Principals' report card for the boss

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

The Seminole County school board members aren't the only ones who get to make an evaluation of the superintendent.

Recently, principals were also asked to rate Supt. Dr. Paul Hagerty's job performance. For the most part, they were quite complimentary of how he has been doing the job.

Hagerty asked for the evaluation of his work over the last five years with the hope, he said, of taking note of what he has been doing well and of finding ways of doing things better.

He was particularly interested in seeing what the principals like about how he's doing his job: in seeing what they would suggest he do to be more effective; and in seeing what suggestions the principals might have for changing or realigning the school system's priorities.

While the principals did not give their boss a number rating, they did offer their comments and suggestions which have been collected and printed anonymously for the superintendent to see.

Among other things, the informal survey told Hagerty: "Hey I like the way you..."

"analyze the budget and make very wise decisions
"are open minded about most issues
"acknowledge my e-mail
"conduct yourself so professionally when board members are somewhat unreasonable
"fully weigh and consider alternative proposals before making decisions
"are letting your sense of humor emerge
"(have) less 'good ole boy' feelings regarding oppor-

Crunch time for the county

Who will rescue you? And will nude dancers still have their jobs?

Herald News Analysis

There's no more time for delay or political strategies. On Tuesday, the Board of Seminole County Commissioners must come up with solutions not scandal, action not ambiguity.

To be sure, confidence in local government is waning.

The citizens of the county aren't trying to bust anybody's chops. All they want to know is what happens next time they call 9-1-1. Who's coming to their rescue and getting them to the hospital.

and how much is it going to cost?

And what about those nude bars on 17-92 - "is that really a circus, daddy?"

The folks who pay taxes want the men they elected - guys named Morris, McLain, Maloy, Adams and Van Der Weide to quit quibbling. No more controversy. No more deception. Anyone know how to get five Republicans to agree with each other?

Stan Besamer, a retiree who lives in English Estates, said he's not sure some of the commissioners know their constituency. Forgive poor Stan for saying he believes - three of the electees believe in LifeFleet/Atlantic, the private ambulance company locked in combat with the county's fire-rescue division.

The EMS debacle - which has raged the last two years - supposedly will be decided Tuesday. The public call is for the county to take over. An in-

We're taking you to Club Juana

Editor's note: Seminole County is embroiled in hammering out tough new ordinances that would severely restrict the adult entertainment industry. Staff Writer Vicki DeSormier visited the Fern Park nude dance Club Juana to observe and talk about the profession with the dancers and owner Michael Pinter.

FERN PARK - They're just like the rest of us, they say, doing their best to get by. Working hard, saving money and taking care of their families the best way they know how.

A grad student. A single mom just trying to get by on her own. A grandmother who's putting her 20 year-old-son through college.

All of them dancers at Club Juana, a nude dancing establishment in Fern Park.

They're not strung out on drugs or making their "real" money as back room prostitutes (though they admit that might happen in less classy establishments).

Those are the unfair stereotypes, they say, that have been placed on dancers.

They are entertainers...dancers, they insist. They just happen to dance without their clothes on.

The money is good, though

Just one of the girls

FERN PARK - Jewels loves to brag about her children and her grandbabies. She's proud of her boyfriend and her pet Bassett Hounds, too.

The name isn't her own. Jewels is who she becomes when she slips from the role of Mom and Nana to nude dancer.

"I've been dancing three years, since my son started college," she said. "I'll do this until he gets his master's unless he wants to get a doctorate too."

The statuesque woman with admittedly bleached blonde hair will turn 42 in two weeks, but she says she's feeling young as ever.

Prior to trying her hand at dancing at Club Juana in Fern Park, she had worked at a training center for impaired nurses (those who had become addicted to drugs). She has a bachelor's degree and hopes to go back for her master's degree when her son is done with his education.

"I have an education," she

Owner defends nudity

FERN PARK - You think nude nightclubs are bringing down the property values and the values of the community in which you live?

The alternative can be much worse, says Michael Pinter, owner of Club Juana, a nude club in Fern Park.

Pinter said he's familiar with what can happen when dancers are forced to cover up.

For customers who frequent adult entertainment establishments, it's not best to leave something to the imagination, because it just leaves them wanting more.

"The girls here dance nude," he said of his club. "You can't touch them, but you see it all. If it's covered up you want more."

Some of his dancers agree. They feel safer dancing at a club like Club Juana.

"I like dancing in a controlled environment," said Brianna. "Everyone knows the limitations."

Nichole added that dancing in a club where you're covered

It's official: Lake Mary water rates rise

By STEVE BARNES
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - Residents of Lake Mary will soon be paying more for water and sewage, due to the passage of an ordinance designed to increase city revenue and reduce water consumption.

The city commission adopted ordinance 839 on the advice of the city's rate consultant, Public Resource Management Group, Inc. (PRMG). According to Robert Ori, who presented the findings of the year-long PRMG study to the commission, the cost of maintaining water and sewer services has outstripped the revenue generated by those services. His report recommended increasing a variety of fees in order to maintain the financial solvency of the system. He also recommended that a portion of the additional revenue be placed in a special fund to be used in the event of an emergency.

In addition, the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD) has informed the city that it must implement a rate structure which encourages water conservation in order to meet established water use permit criteria. In a letter to the city dated February 15, 1997, the SJRWMD pointed out that the daily per-capita usage of the city is 183 gallons. That number exceeds the 150 gallon per capita that the district typically allocates. The letter directs the city to explain what actions are being taken to lower consumption.

Based on these factors, the commission voted to adopt the ordinance, which will increase retail rates and deposits for water service and sewer impact fees. It also establishes water rates based on consumption.

Beginning with the next full billing cycle, base service charges for residential homes will increase from $1.98 to $4.20. The volume charge will vary based on the amount of water used.

Residents who use up to 3,000 gallons of water per month will pay .75 per thousand gallons. Users of between 3,001 and 10,000 gallons will pay $1.15 per thousand gallons.

Those using between 10,001 and 20,000 gallons per month will be charged $1.55 per thousand gallons. Residents using over 20,000 gallons per month will also pay $1.55 per thousand gallons until June of 1998, at which time the rate will increase to $2.15 per thousand gallons. The current flat rate is $1.22 per thousand gallons.

A base charge of $6.50 for sewer service was also enacted, previously no base charge applied.

The measure also provides for a pass through of adjustments of Seminole County's wholesale sewage treatment and disposal charges. Recent increases in charges to the city by the county were not passed on to residents through a corresponding increase in sewage rates.

The ordinance also stipulates that consumers outside the city limits shall pay a 25% surcharge in addition to the regular rates.

Commissioners disagreed on at least two issues related to the ordinance. Commissioner

Sheila Sawyer, who voted against the measure, wanted references to the SJRWMD's order to implement a "water conservation - based rate structure" deleted from the ordinance. She claimed the paragraph was misleading in its assertion that the SJRWMD was the cause of the rate increase, which she said was entirely at the discretion of the city. Sawyer also said the two issues of consumption and cost structure fees should be considered separately.

Commissioner Thomas Green, who also opposed the ordinance, asked for a reduction of the base sewer fee and a corresponding increase in the usage charge which would have provided relief to low usage consumers and those who only live in the area part-time. While the PRMG agreed that the proposal would have been revenue neutral for the city, it recommended that the commission pass the ordinance as written.

Mayor David Meador said that although he did not like the idea of raising the rates, the changes were essential to the long term viability of the system.

Buckets of fun

The Pre-K Early Intervention class at Seminole High School was treated to an end of the school year party by members of the school's Health Occupations Students of America club. The club members, students in the Academy of Health Careers, collected items from various businesses in the community and filled 19 sand pails with goodies, including summer learning activities. The children's bright eyes and huge smiles were a sure indication that the party was a big success.

The way we were: Remembering Sanford's Dr. and Mrs. Brooks

On May 25, 1997, First Baptist Church of Sanford dedicated its 1920 sanctuary in memory of Dr. W. P. Brooks, Jr. who served as its pastor November 17, 1929 through August 26, 1962...almost 33 years. Dr. Brooks was a much loved man, both by his congregation and the Sanford community. It was a marvelous service which included several people sharing their memories of this esteemed man.

I presented a brief biography of Dr. Brooks plus some events at First Baptist during his pastorate. Since many of you old timers knew Dr. Brooks, I thought this might also interest you.

Remember that this was given orally so it is in a little different style, and when I mention "this building", it is the old sanctuary which was completed in 1920. Dr. Brooks was my pastor for the first 26 years of my life.

DR. W. P. BROOKS, JR.

William Park Brooks, Jr. was born November 26, 1897 in Monroe County, near Forsyth, Georgia and received his early schooling in Athens, Ga. He was graduated from the University of Georgia, Phi Beta Kappa, in 1917. He was ordained to the ministry July 24, 1918.

He served a brief time in the US Army during World War I and returned to the University of Georgia where he received an M.A. degree in 1923. He next received a Th.D. degree from Southern Seminary in Louisville in 1923. On May 22, 1922, he married Marie Tingle of Forsyth, a graduate of Beale Tift College. Both he and Mrs. Brooks taught in the Georgia public schools while he held pastorates in several small churches.

At First Baptist, Sanford, Dr. F. D. King, pastor for the previous seven years, resigned effective July 28, 1929. On October 2, 1929, a unanimous ballot was cast for the call of W. P. Brooks, Jr. of College Park, Georgia. His salary would be $2,600 per year payable at $50 per week and could be increased when the church's financial position improved.

The pulpit committee found him to be a man of deep spirituality, pleasing address, scholarly attainments, well versed in the Bible and diligent in all departments of work of the denomination. He came highly recommended from Georgia Baptist leaders.

W. P. Brooks began his pastorate here on November 17, 1929. He was 32 years old.

In 1930, church membership was approximately 1,000, Sunday School enrollment was 929 with 588 in attendance on Easter. There was a debt of approximately $20,000 which had been incurred on building of this sanctuary.

The first building program under the leadership of Rev. Brooks was an addition to the old pastorate next door to this building. This was completed in 1932 and contained classrooms, kitchen and dining room. The previous kitchen had been on the third floor of this building. The cost was approximately $500 and was raised before the work was begun.

The effects of the Great Depression were really being felt by the church in 1932. Salaries were reduced; in 1933 Pastor Brooks received $45 per week, $5 less than when called. Membership and attendance also fell off during the 1930's.

By the end of 1933, one loan had been reduced to $3,450 and it was decided to postpone the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the church until that debt was paid in full. It was finally retired and the celebration took place on September 15, 1935, a year and a half late. At that time, this building was formally rededicated. Dr. C. M. Brittain, state secretary of the Florida Baptist Convention, was the speaker. The church presented a bouquet of roses to Mr. and Mrs. Brooks in appreciation of their fine work.

In 1938, Rev. Thomas E. Thompson began a mission in a home in Ginderville under the sponsorship of First Baptist. This resulted in the organization of Southside Baptist Church on August 7, 1938; it was renamed Central Baptist in 1948.

By 1941, membership was increasing and finances were improving as the remaining debt had at last been paid. Pastor Brooks finally received a raise - after 12 years - to $2,740.

The only paid staff other than Rev. Brooks were the janitor and a secretary. Miss Allie Trafford was elected as financial secretary and church missionary in 1919 at a salary of $25 per month. She served until 1942 and Dr. Brooks called her "my right arm". Miss Maude Jenkins next served until 1953. Other secretaries serving with Dr. Brooks were Mrs. A. B. Tedford, Miss Ruth Archer, Mrs. Roy Reel, and Mrs. C. A. Anderson.

Sometime in the 1940's Stetson University conferred an honorary doctorate on Rev. Brooks; he did not have an earned doctorate, but was a very learned and wise man. In 1946, Dr. Brooks preached the convention sermon at the Florida Baptist Convention. His text was Micah 6:8 and was entitled "A Prophetic Voice".

A building committee was formed in 1947 for an educational building. It was decided to not go into debt and pay as you go. The Memorial Building was completed in 1950.

In 1949, we called our first educational director, John Miller, at a salary of $50 per week. Under his leadership, our Sunday School and Training Union grew by leaps and bounds. At the time he left in 1955, Sunday School average attendance was 740, Training Union, 145 and there were 520 in Vacation Bible School.

Rev. Fred Fisher succeeded him as Associate pastor/Educational director. There were two Sunday morning worship services and he preached one of these each week.

