is a special goal at the Summer Special Olympic Games on May 28 at the University of Tampa. "Sanford Gymnastics is proud of Linda and her accomplishments," coach Eugene Petty said. "Her determination has shown other gymnasts that seemingly impossible goals can be reached." Arent was honored as the outstanding gymnast for December by the club.

Burton's Homer Keeps Longwood I Unbeaten

Longwood is still the only unbeaten team in the Piney Ridge division at the Seminole Pony Baseball complex near Winter Springs. Coach John Mellillo's squad has a 15-0 record to date and a coming off an 8-1 victory over Forest City and a 9-0 win over Lake Mary in its most recent games. In its win over Forest City, Longwood 1 was trailing 5-4, going into the top of the seventh. John Burton stepped up and belted a shot over the left-center field fence to the game at 5-5 and Longwood 2 took the game in three more runs to clinch the victory.

Pony Baseball

Jim Kremer hurled a two-hitter and struck out 13 for Longwood while Chris Granite took the loss for Winter Springs. Chris Hudson led Winter Springs at the plate with two hits. Kremer and Albi Tickle came back with two hits apiece as Longwood edged Sanford, 9-7.

Football Players May Catch Meningitis

CHICAGO (UPI) — A study shows high school football players run an increased risk of contracting aseptic meningitis. Centers for Disease Control researchers say. One of the causes appears to be starting the head water cooler. Aseptic meningitis is a relatively mild form of meningitis — an inflammation of the brain or spinal cord membranes — caused by bacteria or viruses. Dr. Melinda Moore and CDC colleagues in Atlanta said their findings on outbreaks "collectively suggests that high school football players are at increased risk for aseptic meningitis."

Spring Football

"Non-football athletes were relatively spared," the researchers said in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The researchers investigated seven outbreaks of aseptic meningitis-like illness — AMLI — during 1979 and 1980 that occurred in young football players, nine states. In North Carolina, nine cases of aseptic meningitis occurred primarily among varsity football players at one high school — and seven cases among football players at another. Twelve cases were reported from New York State high schools. Nine football players from two Missouri high schools were hospitalized and four from an Ohio high school were hospitalized. "Outings of high school students, athletic teams in particular, have not previously been recognized as populations at increased risk for aseptic meningitis," the researchers said. "Surveys conducted at these seven schools suggested that attack rates of AMLI were higher among football players than among other student athletic teams."

Cook Of The Week

Her Wedding Cookies Melt In Your Mouth

By Leo Childers

Harold Correspondent

Linda Willis is a prize-winning cook. Indirectly, that is. Her recipe for Chocolate Pound Cake recently won "Best Looking Cake" in a contest sponsored by the church at Athens, Pinecrest Baptist. The only catch is, the contest was a Men's Desert Bake-off, and her husband, Ronnie, was the baker.

Linda was 13 years old when she moved to Sanford from Wilson, N.C., with her parents, Boyd and Ann Threant. After her mother's untimely death, Linda did most of the cooking. She says, "I practiced on my brother, John, and Dad, because I had never done much cooking before. Mom was such a good cook, I had only watched her do it all."

In 1963 Linda's father moved back to North Carolina and the Willises decided to buy the house near Seminole High School that Linda had called home for so long. Of their three children, Ronnie Jr., 19, and Jerry, 16, are in second grade at Pinecrest Elementary, are both part of the household. Their married daughter, Robin Parise, also lives in Sanford.

Linda says, "I discovered a recipe called, 'Moussaka,' one year when my husband invented a bumper crop of eggplants. The classic Greek dish calls for the slices eggplant in olive oil, but Linda altered this step because she says, 'The eggplant acts like a sponge and soaks up a lot of the oil.' It occurred to her that you could avoid all this by simply broiling the slices in the oven. She also adds, 'This recipe is a great way to disguise the taste of eggplant — most people don't know what they are eating until you tell them.'"

Little did Linda think when she came across a recipe for Wedding Cookies that she would make multiple batches of them for her daughter's wedding reception. But that is exactly what happened. "These little cookies are medium-thin and melt in your mouth."

