Dr. Lamb—Several months ago I had prostate surgery and getting real fine. Then I developed an infection of my prostate and they were really swollen for several weeks. My doctor is having me sit on a hot water "half-bath" a lot. The swelling is almost gone. Will I still have to wear a supporter day and night?

Dear Reader—The infection of the prostate gland is a common problem for men. The reason for prostate enlargement is not completely understood. It is thought to be caused by a germ and the treatment depends on the severity of the infection. It is important to follow your doctor's advice and take the medicine as directed. It is also important to get regular checkups to monitor the condition.

Joy was shortlived for Lyman High School's football team, but at least it was there for a while in this pregame pileup prior to Friday night's 14-9, loss to arch-rival Lake Brantley. Trinity Prep won its game while Lake Howell and Oriedo emerged losers. For details see stories Pages 1B and 2B.

AND THEN THE GAME STARTED...

There was a double-coating in high school football Friday night... And some wins, and some losses.

The double-coating came for Lake Howell, which earlier in the day had its school painted in a prank by Spruce Creek youths. That night, Spruce Creek applied the second coat — a 24-6 shellacking on the football field.

Hello, Pop Warner! Welcome back to Seminole County. The youth football program which includes some 1,100 youngsters ages 9-14, opened its season Saturday, and for a complete rundown on who won all the games and detailed photo coverage, see Monday's Evening Herald.

Help Seen For 'Displaced Homemakers'

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

U.S. Sen. Richard Stone, visiting before a Senate committee the past week, called on the nation to "make a commitment to help divorced and widowed women develop their latent skills and abilities so they can become productive, self-sufficient citizens."

Stone was testifying before the committee on behalf of legislation he is co-sponsoring, which would authorize the establishment of at least 30 centers throughout the country to help divorced and widowed women develop their skills and confidence they need to enter the job market, often for the first time.

Although the women may be in severe financial straits, Stone said, single parents and heads of households, they may be ineligible for assistance under other federal programs such as welfare and social security.

While Stone is working on the national level, the Seminole County Commission has approved federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) money for pilot programs locally for "displaced homemakers."

The idea, Stone said, is to get a woman in the program, train her and get her into the job market as quickly as possible.

Before a student can be accepted she must be screened by CETA personnel at the Casselberry office. After the screening, she is tested and either placed in the program or other alternatives are suggested.

According to Jim Van Natta of the Casselberry CETA office, applicants for the training must fit the definition of "displaced homemaker" under the law.

A displaced homemaker, Van Natta said, according to the law, is an individual who "has worked in the home providing unpaid household services for family members and is currently head of a household; has been dependent upon the income of another family member but is no longer supported by such income because of divorce, separation, death of a spouse or disability of a spouse; is not gainfully employed or has not worked outside the home in a paid position during the past three years; has had or would have difficulty in securing employment and is a resident of Seminole County."

The Jones program will train a total of 25 displaced homemakers. No charge will be made of the students in this program.

According to Ms. Winward, the SCC program, if approved by the board of trustees, would continue for 12 months. The purpose is to provide pre-employment, self assurance, and skills development programs for these women in Seminole County who can be classified as displaced homemakers, said Ms. Winward.

She said the training would increase prospects for job re-entry success, for job training to bridge the gap and remove barriers for those employed as homemakers for a lengthy period.

Ms. Winward said that it is envisioned that 20 students at a time would be attending classes for two week periods over a year and that a total of 200 women would benefit from the program. A $10 registration and material fee would be charged.

Included within the program would be pre-screening of applicants, individual counseling, organizing diverse methods and purposeful activities to assess personalities, skills, interests, needs and values in working.

In Seminole County 'Positive Motives' Prompt Religious School Boom

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

For various reasons in recent years many Seminole County parents have taken their children out of public schools and enrolled them in the private Christian schools that have opened in the area.

Despite the fact they are losing support public schools with property taxes parents are willing to pay billions ranging from $200 to $250 a year to enroll their child in one of these private schools.

Some of the disenchantment with public schools may date back to fear of racial disturbances, following integration, busing of Bible reading and prayer and second busing, but other reasons that are frequently cited by proponents of Christian schools include lack of moral standards and discipline, prevalence of drugs, lowering of academics with "humanistic philosophy" in textbooks and teaching.

For Seminole County parents interviewed however, the reasons for sending their children to church oriented schools are for the most part not negative, but positive.

Sanford City Manager and Mrs. Warren Knowles send their nine-year-old daughter Sinda to All Souls Parochial School in Sanford, Sinda, who is in fourth grade, started in first grade there. Knowles feels the school offers an excellent foundation for the first eight years as well as good discipline.

Knowles said they decided to send Sinda to All Souls because his older daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. Tracy Lee Sullivan, who has her master's degree at 25, went there. The education she received provided an excellent background and was beneficial in helping her get the advanced degree, Knowles feels.

Sherrill and Mrs. John Polk send their son, John, Jr., to Liberty Christian School in Sanford. Now in the eighth grade, he has attended Liberty since sixth grade and plans to do so until he goes into 10th grade, when he will transfer to Seminole High School. Polk said it was his son's own decision to go back this year and one of the main reasons is he enjoys participating in sports. Polk said the students there are on the same spirit where they work at their own pace, but they are required to complete a certain number of lessons in order to complete each tag football game. A Baptist, Polk said there is a good atmosphere at the school, which is sponsored by Palmisto Avenue Baptist Church, and the discipline is strict. He also thinks the dress and hair codes are a good idea.

Eugene and Joyce Eppler of 228 Francis Drive, Altamonte Springs, feel so strongly about the value of having their children attend a Seventh-day Adventist sponsored school, that six years ago when the small school in Daytona Beach closed, they moved here so that they could attend Forest Lake Elementary Education Center in Forest City.

Mrs. Eppler, who attended public schools from first grade through second year of college, said she never considered sending them to public school, except for kindergarten, which the Adventist school did not have. Julianne is in seventh grade and Robert is in eighth. Next year they will attend

Winter Springs Races Set

Incumbent mayor, Dr. Philand will face John Van Espel of 225 Tradewinds Road in the Nov. 8 municipal election.

The qualifying period for candidates ended Thursday at 1 p.m. at the mayor's office and council costs two and five.

Whether or not the mayor's position will be that of a full-time administrator is yet to be decided by city council. A Sept. 13 special election on the need for a full-time administrator proved inconclusive when 140 voted no and 207 voted yes. Voters approved a decision to continue elected mayor over a hired city manager, however.

Qualifying to run for seat four, currently held by Claude Ash, were Thomas Crown of 30 Targon Court in the Seminoleville area, Laurent Polhem of 112 Moss Road, John Toyama of 11111 Village and the incumbent. — JANE CASSELLBERRY

NATION IN BRIEF

Bugging-Blackmail? Senators Probing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite denials from both U.S. and Panamanian officials that any such thing occurred, Senate investigators are pressing ahead with an inquiry into allegations of eavesdropping and blackmail in connection with the Panama Canal treaty talks.

Adm. Stansfield Turner, director of the CIA, and U.S. treaty negotiator Sol Linowitz will be summoned early next week to testify before a closed-door session of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Mystery shrouded the origin of the report that U.S. agents had electronically spied on Panama's canal treaty negotiators, and that after discovering the eavesdropping, the Panamanians had "blackmailed" the American officials into making concessions on the treaty.

Bill OKs Maternity Leave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation is in the hands of the House today by which tens of millions of pregnant workers would be assured of maternity leave and getting their jobs back. The Senate passed the measure by a 75-11 vote Friday, requiring that employers include pregnancy benefits in all workers' disability plans. A similar bill awaits action in the House. The bills, which would amend the 1964 Civil Rights Act, are an attempt to nullify a Supreme Court ruling that failure to include pregnancy in disability plans is not discrimination based on sex.

Higher SS Taxes In Store

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers and employees alike will have to pay more into the Social Security system if a bill now before the Senate Finance Committee becomes law. In a break with the past, the committee voted Friday to require employers to pay higher Social Security taxes than their workers as part of an effort to keep the system solvent. Currently, employers and employees each pay a Social Security tax of 5.35 per cent on the first $16,500 the worker earns. The maximum amount is $987.25 a year.

Callas Honored In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Critics, performers and culture officials paid tribute today to Maria Callas, the American-born soprano whose dramatic portrayals made her queen of the opera in her time. "She was the diva. Goddesses never die," said Paris Opera administrator Rolf Liebermann after learning of Miss Callas' death of a heart attack in her Paris apartment Friday. The 53-year-old performer fell unconscious in her bedroom and was dead when doctors arrived, her artistic director Michael Grotz said. Her death followed by three days that of another giant in the music world, conductor Leopold Stokowski.

