Utility Tax On Way

Lake Mary Property Taxes To Rise 6.6%

After several of hours of heated debate between residents and city commissioners at a public hearing, Lake Mary city commissioners voted 4-0 to levy a tax rate of $3.99 per $1,000 assessed property value, less than the $6.90 rate city staff had recommended.

But the commissioners indicated they will probably adopt a 10 percent tax on utilities to make up for some of it. Commissioner Colin Keogh was absent from the Thursday meeting.

The $3.99 rate is a 6.6 percent increase over last year's $3.75.

The city's general fund budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 calls for expenditures of $1,354,876. Property taxes will account for 43.5 percent of the funding and the proposed utilities tax 18.8 percent. State and federal revenue sharing payments will fund 17 percent; user fees 11.5 percent; franchise fees 7.6 percent and miscellaneous income 1.45 percent.

The proposed utilities tax got tentative approval and is expected to be adopted before October. Mayor Dick Fess asked for the tax on telephone, cable, and sewer services and electricity, water and propane used by all city residents, not just property owners.

Fess said with a utility tax everybody helps pay for the local government, including those who pay no property tax after their $25,000 homestead exemption. The tax would probably become permanent, commissioners acknowledged.

Fess said the drastically curtailed state and federal revenue sharing income means Lake Mary must find new revenue sources. Revenue sharing at one time funded 38 percent of the city budget, he said, more than double the 17 percent expected for 1985-86.

Citizens who spoke during the standing-room-only hearing said they hoped developers would be forced to pay for some of the city's improvements necessitated by growth.

In other business a motion to table a request from Sun Bank representatives for construction of a driveway onto Country Club Boulevard was passed on to the transportation committee for further study. A less crowded and more restrained debate was highlighted by a plea from a bank representative. "We would like to develop a piece of property there. It has been a month now and we would like to know what we should do next. Whatever the problem is there we did not create it but we would like to help solve it."

Several members of the audience proceeded to the microphone, including newly elected City

Thai Coup Try Fizzles

Rebel Officers Surrender

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Rebel tank commanders who spearheaded an attack on the nation's military headquarters surrendered to loyalist forces today, ending a coup attempt engineered by a former prime minister, the government said.

The surrender came about 12 hours after the tank-backed rebellion began.

At least two people, including an NBC News reporter, were killed and eight wounded before a dozen rebel tank commanders who spearheaded the uprising complied with Prime Minister Gen. Prem Tinsulanonda's order to lay down their weapons, officials said.

That national television, controlled by the government, said the rebellion was over and warned national and provincial officials and citizens to listen only to official broadcasts.

The surrender of the tank commanders came shortly after a 3 p.m. deadline set by Prem before he left Indonesia to return to Bangkok. Prem was in Jakarta for foreign policy talks when the coup began at dawn.

The surrender of the tank crews followed a government announcement that former Prime Minister Gen. Kriangsak Chomanan, who reportedly masterminded the coup attempt, had surrendered.

Television showed the soldiers laying down their arms and later shots of civilians milling around the empty tanks. Shortly after the surrender deadline imposed by Prem, a Thai military officer was seen going from tank to tank along rebel lines near Parliament and speaking to the tank commanders.

Moments later, the tank crewmen, their eyes bloodshot, unloaded their weapons and trooped into the nearby Supreme Command military

Loyalist troops were seen moving slowly up the street toward the Parliament building.

The Thai royal family was at its summer retreat in southern Thailand during the coup attempt.

Teinchai Sirisamphan, acting military commander in chief, said Col. Manon Roopkachorn, leader of an unsuccessful coup attempt in 1981, was the field commander, and that Gen. Sern Na Nakorn, former military supreme commander, was "forced" to join the attempt.

Teinchai told a news conference Kriangsak was behind the rebellion.

Kriangsak, forced out of office in 1979 when he lost a confidence vote in Parliament, is head of the Social Democratic Party, the fourth and smallest faction of the coalition government headed by Prem.

The rebels, who took over a military ration station early today, claimed they had seized several government buildings and announced they were suspending the constitution and seizing power.

Teinchai declared a state of emergency in Bangkok and special commando units were flown to the capital by helicopter to bolster government forces pinned down by the rebel tanks.

Fighting erupted after a four-hour standoff that began at dawn.

U.S.-built tanks manned by rebels rolled up to the military supreme command headquarters complex in the northern section of the capital and began shelling the compound.

After 10 minutes, the shelling gave way to fierce small arms and machine gun exchanges

Arson Witnesses Report Threats

Probe Continuing

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry police are investigating allegations of threats against witnesses in an arson case where the home of a black family reportedly embroiled in a dispute with some white neighbors was burned.

Casselberry Fire Marshal John Tillman said Saturday police talked Friday with representatives of the Seminole-Brevard State Attorney's office to determine if a warrant might be issued to arrest the man alleged to have made statements to several witnesses, who Tillman said, "interpreted" the statements as threats.

The case on a warrant had been pending since the arson case was reported on Wednesday in with the alleged arson, which destroyed the $40,000 home.

Police, at the time of the arrests of Eugene Elmers, 32, of 101 N. Devon St., Winter

Spring, and James William

Morgan, 27, of Lot 7, 7th

Street, Casselberry, said other arrests were pending.

Tillman said Saturday the name of the man accused of threatening witnesses has come up in the arson investigation. He has not been ruled out as a suspect with a link to the torching of the home and he is under consideration by officials as that investigation continues. But at this point police don't have a strong enough case to call for additional arrests, he said.

The situation in the neighborhood, which members of the Hamilton family say has been bad since they moved in seven years ago, was described by Tillman as being "tense" on Saturday.

He said additional police patrols were working the area.

"There are still a lot of hard feelings," Tillman said. "We don't know what is going to happen."

Police and firefighters have been advised to use caution in

Sanford Woman Slashed To Death

Seminole County sheriff's investigators were working today to piece together the circumstances that led to the murder of a 36-year-old Sanford woman in Altamonte Springs Friday night.

Sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said investigators have a suspect in the slashing death of Patricia Penn Sessions of 119 McKay Blvd., and witnesses were scheduled to be questioned today. At this point investigators have not determined exactly what happened to Ms. Sessions, Spolski said.

Ms. Sessions, an unemployed file clerk and a Sanford native, reportedly bled to death after she was attacked at about 10 p.m. Friday outside the home of Waymon Franklin of 308 Longwood Ave., Altamonte Springs.

Although an autopsy was performed on Ms. Sessions at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford on Saturday, county medical examiner Dr. G.V. Garay was not available early today to comment on the autopsy findings.

According to a sheriff's report, Ms. Sessions suffered a serious cut to a main artery on the back of her left leg. She was "clinically dead," Spolski said, following the attack. She was pronounced dead at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs after her boyfriend, Michael Lorenza Lark, 35, of Orlando, took her to the hospital in her car, the report said.

Ms. Sessions made no statements prior to her death as to what happened to her, Spolski said.

"There were three individuals at the scene," he said. "Out of those three we have a suspect, but we won't identify a suspect because the investigation is continuing." Although Ms. Sessions, the mother of four teenage children, was not married to any of the individuals at the scene, Spolski said she was involved in what might be called a domestic dispute based on a problem with a personal relationship.

Lawmen have found no weapon nor any indication of gunshots being fired in the area prior to Ms. Sessions' murder, Spolski said. Franklin, who called deputies to the scene, said he had heard shots outside his home at about the time he expected Ms. Sessions to arrive there, a sheriff's report said.

According to the report, Franklin received a call about 9:30 p.m. from Ms. Sessions who said she was coming to his home to visit his daughter. At about 10 p.m. Franklin said he heard two

Lake Mary Commissioner Faces Dismissal

A lame duck Lake Mary city commissioner who has not shown up for commission meetings since July 24 has been asked by the commission to justify his absences and state whether he plans to fill out his elected term which ends next month.

Collin Keogh, 29, of 115 W. Lake Mary Ave., has missed three consecutive commission meetings and four workshop sessions, according to city records. On Thursday, the commission voted 4-0 directing City Attorney Robert Petree to send Keogh a letter asking whether he intends to serve out his elected term.

Petree said today he had not sent the letter. He refused to say whether he intends to follow the commission's directive, and if so, when.

Under the city's charter, a commissioner forfeits his position on the board if he misses three consecutive meetings and if the commission then chooses to dismiss him.

Keogh could not be reached for comment today. His telephone has been disconnected, according to the phone company, and he was not at his south Orlando place of business.

Keogh's absences began shortly after he was accused in a lawsuit of "converting for his own use" $21,340 belonging to a non-profit association he is chairman of and refusing to pay the organization back.

The Lake Mary Cemetery Association filed suit in late July claiming Keogh "converted" the money on April 23.