Although Linda's friends all declare that she is a great cook, she will know around town for her handwork, too. Some of the "crafts" she enjoys making sell at local shops. They include soft fabric frames, chicken doughnuts, and the new rage — soft sculptured babydolls.

Linda says she is big on vegetable dishes these days. Stuffed squash and steamed carrots are her favorites.

WEDDING COOKIES

- 1 cup butter
 - 1/2 cup powdered sugar
 - 2 eggs all-purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1/2 cup pecans, chopped fine
- Mix all ingredients well. Roll into one inch balls. Bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes. Do not let wedding cookies get brown. Roll in powdered sugar while hot. Cool and re-roll in powdered sugar again.

MOUSSAKA

1. Sauce:
 - Combine the following ingredients in a large skillet and allow to simmer while in the stove.
 - 2 pounds ground chuck
 - 1 large onion, chopped
 - 1 large green pepper, chopped
 - 1 large clove garlic, crushed
 - 1/2 teaspoon oregano
 - 1 teaspoon basil
 - 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon oil
 - 1 can stewed tomatoes
 - 1 can tomato sauce
2. Wash, dry and peel two eggplants. Slice crosswise about 1/4-inch thick. Rinse on cookie sheet and broil just a few minutes until tender.
3. Cream sauce:
 - 1/2 cup butter
 - 3 tablespoons flour
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1 egg
 - dash salt
4. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grate 8 oz. mozzarella cheese. In bottom of 13x20x2-inch pan place thin layer of sauce, cover with layer of eggplant slices. Sprinkle on this layer of mozzarella cheese. Repeat layering. Make a final top layer of remaining eggplant.
5. Pour cream sauce over all. Sprinkle top with Parmesan cheese. Bake about 40 minutes or until top is golden.

CHOCOLATE POUND CAKE

- 2 sticks butter
 - 2 cups white sugar
 - 3 eggs
 - 3 cups all-purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 3 tablespoons cocoa
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Cream butter and sugar together until very creamy. Do not underbeat because the secret to a good pound cake is in the beating. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Mix together dry ingredients, and add alternately with milk. Pour into a greased and floured 10-inch tube pan and bake for 1 hour 15 minutes at a 325 degree oven.

Area Students Win National Art Awards

National recognition in art has come to middle and senior high school students in Howard County, Oregon, and Seaside, Oregon, as a result of their selection for honors in the 1982 Scholastic Art Awards program.

The announcement of national awards by Scholastic Inc. climaxes an annual program which begins each year with regional Scholastic Art Award exhibitions. The Central Florida regional exhibition, sponsored by Robinson's Orlando, was held in February, in Robinson's Orlando Fashion Square store.

For the second straight year, three Central Florida students have been awarded scholarships to art colleges in the national competition. Michele Kovak of Boone High School in Orlando received a scholarship to Pratt Institute. School of Art and Design. Gerald Blaine Liddick III, of Edgewater High School in Winter Park, received a scholarship to the Art Institute of Ft. Lauderdale, and Suzanne Goughler of Winter Park High School-Columbus College of Art and Design.

Scholarship awards are based on portfolio submitted by graduating seniors to the program.

Hallmark Honor Prize winners comprise the national exhibition held in Washington, D.C., June 2-10. The 461 art entries comprising the exhibition are from 26 regions throughout the country. Because of the high degree of selectivity in the national Scholastic Art Awards program, it is indeed an honor to receive any of the awards.

Photography awards will be announced later in the summer and winning photography will be exhibited in the Gallery Center in New York City, Sept. 14, 15, 16.

Food Budget Service Set For County

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD
 In $84 per week a reasonable weekly food budget for a family of four? Is $31 worth of groceries a week enough to keep an elderly couple well-nourished?

If you're not sure how much is too much when it comes to food budgeting, a new computerized food-buying analysis, the first of its kind in Florida, is now available through Extension home economics agents in 25 counties. It is intended to help consumers consider not only how much they spend, but how well their budgeting choices meet the family's nutritional needs.

Lettie L. Murphy, associate professor and food-buying specialist at UF's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS) prepared the program. Murphy, who has been training county home economics agents to use the new technology, predicts that "Computers are going to be a very useful tool for our agents in their effort to help the consumers with important economic and nutritional decisions."