TRIESTE, Italy (AP) — A strong earthquake rocked parts of Italy, Austria and Yugoslavia early today. No casualties were reported. The tremor collapsed homes and knocked out power and water supplies near its epicenter in northern Italy, a region devastated by an earthquake that killed about 1,000 persons last year.

Burglar Suspect Evades Sanford Chase

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police Saturday were looking for an unidentified man seen running from a burglary suspect in a residential area, but a witness reportedly carrying a gun.

Patrolman William Hesson reported Carlos Holliman, 19, of 2416 Summerlin Ave., called police about 6 a.m. after a short-foot chase in which the unidentified man eluded Holliman. Officers said the 2416 Summerlin Ave. residence of Gertrude M. Goodall had been burglarized and ransacked and a .32-caliber pistol was reported missing.

Investigators were trying to determine if the Summerlin Ave. burglary might be linked to the burglary of an auto and theft of another car a short time earlier on nearby Adams Court.

Patrolman Rick Deering reported while on his way to the Gallagher, of 2405 Adams Court, told police the Chevrolet had been taken from his residence and another car there, a 1976 Buick, had been burglarized.

Beggs reported he drove around the area in his auto and spotted a man hitchhiking. When Beggs approached the man, he ran into the wooded area after saying, "I'm not getting in the car with you. I know that car," according to deputies. Officers searched the area, but failed to find the suspect. Sheriff's detectives are investigating the reported theft of $1,775 cash from a safe at the Burger King restaurant, 5848 Butler Plaza, Casselberry.

Deputies said there were no signs of forced entry to the business and the safe apparently was opened by someone who knew the combination.

Lance: If I Had My Druthers...

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert Lance insisted today there was nothing improper or unethical about the handling of his political debts by the Calhoun Campaign Fund.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., opened the questioning of Lance and focused on the arrangement under which bills incurred in Lance's 1974 campaign for governor of Georgia were paid through an account set up in the Calhoun bank.

When the account was established, Lance was president of the bank. In May 1974, he became chairman of the board.

During the campaign, the account became overdrawn. Critics of Lance on the committee have suggested he violated the spirit if not the letter of federal laws which prohibit national banks from contributing to political campaigns and bar banks from making large loans to their principal officers.

The Justice Department is examining information about Lance's use of the plan to determine if any federal laws were violated.

After meeting with Sen.

Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee, Clifford said, "We raised no objections" to answering questions about the plan.

Officer Assault Trial Delayed

The circuit court trial of an Alton Springs man accused of attempted murder and aggravated battery upon an Orlando police vice squad officer has been postponed a second time at Sanford because the wounded officer is unable to appear in court.

Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGregor on Friday reset the trial of John Adam Reese, 31, of 519 Oak St., for the week of Oct. 10.

Reese is accused in the shooting of officer Terry Thuma, 29, during a heroin search warrant raid at the 519 Oak St. address on July 24. Thuma was shot in the neck with a .22 rifle, police said, as he entered the second door of the house.

A spokesman at Florida Hospital South, Orlando, said Saturday that officer Thuma was being moved from the intensive care unit to the hospital's rehabilitation unit for continued treatment.

Reese is free on $5,000 bond pending trial.

Other trials that had been docketed for the two-week trial period starting Monday but have been continued until Oct. 10 include:

—Walter Brian Frizell, 20, of Sorrento, accused of two separate burglaries near Lake Mary and sexual battery of a seven-year-old girl during one of the burglaries.

—Michael Joseph Moons, 19, of Alton Springs, accused of two counts of burglary and one charge of felony marijuana possession.

ILLEGAL DRUG
In other pleas Friday before Judge McGregor:

—Margaret Ann Davis, 25, of Fern Park, pleaded guilty to possession of $10 worth of illegal penicillin to an undercover agent on June 15. "There was nothing in it for me," the black-haired go-go dancer told the court. She said she'd been the girlfriend of an unidentified boyfriend who was in her bedroom when the controlled substance was delivered to the agent.

—Terry Lynn Moore, 21, of Orlando, pleaded guilty to the $9 robbery of Randall L. Cheever, of Forest City. She said she and a 17-year-old juvenile suspect were hitchhiking with the intent to rob someone when Cheever gave them a ride near Altamonte Springs. Miss Moore is in jail pending sentencing on Nov. 17.

Judge McGregor said Friday afternoon that he'll hear arguments "early in the week" on a defense motion to dismiss the charges against Brian Raymond Cloutman, 21, of Pleasant Drive, Sanford.

The motion claims that the prosecution has no evidence to support the second-degree murder charge and that the shotgun, a double-barrel 1875 model, is an antique and not exempt from the short-barrel shotgun law. Cloutman is free on $10,000 bond pending trial in connection with the Aug. 23 death of his son, Vincent, at the family's trailer home south of Sanford.

The child was killed by a single shotgun blast while he sat in a walker in the trailer while his father was watching a television wrestling match, sheriff's investigators said. The father told investigators the shooting was accidental and Herring contends the state has no evidence to the contrary.

An affidavit in the court file from an Orange City man states that he sold the sawed-off shotgun in Cloutman and considered it an antique at that time. The affidavit doesn't give a date for the shotgun sale.

Sanfordite Enters Child Abuse Plea

A 38-year-old Sanford man has pleaded guilty to two misdemeanor counts of child abuse in a negotiated circuit court plea.

Paul Allen Sturgis, 38, had been scheduled for trial next week before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor on three felony charges of aggravated child abuse, punishable by up to 15 years prison on each count.

On Friday Sturgis pleaded guilty to misdemeanor counts of beating three-year-old Wayne Eugene Medlin with a board and of forcing him to wear rubber pants and refusing to permit them to be removed.

Sturgis could get a maximum sentence of one year in county jail on each charge. He is in county jail during a pre-sentence investigation. Sentencing is set for Oct. 27. Judge McGregor lowered bond for Sturgis from $1,500 to $500.

Sturgis and the child's mother, Ester Frances Medlin, 26, of 1506 W. Third St., Sanford, were arrested by police on child abuse charges July 29. Mrs. Medlin pleaded guilty in county court to a misdemeanor child abuse charge and is free on bond during a pre-sentence investigation.

The motion claims that the prosecution has no evidence to support the second-degree murder charge and that the shotgun, a double-barrel 1875 model, is an antique and not exempt from the short-barrel shotgun law. Cloutman is free on $10,000 bond pending trial in connection with the Aug. 23 death of his son, Vincent, at the family's trailer home south of Sanford.

The child was killed by a single shotgun blast while he sat in a walker in the trailer while his father was watching a television wrestling match, sheriff's investigators said. The father told investigators the shooting was accidental and Herring contends the state has no evidence to the contrary.

An affidavit in the court file from an Orange City man states that he sold the sawed-off shotgun in Cloutman and considered it an antique at that time. The affidavit doesn't give a date for the shotgun sale.

In other pleas Friday before Judge McGregor:

—Margaret Ann Davis, 25, of Fern Park, pleaded guilty to possession of $10 worth of illegal penicillin to an undercover agent on June 15. "There was nothing in it for me," the black-haired go-go dancer told the court. She said she'd been the girlfriend of an unidentified boyfriend who was in her bedroom when the controlled substance was delivered to the agent.

—Terry Lynn Moore, 21, of Orlando, pleaded guilty to the $9 robbery of Randall L. Cheever, of Forest City. She said she and a 17-year-old juvenile suspect were hitchhiking with the intent to rob someone when Cheever gave them a ride near Altamonte Springs. Miss Moore is in jail pending sentencing on Nov. 17.

Officer Assault Trial Delayed

The circuit court trial of an Alton Springs man accused of attempted murder and aggravated battery upon an Orlando police vice squad officer has been postponed a second time at Sanford because the wounded officer is unable to appear in court.

Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGregor on Friday reset the trial of John Adam Reese, 31, of 519 Oak St., for the week of Oct. 10.

Reese is accused in the shooting of officer Terry Thuma, 29, during a heroin search warrant raid at the 519 Oak St. address on July 24. Thuma was shot in the neck with a .22 rifle, police said, as he entered the second door of the house.

A spokesman at Florida Hospital South, Orlando, said Saturday that officer Thuma was being moved from the intensive care unit to the hospital's rehabilitation unit for continued treatment.

Reese is free on $5,000 bond pending trial.

Other trials that had been docketed for the two-week trial period starting Monday but have been continued until Oct. 10 include:

—Walter Brian Frizell, 20, of Sorrento, accused of two separate burglaries near Lake Mary and sexual battery of a seven-year-old girl during one of the burglaries.