Keogh has denied any wrongdoing, claiming he purchased certificates of deposit at various banks with the money, putting the CDs in the association's name, not his.

The case has not gone to trial.

A one-term commissioner, Keogh did not run for re-election this month and his term of office ends Oct. 7. Keogh's position on the commission will be filled by his uncle, Charlie Webster, who won the election Sept. 3, defeating A.R. "Doc" Jore.

If Keogh continues his absent act, he will miss four meetings by the time his term expires. There are commission meetings scheduled for Sept. 19 and Oct. 3, and two

Reagan Orders Own Sanctions Against South Africa

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan announced today a series of economic sanctions against the government of South Africa. The sanctions are similar to those he had threatened to veto if approved by Congress.

Bowing to political realities at home and abroad, Reagan limited bank loans and sales of computer and nuclear technology, and took steps to halt U.S. sales of the Kruggerand to underscore U.S. displeasure with apartheid.

In addition, Reagan dispatched U.S. Ambassador Herman Nickel back to Pretoria after a three-month absence with what administration officials described as a strong letter urging changes in South Africa's racial policies.

The move was a shift away from the policy of "constructive engagement" that has been a hallmark of the Reagan presidency and reflected mounting U.S. frustration with a failure by the white-minority government to end apartheid.

Speaking to reporters in the Oval Office, Reagan cited "the beginning of a process of change" in South Africa, but asserted that movement has been "inadequate."

While he reiterated his concern that punitive action could prove counterproductive and said, "We must not damage the economic well-being of millions of people in South and Southern Africa."

"Therefore," he said, "I am signing today an executive order that will put in place a set of measures designed and aimed against the machinery of apartheid, without indiscriminately punishing the people who are victims of the system — measures that will disassociate the United States from apartheid but associate us positively with peaceful change." White House officials hoped the move would forestall passage of a sanctions bill already passed by the House and pending before the Senate. House and Senate leaders warned Reagan would face the politically damaging prospect of an override if the bill was vetoed.

Reagan, denouncing apartheid as "deliberate, systematic, institutionalized racism," acknowledged he would veto the congressional bill, but he voiced hope that could be averted with a bipartisan consensus on policy toward South Africa.

"That is why I have put forward this executive order today," Reagan said.

"The problems of South Africa were not created overnight and will not be solved overnight, but there is no time to waste," he said. "To withdraw from this drama — or to fan its flames — will serve neither our interests nor those of the South African people." Reagan ordered the following steps:

— A ban on bank loans, with the exception of those "which improve economic opportunities" or support educational, housing or health facili-

Grandpa Ringo

LONDON (UPI) — Former Beatle Ringo Starr has a granddaughter, London's Daily Express newspaper reported today.

The newspaper said Starr, 45, was "absolutely delighted" to be the first Beatle to become a grandfather.

His 7-pound, 2-ounce granddaughter, Tatia Jayne, was born during the weekend to Starr's 19-year-old son, Zak, and Zak's wife, Sarah. Both mother and baby were reported doing fine.

NATION IN BRIEF

Amtrak Train Hits Car, Kills Family

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — An Amtrak passenger train going 70 miles an hour struck a car at a rural crossing, killing the car's occupants — a father and mother and their five children.

None of the 275 passengers or crew members aboard the northbound Coast Starlight were injured in the Sunday evening accident, said a spokesman for Southern Pacific, which operates the train for Amtrak.

"It was the most gruesome accident I've seen in 10 years as a firefighter," said Rudy Cabizas, who arrived on the scene minutes after the 6:35 p.m. accident.

The engineer threw the emergency brake on the train but it was too late to avert a collision, Southern Pacific spokesman Andrew Anderson said. The train carried the car seven-tenths of a mile down the tracks, firefighters said.

"Apparently the vehicle was crossing the tracks when it was hit" at a crossing in Coyote, a suburb about 12 miles south of San Jose, police spokesman Jack Morris said.

White Supremacists Go On Trial

SEATTLE (UPI) — Lawyers expect to call more than 100 witnesses in the trial of 11 radical white supremacists accused of robbery and murder in their alleged plot to overthrow the federal government.

Jury selection was scheduled to begin today amid tight security.

The large contingent of defendants, their attorneys and a six-member team of prosecutors prompted the U.S. marshals' office to redesign the seventh-floor courtroom of U.S. District Judge Walter McGovern.

The trial, expected to last at least three months, will include testimony from 10 members of The Order who pleaded guilty to the racketeering charges and an assortment of up to 100 other witnesses, said Gene Wilson, chief of the U.S. attorney's office criminal division.

Federal agents describe The Order as a small band of neo-Nazi white supremacists suspected of robbery and murder in their underground war against the government, Jews, blacks and other minorities.

A grand jury returned a 21-count indictment in Seattle April 12, charging the group was responsible for the machine gun execution of Alan Berg, a Jewish radio talk show host in Denver who baited the white supremacists on the air.

Striking Teachers Face Dismissal

United Press International
More than 126,000 students in five states were affected by teachers strikes today. Contract negotiations in Seattle, site of the nation's largest walkout, were said to be at a standstill.

School officials threatened to fire 950 striking teachers in Pontiac, Mich., if they failed to show up for work today, while officials in Newport and Pawtucket, R.I., planned to ask courts to order 990 teachers back to work.

The strikes affected about 49,062 students in Michigan, 43,500 in Seattle, 19,800 in Pennsylvania, 12,300 in Rhode Island and 2,105 in Ohio. A walkout involving 350 teachers was scheduled today in the Cleveland suburb of Euclid, Ohio. That strike would keep 5,400 more students out of school.

In Pontiac, Superintendent Odell Nails was authorized to dismiss striking teachers who did not work today. Nails said classes would be taught by 350 administrators, substitutes and newly hired teachers.

Crash Victim Identified

The identity of a Longwood man killed in a traffic accident on Interstate 4 over the weekend has been released by the Florida Highway Patrol.

Dead is Michael J. Burke, 37, of 1130 Harbour View Circle. His identity was withheld by FHP until next of kin were notified of the accident.

Burke was killed at 12:05 a.m. Saturday when his speeding 1985 Ford crashed into the rear of a westbound semitrailer on I-4, one mile west of Lake Mary Boulevard. Driver of the 1978 International tractor, Harvey M. Huffstolte, 30, of Groveland, was uninjured. No charges were filed against Huffstolte.

According to an FHP report, Burke was driving at a high rate of speed, had been drinking, and was not wearing a seatbelt at the time of the accident. He died at the scene.

Burke's car was totaled. The semi received $300 worth of damage.

Unrepentant Killer Freed

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Without remorse, convicted killer Theodore Strelski left prison after serving seven years for the hammer slaying of a Stanford University professor and refused to promise he would not kill again.

"I do not feel remorse. I have never felt remorse," the bearded, 48-year-old Strelski told a crush of reporters when he left the California Medical Facility state prison Sunday.

"I have no intention of killing again," he said. "On the other hand, I cannot predict the future."

Strelski served seven years and 20 days for the Aug. 18, 1978, slaying of math professor Karel DeLecuw, his faculty adviser, after planning the murder for eight years. At his trial, he said the slaying was "a rational act" meant to dramatize his claims that Stanford mistreated its graduate students.

"If I express remorse, I cut the ground out from under that argument," Strelski said. He entered Stanford when he was 22 and spent 19 years in an unsuccessful effort to earn a Ph.D. in math. He said the professor he killed once called him a "school boy" and made fun of his Oxford shoes.

Strelski was to appear today on NBC's "Today Show" and told reporters, "I'm booked for interviews through Tuesday." He was offered a ride by several reporters and accepted one from a reporter with the San Jose Mercury News.

Some faculty members at Stanford anonymously have expressed concern about the former graduate student's pending release, noting his often-expressed animosity toward the school, 40 miles south of San Francisco.

Strelski said Sunday he would heed their "hint" and stay away from the university. "If I change my mind, I won't go without public notice," he said.

Cause Undetermined

Engineering Firm Damaged In Fire

A pre-dawn fire caused extensive damage to a storage area at Bach Engineering Co., 975 Sunshine Lane, in Altamonte Springs today. Investigators were at the scene at mid-morning attempting to learn the cause of the blaze and to estimate the extent of the damage.

Firefighters were dispatched to the scene about 4:48 a.m., according to District Commander Garry Becker of the Altamonte Springs Fire Department. Becker said some 25 firefighters fought the blaze for about two hours before bringing it under control.

He said in addition to firefighters from Altamonte, there were firefighters from Orange and Seminole counties who assisted in battling the blaze.

The engineering firm, according to Becker, employs about 100 and makes radio head sets and other components for commercial airlines.

Becker said he didn't know how long it would be before normal business operations would resume.

Becker said the fire occurred in an upper level storage area in the front section of the building above the company's offices.