Music director, serving during Dr. Brooks ministry, all part time, were B. C. Moore, Mrs. R. L. Glenn, Martin Stinecipher, Mildred McCoy, Mrs. B. C. Moore, Dorothy Galchel, Ruth Archer, Kirby Rogers, W. L. Harmon and Mrs. Guy Bishop. Martin Stinecipher led the congregational singing and arranged for special music during the evening services for 25 years. He retired with Dr. Brooks.

Pastor Appreciation Day was held in 1949 celebrating Dr. Brooks 20th anniversary as our pastor. During his pastorate thus far, over 1,400 members had been added, with over 600 for baptism.

Beginning in the 1950's, surrounding houses in this block were purchased as they became available. Sunday School and Training Union classes were held in these houses as the two buildings were overflowing. On Easter Sunday, 1957, there were 1120 in Sunday School.

In 1957, both Elder Springs and Pinecrest missions sponsored by First Baptist were constituted as churches. Each has an interesting history in reaching this point. The first pastor of Pinecrest was Rev. Joe Courson, father of JoAnn Beckner.

Dr. Brooks' 25th anniversary in 1954 was marked by a special service and the congregation presented him with a new Ford. Many outstanding Baptist leaders wrote letters of praise and congratulations. There are many glowing tributes, but my favorite was from O. K. Radford, State Training Union Director. He stated, "It has been my joy to know your good pastor for at least 25 years. I have always considered him one of the sanest Baptist leaders in the Southern Baptist Convention. He loves his Lord and he loves his people".

Oaklawn Chapel, the fourth mission of First Baptist, was begun in 1960 and was constituted in 1965. This is now known as Westview Baptist.

At the time of the church's 75th anniversary in 1959, Dr. Brooks was featured in an Orlando newspaper as Man of the Week with his picture on the front of its Sunday magazine.

Dr. Brooks loved young people and would always spend time with them. During his ministry, 15 young men were licensed to preach and six were ordained as ministers.

In 1954 he instigated a youth recreation program on Monday nights with volunteer directors. This continued for many years. In the summer there was volleyball plus activities in the Kirby House four nights a week. This program brought several young people and Navy fellows into our church. I was an active participant in the program as a college student and later as a worker in the Young People's Training Union.

Mrs. Brooks was a genuine helpmate and also a much loved person in her own right. She served as a children's worker for years and in many other non glamorous positions, always ready to help in any way with her sweet spirit.

At the close of 1961, the church was out of debt and owned all but three houses in this block, plus two others nearby. We were preparing for a new educational building which would be accomplished under the leadership of a new pastor.

Dr. Brooks retired August 26, 1962 after 33 years of fruitful ministry at First Baptist. He requested no reception or special service; instead the congregation took an offering and $6,285 was presented to him which helped purchase his mobile home in Fern Park. He and Mrs. Brooks lived there for many years while he did some counseling. They later moved to the Florida Baptist Retirement Center in Vero Beach and then to one in Waycross, Georgia.

At the annual meeting in September 1962, Dr. Brooks was made pastor emeritus of First Baptist Church by the congregation.

Dr. Brooks went home to be with his Lord on December 6, 1978 at the age of 81. Mrs. Brooks died in 1980.

Longwood mulls firefighters' pay

By STEVE BARNES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Cost of living adjustments (COLAs) for the Longwood Fire Department were the hot topic at Monday's city commission meeting.

City staff had prepared a recommendation that the city give members of the Longwood Professional Fire Fighters Association (LPFFA) a 3.5 % COLA for fiscal year 1998. The proposed increase was designed to bring firefighters' pay in line with that of members of the Police Benevolent Association (PBA) who received a 6% raise for fiscal 1996.

The police raise represents a 3% step increase, which is contingent on a "meets standards" evaluation and a 3% COLA which is also built into their contract. The firefighters union previously negotiated for a 2.5% annual raise, with the provision that they could negotiate for a COLA at a later date.

Commissioners balked at the idea of giving the proposed 3.5% COLA simply to bring the firefighters in line with the police department's pay increase.

Mayor Bill Winston expressed frustration regarding the police contract, which he said was never intended to provide the department with a 6% raise. "What I negotiated for and what is written into the contract are two different things. I am extremely aggravated. We worked in good faith to give everyone a raise and now we are coming up on the short end of the stick."

Winston also stated that it would be wrong to make the same mistake with the fire department contract as was made with the police contract. "Two wrongs don't make a right," said Winston. The commission voted to delay taking action on the matter until they could gather more information.

The commission will meet with the city's labor attorney, Frank Kruppenbacher to try to establish the reason for the misunderstanding regarding the police pay increase and to try to come to an agreement regarding the fire department request. The executive session is closed to the public.

The next public meeting of the commission will be a work session to review the land development code. It will be held Monday, June 9 at 8 p.m. A workshop to discuss budget goals and objectives will follow immediately thereafter. For more information, contact the city at 260-3440.

said, "I've just found I can make more money doing this."

The money is a determining factor for most of the dancers.

"I just couldn't keep working at Foot Locker for a little more than minimum wage after I started working here," said Taylor, who has a bachelor's degree in sports medicine and exercise physiology and is working toward her master's degree in education. "Besides, I don't like to be confined to polyester all day."

Off stage, Taylor is dressed in shorts and a clingy T-shirt that shows off the new "D-cups" she recently had implanted.

"Like them?" she asks with a giggle of one of the men in the office. She likes them she said, except she feels off balance in heels as she's only had them for a week.

The University of Central Florida student said she maintains a 3.5 GPA with the help of management which lets her work her schedule around school.

Of course, not all the dancers have college degrees.

Wendy is 29 and finally working on getting her GED, she says.

"I got pregnant young," she said. "I never finished school and I've been doing this for 12 years. I just never got around to it."

She said that now that her children are 8 and 9-years-old and starting to understand what she does, she wants to start getting her education.

Her long auburn hair is waved conservatively and she wears little makeup on her freckled face.

She shrugs off the suggestion that what she does is any different than working at a retail store or a restaurant.

"It's just a great way to make money," she said.

Wendy and the other girls (regardless of their age, they call themselves "girls") don't feel what they are doing is "wrong" or degrading in any way, but they don't want to make a career of it.

"So many people have negative stereotypes about us and about what we do," Taylor said. "My former boyfriend said 95 percent of all dancers were whores, but not me of course."

The women say they battle that stereotype and others like it.

They do not, they say, use or abuse drugs. They do not, they say, offer more than dances to customers. They do not, they say, date the customers.

They are, they say, just trying to get ahead, to save money to make a good life for their children or their families.

"I'm trying to further myself," Taylor said. "I'm saving and saving and I have better odds of getting what I need than if I was a JCPenney's or Sears clerk."

Dancing nude isn't something they train for, they said. They all call themselves entertainers and all say they love to dance, but their dances aren't choreographed or rehearsed. They just do what comes naturally.

The work is stress-free and pleasant, they say. Some of the girls think about mundane things while they are dancing, others say they think about school or about nothing at all.

Dancing is just a job. A very fun job.

"I'll probably be doing this when I'm 90," Jewels said, crossing her legs demurely, throwing her hair back. "If they'll let me."

they really don't like to talk about specific dollar figures.

They are required to report their earnings to the Internal Revenue Service, a computer in their dressing room is there to help them keep track of the money earned and the money owed as they go along, emptying their garters stuffed with cash.

Club Juana is considered one of the more upscale clubs in Seminole County. Dancers there adhere to a "no touch" rule: customers are not allowed to touch them except to put tips in their garters after a private dance.

When the ladies are on stage, they hold on to a bar that conducts electricity and anyone who touches them is rewarded with a mild electrical shock.

Gentlemen who choose not to adhere to the rule are escorted from the building. The dancers like that. It makes them feel secure, they said.

Some of the girls have worked at clubs where the dancers are fair game for a free feel here and there. They said they are just there to dance and don't want to be hassled.

The dancers have a sort of familial community.

They share clothing and help each other get ready for their shows. The "house mother", dressed in a smock and wielding makeup brushes and mascara, keeps them all in line.

"Mom...help!" calls out one of the girls, trying to apply makeup over a taboo tattoo. "Pleeeeeease..."

Mom bustles between the girls, most standing completely naked, looking through lockers or gym bags or in front of mirrors inspecting their faces and bodies.

Their dressing room is cramped, but bright. Lockers line two walls and are stacked in the middle of the room as well. A wall of mirrors is brightly lit for makeup application.

The club is dimly lit and accented with neon. The crowd is subdued, yet quietly appreciative of the beautiful bodies gyrating on the stage and in quiet corners.

Most of the customers are businessmen in shirts and ties. A few guys are settled in wearing T-shirts and shorts. A man and woman sit in one corner just watching the show intently, holding hands.

Owner Michael Pinter, who has run the club for 32 years said that is what people like about his club: the friendly atmosphere.

The girls said they enjoy talking with regular customers and getting to know them.

There are some customers who come in to talk to the bartender and who never even see the shows, they said.

forces you into things like offering lap dances, bumping and grinding your way to tips against a customer's groin.

"There's no art to that," she said. "It's not sexy. It's sex."

The girls shake their heads. They wouldn't want to do it.

But that's what the county is pushing the clubs toward, Pinter said. They're heading straight for bikini clubs.

"And, then, anyone with five or ten thousand dollars can open a club," Pinter said. "It just invites the unpleasant."

Pinter has put together a notebook with photos of clubs in the Jacksonville area where bikinis are required of dancers.

His selections show the worst possible scenarios, unpainted clubs with boarded up windows and dilapidated signs.

The clubs are next door to schools, across the street from churches, and near residential areas.

But his point is clear: the clubs are not an enhancement to the community.

"These clubs are shame," he said. "They destroy the communities where they are located. I don't think this is what the people of Seminole County want."

Commissioners' big day Tuesday

Seminole County commissioners Tuesday will put aside their differences and roll up their sleeves to fine-tune an adult entertainment ordinance that Chairman Randy Morris says is unprecedented, probably the toughest in the country. He expects a long court battle with nude dance club owners, as the county attempts to erase so-called sleaze and what it can spawn.

Commissioners will also decide, after two years, who will rescue and transport county residents who call 9-1-1 in need of emergency medical care. That battle has come down to a choice between county EMT firefighters taking over the operation; leaving it the way it is, with some transport being done by LifeFleet/Atlantic Ambulance; or privatizing the operation by turning the whole thing over to LifeFleet.

The county staff advisers and a consulting firm have recommended the county be awarded the service. Calls to the county and calls and letters the Sanford Herald has received indicate the vast majority of citizens favor the county or the combined service now in place over privatization.

We feel the commissioners should listen to the citizens who have relied on the service in the past, the citizens who have faith in our county rescue service and abide by those citizens' wishes. Leave the system as it is, or award it to the county.

As for the adult entertainment ordinance...our first thought is that someone once said you can never go wrong underestimating the taste of the American public. We find it sad that a once-eloquent profession that included the likes of Blaze Starr, Gypsy Rose Lee and (an dancer) Ann Rand, who, costumed in only feathers, performed regularly in Orlando during the 1930s, has degenerated into pandering to the basal cravings of man: Choreographically-challenged nude dancing.

We agree with county commissioners that stringent regulations need to be enacted, but we caution that a complete ban in our county raises serious challenge to the Constitution. The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that nude dancing short of obscenity is protected freedom of expression.

Residents in our county have stereotyped the women who work in these establishments, and would like for them all to go away, according to calls to commissioners. We sense some hypocrisy here. Obviously, everyone in the county is not opposed to these establishments, or they wouldn't exist. The women who work there would not earn four to 10 times what they are paid at a traditional woman's job.

As hard as some have tried, you cannot legislate morality. Commissioners must balance the rights of all citizens. We would hope the new ordinance cracks down dramatically on illegal activities, such as prostitution and drugs, and stringently limits the areas available to these businesses. And by upholding First Amendment rights of free expression, perhaps, someday, the likes of Blaze Starr will be back.

Mass transportation or mass mistake?

Finally, the story is coming to light. McLain, a Seminole County Commissioner and the chairman of the Lynx board has announced that he thinks that the RegioSprinter, the rail car brought to Orlando by U.S. Representative Mica, may be the way to go. What wasn't mentioned is that Lynx, according to news reports, paid 10 or more, thousands of dollars to bring the car to the Orlando area. Does it surprise you that McLain and Mica would now think that we should change directions? How much insight, or knowledge, does Mayor Dale of Sanford have regarding transportation systems? He also supports the idea.

Lynx is operating at a 77% deficit according to information supplied. Do we want to add more deficit spending programs? Why aren't other transportation systems that claim to reduce or eliminate deficit spending, because of low operational costs and private investment, being considered?

