

CITY'S VICTORY IN BANK CASE PROVES MYTH

Warrants, Held As Collateral, Returned After Loan Paid; Case Was Not Tried

What was reported in yesterday's Herald as a victory for the City of Sanford in the suit brought by the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co. of Cincinnati to collect on $25,000 worth of time warrants, was in reality a victory for the Seminole County Bank, according to information supplied The Herald this morning by E. H. Ashcraft, receiver of the bank.

The impression was given that the suit had actually been tried in court and that the City had won, compelling the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co. to return certain time warrants held by it as collateral security and the opinion prevailed that a precedent had been set by the courts which might apply in the case of the City against the Chase National Bank of New York which holds $500,000 worth of certificates of indebtedness and $740,000 worth of bonds as collateral for loans to the Seminole County Bank with apparently the same fundamental principles of law involved.

Mr. Ashcraft this morning revealed to The Herald that the time warrants were returned to the bank by the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co. when the indebtedness of the bank to the trust company had been paid in full. "The bank originally owed the Cincinnati company $50,000," Mr. Ashcraft explained. "As security for this loan, $15,000 worth of customer's notes, and $25,000 worth of City time warrants had been pledged."

With the failure of the bank, the trust company immediately proceeded to collect on the notes which it held and instituted suit against the City to collect on the time warrants. However, before the suit against the City came up for trial, a sufficient amount of the customer's notes had been collected to retire the $50,000 loan in full. Consequently, the remaining notes, and the time warrants were immediately returned to the bank and the suit against the City was dismissed by the trust company.

"As soon as we received the time warrants on July 10 of this year, we charged them to the City's account and immediately notified the City Clerk that they were here and would be turned over to him. The case never went to trial and there was therefore no victory whatever for the City. The questions of law involved have not yet been decided and consequently the disposition of this case as it has been made can have no bearing upon any other case of the City now pending such as that against the Chase National Bank. We simply paid the note and the collateral was returned to us," Mr. Ashcraft concluded.

The suit of the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co. was instituted against the City on May 24, 1928. A demurrer was filed by George A. DeCotes and Lucian H. Boggs, representing the City, on June 29. On Aug. 2, Giles J. Patterson, attorney for the Cincinnati company, filed an amended declaration, and a demurrer to this amendment was filed by defense attorneys on Sept. 28. With the final settlement of all obligations of the Seminole County Bank to the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co. a principle for dismissal was filed on Oct. 23 of this year. In his letter to the Commission calling attention to the dismissal of the suit Mr. DeCotes rendered a bill in his behalf and that of his associate, Mr. Boggs, for $1,000.

CONSTERNATION PREVAILS

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(INS)—Widespread consternation prevailed in Bagdad today as the news spread that Sir Abdul-Mushib, prime minister of the Kingdom of Iraq, was dead of a bullet wound. Conflicting reports have been received here of the tragedy. Some declared the statesman had been found dead in his bedroom with a bullet wound in his head, while others declared he had shot and killed himself in the presence of his family.

Lobby Investigators Turn Upon Hawaiian Planters Who Spend Big Yearly Sum

75 YEARS OLD

John Philip Housh, the marching, recently celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday. He spent the day directing his hand, making an electrical description by a new process for a two-hour radio program, the first of that length ever broadcast.

With these words, William W. Willocks, Jr., 22, potential heir to an estate of $120,000,000, greeted newspapermen today in his humble five dollar a week room over a vegetable store here. Next to him stood his blonde-haired Nordic bride, who a few weeks ago, as Aelade Ingebreten, was donating furniture and making beds in the palatial Willocks mansion at Sycamore near here.

"Well, isn't the evil in the fact that the public doesn't know that the stories come from your office?" Walsh asked.

Wallocks, Sr., refused to go further than to say he would "stand by" his son. He declared he wouldn't know the latter's wife if he saw her.

Young Willocks, who is 22, is beneficiary of a $7,000,000 trust fund, but declares he wants to make his own way, and thinks he will open an automobile repair shop here when he returns from his honeymoon.

Both of the young lovers are signing stories of their romance for New York tabloids, revealing the details of their love-making.

"Shop Early, Mail Early and Avoid Rush," Post Office Officials Warn

"Shop now and mail early" is again the national cry of post office officials. About this time each year this call is issued to the Christmas shoppers all over the United States, in an attempt to get them to do their Christmas shopping early to avoid the rush and insure early delivery. It has been pointed out that "during the holiday times the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days."

