Ceremony and Cannon Balls.

There is a tale told about an officer who was conversing with Marlborough during a hot engagement; and insisted on taking off his hat and bowing profoundly every time he spoke to the duke. That great man suggested that at such a time they might very well waive all ceremony. But the officer bowed deeply to his commander's suggestion, and just as he was bending down a cannon ball cleared him and took off the head of a comrade. The officer, on coming up again, and seeing what had happened, remarked calmly: "Your grace perceives that one loses nothing by politeness." - London News.

Capacity Always Within Call.

It is certainly true that no one knows the resources of his own mind and body until some great sense of duty comes to him, rousing him to play his part well in the work of life. There are unused capacities in brain and nervous system, in mind and moral nature that are capable of development and effective use. Who knows the potentiality of life force in himself until he gives it opportunity for full expression? - Exchange.

Certainly Suggestive.

Perhaps the old fellow who first pointed out that a man's home is his castle had in mind the way it's almost constantly beleaguered by persons wishing to sell you brooms, potatoes and other commodities that you don't want any more of than you already have. - Columbus (Ohio) Journal.

BOOZE OF A GRUESOME SORT

Negro Bella Customers Alcohol for Drinking, Obtained From Hospital Pickling Jars.

Cumberland, Md.—Many drinkers in Willis Creek section of Randolph county, W. Va., are excited because Flanders Twilley, a negro, sold them preserving alcohol, which he obtained at a hospital in Elkins, where he had been employed.

Only that Twilley is in the Tucker county jail for six months for violating the anti-liquor law saved him from rough treatment at the hands of his infuriated customers.

The alcohol sold by Twilley was taken from bottles in which hospital surgeons had preserved tumors, cancer, appendices and abnormal growths. The horror at the discovery by his victims of the kind of toxicant he had sold them has tended to make the section drier than ever.

SHOULD HE TAKE ONE DRINK?

It Will Cost Him $4,000 Placed as Conditional Forfeit to Obtain His Release.

Tacoma, Wash.—One drink will cost Thomas Cannally $4,000—that is, if he takes it. Six weeks ago Cannally was sentenced to six months in jail for stealing $4 while intoxicated.

After serving a month of his sentence Cannally appealed to Police Justice Evans to be released, offering to deposit $4,000 in cash, to be forfeited in case he took a drink before his term would have expired. Justice Evans agreed, and placed the money on deposit in a local bank.

The money was still in the bank today drawing 3 per cent interest and Cannally was occupying a seat high on the "water wagon."

Startling Unpopular Bird.

Starlings are not liked in Australia, according to reports from the American consul at Melbourne. Besides being destructive to fruit, they are charged with turning valuable insect eating birds out of their nests.

Ready to Go to Work.

"Let me see," said the editor to a new acquisition a graduate of the college of Journalism. "I hardly know what to put you at." "Until you decide," replied the man. "I'll sit down and write a few leading editorials." - Topeka Journal.

Real Wisdom Since courtesy cannot be made compulsory, the next best course is to avoid rudeness, the second best is to overlook it. It is hardly worth while to resent the behavior of those whom we may never meet again, is it? We should be wise enough to avoid positions where we avoid rudeness to be expected; we avoid streets with a bad reputation because we have a rather clear idea of the experience we might meet if we ventured in them, especially after dark.

Church Semi-Oriental. The Russian church, which terms itself orthodox—pravoslavny—differs considerably from all the other Christian temples by its semi-oriental style that is half Tartar, half Byzantine, yet possesses its distinctly Slavonic element. With its gilded cupola, brightly colored roofs and ornaments, white glaring walls, it has more of a mythologic and legendary character than the stately gothic or romanesque cathedrals.

Busy Individual. An old man in the Potato Hill neighborhood is quoted as saying: "All I have to do now is to pull sheets off the calendar pad; I have all day to pull off the Thursday sheet, and make the pad read Friday, but sometimes I get three or four days behind. After I get the sheet on the pad changed, it is time to look for my glasses, which are usually lost. You may think old people have little to do, but they are really quite busy."—Kansas City Star.

Church Titles. There is no such thing as the Church of England in the annual Budget of Great Britain. The church derives most of her income from titles. There were 2,100 titles in the church by her children, but she would not give the whole of her income to her for ever. The church's net million in 1906 was $1,000,000, which gave each clergyman an average of $10,000 a year.

THINGS PAST FINDING OUT

BY STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

King Solomon said: "There be three things that are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not."

Solomon in his day and time was considered a rather close observer and the reputation has clung to his name through all the ages, but if he had lived now it is very probable that he would have to admit that several more things were past his comprehension.

"The way of the eagle in the air, the way of a serpent upon a rock, the way of a ship in the midst of the sea, and the way of a man with a maid," are still unsolved even with our superior existence, and more than these, we cannot understand the way of some law makers. There may be a reason, but—

There is a certain town in south Florida, the name is withheld, it would be too severe punishment, which on account of local conditions and the consequent expense, has no sewerage system. The city council was asked not long ago to adopt an ordinance providing that all earth closets in the city should be screened—fly proofed—to prevent the spread of typhoid fever. It was intended as a protection for public health, and it is a measure that has been proved elsewhere a most effective protection; but this body of men declined to make it a law because of expense.

At the same meeting of the same legislative body bids were asked for the construction of a concrete wall about the city cemetery, which it was understood would cost not far from ten thousand dollars.

Think of it! The adoption of a law requiring a safety appliance to ward off or lessen a serious disease, a law which would entail absolutely no expense to the city, except the enforcement of it, was positively refused, and contractors were asked to submit bids for the expenditure of thousands of dollars to satisfy a sentiment!

In this there is intended no disrespect to the memory of the dead. Civic pride and the beautifying of public places should be encouraged. "God's Half Acre" should be made as lovely as money and art can make it, but the first duty is to the living. Human life should be the most precious thing, but the un wisdom of men charged with high est responsibilities make it the cheapest commodity in the world even our highest and noblest sentiments for the dead should not outweigh our regard for the living. God never intended that.

Typhoid fever is a fly borne disease. The destruction of the fly, and the prevention of its contamination with the germs of disease are effective measures in the reduction of typhoid prevalence, in wiping it out from a community. It is a conservative estimate that every case of typhoid involves a money outlay of $500, and this does not include the loss of time through incapacitated human productivity.

Public officials who fail to recognize their responsibility toward their constituency in the protection of life and health are not fitted for their responsibilities. Such a course as that pursued by this south Florida city council groves its members too small, too narrow for public places. They haven't "made good."

When the people of Florida shall come to realize the value of public and individual health, when they shall realize that the failure to utilize every established precaution against preventable diseases is a sin, a crime, it is possible that sober, serious minded, intelligent men will be selected to enact laws, and not men who "consent" to run for office at the "earnest solicitation of many friends."

More About the Unions

Sanford, Fla., April 15, 1915.

Editor Herald:

I was a little disappointed but not at all surprised at Mr. Pearson's complete failure to give the public some insight into the inside workings of trade unionism as exemplified by the local building trades unions. As to his statement that they are the same everywhere as they are here—that's a harder blow at the whole fabric of organized labor than I ever dreamed of giving.

The entire list as given reads like the platform of a political party and there is not a single plank therein which is distinctively peculiar to organized labor. The bitterest opponent of labor unions could heartily and consistently endorse each and every plank, and I take the responsibility of placing unorganized labor on record as endorsing the same to as great a degree of unanimity as that of the organized brotherhood. If this is not agreeable to the brotherhood and they want at least a part of the declaration for their very own, I suggest that they stick a union label on those bath tubs and we will let them have that plank to "butcher" up as they please.

Just one plank deserves further mention; the first one demanding the abolition of involuntary servitude. I charge organized labor with causing or trying to cause more involuntary servitude than all other agencies combined. If they had their way, not a man or woman could obtain a day's labor without paying tribute to them and subscribing to an oath or obligation totally abhorrent to a large proportion of intelligent labor.