What about running heavy freight and commuters on the same line? Not legal, at this time, as far as I know. If changes were made would it be safe? Who is willing to bear the responsibility of heavy freight and commuter trains using the same line. How will CSX officials respond to the possible consequences of this scenario? What about the Florida Department of Transportation?

In the meantime, while all of this is being decided by a few, the public is footing the bill. The money being spent is public money. We're spending millions to promote the Light Rail and thousands to bring in the RegioSprinter. There are buses not in use and others running almost empty. There isn't a well thought out comprehensive transportation plan and apparently little cooperation between various agencies. Tax money raised for roads has been grossly misused and toll roads are not affordable to most people. There is little support from the public and lack of trust. We are heavy on administration and absent of VISION.

All who are involved in the process of seeking a mass transportation system for Central Florida should be giving thought to a Personal Rapid Transportation System.

One month from now an elevated PRT system, that can be used on I-4 or anywhere, will have overwhelming support from the public. What will our representatives do then?

After 30 years and 17 government studies the case has been made for transportation change. It's time to move forward and truly create a mass transportation system that will serve a large segment of the public and will be USED! I believe there are federal funds available to invest in a PRT system for Central Florida. The perfect area to showcase new technology.

Here, briefly, is my vision for Central Florida...We should put in place a PRT (Personal Rapid Transit) system with 45 and 75 mile an hour express lanes interfacing Lynx buses with the stations. Run the PRT to all airports, colleges, etc.

Use as much of the I-4 corridor as possible and other available right-of-way that can be easily accessible while purchasing new right-of-way to complete the system as we have mapped out to serve all of Central Florida.

Reduce the cost of the toll roads to $25.00 a month with an E-PASS. Lower the overall costs for others. If necessary subsidize the toll roads by using some of the present road funding via referendum. The more people that use the toll roads and mass transportation system the less need there is for expansion of city and county roads. That is how it should be!

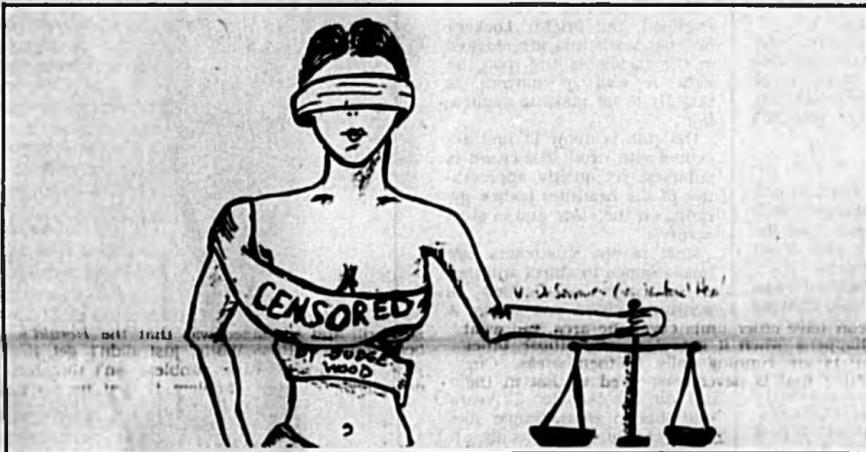

Put in place public and private ventures to subsidize the cost of the system.

Remember, the public is everyone. A person without a car and someone who may own a multi-million dollar company...both must be served. One who needs to get to work and the other who needs to reach further out for employees, access to airports and much more. If all are served the system will be successful and will not run a deficit. It may very well run a substantial profit.

We must not only strive to serve necessary ridership but also strive to create ridership. That is why a PLAZA in Orlando should be the hub and all other stations should have COMMERCIAL VALUE.

The PLAZA should be a large multi-story shopping and entertainment center and hub where interfacing with the PRT system, Lynx buses, and limousine style small buses serving downtown Orlando and other forms of transportation (such as taxi cabs) take place. From the PLAZA (hub) you will have easy transportation to all city activities as well as those throughout Central Florida.

There are many new innovations regarding the PLAZA that cannot be explained in this brief column but the PLAZA is not only very functional, it is an attraction, a landmark.

Seminole County vs. South Africa

Here is a quiz. What ostracized and embargoed country classified their citizens as White and Non-White and severely restricted the Non-White civil rights and freedoms? South Africa--right? What Florida county classifies its children as Black and Non-Black and severely restricts the Non-Black's civil rights and freedoms? Did you guess Seminole County?

Would you have ever guessed Seminole County?

The consent Decree signed by the Seminole County Public Schools creates an apartheid system such as was displaced by most freedom loving countries when in effect in South Africa. The Decree classifies children in Seminole County as Black or non-Black. It provides the means and the methods to separate elementary aged brothers and sisters into different schools. It separates races in favor of quotas. It provides a requirement that the School System create two levels of education for elementary school students--magnet and non-magnet. It creates a quota system to determine who can participate in superior and non-superior levels of education. It is affirmative action yet it discriminates against all races. It is but the tip of the iceberg--with middle school controls from the Justice Department yet to come.

Why? According to best sources, when the Justice Department looks at maps showing each student in their residence and color codes them by race, there are clumps of color in residential areas at Midway, Goldsboro, Altamonte Springs and Oviedo. Too much color signifies to the Justice Department that schools in those areas still have vestiges of racism. What a wagonload of cow paddies! Pardon the language folks, but when the Justice Department bulls stroll through the playground, that's what they leave behind. It's not about stamping out segregation. Show me where the School System is still practicing the racism that caused the Justice Department to intervene 27 years ago. Show me the people still in the School System who practice the racism of 27 years ago. There's more than a quarter million new residents in this county since the suit was filed...are they the racist citizens and currently elected officials who are causing the Justice Department to punish our children?

This isn't about segregation, if it was, the Justice Department could utilize more effective methods to deal with the problem. How can they view residential areas with high Black density as bad for schools and yet allow the Federal Government to spend billions of tax dollars to build, maintain and even subsidize affordable housing and rent controlled projects in those same areas? If the Justice Department really wanted to wipe out the practices they claim cause segregation, they would control the sale of real estate. The exercise where they tracked every student by race, sex and age by household, shows that they have the ability to determine the racial makeup of geographic areas within the county which do not meet their description of racially balanced. Don't forget rent control either--government restrictions like the Consent Decree are largely ignored by renters who will pick up and move to another school district at the drop of a hat to avoid 2 hour bus rides for kindergarten aged children. You only have to look at elementary school mobility rates exceeding 50% per year to understand that a large part of our school makeup is the children of people who rent rather than own.

It would be simple for the Federal Government to solve the Sanford Black density problem--they could just suspend our civil rights (just as they have suspended your children's) and only let real estate transactions--both sales and rentals--take place which meet the criteria of 15% Black and 85% Non-Black. Soon Midway and Goldsboro would be Non-Black communities. And if the sales or rentals didn't occur rapidly enough, they could tax all Seminole County citizens to establish "an aggressive marketing program" to convince home buyers to buy and renters to rent in selected areas.

Did you find the ideas in this discussion offensive--I'd surely hope so. This type of deprivation of human rights is what happens in Third World countries. It's not what is happening in a theater near you--it's what's beginning to happen in your school system. Schools are for learning--why can't the Federal Government understand that? Especially before the school system is gutted by student flight to private schools and other public school districts. Indianapolis had 119,000 students before the Justice Department intervened. They had 49,000 when a Federal Judge overturned their Consent Decree and agreed to let them return to neighborhood schools last month.

Is that to be our fate?

Lions Club salute

Today there are many service clubs and organizations that raise money for disability causes, but one of the oldest and most respected clubs is the Lions Club. The Lions are probably best known for their diligent work with the sight impaired. Let's start out with a little history lesson on the Lions.

They were started in 1917 by an insurance agent named Melvin Jones who had an idea to start a group without regard to race, religion or economic gain. This was a vast departure of other groups at the time which were formed for a more commercial reason. After a conference, the Lions were born on June 7, 1917 starting with a group of 25 independent clubs. Officially the organization is called "The International Association of Lions Clubs."

There are over 35,000 Lion's Clubs around the world in over 157 countries and geographical areas with a membership of over 358,000. Besides their work with the sight impaired and sight conservation, some of the Lions' other community service activities include: diabetes awareness, drug awareness, hearing and speech action (as well as working with the deaf) and environmental services.

All of the above causes are part of what the Lions are all about. One of its major objectives is to take an active interest in the civic, cultural, social and moral welfare of the community which leads us to one of the hardest working Lions Clubs in Central Florida, "The Longwood-Lake Mary Lions Club".

"The Longwood-Lake Mary Lions Club" has become an institution in Central Florida and it has been doing it for almost a quarter of a century, starting in 1974. They meet the first and third Tuesday of each month at the Ramada Inn North in Longwood on 434 by I-4. For information call (407)862-4000, Extension 302.

The current president is Lots Workman. Her husband Gyle is the treasurer. He is a long time member and driving force of the club. Gyle's other accomplishments include stint's as president of the Florida Lions Foundation for the Blind and president of the North Florida Eye Bank. The Longwood-Lake Mary Lions Club is active in many of the Lions leading causes such as:

The Florida Statewide Organ and Tissue Donor Program, in conjunction with the state; The Florida Lions Camp, which is now 20 years old; Southeastern Guide Dogs Inc., started in 1982, located

The fight for county emergency medical service LifeFleet\Atlantic Seminole County

As an emergency medical technician with LifeFleet/Atlantic Ambulance for 6-1/2 years and a firefighter/EMT for 2 years, I feel I must respond to the barrage of newspaper articles recently about the transport issue in Seminole County and to the county firefighters who ask me why I still work for the "scum ambulance." It seems every article published in the paper shows just one side of the story. For example, in the Orlando Sentinel Local & State on Wednesday, May 28th, there is an article about how the county commission has lost its "last bit of integrity" on the issue of throwing out LifeFleet's bid due to unclear information. What it doesn't say is that the county, on previous bid processes not related to EMS, has allowed other companies to clear up confusing information. In fact, the Seminole County Purchasing Code, Chapter 200 states under "Correction or Withdrawal of Bids," "Correction of withdrawal of inadvertently erroneous bids before or after bid opening, or cancellation of awards or contracts based on such bid mistakes, may be permitted where appropriate." I guess the county feels that if they can disqualify our bid, it reduces their competition.

On May 30th, a headline read "County bid wins round in ambulance fight." Isn't the county grading the bids a little biased? Say you were going to have someone paint your house and you decided to have your brother find you a painter. Your brother says he can do it for $500 and he found a professional painter that can do it for $400. If you go to your brother and say which one is the best deal, who do you think he is going to choose? I realize choosing who can provide the best emergency service is a lot bigger decision, but you should get the idea. Don't you want a fair, impartial grading of the bids?

Sanford Herald, May 14th edition, headline "Rescue by hook or crook." This article says that although LifeFleet's bid is less, revenue generated by the county would "come back to the county." Is the money that LifeFleet received sent into some black hole of a vault, never to be seen in this county again? Where do you think LifeFleet's approximately 70 employees live? Most of us live here in Seminole County. We pay taxes here, we own homes here, and we shop here. Do you want these people to lose their jobs? Look in the classified section of the newspaper. There are not a lot of companies hiring emergency medical technicians or paramedics right now. LifeFleet has publicly stated they will give priority hiring to any firefighters the county lays off. I don't recall hearing a reciprocal statement by the county. All the firefighter's union can talk about is that 66 of their dues paying members may be laid off. Actually these personnel can be reduced through attrition. LifeFleet's personnel will be reduced to standing in the unemployment line. It seems funny that Seminole County, which gives companies tax incentives to entice them to move here, is trying to put 70 people out on the streets.

SHAWN TRELOAR

One thing that is repeatedly mentioned in both newspapers is that if LifeFleet gets the contract, the award winning "First Response System" will end. If it does, it's the fault of politics, not of LifeFleet. Why is LifeFleet being blamed because the cities won't send units out of the city limits because "What if one of our citizens needs that rescue?" Politics tells those rescuers where they can and cannot respond. LifeFleet will respond anywhere in the county regardless of jurisdiction. The other night, we responded to a cardiac arrest just north of Oviedo. Did Oviedo respond to the alarm since they were the closest units? No, station 42, which is in Geneva responded. Why? I don't know. As an emergency medical technician, I could care less about jurisdictional boundaries; all I care about is helping the person that needs it. I guess the cities only care about their taxpayers and their politics.