—Michael Joseph Moons, 19, of Alton Springs, accused of two counts of burglary and one charge of felony marijuana possession.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Judge Temporarily Delays Spenkellink Execution

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A federal judge has temporarily spared John A. Spenkellink from the electric chair, but the 28-year-old convict's reprieve may be a short one.

Spenkellink's execution, scheduled for Monday morning, was stayed late Friday by U.S. District Judge William Stafford.

The judge said he was delaying the execution so Spenkellink's attorneys could present arguments at a Wednesday hearing that Florida's death penalty law is irrational and discriminates against blacks.

State Seeks 41 Projects

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The state has submitted a $68 million wish list of water projects to the federal government.

The 41 public works projects ranging from beach erosion control to harbor dredging were submitted Friday by the Department of Environmental Regulation.

Smugglers 'Outgun' Police

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Sharply increased federal and state aid is needed to stop well-organized Southwest Florida drug smugglers who may be bringing in up to $1 billion in marijuana a year, say state prosecutors.

State Attorney Joe D'Alessandro of Fort Myers told the House Select Committee on Organized Crime Friday that the well-equipped smugglers have "outgunned" authorities in desolate Southwest Florida.

Condemned Loses Appeal

TAMPA (AP) — A state judge has refused to set aside the death penalty for condemned killer Charles Proffitt, saying he found no new points of appeal in the three-year-old legal battle to spare Proffitt from electrocution.

Hillsborough Circuit Judge Charles Scruggs denied a motion Friday to vacate the death sentence and said there has to be a point in time where a case is finally resolved.

Scruggs agreed with State Attorney E.J. Salcines who argued "all of this is a rehash of old material already brought up in appeals to the state Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court."

"This has been litigated, re-litigated and re-litigated, re-litigated and re-litigated again. There have been hearings, re-hearings and re-hearings," Salcines insisted.

The judge agreed. "Within our judicial system there should be some point of finality where an appeal is resolved — and we don't have that today," he said. "It looks like a never-ending process. It is a waste of taxpayer money as far as I'm concerned, to litigate and re-litigate."

Proffitt was convicted of the 1973 knife slaying of high school wrestling coach Joe Medgebow, 23, when he broke into Medgebow's home. Proffitt was sentenced to die in the electric chair in 1974.

Medgebow's father, Irvin Medgebow, was among the spectators in the courtroom during the 20-minute hearing. "I see nothing new in this case," he said afterwards. "Let's get 'em with it. It's become a game for young attorneys to get their names in the newspapers. It's just a question of delaying it all."

After Proffitt's case was re-filed by the Florida Supreme Court and again by the U.S. Supreme Court last year in its 1976 landmark decision that ruled Florida's capital punishment law was constitutional.

Proffitt is on Death Row, but no warrant has been signed by the governor for his execution. His attorney Robert Grizzard claimed he was raising three new points, but the trial court erred in considering aggravating factors; that the state's death penalty is unconstitutional under the 14th Amendment guaranteeing due process of law; and that the death penalty is handed out in a manner that discriminates against race and sex.

Woman Says Woe, Judge Says No

BARTON (AP) — Not often do judges get the time, to mete out justice in verse or rhyme. But when opportunity came his way, Thomas Langston, a Lakeland circuit judge, recently sent Laura Ford, 21, to state prison for her part in a Lakeland drugstore holdup.

"On God, please help me please, all I want to get out to see, behind these prison walls is me. Please open the gate with your key."

"I learned my lesson and I learned it well, because in this prison I've been through hell, I used to yell and shout a lot, but now I think I'd better not."

"This prison can make the warmest people cold, and even make the young ones weary and old. I pray that this won't happen to me, oh please won't you listen to my plea."

"I wonder if there are still people who care? Please won't you listen to my prayer?"

Langston, taking the woman's poem as a formal plea for mitigation of her sentence, wrote the following to her and ordered a copy of it placed in the official court record:

"The poem received is a plea for early release from custody. The defendant alleges she's seen the light, and daily prays with all her heart that the outside world she soon will see, and that the court will set her free. This court does care and wants to be reasonable and fair, but does believe, as you can see, that sometimes it must disagree. "So in reply to your tale of woe, I must advise the answer is no."

20 Years In Space Sputnik Set In Motion New View Of World

JOHN GARDNER

EDITOR'S NOTE — Twenty years ago a strange word, Sputnik, entered our language and a new era began in the history of the planet. Just as the platform of space gave the astronauts a new view of earth, a new perspective, so now we have the high hill of time, two decades, from which to measure the events that Sputnik set in motion. The view, as that of the astronaut, is compelling.

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent
You couldn't see the darn thing except at sunrise or sunset with great patience and good binoculars, and then you only saw a slow, moving pinpoint of light. You couldn't hear the darn thing except when the network interrupted the Jack Paar show to relay an eerie beep-beep.

You couldn't date the birthday of the Golden Age of Greece or the Renaissance or the Industrial Revolution. But, at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 4, 1957, you could say the Space Age had begun. It began as a triumph for one nation and a humiliation for another. It made the earth seem dangerous and yet safer; it made the possibilities of man more finite and yet, assuming peace, more infinite. But at the moment, it was largely perceived in terms of nationalism and the shifting equinox of the Cold War.

'It has deeply affected many professionals I know, diplomats and others who work in international affairs and environmental matters.'

The explosion of federal money for scientific and technological research, the interaction between research and national purpose, is credited with a large role in many scientific advances and Nobel prizes. It also led to a permanent marriage between government and academe.

Until then, Washington used to turn to the companies only for limited periods, like wars, and then it left. But Sputnik sent the government scurrying to the companies to stay. Now, 20 years later, it is still there, supplying between a quarter and a half of the total budget of many of our most prestigious universities.

The records have been great but there are educators who worry that abstract scientific research may have suffered because men go where the money is and the money goes in the direction of the government's specific, shifting interests. Once it was physicists and engineers and there are now unemployed physicists and engineers.

'We sail on this new sea because there is new knowledge to be gained, and new rights to be won, and they must be won and used for the progress of all people.'

—John Kennedy

We are promised much more in the future. With a few more billion dollars here and there, we are told, we could:

What remains beyond argument is that Sputnik, directly and indirectly, uncorked a phenomenal burst of American technology and science.

The space program's need to deal with huge, unmanageable numbers in a hurry accelerated the development of computers, in which America now leads the world and by which much of our lives are dominated — our choices, our votes, our bank accounts, our problems and our projected solutions. Like it or not.

The records have been great but there are educators who worry that abstract scientific research may have suffered because men go where the money is and the money goes in the direction of the government's specific, shifting interests. Once it was physicists and engineers and there are now unemployed physicists and engineers.

Both the Soviet poet, and the Communist leader, were more truth than poetry. The sodas, technologically backward Russians were up there first.

20 years later, an American flag stands rigidly alone on the moon. And American spacecraft are being directed at Jupiter, Saturn and worlds beyond.

About those spacecraft are recordings. Should they be heard by intelligent life out there, the greeting from earth will be in the dulcet tones of a Georgian, from the South of the United States not the South of Russia, a man whose prime goal in life 20 years ago was to make a buck out of peanuts.

Among the recordings on those spacecraft are samples of 40 earth languages. The United States moves through space with more evident poise and self-assurance than in any other area of national endeavor.

In two decades of tramas, self-doubt and self-questioning, space appears to be the one arena of glory in which the country made a full recovery.

And now the words of Jimmy Carter ring out to unknown galaxies: "We human beings," he says by way of introduction, "are still divided into nation states, but these states are rapidly becoming a single global civilization."

If some superior intelligence out there should smile over this description as the premature optimism of a politician on the space stump, be aha or it would have to concede that the words may have a subliminal validity.

Near its 20th birthday, the Space Age is credited with much measurable change in the exploding technology and

LYMAN'S DAVE SIMS TURNS HEADS FOR THE SIDELINES IN FRIDAY NIGHT'S SQUEAKER AGAINST ARCH-RIVAL LAKE BRANTLEY

Brantley Loses Statistical Battle, Wins Points War

ALBERS GRINS AFTER KEY KICKOFF RETURN

Patriots Defeat Lyman By 14-9

By ANDY GIRARDI
Herald Correspondent

For the second week in a row, Lake Brantley coach Jim Haley said his team played uninspired football but for the second week in a row the Patriots made believers out of a 4,000 crowd with an impressive 14-9 victory over arch-rival Lyman.

Most impressive about the victory is that Lyman won the statistical battle, but lost the points war.