Mr. Pearson hopes that he has given the information desired; he knows he has not and lest he profess ignorance of the matter I will ask a few questions to better outline this information.

What were the direct causes that led to the formation of the building trades unions in Sanford?

What did the members expect to accomplish by such organization?

Did they attain the desired results and how?

What methods are in use today (in Sanford) in dealing with those who refuse to accede to the demands of organized labor for instance, the merchant who dares to employ a non-union man, preferring honest, self-reliant, competent services rather than have the tagged variety who may have no other claim to ability other than his "working card"? Is the boycott, direct or indirect, used in such a case?

What were the circumstances leading to the insertion of the ad of organized labor in the issue of the Herald of April 6th?

How does membership in a union instantly change a man from all that is vile and vicious into an industrious, honorable, competent mechanic?

Incidentally, what is a "negro mechanic" as mentioned in said ad? UNORGANIZED white labor does not recognize such an appellation.

And just what is a "scab" and a "floater" as per above?

Now, Mr. Pearson, give us some definite, unequivocal answers, straight from the shoulder, something tangible upon which to base a discussion, something of local interest.

You want to know what unorganized labor stands for. Many things, only a few of this will be mentioned at this time. And these are so much more honorable and so radically and fundamentally opposed to the practices of the local unions that we have no fear of their successfully endorsing the same.

First, and above all else, we demand an absolutely square deal to all men.

We demand the privilege of seeking and securing employment with no other qualifications than those of respectability and ability to perform the service required.

"Labor is a commodity," so declared by numerous labor conventions? We demand that it be treated as other commodities—sold according to quality and quantity, instead of at an arbitrary and practically uniform rate as demanded by the unions.

When these questions and declarations have been thoroughly discussed it will be time to propound others. Meanwhile, on behalf of organized labor, I hold myself in readiness to answer to the best of my ability, any and all questions, personal or otherwise, having a bearing on this subject.

Most assuredly, "Let the people judge."

Billiard Tables Rest on Rock. Billiard tables, supported on solid rock are among the novel features of a 36-room concrete residence located on one of the islands of the San Juan archipelago in Puget sound. Each table rests on a massive concrete base which extends through an opening in the floor and has its footing on bed-rock, and is therefore as solid and as free from vibration as if it were a part of the island itself.—Popular Mechanics.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Literature Department

A meeting of much interest was that of the Literature Department held April 14th in the club rooms Mrs. Maris, chairman, presided. Fifteen members present.

Business of the afternoon was first transacted. Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Mrs. D. E. Brownlee, vice chairman

Mrs. Jas. Moughton, Sec'y Treas

Mrs. May Dickins as member from the Department to serve on finance committee

Mrs. E. D. Chittenden, house committee

There was also a committee of three chosen to arrange coming year's program of Department: Mrs. Geo. I. Loucks, Mrs. Brownlee and Mrs. Maris

Mrs. Henry Wight to represent Department for General Club program on year book

Following the business session Mrs. May Dickins gave the members a rare treat, reading a paper on James Lane Allen. Firsting citing early childhood of the Kentuckian writer; how all companions seemed shunned; was an exclusive character asking only for privilege to follow the sun decked wooded path in the heart of nature's palaces. The following of winding streams. With the delicate note and tune of the shyest bird he made his acquaintance. From his mother he early learned the choice of rare books. Books that supplied, fed his nature so ready for such, brought out the refined talent of that which otherwise lay latent. Thus we glean the right education of the good books, the influence which plays on the youthful and developing mind. In his writings one perceives what purity of style fashions all his descriptions, his dealing on nature, knowing so well the subject he handled.

James Lane Allen was the youngest of seven children. His was a difficult lot—a struggle to get an education. At the age of twenty-one he graduated and afterward took a post graduate course and at this time obtained degree of B of Arts. His brothers leaving the home nest with three to support meant the coming writer should be the bread winner of the family. Hence he resorted to teaching school for some years.

His book entitled, "The Choir Invisible" is said to be the essence of his own life.

The writer now resides in New York.

Only Fruit of Good Quality Sold at Profitable Prices

Florida growers this season were taught the lesson of the value of quality in oranges and grapefruit. Only those who sent to market clean, bright fruit, properly packed, received profitable prices. There was little or no demand for poorly packed, inferior fruit.

Growers are in the business for profit. They should realize now as never before that quality in fruit pack alone insures prices that give this. To safeguard the future those who have not already done so must plan to install the best packing house machinery obtainable.

FLORIDA CITRUS EXCHANGE

It came to pass several weeks ago that the Florida Citrus Exchange controlled the major portion of the fruit remaining in the State—for the first time in the history of the organization.

Almost immediately prices became good and they have been maintained since at a satisfactory level. The lesson is obvious and justifies the faith of the founders of the Exchange that just what has happened would take place whenever the Exchange had the marketing of more than half of the fruit.

The Florida Citrus Exchange can continue to get good prices for the growers so long as they let it handle the greater portion of the crop. Therefore, it asks that they entrust it with the marketing of sixty per cent or more of the citrus fruit produced in the State for the coming season that it may keep on doing this.

It is the plan of the Exchange to carry on even more aggressively its splendid advertising to increase consumer demand for Florida oranges and grapefruit. This season it has opened up many markets in which Florida fruit never before was sold. By still further extending this line of effort, the Exchange proposes to sell a much larger proportion of the fruit outside of auctions.

Growers can now join the Exchange with the privilege of having the local Associations sell their fruit in carload lots at the packing house to buyers whenever these offer satisfactory prices. Any grower may terminate his contract with the Exchange at the end of the shipping season. Won't you join under these conditions? If so, fill out and sign this blank, mailing it to the general offices in Tampa.

SINKING WITH A SPENDTHRIFT.

Tomorrow can bring nothing
But he will bear us through,
Who gives the lilac clothing
Will clothe his children, too.
Beneath the spreading heavens
No creature but is fed,
And he who feeds the ravens
Will give his children bread.

There are girls who boast that their sweethearts are too fond of them to be stingy with them—that they are constantly showing, by costly gifts, that they are never out of their mind.

Prudent people know that this might do for a man who has wealth, but for the lover depending on a modest salary there is a note of warning for the girl in the case. She may appreciate his fondness and anxiety to please her, but she should also realize there is a very essential quality lacking in his make-up—ability to save money.

After they wed, trouble soon begins. They commence married life on a scale more extravagant than they should and live up to every penny of his income. They often run behind. One may borrow from a friend a few times. Eventually, however, the borrower is met when asking for another loan with the response, "I'm sorry, my dear friend, to refuse, but I was just about to ask you to pay back the last amount I let you have." As if by one accord he finds the same state of affairs wherever he turns. He has gotten into the rut of spending money. He loses his position. Wait looks in at the door of the little home. The wife comes valiantly to the fore, takes a position to eke out the support of the little family.

When a man accepts this situation philosophically, it's down resignedly then trouble is sure to begin to brew. Trouble that time will not be apt to remedy.

When the wife is the breadwinner and she knows her husband's spendthrift inclinations she does not make him her banker. She carries the pocketbook or secures it so securely that though he searches every nook and cranny he is unable to find it. If there are no babies to tend at home time hangs heavy on his hands. Of course he starts out to look for a position each day, but he is one of the kind who are glad to be turned down at the few places where he applies. He feels injured at his wife not allowing him at least a certain amount each week for his spending money. He has been used to smoking cigars, good ones at that. Where he finds he can get credit he runs up a little bill here and there, intending, of course, to pay it as soon as he gets work. His clothes must not show a blemish, and he spends some of the money which he hopes to get at the tailor's.

