

Switchover To Metric System Inevitable

By DANIEL J. FOLEY
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON—What does the United States have in common with Barbados, Burma, Ghana, Liberia, Muscat, Oman, Nauru, Sierra Leone, Southern Yemen and Tonga?

Answer: The world's leading industrial nation and the handful of relatively obscure countries are the only ones which have not switched to the metric system of weights and measures.

Both houses of Congress, however, are working on legislation to facilitate a voluntary national conversion to the metric system over the next decade.

No one is exactly sure just what the conversion costs will be, but committees in both houses have adopted the general principle that changeover costs "shall lie where they fall."

Therein lies a possible roadblock to passage of the legislation.

Proponents of conversion argue that the United States will be in a better trade position if this country uses the same standards of measurement now used by all other industrialized nations.

And, in fact, a number of major corporations already have converted to the metric system or are planning to do so, including Honeywell, International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, IBM, John Deere and 3M. The National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce both support plans to convert to the metric system.

Proponents also say that the decimal-based system is easier to learn and much easier to work with and that U.S. conversion would eventually eliminate the need for international companies to maintain a dual inventory of metric and customary products.

The House Committee on Science and Astronautics, which has drafted a metric conversion bill, says the switchover is inevitable. The choice, the committee says, isn't whether or not to convert, but whether or not to do so in a planned manner.

The Senate Commerce Committee has written a bill which is similar in many respects to the House legislation.

The AFL-CIO and some small businessmen are objecting to conversion legislation, however, because it will cost some workingmen and small companies large sums without comparable benefits. The union and businessmen are seeking amendments to provide them with financial assistance.

Kenneth T. Peterson of the AFL-CIO says that many workers are required to furnish their own tools. In the case of some, such as a first-class machinist, the cost of a new metric set could run as high as $2,000, he says.

Small businessmen, who do not sell in foreign countries, see only costs and no benefits if everybody else is doing so.

It's not just small businesses that are facing cost problems. John P. Roche, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, told a House committee that it would cost the steel industry more than $2 billion to convert, $785 million for training of personnel and purchase of new equipment and $1,376 million to carry a dual inventory during the decade of conversion.

Despite those objections, the Senate legislation is given a good chance of passage in some form early this year. The outlook for the House legislation is less predictable.

Before the bill can be debated on the floor, it must get the OK of the House Rules Committee, whose chairman, Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., is a close friend of labor.

'No Intention Of Quitting' State Of Union Talk Highlights

"I want you to know that I have no intention whatever of ever walking away from the job that the people elected me to do for the people of the United States."

"I have provided to the special prosecutor voluntarily a great deal of material I believe that I have provided all the material that he needs to conclude his investigations and to proceed to prosecute the guilty and to clear the innocent."

"I believe the time has come to bring that investigation and the other investigations of this matter to an end. One year of Watergate is enough."

"There is only one limitation, I will follow the precedent ... of never doing anything that weakens the office of the president of the United States ..."

I believe ... that many people who listened to President Nixon last night were "captivated" by his oratory. Further, that the one most important part of his speech will be "one year of ..."

It was most effective on me UNTIL this morning when I read that an assistant special Watergate prosecutor said in federal court today that there is no basis for believing that ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III lied under oath.

The AP dispatch continued, "We have no basis for believing Dean has committed perjury in any proceeding." Richard Davis said, "We would have no basis ... for bringing any charge of perjury against Mr. Dean."

So ... I weigh this with those comments of the citizenry when they respond "Amen, we had enough of Watergate."

Personally, I'm like the kids ... "Let it all hang out," and clean it up once and for all ... letting the chips fall where they may!

Engineer Blasts RR Crossing Plan

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Engineer Bill Bush today landed as "gobbledygook" and "pure bureaucracy" state claims the SR 46-Seaboard Coast Line

Railroad crossing hassle can be handled by anything less than an overpass built with federal funds.

Bush called the crossing "unique in the state," and said as long as traffic is halted for any length whatsoever, plans will continue to grow until an overpass is built because:

- West county residents are cut off from the only available hospital in the event of an emergency;
- The giant Heathrow and Greenbelt developments, not to mention Lake County's proposed 50,000 person Three Rivers City, will jam SR 46;
- The crossing is a main line for the railroad, and will serve increasing regular passenger and freight train traffic plus the planned Amtrak train headed for Kissimmee, and the Auto Train.

"You can't go around Florida and find many such crossings, and if you do you find a bridge across them, like in Jacksonville," Bush said, adding the factors he listed make SR 46 a perfect federal "demonstration project" candidate.

Bush made his comments in response to a Jan. 28 letter from State Department of Transportation Engineer P. W. Ekey to Herald Associate Editor John Spolski which apparently rules out an overpass for at least five years.

Ekey passes on word from the district engineer in Deland that no commitment on overpass funds can be made because the five-year road budget has already been drawn up without them.

In the meantime, the letter states, two moves by the railroad should help problems caused by traffic stoppage at the busy intersection—allowing local railroad crews to open gates when safe, and installing a "motion survey sensory system."

Ekey did not say when the sensory system would be installed, but enclosed a memo from DOT District Engineer Bill Benedict saying he and the railroad are "actively pursuing a joint participation project."

The motion survey sensory system, according to the railroad, is a device allowing the gates to be raised for automobile traffic even though a train has stopped nearby.

Normally, the railroad admits, the presence of the train would automatically cause the gates to come down, whether the train was moving or not.

This law in the present system has caused many delays, prompting a public outcry, but, the railroad also admitted, a massive tie-up in late December was caused by a "malfunction" of the railroad cannot explain, but hopes will be solved by allowing employees to open the gates themselves.

Today, Bush brushed aside as "gobbledygook" the "extra sensory perception, or whatever they call it. It sounds neat, but it only solves a very, because the five-year road

Polk Says County Jail Inadequate

SHERIFF JOHN Polk said today delivery of new toilets for the dilapidated county jail at Sanford can be expected within two weeks of order once county commissioners release funds needed to replace the sanitary facilities and to repair the facility that state prison officials have threatened to shut down because of unhealthy and overcrowded conditions.

Polk said the repairs must be done but commissioners have delayed until next week consideration of giving the sheriff $12,500 returned to the county by State Atty. Abbott Herring's office. A three-judge panel has urged "stop gap" action on jail repairs. Polk has asked the commission to show "good faith" with the court and the state in funding the repairs. Shown above is a carrier outside a cell block. The toilet in the jail's "medical" cell is shown at right. Seminole voters will be asked to approve a $3.5 million bond issue March 12 to construct a modern central jail facility at Five Points. But if approved the new facility wouldn't be ready for occupancy for at least two years. (Herald Photos by John Spolski)

School Zoning Adjustments Delayed Until Feb. 13 Meet

By MARK WEINTZ
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board Wednesday postponed a decision on school zoning adjustments until a Feb. 6 work session to "hash out problems."