"But we prevented it from spreading to the rear section of the building. We cut it off and were able to save at least two-thirds of the structure."

Becker noted the rear section of the building that was saved from the fire is where the manufacturing occurs, but didn't know how soon the company might resume operations.

No other buildings in the light-industrial zoned area were threatened, according to Becker, and there are no residences in the vicinity.

Aftermath Of Elena Tallied Seminole Needs More Volunteers

From Staff, Wire Reports
While state crews spent the weekend retracing Hurricane Elena's steps to survey damage, Central Florida Red Cross Chapter disaster officials were critiquing their efforts and trying to come up with ways to recruit more disaster team volunteers in Seminole County.

Although there has been some criticism that Orange County volunteers worked in Seminole shelters because of the lack of Seminole County volunteers, Kay Merrill, director of marketing, public relations and volunteers for the chapter, said that 20 of the 30-40 trained Seminole County disaster workers on the Red Cross roster served during the hurricane emergency. Some of these were sent to other counties, assigned wherever their talents were most needed.

She also said local residents responded when a public appeal was made through the media for more shelter workers. Part of the difficulty in rounding up the regular volunteers was that many were away for the Labor Day weekend.

The Red Cross operated shelters at four Seminole County schools during the Elena threat. Lake Mary High School, the first to open, housed 75 to 100 persons, with about half of them being evacuees from elsewhere in the state.

Oviedo, Lyman, and Lake Brantley high schools, were opened for a time but were later closed because no one showed up looking for shelter.

Mrs. Merrill pointed out that Seminole Countians have not responded well to appeals for disaster workers when training courses were scheduled. So few turned out for the classes often times that they had to be cancelled.

New ways of recruiting through clubs and civic organizations are being considered, Mrs. Merrill said, because it is important to have volunteers trained in the required procedures.

State crews were walking from house to house, surveying damaged roads and bridges this weekend to assess losses caused by the storm which cost four states an estimated $1 billion.

Most of the information they collect will be used to substantiate Florida's application for federal disaster aid to help people who lost property, businesses and jobs in the storm, which held the Gulf Coast hostage for five days and made landfall early Labor Day.

It will be compiled into a report that must be submitted to Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet in 10 days.

Woman Makes Off With $110 From Till

A clerk reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies a "foreign woman" appearing to have a communication problem while making a purchase at Mae's Fabrics, State Road 436, Fern Park, reached into the cash register and apparently slipped away with $110.

Nancy Hall Rogers, 20, of Sanford, told deputies the woman, who appeared to be East Indian, entered the store at about 2:30 p.m. with another Indian woman.

The second woman went to the back of the store with the store manager, while Ms. Rogers was accepting payment for a small amount of fabric bought by the first woman, a sheriff's report said.

That woman took two, $20 bills from her purse, was waving them around and speaking in a foreign language when Ms. Rogers said, the woman reached into the cash register and grabbed a handful of cash and checks. As she waved the cash and checks around Ms. Rogers took them from her.

The suspects left and when Ms. Rogers counted the cash in the register it was $110 short, the report said.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Two men who stopped to assist three men they thought were having car trouble on Markham Woods Road at Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary, where robbed by the trio they tried to help.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported Richard E. Johannes, 23, of Eustis, and Tim J. Edwards, 18, of Sorrento, had a gold chain worth $200 and $150 cash taken from them on Friday.

The suspects who grabbed the cash and chain were driving a black Chevrolet and were last seen headed east on Lake Mary Boulevard after the heist, a sheriff's report said.

POT IN JAIL

Seminole County drug task force agents who searched a Seminole County jail inmate reported finding a partially smoked marijuana cigarette in the man's wallet and charged him with introducing contraband into the jail and possession of less than 20 grams of pot.

Gregory Scott Rodgers, 19, of Orlando, who has also been arrested on a warrant for sale of alcohol to a minor, was arrested at the jail at 6:57 p.m. Friday. He was being held in lieu of $8,100 bond.

TRAFFIC STOP POT

A 19-year-old Deltona man stopped by Sanford police after allegedly running a red light on U.S. Highway 17-92, has been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. He was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon after police reportedly found a sword-like knife in his truck.

Police reported spotting a marijuana smoking device in the glove box of the man's vehicle and in a search reportedly found additional drug paraphernalia. In the purse of a girl in the car the officers reportedly found a bag of marijuana, which the man reportedly claimed was his.

The girl was not identified in the report which did not say if she was charged as a juvenile.

Police reported finding a long sword-type knife hidden beside the driver's seat of the vehicle.

Richard Brian Tillman was arrested at 12:09 a.m. Saturday and was released on $500 bond.

Brinks Thieves Leave Over $1 Million Behind

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Investigators today sought two bandits who stole about $2 million from a Brinks armored car counting house — leaving behind more than $1.25 million — in what may have been an inside job.

More than $1 million in traceable new bills and about $250,000 in old bills were apparently left behind by the robbers, authorities said Sunday. Investigators were expected to know today exactly how much money was taken in Saturday's robbery.

State Police and the FBI looked into the possibility the robbery was pulled by an insider.

Brink's guard Joseph LaJoie, the only employee at the counting house at the time of the robbery, was given a polygraph test. Investigators refused to reveal the results.

LaJoie, who has worked for the company for nine years, transferred to the armored car building a week before the robbery, police said.

"We're not eliminating any possibilities," said Detective Thomas Jacquard. "This we can only speculate on. There was no sign of forced entry."

Between six and 12 bags containing about $250,000 each were taken in the heist.

Investigators spent Sunday canvassing the area around the building and checking leads in their search for the two masked men who tied up LaJoie and rifled a vault in the building. The vault held cash from banks and retail stores.

The one-story brick building is surrounded by a chain-link fence topped with barbed wire, but one of the thieves was already inside and surprised the guard when he went to answer the back doorbell, said Maj. Milton Wilson, chief of detectives in Providence.

Wilson said that LaJoie told police he was alone in the building Saturday at 4:30 p.m. when the back doorbell rang. LaJoie said that as he went to the door, a man wearing a ski mask came up behind him and pointed a gun at him.

LaJoie said the man handcuffed him and ordered him to lie on the floor while a second masked man was admitted to the building.

LaJoie said the men then tied his feet and pushed him into another room while they went through the vault.

Eventually, LaJoie managed to get his feet loose and get to a phone, where he activated an automatic emergency call to police, which they got the call at 6:17 p.m.

LaJoie said he saw a van backed up in the driveway, and police said they later seized a van which may have been the one used by the thieves.

Sanford Planning Commission Oks Condo Project

A 114-unit condo project in Sanford has an initial go-ahead from the city's planning and zoning commission.

The P&Z has approved, 8-0, with Commissioner Eddie Keith absent, the site plan for the residential development of Monroe Village at 101 N. Terwilliger Lane.

The units, one-story in the center of the development, and two-story around the perimeter, average 940 square feet each and will contain two bedrooms and two bathrooms each, according to owner and developer

Steven Cahill of Altamonte Springs. Cahill can now submit a construction plan for the commission's approval.

In other commission action, the panel:

- Approved 8-0 a site plan for an addition to Penn Aluminum Co., 2540 Jewett Lane. The site plan is to build a 7,500 square-foot lean-to onto the business to accommodate expansion. The company was represented by Mack LaZebny, owner of the manufacturing business. LaZebny can now submit construction plans for approval.

● Approved 8-0 the final plat for Placid Lake development at Airport and Live Oak boulevards. The six-section plat now goes to the city commission for approval. If it is approved, a site plan for each section of the plat must be submitted to the Planning and Zoning Commission for approval. John Moseler, of Winter Park, represented ZOM Development at the hearing.

● Approved 8-0 a site plan for a country store with three apartments at 508 Cypress Ave. The building is being renovated by Sanford developer Herbert Cherry. Total square footage of the property is 5,148 feet.

● Approved 8-0 a site plan for a 20-unit condominium development at Collins Drive. Each condo will have 940 square feet with two bedrooms and two baths. Owners Sabre Construction and Development Corp. can now submit construction plans to the city.

● Denied 7-0, with Commissioner Gary L. Davidson abstaining for business reasons, a site plan for Reflections of Hidden Lake, a shopping center and office building complex planned for the northwest corner of Lake Mary Blvd. and Hidden Lake Drive. The 90,000-square foot development was denied because it was shy 70 parking spaces for its size and did not have acceleration and deceleration lanes at entrances and exits of the development.

Fred Shipman, representing Vranich Enterprises Inc., was advised by Morris to scale down the size of the office building, thus reducing the need for parking, and to design in the lanes. After that is done he could bring the plan back before the commission. —Deane Jordan

Irony On The Rails

A funny thing is happening in America. People are beginning to ride trains again. Many long-distance trains have been running at or near capacity this summer with vacationers and their families. Ironically, they do so at the same time that Congress is preparing to consider cutbacks of as much as 15 percent in the system's annual operating subsidy and the Reagan administration is pushing elimination of the subsidy. The president and Congress should take a closer look at the situation before deciding to drop the budget ax on the nation's railroad passenger system, crippling or eliminating intercity passenger trains in the United States.