He must put his best foot forward in his endeavor to secure a position, therefore, he cannot have shoes with holes in them. Bills sometimes have a reckless habit of coming due. He sits stolidly through his wife's tears and reproaches. She parts with all her treasures at the insistence of the clamoring tradesmen. This goes on year after year despite her pleadings until she awakes to the realization that it is easier to pass a camel through a needle's eye than to reform a spendthrift. When a couple is courting a girl should study a man's habits and not accept gifts which he cannot afford. The lover inclined to be too liberal can be checked in time if taken at the outset.

IF THE HEART IS YOUNG.

The desire of the moth for the star,
Of the night for the morrow,
The devotion to something afar
From the sphere of our sorrow

Parents who are so eager for their daughters to marry that they consent to their taking on the matrimonial yoke at the age of sixteen years may have many a year to regret having given their sanction. Where the bridegroom is also very young, a mere youth, the blame cannot be put upon his shoulders. Youthlike, he sees a pretty face and, without rhyme or reason, the thought of marriage pops into his head. There's always some one ready to tie the knot.

The youthful couple launches into the sea of wedlock like children who step into a toy boat and, without rudder or compass, push out on the broad ocean to sink or swim, as the case may be. It usually takes a decade of years for such a pair to wake up to the fact that each might have made a different choice had they not entered into it when the heart was too young to realize the step.

The husband has been beset by business cares and accepts this situation. Not so the wife. If she has neither the cares of a family nor housework to divert her thoughts, she gives herself up to disappointed reflections and to looking about seeing the kinds of husbands other girls won. She is sure to think her own husband suffers by comparison.

If she listens to unwise advice that she could do better now if she were single, her next step is to seek an annulment of marriage on the grounds of her extreme youth. There are some judges who listen with pity to such a wife's story. But there has been one found in New York who will not tolerate playing fast and loose with the marriage tie. Such a judge recently scored a dozen points in his favor when he decided. "At sixteen a young woman is pretty mature, even in our own climate. I am not inclined to give any young lady under such circumstances a free interpretation of the law that she can bend, with my assistance, the marriage chain until it breaks. It is absurdly suspected that the would-be divorcee has her eyes on some other man and would wrestle herself free from one marriage halter to willingly slip into another marriage noose."

A wife's heart should keep pace with her husband's. His heart cannot grow old and worn while hers keeps the early fire of sweet sixteen.

Those who would give the wife the right kind of advice should tell her to search for new, lovable qualities in her husband and not magnify trifles to his discredit. Whatever is to be will be. The man who loses a wife through no fault of his own is apt to go to his grave broken-hearted. They were married when both were young, and she has never lost her charm for him. They should not part.

NOT A HOME LEFT TO VISIT.

No Love returned when twilight fell,
And found his flower dying dead,
The quickly rose he layed to rest
Lay in his arms with his young head
Ah Love, she cried, thy kisses burn
If Love once dies, he may return no more.

Many a well-meaning young man wears out his welcome with the girls by failing to keep his appointments on the evenings they are expecting him to call. He thinks any old excuse will satisfy the young ladies, but he soon wakes up to the fact that girls might be fooled once or twice, but after that they sum him up for just what he is, a free lance to whom one girl is quite as attractive as another.

He soon finds that these girls to whom he comes with a patched-up apology are not home. Of course this state of affairs brings him to a realization of his fault but it is too late to mend matters.

Most men hold the key of their own popularity. It is for them to use it wisely or to abuse the privilege. When he knows he is at fault in stead of saying, "What is the use?" he should write a note, frankly acknowledging his error and humbly asking for pardon.

Where he would find one girl resentful and unwilling to be friends with him he would come across many others who would be willing to meet the situation half way and give him another chance. The young man may not be so much at fault after all. One or two visits may have sufficed to show him that the girl has taken too much of a fancy to him, a fact which he deems wisest and best to discountage. Again he may find that he may not be so far off the track and to show him that there are plenty of other beauties who can get. In a case of this kind a man is certainly justified in absconding himself on reasonable grounds.

Even the most fleckle of men do not relish playing second fiddle. He may be too honest to lead a girl on to hope when he knows that there is every chance against his being able to support a wife, especially if the girl is hitting about many of her friends marrying on short acquaintance. No man likes to have a girl force the situation in that matter. It is not to be wondered that a man is sometimes frightened away when he has just begun to take an interest in the young lady. There has been no time for his esteem for her to grow into a warmer sentiment. He knows that on one or two calls she could not have developed a sincere, deep liking for him.

Then, again, there are girls who do not hold a man's interest very long. They talk upon frivolous subjects, or get up learned discourses that take too much brain work to follow. A man who has listened to subjects of these kinds which do not interest him in the least takes his hat and his departure as soon as he can find a lull in the conversation. In small towns a young man soon runs through the list of places to visit. If he is not in love with any girl, he takes the situation in good part, and thanks his stars that there is not a home which he is obliged to visit.

