BRITISH WIN EVERYWHERE ALONG LINE

HAIG MAKES ANOTHER DRIVE FOR VICTORY

After an ominous silence the news comes from the front that General Haig is inaugurating a new offensive.

The British this morning attacked the Germans on a wide front in Flanders and penetrated the Teutons' positions in some places to a depth of more than a mile. The British overran the crest of Passchendale and Gehlvelt Ridge. At an early hour this morning the Germans were throwing down their arms and surrendering by the hundreds.

This attack came just eight days after the last great drive by the troops under Marshal Haig around Ypres, and in the interim there has been some most desperate fighting on the western front during the war. The Germans made repeatedly frantic attempts to regain the lost ground, which was most important to them in protecting the Belgian coast base.

The battle is more and more resembling the Somme push of last year, which resulted in the memorable "Hindenburg strategic retreat." The Germans' last vain effort to stave off today's attack came yesterday between Tower Hamlet and Polygon Woods. Ever watchful the gunners of Field Marshal Haig again brought havoc among the attacking waves and mowed down the Germans under a withering fire.

Up to late yesterday there was no indication of the time set by Marshal Haig for the renewal of his efforts to press on toward and cut off the Lille railway but he steadily kept up pounding the German trenches with his heavy artillery until this morning, when he began the move against the enemy.

Comparative quiet reigns on the French front, excepting the intense artillery fire on the eastern bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector. French aviators bombarded Frankfurt and Rastatt last night.

JUMPED OFF THE BULKHEAD

Edward Gravier Aged Resident of Palatka Commits Suicide

This morning about 9 o'clock while Edward Gravier, an aged man who has been a resident of Palatka was sitting on the bulkhead near the Clyde docks he remarked to a negro boy fishing near him that "he was going" and jumped into the water. Men near there hearing the splash and the cries of the boy pulled the man out of the water and medical aid was summoned at once. He lived for several minutes after being taken out of the water but was beyond medical aid and died shortly afterward.

From papers on his person it was found that his name was Edward Gravier and he had been a resident of Palatka for a long time. He was known here to A. Mallet and he had been around the city several days and Mr. Mallet says he was janitor of the court house at Palatka for many years. He was about eighty years of age and in feeble health and Mrs. Mallet states that yesterday he remarked that he had lived long enough and hoped the end would soon come for him.

Justice of the Peace L. G. Stringfellow, who is county coroner investigated the case at once and from all that could be learned it appears that the aged man was tired of living and drowned himself. Letters in his pocket showed that he has a daughter living in Wyandotte, Michigan and she will be communicated with at once by the authorities. Undertaken Miller has charge of the remains and the body will be held subject to wire from relatives.

TO DISCUSS COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT

MEETING TO BE HELD IN GRAMMAR SCHOOL BUILDING MONDAY NIGHT AT 7:30 O'CLOCK

The Board of Trade has invited the public to meet with them next Monday night at 7:30 in the Grammar School building to discuss the commission form and city manager idea of city government. This meeting has been called at the request of the citizens and the Grammar School building secured to hold the crowd for every tax payer in the city and every citizen in the city is vitally interested in the subject. The people recognize the fact that a business administration is needed in the city of today if the best results are to be obtained and if the best results can be obtained under the old form of aldermanic government we want to know it. Other progressive cities in every state in the Union have adopted the new form and many of the cities of our own state have adopted it and there will be representative citizens from other Florida cities here on Monday night to give us the facts about the commission form and to give those who attend the meeting the information desired.

This meeting is your meeting and if you are interested in the city affairs you should be there.

The need of improving upon our present form of city government has impressed itself upon all of our people. It is realized and conceded that by the system under which the city has been operating satisfactory results cannot be obtained and that Sanford is denied the opportunity and the means for developing along those lines which should be followed to realize to the fullest extent its civic possibilities. Giving the full and unstinted credit to which they are entitled to those citizens whose interest in civic affairs and whose willingness to render public service has prompted them to take upon themselves the responsibilities of municipal office under the present charter, it must be admitted that its antiquated and cumbersome machinery has greatly limited their powers of accomplishment.

To enable Sanford to come into its own a new form of city government is needed. It was natural, consistent and proper that this need should have been considered by the Board of Trade, for in practically all of the cities where new charters have been adopted involving radical changes from old methods of procedure—cities which by their progressive spirit and achievements have attracted the favorable attention of the entire country—the movements have originated with and been carried through by some active commercial or civic organization.

To change from the present form of government to that of the commission form, involves no delay in awaiting the meeting of the legislature as the charter can be changed by the majority vote of the people of Sanford and the new charter can be made that will conform to the new form of government.

Some of its advantages may briefly be mentioned as follows:

It establishes a simple, direct and business-like form of government.

It makes elective officers responsible to public opinion by means of the initiative and referendum.

It creates a single headed administrative establishment, and this administrative unity makes for harmony between departments, since all are subject to a common head.

It insures expertness in administration at the point where it is most valuable, namely, at the head.

It takes politics out of city affairs by limiting the number of persons to be voted for each year to a single legislative officer; thus enabling the community to center upon the best material available.

It affords to capable men the opportunity of holding office during good behavior, plus tending to the development of trained public servants.

It furnishes through the recall a simple method of removing inefficient officials.

It secures full publicity official acts. It provides for the adoption of a

FROM WOMANHOOD THE GLORY OF THE NATION

LYRIC THURSDAY

Among The Theatres

Lyric Thursday

Mary Ward, a brilliant American girl is guest of honor at a farewell ball in Ruritania. This is a country in which the de facto ruler, Marshal Prince Dario holds sway. His son, Count Dario is very young and susceptible, and he falls sincerely in love with Mary.

He proposes to Mary, who almost accepts him. She tells him if he is in earnest to come to America for her answer. He makes the significant comment that he may be in America sooner than she expects.

With the strongest fighting machine in the world, a depleted treasury and a revolution pending another tax burden, the leaders in the Ruritanian council point to America—peace loving, rich and unprotected—as the one object of their salvation. A pretext is easily found to precipitate hostilities.

Touring homeward by way of Manila Mary meets Paul Strong, a virile type of American, as governor of the Philippines just at the moment of the war's outbreak. There is a chance period of courtship afforded them amid the intense panic of the national calamity when they travel on the same vessel to the States, he to take up important duties in connection with the defense, for the enemy has struck.

The full horror of a hopeless conflict marks the first stages of the war. Churches, mills and homes are destroyed and the helpless and homeless are subjected to frightful persecution, while American's untrained soldiers are slain by the thousands.

