

PAINTS VIENNA FORLORN CITY

Polish Artist Tells of Misery, Especially Among Middle Classes.

FOOD OUT OF THEIR REACH

Workers Make Apparently Huge Amounts, but Are Obligated to Spend It All on Their Living—Children Suffer Most.

New York.—Nicol Schatenstein, a Polish portrait painter, who has just arrived from Vienna, said that the reason why he left the Austrian capital to come to America was because of the misery he had witnessed for four years and his desire to join his family, who are American citizens. He expects to become an American citizen, too.

"The worst sufferers in Vienna," the painter said in an interview, "are those of the middle class, because they cannot afford to pay the high prices demanded for food. The working man is well paid, but he has to spend it on food to keep himself and his family. Thousands of the children of the masses have been sent to Italy and Switzerland to be fed, but the unfortunate children of the middle class remain in Vienna to share the hunger of their parents. When I passed through Holland two weeks ago the working people there were giving one guilder, or 40 cents American money, for the starving children of Vienna.

Pay Barber More Than Professor.

"A barber's assistant in Vienna," Mr. Schatenstein continued, "receives 40,000 kroner a year (about $9,000 in present days), and has to spend it all to live in an ordinary way. Compare this with the 12,000 kroner paid to professors of the universities in Austria and the 5,000 to 8,000 kroner a year paid to schoolmasters and office clerks. How can they exist in a city where food is scarce and dearer than it is in New York? I had plenty of money, but did not have an egg once a month. Milk I never saw. Butter was rare and dear. Meat could be had in the restaurants in small portions and potatoes on rare occasions. Bread was scarce and so poor that only persons with the digestion of ostriches could eat it. I could never find out exactly what it was composed of except that there was scarcely any flour. Wood, straw, rye and dried hedges were all chopped up fine and baked into a hard cake to be sold as bread.

"The poor could eat dog sausage, and the rich could buy horse sausage, but I could never restrain myself to eat such food. Instead, I went hungry often with money in my pocket. "During one of the hunger riots in the city last winter, I saw the mob knock a police officer off his horse and shoot the animal. Half an hour later the carcass had been cut up and carried off by the famine-stricken citizens.

Lack of Coal Causes Misery.

"One chief source of the misery in Vienna was the lack of coal, because the poor could have neither heat nor light. The glassware, porcelain and leather factories were unable to keep going because there was no fuel to drive their machinery. Only the wealthy have a warm bath once a week and burn one electric light for five hours a day when there is enough coal to drive the dynamo in the power houses. Multi-millionaires told me that I was a fortunate man when I was leaving for America.

"I was not in sympathy with Austria in the war, but I think that in the name of our common humanity something should be done for the starving men, women and children of Vienna, especially the middle classes, who are the greatest sufferers.

"Just before I left the capital city the doctors in the hospitals went on strike because scrubwomen received higher pay than physicians or surgeons.

"The peasants in the country have food, but they will not send it to Vienna because they do not like a socialist form of government. Some of the best stores in Vienna keep open in the daytime and have fine artistic articles displayed in the windows, but if one enters to buy them the proprietor, or one of his clerks, says that they are not for sale. He will take orders for goods to be delivered when coal arrives and the factories start up again."

FIRST CAPTURE BY YANKS

Two Michigan Men Lead in Taking of German Prisoners in the War.

Washington.—The first German prisoner taken by American forces was captured by Adam Blazkowski and John Cochanski of Ironwood, Mich. Representative James of Michigan was informed by Adjutant General Harris. The men were members of company F, Eighteenth Infantry. The capture was made on the night of October 27-28, 1917, in the vicinity of Bures, in the province of Meurthe and Moselle. The prisoner was a company mail carrier and was on his way back to his company when wounded and captured.

War Disability.

Although Modern Medicine credits medical science with having accomplished wonders during the late war in eradicating or reducing diseases that have previously ravaged fighting armies, it maintains that disabilities resulting from the war are due in more cases to disease than to wounds. Figures compiled by the English ministry of pensions show that of all the pensions granted down to September 1, 1918, 58 per cent were on account of disease. Tuberculosis and chest complaints were responsible for 11.2 per cent, rheumatism for 0.5 per cent and heart disease for 0.9 per cent. Only incomplete figures are available concerning American experience, but of 7,710 cases dealt with by the federal board of vocational up to January 31, 1919, by far the greater portion were due to disease.—Youth's Companion.

OIL OUTPUT 366,255,611 BBLs.

Production for 1919 Shows Increase of 24,000,000 Barrels Over That of 1918.

Oil City, Pa.—Oil production in the United States during 1919 was 366,255,611 barrels, an increase of more than 24,000,000 barrels over the previous year, according to the annual review of the Oil City Derrick, made public recently.

The figures are based on pipe line receipts, reported monthly, estimates of pipe lines not reported, and estimates of tank car shipments from fields where no regular pipe line service existed.

The 1919 report is a new high record in the annual petroleum output of the United States, according to the review. Fields which showed gains were North Carolina, Texas, North Louisiana, Gulf Coast, Kentucky, Wyoming and the Lima districts. Losses were recorded for Kansas, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and southeastern Ohio.

