Rail Strike On Shelf;

Postal Agreement Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's top labor troubleshooter is turning his full attention to averting a strike by the nation's postal workers after a one-week postponement of a threatened rail strike.

W. J. Usery Jr., chief federal mediator, said serious differences remain between the Postal Service and its four unions. The postal contract covering 600,000 workers expires at midnight Sunday.

Usery had hoped to obtain an agreement before the weekend to forestall the possibility of wildcat strikes by postal workers, but it was believed that a settlement today was unlikely.

Usery concentrated on achieving a postal settlement after the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks agreed Thursday to the one-week postponement of a strike deadline, which had been 12:01 a.m. Monday.

The railway labor talks broke down after union and rail industry negotiators were unable to settle relatively narrow differences. Industry and union negotiators blamed each other for the impasse.

Railroad Subsidy A Wasteful Idea

The proposal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to tap highway trust funds and electric light bills to develop a $12 billion subsidy for U.S. railroads is a bad idea.

It certainly is true that transportation system BROOKS JACKSON of this nation are sick. They need remedies, but most decidedly the remedies do not include more government paternalism. Federal interference in railroad business is a part of the problem, not a

Indeed, the federal bureaucracy has tried for more than 100 years to direct the growth and deployment of the railroads.

The amount of tax money that has gone to support railroads is astonishing. Even the recently created Amtrak, a proposed new start, is drowning in red ink. Its deficits from 1970 to October 1977 are estimated to be $2.5 billion. And it still is not possible for a passenger to cross the United States of America without changing trains. At the other end of the spectrum, far too many Amtrak trains already are routed for political reasons, rather than for efficiency.

Government certainly has a legitimate role in transportation, such as minimum regulation of transportation monopolies - and by their nature railroads must be monopolistic to a degree. The real question that increasingly faces the American people through their elected representatives, however, is just how far into the transportation system must government go before it does more damage

Overregulation stifles the transportation industry. Subsidies simply for the sake of social purposes, such as keeping inefficient rail lines functioning only to create jobs, are simply a form of featherbedding on a grand scale. Creation of jobs does not necessarily create efficiency.

Typically, the government is approaching the problems of rail transportation precipitately. responding to the need of a moment - a national economic and political need - rather than a trans-

And, as is also typical, the government is approaching money first and planning later. The U.S. Railway Association is in the process of preparing a national plan for railroads - a plan that will be ready late in July.

The plan should be published, thoroughly discussed, and adjusted to respond to the national sentiment before permanent, long range financing for rail transportation is considered.

Step To Freedom

President Ford has started down a long and difficult road in undertaking a comprehensive reform of federal regulatory agencies. In linking the reform to the need to bolster the conomy, he should strike a responsive chord in Congress.

Fortunately, Congress is starting some studies of its own that have demonstrated dramatically what over-regulation can do to a free economy. With many railroads and airiines in the midst of financial difficulty, Mr. Ford could not have picked a more propitious time to begin to turn the cycle toward more freedom for the transportation industry.

12 Killed, 100 Injured in Train Derailment

IN BRIEF

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) - "When the train fell over the wall, all I could hear were screams coming from all sides," said a samba dancer after a commuter train derailed and smashed into a suburban dance school. Officials say 12 persons were killed and more than 100 were injured Thursday when the six-car train carrying 1,200 persons, mostly commuters heading home from work in the early evening, left the track and hit the school None of the victims were children, authorities said. Several persons were reported buried in the rubble. The school, the Imperio Serrano, is one of Rio's most famous. Earlier reports said at least 20 persons died in the accident in the district of Madureira. But the railway department said 12 bodies were recovered, and the morgue confirmed the figure.

Indian Opposition Grows

"The people of Gujarat are determined to defend Indian democracy in a peaceful, nonviolent and constitutional way as Gandhi taught us," said Dinesh Shah, the president of a rightwing party which opposes the central government.

Fishermen Threaten Action

MIAMI (AP) - Miami lobster fishermen say they may take matters into their own hands if the U.S. State Department doesn't challenge a new Bahamian law barring them from 100,000 square miles of profitable waters. The Bahamian law, which goes into effect Aug. 1, declares the spiny lobster to be "a creature of the Bahamian shelf." Bahamian officials said any foreigner caught fishing for lobster in the area, which Florida lobstermen say is in international waters, will be ar-

He is a mighty small man—almost too small to leave his footprints in the sand. But he is starting out on his own. He is exploring, seeking, learning. Where will his footsteps ultimately lead him? There are so many courses a child may take - so many that a person of any age can follow. But it is never too late to change direction, even if it seems as if a dead end has been reached. The beauty of life is that the word itself is synonomous with hope.

If the direction your footsteps have been taking you is disappointing, then turn toward the Church. Remember, the Church has survived for centuries against odds that would have annihilated a lesser force. That in itself is reason enough to give it a chance - to see what it has to offer.
