

Arctic Mapping And Ice Studies Are To Feature Hobbs, Polar Expedition

ANN ARBOR, Feb. 25 (AP)—Establishment of weather stations in the refrigerator of Greenland is the principal purpose of an expedition which the University of Michigan will send out in June or July.

It is in the Greenland area where breed the boreal blasts that sweep down upon the northern hemisphere, said William Herbert Hobbs, professor of geology, who will head the expedition. From the proposed weather stations it would be possible to wireless storm warnings to Europe, in his opinion.

To travel from the margin of Greenland to Europe, these storms require from three to five days, Prof. Hobbs explained. "Even while they are crossing the eastern Atlantic there will be time to send warning from Greenland by wireless."

A secondary purpose of the expedition will be an attempt by government experts who will accompany Prof. Hobbs to shatter with explosives the huge icebergs, compelling them to melt or sink before they have drifted far enough south to menace Atlantic ship-pings.

At least six of the party will remain until the summer of 1927 studying conditions. The main party will return in September. The cost of financing the expedition will be $100,000, most of which already has been provided. The biggest item of expense will be the two amphibian planes of special construction that can take off and land on water and on snow during the same flight. The planes will be used for mapping and to take supplies to the inland weather stations.

The expedition will cooperate with a Danish government expedition which will leave Copenhagen about the same time, led by Dr. Lange Koch of the University of Copenhagen.

Dr. Koch will make his base on Scoresby Sound on the east coast of Greenland. The base of the Michigan party will be in the Holstenborg district, on the west coast, although the iceberg problem will be tackled farther north, in the waters off Umanak.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 25.—Admitting a theft of more than three years ago, Reuben Walker, 23, colored, has been ordered held for further investigation. Police say he confessed to having broken into a filling station and to having stolen a small safe from which he took $140. He carried the safe to a secluded spot and blew it open, he said.

dark winter night. Temperatures of thirty degrees below zero prevail in midsummer and kerosene becomes like lard in the extreme cold.

A small, wind-proof hut of heat-insulating material will be half sunk in the snow," Prof. Hobbs said. "It will be provided with self-registering meteorological instruments mounted at the top but with the clockworks attachments within the hut. The greatest difficulty in operating such instruments in such places is the extremely low temperatures."

Harvard Instructor Along

In the party of twenty will be Vibert Douglas, an instructor at Harvard University and a member of the last Shackleton Antarctic Expedition; Prof. Howard T. Barnes of McGill University, Montreal, authority on icebergs, anchor and river ice; W. P. Ferguson of the United States Weather Bureau, an expert in the use of meteorological instruments; Dr. Walter N. Koelz, zoologist of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, and several specialists in geology and botany from the University of Michigan faculty.

At least six of the party will remain until the summer of 1927 studying conditions. The main party will return in September.

Too Tired To Go Out Nights? Beware of Chronic Fatigue

Thousands of men and women blame hard work for that "all-in" feeling every evening—when in most cases the real cause is chronic fatigue. Chronic fatigue is an unusual tiredness—usually due to lack of sufficient organic iron in the blood. Nuxated Iron, which contains true organic iron like that in the blood, quickly restores this iron and banishes chronic fatigue. It gives new strength in 2 weeks or money back. Will not injure teeth or disturb the stomach. At all good druggists.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

OCALA—Two men were arrested by county officers here and charged with aiding three girls to escape from the state's industrial school. The men, the girls were quoted as saying, had taken them out automobile riding several times, and finally brought them khaki clothing for a trip to West Palm Beach.

BRADENTON—A. F. Wyman, of Bradenton, and Arthur Canby, Sarasota, were elected president and secretary of the Southwest Florida Real Estate Boards, at a meeting of that organization, held here. A number of cities were represented.

ARCADIA, Fla.—The very latest thing in "guards" for automobiles was found here when Robert Rowland, local real estate salesman, left a small monkey to look after the safety of his car. The monkey was small of stature, but loud in defense of the machine, as was evidenced when anyone approached the radiator cap, to which it had been chained.

WINTER HAVEN—By a vote of more than 7 to 1, residents of Dundee registered their approval of the proposal to change the name of Dundee to East Winter Haven. Considerable enthusiasm was registered in casting the ballots, according to reports from that place.

FORT MYERS—Miss "E. V." Walker, of Sarasota, found that running away from home was not all it had been painted in the movies. She left her parents to "see the world," and a short time later landed in jail here, to await the coming of her father. She was accompanied by a girl and a boy friend.

FORT LAUDERDALE—Something new in contracts was pictured here when several truck loads of fire wood ambled past a number of people clad in bathing suits, and on their way to Las Olas beach. No one in Fort Lauderdale has lighted a fire this winter, it was learned.

KEY LARGO—Four carloads of machinery have arrived here for work on the Dade county end of the proposed Oversea highway. The project is expected to progress far more rapidly than at first anticipated, according to J. D. Redd, commissioner.

DELAND—Handcuffs are not at all out of place when unruly women are being apprehended, County Judge John E. Peacock ruled here. The judge's opinion was given that she had not only been handcuffed, but had been fined $625 for possessing "shine." The fine, the judge said, was a bit stiff.

MILTON—R. B. Hobbs, county superintendent for the past six years, will not be a candidate for re-election, he announced here. He added he had not yet decided just what his future vocation will be.

Carload Of Eggs Is Destroyed In Wreck

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 24 (AP)—A two-ton-egg omelet was spread over East Denver today when a truck load of eggs was hit by a street car.

The eggs were the property of Clarence Wright, who had piloted his fragile cargo safely over more than a 100 miles of road from Flagler, Colo., during the night hours and was within a few miles of wholesale house, where he hoped to market his produce when the accident occurred.

"I Wish I Weren't President"

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—"Hardly a day passes that I don't say to Mrs. Coolidge, 'I wish I weren't president.'"

Such was the national chief executive's answer recently to a dinner guest's question concerning the amount of "satisfaction" or otherwise, derived from his White House job.

It wouldn't be diplomatic to mention the guest's name, but he told me the story himself.

It was no affection on the president's part. Say whatever else of him you may, Calvin Coolidge doesn't "put on." When he means it, he means it.

Not that he shows any signs of cracking under the strain which killed Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding. Coolidge has a tough New England constitution riches have weeded out all that's not absolutely essential for him to see, but there's a lot of that. Much of it's puzzling stuff. It makes its recipient think, for all he's worth.