Why Hair Nets Are Dear.

The hair net business of Chefoo, China, is in a state of chaos owing to complications caused by buyers from Shanghai going directly to the makers in the region of Chingchowfu and thus competing with the firms with which these had contracts. Consequently the price has increased about 300 per cent.

RATHER SPOILED THE EFFECT

Hard Cider's Interruption of His Brother's Affecting Testimony Was to Say the Least, Unfortunate.

St Lunkett was brimful of importance one night as he shuffled into the grocery store of Hank Shady and took his seat on a soapbox and leaned affectionately against the cracker barrel.

"I bet none of you fellers ain't heard the latest about Bungeye Jackson," he said, as he looked triumphantly around at the usual circle of loungers. "Whose chicken roost has he bin a depop'latin' now?" asked Bill Brundage, the skeptic.

"Worse 'n that. Bungeye has went and got religion. Yes, he has, so help me! They been a-holdin' revivals down to his house now for about a week and the family got Bungeye to leave off stealin' long enough so they could tell him how much his wicked old heart and soul needed new plumbin'." Last night it was down there and Bungeye got up and give his testimony.

"Gwan!" "Fact—I heard him. 'Sisters and brothers, sez he, 'you see before you the remains of what was once a bad man.' Then his feelin's got the best of him and a bucketful of tears splash down his shirt front. About this time Hard Cider, his brother, came stumblin' in and he was considerable lively from too much of Mike Donovan's Three-In-One, and by the time they got him quieted Bungeye had overcome his emotions and went on with his testimony.

"Siz he: 'At this moment I am layin' my sinful hand down on this grand old book on the table. Such a book has never been in my house before.' And then he bustle into tears again as he said: 'Brethren, this book 'u alludin' to is the Bible.'

"'Holy unkerel!' shouted Hard Cider. 'Bungeye, whered ya steal such a big one?'"—New York Evening Post.

Hawaii Led in Prohibition.

Historians of the Hawaiian Islands assert that an Hawaiian monarchy was the first government in the world to put absolute prohibition into effect.

Kamehameha the Great, first king of United Hawaii, in 1795, after having conquered all the other islands, issued an edict imposing prohibition. Its penalties were drastic. An offender was stripped of his property, real and personal, and was driven from his village clad only in a loin cloth.

In later years foreign nations forced liquor on the Hawaiians and its sale was general in the islands until the great war, when, with the opening of the army training camps on the islands, prohibition went into effect.

INDIANS FIRST USED RADIUM

Aborigines of Utah Employed Ore as Beautifier.

MAN'S FIRST COAT WAS PAINT

Reds Painted Their Bodies Bright Yellow, and With Other Pigments Looked Like Rainbows—Mining Operations Show That Indians Did Much Digging for Iron Oxide, Which Was Used to Decorate Their Bodies.

The first users of radium ore were the Indians of Utah. In pre-Columbian times they employed it (the stuff now known as "carnotite") to paint their bodies a bright canary yellow.

No work on eminent painters ought to omit mention of the American aborigines, who quite generally were in earlier days wonderful colorists.

It is suspected that the first coat worn by man was a coat of paint. But the early American artist, when he had adorned himself like a rainbow, the final touch, perhaps, being to make the lower half of his face red and the upper half green, did by no means stop at that.

He painted weird pictures on rocks and the faces of cliffs. He painted his wooden house, or his tepee, with symbolic and descriptive designs. He painted his shield and bow and arrows. He painted monstrous masks (worn in ceremonials) and also his pottery.

Most Precious to Indians.

The most precious of all things to the Indians—who even nowadays have not lost their talent in this direction—was paint. A deposit of mineral pigment was to them a mine of wealth. Oxides of copper yielded blue and green paints, and from iron oxide was obtained a brilliant red.

The first workers in the quicksilver mines of California were pre-Columbian Indians. Cinnabar, the ore of mercury, is a sulphide of the latter metal which we call vermilion. Great stuff for var paint, as well as for other uses.

Not long ago an important deposit of ore was opened at Leslie, Mo., and mining operations disclosed the fact that much digging had anciently been done there by the Indians—not for iron but for iron oxide contained in seams and pockets. For the oxide they had burrowed in all directions, even to a depth of 25 feet.

Trade was extensively developed in early days among the Indian tribes, and doubtless the pigment produced by this mine was distributed over a vast territory. The miners employed there today, when they come out after a day's work, look as if they were painted from head to foot.

The same diggings in times antedating the white man yielded quantities of another highly valued paint, namely, yellow ochre—the latter being another compound of iron, often found associated with the red oxide.

Paint From Springs.

A beautiful white paint was obtained by the Indians of the Yellowstone region from boiling springs. It was a white clay, very finely divided, so that when dried it took the form of a powder. They took it out in the form of mud, which had only to be exposed to the sun in order to become first-class pigment material. Some of it had a pinkish tint.

