Officer's wife appreciates help

SANFORD - Martha Reid, wife of Sanford Police Officer Gordon Reid, said today that she and her husband appreciate the efforts of area motorcyclists who are sponsoring a fund-raising event for the Reids. Officer Reid is recovering from injuries sustained from a police motorcycle accident three months ago.

Mrs. Reid said she plans to attend the motorcycle parade which will begin at 10:30 a.m. Oct. 22 at Zayre's Plaza in Sanford. The parade will end at a site off Art Lane near Lake Mary Boulevard, where bikers will competed in olympic type competion. They will each pay a $5 entry fee to benefit the Reids who are the parents of two small boys.

Reid remains hospitalized in Orlando, where he is undergoing therapy to recover from severe Injuries. Mrs. Reid said he is doing well and she and her husband appreciate everything the bikers, the police department and the community have done for their family.

For information on the rally call "Crazy Dave" Drysdale at 904-775-0352.

COMING SUNDAY

Special session may be a dud

There is speculation in Tailahassee that Governor Bob Martinez' special legislative session on abortion will be little more than a waste of time.

Democratic House leaders have already declared dead any major new restrictions and the governor faces an uphill fight to get any kind of new anti-abortion laws on the books.

Whatever the outcome, the city is bracing for an estimated 200,000 abortion protestors for the session, which is scheduled to run from Oct. 10-13.

The details of what to expect from the state capital will appear in Sunday's Perspective

Abortion reaction mixed

Court ruling against parental notification finds leaders divided

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Yesterday's Florida Supreme Court repeal of a state constitutional amendment requiring parental consent for influors seeking abortions has spurred mixed reactions from leaders in Central Florida.

The American Civil Liberties Union is halling the decision as a victory, while Gov. Bob Martinez expressed his disappointment at a news conference in Tallahassee vesterday. Pro-choice and pro-life groups are mobilizing following the decision, which was issued five days before legislators will gather at the state. capitol for a special legislative session on abortion is to begin. All seven justices on the Florida Supreme Court agreed Thursday the privacy provision adopted by state voters in 1980 clearly encourpasses a woman's right to abortion prior to the point where the fetus becomes viable

Four of the justices went further, saying minors also enjoy a privacy right to abortion under the state constitution. The state constitutional amendment requiring parental consent for abortion went into effect one year ago.

Gail Stewart, a Sanford parent who is active in school affairs, said the parental consent law was not the answer to decreasing teenage pregnancy. and abortious. "At least maybe this way they can have the option without being butchered." she said

C.B. radio foils four suspects

By BUBAN LODEN Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD - Talking about burglaries over citizen's band radios proved to be the undoing of four suspected auto burglars. Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested the four in the Sweetwater Oaks subdivision of Longwood after listening to them talk about the burglaries over C.B. radio. Three 18-year-old ment Scott Combs. Doug Cook, and John Farren, were arrested along with a 16-year-old boy. Deputies said the suspects are from Winter Springs.

Investigator Eric Bryant said the arrests were made after he and investigator Robert Cox were called by Sweetwater Oaks security guards who said they had heard talk of area auto burglaries over C.B. radios at about 1:30 a.m. today

Bryant said he and Cox and deputtes Dave O'Connor and Dan LeFlure set up surveillance in the area. They too heard talk of burglaries over the radio system and Cox saw two cars in which the occupants were apparently talking on C.B. radios.

When other officers arrived, one of the cars was found unoccupied in the 900 block of Riverbend Boulevard. Upon investigation, deputies spotted, chased and caught Combs and the boy between nearby houses. Bryant

Appraisals drop; tax revenue lost

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - In less than 10 minutes, members of the Seminole County Property Appraisal Adjustment Board (PAAB) trimmed $179,443 from the coffers of the county and seven cities Thursday.

That was the amount of potential tax revenue lost after PAAB members accepted the recommendation of "special master" arbitrators and lowered 91 of the 277 assessments contested by property owners during an eight-minute meeting. Commissioners did not question the assessments.

to uphold Property Appraiser Bill Suber's appraisals for 129 parcels. Another 57 property owners had withdrawn their appeals before the hearing.

The special masters met with the property owners in September to consider information justifying lowered assessments.

Seminole County commissioner Pat Warren, PAAB chairman, said the fairness of the special masters' decisions was indicated by the closeness of the number of reassessments and the number of assessments that were upheld.

The largest single assessment decrease was for Fountaintree Apartments on State Road 434 in Winter Springs. Special master Sam Hines recommended Suber's $8.8 million assessment of the 302-unit complex be lowered to $5.7 million, a decrease $3.1 million and a loss of $49,351 in taxes to the county, Winter Springs and the water management district.

Hines said he lowered the assessment because 62 of the units were uninhabitable due to water damage.

The smallest decrease approved was a drop from $4,450 to $4,000 for a lot in the Quail Pond subdivision in Casselberry. A home can't be built on the lot because of a powerline easement, county records show. Casselberry, the county and the water management district lost a combined $8.08 because of the

Bill McCollum McCollum fails to defeat rival child care bill

By J. MARK BARPIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum joined many of his fellow Republicans Thursday in seeking to defeat a $22.7 billion Democrat-sponsored spending package for child care. favoring instead tax credits for the poor over aid to child care centers, including those sponsored by churches.

McCollum, R-Winter Park, voted against two Democratic proposals that would have provided direct aid to child care centers and increased federal bureacracy to oversee the programs, said McCollum's spokesman, Clif Parker.

Republicans and conservative Democrats failed to stop the Democrat's package Thursday. The overall budget bill, including the child care provisions, passed 331-91.

McCollum believes the Constitution prohibits direct funding of aid to churches, despite the approved Democratic provision preventing aid to child care programs that include religious teachings, Parker said. Parker said the tax credits would allow parents to take their children to church programs.

"The Congressman feels that tax credits can be used by anybody wherever they want." Parker said. Parker said McCollum was in transit this morning and could not be reached.

House Democrats rejected two Republican attempts to trim their $22.7 billion expansion of child care programs and tax credits in the next live years. The Republican plan called for an increase in Earned Income Tax Credit from 14 Bee Care, Page 5A

GAINESVILLE - The search for a new University of Florida president has been narrowed to three candidates.

Still in the running are Marguerite Ross Barnett, chancellor of the University of Missouri-St. Louis: Stephen Gillis, graduate school dean and vice provost for academic affairs at Duke University; and John Lombardi, provost and vice president for academic affairs at Johns Hopkins University.

The Board of Regents, which oversees Florida's nine public universitites, voted to move ahead with three of the five candidates who visited the school for 90-minute interviews last Haskell Monroe, chancellor of the University of Missouri-Columbia, did not make the cut. John Ryan, interim president of Florida Atlantic University, withdrew his application.