Since the board can take no action at a work session a decision will not be reached before the Feb. 13 regular meeting unless a special session is called.

School Supt. William P. "Bud" Lyster's recommendation to the board remained the same, but more specifics, including a long range feeder system plan, were added at the board's request.

Lyster recommended the board establish the eastern attendance zone at 14 for Lake Brantley High, allowing the present seniors and juniors to remain at that school if they live east of 14 and provide their own transportation.

The Lynn zone would be set between 14 and U. S. 17-92 with juniors and seniors allowed to remain at Lynn provided they live east of 17-92 and have their own transportation.

The western attendance zone for Oviedo would be at U. S. 17-92 with the school set up for grades 9 to 12 in the morning and grades 9 to 11 in the afternoon, and next year's seniors in the Lake Howell attendance zone would be provided transportation to the morning session.

Altamonte Springs Councilman Helen Keyser said she "talked about this three years ago, but the city was not ready for it. Now we are ready."

Mrs. Keyser and Mrs. Paul French, former office worker in the Maitland Chamber, are working toward the new chamber and plan an organizational meeting on March 6 in the new Altamonte Springs Civic Center, where temporary quarters may be set up.

Mrs. Keyser said she is "very enthusiastic and everybody would attend the March 16 meeting." He has given the women advice and contacts at the state and national level.

Peters said Dr. Eddie Waldheim, 1974 president of the M-SS Chamber and Ron Smith, 1973 president, have both agreed to assist with the Altamonte effort, according to Mrs. French.

Altamonte Trying For CofC

By JOAN BABB

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS—Plans to organize a Chamber of Commerce in Altamonte Springs are generating concern among Maitland-South Seminole Chamber of Commerce (M-SS) officials.

South Seminole was officially made part of the Maitland Chamber by a name change in 1968.

During a special directors' meeting Wednesday, Mrs. Priscilla Greene, executive director said, "It was a good meeting but we did not come up with anything special. Another meeting will be held in a week or so."

Altamonte Springs Councilman Helen Keyser said she "talked about this three years ago, but the city was not ready for it. Now we are ready."

Mrs. Keyser and Mrs. Paul French, former office worker in the Maitland Chamber, are working toward the new chamber and plan an massive busing that would mean busing children from Casselberry to Oviedo High.

The board invited Robert Burkhardt and Bob Allen to help come up with a "workable plan" at the work session.

Burkhardt and Allen have made presentations to the board at the last four meetings.

Using statistics provided by Lyster, the pair proposed an alternative feeder system plan that the board felt was "closer to present needs."

A feeder system is a plan with zones that allow a specific number of elementary schools

Due Their 'Pound Of Flesh' Trade Unions Are Getting Restless

What with the runaway inflation rate of 1973 already making incursions into consumer purchasing power and the energy shortage now threatening to bite even further into the worker's pay envelope, employers and government officials are looking forward with some trepidation to this year's heavy round of labor negotiations.

Contracts covering over 5 million workers in major industries, such as steel, communications, building, coal mining and railroads, either expire in 1974 or contain provisions for reopening for wage bargaining. No one expects the extraordinary industrial peace and wage restraint of 1973 to last.

The number of man-days lost through strikes last was the lowest since 1963, although major wage settlements were reached for some 4.75 million workers—twice the number in 1972. And wage increases started surprisingly close to the government's guideline of 5 per cent.

But there is a new mood of militancy among the trade unions, and the Secretary of Labor, Peter Brennan, has predicted that organized labor "will be looking for its pounds of flesh" in 1974.

Average hourly wages in December were only 6.7 per cent above those a year earlier, while the consumer price index rose an estimated 8.7 per cent and higher Social Security payments cut spendable income.

There were 4.9 per cent unemployed in December, only slightly more than the 4.7 per cent in November. But these statistics were collected at the beginning of the month, before the big lay-offs in the car industry, motels, gas stations, recreational centers and other travel-related sectors.

Some workers have already begun to feel the impact of the oil shortage on their wages. Long-distance truck drivers, most of whom are paid by the mile, find they are taking home up to 25 per cent less pay than before the imposition of speed limits of 55 miles an hour or less. Their union, the Teamsters, is now negotiating the three-year contract, signed last year, be-reopened to compensate their members for loss of earnings.

This kind of demand is expected to spread to other unions. I. W. Abel, president of the 400,000-member United Steelworkers of America, has announced that they too would be demanding a guarantee against loss of income due to the fuel shortage in their next contract.

Negotiations start on January 30, though the present contract does not expire until August 1. Under an experimental negotiating agreement made last March, the union has pledged not to strike but to submit to arbitration any issue not resolved by April 15. In return workers have been promised a $150 bonus, a continuation of the built-in cost-of-living escalator, and a pay increase of at least 3 per cent.

Abel has said, however, that they will be calling for a "very substantial increase" over the average $5.75 an hour steelworker's wage, as well as for improvements in fringe benefits such as pensions, for which they would also like an automatic cost-of-living adjustment.

Foreseeing a tough year ahead in labor relations, the White House has gone out of its way to persuade William Uesery, the government's top labor peace-maker, to stay on. Uesery had been due to leave his post as director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service on February 1 in order to take up an offer from George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, to become the federation's director of organization and, in effect, the third in line to succession to the 79-year-old Meany.

In order to entice Uesery back to the fold, the White House offered Uesery in addition to his present job a new post as President Nixon's assistant for labor relations, in which he will take precedence over Brennan.

Those who have seen the summaries have no way of knowing, of course, what has been left out. In view of the erased 18 minutes of the vital June 30, 1972, tape, it is possible that the White House summaries don't disclose the whole story.

In their present form, however, they support the President's contention that he didn't learn about the Watergate cover-up until March 21, 1973.

Dean is quoted in the March 21 summary as warning the President: "This is going to take you by surprise." Then Dean outlined the involvement of the President's trusted aides in the Watergate cover-up. Dean confessed that he, too, was implicated.

"Oh, John, you have no problem," said the President. But Dean insisted, "Yes, I have."

In a reference to his former right bower, H.R. "Bob" Haldean, the President asked: "Is Bob involved?" Dean gave an evasive answer. Throughout the conversation, neither Dean nor the President mentioned the left bower, John Ehrlichman.

They discussed the possible guilt of Jeb Stuart Magruder, Frederick LaRue, G. Gordon Liddy, E. Howard Hunt and other Watergate figures.

Dean said it would be necessary to raise $1 million to pay for the costs of Watergate. "That will be no problem," said the President.

Then he questioned Dean about the purposes of the money. Dean said Hunt was demanding money. The President wanted to know why he wanted it, whether it was for himself or the others. The President also asked how they could be sure Hunt's demands for money would stop.

"THAT'S OUT!" In the end, the President ruled out any hush payments. "That we can't do," he said.

Dean also raised the question of offering executive clemency to the Watergate defendants. "That's out," the President is quoted in the summary as saying. "We can't offer clemency to anybody."

As Dean spelled out the details, the President referred to the original break-in. "What were you looking for?" he asked.