The Indian women, as well as the men, used pigments for cosmetic purposes. But, unlike modern young ladies, they did not try to disguise themselves with masks of white, or to adorn their cheeks and lips with roseate hues, though the white stuff from the Yellowstone springs might have furnished an excellent "liquid powder," supplemented by touches of vermilion or iron oxide. They painted their faces with quaint conventional designs, in obedience to the demands of aboriginal fashion.—Philadelphia Ledger.

AGED MAN LOSES MEMORY

Fall of Fifty Feet Leaves No Other Mark.

The police of Long Beach, Cal., have in custody a well-to-do octogenarian who has been suffering from loss of memory since he fell fifty feet off the ocean bluff when he marvellously escaped with no disfiguring injuries.

In response to queries concerning his home and kin he told the officers he didn't worry about such matters.

He had in his pockets $111 in money, $2,800 worth of Liberty bonds and bank books showing deposits of $1,037, $3,000 and $1,700 respectively in the Spokane and Eastern Trust company, the Old National bank and the Citizens' Savings and Loan society, all of Spokane, while he also had a $1,000 certificate of deposit in the San Diego Merchants' National bank, a $200 note and other papers.

Everybody economize

NOBODY knows just how long the high prices for clothes are going to last; these prices are due to so many different causes all along the line from the raw wool to the finished product. The high cost of clothes isn't our fault, or yours, or any one person's fault; it's everybody's fault; it springs from causes that started long ago.

Now comes the overall club

It's a good thing because it shows that the people want to economize; they want to reduce the cost of clothes.

But just wearing overalls won't do it; people have got to save, they must buy only what they need and when they do buy, get the best because it saves and lasts longer lumber for the hungry world waiting to receive it.

We've been telling you for the last year how you could reduce the cost of clothes; get good ones; the all-wool kind that Hart Schaffner & Marx make. They last longer; you save because you buy fewer clothes.

Another feature of the mills is the big tractor that waddles up and down the "board walk" all day long and by a neat system of stacking the lumber in piles on skids the tractor is enabled to walk up to a pile of lumber, place it under one arm and walk off with it to the place where it is all piled up in neat rows and at this moment they have over one million feet waiting transportation and this means something in dollars and cents. The company operated their own store for a time but have now leased it to A. P. Schlemmer who has a first class general merchandise store that is strictly up to date.

This new city of Seminole county with some fifteen hundred in habitants wants an outlet to Sanford where they will come daily to do their shopping and visiting and the county commissioners are now bending their efforts toward getting a better road to Bridge End from Geneva and when this is finished the people from this thriving place can get in and out with out the attendant danger of falling into bottomless pits and sloughs of despond and they will show their appreciation of our efforts by coming here and our people will find that a trip to Bridge End will prove a fine end to many a peccet day spent on the upper St. Johns river. Words fail to express our treatment while on this recent trip while Mr. Hunter was showing us around and the hospitality of every one of the officials and their families.

Bridge End is a coming town and having a new church built with a resident Presbyterian pastor although the church will be non-sectarian, a new school house will follow and the inhabitants can count on Seminole county looking after their need and in Sanford they will always find a warm welcome. May they grow and prosper.

THE MINISTREL SHOW AT THE SPRING FESTIVAL A BIG SUCCESS

S. R. O. Sign Was Put Out At Each Performance

The Big Minstrel at the Spring Festival under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Lane was a grand success in every way. It was the principal attraction at the carnival and made more money than any other show on the grounds. The expense of the minstrel was very small and as they were unable to accommodate the large crowd and was forced to sell standing room each night at the carnival goes to show that it was a good show and one that attracted the crowd.

The Big Minstrel consisted of fifteen of the young men of Sanford who deserve lots of credit as it is no easy job to get up a good minstrel show as it takes time and hard work and to all the disadvantages that the young men was put to it shows that they wanted to do their part and help the Woman's Club in every way that they could.

On account of having to show out in the open it was almost impossible for the boys to put the stuff over the foot lights in the manner that they would have done if they had had a large stage and a place where they could have put it over in a regular professional style. The circle consisted of fifteen men, the white face being dressed in blue serge coats and white trousers with Mr. Harry Kent the interlocur in a white Military Officer uniform. The six black faces or end men were dressed with the regular minstrel end men costumes with the long red and green coats and white trousers, which made a very pretty scene when the curtain rose, the entire company was singing a good medley.

Mr. Harry Kent was interlocur and if you look over the entire country you could not find any one that could handle the part any better than he did for he was master of the situation at all times and handled it in a regular professional manner.

Mr. Kent introduced the first number on the program which was "Slow and Easy" sung by one of the premier comedians Frank Lucy. Lucy was a stranger to the people of Sanford only a few weeks ago but now he is no longer a stranger for he is known by every one and received a hearty welcome each night as he appeared upon the program.

Mr. Hodges with his silver tenor voice sang that beautiful ballad "When you Look Into The Heart Of A Rose" accompanied by the double quartette and during each performance was called back several times. "Its Nobody's Business But My Own" sung by Hoffman, one of the leading comedians made a big hit with the audience and to hear him you would think that he had been a comedian all his life for he pleased every one.

Mr. Wentworth with his sweet tenor voice rendered that popular song "Carolina Sunshine" which also was accompanied by the double quartette and he received a big hand each night.