Did you ever hear the old adage, "If it's not broke, don't fix it." Leave the system the way it is. This isn't the county's or LifeFleet's official view, but I bet they would both agree to it. It provides three "rapids," rapid initial response, rapid transport of the patient to the hospital, and rapid return of service for the fire department in case of another call in their area. Without the dreaded "duplication of services" that so many fire department officials are against, you run the risk of having whole areas of the county without protection during busy periods. The fire department rescue that currently is available to respond to another alarm as soon as the private transport unit departs to the hospital with the patient instead of transporting, which may delay them over an hour. The fire department says they can have other units cover the area, but what happens when it gets busy and those other units are running calls in their areas. One thing that is never mentioned is that in the county's bid, they only have 9 transport units on the road. LifeFleet has promised 14. More units mean faster response when you or your family member is sick. What happens when the county's nine units are busy? Who is going to respond then?

Several months ago, The Board of County Commissioners was debating the need for a Big six auditing firm to formulate and issue a Request for Proposals on the Emergency Medical Services Debate. Commissioner Randy Morris made a prophetic statement: He felt that the board would spend $65,000 and several months; The net result of this expenditure of time and money would be precisely ZERO. The board would still have to make the decision! Commissioner Daryl McLain adopted the same position and time has proven Commissioners Morris and McLain to be correct.

Here we are some weeks later faced with the same pesky decision. The results of all the numerous boards and committees are in, and nothing has changed: the Fire Department entered this race a winner and by any measure they emerge as winners. The big six accounting firm of Deloitte and Touche (as part of the rating committee) rated the Fire Rescue Division 15.2 on a scale of 16. If there was any partiality shown by the auditing firm, one would think it would be to the board, as they hired the company. The next closest competitor to the Fire Department is LifeFleet Atlantic Inc. They were rated 12.85.

There have been changes as a result of this expenditure of time and money by the board. A primary change is that the citizens have become extremely upset over the commissioners vacillating over this issue. So upset, that several thousand of them have signed a petition demanding that the Fire Rescue Division be given the contract for Emergency Medical Services. A far smaller number have picked up the paper work necessary to initiate a recall election on one or more of the commissioners.

The board also voted to disregard the recommendation of Ms. Kelly Loll (Purchasing Manager) and included the LifeFleet Atlantic proposal, even though it deviated from the proposal criteria. This was probably a good thing as the Fire Rescue Division beat their hands down once again. But in going against Ms. Loll, the board lost (in the words of commissioner Morris) the last bit of integrity it retained on this issue.

There have been other bench mark occurrences on this issue such as a late night vote reversal that will forever keep the Yankee Lake Vote company.

Richard Criswell is the president of the Seminole County Professional Firefighters I.A.F.F. Local 3254

This issued has carried on for 18 months and has taxed everyone to the limit. It has threatened a First Response System that would be the envy of any city or county in North America; and for what! On Tuesday the 10th of June, the board will once again have this issue before them. What will the board choose to do, extend, delay or perhaps take the first step toward re-establishing the credibility and integrity it has lost as a result of it's handling of this issue. In every arena that the fire service has stepped into in the last two years they have won on the merits of the system and make no mistake they have faced some formidable opponents; The Program Review Committee, LifeFleet Atlantic Inc., and last but not least, the open scrutiny of the public they serve.

June 10th, 1997-Just another day-or could it be the day the board takes the first step toward re-establishing the credibility and integrity that it has lost by awarding an earned and justly deserved contract for Emergency Medical Services to the Fire Rescue Division. Will this happen, who can tell? As a resident of Seminole County, I am going to attend the June 10th (1:30 pm) meeting at the County Services Building in Sanford. It could decide the future of Public Safety in Seminole County. June 10th, 1997-Just another day? Maybe...I'm going to be there to find out. What about you?

Beat the press...

For weeks now, I've been operating under the assumption that the reason the Sanford Herald coverage of the County's EMS debate has been so shrill and one-sided was that the Herald's best reporter, Russ White, just didn't get it. Well, I was wrong. Russ' problem isn't that he doesn't get it. Russ' problem is that he can't run with it. The issue is too big, too complex to fit snugly into his football-game notion of the way county government should operate. Russ seems far less interested in reporting the facts in this story than he does in declaring one side (in this case, county staff) the home team, one side (LifeFleet/Atlantic) the visitors, and blaming the referees (the county commission) if things don't turn out.

So he calls us names, hints darkly at motive and continues to beat the drum for the firefighters and their union. Any vote that departs from Russ' pre-conceived party line he reports as "men behaving badly".

For the record, LifeFleet/Atlantic supported my opponent three years ago in the Republican Party primary. The decisions we supposedly have "bungled," the decision to require competitive bids for the ambulance contract and the decision to hire an impartial third party to judge them; now stand to save the taxpayers $800,000 a year. Russ' number, not mine.

Tuesday, Russ described me as "boorish," for refusing to go along with the county's purchasing manager, Kelly Loll, in disqualifying one private-sector bid (and thereby allowing county staff to win by default). I was "doubly wrong," he said, for having the temerity to suggest a perceived conflict of interest. I was "seriously trying to corrupt," the purchasing process. Had to be.

What Russ didn't report was that I met privately with Kelly prior to the public hearings and told her to stick to her guns, and that I praised her in the work session that morning for having the courage and professionalism to make a call in a tight situation.

The plain truth of the matter is that I do not believe you can ask county staff to compete with the private sector for millions of dollars of taxpayer business, and then allow that same staff to disqualify one of the companies it's competing against. That would be like asking

Win Adams is an elected Seminole County commissioner.

Dennis Rodman to referee the NBA finals.

When I took office, I was determined to prove that private business and county staff could compete on a level playing field. (I also proposed a five percent reduction in county staff; another heretical idea). That's why I've pushed so hard to bring a Big Six accounting firm into the process, and to allow that process to go forward to the end.

The competition has been spirited and, at times, highly-charged. Dozens of jobs are at stake. So are lives. All sides want to win. (To its credit, the county's Public Safety Department is competing more like a private business, with a private business.)

But it's not football.

I can't tell you which way the bid goes Tuesday, June 10, but I can tell you the process will be concluded fairly and even-handedly. And, ultimately, the Seminole County citizens will win.

That's my side.

A tough ordinance on county's adult entertainment businesses

On June 10th and June 24th the Seminole County Commission will be voting on new Adult Entertainment Ordinances. As they are currently worded, they are some of the toughest ordinances in the state--something long overdue.

Many residents are concerned with the expansion of adult entertainment (i.e. nude dance, scrub shops, rent a dungeon, etc.) in Seminole County. Their concerns are justified. The secondary effects that these businesses have on a community are well documented. There are increases in drug abuse, prostitution, sexually transmitted diseases, and decreasing property values. I can think of no other "industry" that has this impact.

Recently, attention has been focused on the two nude clubs that opened illegally. Yes, these clubs need to be dealt with. However, the real problems are not so much the two that opened, yet rather the seven that are operating.

As we approach the public hearings, I believe that the Commission needs to stay focused on the goal of passing the toughest regulations that we can expect to win in the courts. Our proposed ordinance is exactly that.

The adult entertainment industry seems most concerned about two provisions that we are proposing. One is the Public Nudity Ordinance and the other is that we have no grandfather clause regarding land use on existing businesses (they will have to comply to new rules or close).

Already some scare tactics have been thrown out claiming that our proposed ordinance will lose in court and the ridiculous notion it will foster "bikini clubs" and even more adult entertainment. I believe these are words of panic from a porn industry that realizes they are facing tough restrictions that will hold up in court. The most they would like to do is paint their buildings to blend with the community and have their dancers wear g-strings.

I am afraid this would not help the deteriorating condition of south Seminole County one bit. Stronger actions are needed. That's exactly what our proposed Adult Entertainment Ordinances are...strong actions. With the continued support of the community and the Commissioners, hopefully we can say this tough proposed ordinance is a tough enacted ordinance on adult entertainment.

Award EMS contract to county firefighters

Russ White's article, "County Rescue Service Tops The Field," invites comment.

Please include me in that group of citizens "urging the commissioners to award the fire-rescue division with the EMS contract." Even though my social and fiscal conservative being instinctively distrusts a bureaucracy, I have to admit that a need exists for both fire and rescue service. Seminole County has already spent the money to hire, equip, and train fire crews and Emergency Medical Service (EMS) crews worthy of praise by many professionals in their fields of work. They are welcome sights to victims of vehicle accidents, building fires, grass fires, forest fires, and home health emergencies. They are also available for plane crashes, train wrecks, natural disasters and other missions I may not even know about. Why not let these winning teams do the work they are trained to do and pocket the money they made as icing on the cake?

To do otherwise would be to subsidize a corporate EMS crew with a County owned fire truck and crew on many First Response calls. The term

"Corporate Welfare" would then have a whole new meaning, would it not? To do otherwise might also mean layoffs for some of our highly trained Emergency Medical Service personnel as well. That would be a poor reward for a job well done.

Let us hope that County Commissioners will learn the difference between cutting fat and cutting muscle from a bureaucracy and award the EMS contract to the Fire Services Division. They would also give taxpayers a break, for a change.

Satisfied with fire rescue service

I have lived in Sanford for 70 years and I have seen a lot of changes.

This bunch of County Commissioners is the worst I have ever seen, they act like a bunch of little kids.

It makes a person wonder if they are getting something to go against the taxpayers wishes.

I have used the fire rescue on a number of occasions, I am well satisfied with the treatment they gave me and on four occasions I had to wait on the ambulance to be transported.

I would like the County Commission to tell me where I could get better service than the fire-rescue.

I have diabetes, kidney failure and high blood pressure and a history of heart failure. When I call 911 I like to know I am getting the best with the fire-rescue.

No respect

Once again the Seminole County School Board has shown the Sanford Community no respect and maybe they are right in doing so. If the parents in the Sanford area are not going to stand up and demand an equal opportunity for their kids, then they should not expect any respect.

My opinion comes from a school board workshop session that I attended on May 13th to support Seminole High School Swim Coach Tony Ackerson's efforts to build a community aquatic facility at the school. I listened to Larry Furlong go back in time talking about Sanford voting no to a swimming pool in 1991 (less than 300 people voted in a little publicized election), which was later built at Lake Brantley Responsible Government Takes Courage...

This Tuesday, the Seminole County Commission will have the opportunity to provide an improved EMS system that will serve its citizens well into the 21st Century.

LifeFleet Atlantic is proposing a system supported by 14 full-time ambulances with a state-of-the-art tracking system. . . 5 more ambulances than any other bidder.

LifeFleet Atlantic's proposal will save Seminole County taxpayers over $7 million more than any other proposal.

LifeFleet Atlantic is committed to holding its first year rates to the same level they have remained over the last 3 years.

LifeFleet Atlantic, the only bidder to post a $1 million bond to guarantee its responsibility to the citizens of Seminole County.

LifeFleet Atlantic, backed by the medical and financial resources of American Medical Response, the largest EMS provider in North America.

Courage to make the right decision based on performance and financial responsibility must be the Commissioner's guidepost for the selection of an EMS provider for Seminole County. We are confident they know the facts, and will make one of the toughest decisions you have elected them to make.

Support their courage. . . support their leadership prohibited any new establishments opening until the county had its new adult-entertainment ordinance in effect June 30. VIP Gold opened for business in late March just after the moratorium began.
. . . support their decision.

"You can operate as a restaurant, serve liquor, and function as a dance hall but no more are this or bare that - no nude dancing," Wood told VIP owner Sean McCabe and his attorney, Bill Trees.

In essence the judge was saying, yes, the Supreme Court of the United States classified nude dancing as a freedom of expression, but local governments have rights also to do what they believe is in the best interests of their citizens.

Attorney Ken Wright, from the Shutts & Bowen law firm, called Friday's decision a "huge victory for the citizens of Seminole County." "It shows what can happen in a longer hearing when you are allowed to give a full argument."

Delayed that the county had only a half-hour to make its plea to Judge Dickey's court on Wednesday. Wright said he now was filing a motion to rehear the case.

On the heels of a victory in Dickey's court, Trees made a motion Friday morning to dismiss the VIP Gold hearing - a motion Judge Wood emphatically denied. Wood told Trees and McCabe that VIP Gold was "operating illegally," but could apply for a license when the county's new ordinance went into effect.

"I don't want any fancy games either," the judge advised Wright, explaining that once the county commissioners pass their ordinance, they also must make certain a licensing request by VIP Gold is handled expeditiously.