Of his aides who were implicated, he stated firmly: "Everybody has got to go to the grand jury."

Earlier conversations between the President and Dean on September 15, 1972, February 27, 1973, and March 13, 1973, according to the White House summaries, disclosed none of the details that Dean testified he had given the President. Dean didn't level with the President, if the summaries are accurate, until March 21.

Our sources say the White House has withheld the summaries because of the bad public reaction to his tax, ITT and milk fund disclosures. But apparently, the summaries have been shown to a few top Republicans such as Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott.

FOOTNOTE: The summaries give the President's verbatim language, including some startling cuss words.

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE: Although President Nixon meant it when he swore he would "fight like hell" against Watergate, he is losing his zest for battle and showing signs of strain, our White House sources say. He is also drinking more martinis. Sometimes his friend, Bebe Rebozo, mixes a small pitcher before they sit down together for an evening's relaxation. The President's favorite is what he calls an "in and out" martini. He pours vermouth over the rocks, swishes it around and dumps it out. Then he adds the gin.

The President is often restless at night and loves to take off on impulsive drives with his friend Bebe. The President fiercely reiterated at a private breakfast with Speaker Carl Albert that he has no intention of resigning. Nixon said he recognized his popularity has plummeted, but he wasn't going to let the popularity polls drive him out of the White House. The late Harry Truman fell even lower in the popularity polls while he was President, Nixon recalled. He swore to Albert that he had committed no impeachable offense.

The two aides who spend the most time with the President are Gen. Alexander Haig and Ronald Ziegler. The President has developed a strong personal affection for Ziegler, but Haig has replaced the ousted H.R. Haldean as the most powerful aide, our sources say. Interestingly, the President is turning all domestic problems over to Haig to handle and concentrating his own attention upon foreign affairs.

Belth, whose accurate charges against the insurance industry has jarred many a red-faced executive, will discuss such specific subjects as "What ITT Life is doing to college students" or what the Equitable of New York does to beneficiaries" or "How to pay premiums for a piece of the rock" and have no insurance protection?"

They're buying wholesome food wholesale and by cutting overhead and merchandising frills are passing on the savings to neighborhood consumers.

What these illustrations show is that both the market and government regulators are being snowed under by the unilateral power of giant business and their trade associations. Unless consumers spend more time fighting back instead of just grinning, the situation will worsen.

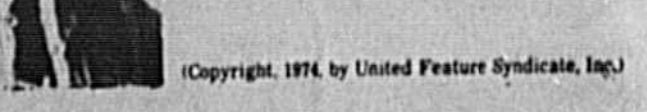

What can be done? Here are a few efforts that show the way:

Lawyers for the Oregon and Massachusetts student public interest groups are leading a national student drive to have states adopt their plan called "Lifetime Service" which would exempt small household users from future electric rate increases. The student goal is to change the present inverted rate structure where the biggest industrial and commercial users receive rates far lower than a small homeowner.

Jack Anderson Dean's Testimony Disputed

(Copyright, 1974, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The secret White House summaries of the Watergate tapes dispute John Dean's explosive Senate testimony about his private conversations with President Nixon.

If it could be proven that Dean told the truth, the President could be impeached for the crime of obstructing justice. But excerpts from the key tapes, quoted in summaries prepared by the White House, support the President's version.

We haven't seen the summaries, which White House chief of staff Alexander Haig keeps in a folder under lock and key. But sources with access to them have told us what the summaries contain.

In methodical, lawyer-like language, the summaries quote the most damaging charges that Dean made in his Senate testimony and refute them with lengthy, verbatim quotes from the Watergate tapes.

Those who have seen the summaries have no way of knowing, of course, what has been left out. In view of the erased 18 minutes of the vital June 30, 1972, tape, it is possible that the White House summaries don't disclose the whole story.

U.S. Squeezed Arab Leaders Split On Embargo

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Some moderate Arab oil producers favor relaxing the petroleum embargo against the United States, but others are determined to stand firm on the oil squeeze.

Arab oil ministers are likely to decide the future of the boycott at a meeting of Arab members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Tripoli, Libya, on Feb. 14.

But the split among the Arab countries makes it hard to predict what will happen to the boycott, and how long it might take to relax or called off.

Abu Dhabi and some other small Persian Gulf producers are known to favor relaxation of the embargo because they need the added oil revenue. Rapidly increasing prices for oil shipped elsewhere kept their income high through the initial part of the ban, but now some of the smaller countries are beginning to worry.

They point to the Egyptian-Israeli agreement to disengage forces on the Suez Canal — worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger — as a justification for relaxing the oil action.

Sheik Zayed bin Sultan, president of Abu Dhabi and the United Arab Emirates, has said the oil cutoff was a wartime measure that should be discontinued as a "genuine response to the change in U.S. Middle East policy."

But some of the president's neighbors disagree.

Foreign Minister Sabah el Ahmed of Kuwait branded such talk "premature," pointing out that oil pressure was exerted in the first place to force Israeli withdrawal from all the lands it captured in 1967.

"The United States has not committed itself to pressure Israel to withdraw from these territories," he declared.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, holder of the world's biggest known oil reserves and the acknowledged leader of the Arab embargo, is against an immediate halt of the ban.

Even Egyptian President Anwar Sadat is not a supporter of Syria, the Syrians are still refusing even to talk to Israel unless it pulls out of all captured Syrian land.

Ahmed Soweidi, foreign minister of the United Arab Emirates, said Thursday that Sadat tries to lift their embargo, not on the basis of Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal.

Libya has announced it will oppose any softening of the embargo, and its militant colleagues — Iraq and Algeria — are likely to take the same line.

FLORIDA NEWS BRIEFS

Book Sales Income Probed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A legislative committee says it will investigate the $300,000 reaped by a state real estate consultant and his wife from sales of a textbook made required reading for would-be agents.

The joint legislative auditing committee also wants to determine if the three Florida Real Estate Commission members can be held responsible for allowing their consultant, Dr. Clayton Curtis, to hold the copyright on the book he was paid to develop for them.

"I think they in effect gave away the public's assets," said state Rep. Kenneth Mackay, D-ocala, committee member.

The committee's action came as the result of Auditor Ernest Ellison's report that Curtis and his wife received money from sales of the textbook.

Rebozo To Testify

MIAMI (AP) — Presidential confidante C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo wants to testify before a public session of the Senate Watergate committee to refute allegations that he used presidential campaign funds for his own use, attorney says.

Alan Greer, an attorney for Rebozo, said a telegram was sent Wednesday to members of the Watergate committee asking that they call the hearing to "publicly permit C.G. Rebozo to rectify malicious, false and inaccurate leaks from your committee's staff to the media."

In Wednesday's edition, the New York Times quoted a committee source as saying that Rebozo may have converted some of President Nixon's campaign funds to his own use.