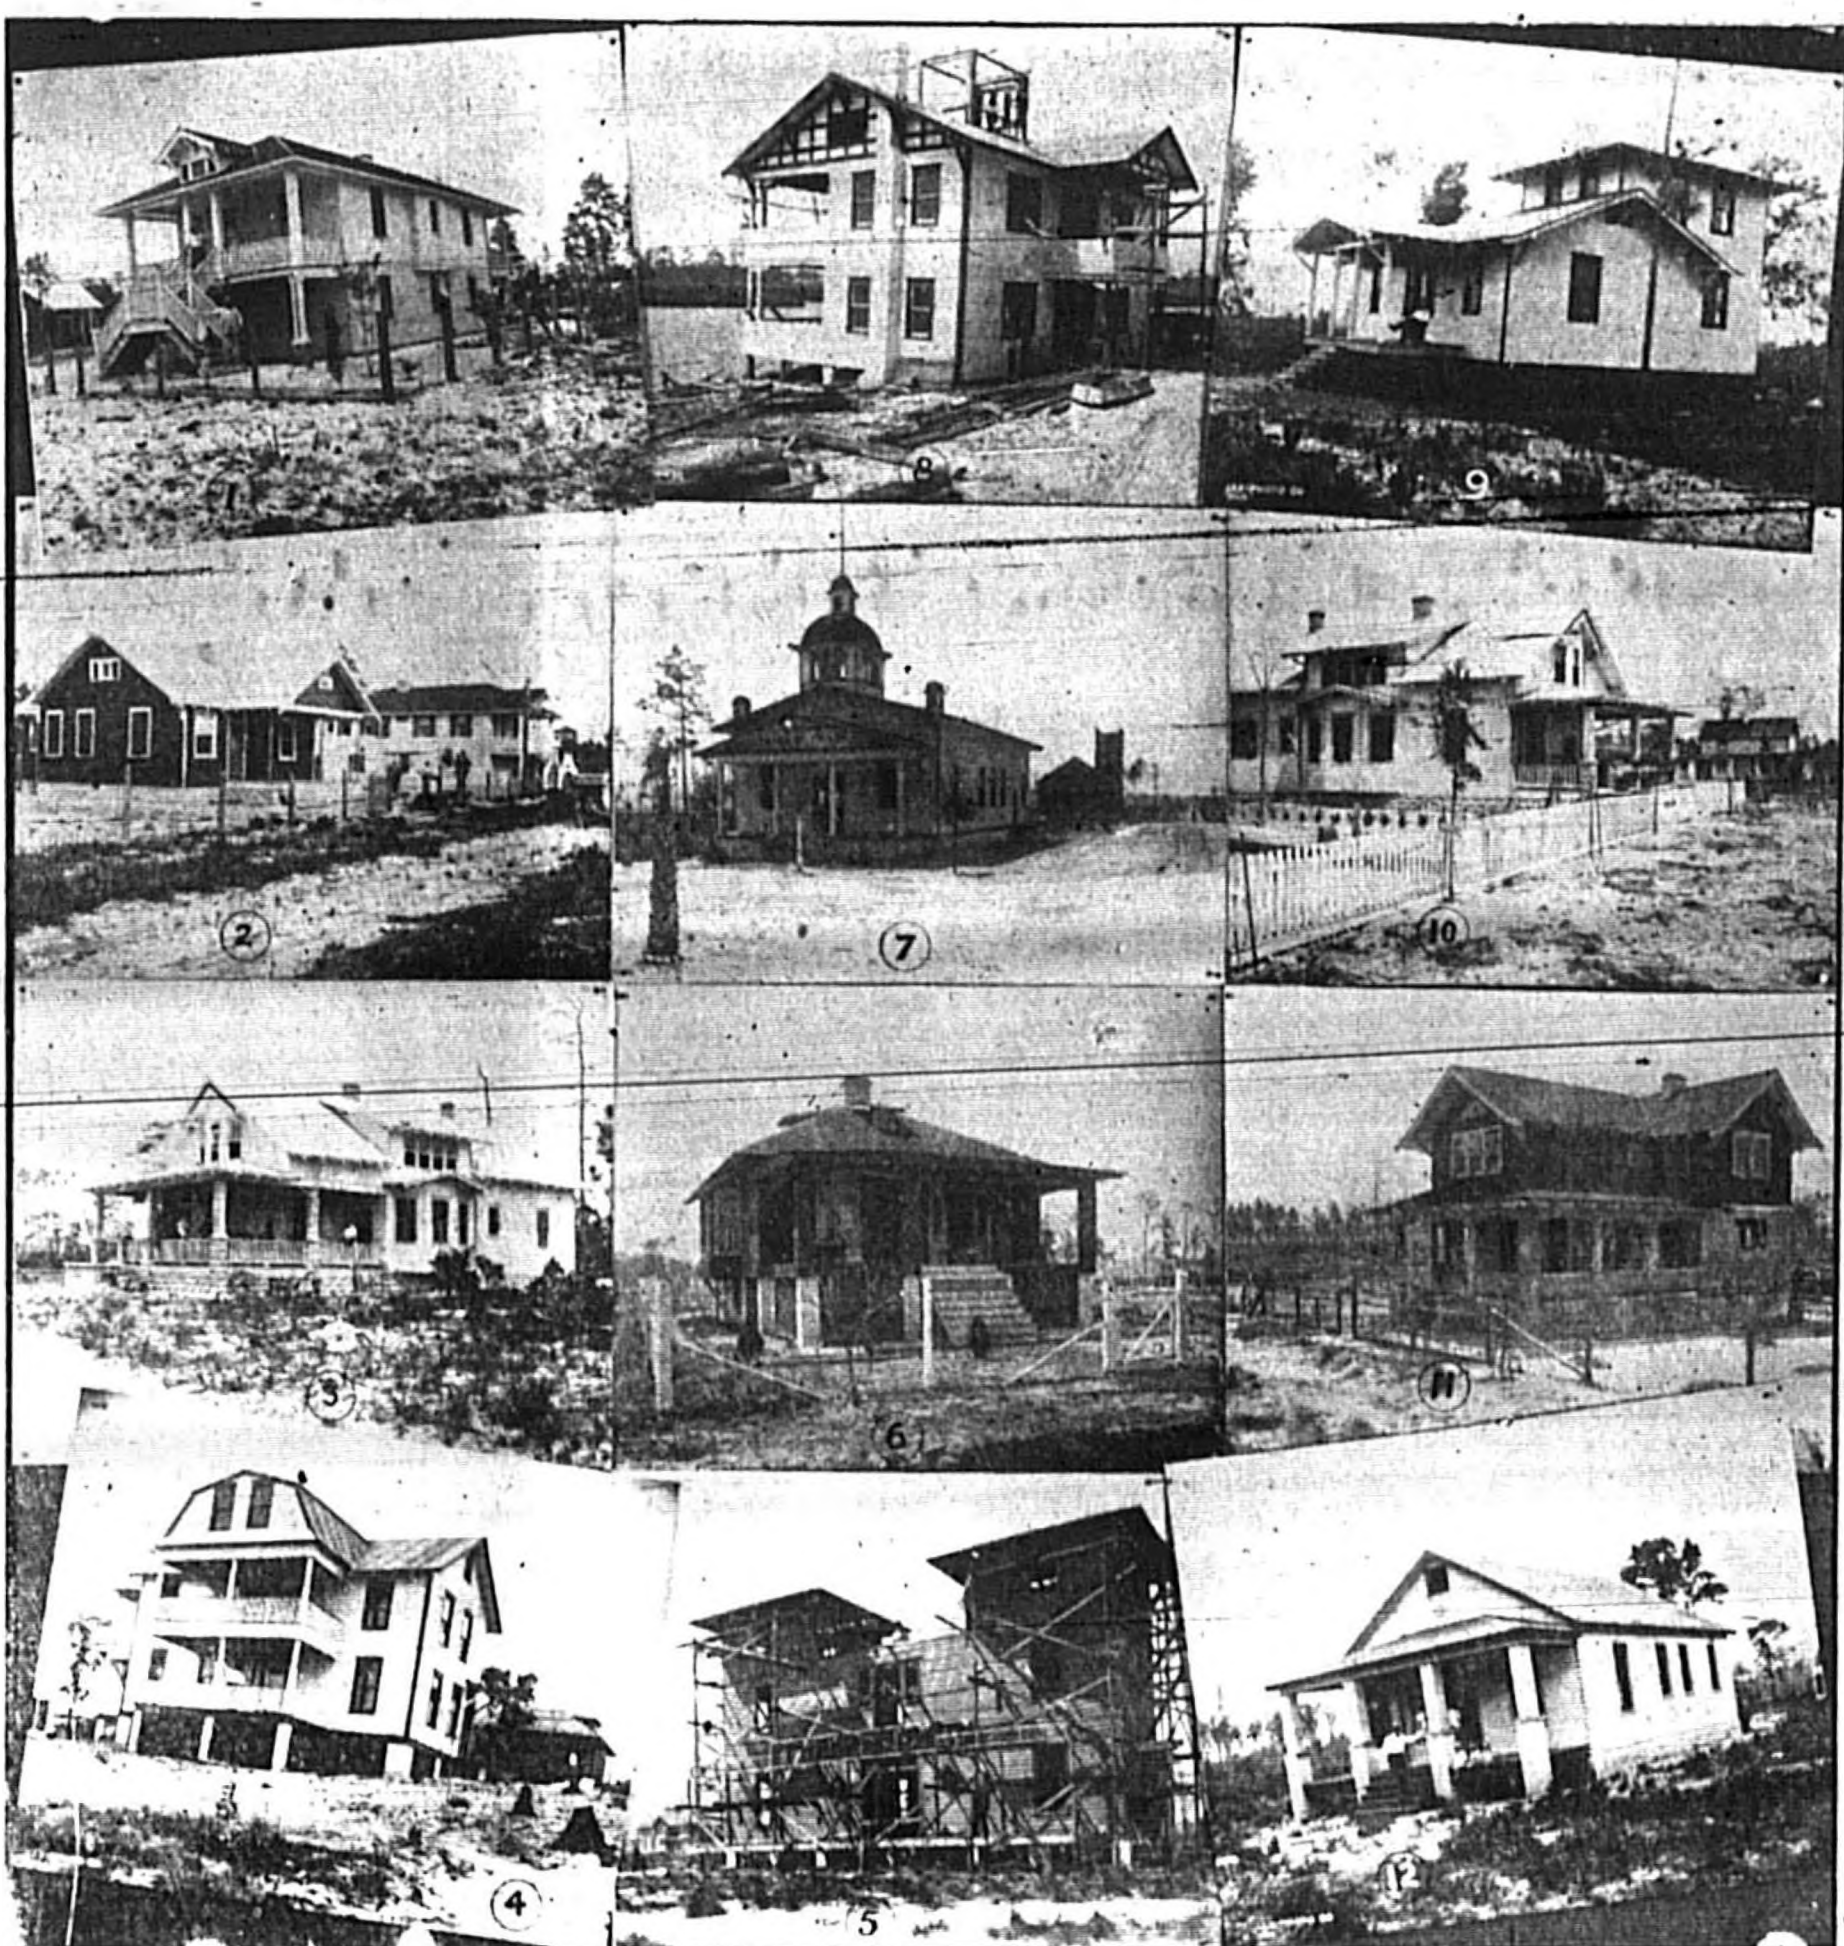

A Ringer.