Wood said he believed that in working for the citizens of the county, the BCC had every right to ask for sufficient time to draw up a new adult-entertainment ordinance. The county's present code is 18-years-old, and badly in need of updating.

Trees on Wednesday successfully argued that the moratorium was a moot point because the county's ordinance states it is not designed to restrict constitutionally protected freedom of expression.

The Supreme Court in prior cases has held nude dancing a protected freedom. Judge Dickey agreed.

But, if Trees expected a dismissal or even a quick kyo as he scored for Sassy Merlot's on Wednesday, he had to realize he was in for a tough go Friday.

At the start and again at the close, Judge Wood questioned the hypocrisy of Trees' representing two nude dancing clubs while also being an attorney for the business owners who are upset that the county may allow adult entertainment businesses to open at Midway Commerce Park.

Trees shuffled his feet and shrugged his shoulders at Wood's baiting.

McCabe threatened to make the county pay dearly for what happened Friday. "They've exposed themselves to full liability," he said, angrily.

County

dependent auditing firm also favors the division. The county's office of management and budget and the purchasing department have advised the BCC to pick the county.

But whoa? Is this what's right asks Van Der Weide, Maloy and Adams. "Can we really trust our staff?"

Adams has the so-called swing vote. Morris and McLain are for the county division. Van Der Weide and Maloy almost never agree with Morris and McLain and vice versa. Adams called for the RFP and the Bix Six auditing firm (Deloitte & Touche) to direct the process. Will he now agree with their findings? Hey, he's got the last shot.

All five commissioners seem together on the adult entertainment issue - but not necessarily the method to freeze the sleaze. Maloy dreams of a county without nudes. No nudes being good news. He disagreed at how Morris went out to hire the law firm of Shutts & Bowen to represent the county. Should have had the BCC vote on it, he said. Nonsense, said Morris, no more delays.

And then it was discovered McLain was a fishing buddy of Shutts & Bowen attorney Ken Wright, a big victor for the county in court on Friday. Okay, who's sorry now? And what will the commissioners have to disagree about Tuesday when they attempt to agree on the county's new and approved adult-entertainment ordinance? Perspiring minds want to know.

To "be more effective," principals suggested Hagerty should:

"stick to (his) gut feelings about the issues

"utilize/implement recommendations when committees are formed

"practice small talk

"allow principals to have more access to (him) if necessary

"fund more reading teachers in the middle schools

"let some decision making trickle down to building level administrators

"develop an administrative career system

"allow principals a little more than 15 minute end-of-year audiences

"schedule meetings on a more frequent basis to dialogue with members of the black community

"motivate all of us to improve student achievement."

They suggested the following priority items to consider during the budget development process:

"give school more control over personnel allocations

"...a more pro-active approach to discipline and technology by funding a behavioral and a technology specialist

"consider an equitable funding plan to help schools increase technology on each campus

"smaller classes for identified children with learning problems

"realize that elementary schools have needs that match that of our secondary counterparts

"provide more capital outlay money for older schools

"provide funding for a limited sports program at the middle schools

"provide a grade level reading teacher at middle school to address remedial reading needs

"allow some of the Advanced Placement funds to filter down to the elementary and middle schools."

The school district has not yet polled the teachers to see how they feel about how the superintendent is doing his job.

NOTICE TO CHANGE OF PERMITTED, CONDITIONAL OR PROHIBITED LAND USES

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE CITY OF LONGWOOD, FLORIDA, that the City Commission will conduct a second reading and public hearing of Ordinance 97-1351 to consider adoption of a Land Development Code pursuant to the requirements of Chapter 163.3202, FS on June 16, 1997 at 7:00 PM, or as soon thereafter as possible.

This hearing will be held in the City Commission Chambers located at 175 W. Warren Avenue, one block west of CR 427 and two blocks north of SR 434, in Longwood. Interested parties are advised that this hearing may be continued to a future date, or dates.

ORDINANCE # 97-1351

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF LONGWOOD, FLORIDA, REPEALING ORDINANCE NO. 495, AS AMENDED, SAID ORDINANCE BEING APPENDIX A (THE ZONING ORDINANCE) OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE OF THE CITY OF LONGWOOD, FLORIDA; REPEALING ORDINANCE 971, A MORATORIUM ON BILLBOARD CONSTRUCTION; REPEALING CERTAIN SECTIONS OF THE CITY CODE CONCERNING OTHER ASPECTS OF LAND DEVELOPMENT REGULATION; REPLACING THE REPEALED SECTIONS WITH A NEW CHAPTER 24 OF THE CITY CODE; SAID CHAPTER 24 BECOMING THE OFFICIAL LAND DEVELOPMENT CODE FOR THE CITY OF LONGWOOD; SAID CODE PROVIDING FOR PERMITTED, CONDITIONAL AND ACCESSORY USES; PROVIDING FOR SIGN AND BILLBOARD CONTROLS; PROVIDING FOR REDUCING THE REVIEW PROCESS; PROVIDING FOR LOCATION OF TELECOMMUNICATION TOWERS; PROVIDING FOR OTHER LAND DEVELOPMENT REGULATIONS; AND PROVIDING FOR CONFLICTS, SEVERABILITY AND EFFECTIVE DATE.

LONGWOOD

A copy of the proposed Land Development Code is available for public review in the Community Services Department at 174 W. Church Avenue, Longwood from 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM beginning June 4, 1997.

At this hearing, interested parties may appear and be heard with respect to this matter. Persons with disabilities needing assistance to participate in any of these proceedings should contact the ADA Coordinator at 407-260-3481, at least 48 hours in advance of the meeting.

Pursuant to the requirements of Chapter 286.0105, FS, all persons are advised that to appeal any decision made at these meetings, the appeal must be based on the public record made during consideration of this matter. Since the City of Longwood does not provide verbatim minutes of its meetings, it is the responsibility of an appellant to create verbatim minutes at their own expense.

High School.
He also stated that only 20 very emotional people called to support the pool and it was not the school system's obligation to teach kids to swim. Jeanne Morris stated that the Board needed to look at a learn to swim program with busing to the two pools at Lake Brantley and Lyman. County wide busing instead of building facilities - sounds cost effective!

Bob Goff supported building an aquatic facility at Seminole High and stated that the Board should look for possible funding. Barbara Kuhn stated that the State building funds could not be used for building a swimming pool and seemed to be more concerned about upsetting the political powers in Tallahassee than what is happening in Sanford.

Of course, Superintendent Hagerly was definitely sure that he was not sure about funding for an aquatic facility. Chairman Sandy Robinson, who seemed to be proud of the fact that she did not know how to swim, closed the discussion by stating the Board will not provide funding for a swimming pool as the current funding did not allow money to be spent on athletic facilities, but would agree to provide land on the Seminole High campus to build a facility providing Coach Ackerson's supporters can find the funding.

On May 23rd, the School Board announced a $37 million transformation of Lake Brantley, which includes a softball field, football and band practice field, new gym, sports practice field, and six new tennis courts - ATHLETIC FACILITIES! Money became available for the most politically active, affluent school zone in Seminole County.

The issue is more than a community aquatic facility in Sanford. It is the fair distribution of funds in one of the most affluent counties in Florida. The Sanford community leaders and parents must support the efforts of Mayor Larry Dale to build a community pool on the Seminole High campus as well as the postponed tennis courts and other modern facilities needed for your children. Get active in your community! Call members of the Seminole County School Board, Seminole County Commission and your Congressmen. Demand your share of the funds to improve your community. RESPECT is earned, not given!

Oh, the debt we're in!

In a recent letter I commented that the debt of the Seminole County Commission went from $14 million in 1981 to $144 million in 1991, and that the debt now stands at $195 million with a $38 million bond issue in the works for a courthouse expansion and renovation project. Total: $233 million.

Your readers should know that the Seminole County School Board, as of June 30, 1996, has us in debt to the tune of $232 million, and a most reliable source tells me that this debt will probably reach $280 million. Add the two together, and we residents of Seminole County will be in hock for over a half billion dollars. Remember: This is what we owe, not what it will cost to pay it back. How much will it cost? A guess is something over $1 billion. And this does not include the indebtedness of the municipalities in our county.

The reason for this indebtedness is the unbridled growth that has been foisted upon us by past and present tax and spend liberals of the County Commission who have been and are somewhat socialist minded. Growth does not pay for itself, and our elected officials, at the county level, have not forced developers to pay what they should have paid. State Senator Ostalkiewicz recently stated, with reference to a proposed tax in Orange County, "that our growth-related problems are caused by too much development without requiring all developers to pay for the consequences. Instead some Orange County politicians expect the taxpayers to pay for a problem they did not create."

The same is true in Seminole County. The taxpayers are being forced to pay for a problem they did not create. In addition, these tax and spend liberals are giving away our tax dollars to businesses under the guise of a jobs incentive program. You figure it out! We have an unemployment rate of 3.3%. What we have is a nice touch of socialism, also known as corporate welfare.

This whole matter is insane, and the largest paper in this area is pushing growth to feed its insatiable appetite for more circulation and advertising dollars. Why else would it push growth?

We need look no further than Orange County with its nightmare to understand that we are not far behind and need to take action to force growth to pay 100% for the problems it causes.

I must state that the School Board, in the main, reacts to problems brought on by growth; however, some of its decisions leave much to be desired, e.g., a $520 million bond issue was turned down by the people (77% said no), but the School Board said to hell with the people we'll do as we please. The Taj Mahal in Sanford is evidence of this arrogance.

We need to support elected officials such as Grant Maloy and Bob Goff. I believe they can and will make a difference.

Fishing is no fun for bait

Recently, a PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals) employee and her husband found a seagull tangled in fishing line at a local park. "He was literally hanging upside down," she says, "down close to the water, and he had to hold his head up to keep from drowning. The line went all around, through both wings, over his shoulders, crisscrossed over his back, and around his legs." It took the couple 45 minutes to free the bird.

Angling is an animal-unfriendly sport--and it doesn't just hurt fish. Every year, countless animals and water birds become entangled in lost or discarded fishing line--some lose limbs, some their lives. Others fall victim to "impregnated baits" (plastic worms with scents inside them), which can look and smell like a swimming smorgasbord. A few years ago, a veterinarian in Florida discovered that some sick otters' intestines were full of undigested plastic worms.

When environmentalists called for a ban on lead sinkers, which poison birds, anglers raised a ruckus. The American Sportfishing Association complained that a ban would inflict "unnecessary hardship on fishermen." Non-toxic sinkers are readily available, but they're a little more expensive.

And don't forget about the "bait animals" you might find cowering inside a tackle box of worms, and small fish. Fishing is no fun for animals. PETA encourages anglers to pitch their poles and get hooked on outdoor activities like hiking, biking, and canoeing that doesn't leave a trail of tackle victims.

Help Us Find Solutions

How will the County's growth affect me and my quality of life?

When will this traffic congestion stop?

How do I make my community a safer place for my children to play and go to school?

What about mass transit?

How will the environment be protected?

Where will all the stormwater runoff go?

We need your help! This is your opportunity to speak out and have a say in the future growth and development of Seminole County. Working with you and your neighbors, we want to define community issues and evaluate potential solutions to your issues.

Seminole County is evaluating its Comprehensive Plan using Community Input from you and your neighbors. During May we recorded what you had to say about planning issues that you believe are important to maintain the quality of life in Seminole County.

Now, during June, meetings are being held to seek solutions to these identified issues (see map below for specific dates and places). Additional meetings will be held in August to address the future vision of Seminole County.

Please come and help us to creatively brainstorm these issues, and share your ideas with us and your neighbors. Seminole County wants to build partnerships with you, the community!

We want to hear your solutions to your issues dealing with the following topics:

YMCA to offer golf lessons

SANFORD — Local kids caught up in Tiger hysteria can take advantage of a really great deal.

Timacuan Golf and Country Club has teamed up with the Seminole Family YMCA to offer golf lessons for kids throughout the summer.

Kids will receive lessons in every facet of the game, including driving, putting, irons, rules, etiquette and all other parts of the sports.

Six weekly sessions are offered throughout the months of June and July and registration has already begun.

Call 321-8944 for more information.

Timacuan's not the only one taking advantage of the youth golf boom.

Head on over to Sabal Point which offers junior clinics at 45 minutes a pop for only $5.

Clubs will be provided; in fact, Sabal Point recommends not buying clubs until lessons are completed and a professional has a chance to evaluate the game. Once again, all facets of the game are studied.