Ridership on Amtrak's overnight trains usually peaks during the summer months, but in July it was up an estimated 7 percent over a year ago, and advance bookings since June have been running 15 to 20 percent ahead of a year ago. In fact, business has been so good that, according to Amtrak's preliminary estimates, passenger-related revenue topped out at $61.8 million in July, the highest total for any July since the company was created in 1971. When Amtrak was created, after private railroads had allowed their passenger transport facilities to deteriorate, the system was in shambles. Now the government's investment in maintenance facilities, and other major improvements is beginning to pay off. For the Reagan administration to eliminate the government subsidy now, or for Congress to sharply reduce it, would be a foolish move against transportation progress.

Amtrak is projecting that it will carry about 20.7 million passengers this year, an increase of 4.5 percent over last year. And its passenger-related revenue last year was about $758 million. That hardly sounds like a system that deserves to die.

Cosmetic Change?

Although Rabbi Meir Kahane moved to Israel 16 years ago and is a member of that country's Parliament, he has kept the door open to return to the United States whenever he desires.

The militant, Arab-baiting founder of the Jewish Defense League has an extensive schedule of speaking engagements in the United States. Travel between the United States and Israel has been relatively easy for Kahane because, along with being an Israeli citizen, he has held onto his U.S. citizenship.

But that could become more difficult for Kahane. His extremism has been an embarrassment to Israel — he advocates expelling all Arabs from Israel and the territory it occupies — and some responsible officials have been looking for ways to clamp down on him. A law has been proposed that would prohibit members of Parliament from holding dual citizenship. Kahane is the only member with that status.

If Kahane gave up his U.S. citizenship to remain a member of Parliament, he would need to obtain a visa to visit the United States. Kahane said he is afraid the U.S. government might refuse him a visa if he remained connected with the militant Jewish Defense League.

So Kahane devised a little plan he said might make it easier for him to get a visa. He resigned as the leader of the Jewish Defense League and named Irv Rubin of Los Angeles as his successor.

U.S. law provides that foreign visitors can be denied a visa on the basis of their political beliefs or associations. Kahane may have formally cut his ties with the Jewish Defense League, but he has given no reason for anyone to believe that he changed his beliefs and associations.

The Postal Service Should Go Private

WASHINGTON — James C. Miller III hasn't been confirmed as President Reagan's new budget director yet, but already he's following in his predecessor's controversy-filled footsteps by calling for the breakup of the Postal Service's monopoly of first-class mail.

Former budget chief David Stockman made a habit of enraging Washington's special interests by, among other things, branding military pensions "a scandal" and insisting that government has no obligation to send the children of upper-income families to college.

Now it's Miller's turn. The pro-deregulating chairman of the Federal Trade Commission has been hammering away again at one of his pet peeves, the U.S. Postal Service. In a recent article published in the Cato Journal, a libertarian quarterly, Miller says that Congress should smash the postal barrier.

"Private enterprise will get the mail delivered — just as it did in the Old West," he says, and it will do it more cheaply and efficiently than the Postal Service, which has raised the price of a first-class stamp seven times since 1970.

The Washington news media treated Miller's article as if it was news. In fact, his position on this issue has long been known. In 1982 he testified before a subcommittee of the Joint Economic Committee in favor of breaking up the postal monopoly, urging Congress to test the idea.

Congress, which has a convenient history of opposing all monopolies except its own, reacted to Miller's proposal with one long yawn.

But major institutional changes often begin when someone is willing to stick his or her neck out and argue for reform. The reasons for letting private businesses deliver first-class mail are compelling.

For one thing, first-class mail service has deteriorated badly; it's now about 10 percent slower than it was 15 years ago. On the average, it takes a day and a half to deliver a letter — even three days is deemed acceptable — which is somewhat slower than in 1969.

In 1971, Congress turned the heavily subsidized post office into a corporation that was supposed to pay its own way. Yet first-class postage costs have continued to rise steeply. A first-class stamp cost 6 cents in 1970. Now it's 22 cents.

It's likely to go even higher, since generous wage packages demanded and received by the postal workers' union have pushed the average pay-plus-benefits for postal employees to more than $23,000 a year. Postal subsidies are running about $1 billion a year.

In a few areas, however, the Postal Service has turned over some of its business to competitors, which have provided efficient, low-cost service. United Parcel Service, for example, now carries up to 70 percent of all parcels. In addition, the Postal Service has contracted out much of its rural postal deliveries — about 5,000 routes — to private companies.

When new corporations, led by Federal Express, revolutionized mail delivery with their "absolutely, positively" overnight delivery service, the Postal Service responded with Express Mail. But it frequently fails to deliver on its 3-p.m.-next-day guarantee, while the competition is delivering letters and packages promptly by 10 a.m.

He Walks 11,600 Miles

By Gino Del Guercio
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — When doctors want to study walking, they usually ask their patients to step onto a treadmill, but in Rob Sweetgall's case they've asked him to walk 11,600 miles through all 50 states.

The 37-year-old chemical engineer expects to complete his trek Sept. 5 in New York City, exactly one year after he began. He walks an average of 32 miles a day, seven days a week.

"My message is to get the masses out (walking)," said Sweetgall, as he walked along Route 1 toward Boston. "Walking can get people out burning calories without alienating them and feeling they have to suffer pain and sweat."

Every six weeks, Sweetgall is flown from wherever he is at the moment to the University of Massachusetts Medical Center in Worcester, Mass., for a complete physical. Scientists are studying the effects of long-distance walking and hope to extrapolate their findings to the effects of shorter-distance walking on health.

"What he's done is compress an entire lifetime of walking into one year," said Dr. James Rippe, director of the university's Center for Health, Fitness and Human Performance.

Before the former long-distance runner from Brooklyn, N.Y., began his walk, his doctors asked him to stop exercising for two months. They wanted someone who was out of shape. Yet, by the day his walk began, he was still 20 percent more efficient in his body's capacity to use oxygen than the average American his age and weight.

Within the first six weeks, his efficiency improved another 10 percent. Since then, he has improved another 10 percent and the gains have leveled off.

"He probably still has the capacity, with more intense shorter walks, to increase a little further," Rippe said. "His total body oxygen consumption is about 10 percent less than a world class marathon runner. But it's 20 percent higher than the average professional baseball player."

Sweetgall has been walking from state to state and was flown to walk in Hawaii and Alaska. His expenses have been covered by two private manufacturing firms.

He generally walks alone — although he's had the occasional company of everyone from small children to elderly grandmothers. He carries nothing but a 5-pound pack, which contains traveler's checks, maps, newspaper clippings from the places he's been, a toothbrush and a change of socks.

EDUCATION WORLD

Make Every Hour Count

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Education Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teachers play cop during study hall and do other unseemly things for one schooled in instructional wizardry.

In many schools, they also must spit out strings of announcements about non-academic matters, collect for charities and lunch, schedule photo sessions, do the paper work for student insurance and take attendance.

But teachers are paid to teach. Playing cop and all the rest subtracts time from tutorial tasks. Every school hour, as a result, counts for less than 100 percent instruction. This dilutes learning.

These points are made by Charles E. Rallsback, who has a better idea — enlist PTA members or other volunteers to handle the non-teaching chores and even to help tutor little learners who stumble in the primary grades.

Rallsback, associate professor of educational administration at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, makes his point in a report, "Making Every School Hour Count," published by the National Association of Elementary School Principals.

Assigning volunteers to the non-teaching tasks are part of his plan for improving classroom management, giving teachers more time to motivate students and otherwise provide "solid, basic academic preparation" for every student.

In making the case for "let teachers teach," Rallsback asserts:

"... a major advance can be made by eliminating most of the noninstructional duties that may now clutter teachers' days."

"Perhaps it all comes down to this — teachers need to be free to do justice to their own creativity in offering students the kind of activities that will tap their innate ability and excite their intellectual curiosity."

"To exercise their art properly, teachers must be afforded adequate amounts of productive time."

Instructional time in the nation's schools varies from 19 to 27 hours per week, but the hours of instruction and even the length of the school year are not the central issue in education today, according to the authority.

"The more crucial question has been how to assure real, honest-to-gosh learning time during whatever length of day or year the local school board decides upon."

"The process should begin with the setting of very clear learning goals for students."

Rallsback believes the most basic goal should be the children's intellectual growth, "including the ability to think logically, to reason out a problem, to organize and analyze information, and to develop a curiosity about the world about them."

"Another goal might be the child's social and emotional growth. In terms of moral and ethical values and acceptable codes of conduct in relationships with other children, with family and friends, and with the larger society," he said.