The new president will oversee 3,900 professors and 34,000 students at Florida's largest public university.

More protection of reets asked

FORT LAUDERDALE — Port Everglades commissioners asked the federal government to establish a mile-long "no anchor zone" olf Fort Lauderdale to prevent oil tankers from further damaging coral reefs.

Commissioners asked the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration Thursday to designate the sone on federal marine charts. The request came after scuba divers showed a videotape of the damage caused when the tanker Texaco Montana dragged its anchor chain across Third Reef Sept. 17.

A NOAA spokeswoman said the agency would seriously review the proposal. The reef system that runs from the south Florida coast through the Florida Keys is the only living coral reef in north America, said Marine Patrol spokesman Mike Lamphear.

Mother shoots son for sassing

ORLANDO - An Orlando woman was jailed without boud today on a charge of attempting to murder her 15-year-old son with a shotgun blast to the face because she was tired of his sassing.

Gloria Brown. 50, told police her son Dana, the youngest of her six children, had been arguing with her all day and she finally couldn't take any more of his insolence.

The boy was in critical condition at Orlando Regional Medical Center, where he underwent surgery early Friday to repair damage to the right side of his face and jaw.

Police said the two began arguing at the housing project apartment of a relative Thursday afternoon.

She wanted him to drive her to South Carolina. When he wouldn't, she threatened him with a butcher knife and threw a bottle at him," said police Sgt. Johnny Redgrave.

When mother and son arrived back at their own apartment, Redgrave said, "She says he mouthed off to her again, and she grabbed the gun and stot him."

Witnesses said that immediately after the shooting Gloria Brown sat on her front porch and said, over, and oung, "In say baby dead? Is he all right?"

Truck driver dies of injuries

ORLANDO — A truck driver died Thursday night of injuries sustained when his rig carrying 4 tens of dog and cat food stalled and was struck by an Amtrak train traveling 65 mph, the Florida Highway Patrol said.

Patrol Lt. Randy Harper identified the driver as John K. Trimbie, 33, of Apolio Beach. Investigation of the accident continued.

No one on the train, which was headed toward Tampa, was injured. But impact of the Thursday crash carried the truck three-tenths of a mile down the tracks, Harper said.

Judge rules against animal sacrifices

MIAMI — A federal judge ruled Thursday that it is illegal for a Santeria Church in Hialcah to perform animal sacrifices as part of its religious rituals.

The Church of the Lukimi Babalu Aye in a federal civil suit charged the city of Hisleah with violating the civil rights of the church and its members by prohibiting animal sacrifices. The plaintiffs sought unspecified damages and the right to perform animal sacrifices on church premises and in their homes.

Child porno victims may top 100

PENSACOLA, Fla. - Authorities have gone through more than 7,000 photos, of children taken from the home of a suspected pornographer, and investigators said Thursday the number of young victims may top 100.

The pictures of children, many of them nude or engaging in sex, were seized Tuesday from the Pensacola home of a man charged with molesting and photographing two young boys. The pictures feature youths from toddlers to teens.
"We're still counting," said Lt. Tom Johnson of the University of West Florida police. So far, investigators have gone through "well over 7,000" pictures.

John Davenport Gay, 24, was arrested after two 10-year-old boys said he had taken semi-nude pictures of them on a nature trail at the UWF campus. Gay remained in jail Thursday, charged with two counts of kidnapping and two counts of committing lewd and lascivious acts on children. Bond has been set at $100,000.

We right now are trying to just identify the victims. The majority are from Gulf Breeze," said Sgt. Robert Randle, a police investigator in the suburban community south of Pensacola.

Investigator Rick Hawthorne and seven alleged victims have come forward in Gulf Breeze. They claim Gay either took their picture or had some other connection with them. Police said they had gotten calls from 40 parents by Thursday.

Although most of the alleged victims coming forward are from Gulf Breeze. investigators said they are also finding possible victims in Pensacola and Brewton,

Johnson said that in the next few days, they will try to match victims to photos, but at this point it appears the number of individuals in the pictures could be "well over 100." Hawthorne agreed the number of victims could be that high.

Investigators said they found milk boxes and shoe boxes filled with pictures, and that in some of the photos, Gay is involved in sexual acts with the children.

A large number of photos showed the children clothed, "but they were in a lot of provocative poses," said Randle, and all the pictures "had underlying tones of child pornography.'

Cosmic satellite set for launch

By WILLIAM HARWOOD UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL - Inatruments aboard a NASA natellite net for launch next month will help refine the big-bang theory by studying the unimaginably faint glow left over from the explosion that created the universe, scientists said Thursday.

Mounted atop a $70 million unmanned Delta rocket, the 8160 million Cosmic Background Explorer satellite is scheduled for blastoff from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., at 9:24 a.m. EST on Nov. 8.

"What the (satellite) will tell us at the end of the mission and after our interpretations are done is how we got here. how the galaxies were formed from whatever was there before," project scientist John Mather said at a news conference in Washington.
Once on station 560 miles up in an orbit around Earth's poles, the slowly spinning actar-powered antellite's three instruments will begin mapping the heavens in a 2-year project that could end up proving or disproving the big-bang theory of the uni-

Most astrophysicists believe the universe began about 15 billion years ago with an explosion that created space and time. As the fireball of energy expanded, tempera-ture and density decreased and within about one year the temperature of the entire uni-verse was roughly equivalent to that of the interior of a star.

But it was not until a million years or so had passed that the universe's temperature had dropped to the point where stable atoms could form, allowing the creation of stars and galaxies. It is at this point in history that the cosmic background radiation was produced.

In 1964, Bell Laboratories researchers Arno Penzias and Robert Wilson actually detected the exceedingly dim glow of the original explosion in the form of microwave radiation corresponding to a temperature of just 2.7 de-grees above absolute zero — minus 452 degrees Fahren-

The Cosmic Background Explorer, known by its acronym COBE (pronounced ko'-bee), is equipped with three super-sensitive instruments to study this cosmic background radiation in unprecedented detail.

"When we look at the cosmie background radiation, we're actually looking at the dominant form of energy in the whole universe," Mather said. "This radiation fills the whole sky, it comes from every direction.

"It adds up to 100 times as much energy as comes from all the stars, all the galaxies, all the suns, all the planets that people can see," Mather said. "This is a remnant of the big bang itself that we're studying with the COBE satellite.

Two of COBE's instruments will be chilled with liquid helium to a temperature of just 2 degrees above absolute zero to study the dim glow left over from the big bang.