Home economists, using terminals hooked up to the IFAS computer in Gainesville, can produce a personalized weekly food spending plan based on family size, income level, number of meals eaten at home each week, and individual nutritional needs.

The computer print-out tells how much a family of a particular size can afford to spend on food each week on moderate, low cost, and rock-bottom third budgeting plans. It also shows the percent of a budget spent on each of the four food groups needed to provide a balanced diet: milk and dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables, meats, and breads and cereals. A sample menu is also provided.

Murphy said the recession is forcing many families to reduce expenses. The computerized analysis provides a way of deciding whether and how the food budget can be cut.

For example, a couple with two school-age children and an income of around $20,000 per year could afford to spend about $84 per week under the "moderate" food budget produced by the computer. That income could afford some higher priced meat cuts, large quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables, and moderate amounts of convenience and, out-of-season foods to prepare attractive — but not extravagant — meals.

If the family has an income of $12,000 to $15,000 per year, however, they could afford to spend about $67 per week on the computer-generated "low cost" budget. They would buy smaller amounts of meats, dairy products and vegetables, and larger amounts of breads and cereals. Inexpensive high-protein foods like beans might be an occasional substitute for more costly protein sources like meat and cheese.

On the same low cost budget, according to the computer, an elderly couple could manage on $39.75. On the computer's rock bottom "thrift" budget, the couple could get by on $31 per week.

The "thrift" menu plan is hard to stick to — it features things like fish sticks,ologna sandwiches, lima beans, and ground beef — but it's nutritionally sound and the basis for food stamp allocations on which thousands of people depend.

The computerized food-buying analysis is now available through Extension offices in Alachua, Brevard, Hernando, Hillsborough, Citrus, Palm Beach, Brevard, Duval, Leon, Levy, Marion, Nassau, Putnam, Santa Fe, Seminole, and Volusia counties. Many other counties can get access to the program via remote computer terminals and a telephone, Murphy says.

Murphy says the new program is the first to use IFAS' new computer network for Extension home economics, and more computerized food-buying assistance is on the way.

Murphy recently spent two weeks in supermarkets preparing data for a new computerized food-cost analysis that is expected to show what differences alternative choices of brand, form and package size can make in the yearly food bill.

Happy Birthday, Happy Anniversary and Happy New Home

"Surprise, surprise!" an entourage of well-wishers exclaimed when the Rev. Leo King and his wife, Ruby, entered their new home, 2007 Melville Ave., on April 27, at about 5 p.m. to spend their first night. In the right photo, W.W. Tyre assists the Rev. King in carrying his wife across the threshold. It was a triple celebration for the Kings who have lived in Sanford for 10 years where the Rev. King was pastor of the First United Methodist Church. The popular Sanford couple celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary on this date and it is also Mrs. King's birthday. But the frosting on the cake is that the new home is the couple's "very first real home," according to Mrs. King. During their marriage, the Kings have lived in nine furnished parsonages. The couple were married in Chipley, Mrs. King's hometown, in 1944. Rev. King has spent 41 years in the ministry and will retire on May 25. Mrs. King says they have no immediate plans — just getting settled in their home. "We're mighty grateful for it (the home)," she adds.

WHAT SHOULD I KNOW ABOUT ANTIBIOTICS?
ECKERD HEALTHLINE
 BY GARY LEONARD ECKERD PHARMACIST

Before your physician prescribes an antibiotic for you, be sure to tell him or her about any medicine you are taking. Many drugs are always that you may have (penicillin).
 If you are instructed to take an antibiotic, remember that your doctor prescribed it specifically for your current illness & should never be given to others.
 When you get the prescription, keep the instructions in mind. Most antibiotics are best taken on an empty stomach, one hour before or two hours after. Some antibiotics, such as tetracycline, should not be taken with milk or other dairy products. Most liquid antibiotics need to be refrigerated & should be kept after the best expiration date.
 Take the medicine for the full treatment time, even if you feel better before the bottle is empty. Stop taking it if you should develop hives or itching and consult your physician.
 Please stop in your Eckerd pharmacy if you have any other questions.