"We got them when we needed them," Haley said after the game. "Defense did the job again."

Although the Pats had trouble containing Tony Brooks, who rushed for 114 yards, Brantley was tough when it came down to the goal line.

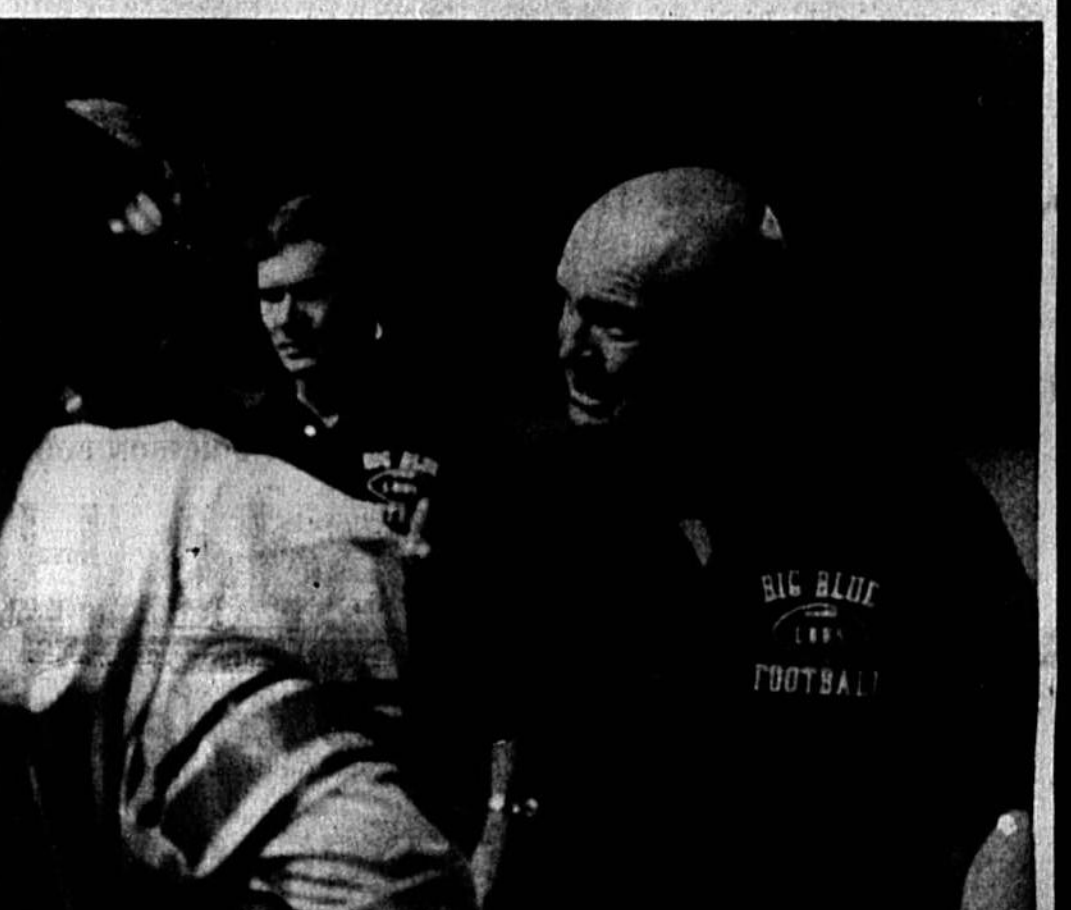

"I don't know what was wrong. This should have been the most emotional game of the season. The squad just remained quiet and went its own way, winning game No. 2."

"The big factors were Tom Albers' run back, the defense's stop of Brooks with only minutes left in the contest," Haley added.

In the first quarter after Lyman had taken a 6-0 lead on a solid well executed drive, Tommy Albers took the kickoff and went up the right sideline with a burst of speed, eighty-three yards for the score. Mike Kavanaugh's kick put Brantley ahead which is where they stayed the rest of the evening.

In the third quarter Brantley took the kickoff on its own 32 and drove in for the score with the help of the key Dean Shackelford runs. It was Albers who finally went over though, with 9:11 remaining in the quarter, behind a massive block from Shackelford who picked up 32 of his 47 yards on that series.

Courageous Ahead, 2-0

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — "We're still going to school, I'm sorry to say," Australia skipper Noel Robbins admits.

Lessons resume today, with Ted Turner, skipper of the America's Cup defender Courageous, serving as headmaster.

On Friday, the Australians sailed their best race of the series, making few if any mistakes, but Turner still beat them by 1 minute, 3 seconds to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven series.

The series continues today, weather permitting, and the Australians already are in a very precarious position: Even though Courageous needs two more victories to win the series, the Australians have yet to find Turner's Achilles heel.

"Today was an indication that Australia has the potential to win," said Alan Bond, head of the Aussie syndicate. "We are getting better. We've won three starts; now we've got to win some finishes."

Courageous led by as much as 2:08 at the third mark and still was ahead by 1:08 at the fourth mark, before Australia made her move on the fifth leg, a run downwind. Gybing at an angle to the wind, Australia picked up good air and cut more than a minute off the margin, trailing by 1:06 at the fifth mark.

Australia finally was in position to initiate the first tacking duel of the day, attacking Courageous on the final beat to the finish line.

But Turner's Achilles heel, if he has one, was securely sheathed.

Australia was clocked one second behind Turner at the start, but the Aussie boat was to windward and had the advantage until about 30 minutes into the first leg. On opposite tacks, Turner finally had gained enough ground to cut across Australia's bow. When he did, he immediately tacked over to cover, and minutes later, he found a 10-degree wind shift that just carried him away from Robbins.

He led by 2:00 at the first and second marks as Australia's crew first set a sloppy spinaker, then had trouble when they tried to change it for another at the second mark.

Tarkenton Schoolboy?

By The Associated Press

Two of professional sports' most successful expansion franchises, the Minnesota Vikings and Dallas Cowboys, square off in one of the feature games of the first weekend of National Football League action Sunday.

The Cowboys, who were 6-11-1 in their first season in 1960, have not had a losing season since 1964 and have posted a 137-93-6 record in 17 years under Coach Tom Landry.

The Vikings won three games in their rookie year of 1961, a record for an expansion franchise. They have a team record of 127-89-8 and have not had a losing season since 1967, the first year under Coach Bud Grant.

Vikings' quarterback Fran Tarkenton is looking forward to the tough opener in Bloomington.

"I feel like a schoolboy. I really do. I never get over that surge. How many years? The 17th for me."

Whether the Vikings make it to their fifth Super Bowl—they've lost all four previous appearances in the championship game—might be indicated by their performance against Dallas. Each time Minnesota won its season's opener since 1970, the Vikings took the NFC Central Division title. In 1972, when they lost their opener to Washington, the Vikes finished behind Green Bay in the division.

Minnesota hasn't lost at home since the Cowboys defeated them in the 1975 playoffs.

Much-heralded rookie Tony Dorsett will not start for the Cowboys.

In Sunday's other opener, defending champion Oakland entertains San Diego. Philadelphia hosts Tampa Bay, Cleveland journeys to Cincinnati, Los Angeles visits Atlanta, Washington is at the Giants, Miami is in Buffalo, Kansas City plays at New England, Detroit is at Chicago, Green Bay visits New Orleans, the New York Jets are in Houston, St. Louis at Denver and Seattle hosts Baltimore.

On Monday night, it's San Francisco at Pittsburgh.

Orioles Await Word On Forfeit

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, scrambling to stay alive in the American League's East Division race, find out today if they get another chance to win a game already recorded in the loss column.

League President Lee MacPhail promised to announce prior to Baltimore's afternoon game with the Boston Red Sox whether he would set aside Baltimore's forfeit loss to Toronto Thursday night.

The Orioles made a pitch for a reversal of the umpires' decision prior to Friday night's game against Boston. After meeting behind closed doors for more than an hour, MacPhail took the matter under advisement.

"I want to talk with the umpires again," MacPhail said. "I read their report, but I want a little additional information."

The umpiring crew headed by Marty Springstead, which is now working in Detroit, called the forfeit against Baltimore after Manager-Earl Weaver took his team off the field in the bottom of the fifth inning while trailing, 4-4.

Green Protests Laughing Crowd

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — It's not often that Hubert Green is laughed at when he misses a putt.

It happened in the Ryder Cup fourballs Friday when he three-putted on the 11th, and it stung him into the midst of protests afterwards.

"It's frustrating when the crowd laughs when you miss, but it's self-defeating. All it does is make you try harder," he said.

Green's fourball partner, Tom Watson, echoed the protest—essentially mildly.