Ralph Hubbard "the dancing coon" delivered "Jazzing the Blues Away" to the audience in such a manner that the audience would have had him singing now if he had been allowed to answer every encore.

"That Tumble Down Shack In A Stone" was rendered by Mr. Lang and as Rebie needs no introduction to the people of Sanford for he is a Sanford boy and has a good bass voice and has always done his part in entertaining the people of his home town.

Frank Lucy sang his second number of the program "At The High Brown Baby's Bull" which made a big hit.

The principal feature of the show was the singing of Mr. Rive who rendered that beautiful song "O What A Pal Was Mary". Mr. Rive has a well trained voice and in the manner in which he rendered that beautiful ballad he made the hit of the show.

Harvey Parrish, the female impersonator who danced the Vamp and the Hula Hula dance, was more than the price of admission for the audience was surprised so that they kept calling him back so many times that he was completely tired out and after several encores he bid the audience a good by.

Three of the comedians who kept the crowd in an uproar all during the show with their funny jokes and actions were E. F. Lane, Doyle Clay and PeeWee Tillis. Every joke was new and was the best that have been heard here in Sanford for a long time.

Other members of the company who helped in the double quartette were Phillips, Wathem, Murphy and Henderson.

The show closed with a song rendered by the entire company called "Dixie Land My DixieLand."

The Woman's Club to show their appreciation for what the boys have done will give them a dance at the Woman's Club which was promised to them by the president of the Club.

ANOTHER BIG DEAL IN SANFORD PROPERTY DREW INTERESTS SOLD

John Meisch Buys Bishop Block, City Lots and Celery Lands

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

HAS BEEN A GREAT WEEK
IN HISTORY OF SANFORD
AND MEANS PROGRESS AND IMPROVEMENT.

The week has been filled with big events in the commercial life of Sanford among them being the deal whereby the Sanford House and holdings changed hands and yesterday another big deal equally as important to Sanford and vicinity was closed in which all the city and country property of Benjamin Drew was sold to John Meisch of this city.

This property consists of the Bishop Block in this city situated on First street between Palmetto and Sanford avenue, between 600 and 800 city lots, about 300 acres of celery land near Robinson Springs and several hundred acres of good farming land in Volusia county and several fine tracts of celery land on the west side of this city.

No figures have been made public on the transaction but at the figures rumored Mr. Meisch will make a good profit on his investment and he does not purpose to sit down on his investment and let it hatch but will push the sale, improve many of the city lots, will build some houses, will sell on reasonable terms to stimulate home builders and will in many ways develop and improve this property that has lagged on the market for so long and impeded progress.

The people of Sanford are rejoicing with Mr. Meisch over his acquiring this fine property for they know the progressive spirit of John Meisch and his good business qualities and they know that this sale means another step toward making a greater Sanford.

All hail the day when good, live, progressive home people will purchase and develop the non-resident property in this city and county and develop and improve and sell it and in this improvement not only enrich themselves but enrich the community.

The various sales this week demonstrate that Sanford bids fair to become the greatest city in this part of the state in a few years and Sanford has struck a gait that no misfortune and no calamity can down or retard. We congratulate John Meisch on his fine purchase, for his nerve and for his progressive spirit.

Marooned On The River

Dr. J. C. Jessop who claims to be a resident of Kittanning, Pa., (wherever that is) but who really is a citizen of Sanford as he spends the best part of his life, here three months in the winter had a most exciting experience a few days before he was called home. In company with some friends from Sanford and in the launch of Bob Walters of DeLand with Bob acting as navigation officer the party went to Blue Springs for the fishing and spent a delightful afternoon catching many fine fish and Dr. Jessop killing a big rattlesnake near the springs. When they had gone a few miles on the way home they found out that they had a broken propeller and could not move a peg. They sat in the boat in the middle of the river all night long and though it was in sunny Florida the nights here are cold and Dr. Jessop and the rest of the party almost froze to death. Early in the morning the Clyde line steamer was sighted and the party thought they would be rescued but the deck officer refused to stop and take them and finally they succeeded in hailing a fishing boat that brought them to a landing where they could get to DeLand where they had their car. The party had an experience that they will never forget in a hurry, but all of them were none the worse for it and Dr. Jessop left the next day looking like a southern sunset.

MEXICO NEEDS SMALL COINS

Money Changers Make Profits
Because Mints Cannot Meet the Demand.

MUST MAKE YOUR OWN CHANGE

Almost Impossible to Buy Merchandise in Small Quantities Unless You Have Exact Change—Taxicab
System is Well Regulated.

San Antonio, Tex.—Money, taxicabs, flowers, fruits, dirt and trade embargoes—these are certain to attract the attention of travelers from the United States to Mexico.

Mexico is now on a wholly metallic basis, so far as money is concerned. This condition has been forced through a long series of worthless issues of paper money by various revolutionary factions prior to the inauguration of Carranza as president.

There is an abundance of native gold and silver out of which to coin money. All coins above 10-centavo pieces are of silver or gold. Inability of mints to meet the demand has created a shortage of change. This shortage has been taken advantage of by money changers all over the republic.