For galaxies to have formed, areas of higher density must have existed in the original fireball, and one of COBE's instruments should be able to detect subtle differences in brightness that would indicate the existence of such "density fluctuations" at the beginning of history.

Another instrument will study the spectrum of the sackground radiation,

Waste pact may miss deadline; could cost state $20 million alted Prese International 🕬

TALLAHASSEE - A state environmentalist said he doubts a much-ballyhooed southeast regional pact for hazardous waste removal will be signed in time to meet a federally imposed deadline just two weeks away.

Missing the deadline could cost Florida as much as $20 million in federal funds for superfund sites. but both state and federal administrators acknowledge that threat is a last-resort measure.

Eight states — Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee — agreed to work together to draft one regional plan instead. The EPA said that's the most sensible solution. Yet Alabama administrators said last week they would not sign any agreement with states that don't have a permit in place and construction under way for at least one hazardous waste treatment plant. That would leave Florida, Mississippi, North Carolina and Georgia on their Alabama's participation is crucial because it's home of the nation's largest landfill. Florida is Alabama's biggest customer.

Florida has plans to build a hazardous waste incinerator in Union County, but a contractor has not yet been selected. Alabama appears to be hardening its Sept. 14 position when it banned 22 states, including Florida, from exporting waste to Alabama's commercial fill. Alabama officials had said they'd work with all eight states on the regional pact. Clarke said the Hazardous Waste Treatment

Lake Mary delays ban on growth

By SANDRA BOUG Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY - There will be no ban on development here for the time being.

Commissioners last night decided to send the issue so the planning and soning board for further review. The step was taken after several commis ers expressed the belief that an ordinance establishing a moratorium on development in the southeast quadrant of the city was "premature."

The ordinance was to impose a moratorium on site development on about 50 acres of property south of Lake Mary Boulevard and east of Country Club Road. The ban is one of the recommendations of an ad hoc traffic study committee which was charged in June with investigating and making recom-mendations to the commission regarding traffic problems and possible solutions in the southeast quadrant of the city. particularly along Broadmoor and Main roads.

The traffic committee will formally submit its recommendations to the commission on Oct. 19.

Commissioner Paul Tremel said he could not suppport a moratorium for issuance of building permits in an area "that's already been approved for subdivisions."

"It's premature to consider it. when it says a report has been submitted by a committee that hasn't been submitted," he said.

Commissioner Thomas Mahoney who suggested the moratorium at a special meeting last week said that the issuance of building permits should be excluded.

Commissioner Bill Greene was concerned that no time frame was given for the moratorium and the only specific thing it mentioned was until the state's concurrency requirements become effective. That takes place in April of 1992, according to officials.

Stop playing with child care

A poster from the Children's Defense Fund shows a campaigning politician kissing a baby. The caption reads, "Don't you wish politicians cared as much about children after they're elected?"

That wistful question seems ever more appropriate now, despite approval yesterday by the U.S. House of Representatives of a child care bill that now must be reconciled with one passed previously by the Senate. As the separate bills now stand, they both are objectionable to the White House.

Once again, it is politics as usual, with the Democrats pushing for more money and more governmental regulation, and Republicans insisting on a more influential role for private enterprise, less governmental interferance, and more benefits for church-sponsored day-care programs.

Influential congressmen have tended to slow the momentum toward passage of a bill that would benefit working parents and their children by holding out for partisan commit-tee control of the legislation.

The congressmen - Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, for example — claim they're not opposed to children's programs. It's just that they wanted their committees and their proposals to prevail.

These turf battles may be no less of a threat now that the bill is headed for a House-Senate conference committee.

Indeed, one dispute between committees was resolved late in September by letting both their proposals get to conference com-mittee that will hammer out the final version. Lawmakers truly concerned about measure that does not require ve bureaucratic oversight, that would extend tax credits to poor families with working mothers as well as mothers — poor or not — who choose to remain at home to raise their children, and that recognises the value of church-centered day care programs. These are concepts favored by President Bush and Republicans.

One of the proposals favored by the Democrats would provide more money for the popular and effective Head Start Program. Any thoughtful proposal for expanding Head Start would be worthy of inclusion in the bill to be signed by the President.

Half the mothers with children in Head Start are in the work force. Unfortunately, this otherwise successful part-time program does not yet offer the kind of extended program for working parents that is com-mon-place in middle-class day care centers. And by 1995, an estimated two-thirds of pre-school children will have mothers who work outside the home. Many of them must

It is time for the Congress to put the needs f their constituents ahead of their own elf-serving political objectives.

The Senate has a child-care program for own employees. The House also offers hild care.

Now it is time for the Congress, in the form of its House-Senate conference committee, and the President, to provide a decent child care program for all the people of the country.

Should we simply legalize drugs?

Some very estimable people are coming down on diametrically opposite sides of the drug question.

In one corner is my good friend Bill Buckley, who contends that the American people are simply not willing to endorse the really drastic steps — widespread use of the death penalty. huge expenditures for interdiction, counseling and prisons - that would be necessary to stop drug trafficking, assuming it can be stopped at

The half-hearted measures we are willing to take to outlaw drugs merely give rise to multi-billion-dollar drug cartels designed to violate our laws. We have thus become the involuntary sponsors of a vast new criminal racket that has caused sharp increases in every kind of violent crime, including murder.

The way to stop all this, Buckley argues, is simply to make it legal to manufacture, sell, buy and possess drugs. The price of drugs would fall dramatically; the cartels would go out of business, and the crime rate would drop. On the down side, there would probably be an increase in the use of drugs. Just as alcohol consumption rose when Prohibition was repealed. But it certainly wouldn't become universal, and people who really want drugs manage to obtain them anyway, even today.

argument. But now listen to the redoubt-able Abe Rosenthal. the relired executive editor of The New York Times, in a recent column, he described the case outlined above as "thecase for slavery." For that, of course, is what drug addiction is: a form of slavery. though even Rosenthal admits that the analogy to traditional slavery isn't quite perfect, since drug use begins, in most cases, voluntarily.

Rosenthal simply isn't willing to give up on the millions who would be doomed to lifelong addiction by the legalization of drugs. And he suggests that those who advocate doing so are looking at the problem through the rose-colored glasses of their own social and economic class, rather than "dealing with reality

People who

anyway, even

in America." (The frony, he adds, is that not even this comfortable insularity will save them. Crack, he asserts, "is beginning to move into the white middle and upper classes" — though that is far from saying it will ever get the kind of foothold there that it has already acquired in the black ghettos.)