Call 869-4622 for information. Heathrow Country Club is also at it. Last year's clinic was a success and it gives kids a chance to play one of Central Florida's best and most exclusive courses. Call 333-0169 for information.

Chip Shots

Speaking of junior golf, the Central Florida Junior Inter-Club Summer League has teed off. They play every Tuesday with teams consisting of six to eight juniors, with two girls included. The schedule is as follows.

- June 10 - Interlachen.
- June 17 - Timacuan.
- June 24 - Heathrow.
- July 1 - Sabal Point.
- July 8 - Sweetwater.
- July 15 - Rolling Hills.
- July 22 - Errol Estates.
- July 29 - Sabal Point.

Hole-in-ones came out in a pair at Timacuan as Sarah Baird and Kathryn Park each scored an ace last week. They were the ninth and 10th hole-in-one since Timacuan's grand reopening last fall.

Coming Events

- June 7: Oldsmobile Scramble Local Qualifier at Timacuan.
- June 20: Crimeline Charity Golf Tournament at Alauca Country Club.

Quota hunt applications are now available

SANFORD — Sportsmen who want to hunt on the state's public wildlife management areas (WMAs) need to begin making plans for the 1997-98 hunting season.

The first phase of the quota hunt program will begin June 1. Regular and special quota hunt applications are available from Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) regional offices, county tax collectors and their subagents.

The quota hunt program enables the GFC to control hunting pressure on Type 1 WMAs during specific time periods.

The quota, or maximum number of hunters allowed on an area, is based on each area's size, type of habitat, game populations and other factors.

Sportsmen wanting to hunt on a WMA during a quota hunt period must submit an application. Regular quota hunt applications are for permits to hunt during the first nine days of the general gun season and other general gun and modern gun hunts. The special hunt application is for archery and muzzleloading gun hunts.

To apply for quota hunt permits, hunters must purchase a WMA permit or a sportsman's, lifetime sportsman's, lifetime hunting or five-year hunting license, which includes a WMA permit.

The new license system no longer requires stamp tabs to be affixed to quota hunt applications. Hunters simply will write the number from the license card on the application form that has their WMA permit or sportsman's license privilege.

Permits are issued during the first phase through a random selection process of applications received (not postmarked) in the GFC's Tallahassee office from June 1 through 4:30 p.m. EDT, June 11. All applications must arrive at the GFC via a postal delivery service. Applications received after June 11 will compete on a first-come, first-served basis for left-over permits.

"I cannot emphasize enough the importance of submitting quota hunt applications before the random selection," said Eddie White, the GFC's quota hunt coordinator. "Last year, we received over 48,000 applications for the early selection process."

Forty-five percent of the regular nine-day hunts and 69 percent of the special hunts reach their quotas during the random selection. Many others have few permits remaining. For some of the hunts the demand is so great that hunters may be selected for a permit only once every 34

SHUPE'S SCOOP

It's hard to conceive of hunting season, but the southern portion OF SOUTH CAROLINA BEGINS ITS HUNTING SEASON FISHING ON AUGUST 15!!!

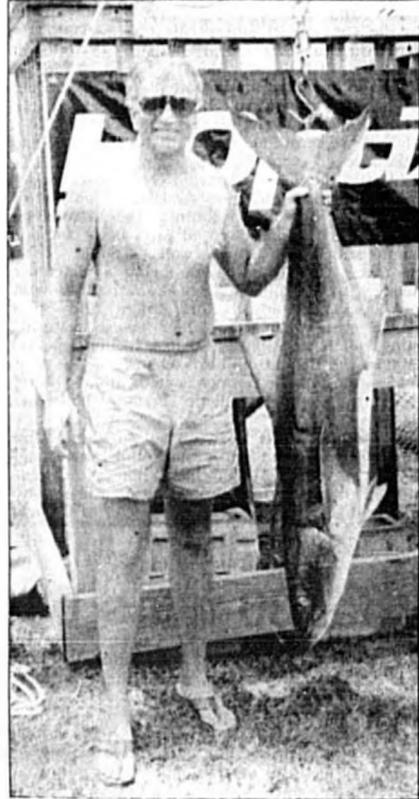

FISHING FORECAST

The Puzzle Lake area is still the top pick for bass in the 1-3 pound range. Small Rapalas and plastic worms are the top baits. Bream and catfish are hitting worms and mussels in the deep bends.

Snook season is closed at Sebastian Inlet, but redfish, flounder, jack crevalle and small snappers are keeping anglers happy. Large live shrimp and finger mullet are good baits. The last of the outgoing tide and the first of the incoming is the best phase.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore action is spotty. A few cobia and king mackerel are on Pelican Flats and 8-A Reefs. Writer Jim Shupe hauled in a hefty 66 pound cobia on 8-A last week-end. Dolphin and wahoo are scattered. Tripletail are in the buoy line, and sheepshead and flounder are biting inside the Port. Trout and redfish are fair on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Sheepshead and drum are the main attraction at Ponce Inlet. Small bluefish, a few redfish and jack crevalle round out the action. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoon, Jim Shupe poses with the 66-pound cobia he caught on 8-A Reef last weekend.

Van Swearingen earns A's on, off playing field

Junior Brie Van Swearingen was named to the Class 5A All-State second team last week after hitting .386 with two home runs, four triples, six doubles and 19 singles, while driving in 24 runs and leading Lake Mary High School to an undefeated Seminole Athletic Conference regular season. She was also selected as the Rams' Slugger of the Year at Lake Mary's post-season softball banquet.

LAKE MARY — When she hits the books, she makes the honor roll. When an out is needed at first base, she comes up with the play.

When she steps up to the plate, Brie Van Swearingen can crush the ball.

Before moving to Florida in her fourth grade year, Van Swearingen was a soccer player. However, a new Florida neighbor introduced her to slow pitch softball and Van Swearingen quickly realized that softball was the game she wanted to play.

"I can't explain why," Van Swearingen said. "But soccer just wasn't as big here. When my friend introduced me to softball, I played at first to have something to do. Then, when I got into the game, I really liked it and decided that I only wanted to play softball."

Not only did Van Swearingen like softball, but she was good at it.

These days, when a kid gets involved in a sport, they don't just play during the school season. There are summer leagues, winter tournaments, and extra practices with batting coaches in addition to school practices and games.

All of the practice has paid off for Van Swearingen. This season, she had a batting average of .386 with 19 singles, six doubles, four triples, two home runs and 24 RBI. Van Swearingen was named "Slugger of the Year" at the end of the year softball banquet. All that while making many great plays at first base.

Her combination of strong hitting and steady fielding earned Van Swearingen a selection as First Team All-Conference and Second Team All-State.

And that was just for her performance during the school season.

"My coach for the out of school leagues is Tommy Strazi and he has helped me so much," Van Swearingen said. "People watching the team think he yells a lot and might be mean. But we all know that when he yells at us, it's only because he knows we can do better. And everyone else doesn't see how much he jokes around with us and cares about us. He has really helped me to keep doing better and better."

Strazi has also helped Van Swearingen with her confidence. She said that hitting is contagious, once a team member starts hitting, it seems that the others follow suit. Van Swearingen was counted on a lot to get the hitting started this year. That's a lot of pressure on anyone.

"Sometimes I feel that I really need to get something started if someone else hasn't yet," Van Swearingen said. "But I also know that I just have to do the very best that I can. I am confident that I can hit the ball although sometimes I do get a little nervous. But if I don't, even though it does upset me, I try to learn from it and do better the next time."

Van Swearingen's parents have also been a great help to her. Both of them, especially her father, have been to every game, encouraged her to practice and keep her grades up, and spent countless hours with her in the batting cages.

"My dad has always been there for me," Van Swearingen explained. "He's been my coach, my supporter, my practice partner and my biggest fan. I have realized how important it is to have the support of my parents and how lucky I am that they come to all of my games and take the time to help me. My teammates always joke that if my parents aren't at the games, I don't hit."

Although her parents have never pushed Van Swearingen, they have tried to show her how important it is to be involved with a decent activity. Van Swearingen said that in her sophomore year she felt burn out.

She went to her parents and told them that she didn't want to play softball anymore. They told her it was fine but she could plan on spending a lot of time at home because they would not allow her to just run the streets with nothing to do and get into trouble. Van Swearingen took a hard look at everything and decided to stick with softball.

And she's glad she did, even though this year's season was a rocky one for the Lake Mary Rams.

At the start of the season, there were very high expectations for the young team. Van Swearingen stepped up to the task as did her teammates, but a well played season ended unexpectedly early.

Last year, Lake Mary lost to Oviedo in district competition and to Deland in regionals.

This year, the exact same thing happened.

"We were so mad last year when Oviedo took our dug out because they were the home team," Van Swearingen explained. "I think that's why we lost. But this year, I have no idea what happened. We beat Oviedo twice during the season so really there was no reason to not win in districts. We just couldn't seem to get it together for the big games regardless of the fact that we worked really hard and had a lot of talent."

Van Swearingen will be a senior next year, giving her one more shot at Oviedo. After that, she plans to attend college, where she wants to continue to play ball. She said that she loves children, and although it is a little early to pick a major, she hopes to do something, possibly teaching, with kids.

Until that time, summer league, winter tournaments, betting practice, and some type of a social life are enough for Van Swearingen to worry about.

Don't Let DOWN

Unfortunately, it is common for players to lose their own serve right after breaking an opponent's serve.

Be aware that you may let up after breaking serve. You should play aggressively and remember that your opponent is emotionally down. Try to finish him off!

on the Kumba team has some pretty impressive credentials off the field. How are these for some impressive accomplishments:

- Holly Carpenter is in the gifted and talented program and on the A/B honor roll.
- Melissa Carroll took third place in the county science fair and is on the honor roll.
- Kim Delp has a 4.0 grade point average.
- Brittany Ferrarini has a 3.5 grade point average.
- Kelly Fulgham took the SAT test as a seventh-grader and has been an A-student since second grade.
- Jamie Graddy also took the SATs in seventh-grade and is on the honor roll.
- Brandie Maltzia is on the honor roll and student council.
- Courtney Myers was named Student of the Month and helps train mentally disabled children.
- Drue Nadrowski received a superior award in solo and ensemble for the chorus.
- Jennifer Osorio is on the A/B honor roll.
- Lauren Rosen is on student council and has been on honor roll for three years.
- Wendy Shea is on honor roll and a member of BETA.
- Lauren Starmer is on A/B honor roll and BETA.
- Kelly Williams is on honor roll.

team is just plain good. Gringer said she remembers her youth soccer days and is amazed by the changes.

"The first thing we're trying to get out of the girls is just kicking the ball and organizing the play," she said. "First touch is what we're working on and we've made a tremendous improvement. These girls are all great athletes."

Most of the players joined the team from the Seminole Soccer Club when the Kumba was organized by F.C. America, a rival league that just started in the area. As a new team, no one knew how it would all turn out, especially with a trip to the Final Four.

"No, we weren't supposed to be so good," Lauren Rosen said. "We never thought we'd go this far."

It hasn't been hard, even though most of the players come from varied schools and haven't played together for a long time.

"It's not difficult to build a team when you can get them to talk," John Fulgham said. "That's our biggest strength and it keeps us in each game."

So does a hatred of losing. Goalkeeper Maltzia brings her own trainer to practice every day and is in her third year of select soccer.

"She hates losing or ever giving up a goal," Rosen said.

Shea, Starmer, Ferrarini, Delp and Graddy make up the defense and they want just as much credit for the success as their teammates on offense. "We hate giving up goals," Kelly Fulgham said. "We know defense is just as important as offense."

That's good because, on Kumba, offense takes a major role with some major players. Kelly Fulgham and Rosen make up the midfielders and Williams, Carpenter and Nadrowski make up the forward unit.

When Kumba heads for Plantation, they know they won't be able to sneak up on anyone now that their reputation is growing throughout the state.

"Sometimes people were just saying, 'Who is this Kumba team,'" Rosen said. "They didn't know where we came from."

Everyone involved in youth soccer knows by now, since first or second place finishes at tournaments in Sarasota, Melbourne and Clearwater.

It's a good thing the players all get along well. There have been times that their patience could have been tested.

For instance, there was the trip to Lakeland when the team had to huddle inside a van as a lightning storm covered the field for hours. Finally, the team went as a whole to Starmer's grandmother's home where they took pictures and got each other's autographs.

They've also learned to test the coach's patience at times.

"When we lose a game we shouldn't have lost, he stays calm with us even though we all know he wants to blow up," Rosen said.