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, of Washington, D. C. has issued circulars to postmasters throughout the country recently urging them to use every influence to get the people in their respective communities to "shop and mail early."

GOOD WAGES GAME BATTLE FOR HIS LIFE

Secretary Of War Is Holding His Own After Serious Operation Upon Appendix

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(INS)—Secretary of War James W. Good waged a "game battle" against death at Walter Reed Hospital today. At 8 A. M., it was announced that the cabinet officer had had a fair night and was "holding his own."

Good was operated on yesterday and a gangrenous perforated appendix removed. A condition of peritonitis almost immediately developed and caused grave fears to be entertained for his recovery.

President Hoover kept in close touch with the hospital, receiving regular bulletins on Good's condition until he retired last night, and upon arising this morning, when the 8 o'clock message came it found Mr. Hoover and some of his medicine ball cabinet hard at it tussling the ball on the rear lawn.

Bishop Anderson Is Named New Head Of Episcopal Church

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(INS)—Bishop Charles Palmerston Anderson, whose ecclesiastical life has been spent in the Chicago diocese, is the new head of the Episcopal Church in the United States, succeeding the late Bishop John Gardner Murray of Baltimore.

Bishop Anderson's election was accomplished last night after a protracted deadlock of 15 ballots kept the 94 bishops of the church voting throughout the day. On the final ballot Bishop Anderson received 70 votes, two more than the necessary two-thirds.

Insurance Broker, Hit By Stock Crash, Tries To End Life

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—(INS)—Lawrence Fava, insurance broker, leaped from the Grand Avenue bridge into the Schuylkill River early today in an unsuccessful attempt to end his life. Stock market losses are believed to have prompted his attempted suicide. He was rescued by park guards and taken to a hospital from which he was discharged after treatment.

The declining market also caused the arrest of an unnamed Philadelphia man on the charge of embezzlement of funds amounting to between $250,000 and $300,000 from a well-known brokerage house on Walnut Street.

The man, whose name the police refused to reveal, was cloaked with Safety Director L. B. Scheffeld, Major Anthony A. Draxel Blodde, Philadelphia clubman and Inspector of Detectives William Connelly. Following the questioning of the prisoner, he was placed in a cell.

Nine Florida University alumni are teaching high school athletic teams in Florida.

Mellon Recommends Cut In Taxes Despite Stock Crash; Market Then Begins Rally

Hoover And Congress Apparently Favor Plan To Reduce U.S. Income 160 Millions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(INS)—Despite the loss of billions of dollars on the stock market in the last few weeks the country will be offered another substantial tax reduction at the December Congress, if the recommendations of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon are carried out.

And the reaction today from Mellon's announcement that, with the approval of President Hoover, he would ask Congress to cut the normal individual and corporate tax one percent, with an aggregate relief of $160,000,000 indicated that Congress, Democratic and Republican, would "go along" with the secretary of the treasury.

There was a tendency in some congressional circles to run the reduction up to $200,000,000 a year, leading that final estimate on governmental receipts will be greater than were contemplated by Mellon in his announcement.

Borah, Norris And Fess Render Statements Concerning Crash

By Senator George W. Norris
I have been getting telegrams from all over the country urging Congress to protect the investing public against further crashes by utilizing the buying power of Congress. Up to this time, I have found little support for this course. I think a law can be drawn, though, that will prevent the gambling in stocks, which has been a national disaster as well as the cause of evil, the extent of which we do not comprehend as yet.

State Plant Board Chairman Warns Against Fly "Unreconcilables"

Dr. P. K. Young, chairman of the State Plant Board of Florida, today warned against the activities of "unreconcilables" who, in the chairman's opinion, are menacing the completion of the eradication of the Mediterranean Fruit Fly in the state, and seriously damaging the market outlets of Florida's fruit and vegetable industries.

In a letter written to the people of the state of Florida and released from the local plant board headquarters Mr. Young says "the people of Florida have the situation in their own hands. The vast majority of Floridians who have co-operated cheerfully and actively with the work of eradication even to the extent of personal sacrifice, must look to it, however, to see that their worthy efforts are not offset by a relatively small number of unreconcilable who from the beginning have opposed, and who continue to oppose, any organized endeavor to rid Florida of the fly. Mangled or unformed persons made Florida who would further federal appropriations, either do not appreciate, or willfully misconstrue, the unfortunate consequences which could befall Florida if the eradication work should stop."