Who is right — Buckley or Rosenthal? Rosenthal, it would seem, is ready to spend whatever it takes, and invoke whatever sanctions are necessary, to bring the problem under control. Buckley replies, probably rightly, that the American people would never consent to so drastic a solution (assuming it exists), and concludes that, since drugs are inevitable, it would be better to legalize them. But assuming the public knows that (as Rosenthal asserts) "in ghetto communities poverty and drugs come together in a catalytic reaction that is reducing them to social rubble." one can only conclude that this is a consequence that Americans as a whole are, for the moment at least, prepared to accept. On that view, the government's billions are simply the politicians' calculation of the amount of conscience-money the taxpayers are willing to pay in lieu of doing far more (as Abe Rosenthal begs) or much less

What's in Lloyd Bentsen's future?

WASHINGTON - When Lloyd Bentsen steps out to lunch he steps lively, down the block and across the street and straight up the steep steps to the second-floor entrance to the Senate side of the Capitol. "That." he says of the climb, "is part of my discipline."

There is little other discipline in town. The leaves are turning colors and the government s turning somersaults to feign compliance with the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction "law." Under Gramm-Rudman, the deficit has increased for two consecutive years, according to the Senate Budget Committee. Bentsen is decorously disgusted about the way policy is being distorted for cosmetic deficit reductions.

Debate about whether to appeal catastrophic care for the elderly is being influenced by the fact that the program would, in the short run. produce a surplus of contributions over outlays. Also, Congress may approve a "yo-yo" capital-gains tax cut — down now, back up in a few y-ars — to generate some revenue by accelerating sales of assets. Never mind the violation of the sacred (as it was described during the 1986 tax-reform debate) principle that economic rationality, not tax avoidance, should drive investment decisions.

The executive branch, too, is practicing now-nowism. It is fudging forecasts, using creative accounting to shove expenses out of one fiscal year and slosh revenues into another. It is collaborating with Congress in putting part of the savings-and-loan bailout off-budget, thereby raising by billions the real cost of it. And so on. Happy New Year! [Fiscal year 1990 dawned at midnight Saturday.]

Last spring such frauds provoked Bentsen, alone among those attending a White House "summit," to refuse to troop outside to pose for a picture with the President in celebration of the (wink, wink) deficit reduction. Bentsen's absence made Bush cross: Read his pursed tips.

Bentsen's focus is on the far horizon, on That raising the nation's anemic savings rate. That would help lower interest rates to levels enjoyed by commercial competitors abroad. If, says Bentsen, Americans saved $20 more per week per household, the savings rate would rise 30 percent, back to what it was not long ago. In this decade, it has been less than half what it was in the three preceding decades. In 1995 87 it was less than one, third 1986-87, it was less than one-third

Bentaen acknowledges that America's disinclination to have may have deep cultural roots that cannot easily be treated by tinkering with the tax code. A cultural contradiction of the welfare state is this: Its entitlements reduce fear of the future, and those the inclination to save for a rainy day. And weak savings weaken society's ability to make productivity-enhancing investments that make the economy strong enough to finance Bentsen also acknowledges that demo-graphy has an improved destiny in store for us. True, the aging of the population will increase welfare-state costs (pensions, medical care). However, as the work forces ages it becomes more productive and saves more.

Still. Bentsen favors forgoing, for now, a capitol-gains cut and instead proposes enhancing individual Retirement Accounts to speed the growth of the savings pool. Many economists say IRAs primarily produce a shuffling of monies that would have been saved anyway. Bentsen counters with the opinions of other economists.

His economists cite, among other problematic evidence, Canada. where the savings rate tracked the U.S. rate until the mid. 70s. Then Canada's rate jumped. That coincided with (there are too many variables to allow certainty about what caused what) an increase in the amount Canadians could contribute to IRAs.

To pay for revenues lost by expan-ding IRAs, most Democrata want to increase taxes on the wealthy and salt some of the surplusrevenue into a deficit-reduction trust fund, thereby looking responsible. Bentsen winces at the tax-increase talk, remembering the 1988 campaign and pernaps contemplating in 1992 campaign, at age 71.

The executive branch, too, is practicing now-nowism.

Pardon my language, but: Iowa caucuses. They are only about $50 days down the road and, strange but true, Bentsen loved the 1988 campaign. No wonder: He dug out from under the landslide with his stature enhanced.

Suppose the can be entired into supposing) California moves its primary up to, say, March. That would weight the nomination process the way it once was and should be weighted - in way it once was and should be weighted — In favor of well-known veteran players of the political game. Bentsen notes that an early California primary, which would swallow money, would favor someone (like, shem, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee) who is good at raising money. He also notes that in 1968 some California polis showed him preferred over Dukakia and Bush.

So: "An IRA in every poit" The slogan needs work, but there is time for that.

Kastner, mother-in-law of Seminole County commissioner Jen-nifer Kelley. Kelley was a member of the PAAB and voted on Kastner's assessment along with the other assessments in the recommendation list Thursday.

Originally, the property was assessed at $169,460. But. Appraiser Eddie Colbert said, he lowered it to the $97,080 figure after Eoghan Kelley contested the lakefront valuation. Eoghan Kelley is Kastner's son and Jennifer Kelley's husband.

Colbert said the original assessment was based on a rate of $300 per foot of the property fronting Twin Lake west of Sanford. Colbert said the $300 rate is commonly used throughout the county and was used to increase the assessments of dozens of lakefront homes throughout the county this year.

Colbert said after Eoghan Kelley questioned the property assessment, he found other property owners surrounding Twin Lake are based on $17,500 per acre, not a frontage rate.

Colbert said he thought $17,500 was a low assessment for lakefront property and that arrange would be referred next year. The 207,000 arrangement was considered for the property, $48,880. Colbert and he still believed $169,460 was a more accurate amount for the site.

Jennifer Kelley said she was unaware Kastner had filed the appeal until she was reading the special master's recommenda-tion list Thursday. She said she did not think it was a conflict for her to vote on the assessment because the appraiser had reassessed the property and the special master endorsed the ement.

County Attorney Bob McMillan issued Kelley an opinion Feb. 9 that she could vote on matters affecting Kastner as long as Kastner did not contribute to her support and did not benefit Kelley personally.

Senate approves anti-drug bill

WASHINGTON - The Senate approved major anti-drug legislation packed with help for law enforcement agents to crack down on dealers and users and filled with programs to provide treatment, education and rehabilitation for addicts.

The Senate passed over 50 separate provisions, which swept through by voice vote on overwhelming margins, in a dramatic expansion of President Bush's war on drugs. The bill was approved late Thursday 100-0 and sent to the House.

Among the major provisions, adopted earlier in the week, was authorization of 1,350 new FBI and drug agents as well as additional judges, prosecutors and others in the judicial

The Senate also passed earlier in the week a provision that would provide free treatment for penniless addicts under the Medicaid for the poor program.