The whole nation is passing through a dire ordeal when Paul Strong is appointed Director of Energies. As such he formulates a wonderful and comprehensive plan of united action and thought. However, because of past unpreparedness, long months of persistent effort must elapse ere the program reaches fulfillment. Mary for her part undertakes another and most dangerous patriotic work. Being thrown in contact with the invaders, she manages to secure a place in their headquarters through pretending to reciprocate the love of Count Dario.

Mary's position at the Ruritanian headquarters, from which she is in secret communication with the American camp beyond the city, becomes precarious when she slips through the lines to attend the meetings of the patriotic defenders.

After one of her narrow escapes Paul Strong boldly makes his way into the midst of the enemy council and delivers America's final challenge.

He is mocked and Mary at the same time is confronted with evidence of her espionage. Both are condemned to be shot. But America is ready at last, Paul demonstrates it by an object lesson that quickly secures for him and Mary safe conduct back to their lines.

The concentration of resources and highly trained patriotism now good in the final test. There is a great battle on land and sea in which the enemy is annihilated. America emerges once more—a nation strong and triumphant.

"Womanhood, The Glory of The Nation"

Perhaps the most realistic, vivid battle scenes ever filmed are offered to the audience at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday, when Vitagraph presents "Womanhood, The Glory of the Nation," the soul stirring patriotic spectacle by J. Stuart Blackton, starring Alice Joyce, and Harry Morey.

As far as the human eye can reach is the battlefield strewn here and there with the heroes who have fallen in honor that their country might live. The air is dusky with the smoke of conflict and bombs burst, continually rising clouds of dirt as they tear up a goodly portion of the ground.

Then the trenches with their men leaning upwards, rifles aimed at the approaching foe are seen—airships encircle the field, dropping poisonous gas bombs and other deadly missiles on the fighting men beneath.

Then comes the decisive naval battles after America has concentrated every energy and prepared herself for the terrific onslaught of the foe. The fleets move seaward in a majestic line, every gun manned by an expert marksman and every boiler attended by devoted men. Now a shell sent from the enemy's ship finds its mark and shoots through the water, leaving behind it the dead white trail of foam. Finally it comes into contact with the ship and in a few moments hundreds have been claimed by a watery grave. The men in the boiler room fight one another like rats in a hole as they feel their vessel give a lurch sideways and realize their hope of escape is cut off.

When war visits its horrors upon any land its inhabitants become crazed and sacrifices untold are suffered by the people. There is no limit—it is murderous slaughter and the side conceiving the most effective instruments of destruction is naturally victorious.

Then Uncle Sam plays his trump card—he sets his firebugs loose amid the enemy's ships and in another few minutes victory is recognized. These firebugs are small boats steered by wireless so that no men are necessary and filled with gasoline which is set afire when they reach the fleet of the enemy and turn the waters into a curtain of fire.

Mr. Blackton spared no effort or expense that these scenes might be authentic to the minutest detail in order that the proper atmosphere be secured and he was generously given the cooperation of the U. S. Army and Navy as far as practicable. Therefore, all the battle scenes graphically portray just the conditions when they were invaded by a powerful enemy. Lyric Thursday.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

TWENTY PER CENT DECREASE IN PER CAPITA CONSUMPTION OF ALCOHOL.

The per capita consumption of liquor varies from year to year. When government reports show an increase the liquor interests make much of it and use it as an argument against prohibition. When decrease is shown they go back ten or twenty years for their statistics.

The consumption of liquor increased every year until 1907, then prohibition territory began to spread. During the years 1907-1915, government reports record both increase and decrease, with a total decrease for the eight years of 20 per cent in the consumption of straight alcohol, his is allowing 50 per cent alcohol for distilled spirits, 15 per cent for wine and 4 per cent for malt liquors.

"Increase of consumption of liquors despite increase in dry territory is easily explained," writes the well-known labor leader, Mr. John F. Cunniff of Chicago, to whom we are indebted for these figures. "In years of panic and hard times," he says, "from 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 working people in the United States are thrown out of work. The last man hired and the first man fired is the man who drinks." In slack times 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 drinking men are thrown out of work. They can drink little because of lack of money to buy. When times get prosperous and there is great demand for men, employers of labor must put on drinking men because they can get no others. The drinking man with plenty of money indulges heavily as long as money lasts. One million drinking men, who in prosperous times consume an extra quart of liquor per day, will increase the consumption of liquor in the country 91,000,000 gallons in one year. When hard times come and drinking men are thrown out of work and cannot buy liquor there is an enormous decrease in liquor consumption."

The reported increase in consumption for the year ending June 30, 1916, is due in great measure to the unprecedented demand for liquor. Trade conditions brought on by the European war, and the growing demand for denatured alcohol, are likewise factors. That under conditions of last year the increase is not much greater shows, Mr. Cunniff points out, the tremendous power of the prohibition movement.

With distilleries and breweries in wet cities going out of business (three breweries of St. Louis within a few weeks of each other, for example) it doesn't look as though the beverage liquor traffic were prospering!

Taking Education to the People

JOE KARMAN IN PALM BEACH POST

We all know that this Jack Horner boy was not really smart when in gustatory discussion of a Christmas plum he pulled out a plum. The plum was there. All he did was to apply the exploring thumb. The claim of superior cerebration, he it remembered, was put in by Jack himself.

We lay off the Jack Horner stuff of course when we declare that—TAKING THE EDUCATION TO THE PEOPLE, INSTEAD OF BRINGING THE PEOPLE TO THE EDUCATION—is a great idea, and therefore worthy of the consideration of the Board of Control when plans for the most effective management of the institutions of public education under its direction are being greatly discussed.

But the greatest idea possible for the human mind to entertain would be powerless to influence mankind unless it is demonstrated. Ideas are not self acting. If you are not organized to prove it, you had better keep quiet about the sum of two and two.

Let us, therefore, get behind a piece of chalk and in front of the blackboard.

Extension work, which is the name given to the practical application of the idea of conveying the University to the people has been developed further and faster at the University of Wisconsin than anywhere else. In the two year period last reported the University carried practical instruction in useful branches INTO EVERY COUNTY in Wisconsin.

In a few counties two or three communities were reached. In many counties the number of communities receiving direct aid from the University exceeded ten and in a few counties the scores mounted up to and exceeding the fifties. Thus was the University spread over the entire state. And in this way the benefits of accurate information on live subjects were carried to the people of Wisconsin who could not spare the time or the money to go to the University. This teaching was done by correspondence courses, lectures, slides, films and public debates, at without cost to the individual attending. The attendance was large at every one of the entertainments. Naturally so. People want to know about things and any scheme for imparting information that INTERESTS as well as instructs gets the crowd.