State Rests Turner Case

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — After four months of testimony from 161 witnesses, the prosecution has rested its malpractice case against Glenn W. Turner, attorney F. Lee Bailey and seven former executives of Turner firms.

Sailey and prosecutor Hugh Smith of Clearwater, Fla., ended his marathon presentation Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge Gerald B. Tjoflat then scheduled arguments for next week on several motions, including requests for directed verdicts of acquittal.

Jurors were instructed by Tjoflat to return Feb. 11 unless the moves for acquittal were granted.

Tornado Hits Homes

HAVANA, Fla. (AP) — Damage was estimated at $75,000 after a twister touched down three times near this North Florida town.

Police said one person was injured and two homes and a barn destroyed by the twister Wednesday. Officials said Mrs. William Smith, who was in one of the homes, was injured.

Three persons were in a mobile home wrecked by the storm, but they crawled to safety, said Gadsden County Chief Deputy A. J. Ticks.

Binford Seeks Post Held By Drummond

SEMINOLE COUNTY Port Authority member Tom Binford has announced his candidacy for the district four Seminole County Commission seat now held by Greg Drummond.

Launching what he calls a "campaign" against unresponsive county government, Binford said in the last four years Seminole County has turned into a "real rat race."

The county budget has increased over ten fold and so has the traffic congestion and fighting between the County and the municipalities," Binford said. "Everyone in central Florida was warned about the increased influx of people and the only preparation we experienced from our county commissioners was lip service with $30 rhetoric. Now these incumbents who are up for reelection are pushing for impact zoning, better roads, closer harmony with the municipalities and a host of other "it's election year remedies." It is like closing the barn door after the horse has escaped and I think it's an insult to the intelligence of the citizens of Seminole County."

Binford, who resides at 2831 Derbyshire Road in south Seminole and is a real estate salesman affiliated with Laurel Realty Inc. of Fern Park, has never run for public office before.

"However," Binford said, "I cannot stand idly by any longer

"I offer no immediate panacea insofar as solving our problems is concerned but I can guarantee hard work and honesty, and look the citizens straight in the eye when I say this," Binford said.

"My background shows I am a conservationist. I mean to put this experience to work and stop indiscriminate apartment and commercial zoning which has led us to concrete jungles in the south end of our county. We're growing too fast and I think it is time we stop and regroup and analyze just where we are in relation to this unplanned growth," Binford said.

Season For Hem-Fever

The Garden Gate

By MIMOSA CIRCLE

Hem-fever is sweeping the country, and is prevalent in Florida. It is very contagious and may persist for years, once you become a victim. Hem-fever is really the yen to grow the plants commonly called the Daylily.

Actually the daylily is not a true lily, and instead of deriving its food from bulbs, it comes from thick roots. They belong to the Amaryllid family, the generic name being Hemerocallis.

Just why is the Daylily or Hemerocallis so popular? One might answer this by saying it is the easiest of all plants to grow, and one of the most rewarding for colorful flowers, and the least susceptible to insects and pests.

On top of this, they seem to thrive in prolonged periods of dryness, or where there is much rainfall. They don't mind the hot or the cold spells.

In other words even with maximum neglect they seem to thrive and even bear, however like all other plants, they do much better when some attention is given along with general feeding and watering program.

In Florida they thrive in almost any soil from mucky to dry sandy types. Certain varieties will not take swamp conditions, and certain ones don't particularly like sandy soil.

Their dislike comes in time so that you may move them to suitable soils and locations. The ideal soil is a medium loam with good drainage. If planted in good rich soil they need very little plant food.

Two or three applications of soluble plant food during the year are usually sufficient. Foliage sprays of minor elements do help give a good green color to foliage and brighter colors to the flowers.

Most daylilies will grow in certain areas, however, get too much sun during the day, and others don't keep heavily if grown in the sun. Plant enough varieties to provide blooms from one or the other, until you find the best ones to grow in any location.

The reason these popular plants are called Daylilies is that a flower opens every day of the week in regular order that will be needed.

Timberwolves Rip Raider Cagers, 91-57

By J. Richards
Herald Sports Editor

Lake City's polished big front line wasted little time determining who was the class of Division II basketball against Seminole Junior College Wednesday in Sanford, recording the most lopsided win ever in the annual duel of division games, taking a 91-57 verdict.

Sports Spotlight

By J. Richards
Herald Sports Editor

Even with Bernie Shaw on the court, the Raider's magic had little strength against the rebound dominating, hot shooting Timberwolves who raced to a 50-30 halftime bulge, mostly in the last 10 minutes of the opening half.

The 34-point margin was the worst setback suffered by a Joe Sterling Coach SJC team. It was also the first loss to Lake City in Sanford.

The Raiders, who were gaining a solid reputation as the state's second most prolific scoring team at a 92-plus game average, received a lesson in the kind of basketball they like to play.

Taking a tight control of the boards on the strength of 6'8" Marvin Lloyd and 6'7" forward Wilson James, the Wolves exhibited flash fast breaks and forced the Raiders into a more patterned offense.

James ripped the nets for 22 markers while Lloyd canned 10.

Seminole, which is one of the state's best free throw teams didn't get a chance. Clifford Manley made the only shot of the night, that a technical after a Lake City substitute reported on the floor wearing the wrong number.

Shaw canned 11 of 20 shots from the floor for 22 markers and Mike Williams continued his double figure pace with 14 markers. However, Gerald Owens could only 10 points and Chip Crawford, in his worst game this season, hit only three points. Both Crawford and Owens were averaging 15 points a game.

Robert McCullum, completely outclassed in the middle hit only two points and David Williams netted four—the total production from the Raider middle.

The Timberwolves' backcourt men, Mike Redding and Steve Hendricks, ripped the cords for 16 and 21 points, respectively. Both consistently beat Owens and Crawford with their ball handling.

Coach Sterling termed the defeat the school's "worst ever," and the sparse partisan crowd agreed.

Now, the Raiders face a battle with Valencia Community College for the division's second playoff spot.

Lake City shot a torrid 64 per cent from the floor in the first half—something the Raiders have had doing since the new year.

Overall, the Timberwolves hit 41 times in 76 attempts, while the Raiders were limited to just 28 buckets in 84 tosses.

The powerful Lake City team, undefeated in eight division battles, moved ahead of the Raiders 8-4 in their eight-year year war that has raged throughout the state almost every year.

Seminole fell to them by eight points earlier in the year. The much-hoped for and expected Raider resurgence in the second half—not so uncommon an expectation at SJC-Lake City confrontations—never materialized.

In the second stanza, the Timberwolves continued to dominate the boards and the floor, 41-27, and not until the final three minutes did Joe Sterling concede and send in his substitutes. Coach Joe Field did likewise at that time.

In the first time all year the "short" SJC squad had failed to even put some kind of battle for the boards. Even against Polk Community College, they were contesting the focal point of some authority.

The next thing SJC has to worry about is returning to its gameplan for the remainder of the conference schedule—which is fairly light—until the host Valencia Feb. 20, the last division contest of the year.