Despite that three-putt, Green and Watson beat the host pair of Brian Barnes and Tommy Horton 5 and 4 in a day which saw the Americans win four of five matches and increase their lead to 7-4-4.

Watson, twice a winner of the British Open, in 1975 and again this year, hastily added, "But I like the British crowds. They're intelligent, and if you do something out of the ordinary they always applaud you. In the States they seem to take it for granted."

The series concluded today with 10 singles matches.

Trinity Uses Defense As 13-8 Victory Key

By DAN RUTLEDGE
Herald Correspondent

EATONVILLE — "Somebody called it a cheap one, but they'd take it," said Trinity Coach Joel Kelley of his team's Friday night victory over Orlando Heritage Prep, 13-8.

"We got all we needed in the first quarter, then played enough defense for the rest of the game. I don't call that a cheap win at all," Kelley asserted.

"They (Heritage) were playing awfully rough out there tonight," Kelley continued.

"We lost Mike Butcher late in the first quarter — somebody twisted his ankle in a pile-up — and when we did, we lost our offense."

"They were curling us, trying to start something — but we kept our heads, for the most part, and played good football. It definitely was not a cheap win."

Kelley wasn't kidding or exaggerating about the Saints' punctlessness after the first quarter.

"It looked like Trinity would plow the home team right off the Wymore field for 10 minutes — then, nothing."

Trinity got seven first downs all in the first quarter — and 79 total yards — 57 in the first quarter.

In other words, Trinity got just enough to win.

Sanford's Jay Johnson put the first points of the night on the board for Trinity — intercepting Heritage QB Ethan Ware's first pass of the evening and returning it 47 yards to paydirt.

Johnson then added the point after, and it was 7-0 with 6:52 left in the opening period.

Five minutes later Trinity was in the Heritage end zone again. Chan Muller broke over the left side for six yards to cap the 35-yard drive.

Starting QB Butcher had a big game — 19 yards — on the drive, his last carry of the night.

An over-anxious Heritage offense helped Trinity win its entrenchment position in the first period. Every time the Saints' Butcher would call a long count the Praetorians would jump off sides.

The first season belonged entirely to the Saints.

Two other Trinity drives in the opening period were halted by fumbles only — one fumble by Brent Matthews at the Heritage 18, the other by a fumble at the home team's 34-yard line.

Heritage never got outside its own 40 in the first period — but played the remaining three quarters knocking on the Saints' door.

Palmer Miles is only a sophomore, but he knew — knew for certain that the Trinity Prep Saints would call Heritage Prep Friday night.

While head coach Joel Kelley wandered around muttering about how big and tough Heritage looked, whether his team's execution would be "better than in practice the last few days" or that the players "weren't up" Palmer was sitting calmly, cross-legged — relaxed.

Relaxed, but ready, seemed to be the mood of the entire Saints' team — and just minutes before game time.

"Coach down here to worry, we're going to win this game. Miles said with a slight smile. "I thought we whipped Shortcut pretty good last week. The score didn't show it — but they knew it."

"I've pushed them all over the field in the first quarter, and in the last half."

Palmer's smile widened, and he spoke again, with even a little grin. "And it's not our victory. And it's not our victory."

"Against Shortcut, it was so bad that we went out. We were unable to beat them. But now, we're going to win this game. Miles said with a slight smile. "I thought we whipped Shortcut pretty good last week. The score didn't show it — but they knew it."

drive just before intermission. The drive took 14 plays and over six minutes, the TD coming with 7:44 showing on the clock. Fullback Alan Williams gathered in a seven-yard pass from Lalfback Julius Williams for the score.

The first final period Heritage threat was set up by a muffed punt at the 9:11 mark. A bad snap caused Johnson to have to eat the ball in his own 31.

After working the ball to a first and goal at the nine, Trinity's defense put Heritage in reverse.

Kelley and Trinity banked on Johnson and one by David Poe, and a penalty put the home team back at 28, where two incomplete passes stopped the threat momentarily.

The last goal-line stand of the night came with 2:40 left. A fumble had given the Praetorians good field position, and they worked it to a first-and-goal at the Trinity 47-yard line.

But then — reverse again. This time it was three sacks in a row, for minus 16 yards — Trinity took over with less than two minutes to go at their own 20. On fourth down, with second left, Johnson went back to punt. On fourth down, with second left, Johnson went back to punt. On fourth down, with second left, Johnson went back to punt.

Lake Howell Loses To Spruce Creek

By GEORGE SHIVER

DAYTONA BEACH — Lake Howell High School got a double-out from Spruce Creek Friday.

In the early hours of the morning some 30 students were caught painting the Lake Howell school windows and sidewalks in a pregame ruse. Later that night, Spruce Creek's football team gave Lake Howell a second count in form of a 26-0 shellacking on the football field.

In the game, witnessed by an estimated 2,000 fans, Lake Howell was unable to untrack its explosiveness, due in part to some superb preparations by the Spruce Creek coaching staff.

"Lake Howell had us alarmed, and we did everything we could to get ready," said assistant Wayne Wheeler, former collegiate star and Lake Howell's coach.

Bob Luby was the object of much of Spruce Creek's attention. Luby appeared to be everywhere on the field, both offensively and defensively for the Hawks. He scored on a 18-yard run. Luby carried five times for 44 yards and took three passes for another 35 yards. On defense, Luby broke up five pass plays, three in succession.

Spruce Creek's Jo Jo Lee and Kelvin Oates helped the home team dominate the game.

Lee rushed 20 times for 125 yards and Oates added 88 as the two accounted for 193 of their team's 283 yards of total offense.

The first quarter of play saw Lake Howell threaten on several occasions, but unable to make that into 10 yards for a score. One drive ended where Spruce Creek intercepted a pass.

In the second quarter Spruce Creek mounted a drive from its 22 to Lake Howell's nine with Lee's darting around, through and over the Howell line. Lee appeared to score a touchdown, but a personal foul nullified the play. At this point Bobby Luby, along with the Silver Hawks defense stopped Spruce Creek's drive only to turn the ball back to the Hawks when a complete pass was fumbled on the Lake Howell 49.

Spruce Creek capitalized on the Silver Hawk fumble with Charlie Robinson and Lee grinding the ball to the end zone. Taking it through the middle.

With the end of the first half drawing near, the Silver Hawks took to the air and was seemingly unable to move the ball for a first down. Clark Dickson cleverly executed a fake punt and scrambled 12 yards for a first down to keep alive the drive to the Spruce Creek 25, where the air attack broke down turning the ball over.

In the opening of the second half the Hawks fumbled an option play punted recovered, by Lake Howell's Frank Fabrizio who set up the Silver Hawks only touchdown. Doug Grider, ground-gaining work horse for Howell, moved the ball from the Spruce Creek 30 to the 18 before Bobby Luby made an outstanding run against the grain to score. The extra point attempt was wide making the score 7-0.

Receiving the kickoff from Lake Howell, Lee returned the ball 15 yards to start Spruce Creek's second scoring drive of the evening. Scott Stevens completed a 16-yard pass to Oates then Lee carried to the Lake Howell 39 on an option play.

Stevens then charged to the 30, and then the 25 when his backfield was unable to contain Howell blitzing. Mark David carried the ball to Lake Howell's six which set up Lee's scoring plunge from the two making the score 13-0.

The ability sophomore, who sports No. 40 on his back, is one of the most dangerous open field runners in the state.

Late in the second session, Marvin got an opportunity to show his stuff. First he picked up 18 yards after accepting a pounce from Willis on the option play.

This brought the ball to the Warriors 49-yard line just before 15:00.

Oviedo Hopes Washed Away Coach Displeased After Second Loss

Before the football season started, the Oviedo Lions' head coach, Joe Montgomery had high hopes for his Seminole County coaches.

But after just two games have become history, the Lions' mentor seems to be more than a little disappointed in the performance of his Seminole County coaches.

Opening day found Oviedo squaring off against highly-rated Leesburg, with the Lions dropping a 14-7 decision to the Yellowjackets.

After that contest, Montgomery was so upset, he couldn't talk to reporters until he had allowed himself several minutes to regain his composure.

Friday night the Lions dropped their second straight contest, this one to West Orange by the final score of 26-6, and it wasn't until Montgomery spoke to the news media it was a dejected and disappointed Montgomery.

"We questioned as to why his team had been shellacked by the one-sided margin, the soft spoken and personable head coach responded, "they (West Orange) wanted the game more than we did."

"I would appreciate it if you would print that. It is obvious that the other team played better than we did, by the number of points they put on the board."