They were standing outside the front door having a final chat after his evening call. He was leaning against the doorpost, talking in low, dulcet tones. She was listening and gazing up into his eyes.

Suddenly she turned around. The door had opened, and there, just inside, stood her father.

"My dear father," she asked, "what is the matter?"

"John," he said, addressing the young man, "you know I've never complained about your staying late, and I'm not going to complain now; but, for goodness' sake stop leaning against the electric bell buttons. Other people want to sleep, even if you don't."

ITEMS OF INTEREST ABOUT FLORIDA CUDLED FOR BUSY READERS

Plant a hotel. We have rumors of a hotel. In fact it listens very much like a hotel. But we want to see the bricks being laid and the building going up. Sanford is receiving some of the hardest knocks that a good city ever received on account of the lack of a hotel.

And we will continue to receive the same black eye all summer and next winter unless we get busy and plant that hotel. Who will start the good work this week?

An exchange intimates that Bob Holly of the Sanford Herald has his eyes on the gubernatorial chair. Well, what of it? One might look a long way and find worse material and there's no denying the fact, that Holly is not only capable, but well polished—Zolfo Truth

Whaddye mean, well polished? Are you speaking of our top piece?

The Sturat Times has just entered upon its third year and Editor Will Stevens writes a happy editorial on the subject in which he states that with the same encouragement for another year the plant will be out of debt and able to continue the great work of boosting the county and deep water at St. Lucie Inlet. Here's hoping that Will and the Times can enjoy many more birthdays.

Plant a hotel in Sanford and let all other planting go until this is done. The future of the city depends upon the erection of a new hotel this summer and this means that the work should begin now. Sanford has never failed on any good proposition yet and this is the best proposition that has ever been put before the people. The returns are sure and swift and the hotel will mean a bigger and better city during the next twelve months.

Since Editor Holly of the Sanford Herald returned from the State Press Association and a three days' stay at Miami's elegant hotel, Halcyon Hall he has devoted much space in his paper, editorially, locally and otherwise, to impress on Sanford the need of an up to date hotel. Sanford needs one all right; and if Editor Bob can bring it about there will be one built before the next tourist season opens—Sarasota Times

"St. Lucie County" is the title of a beautiful booklet recently issued from the press of the Ft. Pierce Tribune for the Board of Trade of that thriving city. The booklet is one of the best that has come to our desk this season, the cover being of imitation alligator hide embossed in yellow ink and the forty pages printed on heavy tinted paper are full of cuts and interesting reading matter pertaining to Ft. Pierce and St. Lucie county. The booklet was sent with the regular edition of the Tribune last week and an article in the paper stated that the work was accomplished by the regular Tribune force. This is a compliment to Editor A. K. Wilson and his capable force for the booklet is a handsome piece of work from every standpoint.

COUNTY DIVISION GHOST The Reporter-Star is pleased to note that both the Sanford Herald and Representative Forrest Lake disclaim any intention to cause further dissension between Orange and Seminole counties by more attempted county division. In spite of these assurances there have been rumors of more division for upward of a year. While nobody has been seriously disturbed by such reports they have been to some extent annoying. Bob Holly and Forrest Lake have done well to state positively that they are willing for the county matter to rest as it is.—Reporter-Star.

LAKE'S GOOD BILLS Representative Forrest Lake of Seminole county expects to introduce in the house two bills of statewide interest. One is of national interest, because it provides for the appointment of a commissioner, at a salary of $3,000 per year, to visit

The Board of County Commissioners of Lake county met at Eustis Thursday to receive bids for road construction as provided for in a bond issue for $500,000 recently passed. Owing to the number of different materials specified in the advertisement for the construction of hard surfaced roads, the bids were of a complex nature and, upon being opened were read and discussed. No definite action was taken by the commissioners, as they wished to thoroughly study the bids and ascertain the figures if the best bidder. Consequently, the board adjourned to meet April 29, at which time the contract will no doubt be let. The court room was crowded with interested visitors from Leesburg, Mt. Dora, Eustis and others who are eager to enjoy the hard surfaced roads as soon as possible.

Claude L'Engle's libel suit against the Jacksonville Metropolis, for $50,000 damages, was finally settled the other day in favor of the newspaper. Having been a newspaper man himself, Claude ought to have known that nothing is to be gained by suing a newspaper man.—Lakeland Telegram.

The Second Annual Convention of the Florida Association of County Surveyors closed here Saturday night after sessions covering a part of two days, and in which several matters which are considered of great importance to the state at large were discussed. This has reference to proposed legislation deemed necessary to properly preserve property lines and to place surveys upon a higher plane, similar to regulations which prevail with reference to the practice of medicine, dentistry and other professions.—Gainesville Sun.

It is stated that the proposed Palm Beach and Everglade Railway has purchased from the Drainage Trustees ten thousand acres of land and a right of way along the south border of Lake Okeechobee to Lake Hicpochee, near the northeast border of Lee county. The consideration was said to be $600,000.

Over eleven hundred cars of oranges and grapefruit have been shipped from Arcadia over the two lines of railroad running into this city, the C. H. & N. and the A. C. L. To be exact, up to April 10th these two roads had hauled out of this city exactly 341,921 boxes of oranges and grapefruit.

The Woman's Club of Sarasota have recently opened their fine new club house that was recently built at a cost of $4,500. The Sarasota Times makes mention of same and pays the ladies of that city a high compliment for their good work in behalf of a better city.

The Second Regiment Band has been organized at Palatka with twenty-eight members. They expect to be ready for the state encampment at Black Point during the summer.

The Putnam County Chamber of Commerce has just been organized with one hundred members and under most auspicious circumstances. The county boards of trade are becoming frequent in Florida, and in every instance are doing great work.

Orlando Board of Trade members are making strenuous efforts to bring the membership up to the 300 mark and have divided the members into two squads. Orlando has always had a live board of trade and the renewed efforts will result in a much larger membership.

Horace Ryalls, on trial at Bartow since Monday for killing James Platt, near Winter Haven last June was found guilty of manslaughter, which carries with it a maximum sentence of twenty years. Sentence has not yet been imposed, and it is thought that a new trial will be asked for in the event of refusal, an appeal will be made to the state supreme court. Ryalls, who is only twenty-two years of age, was represented by L. C. Johnson, Wilson & Boswell of Bartow and Thomas Palmer of Tampa. The state's interests were legislatures of all southern states and urge the appointment of a commissioner to work for the collection of true facts concerning the history of the south and work for its insertion in the histories. He feels that the south is rich in historical data that is not mentioned. His measure is along the line of action proposed by Confederate Veterans. His second measure provides for the medical examination of all children in attendance on the schools of the state.

looked after by State Attorney Jno. W. Burton of Arcadia and H. K. Oliphant of Bartow.