Woman's Moustache A Hair-Raising Situation

DEAR ABBY: A reader wrote that she was shocked to see her elderly friend laid out in her coffin with a very conspicuous moustache and wondered why the funeral director left it that way. You said because he wanted her to look "mauve, ra."

Dear Abby

keeping a clean upper lip — myself

Included. I do hope that when my time comes, some loving person will remove the hair from my upper lip. I wouldn't want to be caught dead with my moustache showing.

DEAR LOOKING: I have been bothered by letters from women telling me that no woman wants to look that natural. I admit I was not aware that so many women were afflicted with facial hair. And sorry not to the extent that one writer indicated. How's this for a hair-raising situation?

DEAR ABBY: You apparently have little insight into the plight of many women, even though I am attractive, sensual and sexually normal. I had to accept the fact that I would never have children during my marriage, too.

I must have three times a day — hence a split shift at work helps me to "save face." I cannot go camping unless I'm assured of privacy and hot water. I can't go on a day trip of any overnight or friends unless I take a razor along.

I have tried everything on the market including hours of painful electrolysis, but nothing has worked for me. I have often feared being hospitalized in a hospital and unable to shave. I also feel the same way regarding death. I wish my face to be as clean and feminine as I have kept it in life. There were many times I wish I'd lost an arm or a leg instead of having to go through this daily battle of being what society calls "abnormal."

I have often feared being hospitalized in a hospital and unable to shave. I also feel the same way regarding death. I wish my face to be as clean and feminine as I have kept it in life. There were many times I wish I'd lost an arm or a leg instead of having to go through this daily battle of being what society calls "abnormal."

Please print this. And of any funeral directors, please don't ask me to suffer after death as well.

DEAR ABBY: You have often alluded to the fact that if anyone has any particular instructions regarding his or her own burial, the instructions should be written prior to death. The recent death and burial of Tennessee Williams is a classic example of family and friends paying absolutely no attention to his instructions.

FROM MIMMO: I would like to know what is the point of making these pre-death instructions when apparently they mean nothing.

DEAR FROM: You pose a very good question. I too, would like to know. There should be someone who can fight for the rights of the deceased when his wishes have been clearly stated, but are ignored.

But as the law stands, the remains of a person become the "property" of his nearest of kin, who may do with them whatever he chooses. How outrageously unfair!

DEAR ABBY: How does the gestation period of a cow compare with the gestation period of a human being?

DEAR CITY GIRL: Both are approximately 280 days — give or take a few days.

DEAR ABBY: While cleaning the basement today I once again had to move several boxes containing junk for garage sales next summer. Abby, this junk!

On every gift-giving occasion, my husband's parents and grandparents give us numerous non-returnable knick-knacks purchased at craft shows.

Although we have dropped hints as to practical things we need and would enjoy, they disregard them and buy instead objects to hang on walls or set around, none of which goes with our decor.

We regret that they have wasted their money, but what can we do? We live in a small apartment with limited space. We appreciate their thoughts but are...

UP TO OUR EARS: DEAR UP: I can offer only one solution: "stepping boxes" and tell them frankly what you've stated so well here.

Congressman Served At May Day Brunch

Bunnie Logan, left, and Dorothy McReynolds, serve U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R - Alamo Springs, at the Sanford Woman's Club CIP May Day Brunch Sunday at the Sanford Civic Center. Brunch chairman Mrs. Walter A. Giesow said a large turnout was recorded during the serving hours, 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the club's community improvement projects.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Anthony Funderburk

Thompson-Funderburk Vows Spoken

Brona Lee Thompson and Michael Anthony Funderburk were married on March 20 in the garden at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Marjorie Brown, 240 North Old Monroe Road, Sanford. The Rev. Leo King, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, Sanford, performed the 4-p.m. "double ring" ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Thompson, 101-60 Herndon Road, Jacksonville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Funderburk, 14073 La Luna Circle, N. also Jacksonville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her hair in a formal candlelight chignon, gown fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. The lace bodice was styled with a stand-up Queen Anne neckline and long sheer sleeves. Lace ruffles edged the softly gathered skirt that cascaded into a graceful chapel train. She carried a basket of silk flowers showered with ribbons.