TEN-THIRTY—By working fast the president has disposed of enough of his correspondence to enable him to receive a committee which wants him to press the electric button opening the bi-centennial exposition at the great industrial center of Podunk. The chairman makes a speech. The president briefly responds. The committee wants his photograph in its midst. It's taken on the executive office steps. A congressman arrives with a prominent constituent who wants an appointment of some sort. The constituent also wants his photograph taken shaking the president's hand. Visitors continue to arrive when he does. He's surrounded the new ambassador is accredited. It has to be thrashed out, and so it is, during LUNCH.—More visitors, one after another. News arrives from the Capitol. The Senate has balked at confirmation of a presidential appointment. It will be a great humiliation to the administration if it's definitely turned down. Some "dates" are called off. Several of the Senate leaders are rushed to the executive mansion in a White House car. More worry.

FIVE-THIRTY—All this time, mind you, the president hasn't stirred his nose out of doors, except to have his photograph taken on the executive office steps. Now he resolves to have a 30-minute walk, come what may. He doesn't always get it, by any means, but this is one of the days politicians and their wives, whom the president and Mrs. Coolidge must be nice to, whether they like them or not.

LATER A RECEPTION—President Coolidge loathes coming downstairs on such occasions to the strains of "Hail to the Chief," played by the Marine band. He ordered it cut out. At just one reception, it was. Such a roar was raised that he had to yield. He isn't boss even in his own house.

A reception—just standing up and shaking hands, in succession, with a couple of thousand people, none of whom you care a cent about, and saying something pleasant, though only a few words of it, to each one! And doing it with an amiable smile!

Then about 1, to bed. So goes a presidential day. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

and he refuses to worry. Nevertheless the presidential position is wearing even on him.

The life he leads! The life any president must lead! No wage slave has so little time he can call his own, for the president has practically none at all.

His early morning walk was a hobby with Coolidge for years. It kept him fit. As president, he soon had to give it up. No time.

BREAKFAST AT 8—A delegation of senators is to eat it with the chief executive. There's important business to be discussed. There's no relaxation about this meal. It's hard work.

NINE O'CLOCK—The president's at his desk, going through his morning mail. His secretaries

Private Secretary Sanders has a list of their appointments, made in advance, with a notation as to the time allotment provided for each. Mostly they're a bore, but occasionally one has some thing to say that the president's interested in. He'd like to listen to him longer. He can't. The calendar's time expires and Sanders ushers him out. Otherwise the whole program would be thrown out of joint.

NINE P. M., LUNCH—A newly-nominated ambassador is present as a guest. So are the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and some of his fellow members of the majority group. A difficult diplomatic situation has arisen in the country to which by a group of secret service men. The case is easy, but a walk, even a secret service bodyguard. Back at the White House, the cover of a visitor has been doctored up in the president's absence. Now it's looking out buildings and trying to look through, in order to make the most of the hour and a half before dinner time. It does break through. Most individuals and delegations until 7:30.

DINNER—Company. Not congenial friends. Half a dozen

The Base is the Life of a Highway

THE best of surfaces will not do a job on an uneven base. Money, labor, time and surface material represent a constant drain on the community purse—unless the foundation is sturdy against the grind and shock of daily traffic.

Eight inches of Lime Rock, graded for proper drainage, makes a marvel as a base. Some of the foremost testing laboratories for road materials give Lime Rock their highest credentials, and the Federal Bureau of Highway Engineers approves it for use on roads which bear heavy loads. These facts alone are convincing officials and communities throughout the country specify Lime Rock.

Loaded trucks and hurrying passengers constantly challenge the best of surfaces. Experience has shown unusual strength and durability in Lime Rock, for there is a compound about this material developed in its use. Lime Rock is spread as a watered mixture. Its physical characteristics are such that a part dissolves and under the roller the mass becomes a solid, smooth, resilient foundation which cushions the shocks of traffic and stoutly resists the wear and tear of speed as transmitted through the surface.

Engineers and road builders are quick to recognize the cost-reducing features of Lime Rock. But low cost alone is no commodity. Lasting qualities are the first consideration, and when durability is coupled with convenient sources of supply and moderate price, Lime Rock rises to a high place in the opinion of experts.

Death, the collector, came to him and said: "I want the payment for your drink and bread! I want the price which tenants all must pay. For having occupied a house of clay. This is a bill which cannot be denied." "Please call another time," the man replied. "I'm sorry, but today I'm not prepared. I really thought your master little cared. How long this lease of mine on earth should run. I've planned some work which still is far from done. There's still a hill or two I wish to climb. Come back, collector, at some other time." "I've heard that story countless times before," said the collector, standing at the door. "You say you want more time? Well, Mr. Man, Give me the date precisely, if you can. Suppose I grant you five years more or ten. Are you quite sure that you'll be ready then?" "When will your work be finished?" "Can you say?" "At fifty with a smile you'll go away?" "At sixty shall I call? and will you then be glad to quit the fellowship of men?" "Ah, no, my friend, only the Master knows. The day and hour, life's mortgage to foreclose!" —By Edgar A. Guest.

The Times-Union tells about Colonel Celery, of Sanford, gallivanting around with Miss Pinky Strawberry, of Plant City. But have you noticed how old Chief Tenor is? A. Ture is storming New York with a force of 20 below at his command, while General Wait Terrell is gathering large forces in South Florida for the relief of that city and other northern strongholds besieged by General J. Frost, and will soon be reinforced by Major Q. Cumber, Field Marshal Spade and Admiral Tom A. Tow. —Tri-City News.

More Than A Boat Race

Back of the first regatta of the Sanford Yacht Club held so successfully on Lake Monroe today is a spirit more worthy of consideration than the material benefits that have come, and will continue to come as a result of this pioneer effort to awaken a true appreciation of Lake Monroe's potentialities as a recreational source. Aside from the fact that the races brought to Sanford many distinguished visitors and much publicity which would not have visited Sanford otherwise, the regatta emphasized the birth of a new spirit here, a new initiative spirit that insures the continuation on a larger scale of golf tournaments, speed boat regattas and other modern and most effective programs designed to place Sanford in the limelight of tourist popularity.

Sanford has for years been concentrating on agricultural and business development. The many natural advantages that the city has to offer tourists have been more or less neglected, and Sanford's tourist popularity has suffered as a result. Chief among the many priceless advantages with which this community has been endowed is Lake Monroe, and those who have by their unselfish and untiring work made possible the first step in a campaign to effect the capitalization of the lake are deserving of a community vote of thanks.