Profit for Money Changers.
It is almost impossible to buy merchandise in large or small quantities unless you are able to make your own change. From 2 to 5 per cent is commonly charged by money changers for converting 10 or 20 peso pieces into silver of small denominations.

This shortage was made more acute about two years ago through the withdrawal from circulation of the old Mexican silver peso. This was caused by the advance in the price of silver, which made the peso worth approximately 50 per cent more than its face value as bullion. The new Mexican silver coins do not contain as high a percentage of silver as these old peso pieces.

It is hard to conceive of a cigar store refusing to sell one cigar because one has not the exact change, but that is the case all over Mexico. One also encounters difficulty in buying food while traveling, for the reason that food merchants at the stations are unable to make change readily. Often a meal may cost $2 because of this scarcity of change.

We in the states might learn something from the well-regulated taxicab system of Mexico City. I arrived in the capital at 3 a. m. My baggage was carried to a taxicab by a licensed and numbered cargadore. These cargadores insist upon showing travelers their numbers, in compliance with the law and it is wise for any stranger traveling in Mexico to note the number carefully. Most of the cargadores, however, can be relied upon to handle your baggage with care and perfect safety.

Once your baggage is deposited in a taxicab, a policeman is on hand to note the chauffeur's license, the number of passengers and destination. The policeman gives the passenger a slip with these facts recorded, which should be retained in case the service is found to be faulty.

Taxicab rates are plainly posted in the cars.

Fruits and Flowers Plentiful.
Along the route to Mexico City I found the towns dirty, but the flowers and fruit stands sumptuously stocked. Prices for fruit and flowers are so ridiculously low in comparison with prices in the states that one is tempted to lay in a ridiculous oversupply. One can buy a bouquet of roses as big around as a bushel basket for 50 cents American money.

I found considerable dissatisfaction throughout Mexico with the embargo against Mexican citrus fruit. Large quantities of oranges, limes and lemons are raised in Mexico. The quality of this fruit is excellent. The excuse for the embargo is that the germ of a blight that is fatal to citrus fruits might be brought into the United States if markets were opened to the Mexicans. I am told, however, on reliable authority, that this danger is more imaginary than real. I found strong sentiment everywhere for the lifting of the embargo and a stiller embargo against cotton.

IN ALMSHOUSE 76 YEARS

Woman, 85, Public Charge in Delaware Since She Was 9 Years Old.

Georgetown, Del.—An inmate of the Sussex county almshouse for seventy-six years, Martha Stanford, who was blind from childhood, has died at the age of 85 years. She was sent to the almshouse from the western part of the county when nine years old, and lived there ever since until the time of her death.

Despite her affliction and her poor condition, she kept cheerful, always hoping that some time she would be taken from the almshouse. She had no near relatives.

Tallest Recruit.
San Francisco, Cal.—Boasting a height of six feet three inches in his stocking feet and wearing a pair of purple chaps and a revolver on each hip, Leo Cunningham of Oklahoma City, Okla., arrived here the other day to join the army. He was the tallest recruit in the history of the service here, the army recruiting office reported.

New York Letter Carrier Gives It to His Child.

John C. Carson, a letter carrier found a "bright trinket" in front of the Majestic hotel in New York while making his rounds. Soon afterwards when Mrs. L. T. Lazaro, a guest of the hotel, reported the loss of a $7,500 string of pearls, a detective visited Carson's room and found his baby playing with it on the kitchen floor. Carson said he thought it was a "child's toy" and was rewarded with $100 for finding the necklace.

EYE NEEDS REGULAR BATHS

One on Rising and the Other on Retiring is Recommended to Secure Good Results.

For the daily care of the eyes there should be two baths. The body must have its bath. The face must have its cleansing. Why not the eye? Especially as the eye, with its thick lid and the fringe of eyelashes is a dust trap, and the slightest speck of dust allowed to remain beneath the lid may cause irritation of the lid and inflammation of the eye.

For the eye's daily bath I offer you the choice of several lotions. My favorite is: Ten ounces of purest rosewater. Apply with an eye cup, turning the eye cup upside down so that the half-open eye is completely washed by the contents of the cup. Hold it thus for 30 seconds, or, if not uncomfortable, for a full minute.
Throw away this rosewater. Rinse the glass and give the eye a second bath.

If the eyes are unduly irritated the bath can be repeated several times.
Ordinarily a bath in the morning on rising and another at night on retiring are enough.

Some of my friends who have beautiful eyes prefer elderflower water to rosewater. It is equally good and should be applied in the same way.

Another excellent eye bath is one-half an ounce of witch hazel; one-half an ounce of distilled water.
Shake well in bottle and apply with an eye cup. One other bath I must tell you about that is most excellent for strengthening the eyes: Six drops of boric acid, one wine glass of distilled water.

A bath in borax water is highly beneficial and has the advantage of being always convenient. Even while traveling one may always carry a box of borax. Moreover it is safe, because borax will only form a 4 per cent solution, that is, only 4 per cent of it will be absorbed by water. A borax bath is very strengthening. If the eyes be delicate or the person so prejudiced against experiments that she is not willing to introduce this substance directly into the eyes, a silk handkerchief or a soft cloth dipped into borax water and pressed upon the eyelids is both efficacious and soothing.