When Agencies Work Well

BOISE, Idaho (NEA) — In the compendium of real and imagined failings of government bureaucrats, few criticisms appear more frequently than the claim that inter-agency feuds invariably take precedence over inter-agency cooperation.

There indeed is ample evidence that petty squabbles about "turf" or jurisdiction are so disruptive and demoralizing that they routinely keep federal employees from working together for the benefit of the public.

But there are exceptions — and none is more striking than the joint effort sustained throughout the past two decades by six federal organizations at the Boise Interagency Fire Center here.

Operating from a half-dozen nondescript buildings on a 53-acre site at the edge of the airport, BIFC coordinates a nationwide program that annually saves millions of acres of range and forest land from being decimated by wildfires.

The participating agencies include four Interior Department units — the Bureau of Land Management, Fish and Wildlife Service, National Park Service and Bureau of Indian Affairs. The other two agencies are the Agriculture Department's Forest Service and the Commerce Department's National Weather Service.

The impetus for the unique combined campaign came during the early 1960s, when two of those agencies became entangled in an inter-agency feud concerning the allocation of resources to fight simultaneous fires.

Since 1965, however, the agencies have worked in concert to dispatch the personnel, aircraft, equipment and supplies to suppress fires throughout the country.

"We do not tell anybody how to fight a fire," says Arnold F. Hartigan, the BIFC public affairs officer. "We do not have any authority to command resources anywhere — except in emergency situations, when we can set priorities and allocate resources."

One of those emergencies occurred this summer, when states throughout the West were ravaged by the most devastating series of wildfires in more than a quarter of a century.

"We mobilized more people to cover more fires in a wider geographic area than at any time in our history," says Hartigan. At the peak of the outbreak, in early July, approximately 22,000 men and women were struggling to control those blazes.

Whistle Blower Has Firms On Carpet

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — It's not every day that you and a Washington matron hectoring the federal government about a $31.68 overcharge by a contractor, but Joan Estrada is our favorite free-lance waste-watcher.

No irregularity in government procurement is too insignificant to escape her eagle eye — especially when it involves the laying of carpet in government buildings.

The installation of carpet is Ms. Estrada's business, which she operates from the basement of a Victorian house in Chevy Chase, Md., just across the District of Columbia line.

Almost from the day the Freedom of Information Act went into effect, Ms. Estrada has used it to obtain the invoices and pay vouchers of her competitors in the carpet-installation field. Then she points out to federal agencies any overcharges or other errors she has found.

"I used to get upset because I heard about things that were not being done," she told our reporter Kenneth Reid. "So I found out about the Freedom of Information Act — even before anyone started to use it."

To Freedom of Information officers at the various agencies Ms. Estrada has targeted, she is a familiar correspondent, whose dot-matrix letters, run off on her personal computer, are often decorated with smiles, frowns, hearts and flowers.

She is also becoming increasingly familiar to agency officials whom she informs of contracting errors, as well as to congressional leaders and White House officials, to whom she forwards copies of her correspondence.

Here are some of the Chevy Chase carpet-badger's triumphs:

— A Baltimore firm has been asked by the Environmental Protection Agency to return $31.68 for a duplicate payment for soil retardant put on agency carpeting. "Your bringing this matter to our attention is very much appreciated," EPA procurement chief Alfred Smith wrote Ms. Estrada. The Baltimore company's president was not so appreciative, claiming it was EPA's fault. "She's just causing a lot of problems for the government to furnish all the invoices and everything," he complained.

— A Washington, D.C., competitor, acting on misleading specifications provided by the General Services Administration, charged $2.10 for laying each 18-inch carpet tile, when the proper charge was 48 cents a tile. "We do make errors," said Shirley Bruce, a contracting officer for GSA. "We already corrected it."

— Last May, Ms. Estrada discovered that a company providing fire extinguishers under a GSA contract had billed the government $1,800 for parts and labor not mentioned in the contract. "Errors like this have been occurring at every agency for 20 years," Ms. Estrada wrote to GSA. "If they happen on small dollar amounts, they are happening on large amounts."

The GSA's Regional Procurement Director James H. Jackson congratulated Ms. Estrada "for alerting this office to ... the overpayment," and promised that price schedules would be changed to avoid a repetition.

Ms. Estrada's activity has earned her kudos from J. Peter Grace, who is spearheading the drive to reduce waste in government.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Steve Trout's bicycle sure gave a lift to Pete Rose. It left some mileage for Rose's fans in Cincinnati, too.

Trout, whose left-handed delivery figured to bench Rose Sunday, injured himself in a bicycle accident, handing right-hander Reggie Patterson a surprise start.

Challenged by the quirk, Rose collected two quick hits to equal Ty Cobb's career total of 4,191.

Cabell Next To Testify

Baseball

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — After two weekend games against the New York Mets, Dodgers infielder Enos Cabell left Los Angeles to go one-on-one in Pittsburgh federal court today against the defense attorney for his alleged former cocaine supplier.

Court was adjourned Friday before defense attorney Adam Renfroe Jr. could cross-examine Cabell about his two hours of testimony against defendant Curtis Strong, 38, a Philadelphia caterer charged with 16 counts of selling cocaine to major-league players in Pittsburgh between June 13, 1980 and mid-May 1984.

Renfroe's cross-examination was to be the first order of business when court reconvened at 9:30 a.m. EDT under presiding Judge Gustave Diamond.

Like the two ballplayers who preceded him to the witness stand, Kansas City Royal Lonnie Smith and the Mets' Keith Hernandez, Cabell testified under immunity from prosecution about his former drug habits.

UCF Kicks Past B-CC

Football

By Richard Truett
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — University of Central Florida football fans had watched in agony many times before. They had observed helplessly as the Fighting Knights would play brilliantly against Bethune-Cookman College for 59 minutes, only to blow it in the last minute and lose a heart-breaker.

The same scenario unfolded for 59 minutes and 57 excruciating seconds Saturday. UCF, armed with the never-give-up attitude of new coach Gene McDowell, took it to the larger and more talented Wildcats.

There was, however, one big exception Saturday night. The biggest exception in UCF football history.

The Knights did not lose. Repeat, the Knight did not lose. They won an emotional 39-37 slugfest thanks to a 55-yard field by Eddie O'Brien with three seconds left to play before a record crowd of 21,222 at Orlando Stadium.

B-CC's Wildcats had beaten UCF all four times in previous Mayor's Cup meetings. The Wildcats were on the verge of five in row, but UCF placekicker O'Brien unloaded a miracle shot from 55 yards out to snatch the victory away from a stunned B-CC team.

UCF, which led for all but 46 seconds of the game, outplayed the Wildcats throughout but it took the incredible leg of O'Brien to make the upset come true. O'Brien also added field goals of 26, 43 and 31 yards.

"I thought we could win it with a field goal," said an ecstatic McDowell after the game. "Once we get past (inside) the 50, I'm confident. He (O'Brien) hooked it a little bit more than he wanted but he made it."

O'Brien's boot, which came from the right hashmark, was a low line drive which glanced off the left upright, three feet above the crossbar. It caromed to the right and fell over the bar to send the UCF players and supporters tumbling onto the field in celebration.

"I had a lot of trouble from the right hashmark while practicing before the game," said O'Brien. "Maybe that's why I hooked this one. But I had no doubt that it was good. I started running off the field when I hit it."

The Knights wasted no time getting on the scoreboard by jumping out to a 10 point lead. O'Brien blasted a 26 yard field goal with 2:20 gone in the first quarter and on its next possession, UCF capped off a 66 yard scoring drive with a six yard pass from quarterback Tony Lanham to former Lake Brantley High standout Mac Lantrip. The Knights were up, 10-0.

UCF quarterback Tony Lanham, right, breaks a long run as Elgin Davis moves to take out Avery McCree.

UCF shut out B-CC in the first quarter by only allowing the Wildcats 41 total offensive yards.

The Knights built up a 16-0 lead by the time B-CC finally scored a 27 yard field goal by Manny Manola with 6:16 to play in the half. But on UCF's next possession, O'Brien nailed a 43 yard field to make the score 19-3 in favor of UCF with 1:50 to go.

The Wildcats, however, weren't done yet. Quarterback sensation Bernard Hawk hit Sebastian Brown for a 39 yard TD, but the PAT was no good and B-CC went into the locker room at halftime trailing, 19-9.

Hawk cranked up his potent arm in the early going when he hit wide receiver Remi Watson on a 37 yard pass to close the

Bears Catch Tampa

Steve DeBerg threw for three TDs Sunday but Tampa Bay still lost to Chicago.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Everyone knew the Chicago Bears had the league's best defense, but the offense was still a question mark for the defending NFC Central champions.