Mrs. Brown attended her niece as matron of honor. She wore a pink silk crepe gown fashioned with a V-neckline and carried a basket of silk flowers.

Mrch Galey served the bridegroom as best man. After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the newlyweds are making their home with Mrs. Brown in Sanford. The bridegroom is employed by Florida Power and Light Co., Sanford, and the bride is employed as assistant manager of the deli department at Winn-Dixie in Deltona. She plans to study veterinary medicine.

New Cookbook Celebrates 50th Birthday Of Salad Dressing

Two packaged grocery products have stood the test of time for fifty years. Kraft Miracle Whip salad dressing and Pantry Pride mayonnaise have become national favorites since their introduction. One product that has done both is Miracle Whip salad dressing. America's number one selling salad dressing for half a century.

This year, Miracle Whip salad dressing fans can satisfy their appetite for this one-of-a-kind product with over 200 recipes in a new Cookbook from the Kraft Kitchens. "Cooking With Miracle Whip Salad Dressing" is a "soup to nuts" collection of recipes selected to celebrate fifty years of cooking with this unique salad dressing. It contains both newly created recipes which reflect the Eighties lifestyles and cooking styles, such as Garden Pasta Salad and Ham Terrine with Fresh Tomato Sauce, and time-honored "classics" and most-requested recipes from the past five decades, including the ever-popular Miracle Whip Chocolate Cake.

The 160-page cookbook showcases the amazing versatility of Miracle Whip salad dressing in a wealth of recipe ideas ranging from appetizers to desserts, from breakfast to late-night snack specials. Chapters highlight international and American regional cuisine, contemporary recipe ideas for casual entertaining that are quick to fix or can be prepared in advance, and creative menu ideas for the most special of occasions. "Hi-Tech Techniques" features recipes which shorten time spent in preparation with food processors and microwave ovens, and "Recipes for Two" is designed to make cooking for two more exciting.

Other chapters include "Fun and Fill," a medley of salads, main dishes and sandwiches for today's lifestyles. "Curry Out," an assortment of portable and picnic-worthy curries, soups, and "Cabernet Recipes" list succulent foods which can be created from kitchen staples.

Recipes liberally serving and storing of recipe a breeze, and many include preparation tips, additional check-of-usage for storing flavors to fit individual preferences.

CBS Wins Nielsens Again, But ABC, NBC Come On Strong

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Nielsens, it now seems, reveal as science fiction and red faces. They gave high marks last week to both, and CBS' 11:30 p.m. four-hour alternative program, "TV," took second place—right behind an ABC series titled "L.A. Embarrassing Moments."

Not to be outdone in the godfathers department, NBC placed one more in the Nielsen ratings magazine Top 10—the most recent edition of the ever-popular TV Channel 30.

The opening segment of "TV"—one of television's most innovative and expensive acts efforts in years—pulled a rating of 25.4 and is very respectable audience share for a traditional, undecorated, NBC, well-known "Embarrassing Moments" pulled 28.0 and 44 for ABC, and neither score was enough to take the week away from CBS.

CBS ruled on its traditional stable of champions to win it with an overall rating of 16.0 and a share of 27. ABC was second at 15.1 and 23 and NBC brought up the rear at 14.7 and 24.

View ratings remained stable. With the CBS "Evening News" well ahead of the pack at 11.7 and 24, NBC's "Nightly News" edged into second place with 9.5 and 30, and about a CBS "World News Tonight," which brought up the rear at 8.2 and 29.

Both Arbitron and Nielsen rating services gave the first week of the important rate-setting May " sweeps" period to CBS. Nielsen placed it CBS, 17.7; NBC, 14.8; ABC, 11.6. The Arbitron score gave CBS 17.0, NBC 14.9 and ABC 12.5.

The Top 10 programs for the week ending May 1, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:

1. Life's Embarrassing Moments (ABC), 25.4
 2. "TV" (Part II) (CBS), 25.0
 3. "The Love Boat" (ABC), 24.9
 4. 90 Minutes (CBS), 24.8
 5. Magnum, P.I. (CBS), 24.7
 6. The Love Boat (ABC), 24.7
 7. Hart to Hart (ABC), 24.6
 8. CBS "Evening News" (NBC), 24.5
 10. Alice (CBS), 24.4

Use Of Wiretaps Up 22 Percent

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The number of wiretaps authorized by federal judges increased 22 percent last year, apparently in response to the FBI's new emphasis on using drug dealing networks.