"He's been through so much forming this team that we're like a big family," his daughter, Kelly added.

The girls also give a lot of credit to Stahl.

"He's awesome because he's so dedicated to us," Rosen said.

A few years ago when Gringer was tearing up the field at Bishop Moore, there wasn't much of a future past the college level, if that.

Now, players like Mia Hamm and Lake Mary's Michelle Akers are national celebrities and women are starting to get a shot at professional sports.

Nearly everyone on Kumba said they are looking to attend the University of North Carolina, the perennial powerhouse of NCAA soccer before embarking on a professional career.

Gringer says she may have come around just a little too early.

"Now, soccer is a cool sport to play," Gringer said. "By the time they are out of college, there will be so many opportunities for them and they have no clue how lucky they are."

Local poet writes of experiences, good and bad

By Maria Oram
Herald Staff Writer

Coming up with a title for his recently published book wasn't difficult for Al McKay. Simple and to the point like McKay's poems, the book is called, "Poetry of Life."

Most of the poems in the collection reflect his own life, McKay said. "And some are about other people's lives, whether good, bad or indifferent, whether they're my experiences or if I just fantasize about someone else's. Not all of them are about me or else I'd be a worn-out man."

Born 1939 in Fredonia, Pa., McKay has lived in Sanford, with his wife Barbara since 1984. Before that, he served in the United States Air Force from 1958 to 1983, retiring as a flight engineer. He has been working as a waste water plant operator for the City of Orlando since 1988.

His first exposure to poetry came in grade school when he had to memorize and recite "Village Blacksmith." It was love at first reading for McKay, but it wasn't until the mid 1970s, while he was in the Air Force, that he started writing poetry.

One of the first poems he wrote, "Six Pack of Roses," is still vivid in his memory.

"I didn't know it at the time but she was a prostitute and she'd do business in exchange for beer," he said. "I brought her flowers because I thought we were going on a regular date." McKay has separated his book into sections placing his poems in categories such as holidays, love and friendship, reverence and inspiration, and humorous. His holiday poems have been published in the Sanford Herald for the past two years.

"I'm always thinking about it," McKay said about his writing. "I've written four more poems since the book and I'm currently working on a poem for Thanksgiving."

In honor of Memorial Day, McKay wrote "No Decorations." The inspiration for that, he said, came when he met a World War II veteran in a lounge one day who talked about how he never got any recognition. McKay said he went upstairs and wrote the poem and handed it to the man. "As soon as he read that he cried in his drink," McKay said. "That poem is dear to my heart."

McKay said he enjoys reading poetry by other American poets that tell a story. One of his favorite poets is Antoine De Arcy. McKay earned an award in a poetry reading contest for reciting "The Face on the Barram Floor."

The story, McKay said, is true and it's about an artist whose best friend runs off with his wife. The artist ends up drinking in bars every night and to pay for his drinks he draws a portrait of his wife on the barram floor. One night, he has a heart attack and dies draped over his wife's portrait on the floor. He describes his own work as leaving a little to the imagination but the reader "doesn't have to dig to get the story." "It's where you can see it."

McKay's book is available through Brandon Publishing Co. in Sanford at $8.95. For information and to order, call 328-5471.

SIX PACK OF ROSES

*She was the apple of my eye,
That little blue-eyed blond.
She sent my mind wandering,
Wandering to days beyond.*

*Happiness filled my very soul
Like a child with a new toy.
I made a date for Friday night,
My heart was filled with joy.*

*With a tappity, tap tap
I knocked lightly on her door.
It seemed like I waited forever.
Then my heart fell to the floor.*

*Her answer to my tapping,
Came as a surprise,
She was clad in a negligee-
I couldn't believe my eyes.*

*The bouquet of roses in my arms
Made her shed a wondering tear.
And ask, "Why had I brought her roses
Instead of, six packs of beer?"*

I WALKED OUT

*In a world of push and shove
I walked out on the one I love.*

*She was everything I needed,
Her love was never ending.
It was more than I could stand.
Now, a letter I am sending.*

*Honey, I still love you so,
I can't live my life alone.
Could you love me, one more time,
and let me come back home?*

*In a world of push and shove,
At my side, I need your love.*

Family of five will move into first single home

The Center for Affordable Housing Inc. located at 214 South Oak Avenue has taken the well needed opportunity to help low income clients who would like to work toward achieving the goal to become a homeowner.

As of June 3, this home buyers assistance program has handed the keys to a new home buyer, Debra Lovett and her four children. Lovett had lived in the Castle Brewer project for many years. Her desire to become a homeowner, was always a part of her thoughts.

Lovett had many credit problems and in November of 1996 she was assigned to Beverly Hadley-Godfrey to work with her in order to solve her credit problems. Mrs. Godfrey is a certified housing counselor specializing in comprehensive housing counseling. She had at the time of taking Lovett's case, completed her degree as a counselor from Catholic University of America and Howard University in Washington, D.C.

After six months of constant dedicated work by Lovett and Godfrey, on June 3, Lovett signed the closure papers and she is now a homeowner. It has been proven by Lovett that any person who wishes to become a homeowner, can do so by doing what is required of the client to become one.

Godfrey says she is uplifted by having the opportunity of helping this family through the program. There are others who apply, but don't stick with the program. There are 77, but all are not willing to stay and work to become home buyers.

The Center for Affordable Housing Inc. is still accepting applications for its "Homebuyers Assistance Program."

William Newman is the director of the program and he says the program offers renovated single family homes throughout Seminole County, pre-qualified mortgage loaners, credit and home buyer counseling, along with down payment assistance.

If you wish to apply, call Beverly Hadley-Godfrey or William Newman, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 323-3268. There is no fee for assistance. This program is funded by Seminole County, is private, has a one year warranty and having a low income is required.

The classes of Crooms Academy, 1931-1949, will meet on Saturday, June 14 at 4 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church located at Sixth Street and Sanford Avenue.

The planning for the 1997 class reunions will continue. All classmates are invited to attend. The chairpersons are Katheryn Alexander and Earl E. Minott.

The May and June birthday celebrators enjoyed an evening of fun, music and food at the Elks Lodge on May 25. These birthday honorees were Willie B. Sherman, Sharonda Grey, Lila Cox, Katheryn Alexander, Valeria White, Denise Walker, Alfred Rawls, Amanda Alexander, Sylvia Bodison, Farris Hunter, Otis McMillian, Tawanda Byrd, Jason Bell, Jerry Tanner, Tina Beck, Earl Minott, Joyce Ferguson, George Myles, Curtistine Peterson and John Moore

Summer Jam '97 is designed with youth in mind. This musical art form is one that communicates across racial and denominational lines in a language that youth understand.

Youth are invited to Summer Jam '97 which will be held on June 14 at 7:30 pm at the University of Central Florida Arena in Orlando. Guest artist will be Mike-E along with UWFC (Young Warriors For the Cause). Youth of all denominations will gather to promote bonding and brotherhood.

Group tickets for 10 or more are $11.50. For local tickets, call 322-5826.

Crooms Academy students have been awarded valuable scholarships to help in furthering their educational endeavors.

Receiving the scholarships were student Beth Eaton - Larry Furlong Scholarship $250; Natasha Fort - Chamber of Commerce $1,500; Shannon Horning and Bobbi Clequeno - American Legion (Women's Auxiliary) $2,500; Tracee Monroe, Doni Johnson and Beth Eaton - Magic Foundation $3,000 making a total donation to the recipients of $7,250.

Debra Lovett accepts keys from Beverly Hadley-Godfrey as William Newman and Shirley Jones look on.

It's the celebration of the first anniversary of the Pastor Ricky Scott of the New Mount Calvary Missionary Baptist Church located at West 12th Street. They invite the community to worship with the church family, on Saturday, June 7 at 7 p.m. the music department will sponsor a musical. Come and be a part of this fellowship.

On Sunday, June 8 at 11 a.m., the worship service will be under the leadership of the Little Baptist Missionary Baptist Church from Rutledge, Alabama when the Rev. Marvin Scott, pastor and his church are in charge.

The Sanford Community Workshop Choir presents "Gentlemen In Song" featuring evangelist Bobby Mott. Mott is a national recording artist from Orlando. Also featured will be Ko-Jo Little of Mt. Carmel Baptist Church located in Daytona Beach along with other male chorus members of the community.

This event will take place on Saturday, June 14 at 7 p.m. at New Mount Calvary Baptist Church located at West 12th Street where the Rev. Ricky Scott is pastor.

Lake Mary Woman's Club winds up with awards

Each year, the Lake Mary Woman's Club works all year long to raise money for some very worthwhile programs. The fourth Wednesday in May is the last meeting before the summer break for the club. It's when the club makes all their awards presentations and club members get to meet the people who benefit from their program. It also gives President Rosemary Traeger a chance to show her board members how much she appreciates their help. Rosemary presented each one with a busy bee award.

There were several very special visitors at the May 28 meeting. Time Lambke and Lin Bonnett came to the meeting to represent Special Olympics. Lin is the Seminole County Coordinator for Special Olympics. Time is one of the special Olympians who attended the state finals and brought home the gold. Tim won the Gold in the 50 meter dash. Lin was presented with a donation from the Lake Mary Woman's Club for the Seminole County Spe-

Lisa Davis was the Seminole Community College Scholarship recipient. Lisa is a member of the New Directions program at SCC. New Directions is a program at SCC that offers help for single parents, displaced homemakers and pregnant teens. New Directions goal is to help people earn their associates degree or vocational certification and become economically self-supporting.

Jamesha Britton was also a guest. Jamesha is a student at Lakeview Middle School. The club has started a college fund for Jamesha and deposits money into the fund every year. Knowing Jamesha was a basketball fan, Karen Beal presented her with an autographed picture of Penny Hardaway.

Radonda Dobbins came to the meeting representing Safehouse of Seminole County. Lois Jackson presented Radonda, with a donation for Safehouse. He also gave Radonda ditty bags for Safehouse newcomers. Ditty bags are made by the Woman's Club and contain shampoo, a brush and comb, a showercap, toothbrush, toothpaste, sewing kit, and other toiletries. Radonda told the club members about some exciting new additions at Safehouse. They now have a Speakers Bureau. They can send speakers out into the community to inform people about Safehouse and the consequences of domestic violence. When a club member asked Radonda what other things were needed by Safe-

Cynthia Pitcock, in charge of education, told the club members about a new program they will be sponsoring in the fall. The program provides Kind Newspapers. The club has chosen all the third grade classes at Lake Mary Elementary for this project. Kind News is a publication of the National Association for Humane and Environmental Education. (It's the youth education division of the Humane Society of the United States.) The Woman's Club will be funding subscriptions to the newspapers for the '97-'98 school year.

Every year, the Lake Mary Woman's Club holds an Italian Feast. It is their biggest fundraiser all year long and gives them the needed funds for the programs they support. The date for the Italian Feast for the upcoming year has already been set. It will be Nov. 8. Sandi Moodie came to the May meeting prepared to sign all the members up to help at the feast. Rosemary Traeger announced that several dates had been set during the summer for club members to work on crafts for the feast. The club will once again be participating in Olde Lake Mary Holidays, tentatively scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 6. The club provides free cookies and a drink to attendees donating food for Safehouse while the Girl Scouts provide free crafts to attendees donating a new toy.

AREA ATHLETES ATTEND OLYMPICS

Athletes from all over the state gathered in May to attend the Florida Special Olympics. The Olympic hopefuls have been training all year for this very important event. The hard work really paid off. Several athletes brought home the gold and the silver, all of the athletes excelled in their sport. Representing Lake Mary, Tim Lambke brought home the gold medal in the 50 meter dash and came in 5th place in the softball throw. Becky Weazel brought home the silver in the softball throw and came in 4th place in the 50 meter dash. Julie Wenzel also brought home the silver in the softball throw and came in 5th place in the 50 meter dash. Mark Preston came in 4th in the 100 meter dash and 6th in the 200 meter dash. In Bocca, Mark Bridges came in 2nd place and Diane Damerck came in 4th place. Representing Longwood, Alex Rodriguez brought home the gold in both the 500 meter time trial in cycling and the 1K time trial in cycling. Representing Sanford, Stormy DeBaulte brought home the gold in both the 500 meter time trial in cycling and the 1K time trial in cycling. In team sports, James Jamrock of Lake Mary was on the gold medal winning soccer team. Mark Badders of Lake Mary was a member of the volleyball team that came in 4th place.