Although one game doesn't make a season, the Bears put on an offensive display in their season opener Sunday which may convince some skeptics.

Jim McMahon threw for two touchdowns and ran for two more to lead the Bears to a 38-28 victory over the Tampa Bay Bucs, spoiling Tampa coach Leeman Bennett's Bucs' debut.

The 38 points were the most by a Chicago team in an opener since the Bears put 45 points on the board against Green Bay in 1948.

The Bears' offense had to produce after the defense yielded 28 points in the first half to the Bucs, a Tampa Bay record. Steve DeBerg threw three TDs in the opening half.

Leslie Frazier's 29-yard interception return on the second play of the second half turned the tide for the Bears and McMahon came through with a 9-yard scrambling TD pass to Matt Suhey with 33 seconds left in the third quarter to put the Bears ahead to stay.

"The defense did an excellent job. The offense did an excellent job. I'm tired of hearing about one or the other doing the job. The Bears did it as a team," said Bears' coach Mike Ditka.

McMahon, who hit Dennis McKinnon on a 21-yard TD pass in the first quarter, wound up 23-of-34 for 274 yards in his first regular-season game since going down with a lacerated kidney last November.

"We knew, even when we were down 28-17 at halftime, we could come back and score three times which we did," said McMahon. "The defense did a great job in the second half. Les's play on the interception just turned this game around."

McMahon added a second 1-yard TD after Shaun Gayle blocked a punt on the Bucs' 11 early in the fourth quarter.

The defeat was Tampa Bay's 12th in a row on the road.

"Lack of concentration killed us. That tipped pass turned things around. It was such an easy score," Bennett said. "When a team scores so quick, it gives them a boost."

DeBerg conceded the Bears' second half defense was the difference.

"It was frustrating. It was our time to win but we had a terrible time in the third quarter," DeBerg said.

Relaxed Lendl Throttles McEnroe

Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ivan Lendl, who said throughout the U.S. Open he had nothing to lose, left the Stadium Court a winner Sunday.

"Not too many people expected me to win," said Lendl of his 7-6 (7-1), 6-3, 6-4 victory over John McEnroe in the men's singles final at the National Tennis Center. "I wasn't the defending champion, and I had lost to McEnroe the last two times within a month. So, I had only to gain."

Runnerup at the Open the three previous years, Lendl said his second Grand Slam victory was something special.

"I cannot describe the feeling because this is the tournament I think is the biggest tournament of the year," said Lendl. "It's the one I want to win the most and finally I did it. I'm just so happy I'm not even going to try to describe it."

Lendl's other Grand Slam victory was in 1984 against McEnroe in the French Open.

"I seem to be the only guy he beats in the finals," said McEnroe. "He should try to play me more often."

Lendl, who survived the grueling fortnight of tennis by not putting any pressure on himself, will now have some new pressure with which to contend. His U.S. Open victory moved him to No. 1 in the world rankings.

"I'm proud of what I've done this year," said McEnroe whom Lendl replaced as No. 1. "There's a lot of things worse than being ranked No. 2."

seventh games to lead 5-2.

Then Lendl took over.

He held serve and broke McEnroe at love to trail 5-4 in the first set. After holding serve the rest of the way to force the tiebreaker, Lendl allowed McEnroe just one point in the playoff.

Lendl allowed McEnroe just eight points off his serve in the last two sets.

He broke McEnroe in the second game of the second set and served out at love for the 6-3 victory.

The third set was nearly identical with the two holding serve until Lendl broke McEnroe to go up at 5-4 and then served out at love to win the match.

McEnroe, who was severely tested by Mats Wilander in a five-set semifinal match on a steaming Saturday afternoon, was almost serene after his loss to Lendl.

In other action Sunday, Martina Navratilova followed her loss to Hana Mandlikova in the women's singles final Saturday by losing in the women's doubles. Navratilova, teamed with Pam Shriver, fell to Claudia Kohde-Kilsch and Helena Sukova 6-7 (5-7), 6-2, 6-3.

She avoided being a three-time loser, however, with a victory in the mixed doubles final. Navratilova and Henz Gunthardt waited out a rain delay to beat Elizabeth Smyle and John Fitzgerald, 6-3, 6-4.

Lendl, 14-12 against McEnroe in head-to-head competition, entered the final believing he had already lost the match. He said it made it that much easier to play.

"The worst thing to do is to be afraid of something," said Lendl who was runner-up at the Open to Jimmy Connors in 1982 and 1983 and to McEnroe in 1984.

"You eliminate the fear by imagining you have lost it already. You live through the fear. I have been through it already so many times that I say to myself 'Keep trying.'"

Lendl, who won $187,500 for the victory, had the limits of his imagination tested in the first set when he fell behind to McEnroe 3-0. McEnroe, four-time Open champion, broke Lendl in the second game and held serve in the first and third without allowing Lendl a point.

"He got uptight at the beginning," said McEnroe, "and also my pace was a lot more in the beginning. His pace took over after the middle of the first set, and because I didn't feel that I was moving my best, he was really able to take advantage of it."

"When he got into the match, he was tough from that point forward."

The 25-year-old Lendl, who is from Czechoslovakia but lives in Greenwich, Conn., held serve in the fourth game, but McEnroe held at love again in the fifth and

Cowboys, Redskins Continue Wacky Weekend

Football

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys and Washington Redskins conclude the already wacky opening NFL weekend tonight, renewing their rivalry in the warmth of Texas Stadium.

Another day of high temperatures is forecast, meaning a steamy night is in store for the players and the sellout crowd.

The winner will join the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants atop the NFC East after the NFL's first weekend, in which both of last season's Super Bowl teams were upset victims.

Both the Redskins and Cowboys emerged from the exhibition season without a loss, and both have streaks working to their advantage coming into the Monday-night opener.

Washington has defeated Dallas in four of the last five meetings, sweeping the Cowboys in 1984.

But the Cowboys have one of the most impressive opening-game histories in the NFL. Dallas has won 19 of its last 20 season openers, losing in that time only to the Pittsburgh Steelers in the first game of the 1982 season.

Both teams have made their share of changes this year. Washington's most publicized alteration being the acquisition of running back George Rogers in a trade with the New Orleans Saints.

Rogers is expected to share playing time with John Riggins in the Redskins' back offense — the idea being to have a constantly fresh plowhorse with which to forge ahead behind a huge offensive line.

For Riggins or Rogers to be effective, however, the Redskins need to be even or ahead. And to get ahead, there will be the always-threatening arm of Joe Theismann, who has turned into the Cowboys' chief nemesis much the way Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw did during the 1970s.

Dallas newcomers include defensive lineman Kevin Brooks, who may see action as a sort of designated pass rusher. If a rookie is to make a difference for Dallas tonight, it might be eighth-round draft pick Leon Gonzalez.

Vikings Capitalize On 49er Mistakes For 28-21 Triumph

United Press International
Complacency, that dreaded enemy of champions, clobbered last year's Super Bowl finalists on Opening Day.

The NFL champion San Francisco 49ers, who lost just once in 19 games last season, committed seven turnovers including five fumbles in a 28-21 loss Sunday to the Minnesota Vikings and returning head coach Bud Grant.

Meanwhile, the Miami Dolphins, the defending AFC titlists, fell 26-23 to the Houston Oilers. It was 12 games into the 1984 campaign before Miami encountered defeat.

The Super Bowl squads lost to clubs with a combined 1984 record of 6-26.

Sound like complacency? San Francisco coach Bill Walsh thought so.

"The critical mistakes were our fumbles," he said. "But our mistakes are individual in nature and each man must search out his own soul."

Said Miami quarterback Dan Marino: "We just didn't get it done when we had to. I guess I took too much for granted and thought I could do more than I did."

Marino, who missed 37 days of training camp in a contract dispute, completed 13-of-24 passes for 159 yards. He was intercepted twice and fumbled once before being relieved by Don Strock.

Football

A frenzied capacity crowd at the Metrodome saw Joey Browner recover the final 49ers' fumble, and that set up Ted Brown's 10-yard run with 1:49 left. The Vikings, who tied it 21-21 on Alfred Anderson's 1-yard plunge with 2:56 left, scored 21 points in the final period for the triumph.

San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana, showing no ill effects from a bad back, completed 24-of-38 attempts for 265 yards and was intercepted twice. Of course, he denied complacency had anything to do with his club's loss.

"It's been people on the outside saying we're supposed to be some kind of super team, not people on the inside," he said. "But I don't believe all the media hype about us right from the start of training camp had anything to do at all with how we played today."

At Houston, Mike Rozier, the 1983 Heisman Trophy winner playing in his first NFL game, scored twice, including a 1-yard burst with 25 seconds left, to lift the Oilers.

What did the former USFL running back think about beating the mighty Dolphins?

"I just wanted to win," he said. "I didn't care who we beat."