"They wanted it. We didn't. That's all I can say. I hope in better weeks to come we will give a better performance than we did tonight, because I know we are capable of better football than we showed."

The turning point in the Orange Belt Conference title came in the third period. After stopping an Oviedo drive that carried on the Lions' 23-yard line down to the Warriors' 17, West Orange put on a march that was to take all the heart out of the local squad.

Quarterback Randy Willis played the ball on an option play that circled his own left end. The gambit had come on a "fourth and four" situation and had just failed to pick up the necessary yardage.

The official measurement showed the Lions to be less than six inches short of the first down marker. As it turned out, a 39-yard burst over left tackle by Harry Ward had gotten the Warriors out of the shadow of their own goal. Five plays later, the Warriors were faced with a fourth and 13 situation from the Spruce Creek 29-yard marker.

With the Oviedo coaches screaming from the sidelines, "Don't get beat deep," the Lions' secondary allowed end Carlos Brown to sneak in behind it and take a perfect pass in the end zone.

The Lions had gone from high hopes to sudden disaster on just one play, and the youngsters never seemed to be able to rebound from the bitter disappointment.

The final period was all West Orange as the Warriors put a couple of other tallies on the board before the final gun had a chance to put Oviedo out of its misery.

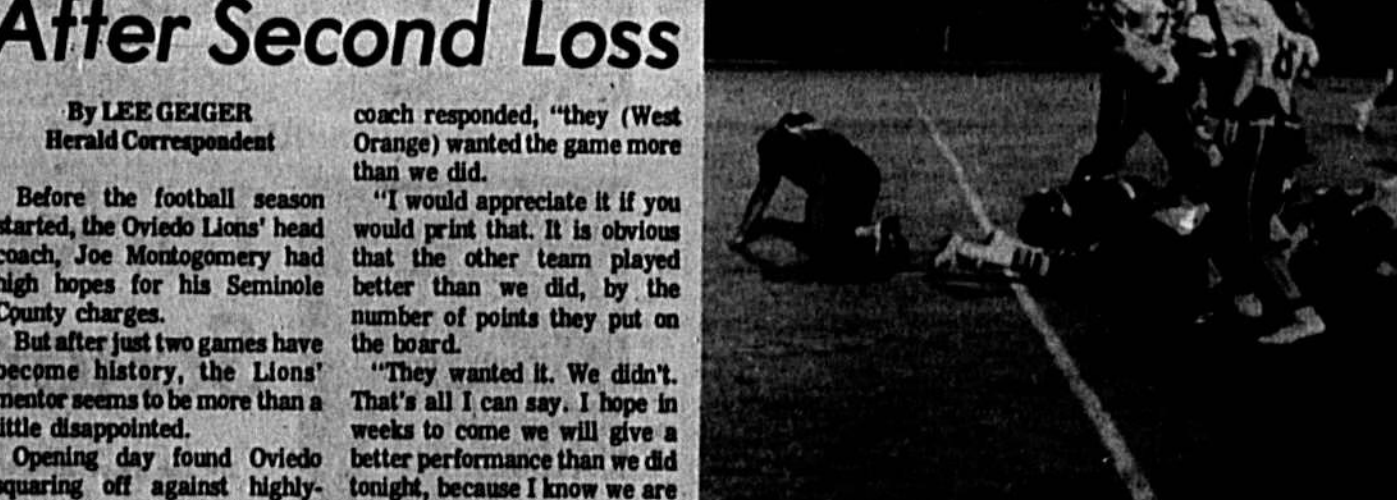

The Lions' score came as a result of their offense but come this year, on the back of Marvin McClenon.

With the Oviedo coaches screaming from the sidelines, "Don't get beat deep," the Lions' secondary allowed end Carlos Brown to sneak in behind it and take a perfect pass in the end zone.

The Lions had gone from high hopes to sudden disaster on just one play, and the youngsters never seemed to be able to rebound from the bitter disappointment.

The final period was all West Orange as the Warriors put a couple of other tallies on the board before the final gun had a chance to put Oviedo out of its misery.

The Lions' score came as a result of their offense but come this year, on the back of Marvin McClenon.

The ability sophomore, who sports No. 40 on his back, is one of the most dangerous open field runners in the state.

Late in the second session, Marvin got an opportunity to show his stuff. First he picked up 18 yards after accepting a pounce from Willis on the option play.

This brought the ball to the Warriors 49-yard line just before 15:00.

Before the football season started, the Oviedo Lions' head coach, Joe Montgomery had high hopes for his Seminole County coaches.

But after just two games have become history, the Lions' mentor seems to be more than a little disappointed in the performance of his Seminole County coaches.

Opening day found Oviedo squaring off against highly-rated Leesburg, with the Lions dropping a 14-7 decision to the Yellowjackets.

After that contest, Montgomery was so upset, he couldn't talk to reporters until he had allowed himself several minutes to regain his composure.

Friday night the Lions dropped their second straight contest, this one to West Orange by the final score of 26-6, and it wasn't until Montgomery spoke to the news media it was a dejected and disappointed Montgomery.

"We questioned as to why his team had been shellacked by the one-sided margin, the soft spoken and personable head coach responded, "they (West Orange) wanted the game more than we did."

"I would appreciate it if you would print that. It is obvious that the other team played better than we did, by the number of points they put on the board."

"They wanted it. We didn't. That's all I can say. I hope in better weeks to come we will give a better performance than we did tonight, because I know we are capable of better football than we showed."

The turning point in the Orange Belt Conference title came in the third period. After stopping an Oviedo drive that carried on the Lions' 23-yard line down to the Warriors' 17, West Orange put on a march that was to take all the heart out of the local squad.

Quarterback Randy Willis played the ball on an option play that circled his own left end. The gambit had come on a "fourth and four" situation and had just failed to pick up the necessary yardage.

The official measurement showed the Lions to be less than six inches short of the first down marker. As it turned out, a 39-yard burst over left tackle by Harry Ward had gotten the Warriors out of the shadow of their own goal. Five plays later, the Warriors were faced with a fourth and 13 situation from the Spruce Creek 29-yard marker.

With the Oviedo coaches screaming from the sidelines, "Don't get beat deep," the Lions' secondary allowed end Carlos Brown to sneak in behind it and take a perfect pass in the end zone.

Blair Turns Offensive, Boosts Yankees To Win

By The Associated Press

Defense has been the trademark of Paul Blair's major league career. But Blair turned Blair's offense that keyed the latest New York Yankee victory.

Normally used as a late-inning defensive replacement, Blair played the whole game Friday night because of an injury to regular center fielder Mickey Rivers. He surprised even himself with a two-run home run in the eighth inning to help the Yankees edge the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

The victory held the Yankees' American League East Division lead at 2 1/2 games over the Baltimore Orioles. And it was the 700th career victory for Yankee Manager Billy Martin.

In his eighth year as a major league manager, Martin has directed four teams to a record of 700-557.

The Yankees, who have won 13 of their last 20 games, had come from behind as Detroit jumped out to a 3-1 lead on Rusty Staub's two-run homer, his 20th of the season, and a run-scoring single by John Wockenski.

Lou Piniella doubled home Reggie Jackson and Graig Nettles and Blair followed with his fourth home of the season to give Don Gullett his 12th victory, against four defeats.

Orleans 8, Red Sox 1
Home runs by Eddie Murray and Lee May backed Jim Palmer's eight-hit pitching as Baltimore opened Boston to take over second place in the torrid AL East race. Despite Thursday night's forfeit to Toronto, Friday's victory was Baltimore's 11th in its last 13 games.

Palmer, 37-11, bidding for his seventh 20-victory season in the last eight, won his fourth in a row. He survived Carl Yastrzemski's 9th home run, which pitched out of trouble in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

Twins 8, Rangers 7
A two-run double by designated hitter Jerry Terrell keyed a six-run, seventh-inning outburst to give Minnesota its victory over Texas. The Twins sent 11 batters to the plate in the game-breaking inning as Texas used four pitchers.

Minnesota reliever Tom Johnson, 16-7, earned the victory with homers starting Roger Mored, 3-3, took the loss.

Angels 4, White Sox 1
Paul Hartzel hurled a six-hit, three-run performance as the Angels defeated the White Sox, 4-1, at Anaheim.

$55,000 For The Infant

MIAMI (AP) - A federal court judge has awarded the parents of a stillborn child $55,000, saying the settlement had nothing to do with the worth of the child.

"It's not setting a value on the life of the unborn child," U.S. District Judge C. Clyde Atkins said Friday in awarding Michele Pope $50,000 "for the damages done to her" and $5,000 to the father, Sgt. James M. Pope.