The corner stone of the new Lee county court house at Ft. Myers was laid under the auspices of the local lodge of Masons on Tuesday and the imposing ceremonies were witnessed by a large number of Lee county citizens and visitors who assembled under the shade of wide spreading oaks to enjoy the occasion. A short session was held at the high school and Charles C. Gwynne institute, and then the children were marched down to the court house grounds, followed by the Eastern Stars, who were clad in white, and lastly came the Masons, of which order sixty-nine members were present. Special permission had to be obtained from headquarters, authorizing Tropical Lodge No.-56, F. & A. M., to represent the grand lodge of the state of Florida on this occasion, and N. G. Stout, worshipful master of the local lodge was specially empowered to act as grand master and conduct the ceremonies in accordance with the Masonic ritual.

Sheriff Spencer of Hillsborough county and Sheriff Baker of Palm Beach county have been suspended by Governor Trammell for allowing gambling in their respective counties after being warned by him to suppress the same.

HAD TO STAY YOUNG

GRANDMOTHERS COULDN'T AFFORD TO GROW OLD.

Desire to Appear to Advantage Before the Third Generation Made Them Determined to Keep Up to Date.

The two grandmothers were talking, relates Edna K. Woolley in the Kansas City Star. And of course they were talking about their grandchildren. They were not old grandmothers, by the way, but the modern kind that keeps very much up to date, mentally and physically.

"My oldest grandson and I are great chums," quoth the plump grandmother. "We go about a great deal together. And it was he who broke me of a lifelong habit that had unconsciously grown upon me and which, I presume, I have inflicted upon my relatives until I made good liars of them all."

"You see—er—I'm inclined to be plump, though I never weighed more than 105 till after I was married. I expect I made life a burden to my husband by asking him every time I saw a large woman, 'Am I as fat as that, William?' And William invariably answered with a soothing 'No, indeed!'"

"With my son I was about the same. He was as diplomatic as his father with his 'I should say not.'"

"And I began the same thing with my grandson, who started out by politely denying, as did his forbears. But one day he was either out of temper or he was tired of answering the same old question."

"A very large woman was walking ahead of us on the street. She was extraordinarily stout."

"'Billy boy,' said I, 'am I as fat as that?'"

"'Yes, you are!' answered Billy with emphasis."

"And I've never asked anybody that question since," laughed the plump grandmother.

"My oldest grandson paid me a similar compliment," gurgled the little thin grandmother.

"We were walking down street one day when a carriage stopped at the curb. A young man got out and very carefully and tenderly helped out a very old lady. It was just beautiful to see how gently he took care of her."

"See how beautifully he takes care of his old grandmother," I said to my small grandson. "When I am old you will take care of me like that, won't you?"

"'Why, you're old now, grandma!' he informed me."

"I suppose we ought to feel old," ruminated the plump grandma, after they had laughed in unison, "but somehow I can't just realize that I'm going on sixty-one. Seems to me I get younger with every grandchild that arrives."

General Macard in Action. The story of the Siberian soldiers who refuse to have their beards cut, because their shagginess is supposed to frighten the Germans, recalls Marbot's account of Brigadier General Macard, one of the Revolution's rankers. When about to charge, this huge man used to cry: 'Look here! I'm going to dress like a bear.' Then he stripped off his coat, vest and shirt, keeping on only his plumed hat, leather breeches and boots, and exposing a chest almost as shaggy as a bear's. In this guise he charged, waving his saber and swearing 'like a pagan.' And, 'at sight of this giant, half-naked, hairy all over, and in such a strange outfit, who was hurling himself at them and uttering the most fearful yells, his opponents would bolt on all sides, scarcely knowing if they had a man to deal with or some strange wild animal'

Squawa's Bowls "Old Relics." Juan Segura did a thriving trade in "prehistoric Indian relics" until recently. He sat on the platform of the Santa Fe depot at Riverside and peddled the "relics" to tourists at fancy figures.

Segura might have grown rich had not Uncle Sam taken a hand, because he discovered the Mexican was raising the cost of living for many Indians in the vicinity. Many a squaw was forced to go miles to purchase bread because Segura, it is alleged, had taken her bread bowl and disposed of it as a "relic." His practice threatened to denude the district of bread bowls.

So he was arrested and pleaded guilty in the United States district court—Los Angeles Times

Currency Hard to Carry. On the island of Yam, which was recently captured by the Japanese, the dime is the exact replica of a common grindstone. It is 20 inches in diameter and made of practically the same material. Fortunately, values are very low, a dime, for instance, being sufficient to buy a chicken.

A Rap. Bishop J. S. Flipper, in an address in Atlanta, gave a shrewd rap to the worldly habits which desecrate the modern Sabbath. "In the millennium," said Bishop Flipper, "the churches will be crowded to the doors, for since every day will be Sunday in the millennium, people will get surfeited at last with golf and motoring and turn gratefully to the church for a change."

RAY-SCHALK COMPARED TO BUCK EWING

Catcher Ray Schalk of Chicago White Sox.

After all the fans have been heard from regarding the spectacular work of Ray Schalk, formerly of the Brewers, who is drawing pay from the White Sox ball club as catcher, a few remarks on the youngster from the boss, Charles A. Comiskey, might be interesting.

"On all sides I hear good things about Schalk, and his actions back of the bat bear them out," said the Old Roman, in discussing his prize. "Schalk shows more life than any player I have ever seen. He is level headed and his thinking and natural ability stamp him as one of the greatest catchers in the world today, and he can claim equal distinction with the great and only Buck Ewing, considered in his day the peer of all backstops."

Commy isn't given to boosting players very often. He likes to see his boys win and wants to know what's the matter when they fall. But he has been sweeter on Schalk than any youngster who has broken into the game since Ed Walsh came to the front.

Schalk is a bundle of energy. On the bench he shows the same aggressive spirit he does back of the bat. He is always the first of Comiskey's players to report for morning practice and he is working hard to perfect his batting power. Just now Schalk is showing rare form at bat and speed on the bases.

Schalk was a particular pet of Kid Gleason, former White Sox coach. It was Gleason who took the youngster in hand when the Sox bought him from Milwaukee. Schalk showed ability from the start, but he was a little rough on certain plays.

For a while he had trouble in solving the delivery of Walsh. Gleason took pains to coach the kid. He got down on his knees back of the plate and showed Ray how to stop Walsh's low spitter. Billy Sullivan, the veteran catcher of the Sox staff, was always one of Schalk's particular advisers. Ray always had the whip, but he had to be shown the weakness of various batters, and now he looks like the best ever seen in Chicago back of the bat.

DIDN'T WIN GAME ON FLUKE

Couldn't Stand "Kidding" After Winning One Game—Went Back and Won Another.

A recent report from Williamsport, Pa., had "Lurid Lew" Ritchie, the former Cub pitcher, in very bad condition.

Dave Landreth, a director of the Baltimore Feds, tells an interesting story about Ritchie just before he joined the Big Show. Landreth hired Ritchie to pitch the morning game of a holiday bill for the county championship in Bristol, Pa., and after winning and fanning 18 men, all for five dollars.

"Lurid Lew" Ritchie.

Ritchie came back in the afternoon and insisted upon hurling that game, too, for nothing.

Somebody "kidded" him about winning the morning game on a fluke, and Lew wanted to show them—and he did.

NOTES of the DIAMOND

Eddie Collins will feel out of place with the White Sox, because Eddie can hit.

Ed Walsh hopes to be a come back. There are seven other clubs rooting against him.

Kitty Bransfield, former Pirate first-sacker, wants a job on the National League umpire staff.

Manager Rowland's successor at Peoria is Izzy Hoffman, former manager of a Tri-state club.

Stewart Jackson, a former Kansas City newspaper man, has been made assistant secretary of the Hoofeds.

There is a suspicion in the mind of Manager Rowland of the White Sox that "Big Ed" Walsh is about to come back.

Forrest T. Plass, last year manager and part owner of the Dubuque I. I. I. club, has been appointed a scout for the Detroit club.

"Joe Jackson all over again," is the description applied by the Cubs to Polly McLarry, the recruit second baseman from Louisville.