Overall, state and federal judges approved 578 wiretaps on known drug dealers, pay telephones and social clubs last year, almost half of them in New Jersey, New York and Florida, a federal report said Tuesday.

The Administrative Office of the United States Courts said wiretaps were approved in 21 of the 27 states that have wiretapping laws, primarily for investigations into narcotics, gambling and racketeering.

No requests for wiretaps were denied, the report said. The average cost of a wiretap in 1982 was $24,488.

Fifty federal agents investigating a major cocaine case in Miami said it was the biggest operation, the report said. They tapped telephones at an acupuncture clinic, apartment and pay telephone over a 109-day period at a cost of $2 million.

Another New York City wiretap intercepted 239 phone calls in one day while an intercept for a racketeering probe in eastern Missouri lasted 210 days, the longest wiretap in the nation last year, the report said.

Federal judges authorized 130 wiretaps, a 24 percent increase over 1981, while state judges approved 448, a 19 percent decrease. It said: Overall, wiretaps decreased 1.9 percent.

Fred Hess, acting director of the Justice Department's Office of Enforcement Operations, Criminal Division, said the increase in federal wiretaps probably resulted from the Reagan administration's crackdown on narcotics.

"A couple of years ago the FBI never got involved in drug investigations," he said. "Now they're getting into it in a big way."

Pooch Pageant May 14 In Altomonte

The second annual Pooch Pageant will be held Saturday, May 14, at the Westmonte Civic Center, Altomonte Springs, by the Altomonte-South Seminole Women's League. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and competition is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m.

Pooches may be entered in one of four classes: small, medium, biggest, longest or smallest, biggest, longest, longest ball, shortest tail and best dressed. Entry fee for each category will be $5.

A new category this year will be "cutest puppy," which will be restricted to puppies that are one year old or younger.

A trophy will be awarded in the overall Best in Show in a competition among the winners of all the individual categories. For more information, contact project chairwoman, Donna Venturi at 866-6777 or 865-5314.

Will Ronnie Run Again In '84?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The biggest question in this city of political gossip and second guessing these days is not whether Congress will trim the defense budget, raise taxes or cut off secret CIA aid to Nicaraguan guerrillas.

The issue veiling reporters and keeping politicians at bay: "Will he or won't he?"

The "he" is Ronald Reagan. The question whether he will seek a second term. The answer: No one knows for sure. But until he makes a decision and shares it with the American people, Reagan will look and sound like he's running.

Although an announcement may be months away, the White House has decided the best strategy for Reagan lies in encouraging speculation he will be a candidate next year.

It is a strategy that may begin to cause concern among other Republicans with presidential aspirations that would blossom the moment Reagan throws open the 1984 race, and one not free of risks to Reagan and the Republican Party.

But it is evident in the confident prediction offered by the likes of Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., the titular head of the Republican National Committee, and statements by Reagan himself, who drops hints he is not prepared to retire or finished with the agenda he laid out upon taking office.

The comments, intended to keep alive the guessing game, are always coupled with qualifications that he has neither made up his mind about 1984 nor in a hurry to do so.

Reagan delights in tantalizing the press, but there is a more important motive as well — to guard against the political weakness that inevitably confronts a lame-duck politician.

The matter received a new burst of attention during the weekend because of remarks he made during an overnight political trip to Texas, a state that will host the GOP National Convention next year and play a key role in the strategy of anyone — Republican or Democrat — running for president.

At a million-dollar fund-raising dinner for Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Tower, Reagan took his most pointed swipe to date at former Vice President Walter Mondale, who leads a field of Democratic presidential hopefuls.

The jobs drew laughter and applause from the crowd and made Reagan sound like a candidate warming up for battle. But among those whom he laughed along were Senate GOP leader Howard Baker, who is ready to clear his schedule for a second bid for the White House if Reagan does not run, and Texas prep work to back Vice President George Bush, considered a hometown boy, in the same event.