The Air Force, which admitted it was negligent in treating the mother at Homestead Air Force Base, offered a $150,000 settlement. The Pope's said that was not enough for the emotional damage that broke up their marriage.

"I just can't say anything," said Mrs. Pope after the judge read the verdict. She has since separated from her husband. Mrs. Pope's attorney, David J. Halbert, had asked the court for a minimum of $50,000.

"This type of compensation, the $15,000 offer is something someone gets for a bad neck, a bad back, or whiplash," Halbert told the court.

However, Florida's wrongful death statute prohibits the award of damages for the death of an unborn child.

"The awards today are for the element of damages allowed by Florida law," said Atkins.

Confirmation Process: Too Little 'Process?'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that it's too late to avert the Senate or the White House the embarrassment of tarty disclosures about Bert Lance, there is a move on to create a strict new system for the confirmation of nominees to top government jobs.

If that really happens, it likely will be the most lasting impact of the controversy over Lance and his private financial practices. It also will be a major political miracle.

The Senate is supposed to advise and consent on appointments to the Cabinet and other major administration positions. It almost invariably consents, often without much advice.

Never has a newly elected president like Jimmy Carter been denied Senate approval of his nominees to the first Cabinet of a new administration.

And they more often stem from political or personal conflicts than from any real Senate inquiry into the credentials — or the honesty — of the president's nominees.

The attitude generally has been that the president is entitled to have the people he wants in administration jobs, barring some compelling reason to take him on.

That makes sense, but it also may make trouble. An early warning of the banking practices that brought Lance under criticism might have avoided the controversy that has become a Washington pre-occupation in recent weeks.

Lance was confirmed to be director of the Office of Management and Budget after two days of hearings, without a real Senate investigation, and with only token dissent.

Yet Lance had been the object of government investigation. The FBI and the comptroller of the currency both had data that might have derailed the nomination — or saved his job.

Labor Market: Youth Vs. Age

NEW YORK (AP) — We are now witnessing, or perhaps are involved in, the battle of the generations for jobs, the pitting of grandchild against grandchild in a fight to be an active member of the labor force.

For teen-agers it is a matter of gaining a foothold in a labor market for which they have been poorly trained. For those 65 or over the task is one of the convincing employees that the skills they have are still of use.

And while some may wonder why there isn't a run for both the less theoretical among the populace are concerned that chaos might result if those on top don't make room for those coming in at the bottom.

Who should be served—youth or age? Or can both be served? The immediate legislative consideration regarding youth is whether and by how much we should raise the minimum wage, now $2.30 an hour.

Organized labor wanted the figure higher, but business interests sought to have it remain the same or be lowered, especially for teen-agers. As it was, they said, it constituted an impediment to the employment of the unskilled.

CLASSY CLOWNING CLASS

By MARYLIN SHEDDAN Herald Writer

Leisure time is living time and learning time. If your leisure time hangs heavy learn something new to do, or refresh your aptitudes with new knowledge.

And you are really never too old to learn. Age and education present no barriers in enrolling in the many courses being offered under the Leisure Time Program at Seminole Community College.

What kind of courses? Learn to be a clown. Study karate. Learn a craft. You can pick from decoupage, ceramics, pottery, flower arranging, or making handbags from pine needles.

So if the class fees have to pay the cost of instruction, what do classes cost? "Prices vary," says Mrs. Brake. "The SCC Board of Trustees has set a price range of $2 to $50 for Leisure Time classes," she said.

"Right now our least expensive classes cost $5. One is a course in community chorus and the other is community band," she said.

The most expensive class right now is the private pilot ground school. It costs $35. "Some classes are especially popular," said Mrs. Brake. "We have flower arranging, a variety of art classes, and we can't open up enough tennis classes to accommodate the demand," she said.

The school does not determine maximum enrollment for a specific class. "The instructor sets the maximum, because he or she knows better what can be handled in the class," she said.

3 Approaches Of An Appraiser

Q. I need an appraisal on a home I inherited. What can I expect the appraiser to do?

A. When an appraiser looks at your property, he is concerned with determining its fair market value. This fair market value is the price a willing and informed buyer would be expected to pay and a willing and informed seller to accept, neither being under any extraordinary compulsion to buy or to sell.

The appraiser uses three different appraisal methods to arrive at this value: the income approach, the market data approach, and the cost approach.

The income approach is concerned with the amount of income a property can be expected to produce. The anticipated revenue can be converted to the price an investor would be willing to pay assuming a known anticipated return on his investment.

Your Real Estate

the easiest to relate to, and can be a highly reliable indicator. The cost approach reconstructs the property, brand new, at today's prices. The property is then depreciated based upon its age and its condition.

The market data approach is the most commonly used. It compares the value of the property being appraised to the values of similar properties that have recently sold in the area.

The appraiser must then adjust his thinking from that of being a person accumulating information to a person involved in the art of rendering an opinion of market value based upon his figures. This opinion is not to be called upon to defend even in a court of law, so you can be certain that the competent appraiser you engage will document his opinion with facts and that he will make every effort to interpret those facts correctly.

Save The Doomed During 'Pet Responsibility Week'

"Fara," a young German Shepherd is awaiting adoption.

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

The Seminole County Humane Society is celebrating Pet Responsibility Week, beginning Sept. 18.

Finding homes for impounded, rescued or animals released to the Humane Society by cruelty investigations, is a critical problem for society in Seminole County, according to Ma. Ruth Henry, Adoption Program Chairperson.

Operating without a facility, these dogs, cats and horses have been kept by the Humane Society in foster homes, veterinarian kennels, and sometimes at the County Animal Control Pound.

"This is the least satisfactory place, as many of the animals need continuing care and medication which must be given by Humane Society personnel. By law, these persons are responsible for the care of the animals taken into protective custody," said Ma. Henry.

Recent cases have included the case of "Fara," an eight-month-old female German Shepherd, found injured along SR-44, by a Humane Society member, Fara is now in excellent health and looking forward to finding a loving home.

Choke chains are a very real hazard to dogs, according to Jack Conlon, president of the Seminole County Humane Society. He said, "Just this week we were called about a dog tied outside wearing a choke chain. He had pulled it tight around his neck and was dead when found. We've had several calls recently concerning choke chains."

"These collars are meant to be used only when the dog is on leash being walked or trained, and should never be used on a dog tied outside. They're called

'choke chain' because that's exactly what might happen."

The Society will be starting an education program pertaining to choke chains by visiting stores where they are sold and instructing the sales clerks to inform the public of the dangers of the collars.

Dogs and cats presently in good health and needing homes, include, a 7-month-old half German Shepherd; an 11-month-old part Border Collie; an 8-month-old German Shepherd; an 8-month-old All-American; a black Standard Poodle; a six-week-old Collie; a 2-year-old spayed one-half Siamese cat; and six teenage kittens of various colors, as well as many beautiful animals in foster homes.

Animals by the hundreds are "put down," (killed) at the Seminole County Animal Shelter, near Five Points, on U.S. 17-92, every year, simply because people fail to take proper precautions for their pets.

The next time you curse a dog entering your yard, just remember, it's the owner's fault, not the dog's.

When animals breed uncontrollably, making it necessary to destroy many very nice puppies and kittens, again, it's the owner's fault. It may seem like a great expense to have an animal spayed or neutered, but you are doing a kindness to the entire animal world.

Some day, visit your local animal shelter, and look into the faces of the doomed, hapless dogs and cats. Remember, in a few days, they will be as dead as the baby seals.

Let's make "Pet Responsibility Week" an every week occurrence, and stop the endless slaughter of innocent animals.

Coupons To Help Children

Almost $50 in coupons was collected by the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5465, Winter Springs, and donated to the Home for Atypical Children in Orlando.

This is a continuing project of the auxiliary and one in which you can help.

Anyone who has coupons to contribute can drop them off at the Post home, 197 No. Highway 174.

The organization has come up with two fund-raising ideas. Each member who wishes, will set aside a dollar for every birthday, anniversary, etc. that occurs during the month. At the regularly scheduled meetings, the money will be turned in and donated to the VFW National Home.

A card party is being planned for the month of November to aid the Cancer Society. More details as they become available.

Chrystie Jenner: 'We Have World By Tail'

"I don't want this to sound cocky, but we have the world by the tail," says Chrystie Jenner, wife of Olympic decathlon winner Bruce Jenner. "Bruce and I have a terrific relationship and we're more sold than ever."

But she says it wasn't always so. In her soon-to-be published memoirs, "I Am Chrystie," she reveals that the four-and-a-half year marriage almost ended more than once. She also talks about how close she came to a nervous breakdown at one point, and the psychotherapy and personal growth she underwent while Jenner trained for the Montreal games.