Miami took a 23-19 lead with less than nine minutes remaining when Strock connected with Mark Duper on a 66-yard scoring play.

Lions 38, Falcons 27
At Atlanta, Eric Hipple passed for three TDs to give Detroit head coach Darryl Rogers a victory in his professional debut. Gerald Riggs gained 131 yards on 31 carries for Atlanta.

Patriots 26, Packers 20
At Foxboro, Mass., Tony Eason threw for 241 yards and one score, and Tony Collins and Craig James each ran for a TD, pacing the Patriots. Eason was 21-of-28. New England's defense recorded seven sacks.

Steelers 45, Colts 3
At Pittsburgh, Mark Malone passed for 287 yards and five touchdowns and plunged 1 yard for another score to lead the Steelers. Louis Lipps caught nine passes including three for scores, for 154 yards. Five TDs tied Malone with Terry Bradshaw for the Pittsburgh team record.

Chiefs 47, Saints 27
At New Orleans, Bill Kenney threw for 397 yards and three TDs, and Nick Lowery kicked four field goals to power the Chiefs. Carlos Carson had eight receptions for 173 yards. Richard Todd replaced Dave Wilson

Burns Fires 66, Coasts To 6-Stroke Victory

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — For the first time in longer than George Burns cares to remember, he had his final-round emotions under control.

That major feat accomplished. It was only a short time before he took control of the $72,000 winner's check.

A cool, calm, and collected Burns fired a final-round 5-under-par 66 Sunday, claiming a six-stroke victory in a $400,000 PGA Tour event at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

John Mahaffey, Greg Norman, Leonard Thompson and Jody Mudd finished in a four-way tie for second place at 11-under 273, while Calvin Peete shot a 66 to finish alone in sixth place at 274.

The victory was the third in Burns' 10-year career, ending a drought that began after a triumph in the Bing Crosby tournament early in 1980.

"I've been in position so many times, but I just couldn't do it when it counted," said Burns, whose four-round total of 17-under-par 267 was three strokes better than the tournament record set by Mahaffey (1978) and George Archer (1984).

"In a way, I've really been my own worst enemy out there. What I've learned in the last 10 years of competition out here is that golf is like no other sport. You have to keep your emotions under control.

"It's not like football or basketball, where you can hit out at somebody or drive down the court and jam the ball over somebody," he said. "That doesn't get it out here. And I just don't think I've been able to control myself."

LOPEZ CHALKS UP ANOTHER ONE

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — It seemed to be just another day at the office for Nancy Lopez. The 28-year-old veteran winner of 34 events on the LPGA tour chalked up another victory Sunday by capturing a $175,000 event.

The victory left her one short of a guaranteed induction into the LPGA Hall of Fame, and she seemed more pleased about that than the effort it took to capture her fifth tournament of the year.

Lopez is $26,250 richer for her effort at Riverside Golf and Country Club.

Waltrip Closes In On Elliott

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Defending champion Darrell Waltrip's victory in NASCAR's Wrangler 400 moved him within 53 points of Bill Elliott in the chase for the Grand National championship.

"I made up 53 points, and that's about what we lost last week at Darlington," Waltrip said, referring to the Southern 500 where Elliott won a $1 million bonus. "We can race our way to the championship now."

Waltrip ended a long drought Sunday when he slipped past Terry Labonte on the 395th lap and held on to win. Despite his start 22nd in the field of 30 cars, Waltrip gradually worked his way toward the front for his second triumph of the season.

Waltrip, in a Chevrolet, posted an average speed of 72.508 mph.

"After practice Saturday, I knew our car was running good," said Waltrip, who picked up $35,300. "But I didn't want to do anything early in the race to take myself out of competition."

Labonte finished second, with Richard Petty third, followed by Dale Earnhardt and Ricky Rudd.

As the laps began to wind down, it didn't look like Waltrip would have a trip to victory lane at the Richmond Fairgrounds Raceway. Coming out of the pits on the 345th lap, Waltrip was sandwiched between two cars and hit them both.

Waltrip was the leader going into the pits but was running third when he finally exited pit row. On the 361st lap, he shoved past second-place Harry Gant and began to eat away at Labonte's 15-car length lead.

With 10 laps to go, Waltrip was on Labonte's bumper and on the 395th lap, Labonte got caught behind a slower car in the second turn and Waltrip shot past.

"I knew I could outrun Terry, I just couldn't get around him," said Waltrip. "I was looking for an opening and it came when we ran up on the lap car."

Carter Triumphs

MONTREAL (UPI) — Pancho Carter made like a getaway driver Sunday, and Johnny Rutherford called it highway robbery.

Carter beat Rutherford by .10 of a second after passing from fourth to first in his March on the home stretch of the final lap to win a $512,000 Grand Prix CART event at Sanair Raceway. Officials at the .833-mile trioval initially said his victory margin in the 225-lap, 187-mile race was .30 of a second.

Both men thought they had won, and entered the winner's circle engaged in a shouting match as intense as the race.

James Wilder rushed for 166 yards in 27 carries, 105 in the first half. Walter Payton wound up with 120 yards in 17 carries, his 64th career 100-yard plus game.

"They just came at us and capitalized on our mistakes and it turned the game around," Wilder said. "The yards don't mean anything to me if we lose. I'm paid to win games."

Frazier's interception was the most critical mistake and gave the Bears needed momentum after being down 11 at the half. DeBerg's pass was tipped by Richard Dent and Frazier snared it and saw nothing but daylight.

"We knew we needed a big play after the way they handed us in the first half," said Frazier, whose interception return was the second of his career.

Israeli Army Halts Patrols By Armed Jewish Vigilantes

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The Israeli army moved to prevent armed Jewish vigilantes from patrolling Arab towns on the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip following a series of attacks on Jews in the regions.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin told the Cabinet Sunday the army would take strict steps to prevent the vigilantes from patrolling the Arab towns, Israel radio said.

Rabin also told the Cabinet he ordered an increased military presence in the occupied territories as a preventive measure and authorized "new methods not used previously" to stop the Arab attacks, Israel Radio said.

News reports said crack paratroopers and border guard units had been equipped with rubber bullets, tear gas and water guns.

Jewish settlers began patrolling occupied territories Thursday in response to a series of stabbings in which one Israeli was killed and two were injured. Thirteen Jews in Israel and the occupied territories have been killed in such attacks in the past year.

Election Floats On Oil Question

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Voters had to choose today between the ruling government coalition that advocates careful management of oil revenues and a socialist opposition that vows to use the money to expand social services.

A last-minute opinion poll predicted a slim victory for Labor and its liberal and socialist allies over the ruling center-right coalition made up of the Conservative, Christian People's and Center parties. But political analysts predicted a last-minute swing to the right following Conservative Prime Minister Kåre Willoch's criticism of Labor's stance on NATO defense policy.

IN BRIEF

Morticians Worry About Getting AIDS From Bodies Of Victims

MIAMI (UPI) — Undertakers and medical examiners are donning special gloves and gowns when handling bodies of AIDS victims to avoid catching the mysterious disease, which they fear remains a threat after death.

Each year, taxpayers in Dade County pay for the burials of 15 to 20 poor people who die of AIDS. Because information about AIDS is spotty, morticians take special precautions when handling corpses.

The Florida Mortuary Services, a funeral home contracted to prepare burials of the county's indigent, use a special "AIDS kit" that includes protective gear such as gloves, gowns and shoe coverings.

The morticians are worried about ulcerating lesions and the possibility of leaky body fluids from the victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, which attacks the body's ability to fight disease.

Drug Abuse Boosts Crime Rate

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — A store owner was killed by a gunman who fled with less than $100, three women were hit by purse snatchers outside the Fort Lauderdale police station and an ice cream man was robbed in the same place two nights in a row — all victims of crime in Broward County.

Authorities can't pinpoint a single cause for the rise in the rate of murders, robberies and assaults in the south Florida county, but they say drugs have a lot to do with it.

Florida Department of Law Enforcement statistics reveal a 16 percent jump in the crime rate throughout the county in the first six months of 1985 over the same period last year. Crime in Broward had been sinking for three years until 1984, when the number of crimes increased less than 1 percent.

Commissioner Kenneth King, to express their views about placement of traffic lights on Lake Mary Boulevard. Most were concerned with traffic becoming worse with completion of the many new developments in the Lake Mary area.

The commission also voted to table requests construction of a bank and site plan for the bank and a discussion of an arbor ordinance.

The commission then sent to committee a request from the Southland Corporation for variance to place a sign in near the corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Country Club Road. The commission members wish to save as many of the trees on that corner as possible without obstructing the view of passing motorists. Southland wants there sign to be clearly seen.