Imparting information to hundreds or thousands (one or two) within college walls is a mighty good way, but carrying information to hundreds of thousands RIGHT WHERE THEY LIVE is better. By extending its outside work to reach every one whose desire to learn is strong enough to move him to walk to a lecture or write a letter, the University of Wisconsin has become universal to the people of Wisconsin. It reaches thousands beyond its state lines.

The fable of the farmer who had the little red hen who laid the eggs, and chopped the wood and made up the beds, and milked the cow, and ground the corn and drove the Ford doesn't fascinate the people of Wisconsin. They have the University. And if Hans Wagner in Milwaukee, wants to know what they mean by changing the looks of a five dollar bill he writes to the University and gets by return mail a pocket library containing full information about the Federal Reserve Law, passed by congress in 1914.

The University of Wisconsin prepares in advance packets containing pamphlets and clipping bearing record of and comment on the Adamson Eight Hour Law, the Child Labor Law, the Full Crew Law, the Shipping Law, and on other subjects of wide and deep public interest and has THESE PACKETS ready to study and return, to anyone asking. More than eleven thousand of these "packet-libraries" were distributed in the last two year period reported. Wisconsin has the best taxation system of all the states. Everybody knows this. Even your own county or city tax assessor knows it. Ask him. But perhaps your tax assessor has forgotten that Wisconsin owes this almost perfect taxation system to its University. For four years the professors and students had—The Best Way to Lay the Tax Burden in Wisconsin—as a subject for daily study. They searched the world for information; they scanned the tax systems of Scandinavia and they messed around among the musty impost laws of Mesopotamia. They sent scouts into nearly every state capital and they wandered around Europe in vacation time. Then when they had gathered information enough to overload two hay wagons they sifted it and tabulated it and indexed it, weighed it, measured it, graded it, tested it for rabies and hookworm; took its temperature, respiration and bust measure, worked it by the rule of three and extracted its cube root, teeth and specific gravity; then they fumigated it, aerated it, coddled and castigated it, they set it to music and played it on the flute, checker board, melodeon and accordion, they edited it, culled and colated it, expurgated, amplified and briefed it; they mined it, bombed it, gassed it and submarined it without warning; they—well, if you are getting ready to guess by this time that those students and professors did things to that tax information, you needn't do it. We will answer—they did.

After four years work, the University submitted a bill to the Wisconsin legislature that even LaFollette could not write an amendment for, AND IT PASSED just as it was written. And now if you live in Wisconsin and expect to escape paying taxes, you must throw everything away, take the pauper's oath and leave for parts unknown with tickets punched to destination and no return coupon attached.

By that single piece of work the University gave itself a perpetual endowment—for the taxes collected from property THAT HAD BEFORE ESCAPED, are enough to PAY ALL THE EXPENSES OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Florida spends two hundred and fifty thousand, or near abouts, a year on the four institutions managed by the Board of Control.

Florida has been struggling for sixteen years or more to get rid of the Fee System of compensating county officials.

It costs the people of Florida in fees OVER AND ABOVE ADEQUATE SALARIES more than $300,000 per year.

Just suppose the Board of Control was to direct the Extension Division of the University to get to work on a bill to meet this demand.

It is really TOO easy. It looks so much like 2 plus 2.

Apples Most Valuable Fruit.

The apple is pre-eminent in the household economy for no other fruit excels it in culinary usefulness. It graces the table in a far greater variety than any other fruit. Of all fruits grown in North America, the apple leads in amount and intrinsic value. No fear of an overproduction, however, if the means of transportation and distribution are perfected. What if we do raise 125,000 carloads of apples or 62,000,000 boxes a year? This is but half a box to a person not counting what we export. That isn't very many.—Exchange.

Giving Credit

We venture the assertion that there are any number of our readers who will pick up The Herald, glance over the ads, note a number of attractive offerings from our merchants, and then go straight to the houses making these offers and make their purchases. In many cases the customer secures a decided bargain by his promptness.

Now if the merchant had any means of knowing how many of his customers secured their knowledge of his offerings from the columns of The Herald, he could place a correct estimate on the value to him of the space that he uses in this paper to disseminate his store news. And it is but justice to himself and the publishers that he should have this knowledge.

Dear reader, just at this point YOU can confer a great favor on both your publisher and your merchant, and it will cost you absolutely nothing, either in money, time or effort.

If you will simply state, when calling for any such advertised article, "I saw your ad in the Herald," you will be giving him just the information he is most desirous of obtaining, and at the same time you will give your paper just credit for its efforts in your and his behalf.

This may seem a simple little favor we ask of you, but it is big in possibilities to us and to you. If EVERY merchant could know just how many of his customers were attracted by his ads, many more would advertise, and YOUR opportunities would be doubled and multiplied.

May we not hope you will bear this in mind when next you make purchases?

Let's ALL give full credit.

COTTON IN FLORIDA

Will Be One of The Big Crops Next Year

A few months ago when this paper suggested that cotton raising in Florida gives promise of great returns to those who grow it there were many skeptics who said that cotton will not do well here and that it had proved a failure a decade ago when large quantities of it were grown. The several thousand acres in the state this year indicates that the far-sighted farmers are going to avail themselves of the unprecedented prices and begin raising the staple again.

Cotton raising in Florida was a success half a century ago. Bountiful crops could be raised of both short and long staple, but other crops were found more remunerative when the market went down to from five to seven cents a pound and production here gradually ceased. Cotton was not in such demand in those days, marketing facilities from here were bad, transportation was uncertain and labor hard to get. But all of these conditions are changed now.

Long staple cotton is selling around seventy cents a pound, with short cotton around twenty. It has always been said that at ten cents a pound producers could realize a handsome profit on short staple cotton. If this is true what must be the financial condition of the big cotton planters in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas this year? Or rather, what would be their financial condition if the boll weevil had not made its appearance?

The cotton crop this year will be far short of the world's demand. It will be still shorter next year. The boll weevil is gradually making his way to the Atlantic seaboard and cotton production will necessarily have to be given up in vast areas which heretofore have produced thousands of bales. This means that the price will go still higher whether there is a world's peace or not. Peace, it is said, is sure to send the price much higher.

Long staple cotton is being used now in the place of silk, the supply of the latter commodity being less than ever before. Improved methods of manufacture make a good quantity of long cotton fill nearly every requirement of silk and this explains the increased value of the long variety over the short. Long staple, or sea island, is especially adapted to this section and thousands of bales of it will be sent to market from stations in Florida this year that have not seen a bale of cotton before in twenty-five years.