Another source of gratification is the united support given the regatta from its inception to its completion. The city of Sanford as a whole was behind it. Although originated and outlined by the yacht club, the whole-hearted support given the races by Sanford citizens makes the event a community achievement.

Today hundreds of visitors are in Sanford for the enjoyment of the comprehensive program drafted by the Yacht Club. Some of the best known racing enthusiasts in the state are the guests of the city, and The Herald takes this opportunity of welcoming them with the hope that future regattas of the local yacht club will find them again in the city to encourage and stimulate Sanford's boating activities.

A Place To Work

Many persons have come to Florida within the past year seeking their fortunes. Some have come with money hoping to double it. Some have come without money but with business ability and judgment hoping to find good use for it in this prosperous state. Some have come without anything, neither money or brains, and frequently with very little energy, hoping to get rich by picking ripe, golden dollars off flourishing orange trees.

But unfortunately we haven't that kind of fruit down here. In that respect we are not different from New York, California or any other state. As Arthur Brisbane recently wrote, "To bring information back from your travels, you must take information with you. To make money here in California, bring money, plus energy, capacity for hard work, with you." "California," continues Mr. Brisbane, "is no place for the shiftless that have failed in a dozen ways, in a dozen other places. Neither is Florida. We have seen in the past year a good many who seemed to think it was. We have seen men of all the trades of life, come to Florida, utterly without money, go into the real estate business, and consider their office on the golf course or in a billiard parlor.

When they have failed to get rich, or have found second payments coming due, which they were unable to meet, they have returned North taking the cry with them that business was poor in Florida and that the so-called "bubble" had burst. We are glad to have them go. Florida is not place for the man who does not want to work. The achievements of Florida people during the past few years have been nothing short of marvellous. These achievements are due wholly to untiring work. But there is yet a tremendous amount of work to be done in completing the development of this work. We need men to help, but we want men who are not afraid to work.

If we get that kind of men, there is little doubt about their making money.

I WENT TO the Investment Bankers of America annual meeting and was only in Florida a few days. I was very favorably impressed with what I saw, delighted with the winter climate, and agreeably surprised at the development and progress being made by Tampa and nearby West Coast territory, which it was my privilege to see. I am sure Florida is going to continue as the real winter resort for all of the East, and that its prospects are exceedingly bright for a continued progress and growth.—Irving Eaton, of Newton & Co., Denver, in Manufacturers Record.

MY IMPRESSIONS of Florida were distinctly favorable. I spent a good deal of time studying the St. Petersburg and Tampa situation, and from what I saw I believe that the growth of that territory will be great, and I hope it will be sound. Certainly, the St. Petersburg and Tampa situation is developing, from the viewpoint of business, in a most impressive way. There seems to be everything there to create an ever-increasing center of population and ever-increasing commercial and manufacturing growth.—Lawrence Bainbridge, of Bainbridge & Ryan, New York, in Manufacturers Record.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB. An elderly English actor came over to take his first American engagement. He had never visited the country before but he had strong not to say fixed—prejudices touching on these United States as compared with the British Isles. The voyage across was a rough one and the actor's disposition did not sweeten by reason of it. On landing he started for an English boarding house uptown, where he found he had been told he could get English food uncontaminated by base Yankee notions. To keep down expenses he elected to repair thither by a street car instead of using a cab. He emerged from the pier laden with his hatbox, his umbrella, his makeup tin, his grips—two in number—his steamer rug, his tea caddy, his overcoat, his framed picture of the Death of Nelson and other prized personal belongings, and climbed aboard a car. Just as he got fairly upon the platform the car started and he fell through the open door into the aisle, scattering his goods and chattels in every direction. As he got upon his knees he remarked in a tone of conviction: "There now! I know I shouldn't like the blasted country!"

FEDERAL TIME-KILLERS

ST. AUGUSTINE RECORD. Congressman Martin L. Davey has been asked by the National Association of Federal Employees for "precise information regarding the source of the figures" after his drastic arraignment of the government employees as "loafers, time-killers and buck-passers." He replies: "I have used my eyes and my ears, my experience in business and my experience with the department of the government, as a member of Congress, and I have also used logic and my common sense. I would guarantee that any capable business executive would run the business end of the government with less than half of this 300,000 employees, if he could use ordinary business ability and discretion, and could be unafraid of the foolish laws and red tape that now tie the hands of the chief executive and his associates. Furthermore, such a business executive, under those conditions, would render some real service to the American people, which they are not now getting. If you could talk with the multitude of citizens of the United States who have tried to get answers or service from their government and have failed, and have turned away in disgust, you would know what I mean. Yes, many of us know what he means. And while there are many fine, competent people in the government service, in the main he is probably right. The departmental employees are not necessarily to blame on the whole. Conditions make them what they are, and also make them little by little, unable to see themselves as others see them."

More Abuse From A Dry Agent

KEW WEST CALL

One of the prohibition agents who participated in the raids in Key West, by his subsequent actions, has given rather positive indications that charges made against him by the men and the one woman arrested in raids here Tuesday last are based upon truth.

Returning to Miami, a woman newspaper reporter was sent to interview the dry officer, if we are correctly informed, and there is no reason to doubt the source of information, since it comes directly from the editor of The Miami Tribune, and "charges of abuse and profanity" flowed from the mouth of this federal officer as he literally pawed the air with his tongue in an effort to send vicious whistles in the direction of every newspaper that printed the story concerning the Key West "raids."

In the meantime an investigation is said to be under way relative to charges that the woman were based on the presence of those arrested here. What is being investigated? Can the officials, be they prohibition officers or not, doubt the truth of the charges? Suppose such an incident, such an outrage occurs perhaps in their own office; when a great newspaper in a great city reveals such a position as to pose as a representative of the law enforcement arm of the United States government? What right has he to be kept on the government payroll? How long will it take the powers that be to determine if the officer is guilty of the charge? Surely no effort will be made to whitewash such a record as this, when a few minutes' conversation with those who know would establish the truth of the charges!

Suppose the charge made by the persons in Key West were not true. The mere fact that a woman were forced to stand in the presence of this representative of the federal government and listen to a copious flow of profanity is sufficient cause for his removal.

Would any man worthy of the name stand in the presence of a good woman, with a natural repulsion to vulgarity, and let loose a tirade of abuse and profanity? That from such men are a rarity indeed in the United States. What a pity it is that one of such by some means has been placed in a while, placed in such a position as to pose as a representative of the law enforcement arm of the United States government!