Says Chrystie in US magazine about her book: "At one point I said, 'Oh, Chrystie, you said too much,' and almost edited some material out. That was the part that was the most honest — the fears that go through your mind about your womanhood. But I left it in because I wanted to tell the truth."

Freed: 'American Hot Wax'

Alan Freed, the controversial 1950s disc jockey who claimed to have coined the term "rock 'n' roll," will be immortalized on film.

Paramount Pictures has announced that it will begin production next month of "American Hot Wax," which will dramatize one week in the life of Freed when he was at the height of his success prior to the New York payola scandal of 1959.

Freed, who died in Palm Springs, Calif., in 1965, is considered largely responsible for popularizing rock 'n' roll music as a disc jockey for WABC in New York City. He was fired by WABC in 1959 for refusing to sign a company questionnaire about the acceptance of payola.

Nixon: Still Not The One

Former President Nixon may have garnered a fat paycheck for his televised interviews in May with David Frost, but the programs accomplished little in the popularity department.

A nationwide poll by Marketing and Opinion Research's Bill Hamilton shows only 11 percent of Americans have a positive feeling toward the ex-president, and more than four out of five of them have a lower opinion of him after the program than before.

The first interview drew very high ratings — especially considering it was not carried by any of the three major networks — but the poll found that three out of five viewers looked elsewhere before the five-part series was completed.

But Still Look Sickly

Plants Can Get Sun, Water

Sometimes plants grow poorly for no apparent reason. A healthy plant can be set in what seems to be a good soil, can receive plenty of sunlight and water and still look sickly and perform poorly. If you have areas around your home where plants react this way, check for a soil problem, especially the wrong soil reaction or pH.

Now, your next question is — what is pH? Well, pH is nothing more than a chemical shorthand for describing the amount of hydrogen in the soil. The capital letter "H" is the chemical symbol for hydrogen and pH is a figure describing the concentration of hydrogen in the soil, which in turn determines the acidity of the soil.

A simple numerical scale is used to express soil pH. The scale goes from 0 to 14.0. The midpoint, pH 7.0, is the value for pure water which is called neutral — pure water is neither acid nor alkaline. Figures below 7.0 on the scale indicate acid or "sour" soils and the lower the number the more acid the soil. Each whole number drop in pH denotes ten times the acidity. For example, a soil having a pH of 5 is ten times more acid than one having a pH of 6. Numbers above 7 indicate alkaline or "sweet" soil. Again, the higher the number the more alkaline the soil.

Two good examples of acid and alkaline liquids are orange juice and sea water. Orange juice has a pH of about 3.7 (very acid) while sea water has a pH of 7.5 (slightly alkaline).

Soil pH is very important because it influences several soil properties which directly affect growth of plants. Soil pH affects soil bacteria, nutrient leaching and availability, and toxic elements.

Most plants have a range of tolerance to pH. Plant nutrients are generally most available in the pH range of 6.5 to 7.0. This is also a good range for soil bacteria. And, most important, this is the best range for most plants.

Certain plants thrive best on acid or alkaline soils having pH values out of the usual "best" range. For example: asparagus, tomato, onion, croton, dogwood,

Calling Panama...

By DOTIE POOLE
Herald Correspondent

Don Ryter made a long-distance phone call the other day. On the other end were his sister and brother-in-law, Margaret and Bob Sacconi.

They live in the Panama Canal Zone — focal point of controversy here and in the rest of America. Except for attending college in the United States, they have lived their lives in the Canal Zone.

Ryter, himself a third-generation "Zouanu," stayed in the states after college.

Ryter's Panama hometown is a small place called Gamboa near the middle of the zone on the canal. His father was captain of a tugboat, which was involved in the constant dredging of the canal.

"It was a great place to grow up in," he remembers. "Life there was really idyllic with few stresses and strains." There are two high schools in the zone — one at each end — and sports competition is limited to four teams — the two high schools, a junior college, and an organization of recent graduates.

According to Ryter, his relatives feel they are being sold out by the new Panama Canal treaty awaiting action by the United States Senate. And, Ryter adds, there is a more basic fear: Sacconi fears for the Canal Zone if the treaty is ratified and most of the jobs now held by the stateless Americans are filled by Panamanians.

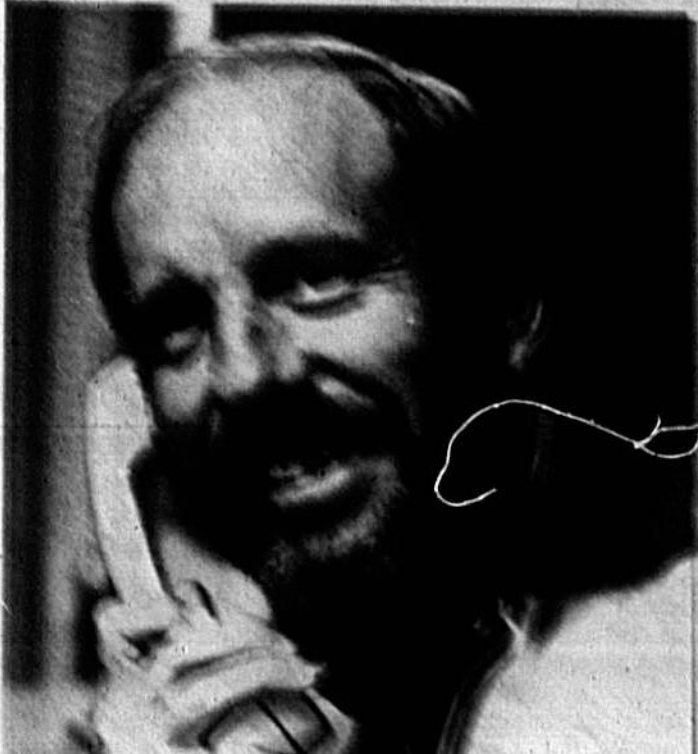

The family would be forced to move back to the states — an unsettling prospect, Ryter feels.

Ryter believes the treaty "will never be ratified. We've come this far with the treaty under a threat of force, under the fear that, if we didn't negotiate there would be violence," he says.

How could the present situation have been avoided? Panama, says Ryter, could have been given a bigger piece of the action and more could have been done for the country. Should the Canal be turned over to Panama, says Ryter, he and his relatives doubt the Panamanian police force — the Laguardia Nationale — can oversee the Canal Zone.

"The thing that really bugs me," stresses Ryter, "is if we (the U.S.) can't take care of our own citizens, paying us for it. We paid $40 million for the Canal in 1914. There's still several hundred thousand a year to Panama since then, and now some people want to just give it away."

Ryter is getting ready to visit the Canal Zone again. This time to get a first-hand feel of the situation. His last trip was in 1955.

It Pays To Keep Screaming

By DON COFFIN

"It's not a question of whether I'm a screaming idiot," says Don Coffin, a 35-year-old writer and editor in New York City. "It's a question of whether I'm a screaming idiot who's screaming for a reason."

Coffin is a member of the "Screaming Idiot Club," a group of writers and editors who are known for their loud and often profane opinions. He says that the club is not just a place to vent one's frustrations, but a place where members can share their ideas and experiences.

"I've found that the substance of what I'm saying is what counts," Coffin says. "It's not the volume of my voice that matters, it's the content of what I'm saying. And, if I'm screaming for a reason, then I'm not a screaming idiot."

She's Dog-Tired Of Barking Pets

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors across the street are lovely people, but they have one fault. They let their dog bark in the summer, and he barks continually, night and day, for no reason at all. I love dogs, so I can't bring myself to do anything that might hurt him, such as poison him, shoot him, or turn him loose at night, although I confess I have thought of it during a sleepless night while the barking was at its peak.

I hate to make enemies of these lovely people by reporting them to the police or humane society. And our dogs are out because if an emergency phone our doctor and lawyer talk to her, and no one can get through to her. She thinks it is a "sin" to give away her own flesh and blood.

Abby, this child is 17 and the boy will not marry her (for which she is lucky, as he is only a kid himself and not much good). My husband and I would adopt the child as a compromise, but we want her to put her past behind her, go on to college and start life over where no one knows of her mistake. We need your help in convincing her that this would be best for her and the baby. Please help me.

DEAR ANONYMOUS: It would appear that the girl, under the guise of selflessness and sacrifice, feels guilty and is determined to punish herself for her mistake. Actually, she would be punishing the child more.

For you to adopt the baby would be as grave a mistake as far as to keep it. I know of no one more qualified to deal with "sin" than a clergyman. Ask yours to talk to the girl.