In Lake county plans are already under way for the construction of several gins. These will be needed for handling the crop next year. At present producers usually sell their crop in the seed and it is shipped to some point where there is a gin many miles away, ginned and baled and reshipped. All of this is necessarily expensive and the producer does not get the benefit of his seed. The government has issued a big poster calling on the farmers not to sell their cotton in the seed, and sets forth the many disadvantages of this kind of careless marketing.

Cotton will reign in Florida next year.

BEREAN BANQUET

Annual Social Gathering of Well known Baptist Class

The annual social gathering of the Berean Class of the Baptist denomination was held at the Carnes Hotel last Monday night. This gathering was the scene of one of the best banquets that has been pulled off in Sanford for many years. The stage was properly set and at nine o'clock the invited guests and members of the class began to arrive, and at 9:15 the large doors of the dining room of this popular hostelry were thrown open and the young men proceeded to the feast.

The table was presided over by Jno. D. Jinkins, superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school, and when the members of the class had gathered around the heavily laden table Dr. W. W. William, state Sunday school secretary was asked to return thanks.

Then came the eats—which were as fine as could ever be expected anywhere and the quantity was as much as the capacity, and strange to say not one asked for a return helping, although there were some great eaters around the board.

Special toasts and after dinner speeches were asked for by the toastmaster, after he in his most cordial manner welcomed the diners and stated the object of the gathering, and also of the class, he introduced the president of the class, R. M. Grovenstein, who spoke on the subject of "The Class."

The toastmaster then introduced Schelle Malnes, secretary of the Sunday school, who took quite a few minutes in his humble way to explain the "Relation of the Organized Class to the Sunday School." After Mr. Malnes came Dr. Geo. Hyman, pastor of the church who spoke at length and with a manner that the speaker knew his subject, which was "The Relation of the Organized Class to the Church."

Dr. William in his graceful and easy way spoke of the "Class Organizations of the State." This man told many timely stories and jokes which he used to illustrate and to bring the meaning of his subject more forcibly to all those present. The toastmaster then introduced one of the smallest men (in stature) there, this was Hon. D. C. Marlowe, secretary Sanford Board of Trade, who made one of the biggest talks of the evening on the "Needs of the Y. M. C. A. Feature in Organized Class Works of the City." Mr. Marlowe used this subject to advantage as he is a puller for progressiveness and the Y. M. C. A. for Sanford would certainly mean a strong, progressive step.

Dr. J. T. Denton, the teacher of the class made a strong talk on the benefits that the class afforded and then made a better talk on the subject, "Why Not a Hundred in the Berean Class?" and according to Dr. Denton, in a few days this question will be answered by the phrase "Why there are 100 in the Berean Class Now."

Many other speeches were made by those present, among them a very nice one expressing appreciation and compliments for the class by C. C. Samford, the engineer in charge of the construction of the new postoffice building.

Those attending the banquet were: R. M. Grovenstein, Jno. D. Jinkins, Dt. J. T. Denton, Dr. W. W. William, Dr. Geo. Hyman, D. C. Marlowe, L. B. Mann, Jas. A. Johnson, Carl Malm, Joe Courier, M. L. Williams, D. B. Hodges, Edward Millen, Arthur Lassing, L. G. Buchan, Charlie Mumm, Schelle Malnes, H. R. Williams, D. R. Brisson, G. C. Hill, C. A. Whiddon, B. L. Perkins, A. C. Williams, J. D. Dossey, F. E. Gatchel, W. E. Hette, M. M. Mitchell, C. C. Sanfrid.

Go-to-Sunday School Day, Nov. 4th
Plans are being made in the Sunday schools of the state for a big, sweeping ingathering on November 4th, which is International Go-to-Sunday School Day. One school, in writing to the office of the Florida Sunday School Association asking for free programs said: "We hope to gather our attendance that day."

Governor Catts will issue a proclamation within a few weeks, and it is hoped that throughout the state a concerted movement for larger attendance and better schools will result.

From the office of the Florida Sunday School Association last week were mailed more than 6,000 pieces of mail matter touching on this day. From over the state are coming word of preparation.

Practically every state in the Union will observe the day, and Florida will take her place with the others in making this a big day.

State Sunday School Convention
Arrangements are fast being completed for the big state Sunday school convention which is to meet in Daytona October 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th.

The committee of the Sunday School Association, having this work directly in charge is prorating the number of delegates desired at the convention among the various counties of the state. This county's proportion, as announced by the Association headquarters is to be forty. It is hoped that every school in this county will strive to meet its proportion of the county goal, so that this county will not be short the amount expected of it.

R. C. Weidler, general secretary of the Florida Sunday School Association is quoted as giving out the following concerning the convention: "This will be the biggest and best convention ever held in Florida. We are striving for a total attendance of 1,200 delegates. Each county is asked to send a certain portion of this number. Daytona folks are preparing for them. Their homes are being wide open, and true Day-tonian hospitality will reign in the city. We have tried to arrange a great program. Mr. John L. Alexander, a king among men will be the chief attraction. Prof. C. M. Brittain of Columbia College; President C. H. French of Rollins College, and other men of this type will bring to the delegates the wealth of their life's experiences. The fellowship of the convention will be splendid. Rubbing shoulders and lives with great people will produce lasting effects on those present. Every Sunday school in the state may send as many delegates as desired. There are no restrictions to our conventions. No rules embarrass anyone. This convention will be a great and mighty religious gathering."

TEMPERANCE NOTES
(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

NOTED SURGEON CONDEMNED BEER.

"I have a good deal of knowledge of the effects of beer drinking both in this country and abroad," writes Dr. Howard A. Kelly of Johns Hopkins university. "It is injurious all the time, creating drunkards, disrupting homes, and robbing poor children and mothers of millions of dollars wasted over the bar of the saloon. The habitual beer-drinker stands small chance of recovering from an attack of pneumonia. Moderate quantities of beer impair efficiency, and our working people lose thousands of dollars yearly by being laid off because of the injurious habit of beer-drinking."

ALCOHOL AND ATHLETICS.

The change which has come over the country in this respect is nowhere more definitely demonstrated than in professional athletics, such as baseball. In the old days managers used to wink when a good man took a drink now and then, provided his batting average was up to snuff.

WHAT WILL THE POOR TAXPAYER DO WITH HIS MONEY?

The jail of Skagit county, Washington, is empty! The sheriff when asked recently "What's going on in the jail?" replied, "Nothing going on but the rent." A big populous county and nobody in jail!

In Kentucky 203 distillers have offered their services to the United States government to make alcohol for the manufacture of explosives.

Alcohol kills the living and preserves the dead.

The only good side of a saloon is the outside.

The Whippoorwill. The whippoorwill does not build a nest for its eggs but lays them on the ground, usually on fallen leaves.