Had the Raiders won they would have had a tie in the loss column with Lake City. They are not tied with two losses apiece with Valencia.

Wednesday, the Matadores recorded a 58-55 squeaker over Florida JC, giving them a 6-2 division report card.

City Recreation Staffer Harry Smith A Winner

By DOUG STORUM
Herald Staff Writer

The athletically inclined, and for that matter, the not so athletically inclined, the amateur sports activists of Sanford just don't know how good they have it.

The Sanford Recreational Department is one of the best city community service centers in the state. A lot of hard work and time is put into a program like this, and one man who doesn't like to toot his own horn, but none the less, must be given credit for an outstanding job as high as Superintendent of Recreation, is Harry W. Smith.

Smith has been managing that post for the last five years and oversees a list of activities that rolls onto your feet if you've got the time to list them on paper.

At age 51, Smith still bustles about like he did thirty-five years ago as a better than average baseball and football player during his high school days.

Only now he's the one that is making the system work so others can enjoy it. But discussing that would be like getting hung up in the top of a palm tree on a deserted island. It could be a long time before getting down.

Harry Smith, at one time, easily could have been a professional baseball player. Harry was being scouted by the Chicago White Sox in 1939 when he was a catcher for his high school alma mater leading them to a perfect winning regular season until they got knocked off during the state regional playoffs in Rochester, New York.

But at that time, the offers weren't as tantalizing as today's zero clutter bonuses. So he decided to direct his attention toward school and attended the Luscombe School of Aeronautics in West Trenton, New Jersey. There he straggled on the pads and played some football. He also was an oarsman on an intramural crew team at Luscombe.

A retired Army Lt. Colonel, Smith has seen duty during the last three wars the United States has been involved in. During World War II, although his records show he was stationed in Guam, he was on 11 different Pacific islands where he was awarded a Bronze Star for his performance of duty.

But at that time, the offers weren't as tantalizing as maintains are used by thousands of youngsters and adults throughout the year. And there is always somebody that manages to get around to all the games going on at the three courts or six fields to see that things are going okay. Yep! You guessed it—Harry Smith! Some days he puts 15 hours into supervising the day's activities, running about from one side of town to the next.

Quick to praise his immediate supervisor and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan, Smith indicates one reason why he likes the Sanford Recreational Department can service so many community citizens.

"Mr. Jernigan possesses a top-notch ability as an administrator and innovator," said Smith.

Recreation Department programs are broken down into spring and summer, and fall and winter time periods. The activities run the gamut from the West Baseball to Adult Ceramics. In between those classifications you can find something for everybody.

Young Sanford football players even have the opportunity to participate in Ford's Punt, Pass and Kick Contest that is concluded at the national level.

Smith likes to point out that his Recreation Supervisor, Diane Haas, does a great job at organizing girls' sports and less stringent physical activities.

The trio of Jernigan, Smith and Haas, in a standard but suitable sports vernacular summation, can best be described as "providing the scoring punch that makes for a winning team."

Tribe Hunting For Win In Gainesville Replay

By DAN GILMARTIN
Herald Correspondent

After two unsuccessful trips, the Sanford Seminoles are hoping to find things a bit warmer at the home front as they host Big Eight rival Gainesville on Friday and then entertain the Titusville Terriers Saturday night.

Since their 71-67 come-from-behind win over seventh place Lakeland almost two weeks ago the locals have suffered three consecutive defeats at the hands of conference opponents.

Two of those losses came at the hand of undefeated Polk County powerhouse Kathleen and the other to long time Sanford rival DeLand.

In the first Kathleen match, the Tribe appeared to be staging the upset of the prep game year playing even with the Red Devils for the first three and a half periods. However, the Big Eight leaders exploded in the last four minutes to drop Joe Mills' quintet by an 82-66 count.

The trip to DeLand, sandwiched in between the two Kathleen contests, showed the Seminoles to really be on the skirts as they lost to the underdog in a 71-63 score. In that contest, Sanford experienced a poor first quarter and overcame the initial deficit to lead by one with only 3:44 to go.

The Sanford squad, usually strong in the final minutes, fell apart due to foul problems and a half-court trap by the bulldogs and wound up losing a disillusioning decision.

In the second Kathleen contest the locals were never in the fight as they got off to a sub-par 8-21 start in the first quarter and watched the seventh-ranked Red Devils repeat the feat they lost on their trip south.

As the President has said, things are tough all over, but for some reason the Seminole High hardwood contingent has been getting more than their share of the bad breaks.

Entering the new year with a 7-3 ledger the locals have been victorious over Gainesville, the conference doormat, and Lakeland, next to the cellar. After dropping the Purple Hurricanes 52-50, the Tribe has suffered eight losses in their last nine outings. Heart-breaking losses to Winter Haven in double overtime and Chalven in Double overtime and Haven, which they should have beaten, seem to have taken the sting out of the local games. Gainesville, this Friday, could be the one to turn the season around again.

The Caves presently own a 2-16 mark overall and have yet to win a Big Eight contest. Titusville also is vulnerable on the Tribe homecourt as they have posted a 10-7 mark and appear to be an on-again, off-again quintet.

Finding themselves with a 9-11 report card in the season, the locals have the chance to make now of whether they want to wind up with a winning record and some chance in the District playoffs, or wind up repeating last year's dismal 9-17 record.

Led by John Zueli in the scoring department the locals will have to win both weekend frays to even their mark at the 500 level. Zueli has pumped in 431 points in the 20 games for a healthy 21.5 average. So far a Seminole High record.

The only other consistent double figure scorer for the Tribe is Junior Randy Brown who is hitting just under 12 points per game. Senior Jim Clements and junior John Corso however are slightly over the 9 ppg mark and provide the much needed rebound strength for the local five.

Depth seems to be the biggest problem for Mills and his outfit. When the starters get into foul problems the Seminoles begin to hit the wane in the competition. If either Gainesville or Titusville can manage to get any starters in personal trouble things could be rough for the home folks.

Ricky Russi, the Tribe playmaker, has had foul difficulty of late—but when he is in the contest the Sanford five is dangerous. Averaging over eight assist per outing the six-year senior makes Sanford a scoring threat any time he is in the game.

The locals will enjoy the benefits of the home court advantage not only this weekend but also for their rematch with Winter Haven. Tipoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock for all three contests—Gainesville on Friday—Titusville on Saturday and then Winter Haven on Tuesday.

NBA Faces Court Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American Basketball Association and nine franchise owners have filed a suit against the National Basketball Association and 17 of its franchise holders which could, if successful, revolutionize the signing of players to contracts.

The $600-million suit filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court charges fraud, breach of contract and antitrust violations.

The antitrust portion seeks $100 million treble as damages while $100 million is sought for breach of contract and $200 million for fraud.

The court was requested to prohibit the NBA and its members from signing any new player contracts not negotiated and paid for by an individual team owner.

The ABA also asked the court to prevent the NBA from signing or enforcing existing player contracts containing any form of a reserve or option clause.