President Reagan... will he or won't he?

The Houston Post applied the headline "President wants Bush on ticket if he runs again" part of the front page of its Saturday edition, based on an interview with Reagan aboard the presidential aircraft en route to Texas.

On the return flight to Washington a few hours later, a White House spokesman provided reporters with a fresh comment, said to have been made by Reagan on board the plane, that kept the story going another day.

"If run again in 1984, I would want George Bush as my running mate," Reagan said.

Summer Brunch Stars Favorites of The South

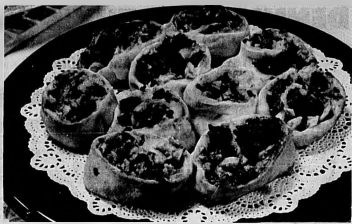

Bring the tradition of a Southern brunch to your weekend activities. In fact, make it a special occasion by inviting relatives or close friends to brunch. For your menu, feature Southern specialties like favorite such as baked cheese grits or fried apples, and treat your guests to a new and easy recipe for aluminum foil waffles.

Sausage Apple Mini Rolls are a wonderful brunch item. The flavor of sausage, cheese, apples, brown sugar and apron sauce up in convenient refrigerator biscuits is a Southern combination that will please young and old. For simplicity and easy cleanup, place the individual rolls in an aluminum foil waffle pan and bake to golden brown perfection. Just set up your brunch buffet style and the mouth watering aroma will bring everyone to the table. After they finish the first mini roll, you can bet they'll be back for more.

Sausage-Apple Mini Rolls is a sample of the easy convenient recipes found in "Easy Gourmet," a "free" brochure of recipes developed by home economists in The Reynolds Wrap Kitchens. To receive your copy of "Easy Gourmet," send your name, address and zip code to the following address:

SAUSAGE-APPLE MINI ROLLS

1 can (10 oz.) refrigerated biscuits
 1/4 pound pork sausage
 1 cup (1 cup) shredded Cheddar cheese
 1 cup (1 cup) shredded sugar
 1/2 cup (1/2 cup) melted butter
 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
 Preheat oven to 400°F. Place half a can of biscuits on floured surface. With floured hands flatten biscuits and pinch seams together. Roll out to form 7x10-inch ovals. Repeat with remaining biscuits. Cook and finally crumble sausage, drain on paper towels. Combine cooked sausage and remaining ingredients. Sprinkle half of sausage mixture evenly over each rectangle of dough. Starting at 10x5 inch end, roll up dough. Pinch together seams. Cut each roll into 10 slices. Place on 2 lightly greased pie pans. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 20 rolls.

Mini rolls with a Southern accent.

Strawberry Brannee Bars add a touch of spring with a smooth "secret ingredient, cream cheese."

'Easy Secret Ingredient' Recipe Contest

"Made in advance" dessert recipes save the day when faced with providing refreshments for a meeting, after-school snacks for the kids, or desserts for an informal party or picnic. Creative cooks find that convenience products plus a personal touch, no matter how small, make these desserts a "homemade" special. Strawberry Brannee Bars are the perfect example. Starting with a packaged brannee mix for a delightfully chewy chocolate crust, its creamy filling is equally easy to make. Blending marshmallow cream, cream cheese, gelatin and whipped topping. The smooth texture and delicious flavor of the marshmallow cream makes it the "secret ingredient" for recipe success. The fresh sliced strawberry topping is the personal touch that says "spring."

Write your favorite recipe as a treat which is made ahead, a dessert prepared only for those special occasions, or a "family heirloom." If it's made with the "secret ingredient," you could be a winner in the 1983 Kraft Marshmallow Creme "Easy Secret Ingredient" Recipe Contest. Entries are being accepted now through Sept. 30.

If your recipe relies on the "secret ingredient," whether for no-bake candies and perfect refreshments, or to assure a smooth, creamy texture for frozen and chilled desserts. It could earn the $5,000 Grand Prize. In addition, three $1,000 First Prizes and eleven $100 Semi-Finals will be awarded. Just enter your recipe you eligible for one of the 100 Kraft Confections Cookbooks which will be awarded by a random drawing of eligible entries.