Home of Robespierre.
Arras, the tapestry town unkindly described by George Henry Lewes in 1840 as "dismal Arras," is the birthplace of Maximilien de Robespierre, whose one diversion was to snatch a few days' repose there. When in 1791 Robespierre was feted by his native Arras, the National Guard of Bapaume provided his bodyguard.

Men Make the Nation.
"A nation might be rich in minerals and soil, in natural beauties, in its commerce, but unless it is rich in men, an essential ingredient of national wealth is missing. Great men in a nation are its fertilizing qualities. The world without them would be either a desert or a morass."—Premier David Lloyd George.

THE NEW S. O. S. FROM THE FRONT

"SEND ON SMOKES"

You know how glad you are to get back to "your own brand" after you've tried some other kind of a smoke, or when you couldn't get your favorite one.

tion out of French tobacco. There's plenty of it, but somehow, their smoke palate rebels at the new flavor. They want, most of all, the old familiar brands of pipe tobacco and "makin's" and the cigarettes they used to have at home.

Our boys in France are having hard time trying to get any satisfac-

That's why you hear the new "S. O. S." from the front: "Send On Smokes." They want the good old American kind that rolls over the tongue and just touches the spot. We've made it easy for you to answer some soldier's "S. O. S." The French Government, this Government and the Red Cross are all cooperating in a plan whereby you may send twenty-five cents to this newspaper and a generous Tobacco Kit—far more than you actually pay for—goes forward at once and is received, duty free, across the ocean. More than that, each Kit contains a stamped return postal card which the recipient may use to send you a message from the front. It is addressed to the donor and will come right back to you from the man who is having his smokes "on you."

Editor Ruhl of the Sebring White Way alludes to Sebring as the "Bungalow Town," and gives a cut of one of these little beauties in his splendid paper.—Arcadia News.

Well, Pete is built along bungalow lines himself and he ought to be all right in a bungalow town.

Congressman Sears expects to address five hundred young ladies at Oxford College in Ohio some time this winter. Since our Joe is an authority on educational matters and is also in favor of woman suffrage he ought to make a hit in Oxford with the girls. Take us with you, Joe.

For the benefit of several anxious people who are worrying some about him the editor of The Herald wishes to announce that he is not and never will be a candidate for any office in the city, state or United States. Any plans that he may have in politics do not include himself in the list of candidates. Please bear this in mind now and in the future.

SANFORD MAY BE NEXT
It would appear that Sanford is about ready to make the change from the aldermanic form to the commission manager form of civic government. A joint meeting of the people of Sanford with the Board of Trade has been called for Monday, October 8th, when the question will be discussed. As was the case in St. Augustine, where the Chamber of Commerce took charge of the movement, so is it in Sanford, and there is the added advantage of having the Sanford Herald supporting the movement.—St. Augustine Record.

THOSE BLINDING LIGHTS
The Herald has called the attention of the city council as well as the county officials to the blinding headlights that are now used in the city and on the country roads. The city council for some reason or other has been afraid to legislate against this evil. The county has never taken it up but the city and county should do something to mitigate this evil. Orange county has been against the same trouble as witness the following from the Orlando Reporter-Star:

It generally takes some catastrophe to awaken one to their dangers, and sooner or later, if not sooner, some one is going to be killed or maimed for life as a result of the glaring headlights on automobiles on the Orange county roads and then steps will be taken to prevent an occurrence of a like accident.

Other counties and cities have laws prohibiting blinding lights. Why not Orlando and Orange county? Some automobiles are equipped with dimmers, others are not, some people recognize the "courtesies of the road," others do not and it is for the latter that such laws should be made.

Sunday night several prominent citizens narrowly escaped serious injury because the gentleman driving was blinded by the lights of an oncoming automobile, not being able to see where he was driving, his car dived, and that no one was injured is due to Providence, for the ditch into which the car fell was four feet deep. It is true the accident occurred over the Orange county line, but it might have happened on this side had the circumstances been the same.

If Orange county leads in this move our sister counties may follow suit.

CAMP SITES IN FLORIDA
More attention is being directed every day to the fact that Florida presents advantages for army and navy training sites that cannot be claimed by any other state east of the Rocky Mountains, owing to the fact that the climate will permit outdoor instruction to students every day in the year, and owing also to the fact that expensive buildings for the accommodation of the thousands of students will not have to be provided, neither will the question of fuel for heating the buildings have to be considered.

Floridians are well acquainted with the advantages of their climate, but it is a difficult matter to secure the attention of authorities who have the preconceived notions and badly warped opinions that there is something in the climate of Florida that makes for ill health and disease. All that has been exploded long ago, as we know.

Under the urging of the Florida delegation in congress the officials having the selection of camp sites for training schools have lately paid more attention to Florida and several very important investigations have been made.

As a result Jacksonville secured one great camp, and there is every chance that Miami will obtain another. Several places have been mentioned as aviation schools and various towns in Florida are after them vigorously.

Now comes a strong contest to secure for some Florida town the location of an artillery school at which it is estimated seventy thousand men will be in constant training with some prospect that it will be made permanent after the war is over.

Mobile, in Alabama, and Pensacola and Sanford, in Florida, are all after this great plum and every effort is being put forth by these communities to induce the officials to recommend one of the three.

We may well hope that either Sanford or Pensacola secure the school, and Miami's leanings would be toward its nearest neighbor, Sanford.—Miami Herald.

SYSTEM BREAKING DOWN.

In view of all the recent occurrence within this city, the question may be seriously asked whether the system under which the city is governed has not broken down, and the question is timely in view of the growing interest in the question of a city commission manager form of government which has generally proven satisfactory in the hundred or more cities in the United States that have adopted it.

It's growing more apparent every day that under the present system there is altogether too much of a burden placed upon the members of the council. These gentlemen are elected to an office which, collectively, gives them the entire control of the business affairs of the city as well as the legislative functions of government. Miami is growing rapidly and the problems of keeping up with that growth by the necessary city improvements are an extreme burden on the shoulders of the members of the council.

Not one of the gentlemen composing the council is so situated that he can give his time exclusively to the interests of the city. Each one is a business man with his own interests to look after. He either must neglect his own affairs or the city's, in case of a conflict of time, and as the city pays him practically nothing for his services, there can be no fault found with him when it comes to his own interests or the city's that the latter are neglected. As a matter of fact the work in each department of the city government, as it is now apportioned among the councilmen is enough to keep one man busy practically all the time.

There is a reason, therefore, why mistakes are made, why delays are encountered in the city's business, why things are not generally satisfactory, and the reason does not reflect upon any member of the council, because every man in that body is doing the best he can under a system that hampers him badly.