It also asked the court to enjoin the senior loop from signing any contract, agreement or having an understanding with any player enrolled in any university, college, junior college, high school or preparatory school for four years from Jan. 30.

The suit said that since the NBA was formed in 1949 it deliberately monopolized major league professional basketball.

The ABA, organized in 1967, alleges that the NBA and its members have eliminated competition by controlling, limiting and restricting acquisition of players, including superstars, by ABA members; television coverage; adequate playing facilities; and geographical areas.

In connection with the breach of contract, the court was told that in May, 1971, the ABA and NBA agreed to merge and pledged to work for federal legislation to exempt the merger from antitrust laws.

The fraud was alleged on grounds that NBA's representation that it would employ its best efforts to obtain merger legislation was "false and fraudulent."

By JOHN CHERWA

Expected to lead off the evening at 100 pounds is Armando Payas. Payas is undefeated on the year.

In the 120 weight class is Paul Richards followed by 127 by Guy Campbell. In Campbell's Winter Park confrontation he sustained a cut under the eye but Scott feels it will not hamper his wrestling talents.

At 155 should be Jim Howarth and the 160 wrestler is Jim Brinker. Brinker will face one of the top wrestlers in the area, Ernie Shavers. Brinker is 15-1 on the year having his only defeat coming at the hands of Winter Park on Monday.

Donnie Thompson is scheduled to go for the Hounds at 147.

The 156 class is also expected to go down to the wire when Doug Wilkinson faces DeLand's Bishop. Wilkinson recently suffered a bloody nose in his last confrontation but Scott reported his grappler will be ready to go.

District Champion Bon Brucato is expected to wrestle at 168. Brucato is 16-0 on the year and has not been defeated in a dual match in over two years.

Glenn Hill and John Bishop meet in a rematch of the Greyhound Invitational. In that contest Hill pinned Bishop in 2:25.

In what is billed as the feature event of the evening Mike White and Tim Chavers also meet in a rematch. In their first meeting Chavers edged out White 3-1 in a third period takedown.

The match is scheduled to start around 6:30 with the varsity starting at 7:15.

Ethic For The Hockey Fan: Pay Money; Take A Chance

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

You pay your money and you take your choice, the thrill of every fan, may have to be amended to paying your money and taking a chance.

That's because Bill Dineen is on the prowl.

In the Houston case, Dineen, the Houston coach, enveloped a rather one-sided world Hockey Association game by charging into the stands to battle a fan.

"I've never done anything like that before," said Dineen after his Aeroc were tripped up by the Cleveland Crusaders 5-1. "But I reached the point where I couldn't take it any more. The fans have a right to cheer, but this guy became too abusive."

In the other WHA game, the Chicago Cougars downed Vancouver Blazers 4-2.

In the National Hockey League, the New York Rangers shamed the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2; the Vancouver Canucks whipped the Detroit Red Wings 7-3, and the St. Louis Blues outscored the California Golden Seals 5-4.

Dineen wasn't the only one who wanted to get closer to the fans.

Gordie Howe took a trip up the aisles, too, and it wasn't for hot dogs.

Witness said that How followed Dineen into the seats and scuffled with a fan of his own. The incident was apparently touched off by fan comments directed at the Houston bench, including a reference to "bush leaguers."

Canucks 7, Red Wings 3 After four years, Vancouver finally broke the ice. The Canucks skated away with their first victory in the Olympia since entering the league in 1970.

FTU Hosts Championships

Florida Technological University, which in only three years has gained national wrestling recognition, currently among the top 20 teams in the country in intercollegiate grappling, is hosting the state collegiate wrestling championships this weekend at the naval training center gymnasium.

This will be the second time in three years the Golden Knights of FTU have hosted the prestigious tournament. Friday's action will begin at 7 p.m., with a 12:30 p.m. time set for Saturday's second round. The finals will be Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

It will be an excellent opportunity for high school wrestlers in this area—and there's too many of them to count—to see what the competition is like in college. Quite a few boys in our area are top collegiate prospects, especially at talent-laden Lyman, which appears headed for a big shot at the national level.

Raider Baseball Team

It was a pleasure to see Coach Jack Pantelias' Seminole Junior College baseball team supporting the Raiders Wednesday night in their defeat at the hands of powerful Lake City. The baseball playing Raiders get their season underway Feb. 9 against Tampa Hillsborough Junior College, away.

The diamond squad which is one of the best on paper the school has ever had, appears a very together outfit, and they certainly outshine the other students attending the game with their vocal support lent to their cage team.

A Full Sports Complex

The thought of a gymnasium being constructed at Seminole Junior College is good news for all of us who follow the Raider's cage team. Now that Coach Jack Pantelias is nearing the date the baseball team can use the on-campus field which had fallen into a miserable state of repair from non-use, the school will have two sports competing near enough for students to watch.

Wouldn't it be even nicer, though, to have some tennis courts, a few handball enclosures and maybe a rudimentary, unsurfaced track to put all of the athletes but the golf team on campus? An surfaced asphalt track should cost around $20,000, and with the proper attitude I'm sure the county commission could be approached by the school and its trustees to help out. Not only would that benefit the school, but I'm also very sure area recreational programs, such as AAU summer olympics and the Seminole YMCA would be more than happy to see such a centrally located sports complex, and might even ask to help out if they could use the facility for some of our sports-starved youngsters. The school could also expand its student-athletic program, including various sports not within their capability as yet.

I never could grow the concept of a "jock" was a dumb animal that existed only in its slow or "crip" classes. And the same holds true for the student. A sharp mind in a lazy body is waste. If I had the chance, I'd make athletics—participatory athletics—mandatory for students of any age every term. Gets the blood circulating.

Factors contributing to Dr. Pepper's progress during the past year included more intensive advertising, greater product availability and increased sales momentum which gave the company a stronger hold on its number four position among the national soft drink brands.

Federal Forecast Mortgage Rates To Remain High

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're one of the many potential homebuyers who is waiting for interest rates to come down you'll be concerned with what the Federal Home Loan Bank Board has to say. It says you'll have a very long wait.

That forecast was contained in an overview of the industry in 1980, published in this month's Board Journal. The board is the regulatory agency for the nation's savings and loan associations, which write most home mortgages.

Unchain Sister For A Needed Vacation

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 59, and since my husband's death three years ago, I've been stuck taking care of my aged parents, 82 and 84.

I do everything for them, and get no salary. I am just about broke, and really should be a paying job.

Dad is senile and almost totally blind and deaf. Mother is diabetic and bedridden. Both are weak and failing.

My problem is this: I want to visit my married daughter in California. Her baby is 2 years old and I haven't even seen him yet. I haven't had a day off in three years. My sister works, and I can't get anyone to stay with my parents for two weeks. I am all worn out, and need to get away. My daughter will pay for my trip if I can make it away. Please help me.