Children of widowed parent often resent new spouse

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Sad Grandpa" who, 38 years ago, married a widow with seven children. He now wants to re-marry after her death, and his stepchildren are upset about it.

Perhaps his stepchildren are afraid not only of losing their stepfather, but also any property or belongings (monetary or not) that their biological father and mother would have left them.

I don't mean to make them sound greedy, but we all know from the letters you print that people who re-marry later in life when their children are grown often forget that what they and their first spouse accumulated should be shared with their children. When parents re-marry and are outlived by their new spouse, many times everything goes to the new spouse's family. And the children feel resentful and abandoned when nothing of their original family, monetary or not, is left for them.

Many clergy today require young couples about to marry to attend premarital counseling, but this is often waived for mature couples who have been married before. Perhaps these couples should also felt compelled to write. "Stuck" stated that her mother had died and her father's second wife was difficult to like. She said she didn't know anyone who liked the new wife.

I can think of someone who likes her. "Stuck's" father! The relationship with my two grown daughters was strained for years after I re-married. They slighted my wife, and indirectly me — in many subtle ways. They would "forget" her birthday, and address special-occasion cards to me only, or behave rudely in her presence. Any intervention by me was met with protestations of innocence on their part. After the loss of my second wife, I had a belated father/daughters talk and told them their behavior had been inexcusable.

My second wife had never tried to replace my daughters' mother. She had simply given their father the love he needed to make his life whole again. Remember, children, it's not easy being a second wife or husband. Cut some slack. OK? G.W. IN SHARPSBURG, GA.

attend counseling which, among other things, would cover disposition of property and how each other's heirs will be remembered in their wills.

ELYN KIRCHNER, MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR ELYN: I agree, it is unfair for all the assets to be left to another family. And premarital counseling is an excellent arena for ironing out such important issues.

It is also important, however, for grown children to understand their widowed parent's need for companionship in their later years, and to put forth every effort to make the new spouse feel welcomed into the family. Regarding the newcomer as an intruder can have painful consequences. Read on:

Tourism climbs

Seminole County tourism is on the rise, according to the latest report released by the Seminole County Convention and Visitor Bureau.

Tourist tax collections for April 1997 were $121,000, a 10 percent increase over last April. Year to date collections for the period are also up 10 percent, from $723,209 last year, to $799,108. April's number represents the highest amount collected for that month since the tax was implemented in 1989.

Seminole County collects 3 percent on lodging stays of less than six months.

Publications an affordable source for medical and legal questions

By KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writer

With the rising costs of legal fees and the increasing complexity of legal lingo, it's nice to know there is finally an alternative for the average American.

The American Association of Medical/Legal Publications was developed for the person who cannot afford high lawyers' fees and has a limited knowledge of the law.

"I received all kinds of requests from insurance companies and the general public for information on medical and legal matters," business founder Dr. Kenneth Ross said. "There isn't any easily available manuals for people. So I found a way to provide them."

Ross has been involved with the medical and legal fields for decades. Altamonte Springs has been home to Ross for about 25 years. He was a deputy sheriff for many years in Orange County.

Ross graduated in 1982 from chiropractic school and was in private practice for 10 years before joining Access Healthcare where he currently works.

In addition to his chiropractic profession, Ross started a medical diagnostic review company in 1990. The purpose of the company was to assist attorneys, physicians, and insurance companies with billing, file, malpractice and fraud reviews, diagnostic testing and he also provides service training seminars in the areas of medical records, risk management and fraud detection.

"I saw a need for insurance companies, physicians and even attorneys to be provided with quality medical and legal reviews," Ross said. "This need led to the development of the American Association of Medical/Legal Publications in 1995. The main focus of the company is to provide people with 'how-to' manuals so they can do the legal work themselves."

This need led to the development of the American Association of Medical/Legal Publications in 1995.

A few of the benefits of the publications include saving money on legal costs, protecting assets and family, building a financial nest egg, gaining a better knowledge of legal rights and setting up legal trusts and living wills plus much more without the need for an attorney.

The easy to use, step by step manuals are well organized, affordable, and three of them are also available in software for home computers.

Ross is continually on the lookout for more publications to add to his business, including new medical, legal, nutrition, exercise and business manuals. Ross said that he believes that everyone can benefit from the self help guides.

Chamber seeks high tech growth

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

Growth and development in Seminole County were the topics at the Greater Lake Mary Heathrow Chamber of Commerce monthly meeting on Wednesday.

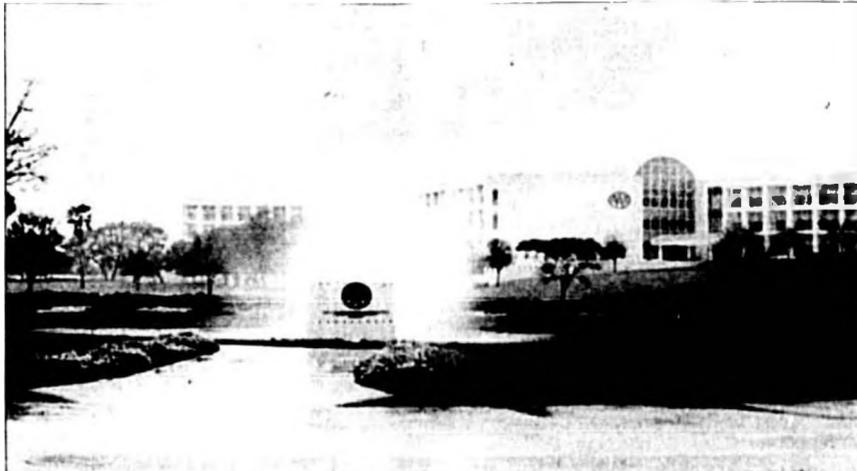

More than 100 people attended the breakfast meeting at the Heathrow Country Club in the Heathrow International Business Center, where chamber board member Randy Berridge spoke about high tech development along the I-4 corridor.

According to statistics published in the chamber's monthly newsletter, in 10 years, the northern part of the I-4 corridor will include approved developments totaling 13 million square feet of office, retail and industrial space. Employment in the county is projected to increase 40 percent to 225,000 employees.

"We can attract high paying high tech jobs to this area," Berridge said.

To illustrate his point, Berridge used the recent deal with AT&T, which brought into Central Florida a $600 million expansion creating 600 jobs with an average salary of $35,000.

"We created a model on how to attract, retain and help corporations grow," he said. "This state can do more than tourism."

AAA one of the first occupants in the Heathrow International Business Center, has owned its three-story, 656,000 square-foot facility which serves as the automobile club's national headquarters since 1989.

The deal he explained, involved incentives from a state and county level and grant incentives from the University of Florida. In addition, training programs were developed at Valencia Community College, Seminole Community College is in the process of implementing some of these programs, he said.

Berridge encouraged chamber members to participate in business efforts at the legislative level and to help search for incentives which would attract high tech corporations from all over the world to the I-4 corridor.

To make Central Florida more competitive on a global level, he said, crime and education need to be addressed.

The group thinks we're in South Florida and they group us in with the high crime in Miami," he said. "We need to change that perception."

Regarding education, Berridge touted the work force, particularly high school graduates in the Lake Mary/Heathrow area as comparable to other high school graduates in other high tech areas around the country.

"We need to let people know what is here," he said.

Good business practices pay off

I don't know how many of you caught the business news this week about McDonald's. They have decided to tend their 55 cent promotion because of widespread dissatisfaction among their franchisees. Why have I decided to begin a column on customer service with a discussion on McDonald's? Because I experienced the good and bad of customer service at one, in a period of 10 minutes this morning.

I pulled up to the loud speaker to order and decided to take advantage of the 55 cent special. I ordered a Coke, hash browns, and an Egg McMuffin. I also told the order taker to add a sausage biscuit to my order. He came back with a total of $1.30 higher than what I figured it would be. When I questioned him about it, he told me that the second item was at full price. I responded that I understood that, but a sausage biscuit was only 99 cents. He explained to me that he had given me the cheaper item for 55 cents and had charged me full price for the Egg McMuffin. I told him that I had ordered the special with the Egg McMuffin not a sausage biscuit. After a couple of minutes of disagreement, he finally conceded to alter the bill to fit my demands.

Small Business

No matter what your feeling about whether I was taking advantage of McDonald's offer correctly or not, the employee was wrong to argue with me on a point that was not clear in the offer. In most cases, if we as business people win the battle we lose the war.

As I drove down to pick up my order, the lady greeted me with a smile. She handed me my Coke and observed that I was pouring it into a travel mug. She immediately offered to do it for me and to top off my mug. I was astounded in the 15 feet I had traveled what a difference I had encountered. The offer and generosity helped me overcome my adverse feelings from just moments before. Did that extra little bit of Coke cost McDonald's much? No, and it turned a negative into a positive.

As I look back over my business career, I realized how many times I argued with clients about little things I would be right and no, the item the item they were discussing was not my responsibility. What I failed to take into account was the ill will I was generating, and the chance to be a hero I was blowing.

I am not advocating giving away the world to customers, but too many times we let our ego stand in the way of good business. Being right and driving away a dissatisfied customer is just plain bad business. Better to have that happy customer tell about your business. Remember that 11 people an unhappy customer will tell about your business. Better to have that happy customer tell the five people the good thing you did for them.

Customers don't want hassles, just respect and caring from the places they do business. Are you taking care to make sure that your customers are your invisible sales force?

MATRIX MARKETING INC.
 a Cincinnati Bell company
 The Custom Services Division of MATRIXX Marketing Inc. announces several new full and part time CSR positions on our Sunbeam account, Grills Division.
 Do you like to cook or grill outdoors?
 If yes, then you may enjoy being a Consumer Service Representative for one of the finest companies in the United States: Sunbeam. As a Sunbeam representative, you will be assisting consumers who have purchased one of our grill products.
ENGLISH SPEAKING REPS for Sunbeam's United States consumer base.
FRENCH SPEAKING REPS for Sunbeam's Canadian consumer base.
 We're only looking for qualified people to join our team. If you are articulate, have a high school diploma/GED, can type 35+WPM and have a true understanding of superior customer service, then we would like to talk to you.
 CSR's earn $7.50 per hr. Bilingual CSR's must be fluent in both English and French, and receive an additional $0.50/hr. differential. We offer various schedules between the hours of 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday through Friday and alternating Saturdays.
 We offer a comprehensive benefits package, unbeatable career advancement opportunities, and a drug free environment.
 We are conducting interviews this week. Please call Sheila at: (407) 667-5100 to schedule your interview. EOE

HOROSCOPE

Sunday, June 8, 1997

Pleasant developments could be in store for you in the year ahead where your business life is concerned. The new contacts you'll establish will help you find fresh, profitable interests.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today if you go shopping, don't yield to pressure from an assertive salesperson. Do not forget the money is coming out of your pocket, not his or hers. Gemini, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) An arrangement can be revised today so that you will gain in an involvement you have with another. Point out the inequities that need adjustment.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Guard against insecure surges today that cause you to underestimate the worth of what you have to offer, especially if you perform a service for pay.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are basically an interesting person and people enjoy hearing what you have to say. Today, however, be careful not to monopolize conversations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you might reap rewards as well as gratification from situations where you sincerely do what's best for the largest number.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though you might be slow getting out of the starting blocks today, you will accomplish a great deal, provided that you don't delay too long.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It could prove wise today not to get mixed up in anything financial about which you have disturbing thoughts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A tricky development might require your personal touch and managerial skills today. Once you step into the arena, be decisive in your intentions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Priority assignments should be handled promptly today if you hem and haw, you may lose some advantages that you have recently gained.

PISCES

(Feb. 20-March 20) If you aspire to have something beneficial happen today, it will be up to you to engineer it. Wishing won't bring it into being.

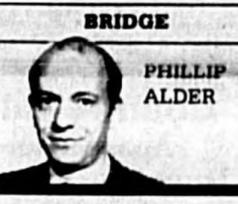

TAURUS

(April 20-May 20) A disturbing matter can be worked out favorably today if you maintain a positive attitude. Go into the situation expecting beneficial outcomes.

Having to bring in the trump suit without loss, South has three choices: cash out the ace and king, cash the ace before finessing on the second round, or finesse on the first round.

The first line is the worst, doing better than the other two only when West has queen-doubleton. Cashing the ace first wins when West has a singleton queen, but loses when he has a low singleton. As West can have four different low singletons and only one singleton queen, finessing on the first round is the best line.

If you think you would have got this wrong, take solace. An international misplayed this exact suit combination — in a grand slam! — in the Vanderbilt final last March, consequently losing the match.
