Hospital Has New System To Detect Breast Cancer

Women's News Director

Joy Lambert and Becky Wigham, both radiologic technicians at Seminole Memorial Hospital, have an important message for Seminole County women. In essence, it is this: when breast cancer is diagnosed and treated early, 85 per cent of patients will survive to live five years or more.

Seminole Memorial Hospital now has what the two women term "the most modern and accurate means of detecting breast cancer available." It is the Xeroradiography 125 System - a long name for a rather plain looking machine which quickly and painlessly "photographs" the internal breast tissue. So detailed are the pictures it produces that they show up cancer growths and other foreign bodies as small as one millimeter in size. The machine is rented by the hospital. During the first six weeks of being in use, it has already helped in the detection of a number of cases of breast cancer. According to the radiologic technicians, about 10 women undergo the xeroradiography testing each week, and on the average, one woman with breast cancer is detected every two or

The cost per patient of the Xeroradiography treatment is

The Xeroradiography system, developed by the Xerox Company, is particularly relevant in detecting change in breast shape and size and picking up the presence of cancer tissue in women with large breasts that are difficult to examine; women with a family history of breast cancer; women who have undergone a mastectomy operation; women with a chromic systic disease and women who have detected a lump in their breast during breast self examination.

In order to inform the public that the machine is now installed detecting cancer early, Ms. Lambert and Ms. Wigham have been talking to women's groups in churches, clubs and businesses throughout the county. One of their most recent presentations was at the luncheon meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club; they hoped the men attending would carry the good news to their wives, mothers, sisters or daughters.

Ms. Wigham begins the presentation by reciting statistics. Not many, but her audience gets the shocking message. One in every 15 American women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. Last year, a total of 88,000 American women developed the dread disease, and 33,600 died from it. Breast cancer is the leading cause of death in women aged 40 to 44. It is second in all other age groups.

The American Cancer Society projects that 20 per cent of female deaths this year will be the result of breast cancer. Breast cancer is the most common kind of cancer in women.

Not only do Ms. Lambert and Ms. Wigham tell of the advantages of the Xeroradiography system - that it is 95.6 per cent accurate; delivers less radiation than other X-ray techniques; gives an easier, clearer reading and an immediate reading; and processes the pictures automatically without a use of a dark room. But they also talk and show a film on the importance of breast self examination.

Simple breast self examination means monthly peace of mind," said Ms. Lambert. The film, which clearly depicts the methods of breast self examination, is available for use by any organization which would like to share its vital message with women in Seminole County. Ms. Lambert and Ms. Wigham are eager to make their presentation on breast cancer to as many women as possible. They may be contacted through the

There's one place tradition still reigns - on the third finger of the left hand for the woman about to say "I do."

But the reign is not absolute. The diamond engagement ring and the gold wedding band must also meet some up-to-theminute requirements, according to Aldo Cipullo, fashion consultant to the American

Gem Society. Cipullo points out that the treasured and beautiful set of rings must not only shine brightly for the moment at the altar, but also must look well and wear well throughout the day for many years - often for a lifetime.

Cipullo says, "the engagement ring and wedding ring should be designed so they are one, even though the bride receives them at different times. Ideally they should unite and interlock on the finger, so they will look like they belong Cipullo says the diamond is one of the biggest investments band wedding ring are favored jewelry for this summer's bride jewelry dealer.

U.M.W. president, Mrs. Albert Jarrell, the women attended a candlelit fashion parade of wedding gowns from the past to the present, modelled by 10 "brides." The oldest original gown, made of sheer cotton and delicately hand-tucked, was worn by Miss Martha Hardwick. It dated back to 1870, and was loaned by Mrs. Roy Mann. The gown was worn by her grandmother, and most recently by her daughter in 1973. A completely hand-stitched copy of an older gown (1824), made by Mrs. Mary O'Day for the Sanford Junior Woman's Club Bicentennial costume contest, was modeled by Mrs. O'Day Fashioned of pure white slipper satin, the gown features flounces of old fashioned organza at hemline and sleeves. Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith wore the wedding gown she wore as a bride in 1923, and later at the golden wedding celebration. It featured a cathedral length hand-embroidered train and was embellished with hand embroidery. Miss Mary Baker wore Joyce Steele Sawyer's gown of slipper satin that she wore as a bride in 1946. Mrs. Jon Rogers floated down the aisle in a bouffant gown of ruffled lace organza worn in 1957 by Bar'oara Chapman Moore.

Next came Miss Dee Rawls in Jone Carlson Porter's gown of lace organza embroidered with seed pearls and lace motifs. Mrs. Craig O'Brien wore a gown that had been designed and made by Mrs. Leo King, wife of the present pastor, for her daughter-in-law in 1964. The elegant, floor length front panel was richly embroidered with seed pearls and crystal. Miss Melissa Rumbley swept down the aisle in the gown which her sister, Mary Sue, wore when she married Richard Chase in 1974. The gown was fashioned of softly gathered ivory debut crepe with a full-flounced hemline. An elegant gown, never before viewed in public, was modeled by Miss Cynthia McDonald. The gown was worn by Deborah Garland at a private family wedding at the bride's home in 1974. Made of candlelight organza and trimmed with Belgium lace and seed pearls, the skirt swept into a flowing train. Mrs. Marcy Gaudreau O'Brien came down the aisle wearing married March 16 at 7:30 p.m. maid of honor in a short sleeved the gown she had worn six weeks previously at her wedding in the Methodist church.