The old-fashioned remedy of cold tea leaves pressed upon the lids has value, not from the tea leaves intrinsically, but from the cool, moist contact. Cloths dipped in water are quite as good.—New York American.

Cultivate Reading Habit.

Much has been said of the importance of forming the right physical and moral habits early in life, but the value of the early formation of reading habits has received little attention, according to Miss Dove of the Agricultural college at Fort Collins, Colorado. The practice of daily reading should be begun while in school and should not be discontinued later on account of time. Thirty minutes a day spent in reading will keep one up with the current events and thus widen one's horizon. Thoughts may be gathered that will relieve the monotony and drudgery of the daily task. Reading not only adds to one's daily life but it paves the way for greater enjoyment later. It is as one grows older that the habit of reading becomes most valuable. Fortunate indeed is the man who as he withdraws from the more active side of life, finds a world of his own through the open doorway of good books.

Unnecessary Work.

The other day when the second grade teacher announced the singing lesson she noticed that Russell was reading a story book.

"Put away your book, dear, while we are learning to sing," she said.
"But I don't really need to learn how to sing," he calmly protested.
"You see, we have a phonograph at our house."

Enjoyed Long Life.

They grow 'em long and hardy in the village of Shifnal, which claims the longevity record for England.

Headstones in a churchyard are cited, the two star exhibits being the stones of William Wakley, "aged one hundred and twenty-four and upward," and Mary, wife of Joseph Kates, aged one hundred and twenty-seven, who married a third husband at ninety-two.

Wakley lived in the reigns of eight kings and queens.

HERE is a good, fashionable, dependable, family car. It is made for five passengers; that means there is plenty of room for five adults, not three grown ups and two children!

The equipment on all Lexingtons is absolutely complete. It includes many items ordinarily listed as extras, even on the most luxurious cars. Among these are a motor meter, an engine-driven tire pump, an inspection light, and 2-Way headlamps.

The Moore Multiple Exhaust System, with which all Lexingtons are equipped, conserves fuel by producing more horse power per piston displacement. Among other mechanical features are a new type propeller shaft with non-metallic universal joints, a perfectly co-ordinated transmission and clutch that permit smooth and silent starting, and a unique emergency brake that can be operated with one finger.

POLAND LAND OF CONTRASTS

Galling Poverty on One Hand, Riches on Other.

CAFE CROWDS ARE BRILLIANT

High Prices Cause Strangers to Wonder How People Manage to Live—Long Queues of Men, Women and Children Stand in Cold, Sleet and Snow Outside Food Relief Stations Waiting for Bread.

As a land of striking contrasts Poland with her new won freedom is without an equal today. On one hand is a display of wealth, midnight suppers and revelry; on the other hand is galling poverty, hunger and emaciated arms held out imploring for aid. There is a great scarcity of milk and the price of it is exorbitant, but there always is fresh whipped cream for your coffee, while a lad, weak of body and hunger-pinched face and clogs so worn that he slips on the ice covered pavement, pushes a handcart filled with milk in bottles from house to house seeking customers.

Fuel, too, is scarce and only the wealthy can buy coal, but the hot water in your apartment at a hotel may run to waste all day and no one will tell you to turn it off. In florists' windows exotic plants bloom, while outside the streets are slippery with their covering of ice and snow is banked high.

Sell American Cigarettes.
Tobacco is scarce, but in every hotel lobby there are boys with packages of American Red Cross cigarettes, which they offer for sale at 18 shillings for a package of twenty.

Clothing is scarce and expensive, but one sees many well dressed men and handsomely gowned women, while waiters in cafes and restaurants have abolished "tips" and dress suits are savoring of the bourgeois, and have purchased lounge suits at £10 each.

And while men and women of wealth dine and wine in these places, outside at the food relief station there stand long queues of men, women and children in the cold and the sleet and snow waiting for bread.

How do they do it? How do the poor live? These are questions any stranger here would ask. The answer is not easy for a cabinet minister's salary is only £100 a month; a clerk gets £4 a month. Bread costs two shillings a loaf, a pair of boots £20, a cup of chocolate 4s. 6d.; a sweater and a knitted skirt, £81; a tub of hot mutton soup, entree and an ice, £1 2s., with a la carte priced as follows: Hors d'oeuvres, 15s.; soup, 3s. 6d.; omelet, 6s.; cutlet, 10s.; slice of turkey, 15s.; spinach, 8s.; composite of fruit, 10s.; a bottle of charet, 70s.

Mark Worth Half a Penny.
The Polish mark, nominally worth 1s. 6d., now is worth half a penny, and the Pole can only earn Polish marks. Therefore many Poles who returned here from America when the new Poland arose now are trying to return to the United States.

Meanwhile, the Pole is waiting for something to happen. He knows that present conditions cannot last always—that they cannot endure.