What right has an officer of the law to make threats against any resident citizen of the United States? Certainly no officer presumes that his official position gives him such a privilege. Certainly he would not presume to threaten that he can silence the press of the nation, even a single paper, by such malicious vituperation. The press is not cowardly; neither will it be intimidated by the threat of termination ever to speak in behalf of that which it conceives to be right, just and fair.

The Liberty stands as a perpetual emblem of the right of Americans, and the institutions of the nation, including that of the press, ever to herald forth the creed of the individual, the sect, class, or party, in the face of the determination ever to speak in behalf of that which it conceives to be right, just and fair.

November Contest

TAMPA TELEGRAPH. Thirty-four senators and 435 representatives will be elected next November. Of the senators whose terms expire Mar. 4, 1927, there are 27 Republicans and 7 Democrats. Of the house members, the contest 247 are now held by the Republicans, 183 by Democrats and five by independents.

In the Senate, as now constituted, there are 27 Republicans, 39 Democrats and one Farmer-laborite. If the Republicans were to lose eight seats, their control would be endangered and would be retained only in the event that Senator Henrik Shipstead (Farmer-labor, Minn.) and all the La Follette group were to vote with the regular Republicans in organizing the Senate in the next Congress.

It happens that in this election of one-third of the Senate, all seven of the Democratic senators are in the solid South and their retention a certainty. Of the 27 Republican seats, however, close to a dozen are in states in which the contest is likely to be extremely close. It would be a political miracle if the Republicans were to retain all their seats this year. The Democrats have everything to gain and nothing to lose, while for the Republicans there is nothing to gain and much to lose.

The states in which the hottest contests will take place and in which the Democrats believe they have the best chances of electing senators to succeed Republicans are Missouri, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Nevada, Arizona, Massachusetts, Maryland, New York and California.

LEWIS DISCOURAGING

DAYTONA BEACH NEWS. The lot of the budding author is always been a bit rocky. And now comes Sinclair Lewis, eminent novelist, to add one more bump to the tortuous pathway.

In brief, Mr. Lewis advises people who want to write not to do so. The cards are stacked against them, he says. The chances against success are 99 out of 100, he continues, and, when success is won—"writing is about as romantic as being a bookkeeper."

Speaking at Kansas university, Mr. Lewis added that he had one sure recipe for success in the "writing game." He gives it as follows: "First, one must possess tremendous native ability, and then one must work five times as hard as any ordinary human being ought to work. Then success will come if one doesn't die young, and one probably will."

With these few words, does Mr. Lewis take a mighty fall out of those mathematically eager, hopeful youths who are forever tormented by the desire, as Cabel put it, "to write beautifully of beautiful happenings?"

When he says that 99 out of every 100 aspirants to honor in literature will fail, he speaks the simple truth. For it is one of the tragedies of life that desire, except in unusual cases, must always outrun performance. In many, many people there is planted a tantalizing trace of the

HOUSING THE DIPLOMAT

BALTIMORE SUN. A good deal has been heard of late commentary of the Rogers bill, which embarks on the diplomatic and consular services under a strict merit basis. Fan-guined Americans are agreed that the best results are to be had when the highest offices, those of ambassadors and ministers, are open to men of caliber rather than reserved for some rich man who has been liberal in his contributions to party funds.

However, how if the desire of some things which it cannot do. For example, it is impossible to select a career man, no matter how well fitted he is, for a post which is too costly for his pocketbook. There remain many important diplomatic appointments which only men of fortune can afford to hold. Now comes the Porter bill, which proposes to provide a $5,000 fund for the purchase of sites and erection of buildings for the use of American diplomats abroad.

Whether or not the Porter bill and the fund which it creates are the proper measure there can be no question of the fact that something should be done toward the housing of American diplomats and consuls abroad. The highest salary provided under the Rogers bill is $9,000 and there still remain many important posts where no allowance is made for the residence of the American representative. Some such measure as the Porter bill is therefore essential if the Rogers bill is to be successful in operation. If the American foreign service hopes to compete favorably with the foreign services of such countries as Great Britain and France the United States Government must adopt an

Truth Seekers' Class Is Entertained At Parsonage On Monday

The regular business and social meeting of the Truth Seekers' Class of the Methodist Church was held on Monday afternoon at the parsonage, with a large attendance of members and several visitors. Quantities of pink and white roses and carnations with ferns were used in the spacious living room, where the meeting was held.

The reports from the various committees were usually good, showing that the class members have been active during the past month. At the conclusion of business the following program was presented:

Song: "America the Beautiful" sung by the class.

Reading: "The Mother of George Washington" Mrs. Walter Clarke.

Piano Solo: "Il Trovatore" Miss Elizabeth Clarke.

Reading: "Melinda's Wedding Day" Miss Lillian Thornley.

After the program, a dainty ice cream was served by the hostesses, Mrs. T. E. Thornley, Mrs. T. J. Nixon, Mrs. Walter Clarke, Mrs. T. J. Pierson and Mrs. H. A. McCauley. Favors of miniature hatches were placed on each plate.

Truth Seekers' Class holds its business and social meeting the fourth Monday afternoon of each month and visitors are invited to attend.

News About European Women

LONDON (AP)—The Duchess of Portland has dooned her fighting clothes to stimulate interest in all British fashions for women.

Paris styles were good, she admitted, but London modes too are up-to-date.

The Duchess has visited her favorite shops here personally and informed the owners that unless they handled Nottingham lace and other dress material from British manufacturers she would strike them off her list.

For the first time in the history of the trade the advance fashions of spring were shown here instead of exclusively in Paris. Apples, green grass and turquoise are among the spring colors.

LONDON (AP)—The "esthetic value" of a young woman in France is 100,000 Francs, according to a decision rendered by the correctional court here.

A girl, aged seventeen, run down by a motor car received injuries that left scars on her neck and face. She first sued for damages and then her parents sued on their own account for diminished "esthetic value" of their daughter.

LONDON (AP)—A plantagenet mode for day and evening gowns has been adopted by London's most exclusive set, but only so far as sleeves are concerned. Skirts remain on the short side for day and evening costumes, but sleeves have become more voluminous and trail the ground in many instances.