DEAR CHAINED: Your parents also are your sister's parents, so you will not ask sister to request a two-week leave of absence and give her a long, overdue, much needed respite? Or contact County Welfare and ask if they can help you. I wish you luck. (P.S. I hope your parents don't know that you left "stake" with them. Knowing that they're a burden would make their miserable lot more difficult to bear.)

DEAR ABBY: A 23-year-old graduate student in whom I have more than just a casual interest tells me that she is married "in name only" to a Japanese student. She says he has been in this country for four years and he wants to remain longer, so in order to keep from being sent back to Japan he had to marry a citizen—me, the married lady.

This girl insists that she has never had anything to do with him sexually even though they live together. She swears up and down that she's telling me the truth, and she married him because she likes to "help" people.

Abby, doesn't this strike you as being somewhat unusual? Or can this girl be for real? SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: It's a rather bizarre situation, but anything is possible. Even if the girl is telling you the truth, she's still a married woman, so if you're smart, you'll regard her as somebody else's wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and am planning my wedding. My older sister was married two years ago in the most beautiful wedding gown and veil I ever saw. I always dreamed of being married like her.

Now I have second thoughts about wearing it because I am very superstitious, and my sister had her bad luck in her marriage. Her husband got her pregnant, died, the bat and ran off, saying he was joining the Marines. She found out he never joined the Marines. He went back to an old girl friend who lives in a nearby town.

Anyway, Abby, I would feel creepy wearing my sister's bridal outfit. Do you believe if I wore it it would bring me bad luck? SUPERSTITIOUS

DEAR SUPERSTITIOUS: No. But if you do, don't wear it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box 6796, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

DEAR POLLY: Polly's Problem

The first time I wore a new pair of pants with a suede vest I was wearing each person puts one of those sticky-backed name tags. Unthinkingly I put mine on my suede vest. The glue stuck to the paper part of the tag came off but the glue, I hope someone can tell me how to remove it. — MARY BETH

DEAR POLLY: Polly's Problem

My Pet Peeve is with those operators in beauty salons who do not wait until the water gets hot before starting to shampoo. Then they put you under a dryer before it has had time to warm up. — A READER

DEAR POLLY: Polly's Problem

While T.P. might try using beeswax candles in her sconces where the candles tend to bend from the heat. I have never had such candles bend and also there are attractive glass ones in assorted colors that can be bought in many better gift and department stores. — MRS. F.J.A.

DEAR POLLY: Polly's Problem

While candles are soft on a stiff (non-lead) wire can be pushed up from the bottom through the candle to straighten and hold them no matter how warm the room gets. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY: Polly's Problem

My Pointer is for those many women who now sew their own fashions but want a finished look and feel. Pants suits are a staple in my wardrobe and even the non-stretching type of waistband elastic seems to have that uncomfortable tendency to twist and flip inside the band. I get the elastic straight and then stitch a line through the band material and the elastic and prevent the rolling. I cut mine at both a front and a back point for carefree wear. — SANDRA

DEAR POLLY: Polly's Problem

I do a lot of crocheting and have discovered that plastic cigar containers are ideal for storing crochet hooks so they are all together. — BARBARA ANN

At trick two he ruffed a club with his ace of trumps. At trick three he returned to dummy with the ace of spades in order to ruff a second club with the king of trumps. Then he led the deuce of trumps to dummy's seven, ruffed dummy's last club with the queen of trumps, overtook his eight of trumps with dummy's nine spot; cashed the last two trumps in order to put East's last two hand discarding a low diamond and low spade from his own hand.

The last four tricks were won by dummy's king of diamonds and his own king and queen of spades and ace of diamonds.

Scribbling Encouraged For Kids

Alma craves Miss Kellogg's wise counsel about "scribbling." Notice how free access Crane kiddies have free access to scratch paper. Such educational "brainwashing" may explain the 5 doctor's degrees of our 3 living sons.

Case Z-40 Alma D., aged 28, teaches first graders.

"Dr. Crane, she began, 'I have noticed that there is a wide difference among my pupils in their ability to use crayons.'

'Kiddies from homes where the tots were allowed to scribble, are faster to learn how to read and write.'

And I recently heard Miss Ribola Kellogg, of San Francisco, who has collected two million samples of children's scribbling.

"Miss Kellogg also claims that scribbling develops a toddler's I.Q. by requiring it to coordinate eye, hand and brain.

"Dr. Crane, did you encourage such early scribbling among your own 5 children when they were little?"

"And do you think Miss Kellogg's idea is sound?"

Yes, I certainly salute Miss Kellogg for her stress on early scribbling by youngsters.

They often wish to use pencil or colored crayons, even before the age of two years.

Since I employed mimeographed mid-term and final exams for my students at Northwestern University, I had literally thousands of pages of such scrap paper after I received their grades.

Although I often contained the mimeographed questions, the back side of each sheet was blank.

So Mrs. Crane and I let the children help themselves to such scrap paper.

Our firstborn, George IV, thus would sit for half an hour, using a pencil, even when he wasn't old enough for Nursery School.

Sometimes he'd bring his paper to me, whereupon I'd try to outline a chicken or a squirrel, dog, duck, horse, etc.

And he grew older, I'd try to depict exciting scenes, with an Indian in hot pursuit of a little boy or girl.

I'd have the child crying the "Help, Help," with those words printed in a balloon, a la the comic strip style.

The other children all relished similar use of pencil and paper.

And by the time they entered kindergarten, they often could concoct fairly good action sketches.

George IV was offered a scholarship in Art School when he graduated from South Shore High School in Chicago, largely I am sure because of his early use of pen and scratch paper.

For Miss Kellogg is correct in saying that such scribbling really can boost a child's I.Q. as if it served as mental calisthenics.

One reason why primitive peoples were slow to develop civilization was their lack of materials for writing!

Those barbaric tribes had no scratch paper or pencils nor exposure to newspaper cartoons and comic strips.

Nowadays, Mrs. Crane and I still save the hundreds of pages of news releases and advertising letters, so our 14 grandchildren can also scribble freely when they visit us.

But be sure you don't let kiddies tear up old magazines, for they can't read well enough to tell the difference between the used vs. the new magazines and books!

Innocently, they may then scribble on valuable materials, if you've let them mutilate old magazines!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, addressed envelope and 25 cents for copy typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Easier Insurance Reflects Health, Safety Advances

By FRANK CORRICK Copley News Service Q. Is life insurance available to most citizens? — J.F. A. Most Americans who apply for life insurance are able to get it. About 97 per cent of applicants for "ordinary" life policies are accepted by the life companies, according to the latest industry survey, and 92 per cent are at standard rates. Only three per cent of all applicants are considered uninsurable, chiefly for health reasons.

Occupational risks, which used to account for 26 per cent of all extra-premium insurance a little more than a decade ago, have become a much less frequent reason for "rating up" of insurance. Recently they were responsible for only about nine per cent.

This low level of rejections or higher premiums because of health problems and occupational risks reflects continuing advances in medicine, job safety and public health. Many persons can buy insurance at standard rates who previously would have had to pay higher premiums because of their health or occupation.