In winding up, the Senate approved by voice vote amendments to create 20 new judgeships, extend anti-drug activities into rural areas, set up anti-gang units in the Justice Department and provide education for pregnant women.

The Senate, however, killed two controversial amendments during evening-long voting.

One would have let government agents, as a last resort, shoot down private planes amuggling drugs into the country, and the other would have ordered drug testing of welfare and food

But the Durenberger proposal faced opposition when the Senate began to work on the legislation today from a number of senators pushing their own plans, including total repeal of the

The House voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to scuttle the program in response to protests against the surtax, which under the original bill would reach a maximum $1,050 a year for the wealthiest senior citizens by 1993.

The Durenberger proposal would reduce the surtax to no more $200 in 1990 and 1991 and $250 from 1991 to 1993, while cutting the flat monthy fee paid by all senior citizens.

Nevertheless, analysts said the slight increase in the unemployment rate snowed that the economy continues to chug along at a modest clip with no sign yet of the slowdown predicted by economists for the last few months of the year.

"The labor market remains quite tight despite the slowdown and the weakness in manufacturing, in fact, there are a number of spot labor shortages around the country, especially in service industries," said Norman Robertson, chief economist with Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh.

Senate gets deficit reduction bill

GOP move to cut child care defeated

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The House passed and sent to the Senate an almost $11 billion deficit reduction package that cuts capital gains taxes, expands child care programs and repeals the catastrophic health insur-

The 333-91 vote for the overall budget bill Thursday came after House Democrats rejected two attempts to trim a Democratic-sponsored $22.7 billion expansion of child care programs and tax credits in the next five years.

Senate Democratic leaders, warning of the "chaos" of a sequester, offered to drop all parts of the companion bill adopted by the Finance Committee except those that raise $5.3 billion in revenues to cut the deficit. Republicans indicated they would seriously consider the suggestion.

The proposal would eliminate rein-statement of the individual retirement accounts, put in by the committee, and consideration of a cut in the capital gains tax favored by President Bush.

But the proposal also would drop an increase in the earnings limit for social accurity beneficiaries, child tax credits and numerous other provisions. Key members of the finance and budget committees planned to draft a stripped-down version of the bill. Senate leaders George Mitchell and Robert Dole suggested that the issues dropped could be considered later in the session.

The Senate was expected to work though the weekend to complete its version of the budget bill, which must pass by Oct. 15 if Congress is to meet a fiscal year 1990 deficit reduction target and avoid across-the-board spending cuts required by the balanced budget law if the target is missed

Because it is a must-pass bill, the $10.97 billion House measure became a vehicle for other major initiatives, including child care, capital gains and the catastrophic insur-

On child care, a Republican bid to slash the $22.7 Democratic plan to $14.1 billion was defeated on a 285-140 mostly partlyline vote. A compromise second attempt to cut it by a leaser amount falled on a 230-195

The Senate passed its own child care legislation in June. Differences between that and the House version will be worked out by House-Senate negotiators.

The rejected Republican child care plan would have increased the Earned Income Tax Credit from 14 percent to 17 percent for working poor people with children — an increase with a $14.1 billion price tag over five years.

But the more expensive Democratic plan the GOP attempted to reduce included not only the Earned Income Tax Credit increase but an extension of Head Start for pre-schoolers to a full-day program all year, many grants to states for new child care services and authorization for states to encourage businesses to provide child care for employees.

The Democratic plan also was written with a requirement that states set minimum health and safety standards for day care providers and with a ban on any money for a program involving religious teachings or almilar activity.

"If we take it away from the churches, we destroy probably the best child care that a family can turn to," protested Rep. Clyde Holloway, R.La.

Republicans contended the Democratic version would let bureaucrats set training. health and quality standards for day care providers in things ranging from disper changing to hand washing.

California rocket burns at launch

United Press International

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. - A small California company whose rocket was destroyed by fire on the launch pad as its engine struggled to lift twin commercial psyloads blamed the failure on the malfunction of a fuel valve.

American Rocket Co. of Camarillo had spent $15 million getting the unmanned rocket ready for its first launch, a 15-minute suborbital flight carrying a Defense Department "Star Wars" experiment and a capsule designed by the Massachusetts Institute of "Nothing good or great is ever accomplished without setbacks." said James C. Bennett, president of American Rocket Co., at a news conference after Thursday's fire.

Bennett said it appears that the valve through which liquid fuel, made from a synthetic rubber, did not open fully.

Bennett said the valve was allowing only about 20 to 30 percent of the oxygen needed to properly, ignite the solid fuel and give the rocket the 75,000 pounds of thrust needed for its

Engineers stopped the 10:28 a.m. ignition sequence after 17 seconds, but large flames abot up, followed by massive clouds black smoke that engulfed the 58-foot rocket.

The crew tried to put the clamps holding down the rocket back into place, but it toppled over and continued to burn.

The rocket was destroyed, although it did not explode. The fire apparently also destroyed the payload — the classified "Star Wars" project and a heat-shield parachute developed by MIT that could help astronauts escape a space station emergency.

Bush undergoes surgery on finger

U.S. role in Panamanian coup debated

WASHINGTON - Despite persistent claims by Sen. Jesse Helms that Panamanian rebels offered to turn over Gen.
Manuel Noriega to U.S. officials, the Bush administration insisted the United States was not involved in the failed coup. Defense Secretary Dick Chency said Thursday rebel officers in Panama saked the U.S. military as early as Sunday night to help them in a coup by blocking two roads — roads that U.S. forces indeed

But Cheney insisted the United States "never gave them an answer," and Pen-tagon officials suggested it was only coincidence that U.S. military exercises and movement to project U.S. bases effective placed the roads under American control during Tuneday's attempt to overthrow Noriogs, whose ouster President Bush repeatedly has urged.

The disclosure raised new questions about the degree of U.S. involvement in the unnuccessful coup attempt against Nortega, who has ruled Panama for most of the decade and has resisted U.S. attempts to drive him out, including the federal drug charges lodged against him last year.

On Capitol Hill Thursday,
Helms charged that U.S. forces in Panama City turned down an offer by the rebels during the coup to hand over Noriega to U.S. authorities.

But the Senate spurned an effort by the Republican lawmaker from North Carolina to give the president explicit authority to order a U.S. military abduction of Noriega.

Helms, disgusted that American troops did not selse Noriega during the coup at-tempt, said such general au-thority already exists in the law but a cautious and bumbling administration failed to respond to an appeal by coupleaders to take custody of the military strongman.

Senate leaders objected strongly to Helms, saying he would give the president authority not provided under the Constitution.