LONDON (AP)—Women have abandoned the plain black moire band as a watch wristlet, and substituted the multi-color band. Moire wristlets embroidered with tiny flowers in many colors, others in colored silks arranged in patch-work design, and even "jazz band" wristlets are now the vogue.

LONDON (AP)—Women are adopting the "rugby" hat, modelled much on the lines of those worn by footballers. They are made of different colored velvets moulded on "rugger" lines, with the downward flap on each side covering the ears. Some are decorated with lighter colored material while others have a bow of ribbon hanging from the right side over the ear-flap.

LONDON (AP)—Elizabeth Hines, the American actress who created the leading role in "Little Nellie Kelly" in New York, has been engaged by Charles E. Cochran as one of his leading ladies. She will begin her work in England at Manchester March 17, in a new revue which Mr. Cochran will produce there, preparatory to bringing it to London to replace "Still Dancing," "Still Dancing," in which Alice Delysia is the star, will be transferred to New York.

PARIS (AP)—The list of awards of the Legion of Honor issued by the Ministry of Agriculture includes, to quote the official journal:

"Madame Godin, widow, farmer at Souvigny, working father for 45 years, mother of 14 children of whom 12 work on the land. Two sons and one son-in-law killed during the war. Left a widow when expecting her fourth child with five still babies, she courageously took up the running of her farm alone. Although now 65, she still works with her children."

PARIS (AP)—Mademoiselle Yamata, the Japanese writer who has just published a novel in French but dealing with life in her own country, was in a drawing room with the Countess de Noailles, the poetess. The conversation fell on love in Japan, the Cri De Paris records. Mlle. Yamata explained that a Japanese woman considered herself the servant of the man and placed obedience and humility in the first rank of virtues.

"But," asked the Countess, "if you learned that he intended going out to spend the evening with the courtesans, what would you do?"

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

News High Spots

"Women are always a little in love, and since love is rather a noisy thing, it obstructs scientific observation." So wrote W. L. George, novelist known as "The Man Who Understands Women," who died recently.

It is interesting to note that before he died the writer, who had spent years surveying woman like an insect stuck on the point of a pin, decided that "the mystery of woman has been over-emphasized."

Absolutely! And positively! Perhaps the bluntest bunk ever created was this tradition about "the woman's viewpoint."

A mere male just stopped at my desk a moment to discuss woman and business. He said, thusly: "Women in offices assume too much privilege because they are women!"

How about it, girls? Is he right?

"House cat!" seems to be the epithet most frequently hurled nowadays by the stierhood which works out in the great open spaces at the stierhood which keeps the home fires burning.

It is significant to read that the world's most photographed cat in the world recently died and was joined to his (her?) fathers after living to the ripe old age of 25 years! The cat attained this senile majority because she had ever been "a house cat" and had not strayed into fields afar mousing.

It is interesting to note the number of women who toil outside the home who are willing to become "house cats" with the slightest encouragement.

We will now end the morning's lesson, by joining in the chorus of "Me-ow!"

"Us Girls'" Wardrobe

Smocks are sweeping offices. The girl friend who writes advertising copy told me that ten minutes after her morning's ad about "a choice consignment" of smocks appeared, three business firms called for several dozen each in assorted shapes and sizes.

O tempora! O mores! In days of yore the playwright's idea of sheer devilry was to picture a haunt wherein smock-garbed females congregated!

Seriously, the smock fad is a gorgeous one. We have seen nothing prettier than a certain restaurant with all the waitresses clad in orange and rose and blue and jade green smocks.

Besides, the cost is so low. One dollar-twenty-nine-and-a-half—Tuesday! Avant ye, bangalow aprons!

The natty and age-killing brambly dress continues in spring fabrics of cashmere and silk crepe. Length, one inch minus 'neath the knee cap!

Taffeta is the spring bell-ringer fabric for dressy year. Bouffant, deb' evening frocks in pastel and passionate shades; street taffeta frocks of black, and other sober hues; and plaid taffetas for sport frocks. And print taffetas galore, of course!

In correcting an error on copy for the personal items in Thursday's paper, a regrettable error occurred in the item telling of the illness of S. O. Shinholtz. The copy originally read "grieved to learn" and in correcting an error on the same line, a mistake was made, something which is likely to occur occasionally in any press room, anywhere.

The Herald deeply regrets the error.

Chamber Of Commerce President Advises State Reforestation Of Lands

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 24. (AP)—Reforestation of millions of acres of cut-over lands in the South as an important means of contributing to the future wealth of the Southern States was strongly advocated by John W. O'Leary, of Chicago, president of the United States chamber of commerce in a statement issued here while on a tour of the state visiting the various chambers of commerce.

"In looking from the car window while on this trip," he said, "I have seen millions of acres of land which I am informed is among the finest in the country for the growing of yellow pine. Some of these lands have nothing on them, others have scattered trees and others have fair to good stands of second growth which have taken the place of the original forests."

"Taking the United States as a whole, we are using our forests three or four times as fast as we are growing new ones and one of our great economic problems is to find means of assuring the nation of an ample future supply of products of the forest. The day is close at hand when the original forests of the south, which have contributed so greatly to our wealth, will have been once cut over and when your future reliance must be upon second growth. The South should be especially interested in this subject for it affords ideal conditions for rapid growing of trees comparatively near the largest market of the country."

"The original forests which our forefathers found on this continent were a great capital gift of nature grown forests, but when these are cut off, we must rely on man grown forests. We are on the threshold of a great new industry of growing trees by private individuals, which might be termed 'commercial forestry.'"

Mr. O'Leary said that business conditions throughout the country were still good and that the situation promises continued stability, a necessary need for business in planning the future.

"The record of business activity during 1925 shows one of the most prosperous years in our history," he asserted. "Our export and import trade totalled more than nine billion dollars in value. Our domestic business exceeded all records. Building construction reached a value of six and a half billion dollars, 25 per cent above that of 1924, which had set a new record. Automobile production gained, as did the output of steel ingots, petroleum and other key industries. Car loading went to new levels.

"An encouraging sign is to be found in the fact that despite large increases in production, prices fluctuated very little, and credits were not over-extended. Stocks of goods were kept down to reasonable requirements. Savings increased and the indebtedness in business failures fell off by 25 per cent.

"In January of this year we find that business kept well up. Bank clearings reached during that month the second highest total ever recorded. Car loadings were somewhat lower than in the previous January, which was a record for that month, but the loss was in coal and other raw materials. Loadings of manufactured products increased. Pig-iron production was two per cent above the same month last year. Automobile production increased 44 per cent. Spring buying was well ahead of last year, a feature being heavier buying from the South. Collections are better than a year ago and retail trade was better than usual for the post-holiday month.