Advancement Is Made In Prices As Result Of New Confidence Due To Tax Cut Plan

By W. S. Cousins
International News Service
Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Wall street and the stock market made a desperate effort today to break the flux of the frenzied selling of speculative stocks that has been gradually undermining confidence in investment values all over the country. The government made an excellent contribution in the form of promised tax relief, but cash-on-the-counter, offered for stocks by the millions of shares on the stock exchange, was perhaps the most important factor in turning prices upward.

That the situation had reached a desperate stage was generally admitted, due to technical conditions within the market rather than to any actual or prospective falling off in business. The stock exchange government's threat to reduce the source of bearish selling brought the big bears to their senses, none of them desiring to have their names posted as destroyers of public faith at this critical period.

Utility stocks, high-priced specialties and prime dividend-payers in the steel, copper, oil and railroad group, made the best headway in today's rally. Compared with yesterday's close, these stocks went up in the last hour with recoveries of 3 to 15 points above Wednesday's close. Better than all, sentiment all over the country was improved, and buying power considerably strengthened.

United States Steel, at 160, showed a gain of 8-1/2 points from Wednesday's close. General Electric was up 15 points at 174; American Can 15 at 101; Woolworth up 10; Union Carbide up 6; American and Foreign Power up 10; New York Central up 7; Westinghouse up 10; Standard Oil of New Jersey up 6; Standard Oil of New York up 2.

Evidence of excellent investment buying of stocks today was furnished by the sharp advances in prime railroad shares. Union Pacific moved up nearly 12 points to 212 3/4, and recoveries up to 6 points were received for Erie, Allegheny Corp., Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Frisco, etc.

Professional traders who injected themselves into the picture at the opening of the market were ready to take their profits in the final period, but stocks coming from this source were well absorbed, and many of the best known industrials made their records in the last hour.

Catholic Mothers Are Appealed To In Fight Against Evils

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 14.—(INS)—An appeal to the Catholic mothers of America "to harness the spirit of the heart's" and "help save the boys and girls of today from evils caused by prohibition and other modern conditions" was made today by Mrs. Frank McGowan, of Canton, Ohio, before the national conference of Catholic charities.

Mrs. McGowan, a delegate-at-large to the last Democratic national convention, and prominent figure in Catholic organizations, declared that "the biggest piece of social work that can be done by Catholic women is to preserve the traditions of the true Catholic home."

Yields: Thirteen buns. Ingredients: Flour, one cup; yeast, one package; sugar, one-half cup; salt, one-tenth teaspoon; milk, one cup; eggs, two; butter, one-half cup.

Should the bun be made from home for two or three days, a yeast cake will be made in three hours. New yeast cakes are most important in the most important things.

Another Racing Season

An interesting announcement, affecting Miami in particular but in a way the entire state as well, was made in New York City the other day. The million dollar race track of the Miami Jockey Club was sold, according to Joseph M. Smoot, its president, to J. H. Carstairs and Barclay H. Warburton, Philadelphia capitalists, well known in the business and sporting worlds. Mr. Warburton, who will be the new president of the club, recently resigned as mayor of Palm Beach where he has long been identified with its social life.

A particularly interesting feature of the announcement was the statement that races will be conducted there this winter as usual. There will be a forty-five day racing meet beginning on January 16. In speaking of his purchase of the racing property, Mr. Warburton supplemented his remarks with a glowing description of what he and his associates intend to do in the south Florida city.

"We hope to interest Eastern and Western horsemen alike in our effort to make the Miami track a miniature Belmont Park or Saratoga," said Mr. Warburton. "We shall endeavor to promote the interest of breeding and racing along the same lines as the Westchester Racing Association has done, and in time to give the State of Florida a track that, so far as beauty and appurtenances are concerned, will compare favorably with any in this country."

"We shall also strive to give the State an amusement feature that will draw thousands of visitors in a way that will reflect the greatest credit upon Miami and Dade County," he insists.

Although it is a well known fact that no race track can be made to pay its operating expenses without gambling, Mr. Warburton says that the Miami track will be operated strictly within the law, evidently intending to establish a precedent in this sort of thing. "We propose," he says, "to conduct racing in Florida under the laws of our state and under no condition ever to over-step their proprieties. We shall race this Winter under those conditions and none other, and already have applications for more than 1,700 stalls with accommodations for but 1,100."

We understand that Keeney Park is in the midst of preparations for another big season too. And we were much interested recently to read in an exchange that the Seminole track at Longwood would again be the scene of horse racing as soon as the season opens. Undoubtedly the proprietors of these two plants also intend to live within the law and take whatever steps are necessary to prevent gambling on their premises.