Under the present system there is no possibility of securing co-ordination between the different bodies, an error that can only be remedied by placing all of the city's business activities under the control of one man, who will be paid for his full time and who will be held responsible for results.

With all these things patent to every one, it cannot be said that there is a very great deal of interest in the subject of adopting a form of government that has proven an almost invariable success in many other cities of Miami's class, where the commission manager form has been thoroughly tried out. The people of Miami have not waked up to the seriousness of the condition and, therefore, business men and others have not investigated a way out of our present troubles or a preventative for the accumulation of more trouble, delays and expense.

It would appear to those who have investigated the subject that the proposed city commission manager form does promise a very large measure of relief and a very large measure of city business success, and there ought to be more interest taken in the proposition to discuss a new form of government.—Miami Herald.

Woman's Club Notes

The first business meeting of the club year held on Wednesday afternoon last opened with a splendid attendance from a standpoint of numbers as well as that of enthusiasm. Everyone seemed primed with interest and the outlook for the coming year's work is most promising.

Mrs. Galloway, president, presided with her usual grace and marked ability, presenting in turn each incoming officer to the club, making complimentary and earnest remarks to those retiring from office, assuring them of her appreciation and that of all interested for their faithful and untiring service rendered. The new officers for the ensuing year are: 1st vice president, Mrs. Walter L. Morgan, 3rd vice president, Mrs. B. A. Howard, Secretary, Mrs. W. L. Watson, and the new department chairman are, Music, Mrs. W. Gwynn Fox; Social, Mrs. Julius Schultz; Welfare, Mrs. H. S. Moughton.

The personnel of the staff of officers and workers for 1917-18 assures of the safe and efficient conduct of affairs of the club during this period.

The president asked Mrs. C. M. Berry, chairman Home Economics Dept. to give us a brief report of her trip to Tallahassee, which she did in her own inimitable style, leaving with all present an insight into the greatness of this work and the urgent need for everyone to understand and put into practice the conservation of foodstuffs, etc., for the good of our country, community and homes. The outline for this work and dates of meetings, etc., will be announced in a later issue of this paper and it is urged upon everyone to watch for these announcements and attend the meetings.

Promptly at four o'clock, as announced, the program for the raising of the flag over our club house was begun by invocation by Rev. Dr. Brownlee and proved to be one of sweet simplicity and appropriateness in each detail, and as the crowd left not a few moist eyes were to be noticed, owing to the touching sight of Old Glory once more being unfurled over a public building in our community, for while she is always dear to the heart of all true Americans at this particular time the lovely sentiments expressed in word and song touched a chord in many hearts burdened by the sorrow of loved ones gone to fight in defense of this same beautiful flag.

At the conclusion of this program all were invited to enjoy a most refreshing glass of punch. The committee responsible for our pleasure on this occasion was composed of the following ladies: Chairman, Mrs. W. E. Watson; Medaimes Hal Wight, Morse, Mobley and W. H. Peters. Refreshments, Mrs. R. A. Newman.

Cong. Sears in Great Demand

The following dispatch from Washington will be interesting to the many friends of Congressman Sears: "Representative Joe Sears, who is chairman of the house committee on education, is in demand as a speaker at educational gatherings throughout the country, and he is receiving invitations to deliver addresses in large numbers. A recent pressing invitation came to Mr. Sears from the Oxford Female College of Oxford, O. This is one of the most prominent institutions in the education of girls. Mr. Sears gave a qualified promise to accept at some date in the future that will not interfere with his congressional duties."

Oxford is one of the famous college towns of the middle states and Oxford College is one of the three famous institutions of learning located there. The late Mrs. M. D. Holly of this city and mother of the editor of the Herald graduated at Oxford College in the class of '39, being a classmate of Carrie Scott, afterward the wife of President Benjamin Harrison. The editor of The Herald also attended school there several years.

Presbyterian Church

At the regular morning service at 11 o'clock there will be communion service at the Presbyterian church. Sunday school at 9:45. Preaching at 11. Evening service at 7:30. All are cordially invited to attend these services.

In Memoriam

To the memory of our dear grandfather, Mr. A. Speer. Death is very sure to come. To take some one from our home. It came and took our dear Grandad which has made our hearts so sad. He was very aged and gray. But how we wished he could stay. They laid him in the cold, cold grave and over him the flag will wave. For he was a rebel brave and true. He fought 'neath flag of bonny blue. But death came and took him. So they sang his farewell hymn. —Mabel Ingram.

TRACHOMA APPEARS

Several Cases of Dreaded Eye Disease Found in Sanford

Prompt action on the part of Dr. T. A. Neal of this city has probably prevented the spread of Trachoma, the dreaded eye disease. While examining one of the Mayo boys at his office this week Dr. Neal discovered that the boy was suffering from trachoma and immediately took steps to have him sent to a specialist in Jacksonville for treatment. Taking up the matter with the schools and the board of county commissioners Dr. Neal enlisted the aid and cooperation of the boards and also of the state health officer, Dr. Cox, and several other cases were found here. This disease has been found in the schools of several counties in the state and should be eradicated at once as it is dangerous and liable to spread especially among the school children. All those who have been exposed to it have been examined and the state authorities have called in government specialists as the following from the Jacksonville Times-Union states:

"A number of cases of trachoma, disease of the eyelid which neglected may produce blindness, have appeared in Riverside and other sections of the state and Dr. W. H. Cox, state health officer has requested the surgeon general of the United States public health service to detail a man here to aid in combating a spread of the trouble.

This disease is contagious and of such importance that the United States immigration office excludes immigrants affected with it. It has the appearance in its initial stage of inflammation similar to that present in granulated lids and may be contracted by using a towel or other cloth that has already been used by a person having the disease.

Reports received by Dr. Cox showing that the disease has appeared in the Riverside section of Jacksonville as well as at Sanford, Manatee and Wauchula cause him to realize immediately that quick steps must be taken to stamp it out and avoid its spreading. He communicated at once with Surgeon-General Rupert Blue asking that a public health service specialist be dispatched here.

He was notified last night that Dr. McMullen will be here in a few days. His arrival will be followed by a conference at the state board of health building between the state health officer and the several district health officers, who will start measures at once to stamp it out."

Embargo Hits Germany

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—England's embargo on shipments of practically everything to Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands is regarded here as a most important move in tightening the cord which is slowly, but surely killing the military power in Germany. This, together with the action of the United States in carefully scrutinizing the shipments to neutrals, will strike a vital blow to the Central powers.

Will Make Reprisals

"We shall bombard Germany with compound interest," Premier Lloyd-George was quoted as telling a London crowd in promising them that England would soon launch reprisals against the Teutons for their continued air raids on London. The French reprisals were already under way.