"The department of agriculture reports that the farmer was better off than any time since 1920.

Fish Family Finds Present Season Ripe For Hatching In Big Aquarium

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (AP)—Several weeks of winter chill ahead according to the ground hog, most flowers are still sleeping and spring hats are milliners' fiction, but there are those who find the reason just ripe for coming to life. They are members of the fish family, who are hatching now in New York's big aquarium.

Twenty-five thousand tiny, gummy-looking eggs of black-spotted trout, contained in six trays, are cracking at frequent intervals. The small black eyes which show through the transparent skin of the shells open on a chilly world, bodies a quarter of an inch long wriggle through the openings of the wire mesh tray and thousands of orphan trout take to the open spaces of well-cooled water. Fifty degrees is too cool for most spring swimmers, but the young trout find it just about right.

Originally shipped from the United States Fisheries in Michigan, they are publicly hatched in the aquarium as an educational feature. A few weeks after hatching, when the baby trout have absorbed their yolk-sack and have become independent breadwinners, they will travel again in their refrigerated cases, to the lakes and streams in the region of the Palisades above New York.

Salmon Hatched

Several thousand Chinook and mon, already hatched and living a lively life in a tank adjoining the trout eggs, will reach a similar destination. Their eggs were shipped all the way from Oregon. Their itinerant habits are stranger than those of almost any other fish, said Mr. Louis V. Mowbray, director of the New York Aquarium.

"Salmon are a deep sea fish, and yet they have the habit of coming to fresh water to spawn. Far up the fresh streams and lakes of the Pacific coast, or East in Maine, they spawn. The young salmon find their way out to the ocean again, and for three years their locality and life is unknown to us. At the end of that time they will swim up to the fresh waters, but the intervening years are a mystery that no naturalist has solved."

"Fish seem to have some very acute sense that leads them each year back to their same spawning waters. Fish have been tagged one year at their destinations and out of the little inland lake or stream into a big river or the ocean. The next year the same fish will be found in the same obscure source-water, even though there have been dozens of intervening forks and lakes."

Agricultural Notes

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 25. (AP)—Four hundred and sixty pounds of bean seed from California, Idaho, and Colorado, and consisting of seven different varieties, will be planted in Alachua, Marion, Sumter, Palm Beach, St. Lucie, Putnam, Escambia, Oklawaha, Washington and Bay counties, by the agricultural extension service, to ascertain what progress has been accomplished in the west to rid them of two destructive bean diseases, anthracnose and bacterial blight.

Mr. E. T. Handy's ten Rhode Island Red pullets, from Grand Island, produced the best results for January in the egg-laying contests here. An average of 24.4 eggs per hen was the result. M. N. Shonda, of Jacksonville, with 16.5 eggs for his 650 White Leghorns led in the commercial poultry class.

January brought an average for all flocks of 19.4 in the egg-laying contest, as compared with 7.55 for December and 6.95 for November. For the three months, Mrs. J. C. Perkins, of Paisley, led among backyard flocks of from 1 to 50 birds, with an average of 48.33 eggs for the period. P. A. Gordon led in the farm flocks, his Jacksonville hens producing 37.61 eggs for the three months, while M. N. Shonda's commercial flock brought in 45.63 eggs per hen.

Disinfect those truck crops which can be made immune to disease, before the crops are planted, warns "Spuds" Johnson, in his Rural Common Sense, written for the Agriculture News Service, of the College of Agriculture. This can be done with cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, mustard, rutabagas, turnips, cantaloups, cucumbers, watermelons, tomatoes and eggplants, he adds.

Everybody Agrees That

Highland Park

Is the Highest Class Development in Sanford. There is no other with so many attractive features.

And for these reasons many people, without making any inquiry assume that prices of lots in Highland Park are beyond their reach. There could be no greater mistake.

PRICES IN HIGHLAND PARK ARE NOT HIGH

On the contrary, you can buy some of the most desirable

Lots in Highland Park for actually less than prices asked for lots close to Highland Park that are without any restriction whatever and that are wholly lacking in the distinctive features which set Highland Park apart in a class by itself.

Terms of payment for lots in Highland Park are easy, and special inducements, both in prices and terms, are offered to builders of high class homes.

The landscape design of Highland Park gives a great diversity in the size and shape of lots, inside lots ranging from 50 to 100 feet frontage and many are more than 150 feet deep. Some lots have areas two or three times that of the usual city lot, so do not be misled if interested parties cite the prices on these as the prices of lots without calling attention to their unusual size or as in many cases to their strategic location. Come and see for yourself, let us drive you over the property and show you some of the most desirable inside lots selling for close to $2,000. And do not forget that prices of lots in Highland Park include sidewalks fully paid for and planting of grass, flowers and tropical trees and shrubbery between the curb and sidewalk; nor the restrictions which give you absolute protection against every undesirable feature and insure the development of the entire property along harmonious and artistic lines. If you are looking for cheap stuff, you will not find it in Highland Park; but if you are expecting to find high prices, you will be agreeably disappointed, and when you consider WHAT YOU GET, prices in Highland Park are exceedingly low and not half what they will be in a year from now. Remember that city utilities all over the property are already in—sewers, water and gas, and that the paving of every foot of the drives has already been contracted for by the City of Sanford. Highland Park is high and dry, close in and convenient to everything, schools, churches, stores and their delivery routes, only ten minutes walk from the domestic help and labor supply of Goldsboro and yet with an approach direct to the center of town through its best residential section, free from every objectionable feature and with many distinctive features of its own which you can find no where else.

No matter what may happen to land and town lot booms, close in, high class stuff is never affected in such a town as Sanford, which is sure to grow and grow, sometimes rapidly as at present, but steadily on its unequalled agricultural and industrial and commercial foundation into its destined place as one of the two largest cities of interior Florida. Play safe. Buy gilt edge property, close in, and you can never lose, but are sure to make big profits.

And when you buy, buy the best you can get, for there is always a demand for the best at always increasing prices. And in Sanford, that is Highland Park. Telephone 777 and a salesman will take you all over Highland Park and explain all its attractive features.

Highland Park is a quarter mile square and lies between French and Oak Avenues and Hughey and Franklin Streets.

"I like a Perfection better than any other oil stove"

Says Mrs. A. F. Purcell, Rosemere, Orlando, Fla.