But while it lasts Warsaw presents curious sights, striking contrasts—bitter frosts, radiant sun, biting wind and dust storms; glorious sunsets and snow. It is a busy, constantly moving city, with rooms almost unobtainable at the hotels; with street cars packed like the subway trains at the rush hours in New York; with cafes filled with brilliant crowds, dining and wining, while the orchestras play wonderful music. Today this is a city of men of all nations; of handsome women in rich gowns and furs, and shambling, pinched faced beggars who beg a crumb of bread.

And yet, with all its contrasts, Warsaw, and all Poland, has a high consciousness of freedom and pride of patriotism. Enormous possibilities are here, and only a constructive statesmanship is needed to develop them, to weld the scattered ends of life together; to rehabilitate Poland, to make her a great productive unit of world production and commerce, and, if necessary, to make her an effective barrier between bolshevism and well ordered government.

Confederates in the Senate.
Immediately following the Civil war nearly every prominent southern senator was a former Confederate soldier. South Carolina sent Hampton and Butler; North Carolina, Matt Ransom; Georgia, Gordon and Colquitt; Mississippi, Walthall and George; Louisiana, Gibson and Eastland; Texas, Coke; Arkansas, Berry; Tennessee, Bate and Harris; Missouri, Cockrell; Kentucky, Blackburn; Virginia, Mahone (a Republican) and Daniel; Florida, Pasco; West Virginia, Kenner and Faulkner.

It was a collection of eminent men, strong in debate, winning in manners and character, completely representative of their section. With them sat Vest, once a senator in the Confederate congress; Reagan, postmaster general of the Confederacy, and Vance, the war governor of North Carolina. The senate in that period felt and used its power more conscientiously than it does today. And its average in quality was higher, for the North, too, was represented by a group of leaders equally competent and distinguished.—New York Tribune.

DOG SEEKS AID FOR DYING

Whines in Vain to Obtain Help for Mistress Who Dies Suddenly.

Los Angeles.—Doughboy, a pedigreed bulldog, owned by T. C. Stevens of the bond firm of Stevens, Page & Sterling, was credited with an almost human attempt to summon help when Mrs. Stevens' aunt, Mrs. C. F. Endly, died suddenly at San Diego.

The dog, a thoroughbred in which the owner takes considerable pride, was left in Mrs. Endly's care by Mrs. Stevens.

During the night Mr. Endly was awakened by Doughboy. The dog was whining and moaning with such persistency that Mr. Endly fearing his wife would be disturbed, went to the door and calling softly to the dog finally induced him to go into the other room. Doughboy exhibited a strange restlessness, resisting all efforts to quiet him. The man was puzzled. Only after a considerable time did he induce Doughboy to lie down. Then Mr. Endly went to sleep.

In the morning he found his wife's lifeless body. Doctors were immediately called. They pronounced it a case of heart failure and declared that Mrs. Endly had been dead several hours.

GRAVE OF FOUR DYNASTIES

Ambitions of Austria, Russia, Germany and Turkey All Buried in the Balkans.

We stood on the forward deck of the Siro as she slipped southward, through the placid waters of the Adriatic, at 20 knots an hour. Less than a league away the Balkan mountains, savage, mysterious, forbidding, rose in a rocky rampart against the eastern sky.

"Did it ever occur to you," remarked the Italian officer who stood beside me a noted historian in his own land, "that four great empires have died as a result of their lust for dominion over the restless lands which lie beyond those mountains? Austria coveted Serbia—and the empire of the Hapsburgs is in fragments now. Russia, seeing her influence in the peninsula imperiled, hastened to the support of her fellow Slavs—but Russia has gone down in red ruin, and the Romanoffs are dead, Germany, seeking a gateway to the warm water, and a highway to the East, seized on the excuse thus offered to launch her waiting armies—and the empire reared by the Hohenzollerns is bankrupt and broken. Turkey fought to retain her hold on such European territory as still remained under the crescent banner. Today a post-mortem is about to be held on the Turkish empire and the house of Osman.

"Think of it! Four great empires, four ancient dynasties, lie buried over there in the Balkans. It is something more than a range of mountains at which we are looking; it is the wall of a cemetery."—E. Alexander Powell in Scribner's Magazine.

Less Embarrassment.

"Well," said Farmer Cornstossel, "I'm glad the railroads have gone back to private ownership."

"What difference does it make to you?"

"I can speak my mind to the station agent without feeling that maybe I'll be criticized for showing lack of respect to a government official."

CHECK ON TRICKY "COPPERS"

Simple Contrivance Prevents Fraud on the Part of Applicants for Coveted Positions.

In Philadelphia the position of traffic policeman is open only to men who are six feet or more in height. Such positions are so much sought after that many applicants who fall short of the required height by only a small fraction of an inch are tempted to cheat a little bit by rising on their heels.

An ingenious application of electricity is now used to circumvent this trick, and any attempt to register a fraudulent measure is disclosed at once. The applicant, as he stands upon the platform under the slide rule, sets his feet upon two metal plates that are normally a trifle above the platform. They are just large enough to be covered by a man's heels, and when the candidate stands with his heels on the floor the plates are so depressed that they make a contact and form a circuit that lights a lamp overhead. As long as the man stands with both heels on the ground the lamp stays lighted, but the moment he raises either heel the smallest part of an inch the contact is broken and the lamp goes out. So does he.