We wonder how Doyle Carlton views these announcements for another racing season.

Don't Be A "Sucker"

As Florida's tourist season approaches, and hordes of persons begin the annual trek to the winter playgrounds of this state, the Herald believes it is advisable to send out the usual warning against a certain type of obnoxious visitor who has in the past preyed upon the charity and gullibility of our citizens.

Tourist resorts have always been "easy pickings" for every kind of sharper who finds in the out-of-town guests a careless spirit which lends itself admirably to "sucker" games and in the home merchant, a tendency to put unusual credence in the smooth talking gentry from the big cities.

The Florida State Chamber of Commerce has taken the lead in suggesting that people be on their guard for all manner of "shady dealers" and goes on to say:

"Annually thousands of dollars are thrown away by supposedly sane and practical business men and communities through patronizing the brain child of some smooth talking, high pressure artist who comes in from outside the state and successfully carries away the advertising dollar which was refused to the Chamber of Commerce or local newspaper for use through legitimate channels."

"Already reports are being received at the State Chamber of Commerce headquarters announcing the arrival of the fly-by-night brigade and the plying of their trade with success."

"Save your advertising dollars. Is the State Chamber warning, for use in legitimate ways which will be beneficial to the community and the individual. Co-operate with your Chamber of Commerce in curbing this seasonal parasite by not entering into any sort of advertising project until it has been thoroughly investigated and approved by men in your community who know something of the value of advertising and publicity."

"During recent months Florida was swept by a wave of economy. In an effort to reduce taxes many communities allowed their advertising purchase power to be eliminated or greatly curtailed. Therefore it is of more than ordinary importance that those dollars saved at the expense of community publicity be not thrown away on useless schemes."

PUBLIC ENEMIES

Reports made by the National Guard patrols on quarantine inspection duty in Florida disclose that during the week ending October 7 their inspections revealed 420 motor vehicles carrying prohibited hot fruits and vegetables, contrary to the quarantine regulations. Still there are a few who think that these patrols and their inspections should be entirely abolished. There is no chance for their abolition as long as a persistent minority insists upon taking a shot at getting things through which it may be highly dangerous to have go through.

While we are not clear upon the point, we gather from the report referred to that the 420 who sought to violate quarantine regulations were Floridians or persons traveling under Florida license tags. That so many Floridians should insist on doing that which must prove lawful to their plate and which can only result in the continuation of the quarantine and its attendant inspection is almost past conception. It is not too much to say that whoever persists in such a course is a public enemy. Whatever may be their opinion as to the fruitfulness, the possibility of their transporting it or the necessity for quarantine regulations they can only make the situation worse by their efforts to the possible great injury of Florida.

This much may be taken as certain: There will not be a discon-

The Hebraic Gingsl.

In spite of all the sorrows and misery of the East, these are the lands where the great religions of the earth were born, and where other creeds may originate some day. A little mullah is born every minute, it should not be forgotten. Some day there may be one with the fire and the zeal and the passion of a Mohammed, and sweep the world with a new belief, enforcing it upon others at the point of the sword. However that may be, there is no doubt that we owe our religious sentiments largely to the East and no other element has penetrated deeper into the texture of human relations than this. Some Teutons recall the fact that the modern Western world did not preserve the old Germanic gods, Thor, the god of war, and Wotan and Freya. Some even, like Marshal Ludendorff, have broken with Christianity, and have gone back to the gods of Valhalla, disdaining its with his any longer at the shrine of Oriental fantasy. If gods are invented, the Easterners made a better job of it than the Saxon and Gallic ancestors of the present European nations. At best Thor and Wotan were but crude deities, warlike, quarrelsome and drunken, like the humans. The Hebrews presented us with a god of justice, and with the ideal of justice in man's inter-relationships. And it is to that ancient Hebraic goal that mankind is moving. For which the last imperial master shall have gasped out his breath, and when mankind shall have smashed and thrown away its idols of blood and guile, then shall live Israel's vision of goodness and love and justice.