"I have one of your four-burner Perfection Oil Stoves which I have used for over a year now—ever since I moved to Rosemere. Before that I had used gas. I like Perfection Oil Stoves better than any other kind of oil stove. We do all the cooking for a family of four on it. It bakes just fine, as pretty anything. The double burner oven bakes as well as gas."

My mother-in-law had a Perfection Stove which she used for a number of years. Then she broke up house-keeping and sold the stove for a small sum thinking it was worn out. The man who bought the stove is still using it however, after two years, and swears by it.

Thousands of Florida housewives, like Mrs. Purcell, have this four-burner Perfection Stove, No. 74.

Former gas users are seldom disappointed in an oil stove when they have the wisdom to choose the Perfection. For its dependability is giving gas stove service plus in thousands of Florida homes today.

At the touch of a match to the wick Perfections start to cook. Perfections burn only kerosene, that safe, cheap fuel. Easily extinguished, too. Merely, turn the wick down as far as it will go.

As to heat—you can have it in varying quantities, for each Perfection burner is independently operated, and gives every range of heat. For the very hot flame used in frying tempting steaks, turn the wick high enough to produce yellow tips 1 1/2 inches long above the blue flame. For a gentle simmering flame lower the wick. With a Perfection you can get just the degree of heat you want for any type of cooking, baking, boiling, frying, or simmering.

Any stove dealer will gladly show you Perfection models. They are equipped with from one to five burners and vary in price from $7.00 to $120.00 for our finest range with built-in oven.

his appearance to three a week. One of Miss Buchanan's most cherished memories is "The Masked Ball," in which John Drew, appeared, with Maude Adams, the first time as a star. The play was presented at the old Standard Theater and Drew and Miss Adams achieved great success.

Maude Adams "I had the part of Madame Poulard," she said. "Among the others in the cast were Harry Harwood and Harold Russell. Drew was a master of fine comedy and farce. As for Maude Adams, well, there never will be another Maude Adams. Not only was she beautiful but she was unique—entirely different from any one else. Her acting was perfect and her voice had such emotional strength that she could bring tears to your eyes with only one spoken line.

"I remember when Charles Frohman decided to star her. After she had achieved such splendid success Mr. Frohman said that in justice to her she should be better remunerated. She replied: "I'll tell you what we'll do, Mr. Frohman. You took a chance on me and if I hadn't made good you would have lost money. We'll just let the contract stand as it is until next season."

"This not only gives a good insight into the character of Maude Adams, but also shows the fairness and generosity of Mr. Frohman. He was one of the most honorable and courageous men. Always he was quiet and no matter the excitement he never lost his head.

Sixteen Picked Teams Meet At Atlanta With Kentucky And North Carolina Doped To Fight It Out For Crown

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The basketball arena of the Southland shifted here today where 16 picked quintets began the annual tournament from which a champion of the Southern Conference will emerge.

Leaving hard won battles of the season and mathematical standing behind, top-notch teams cast their lot with those of lesser standing and will let the final tilt of Tuesday night write the champion's name.

The opener came at 1 o'clock today when North Carolina and Auburn clashed. Seven games followed. With the field thus narrowed Saturday's program calls for four contests, after which Sunday will be a day of rest.

While the University of Kentucky, top-notch in the statistician's column of conference games, entered the tourney as a favorite, the North Carolina State vs. Auburn, 1 o'clock, Kentucky vs. Virginia Military Institute, 2 o'clock, Mississippi A. and M. vs. Maryland, 3 o'clock, Virginia vs. Tulane 4 o'clock, North Carolina vs. Clemson, 5 o'clock.

Tilden Loses For The Second Time In Period Of A Week

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—William T. Tilden, national champion, who for six years had been at tennis singles twice in a week, a week ago in the national indoor championship he lost to Jean Borotra, of France. Yesterday, Rene La Coe of France, doped Tilden in the first match of the Franco-American indoor team competition.

Borotra's margin was 13-11, 6-4; La Coe's was 5-4, 8-6, 6-3.

Vincent Richards, number three among the stars of the United States, overthrew Borotra in the singles yesterday at 6-1, 4-6, 4-1, and 4-2.

Some argue that the American titleholder who is 32 years old, is not himself, indoors, but the French are deserting their specialties when playing on boards.

Tilden's acting keeps him mighty before the footlights, which may interfere with his eyesight. Richards and Tilden will face La Coe and Jacques Brugnon in a doubles battle at 4 o'clock as the feature of today's team program.

Haymakers That Made History

BY JOE WILLIAMS

An unorthodox trick on the part of Billy Papke contributed immeasurably to the immortality with which succeeding generations endow the fighting name of Stanley Ketchel, tamed in rhyme and rhythm as the "Michigan Assassin."

The story of the two notable battles between Ketchel and Papke are probably better known to boxing fans than any historical chapter dealing with middleweights.

It is well known how Papke, called to the middle of the ring at Verona, Calif., on the afternoon of Sept. 7, 1906, engaged the erstwhile hand-shaking contender and belted Ketchel, then the champion, squarely between the eyes, virtually blinding him.

And how Papke, a murderous puncher, dropped the champion four times in the next minute of fighting, and how Ketchel, game as any man who ever breathed, fought on with dogged courage until his face was covered with bruises; how the hardened expert fans applauded Jim Jeffries, the referee to stop the carnage and squarely on the chin. Papke struck the floor full length, his head rapping the canvas with terrific force. He had just enough strength to regain his feet and, while crouching, Ketchel sent his right to the head four times and almost pummeled the "Thunderbolt" over with a left hook.

"Papke dropped with the next punch and fell forward on his knees, his hands supporting him and his bloody head bowed as if in agony. Referee Jack Welsh counted 11, as did the timekeeper and then raised Ketchel's hand again proclaiming him champion of his class."

What made Ketchel's knockout all the more memorable was the fact that it blasted a time-worn law of the ring that "they never come back."

From that day on Ketchel's triumph has served as an inspiration to the underdog and a stimulus to fervent hopes; it brought more attention to the man and fame to the name than would have been possible if Papke had not blundered so crudely in the preceding fight and then went on to win a battle he could not have won otherwise.

But Ketchel lured the "Thunderbolt" into the ring again by shamming indifference in the ninth round.

By the end finally came the twelfth, with Ketchel unable to see out of either eye, his glittering limbs unable to carry him another inch forward.