Nursing home fire kills 9

NORFOLK, Va. - Fire swept a four-story nursing home that had no sprinkler system Thursday, killing nine residents and injuring desens of bedridden or whosichair-bound palents who couldn't make it to emergency

Norfolk Fire Chief Thomas Gardner said many of the residents needing evacuation on smoke-filled stairs or testering ladders, "were hooked up to all kinds of medical equipment."

"They didn't have the chance to run." said Dr. Frank Yelser, the city's medical director. "We were very fortunate more lives weren't lost."

Survivors said there was little warning. Harriet Waddill, 76, was getting ready for bed when the fire broke out and her room quickly filled with smoke.

Although the brick facility had no sprinkler system, it was in compliance with the local fire code because aprinklers were not required when it was built, Gardner said.

"I would hope that this leagon helps us to get some legislation to cause buildings of this (type) retro-fitted with sprinkler systems." Cardner said.

The cause of the 10:30 p.m. fire at the Hillhaven Convaiencent and Rehabilitation Center was not immediately known and remained under investigation.

Gardner anid said fire and rescue units from throughout the region were rushed to the scene. The blaze was largely in the sceps. The blaze was largely limited to a second-floor room where two residents died. Gardner said. As part of the firefighting effort, a giant ventilation system known as a smoke blaster, pumped fresh air into the building and it probably saved more lives, he added.

Authorities and 68 residents were injured and more than 160 were evacuated. Gardner said seven people died inside the building while two more were dead on arrival at Sentara Norfolk. General Hospital.

Gorbachev arrives Germany

Government celebrates its 40th anniversary

United Press International

BERLIN - Soviet Jeader Mikhail Gorbachev arrived today in East Berlin for a two-day visit to mark the 40th anniversary of East Germany amid an ongoing refugee crisis with East Germans fleeing to the West.

Gorbachev was welcomed at the airport by East German leader Erich Honecker and was later to meet with other leaders from both hard-line and reformist East European countries.

Western diplomats expected some tough talking between Gorbachev and Honecker as the rift between the reformists and the hard-liners in the European communist alliance widens.

There had been speculation that Gorbachev had threatened to cancel his visit if the East German refugee crisis were not solved before the celebrations.

East Berlin's decision to allow thousands of citizens to emigrate to West Germany from Czechoslovakia and Poland in the recent days followed weeks of consultation with Moscow and Bonn.

A western diplomat said the East Berlin authorities were both "delighted at the tangible show of Soviet support Gorbachev's visit represents and nervous at possible shows of public support for Gorbachev's type of reforms.

The Soviet leader enjoys widespread support among East Germans, many of whom see him as a symbol of reform.

The East German authorities warned they would crack down hard on any attempt to demonstrate opposition during the celebrations amid speculation opposition move-ments may seek to stage public protests to seek Gorbachev's support for their reform

The government's hard-line attitude has triggered a series of major demonstrations and is seen as the main reason for a massive exodus that brought more than 40,000 East Germans to the West. In an article published by the Soviet daily Pravda, Honecker reiterated his opposition to reforming socialism, comparing sugges-tions that "the health of socialism be sough in a return to capitalism" to "assertions that rain falls upwards."

"In the long run, he will not be able to ignore the call of the masses for reforms." Elke Guenther, a leading member of the opposition New Forum movement, told United Press International.

Robinson to return to Orioles

BALTIMORE — Frank Robinson, whose Baltimore Orioles spent most of a remarkable season in first place after a last-place finish the previous year. Thursday said he will return to manage the team in 1990.

He said he did not ask for extra money in 1990 and did not seek additional years on his rollover guaranteed contract.

"We've started some thing here that would be difficult to walk away from." he said. "Our young players are just starting to develop and it's going to be exciting watching them continue to mature. The past year was as much fun as I've ever had as a manager. I would have to be crazy not to want to be a part of it next season."

Robinson, the front-runner for American League Manager of the Year, led the Orioles to an astonishing turnaround in 1989. The team nearly captured the American League East, finishing with a 87-75 record, second place behind the Toronto Blue Jays.

Locals try to rebound

Rams out to prove last week was a fluke

Herald sports writer

Tonight's high school football game between Lake Mary and Oviedo will be one of contrast as one team will look to improve and the other will look to be consistent.

Oviedo will host the game that is scheduled for an 8 p.m. kickoff at John Courier Field. The Lions are undefeated and will stick with what has made them 4-0 this season.

Lake Mary, 0-2, is coming off the school's worst ever loss and will look to rebound. The Rams want to turn things around from last week's loss and play a spoiler role in the 5A-District 4 race.

"We just have to play like we have been."
Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said. "The team has been playing well lately and if we can continue to play the same way, we should be all right."

Blanton knows the Lake Mary team will be fired up and ready to play when they take the field tonight. He also knows the Rams were without some key players last week and will be a much different team.

A week after watching his team give a lackiuster effort in a loss to Lyman, Seminole High School football coach Emory Blake has labored this week to make sure there isn't any hangover and, more importantly, no repeats.

"We didn't make a lot of waves about the loss," said Blake. "We were down. You never want to go out and lose, but we didn't play our best ball and we were still in the ball game. We just want to put that begin us and start playing

That's the truly frightening thing for Seminole's opponents. Boasting one of the offenses in Central Florida, the Tribe still hasn't put together a full game of solid football. One reason for that has been some nagging injuries.

"It only takes one thing to take away from offense," said Blake. "Robert Moore at tight end hasn't been healthy all year. Lawrence Williams has been hurt the last two ball games. We're not whole as a unit. We need to get our people back together and have a good solid ball game like we know we can.

"No, it's gonna' be a battle of the Cubs and Giants." Grace said. "There are a lot of guys out there other than Will Clark and myself.

"I didn't come into the playoffs trying to compete with Will Clark. I'd be an idiot to try to come out and outdo Will Clark. I'm not here to face Will Clark. I'm here to face the San Francisco Giants."

After two games. Clark and Grace have combined for a .687 average, three homers and "They're both doing an outstanding job." said San Francisco Manager Roger Craig. "They are two of the top players in the National League if not in baseball. They are both clutch hitters who always make contact and hit the ball hard someplace. Neither of them strike out and they both can carry the club. In the first, Cub rookie Jerome Walton hit Rick Reuschel's first pitch for a single and Chicago started rolling. Walton later capped the outburst with an RBI baschit off Kelly Downs.

"If somebody told me we were going to acore six runs in the first inning with Reuschel in there. I would say he's crazy." Cubs Manager Don Zimmer said.

Walton, the favorite for NL Rookie of the Year, also ignited a three-run sixth inning with a single and drew a walk in the seventh.