The French air men last night bombarded the town of Baden, 55 miles beyond the French frontier. More than seven tons of bombs were also dropped on military objectives in territory now held by Germany. The artillery is active on the French front and particularly near Verdun, where the French are preparing to attack there in order to gain a few trench elements, that were retained by the Teutons when they thrust back North Hill, 345 feet. Only the artillery is active in Flanders.

Gives His Permission

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24. Sanford Lodge No. 62, care Dr. O. J. Miller, Worshipful Master, Sanford, Florida.

Gentlemen: Acknowledgement is made of your letter of the 16th inst., addressed to Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, relative to placing a Masonic emblem, as well as an inscription, on the cornerstone of the Federal building in course of construction at Sanford, Florida.

The Department will interpose no objection to having the cornerstone placed with ceremonies appropriate to the occasion, providing the United States is involved in no expense thereby and that nothing is placed on the cornerstone except that shown on the full size detail drawing showing the cornerstone, a print of which is in the possession of the Superintendent of Construction. This permission is also contingent upon the contractor's making no objection thereto, and that other and responsible organizations wishing to participate shall be permitted to do so.

Anniversary Best Wishes

Married in Portsmouth, Ohio, Oct. 8th, thirty-two years ago, Ira J. and Mary M. Secord started on a wedding trip to Florida. At Jacksonville they decided to take the boat for Sanford and "The City of Jacksonville"—the old boat is still making the fascinating St. Johns river trip—brought them safely here arriving Oct. 18.

In those days there was not much town south of Fourth street, and only two houses south of Seventh. Our travelers were sufficiently pleased with their environment to stay, so they are still practically on that wedding tour, to celebrate their thirty-second anniversary Oct. 8.

We add our hearty congratulations to the many they will receive. Bringing with them good will, integrity, helpfulness and a sincere Christian faith, these desirable elements have the respect and love of our entire community. May they have many another anniversary in our midst.

the weather was from 6 deg. to 8 deg. cooler than the normal. Precipitation—Precipitation was generally above the normal, except over the extreme south and northeast, where it was less than usual. In the vicinity of Miami the weekly total exceeded 7 inches, the excess for the period being more than 5 inches. Rains were heavy and damaging in the western division, owing to the tropical storm that visited that section on the 28-29. The moderate precipitation was beneficial over the northeastern counties. Some heavy rains were: Miami, 7.8; Hypoluxo 3.2; Bartow 3.3; Fenholloway 3.7; and Marianna 3.6 inches.

Condition of Crops. Cotton, in portions of the central division was unfavorably affected by frequent rains, some reports stating that it was rotting in the fields. Cotton suffered also to some extent in the extreme west, by the tropical storm which was severest over that portion of the section. The soil was too wet for trucking in central portions and frequent rains delayed haying over much of the section. The moderate precipitation over most of the northeastern counties was beneficial to sweet potatoes, cane and trucking.

BILLION BUSHELS OF WHEAT ASKED BY THE GOVERNMENT FOR NEXT YEAR

High Mark for Production Is Set by Federal and State Officials—Winter Wheat Acreage to Be Increased 18 Per Cent Over Last Year—Large Increase in Production of Rye Also Is Urged.

Washington. — The production of over 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat and over 33,000,000 bushels of rye through the planting of 47,337,000 acres to winter wheat and of 5,131,000 acres to rye this fall is the immediate war agricultural program for the nation announced by David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture. This record winter wheat acreage, an increase of 18 per cent over last year, would yield 672,000,000 bushels if the average yield for the past ten years is equalled, or under a repetition of the favorable conditions of 1914 would give 890,000,000 bushels. In either case with a spring wheat crop next year equal to that of 1915, the nation will have more than 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat for domestic use and export.

This vastly increased production of wheat, needed in any case, will be absolutely essential to prevent a serious shortage of breadstuffs next summer should the growing corn, now behind the season, be much damaged by early frosts.

Best Thought of Experts.
The program approved by the secretary of agriculture represents the best thought of the United States department of agriculture and of state agricultural officials and state councils of defense.

The study of this question has involved many factors and the specialists have been aware from the first that the demands for wheat may exceed the supply next year. Effort, therefore, has been made to recommend in each state about as large an acreage in wheat and rye as can be sown without upsetting proper farm practice which must be maintained in the interest of wheat and rye crops this and succeeding years, as well as in the interest of other necessary spring-planted crops which are not discussed in detail at this time, as they are not food crops in which a marked shortage exists.

The estimates, the department states, are made with the knowledge that there is some shortage of the fertilizer supply, but with the understanding that there will be no general shortage in the supply of seed or of farm machinery which is necessary in the production of the wheat crop. It is understood also that ample transportation facilities will be provided and a fair price for wheat will be established. These factors have been assumed as fixed and satisfactory. If any one or more fail to be adjusted in good time, no person can tell how serious will be the effect on the total crop.

Calls for Unusual Effort.
The planting and cultivation of these increased acreages of full-grown grains calls for unusual effort on the part of the farmers. Plans to place at the disposal of farmers all assistance possible are being perfected in the United States department of agriculture, the state colleges of agriculture, and other state and local agencies.

which co-operate in farming matters. The assistance of successful growers of wheat and rye in a campaign to turn out bumper crops in 1918 is assured.

The state officials will do their utmost to get the acreages expected of their states into the ground. The program as originally worked out by the federal department of agriculture called for somewhat more than 44,000,000 acres to be sown this fall. When this proposal was presented to the officials of the several states a further increase was considered possible and desirable by them. As a consequence the recommendation for the sowing of 47,337,000 acres is made.

Following is a summary of the department's recommendations regarding winter wheat and rye:

Wheat.
The planting of approximately 47,337,000 acres to winter wheat, on the basis of the average yield for the past ten years, indicates a total production of 672,000,000 bushels, which exceeds all previous winter wheat crops harvested in the United States with the exception of the crops of 1914 and 1915, when the acreages harvested and yields per acre were both above normal. If the extremely favorable conditions under which the winter wheat crop of 1914 was grown are again experienced, the yield of winter wheat next year will be 890,000,000 bushels, or by far the largest winter wheat crop ever produced and even larger than the total of both winter and spring wheat crops for all past years except two.