Also police pension plan insurance was increased by 5 percent of the employees salary. A waste water plan was approved and commissioners gave themselves raises from $55 a month for Dick Fess to $75 a month for the five city commissioners. And Danjohn Services Inc., the city trash removers, had their contract dismissed. City Manager Kathy Rice said the city was unhappy with the company's services.

The next scheduled meeting for Lake Mary will be the Planning and Zoning Commission's special session to discuss land development at 7 p.m. September 11 in the Lake Mary City Hall.

gunshots behind his home. He was afraid to go outside because he feared the shots were being fired at him, the report said.

Franklin said he went to the front door and called the victim's name but got no response. He telephoned Lark who was reportedly at a nearby home, 337 Longwood Ave., Altamonte Springs, and told him to come to his house, the report said.

According to Franklin's statement given to deputies, Lark arrived at Franklin's home within two minutes. Ms. Sessions was found but deputies did not report who found her or where she was, except to say she was in an "open field" by Franklin's house.

Lark, who said he was Ms. Sessions' boyfriend for four years, took Ms. Sessions to the hospital in her car, the report said.

In addition to Franklin and Lark, Spolski said, Arthur J. Allen of 298 Ford Ave., Altamonte Springs, was scheduled to be interviewed as a witness in the case.

Auction Talkin'

Auctioneer Lewis Dellanio looks for bids for a cash register during an annual city of Sanford auction Saturday. Up for bid at the Sanford public works complex was used city equipment and items police had found or confiscated. When the tally was complete, the city made $20,030, twice the amount City Clerk Henry Tamm hoped the sale would generate. Items auctioned off ranged from dozens of bicycles to a water fountain to an old firetruck.

along one side of the compound. Two people were killed and eight were wounded. Thai military authorities said.

NBC News Bangkok Bureau Chief Neil Davis, 52, an Australian, was standing next to the headquarters compound when machine gun fire broke out. Witnesses said a shell ripped through his back, killing him instantly.

Another NBC employee, soundman Bill Latch, an American, was wounded in the leg and stomach. He was reported in satisfactory condition at a Bangkok hospital. Mokai Mabouchi, a Japanese cameraman for ABC News, was wounded in the leg. The military compound is near the Royal Plaza, the area where internal security offices and Government House, the office of the prime minister, are located.

Prem was in Jakarta for trade and foreign policy talks and met Indonesian President Suharto in Jakarta as scheduled after receiving word of the coup. Afterward, he boarded a Royal Thai Jet for Bangkok.

Teinchal said 500 troops and 18 tanks from the 4th Army Tank Division in Bangkok were behind the coup.

Loyalist troops seeking to end the uprising deployed tanks and took control of another radio station, where they broadcast appeals for order.

The coup attempt came one week after an annual shakeup in the military hierarchy. It was not clear if the personnel changes sparked the attempt to topple the government.

The rebel officers said they staged the coup to save Thailand's economy and to maintain the royal family of King Bhumibol Adulyadej.

Thailand's kings have had no real power since a 1932 coup ended the absolute monarchy, but Bhumibol has acted as a buffer between his people and a series of military governments that have run the country since 1975.

There have been 15 coups or coup attempts in Thailand since 1932.

the neighborhood, he said. Prior to the torching of the Hamilton home police had been called several times to settle what appeared to be racially motivated disputes.

In July an Orlando man accused of being an armed member of a group of whites at a home at 1122 Landmark Lane, who were allegedly making racial slurs during a dispute with the Hamiltons, was arrested on charges connected with the alleged brandishing and possession of a stolen handgun, police reported.

Police also were called to settle a dispute between Roderick Hamilton, 20, and suspects in the alleged arson at the Handy Way on State Road 434, on Aug. 30. Police say resentment over that fight may have triggered the arson.

Memories Have No Price Tag

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for "In Love in W.Va.," the two 18-year-old Christian virgins who want a big church wedding but can't afford it, so they came up with the idea of having a

Dear Abby

Dutch-treat wedding. They're charging $32.60 a couple and expect no gifts — just the money to pay for the wedding.

Now is the time for you to learn a very important lesson. What you can't afford, do without. A wedding you cannot afford is no way to begin a marriage. Some day you will realize that the things you can't afford are not worth the headaches that result from going into debt to acquire them, or asking other people to give them to you.

I'm sure your friends do not want to pay for your wedding any more than you do. We had a $5 wedding 50 years ago.

FRUGAL BUT SOLVENT IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR FRUGAL: According to my mail, the Dutch-treat wedding idea went over with a dull thud. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago I wrote to you from another city. I told you that I had a dream job and also a dream boss to whom I was very much attracted, and the feeling was mutual. The problem was that he was married, and I felt that an affair was rapidly becoming inevitable.

You advised me to look for a job elsewhere, saying, "You can't build happiness on the misery of others." It was the hardest thing I ever had to do, but I quit my job and moved out of town to work elsewhere. My heart ached for a long time, but finally I met and married a good man, raised a family and had a happy, interesting life.

Last year, my husband died, and I went back to my hometown for a visit. Quite by chance I ran into my former employer. He was a widower! We started seeing each other, and the feeling between us is stronger than ever. We are planning to marry soon. There were times over the years when I might have blamed you for influencing me, but now I bless you because we neither hurt nor betrayed anyone to be together.

Please keep telling people who lack the strength to do the right thing that happiness cannot be built on the misery of others. You are always saying someone made your day. Well, Abby, you've made my life!

SECOND CHANCE
DEAR SECOND: And you made this column a real upper. Love can be lovelier the second time around.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Counseling Available For Parents Of Gays

DEAR DR. GOTT — I read in our local paper the letter in your column from the mother of the 30-year-old homosexual. Although I fully agree with your advice, you might want to go one step further. Often the parent may need counseling in order to learn to "accept" and to end self-blame. A reputable counselor, "Gay Hotlines" or organizations for gays may help this mother understand and feel comfortable with her son's sexual preference.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have red spots that appear on my body. They last for some weeks and then disappear, then others come. Someone once said that it might be indicative of a kidney condition. What can be done to eliminate this situation, and DOES it foreshadow something serious?

DEAR DR. GOTT — My grandson (age 6) has a geographic tongue. This is something new to me and I should like to know what it is and how my daughter can do something about it.

strengthened in the way of nail polish. It's the only thing that works for me. Do you have any comments?

DEAR READER — Since writing about brittle nails in previous columns, I have received several letters touting the value of nail strengtheners. I think this option is entirely appropriate for those who wish to use them.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
For many years the Cavendish Club of New York has sponsored a prestigious international pair event, usually early in May. Several dozen world-class players are each invited to submit an entry, including partner's name, but no one is guaranteed acceptance.

A committee selects only the strongest pairs. That decision is subjective, but the quality of the field has always been high. The scoring is in international match points (IMPs), and so there is a premium for bidding and making games and slams. As in team-of-four play, overtricks are not important. This week we will look at deals from last May's Cavendish Pairs.

Today's deal demonstrates the value of a 5-3 fit in a minor suit for slam purposes. North-South had no more than 11 tricks at no-trump, but six diamonds was easy. The three-diamond response to the Stayman three-club bid denied a four-card major. Four diamonds showed a suit, and four hearts was a cue-bid in support of diamonds.

North then asked for aces and bid the slam.

South won the opening lead with the jack of hearts and led a spade to dummy's king and the ace from East. It was easy now for declarer to ruff the third spade with his small diamond, draw trump and get rid of dummy's last spade loser on the third high heart. The only way six no-trump would make is if East sticks the spade ace in his back pocket and never finds it.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY SEPTEMBER 10, 1985

A relationship that already has considerable significance will become even more meaningful in the year ahead. Collective benefits will result from this association.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to be in a scintillating mood today and you'll enjoy companionship, but you might not feel too comfortable around flighty or frivolous friends. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. To get yours, mail $2 to AstroGraph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Material desire will serve as a powerful motivator today. If you want something strongly enough,

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have excellent leadership qualities today, and you're not apt to have any dissension in the ranks. What you ask of others, you will ask of yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A burden will be lifted from your shoulders today when someone steps in to take care of something you thought you'd have to do yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even when dealing with difficult individuals, everything will work out pleasantly for you today if you keep a cool head.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) No one can do things better for you today than you can do yourself. Keep this in mind if you're anxious to achieve something important.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The odds are tilted in your favor today, and this might be a good time to get even with that guy who has always beaten you in your favorite sport.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You stand to profit in your commercial dealings today, but you might not get as much as you expect. Be optimistic, but also be realistic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone with your best interests at heart may have sage advice for you today. It might not be what you want to hear, but it will be constructive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A situation that could have been a loser is going to eventually work out to your advantage. Be patient; time is required for it to transpire.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have a serious matter to discuss with another today, do it in a pleasant surrounding, because that will put everyone in a happier frame of mind.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's best not to discuss a confidential family problem with others today. Work it out alone in your own quiet way.