Marshall in 15th (14:27), Lori Pollock in 16th (14:29), Jenny McHone in 20th (14:48) and Corri Crosby in 23rd (14:56). "I'm really pleased," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree said. "We ran real well against varsity competition. The team was a little aprehensive going in, knowing they would be up against varsity runners, but they did a real good job and I know other coaches would be proud to have these girls on their varnities."

Berninole was led by Kecta Lawrence's ninth place finish at 14:04.9 followed by Nadrian McGill (29th, 15:04.1), Kecia Ward (31st. 15:05.8). Curieen Davis (35th, 15:22.2) and Yolanda Williams (39th. 15:58.3).

Lake Howell won the boys' meet with a score of 48, followed by Oviedo (68). Lake Brantley (70). Boone (148), Lake Mary [150], West Orange (152). Lyman (173), Edgewater (216) and Titueville (280).

Lake Howell bunched three runners in the top 10, led by Reb Morris' fourth place finish at 16:12.3. Mike Miller was sixth (16:17.8) and Jason Letarte was eventh (16:18.4).

in 10th (14:08.1) and the meet with a 15:33.4 m Seminole's Dalvin Davis won over the short course. Oviedo's Jeff ickes w ahead of Jeff Hancock of West Orange (16:10.5), Morris and Oviego's Eric Polatz (16:16.1).

"It was a real nice meet. Brauman said. "I'll be more prepared next year and make some revisions on the course. It was short and the times were misleading, but it was a quality meet.

The next meet for area runners will be the University of Florida Invitational, which will feature a large portion of the state's best teams. Lake Howell's top-ranked girls will be trying to lake another step toward a state title.

"We're just looking to progress a little more," Hammontres said, "We want to improve a little more and run to win. We want to take another step to our goal."

Lyman's boys, ranked second in the state, slong with Lake Mary and Lake Brantley, ranked fourth and Ofth, will also look to prove they are among the state's est teams

Lyman is coming off a great performance in the Florida State invite and will look to make it two in a row. Lake Mary won the Brahvens Beach Run and has a string of four titles on the line while Lake Brantley won the Spanish River meet in Bocs Raton.

conference, and will host Oviedo in a big conference match Tuesday. DeLand fell to 1-0 overall and 1-7 in the SAC.

"Everyone played well in the first same," Lake Mary ceach Bill Whalen said. "We had to come from behind in the second game, but overall it was a real good match for us.

Lake Mary was led by Chris Davidson, who had nine kills, three blocks and 12 spikes. Keylor Chan added three blocks and two kills with blike Stuart and Jeff Draughon both adding strong net

The Rams dominated the opening game before falling behind 8-5 in the second. Dale Whitman sped up to the service line and recied off at points to end the match.

"Whitman gave us a big lift," Whalen said. "He erved really well and we did a real good job for him at the net.

Lake Mary is tied for the SAC lead with Lake Brantley while Oviedo is one game back. The Lake Mary-Oviedo match will also have a special intensity as the teams are 1-1 against each other

The teams just met in the finals of the Oviedo tournament with the Lions winning in two games. Lake Mary had to come from behind to give Oviedo one of its two losses in the conference early this account.

Giris-

Shawn Cohen, Snow and Yolanda Baker, Jennifer Benge added several strong hits, finishing the night with a match-high five kills, three blocks and 10 spikes.

"It was really a team effort, that's why we won," Corso said. "We came out and played hard from the beginning and we never let up. It's encouraging to see that kind of play."

Lyman was without several of its starters who are out with injuries and have been trying to bring a new lineup together. "We're not communicating well on the court right now," Lyman coach Pat Topper said. "We're without three starters and the players are still learning one another's capabilities. They're atill unsure about the other players on the court."

Seminole took command early in the second game behind the serving of Cohen, who recled off six straight points to give the Tribe a 11-1 lead. Seminole assisted Cohen's service run by coming up with strong net play and keeping the Greyhounds from getting into an offensive flow.

"We played real good defense, and executed on offense," Como said. "I just hope we continue to play like this."

LAKE MARY at DeLAND DELAND - Lake Mary came up with a strong all-around performance to whip Deland 15-7, 15-3 Thursday night in SAC girls volleyball action at DeLand High School.

The Rams improved to 15-5 overall and 7-1 in the conference and will return to action Tuesday in a showdown with Oviedo. Deland dropped to 4-9 overall and 1-7 in the conference.

Lake Mary is one game behind Ovjedo in the SAC standings, having lost to the Lions in the first round. Tuesday's game should be the determining factor of whether Oviedo or Lake Mary will win the title.

"We had another real good team performance," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "No one played real well, but no one played had, it was a

LAKE NOWELL at LAKE BRANTLEY ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley won an up-and-down match 15-10, 4-15, 15-1 over Lake Howell Thursday night in conference action at Lake Brantley High School.

The Patriota improved to 6-9 overall and 4-3 in the conference and will return to action Tuesday, hosting DeLand. Lake Howell dropped to 7-8 overall, 3-4 in conference play, and will return to action Saturday in the Dr. Phillips tournament.

"We're not a power team," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "And since we're not a power team, we need to execute. Tonight, we did not execute and we got beat."

The Silver Hawks only managed to play their style in the second game when they won 15-4. Lake Howell could not come up with any kind of offense in the final game and Lake Brantley continually attacked to take the win.

"Our serving and passing isn't where it has been," Luciano said. "We just weren't with it tonight."

'Lucky' mom needs dose of counseling busy, easily distracted mother of two, and have on five occasions (yes, fivel) placed my purse on the top of my car while I buckled my kids in their car seats and then driven off, thereby losing my purse and its very important contents. On all five occasions I have received a phone call from the kind finder and my purse was returned. Each time I was able to offer my thanks and a token of my appreciation.

Well, last Monday, I left my purse in the shopping cart at a Target store in Visalia. Calif.. and went home. Of course when I went back, it was gone. I kept checking back with the store.

Nothing. My luck had finally run out—or so I thought.

On Sunday, when we returned home from church, there on my front porch was my purse—with all the contents included! Six out of six-once in Davis, twice in Sacramento, once in Woodland. once in Freeno and twice in Visalia. And yes, I know I probably need counseling to find out why I'm sentle at 33.

DEAR LUCEY: You're not senile. You're preoccupied, care-

You may have been joking about needing counseling, but that's exactly what you need. Don't wait until your luck runs

DEAR ABBY: I loved the letter from the English clergyman who had had enough hugging from strangers. I am also from England and joined a church here in California when I emigrated. Some years ago, we had a minister who advocated hugging all and sundry when we entered the church on Sunday morning.