China's Tea Industry.

Indications are that the Chinese government intends to make every effort to encourage the tea industry in that country and to increase China's tea trade with foreign countries, and the Peking cabinet recently decided to establish a tea bureau under the ministry of agriculture and commerce. It is stated that the tea industry of China is not keeping pace with the world's increasing consumption of tea, and while China is still holding its trade in the lower qualities, India and Ceylon have successfully captured the market from China as to the common black

FILIPINOS WANT AMERICA TO GIVE INDEPENDENCE

Maximo M. Kalaw Declares U. S. Cannot Consistently Refuse "Self-Determination."

By MAXIMO M. KALAW, Secretary of the Philippine Mission, Author of "The Case for the Filipinos," "Self-Government in the Philippines," etc.

"When they show sufficient capacity," "When they are able to govern themselves," "When they are educated enough." These are the answers of many Americans pressed with the question as to when the Filipinos should be granted their independence. Now, "ability," "capacity" and "sufficient education"—What do they mean in black and white?

Senator Shogun may think no people is capable of self-government that does not establish the judicial recall, or that has no Billy Sunday. John Smith of Somerville may think no people is capable of self-government that does not vote his democratic ticket, or go to church on Sundays.

"Capacity for self-government" is as broad and elastic as the world, and if that should be the criterion for the granting of Philippine independence, America might as well say to the Filipinos, "I will give you independence when it pleases me to do so."

Fortunately, the American promise to the Philippines is not based on such obscure and abstract conditions. It is based on a definite, tangible thing. When America, through her Congress, officially told the Filipino people that they would be granted their independence as soon as they could establish a stable government, no abstract or obscure condition was meant. Stable government, according to American usage, means a certain, definite thing.

The United States promised the Cubans the same thing, that "when they have established a stable government, then American troops would be withdrawn." As soon as the Cuban people elected a government suited to themselves, capable of maintaining order and fulfilling all international obligations, there was a stable government in Cuba, and American troops were withdrawn.

When Congress passed the Jones law, it simply borrowed the phrase "stable government" from the Cuban history and applied it to the Philippines. The history of Philippine legislation shows that in black and white, with full knowledge of what it meant, the Filipino people accepted the Jones law and immediately began setting up the stable government required by Congress as a pre-requisite to independence. The stable government is now a fact. It is indeed more than that; it is an undisputed fact.

The official representative of the United States in the Philippine Islands, the Governor General, reported to the American Congress and the administration that "the Filipino people have established the stable government demanded by Congress as a pre-requisite for the granting of independence—namely, a government elected by the suffrage of the people, which is supported by the people, which is capable of maintaining order and of fulfilling its international obligations."

The Philippine question is therefore no longer a question of politics, argument or supposition. To the Philippine mind, at least, it is now a question of whether the United States is ready to discharge its own obligations fully and completely. America went before the world in the recent war as the avowed champion of "self-determination" and Filipinos cannot see how America can consistently refuse to act.

The Filipino people, however, have no grudge or grievance against the American people. There is a message of friendship and gratitude. They seek independence as the natural and logical outcome of America's policy in the islands and of America's solemn promise to them. They come willing to give privileges and concessions not incompatible with their national welfare.

The Filipino people are willing to accept independence under any of the following conditions: Under a League of Nations, guaranteeing its territorial integrity; under the protectorate of the United States for the first few years; under a treaty of neutrality between the United States, England, Japan, France and other powers, or even without any condition whatever—absolute and complete independence. They have no fear of Japan. Philippine independence, in our opinion, is not inimical to Japanese interests. The Japanese are now free to come to the Philippines, but at the present time there are less than 10,000 Japanese in the islands. There are six times as many Japanese in California as there are in the entire Philippine Archipelago.

The Filipinos are willing to take their chance as a nation. Smaller nations beset by graver problems and dangers have taken a more hazardous chance at freedom, and have succeeded.

Consistency.
 "Do you think prohibitionists who raid moonshiners ought to use firearms?"
 "Only in extreme cases," answered Uncle Bill Bottletop. "In order to be consistent they ought to turn the hose on them."

BRITISH SELL WAR STORES Vast Quantity of Material to Be Disposed Of. AIRPLANES IN JOB LOTS

Two complete battleships, half a dozen submarines, Handley-Page and the Haviland airplanes, 50,000,000 rounds of ball cartridges, guns, aerial bombs, pistols, a paddle steamer, a train ferry capable of carrying 30 trolleys, a road bridge complete and locomotives are but a few of the many varied articles offered by the British ministry of munitions in what is without doubt the biggest sale in history.

Only a cursory glance is necessary to realize, apart from the usual supply of equipment, ammunition and foodstuffs, what a tremendous commercial undertaking modern war has developed.

One Whole Camp for Sale. The ministry was solely responsible for the supply of army huts, building material and factories, machinery, machine tools and engineering stores; army boats, water craft, textiles, chemicals and metals, foodstuffs and motor vehicles, and so on ad infinitum.