Q. I thought this new Supplemental Security Income Program paid everyone the same amount. My cousin in California gets more than I do. How come? — J.B.C. A. The basic amount paid by the federal government in Supplemental Security Income benefits is the same throughout the 50 states. Each state, however, may pay an additional amount over and above what the federal government pays. In many states the state supplement is paid with the federal Supplemental Security Income payment in one combined check.

Q. Is a partnership agreement always in writing? — H.V. A. No, but it is more desirable and affords greater protection to all parties, if it is in writing.

Q. I have worked a few years with the government. WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

New York Confusion Over Stock Trading

By DONALD C. BAUDER Copley News Service

The state of New York, with proper piety, has moved to block two German firms from selling stock in disorderly houses.

Meanwhile, the American Stock Exchange, also from New York, has filed a plan for permission to begin trading in stock options.

What is the relationship? Well, it is somewhat ironic that New York objects strenuously to the trading of stock in disorderly houses, all the while smiling upon the trading which goes on in disorderly markets.

For, by and large, the put and call business—called options trading—has a long-standing reputation as pretty disorderly, which is to say, highly speculative, or, as one investment banker put it, "Puts and calls are for the racetrack crowd."

Indeed, the put and call lexicon smacks somewhat of disorderliness. An option is the privilege of buying or selling 100 shares of a stock at a stated price for a stated period of time.

A put is an option to sell the stock and a call is an option to buy.

A straddle is a put and one call. A spread is a put and a call with different prices on each. A strap is one straddle and a call, and a strip is a straddle plus a put.

Last April the Chicago Board Options Exchange set out to bring respectability to options. Trading is only in calls, and you can trade them right up to the expiration date, unlike standard calls in which you are locked into options. And trading is limited to 32 respectable (in the main) stocks.

By volume alone, the Chicago Board Options Exchange has been extraordinarily successful: on opening day April 26, some 91,000 shares traded. Now volume is nearing 2 million shares.

However, there is legitimate question over whether option trading has gained respectability. Said a San Diego, Calif., investment banker recently, "The Chicago options operation is the biggest craps game going today. It's a gambling casino operating out there in space."

Indeed, one must wonder who is making money. Normally, put and call buyers lose 80 per cent of the time—that is, by the time the option expires, it is worthless.

11th In Four Counties Another Area Corpse Found

By CHRIS NELSON Herald Staff Writer

The horrifying trail of women murdered in Central Florida changed into northwest Orange County this morning as a young Apopka construction worker stumbled upon the decomposed remains of a young white woman, bringing to 11 the number of recent victims in a path reaching from Osceola to Brevard and across Seminole Counties. (Related story page 3A) The badly decomposed body was found covered by palmfronds in the underbrush of Old Apopka Road just hours after Brevard authorities found a gunshot wound to the head.

Neither of the two latest victims has been identified. The Apopka body — third in Orange County in recent months — is now being studied by county medical examiner Thomas Hegert while homicide detectives probe the underbrush of the land clearing site of Vulcan Road.

Gas Supplies Diminishing

A walkout by independent truckers in Tampa may bring Central Florida to a standstill, say spokesmen on both sides of the strike, and Sanford service station operators say they are taking the "wait and see" attitude today, but if the strike continues they will certainly be burning. (Related story page 3A.)

Some 170 independent drivers who haul gasoline and other petroleum products in a 150-mile radius of Tampa parked their rigs Thursday in conjunction with a national walkout of truckers protesting high fuel costs and low freight rates.

"We'll be so effective that it's going to be much harder to get a gallon of gas Friday," said James Kellingsworth, president of the Owner-Operators Association.

Killingsworth said the effect of the drivers' walkout would be felt from Ocala to Fort Myers and on the state's east and west coasts.

"People are getting panicky, and we're getting scared too," commented Mrs. Ben Williams at Williams Amoco Service in Sanford. "We've been told to call Tampa later today for information. We don't know yet if the strike will affect our deliveries, but we're getting low and will need more fuel soon."

She said they were pumping all they could. "Something's definitely causing a big rush to fill up on gas," said Mrs. Williams.

At Bill's BP Service in Sanford, Lowell Martindill said they are so short of gasoline they are closing at 11 a.m. today and Saturday. "We might make it through Tuesday," he said, "but if we don't get a delivery then we'll have to stay closed."

At Clem Leonard Shell, also in Sanford, the supply of fuel is running short. Operators there are waiting to see how long the Tampa strike will last, and say they will run out of fuel if the strike is not halted soon.

At the Village West Truck Terminal, manager Melvin Payne said he has all the fuel he can handle at present. "But the strike will hold up deliveries, and then we could run dry again," he said.

Bill Ball of Ball Trucking Co. agreed: "If the strikers hold out we have a problem; it hasn't hit us yet."

At Horne Distributors, W.W. Horne said he was not sure discuss possible links to the still unsolved murder of Walt Disney World employee Deborah Jean McCartney. Miss McCartney, 20, of St. Cloud, was found bound in a ditch Sept. 20, but detectives say there is no known link in the murders.

In Altamonte Springs, sources close to the investigation say possible murder charges against a man being held in Georgia on multiple rape charges will have to wait the outcome of the rape trials—and may have been shattered by creation of one of the remains.

The sources said all evidence in the apparent twin-murders has been turned over to State Atty. Abbott Herring's office. Only one of the victims, Laura Lynn Harberts, 18, Orlando, has been identified.

Her remains, with the exception of a jawbone and teeth retained for identification purposes, were cremated after investigators neglected to seek a stop order on funeral proceedings.

The cremation could be crucial, sources say, because cause of death was never established.

wholesale drug and sundries salesman operating a one-and-a-half-ton truck in an area including Sanford, DeLand, Mt. Dora and Orlando, said she and her husband feel their livelihood is threatened by the fuel shortage.

"He's having a terrible time getting gas," said Mrs. Matthews of her husband. "They'll only give him two gallons every place he stops."

"We're wondering how in the world we're going to get through this," she said.

Polokoff said the companies recognize that the initial set-up period will produce problems, but that the experience of Orange County—which last year opted for exclusive franchise areas—will be carefully studied.

One of the biggest problems faced by the companies—even if the exclusive franchise system is not adopted—is figuring out where some customers really are. Polokoff said, since post office box addresses are often the only information the company has to work with.

MIAMI (AP) — Members of the International Brotherhood of Electricians have voted to end their 3-month-old strike against the Florida Power & Light Co., a spokesman for the utility said today.

FP&L was notified by federal mediators early this morning that striking electrical workers had voted 1,925 to 743 to accept the company's contract offer, the spokesman said.

FP&L has suffered heavy losses to vandalism since the strike by about 4,000 workers began Nov. 1.

The company wanted to fire 153 strikers accused by the union of vandalism while the union asked that they be allowed to return to work, pending criminal proceedings in the courts.