I also felt it bespoke false intimacy and kept out of it as much as possible, for which I was severely criticized by some. (I was English, therefore "cold.") The minister left our church.

and shortly after, left his wife and four children for a member of his new congregation—so obviously somewhere his hugging must have gotten out of hand.

It is nice to be greeted warmly by one's friends and associates. but for the others. a more moderate approach will do. In fact, somewhere between kissing and hugging, and shooting!

Slapstick and everything comic

'Scapino!' sets theater season in motion at SCC

Herald People editor

SANFORD - Tired of going to a play and having to ponder along with Hamlet. To be or not Seminole Community College is giving the non-play-going public the chance to veg out in a theater seat with its production of Moliere's "Scapino!"

"It's a play that requires no thought," said director Karen Copp. "You don't have to think. Some of the family connections become so complex that you don't even want to think."

Mollere, the French play-wright, got his inspiration for "Scapino!" when an Italian comedy troupe came through France with its style of physical comedy-shtick and tricks. Copp said. So in 1671, toward the end of his life. Moliere wrote this little play that would today be a combination of a television sitcom and the Three Stooges.

The story revolves around Scapino: a wily servant that Copp compares to Tony Danza on TV's "Who's the Bosa?" Other traditionally Italian stock characters are the not-so-smart. star-crossed lovers, something like the characters of Mike and Gloria on the TV classic "All in the Family." Copp said. A' case of mistaken identity and some mischief on the part of servants Scapino and Sylvestro takes the characters through a series of chases, swinging on ropes, and slapstick. At one point, Scapino finds a huge sausage (obviously a foam-filled prop) and bats around the pompous father Geronte-all in good fun.

"This is a good family show," Copp said. "I think there's one 'damn' in it, but there a lot of energy and physical move-

Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale adopted the play for the Young Vic Tacater Company In London, updating the language and situations. SCC has inserted its own modern references. Copp said, and won't use 15th-century costumes or foreign accents.

"This is not a period play. This GRANADA HILL adaptation was meant to be set of an Italian opera:

Sylvestro in Seminole Community College's Todd Zwalina (left) as the bumbling father Argante shivers and shakes when confronted by Matt Cooper as the hilarious yet intimidating servant production of the comedy play "Scapino!," in the present." said Copp. who is also the cultural arts coordinator at SCC.

She said the play has a legacy of thievery. "We stole from Dunlop and Dale, Dunlop and Dale stole from Moliere, Moliere stole from the Italians, the Romans...

The show is not a musical, but in one bit, the players sing the praises of Italian food to the tune

"Minestrone, macaroni, ravioli, aux crevette: "Caramella, nin padella.

avocado vinaigrette." But the play is no spoof of Italians, Copp said. It only pokes fun at the universal types of people, with Moliere's trademark insight into human frailties. The laughs in "Scapino!" aren't cheap, either, Copp said.

The comedy specifics of this play have been worked on very meticulously," she said. "We have a saying here that 'comedy is a serious business.' People think that just because you stage a comedy. It's automatically funny. But it's not. It's a very Dr. Reid Gilbert and Robin

Pyle, SCC mimes in residence. recently spent two weeks during rehearsal working with the actors, she said.

They worked on getting these 843-7001, ext. 399.

actors to expand beyond the way they normally move as people. Also, they trained them on the precision of comic movement."

Copp is proud of the fact that nearly everyone involved in the play-except for herself and lighting and scenery designer Paul Luby—is an SCC student.

She said she selected the play because it provides a chance for non-traditional staging, a chance to capitalize on the element of physical movement, and a chance to give many students a

Church fixes home for outreach

SANFORD — An old, historic home has a new purpose.

With about $10,000 and lots of love. Banford's First Preabyter in Church has restored a building which was deteriorating and injested with termites. They and intested with termites. They will use the building for alcoholic and sarcotic abuse programs and a General Educational Development Test (GED) program by Saninole Community College.

There will be a dedication service at 10 a.m. Sunday for what is now the "House of Good Will" located next to the church at the corner of Oak Avenue and Fourth Street. A reception will follow the service.

The Rev. Graham Hardy. associate pastor of the church, has invited the mayor, city commissioners and other digni-taries to the dedication of what he described as "a lifesaving outreach into the community."

"We've rescued it from the buildozers. It was infested with termites." Hardy said.

The house has been renovated with money raised by the church and voluntary help from the community including senior high school students who helped

The building has a fresh coat of paint, inside and out, new carpeting, air conditioning and donated shrubs and paim trees.

"We're calling it an open door for those in need, a community outreach program sponsored by First Presbyterian Church," Hardy said. A community organisation or agency which has a need to use the house is invited to submit its application to the church, he said.

Nancy Williams, coordinator for the Seminole Community College GED program, said the college has housed its program there since last year, but the building had fallen into "such prior to using the house, GED programs were offered in the community room at the Florida Power and Light building in Sanford.

"I think it's a wonderful idea. We're right in downtown San-ford where we need to be," she Hardy said the church decided to raise money for the restoration work last spring. "After all these efforts, we've really reached the point of opening the house." Hardy said.

Every patient deserves understandable talk a service; part of this service is to provide useful information that makes sense.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I don't understand why doctors insist on using highly technical words, such as "angiomatosis" when discussing health problems with their patients. This kind of word is frightening and confusing to the average person. Why can't physicians diagnose ir "plain words"? words"?

DEAR READER: Farry med-ical words are a form of shorthand for doctors. It's often easier to talk in $64 phrases than to take the time to explain things.

For example, angiomatosis means "a diseased state of the blood vessels with formation of multiple angioma," which means that the diseased vessels tend to congregate in discrete collections, causing tumorlike growths. growths.

in my limited definition, 12 words were required to explain "angiomatosis." Therefore, it's quicker for doctors to use the shorter term.

Of course, as you pointed out, the use of technical words can be a catastrophe when a physician attempts to explain a disease to a patient. In this circumstance, the practitioner owes the patient the courtesy of an understanda-ble explanation. Most good doctors have developed skills in doing this. However, some physicians insist on mouthing technical phrases that are unin-telligible to anybody but a medi-cal-school, professor. These cal-school professor. These physicians need to be re-educated by their patients.

I advise patients-my own included—to stop the music when an explanation becomes a medical lecture. In other words, stop the discussion and sak the doctor to restate the information in understandable language.

This technique improves doctors' manners. Also, by asking questions, the patient encourages an adult give-and-take dialogue, which helps equalize the doctor-parent/patiers-child

Above all, patients should not feel intimidated by the doctor's language; the practitioner may simply be slipping into jargon by force of habit. Remember, you have hired the doctor to perform a service; part of this service is to