It is too early to determine the acreage which should be sown to wheat next spring, but if this is equal to that sown in the spring of 1917, or 10,000,000 acres, and the yield is up to the average of the last ten years, a crop of 251,000,000 bushels of spring wheat will be harvested, and if the yield per acre should equal that obtained in 1915 the crop will be 350,000,000 bushels, the same as the greatest spring wheat crop ever produced. Thus, with no increase in the spring wheat acreage, but with the 18 per cent increase over the 1916 winter wheat sowings planned for this fall, the total wheat crop next year will be more than 1,000,000,000 bushels, if the crop meets with slightly better than ten-year average conditions. With extremely favorable conditions, such as were experienced by the winter wheat crop in 1914 and the spring wheat crop in 1915, the total yield would amount to one and one-quarter billion bushels. A 10 per cent increase in spring wheat acreage with favorable growing conditions would add another 30,000,000 bushels. The figures quoted above are based upon a winter killing of 9 per cent and yields per acre of 15.8 bushels for winter wheat and 13.2 bushels for spring wheat, the averages for the last ten years, and a yield per acre in 1914 of 19 bushels of winter wheat, and 18.4 bushels of spring wheat in 1915.

Increases in Wheat Production.
The principal increases in acreage of winter wheat are recommended in the areas where the acreage devoted to that cereal is already large and farmers are accustomed to growing wheat and are equipped with machinery for producing the crop. A material increase also is recommended in most of the areas where the production of oats and corn is heavy, since much wheat can be sown to advantage on out stubble and in the standing corn or on ground from which the corn crop has been removed for the silo or cut for fodder. In some districts the increase in the acreage could be made larger, but this has seemed inadvisable for fear of disorganizing crop rotations with injury to crops in succeeding years. The detailed recommendations resulting from the joint consideration given to the subject by the federal department of agriculture and by state officials are shown in the accompanying table:

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

VALUE OF BREWERY PROPERTY INCREASES UNDER PROHIBITION.

The Detroit Citizen's league reports that steps have been taken to convert several Detroit breweries into artificial ice plants. The same report says: "Since 1908 many breweries have been put out of business in the dry counties of the state. In only one instance has brewery property decreased in value in prohibition territory, according to Flinn-W. Marsh, attorney for the league, who has investigated the matter. In many instances, Mr. Marsh says, brewery property has greatly increased in value by converting it to the uses of productive industry. The Flint brewery is the only one that was not made over into a factory of some kind. The Flint brewery was converted into a church."

Table with 4 columns: State, Acreage of 1917, Acreage of 1916, Pct. of suggested sown increase for fall in fall over 1917 of 1916 1916

Most of the states for which only small percentage increases are suggested recently increased largely their wheat acreages and are already growing about as much as is consistent with a well-balanced agriculture.

Rye to Be Increased Heavily.

It is recommended that there be sown in the United States this fall 5,131,000 acres of rye which, on the basis of ten-year averages, will yield 83,635,000 bushels. This is an increase of 617,000 acres, or 22 per cent over that sown last year, when the largest acreage in the history of the country was put in. It is an increase of 48 per cent over the 1915 acreage and of 57 per cent over the five-year (1912-1916) average sown acreage.

In any consideration of the expansion of the acreage of bread grains in certain parts of the country, it is necessary to consider wheat and rye together. This is because rye can be planted safely on many fields with less risk than wheat. Further, rye can be used as a substitute for wheat as a bread grain by those who are accustomed to it. Rye succeeds on poorer soils and with less fertilizer and in colder climates than wheat, and for these reasons should be planted in preference to wheat where it has been proved a safer crop. Detailed recommendations for an increase in acreage to be planted to rye this fall over that of 1917 are found in the accompanying table:

LET THE PEOPLE KNOW.

Miss Jehnette Rankin of Montana, first woman to be elected to the United States congress, is. It is hardly necessary to say, a staunch champion of national prohibition. She helped to "put Montana dry." Miss Rankin's attitude on all questions is indicated by the slogan she has adopted—"Let the People Know." The publicity bureau of the National W. C. T. U. expresses the same sentiment in its slogan, "Bring the Truth to the Masses."

We know that alcoholic liquor is a vile and evil thing. It is a horrible thing from an economic and social point of view—every drop is a poison. If I had the power I would close every public saloon as a public dope shop.—Dr. J. N. Hurty of the Indiana State Board of Health.

Why, if the saloon is a good thing, did one prominent distiller and liquor importer say: "I would fight to the last ditch any attempt to establish a saloon in the neighborhood in which I reside?"

Will any man dare to say that the liquor business has not driven countless women to the factories and to the mill?—John B. Lennon, Treasurer of the American Federation of Labor.

"Take the Chair."

When one moves that So and So take the chair, especially if he is a Scot, he should remember that at one time such a thing was considered a right royal luxury. In the middle ages a table was only a board on trestles, there was only one chair at the head of the board, at which the host sat, the rest of the company sat on benches. This custom was the origin of the expression referred to.

Giving Credit
We venture the assertion that there are any number of our readers who will pick up The Herald, glance over the ads, note a number of attractive offerings from our merchants, and then go straight to the houses making these offers and make their purchases. In many cases the customer secures a decided bargain by his promptness.
Now if the merchant had any means of knowing how many of his customers secured their knowledge of his offerings from the columns of The Herald, he could place a correct estimate on the value to him of the space that he uses in this paper to disseminate his store news. And it is but justice to himself and the publishers that he should have this knowledge.
Dear reader, just at this point YOU can confer a great favor on both your publisher and your merchant, and it will cost you absolutely nothing, either in money, time or effort. If you will simply state, when calling for any such advertised article, "I saw your ad in the Herald," you will be giving him just the information he is most desirous of obtaining, and at the same time you will give your paper just credit for its efforts in your and his behalf.
This may seem a simple little favor we ask of you, but it is big in possibilities to us and to you. If EVERY merchant could know just how many of his customers were attracted by his ads, many more would advertise, and YOUR opportunities would be doubled and multiplied.
May we not hope you will bear this in mind when next you make purchases?
Let's ALL give full credit.

The Sound Box is the Heart of The Starr Phonograph
It is here that the vibrations which produce the beautiful tone of the STARR get their initiatory impulse. The correct proportions of this box are factors of greatest importance in contributing to a perfect tone. If it were too small or the diaphragm too light the resulting tones would be shrill, with no strength or evenness. If the sound box were too large or the diaphragm of too heavy material the tone produced would be heavy and coarse. In other words, for the first impulses to be of correct proportions for insuring evenness, strength, and fullness, the size of the sound box must be determined by a perfect averaging of the tones to be reproduced. That the STARR Sound Box is correct in proportion and every detail is manifested by the matchless tone of the STARR Phonograph.
The Starr Sound Box is Distinctly Different in Results
We want an opportunity to show you that now for the first time, every tone vibration may be heard unmarred in its original perfection and beauty. There is no question arising in your mind as to what instrument recorded the record, because the tone is produced absolutely true.
Don't forget you are always welcome to visit us and we will appreciate an opportunity to demonstrate this instrument to you.