Empire

Abyssinian tribes on the Kenya border are on the warpath. Raiding parties cross the frontier into British territory, rustle cattle, set native villages on fire and massacre the inhabitants. Blood feuds are started that way and murder and counter murder would have no end if the British didn't go in there to restore order. Of course, that's no easy matter. The tribes are inflamed to the boiling point. Their medicine men and witch doctors work them up into a frenzy of fanaticism and blood lust. The first stranger encountered is bound to be slaughtered without much ado. One would expect that only a considerable armed force would be capable of restoring some semblance of order and compelling the excited bands of warriors to return to their villages and go back to pasturing and corn raising. Instead, the British have the peculiar method of sending an officer in there with ten or a dozen men to parley with the boys. The dozen men are, of course, hopelessly inadequate to cope with the situation in a direct manner and they accompany the officer merely as an escort and for purposes of prestige. Somehow or other the officer succeeds in his mission and persuades the tribes to cease their little war. How he does it is a miracle. He doesn't parley much, you may be sure, the English not being given to excessive talk. Still he does it. Mostly by the simple fact of his appearance. The natives know that they can easily kill him and his soldiers. But they also know that another officer with more soldiers will take the penny of their life. They may even overpower the second batch and it may take a long month before a third expedition appears. It will, too. The natives know, just as Napoleon remarked, that the English always lose every battle except the last one.

Rearing Business

The laws aimed against the traffic in religious souvenirs and sites in Jerusalem, the better, perhaps. Only it's amazing to what extent crudely will go, and with what cynical commercialism, those in charge impose upon the good faith of the pious. On the Via Dolorosa there is a spot on a wall marked by Timur prints. It is explained that Christ, weary dragging his cross up to Calvary, rested here and supported himself. The inscription is fresh every second day or so. The lips of hundreds of pilgrims who pass, efface it. I was shown a saddle said to have served on the occasion when Jesus rode in triumph into Jerusalem. 'Tis a well-preserved piece of leather, it says the least. The sword with which Peter slashed away at the ear of Malchus the high priest's servant, is to be seen here. And the alabaster vessel that contained the precious ointment with which the woman anointed the Lord's feet. A lady Arab sold me one of the thirty silver pieces that Judas received for his betrayal. I paid ten piasters for it. Upon searching some of the dirt off, I discovered it had been minted in 1865 in Portugal—of all places.

WASHINGTON'S PEACHING CROP

Three Washington reporters were asked into jail because they would not squall on the proprietor of a couple of steaks. But it seems to be a non-sequitur of some sort for a Senator to peach on his best. You may expect this at the next investigation if Senator Zimby don't soon come out of their tail-pipe.

CHAIRMAN—Senator Champ, who was you on the evening of April 6?

SENATOR—I was at a well dinner up in the Post Circle, Your Honor.

CHAIRMAN—Don't "don't" me, Senator.

SENATOR—I got your pardon, I thought I was somewhere else.

CHAIRMAN—Now, Senator, at this dinner party, who was at the head table?

SENATOR—Well, Mr. Champ had the best seat and there were a lot of important Senators, Cabinet members and big business men.

CHAIRMAN—These details to the committee what happened?

SENATOR—Well, I can't be at the dinner on my tongue and charged it on my expense account at 20 cents a mile. I was at the front double and Mrs. Gargle and me at the door. She was the hostess.

CHAIRMAN—What happened then?

SENATOR—She asked for me, I thirsted, and showed me into the bar. There was a special flask for every Senator, with his initials on it.

CHAIRMAN—Did you take your flask?

SENATOR—Yes, but to use it for an ink well in my office. All the other Senators were drinking out of theirs.

CHAIRMAN—Proceed.

SENATOR—Well, pretty soon they got up a double quartet to sing "Sweet Adeline." On account of being a bass I paired off against two Democratic Senators. We sang around a bit and then went in to dinner.

CHAIRMAN—Describe the scene at the dinner.

SANFORD FORUM

To whom it may concern: In regard to the war the Plant Board is handling the cleaning up of fruit, to get rid of the Mediterranean Fly.

There are orange groves in Geneva, Fla. that have not been cleaned up this Fall, and the Plant Board is spending money paying men, that are not doing any good what-so-ever, and the Plant Board has put a hardship on the people of this County, to make a clean up, and let the same host fruit stay on the adjoining property. At this rate we will never get rid of the Med. Fly.

I am opposed to try too much money being appropriated for this purpose, until an adjustment is made, for the Plant Board has damaged this State million of dollars, and if it is kept up, we will be forced to quit the citrus fruit business.

Very truly yours E. H. Kille Geneva

In New York, Holmes found the murderers of Captain Langmore were members of an international radio-tapping ring, of which Langmore was a member. He succeeded in bringing them to justice and seeing the happy wedding of the young couple.