Branch Rickey has resumed his practice of daily conferences with the Browns, and begins the work each day with a half-hour session of talk in his hotel room.

In the opinion of McGraw there is no better fielding third baseman in prospect than Angelo Aragon of the New York Americans. He says the little fellow is as quick and fast as Maisel.

The Brenham club of the Middle Texas league has signed outfielder Erwin, a brother of Catcher "Tex" Erwin, just released by Brooklyn to Rochester; and Catcher Scott of last season's Central Texas Trolley league.

The Duke's Question.

The delicate operation of separating the French Siamese twins, which has just been successfully performed, recalls Lord Houghton's story of a duke of St. Albans who went to inspect the original Siamese twins. The tale is told in the London Express. The duke looked at the two boys, and then turned to their showman "Are they brothers?" he asked. The showman's reply has not been preserved.

All the Big League Pilots Are Now Employing Veteran Coaches to Develop Their Young Pitchers.

Everybody seems to be doing now what Johnny McGraw started doing...

Robinson was too old and too bulky to play. McGraw was just about to turn down Robinson when he thought about the coaching idea.

Robinson was a great catcher in the old days, and he always had accomplished great results in handling young pitchers.

"You're hired," McGraw said to Robinson. "Your title is coach. Your job will be to develop my young pitchers."

The success of Robinson with the Giant recruits has influenced most of the other big league managers to hire a veteran catcher to coach the young twirlers.

THE THIRD WEEK'S GRIST OF THE LEGISLATIVE MILLS

APPROPRIATION FOR CITRUS CANKER FAVORABLE REPORTED TO COME UP IN HOUSE TODAY

Tallahassee, Fla., April 21.—It begins to look as if the suspension of sheriffs by the Governor would precipitate a merry fight in the senate over the confirmation of the Governor's action.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 22.—A bill creating Broward county agreed upon by the representatives and senators representing Dade and Palm Beach counties was passed by the house today under waiver of the rules.

Fort Lauderdale where Broward did his first drainage work in the Everglades is to be the county seat. The bill will probably be passed in the senate tomorrow.

The long fight in changing the boundary lines of Jackson, Holmes and Washington counties was ended today by the passage of the bill as agreed under waiver of the rules.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 22 A bill raising the salaries of judges has been practically agreed on in the senate. Justices of the Supreme court are to receive $5,000 per annum, circuit court judges $4,000 and criminal court judges $3,600 a year.

In discussing the bill Senator Himes said that the judges got less than the Governor, who was a dignified, ornamental kind of person, but we could get along very well without him.

The senate has made the Hudson plant board bill a special order for this morning when it will come up for final passage. Friends of the measure believe it will be passed in the senate and that the house will lose little time in concurring in the senate's action.

There is a disposition on the part of the legislature to give the cold shoulder to the propositions to submit constitutional amendments for first one thing and then another, there also appears a great deal of sentiment against the various propositions which would create new commissions and new jobs.

The senate is up against the constitution in regard to the matter of the recent suspensions of the Hillsborough and Palm Beach county sheriffs, made to take effect May 10.

There are many bills which provide for new positions, including the following: State boiler inspector, state harbor inspector, board of tax equalization, the plant pest board, bureau of labor statistics and others.

The senate committee on railroads and telegraph met in the senate chamber at 8 p. m. and immediately began consideration of the full crew bill which was introduced in the senate by Senator Farris, at request of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen who were represented by W. E. Kite, of that organization.

Trainmaster Royal of the S. A. L.; Judge Kay, general counsel for the A. C. L., were present at the committee hearing, and all testified that there is no need for additional men to properly man their trains.

A very peculiar situation confronted the senate committee at this hearing, as there were engineers and conductors to the number of at least six who testified in behalf of the companies, and materially strengthened the cause of the railroads by testifying that the more men there were on the train only increased the liability of accident.

Conductors Frederick and Rodgers, of the S. A. L. R. R., Engineers Thomas and Loub of the Seaboard all spoke against the full crew bill. While Mr. Kite alone spoke for the bill. The senate committee was undecided how to report the bill as it was evident that the railway employees were not in harmony on this measure, and deferred action to some future date.

That the State of Florida can save annually several thousand dollars by conducting an insurance department for the state's own property, instead of paying the enormous annual premiums as now is the custom, is the opinion of Representative Goldstein of Nassau county.

According to Mr. Goldstein, the state can save approximately $65,000 annually over the losses that have been paid to the state by insurance companies. The state now pays $101,316.89 premiums and the losses during the period for which these premiums were paid was $64,477.55, leaving a surplus to the insurance companies of $43,839.34.

He has prepared a bill for introduction which is as follows:

A bill to be entitled an act creating a state insurance fund, authorizing the board of state institution commissioners to insure all the property of the state in such funds, and authorizing the Comptroller to draw a warrant out of any funds not otherwise appropriated in the state treasury for carrying out the provisions of the act.

The senate committee today gave the question of submission to the vote of the people of the equal franchise constitutional amendment one lone vote, and the result is there will be little chance for the success of the measure at this session.

Mrs. R. C. Cooley, president of the Florida Equal Franchise League, and Dr. M. V. Salter, president of the state League of Women Suffrage Association, arrived today after an absence of several days.

It has been understood that the legislative committee of the two bodies, which were together here several times during the past week, decided to adopt no partial measures, such as allowing women to vote in school or bond elections under proper qualifications, but to stand or fall by the one demand that unqualified suffrage on a plane with men be given them.

If this program is adhered to it doubtless means that there will be nothing accomplished for the moment; but should they recede from that position it is probable that some partial concession may be made by the body.

The senate is up against the constitution in regard to the matter of the recent suspensions of the Hillsborough and Palm Beach county sheriffs, made to take effect May 10.

One provision of the constitution is that the governor may suspend until the next session of the legislature.

The other is that the governor may suspend an officer and report his removal to the senate for confirmation or rejection.

The point raised is whether the words "next session" can be stretched to cover a session in progress when a suspension is made; or whether the governor should not have removed the sheriffs and reported the matter to the senate at once while it is sitting.

A suspension made during a session and to take place at a date in the near future, is not a suspension under the constitutional rights of the case, is the contention of many, and it is considered likely that the senate will decide there is nothing legally, and constitutionally before the body, and it will be up to the governor to remove and report to the senate such removal, or wait until the legislature adjourns and then make what the constitution provides for, a recess order, and report the same to the next session of the legislature, two years hence.

SANFORD WAS ELECTED NEXT MEETING PLACE

ODD FELLOWS AND REBECCAS WILL HOLD GRAND LODGE IN THIS CITY NEXT YEAR

Sanford will entertain the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows and the Rebekah assembly in 1916. This city was chosen at the meeting in Gainesville on Wednesday with Jacksonville, Arcadia, Sarasota and several other cities in competition.

The Commercial Club, the banks, the Woman's Club and many other organizations and citizens wired the invitation to come to Sanford and the appeal was so strong that the Grand Lodge turned to Sanford as the lily turns to the morning sun and Sanford will show the Odd Fellows and their ladies the time of their lives in the year 1916 for this city will then have a new hotel and a large auditorium in which to take care of any conventions that may come to Sanford.

The sixteenth annual session of the Grand Lodge of Florida Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and the annual meeting of the Rebekah assembly in Gainesville is said to have been the most largely attended in its history, and the University City gave the delegates a generous and open armed welcome.

The following officers were elected: Grand patriarch, John H. Elk of Jacksonville; grand high priest, J. H. Shira of Tampa; grand senior warden, W. P. Pillsens of Lakeland; grand junior warden, M. I. Zellor of Orlando; grand marshal, W. T. Hullinger of Bradentown; grand treasurer, C. D. Blumhart of Jacksonville, re-elected; grand scribe, S. C. McConnell of Tampa, re-elected; grand representative John W. Handing of Gainesville; grand sentinel, G. Lambrecht of Pensacola; grand officer assistant, J. H. Jenkins of Miami.

They are to be congratulated for bringing this great body of good people to our city.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEET OF FLORIDA TITLE MEN

THE ABSTRACTERS LOOKING FORWARD TO MEETING TO BE HELD IN GAINESVILLE

That the fourth annual convention of Florida Association of Title Men, which is to meet in Gainesville May 3rd to 5th will be very interesting and well attended is the general opinion of those in touch with the situation. In addition to the invitations and splendid program mailed to the abstracters throughout the state by President Jarrett of Palatka, dozens of attractive postcard reminders of time and place of the convention have been mailed by B. R. Colson of Gainesville, who is a member of the executive committee and former president of the association.

The Gainesville Board of Trade will cooperate with the local committee on entertainment, and the stay of the Florida abstracters in the University City will be most pleasant. All members are earnestly requested to leave their respective homes in time to reach Gainesville by 2 or 3 o'clock Monday afternoon in order to take advantage of the slight seeing drive over the city, including special visit to the University of Florida.

Among the subjects to be discussed may be mentioned the following: Title Insurance in Florida, by M. S. Collins, Jacksonville; The Advantages of Uniform Abstracts, by E. L. Mack, Bartow; "Reform Legislation and How to Obtain It," by C. D. Judson, Jacksonville; "Printers' Ink in the Abstract Business," by H. R. Colson, Gainesville; "Land Surveys," by E. S. Miller, Lake City; and "The Education of an Abstracter," by H. C. Conking, Titusville.

The benefits to be derived from personal attendance upon these conventions cannot be too strongly stressed, as many things of interest to the abstractor and many perplexing questions are discussed and made clear at these meetings.

John W. Davis of St. John county has introduced a bill in the house of representatives to provide for a home for delinquent girls. He wants the school established in Tallahassee in order that it may be personally inspected by the governor and other state officials.

Will Be In Sanford

On Monday, June 14th, druggists from Sarasota, Bradentown, Manatee, Palmetto, Port Tampa, Tarpon Springs, Clearwater, Tampa and practically all cities and towns in the southern part of the state will arrive in Orlando in automobiles about 7 o'clock, and will spend the night. Leaving this city they will go to Sanford and DeLand to Daytona, where they will be joined by a party from the East Coast, and proceed to Atlantic Beach, where they will hold their annual pharmaceutical convention, June 16, 17 and 18.

Fast Train Discontinued

Tampa, April 22.—"Tampa Special," a fast through train operated by the Atlantic Coast Line between Tampa and Jacksonville will be withdrawn Sunday as the announcement made by J. G. Kirkland, division passenger agent. The train has been leaving Tampa at 12:45, arriving in Jacksonville at 7:30.

Secretary Geo. A. Paddock of the Miami Chamber of Commerce is working to secure as many visitors for Miami in the summer as in the winter. Mr. Paddock has secured the names of hundreds of physicians containing climatic data for the summer temperatures of previous years. Enclosed are special invitations to spend the summer months in Miami and take advantage of the amusements offered.

May 4 will be bird day in every section of the state. Through the efforts of the Florida Audubon society the day has been set aside for public observance. W. N. Sheats, state superintendent has issued a notice to county superintendents and teachers, emphasizing the vital importance to the people and the public schools of the plan. "No state in the Union has a more interesting variety of bird life than Florida; there is no state where birds may be more useful and where they need greater protection," he writes. "I therefore earnestly request all schools in session May 4 to observe the day in an appropriate manner. Teachers and pupils should make suitable programs and devote a part of the forenoon to the study of the beauty, the usefulness and protection of any birds whose life and preservation merit our care."

To expedite the execution of paving contracts in hand and those in view the J. B. McCrary Engineering company will put on two crews at once in Tarpon Springs. A contract for half a mile more of paving was awarded the company by the council Friday evening in a special session to open bids. From six to ten cars of paving material, block and curb are arriving in the railroad yards here daily now and the hauling contractors are rushing men and teams at top speed to handle the great volume of material. Nearly 200 cars of paving material have been received by the paving company since the operations were begun nearly six weeks ago.

Material for the new asphalt plant to be erected in Miami to prepare material for the three and a half mile contract of asphalt paving has been shipped and the paving will soon begin.

Says the Jacksonville Metropolitan State imports most of its meats, both fresh and cured. It should be a large exporter of meats Florida should feed half a dozen states, as well as supplying the needs of her own people. A livestock bureau with an experienced, scientific man at its head would be a great benefit to the state.

PUPILS OF HIGH SCHOOL WILL GIVE OPERETTA

WILL OPEN THE COMMENCEMENT SEASON AT THE HIGH SCHOOL-AUDITORIUM

Among the many good numbers of the Commencement exercises at the Sanford schools will be the charming operetta, Sylvia to be presented by the Sanford High School pupils at the auditorium on the evening of Monday, May 3rd. The operetta of Sylvia, composed by Maud Elisabeth Inch and W. Rhye-Herbert is of the period of the eighteenth century and the costumes and stage settings are beautiful. The music will be a feature of the occasion and the large chorus of forty voices will add greatly to the operetta.

The principals in the cast and the chorus are rehearsing daily under the direction of Miss Tifts, the instructor in art and music and Sylvia will demonstrate the ability of the teacher and the progress made by the pupils of the High School.

The operetta is pastoral in all the stage settings and the two acts are in the hay fields showing the hay-makers in the costume of that period. The admission will be 35 cents for adults and 25 cents for children and the operetta is already assured of a most generous support.

The following are the principal characters in the cast:

- Sylvia Virginia Brady
DeLacey Harold Washburn
Prince Tobystum Allen Jones
William Sherman Routh
Betty Frances Aspinwall
Arabella Daisy Betts
Araminta Gladys Morris
Polly Fern Ward
Molly Ruth McDaniels
Dolly Fannie Reba Munson
Robin Walter Rowland

School Bonds

Everything is being rapidly shaped up now to circulate the petition for bonding our special school district, and again we call the attention of our citizens to the importance of this matter and solicit their support. Our present school buildings are entirely inadequate to accommodate the ever increasing attendance. The board at present pays high rates of interest on a large outstanding debt, besides rent for emergency school houses. In order to economize our expenses the board has been forced to make arrangements for next school term, to accommodate two Grammar School grades in the High School building and cut off several teachers. This is not to the advantage of our school system and is only a temporary make shift, but it would not be necessary if we had the buildings now that we hope to get with our bonding. Therefore, let's all put our shoulders to the wheel and work for a school bond election for the good of our kiddies.

Chose Sanford

Gainesville, April 21.—The place for holding the next meeting of the Grand Lodge of Florida, I. O. O. F., and the election of officers came before the sixtieth annual session, meeting in the Masonic Temple this morning in a special order.

Sanford the Celery city and the metropolis of Seminole county was the choice. Sanford was not talked much the first day of the Grand Lodge but when the ballot was taken on nominations the vote stood: Sanford, 49; Jacksonville, 44; Sarasota, 28; and Arcadia, 15. A great many preferred one of the south Florida cities, but the isolation as regards distance from points in north and west Florida militated against the DeSoto and Manatee counties candidates. But one ballot was taken, the three cities standing below Sanford withdrawing, whereupon the Celery city was chosen by acclamation.—Times-Union.

Hastings is to have a great celebration Friday of this week to show how glad the Hastings people are for the completion of the brick road which connects the famous potato country, with Jacksonville and St. Augustine. An efficient committee has charge of the program and a great day is in store for all who can attend.

One of the first sights that greeted his vision was a Punta Gorda specimen of femininity. "Father," he said, "what is that?" "That, my son, is a woman," replied the father. "Well, father, I want one of them things," was the immediate rejoinder.—Zolfo Truth.