It is well known, too, how Ketchel, the crafty actor, lured the stolid Papke into a return match some two months later at Jim Coffroth's arena at San Francisco by pretending to be disinterested and the trained, and how Ketchel, a moment before the going banished, threw off his mask of indifference and lashed in Papke's ear, "You will be almost ready to shake hands with the undertaker when this fight is over. For 10 rounds I'll cut you to pieces, and in the eleventh I'll hit you as hard you won't be able to get up."

A perusal of the details of that historic "tenure round" makes interesting reading. Here it is culled from my files: "Ketchel came up fresh, the corners of his mouth twisted in a half sneer. He tamed the fast weakening Papke by hitting on the jaw and then swung two lateral rights to the stomach. "They broke from a clinch and Ketchel swung a three-quarter length with a left hook landing

BROOKHART AND EDWARDS ARGUE PROHIBITION ACT

Two Senators Give Views Over Radio Last Night; N. J. Congressman Also Lends Voice Against Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Prohibition was "our greatest victory in the World War," and also was "frustrated on a war-crazed people," in the respective opinion of Senator Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, and Senator Edwards, Democrat of New Jersey.

The count for and against prohibition was even when Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the anti-saloon league, a statement assailing the view of Senator Brookhart.

The New Jersey Senator gave much of his time to an attack on the league, calling Mr. Wheeler "the arch traitor of American liberty, freedom of thought and action," and declaring that "not even the sacred ideals of our land are free from the poisonous taint of the league's filthy hands and breath."

She termed an "inexcusable lie" Mr. Wheeler's recent statement that prohibition has been a success and added that the league officials "are as weak and mental incapacity for grasping facts make him immune to convincing proof" that prohibition is a failure.

Mr. Wheeler replied that "like a lawyer whose case is bad, Senator Edwards abuses his opponents with names like 'arch traitor,' while at the recent wet meeting he refused to himself and his associates as 'caste perverts' who seek to fill the day grill with 2.75 per cent beer."

He said Senator Edwards' "unrestrained pledge to make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic ocean makes in his mind."

Senator Brookhart declared the universal ratification of the eighteenth amendment was proof that the majority of the people desired prohibition. He said enforcement was becoming more complete every day. The Iowa senator predicted that any rule on the subject in the Congress would be overwhelmingly in favor of the dries.

Persons who say that the country has impoverished by "prohibition" know they are not speaking the truth," Mrs. Norton declared. She said the most serious question now is the harm being done mentally and physically to boys and girls.

COLSE GOLF COURSE WINTER PARK, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Eva Hamilton, former state Senator, of Michigan, lost to Mrs. G. W. Hall in the finals of the Union State Bank trophy golf tournament here yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Hall won 1 up on the 18 hole.

EACH IN TURN "Dear me!" exclaimed Mark Twain. "I wish I had said that."
"Why don't you say, 'Mark'?" drawled Whitey Law. "Chontie did!"—Japan Advertiser.

Getting Up Nights Tells you there is danger ahead. A healthy bladder does not act at night.

J. H. Dorton, W. Graham, Va., says: "I had to get up seven or eight times at night for forty years. I thought it was my age. After taking Lithiated Buchu at short time, I am alright." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder as Ferguson Salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. ## Is Not Slipping MONTE CARLO, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen is ready to show any young fellow that she is not slipping.

It is reported that Helen Wills was attracted to the greatest crowd ever seen at tennis matches in Monte Carlo, Suzanne said yesterday after her victory.

"They bury me too soon. I am finished yet. I will show them at Nice."

Whether this remark was intended to convey the impression that Suzanne intends to recast from her announced determination not to play in the singles at Nice is not revealed.

She is expected to be in the other events for the March 7 tournament. Miss Wills is over 4 in the singles.

Royalty was divided against itself while Miss Wills yesterday was going down to defeat with Mrs. Archibald on their play in the doubles match against Mrs. Phyllis Satterthwaite and Miss Eileen Bennett of England.

Time Carlsson, of Sweden, was head in the amateur of Miss Wills when she secured placements, while the British Duke of Connaught was equally as ostentatious of his approval of the work of the English pair. When the match was over King Gustave called the American girl, tapping her on the shoulder,

EYES OF STATE ARE FOCUSED ON SUPREME COURT

High Court's Decision Awaited On Dog Track Legality And Operation Pari-Mutuel Betting System At Tampa

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—The eyes of the sporting world of Florida are on the State Supreme Court.

The highest tribunal of the commonwealth has been called upon to decide whether both horse and dog racing, or either of the two, are illegal.

The two cases involved injunctions issued in the lower circuits, and then superseded from the Supreme Court. In both instances, sports which had been stopped by the injunctions, proved to be only temporarily dormant as the action of the higher court came quickly.

The kennel club litigation sought to test the legality of dog racing in the state. That against the West Coast Jockey Club asked for light upon the subject of pari-mutuel betting. Both, however, will let the world know for all time if betting on horses by the pari-mutuel system is within the law, and if canines can be allowed to compete for speed records if there is the smallest semblance of betting.

The Tampa kennel was closed when the lower court granted an injunction restraining the promoters from operating the track because, it was alleged in the bill of complaint, betting was allowed. Then came the pari-mutuel question.

Attorneys for the kennel club and the jockey club, when the lower court decided to issue the injunctions, got out their automobiles and sped to Tallahassee to seek the aid of the Supreme Court in reopening both tracks. Their trips proved to be not without its fruitfulness. The higher tribunal promptly issued the desired super-sedeas, and the sport went on.

Both super-sedeas were predicated upon the filing of formal appeals. The justices of the court here desired to be given an opportunity to carefully and fully review the allegations and evidence in both cases, and, at the same time, they did not think that the sporting public of Florida should sit idly by and wait for their verdict, one of the judges explained in discussing the litigation.

Public Blamed For Share Crime Wave By Prison Inmates

The public is held by some inmates of the Kentucky State Reformatory to be in a measure responsible for the prevalence of crime.

A story in the Mutual Welfare League Courier, a magazine published by the institution, says that the unfriendly attitude of the public toward convicts released on expiration of their terms is a great factor in inducing the convict "to follow the path of crime, or the line of least resistance."

"If people would stop and consider the other fellow," the story declares, "give him a helping hand, a friendly smile, the population of corrective institutions would not be so great. There would be less crime and more respect for law and order."

ADVENTURES A of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

JUPE and the Twins followed the Truffle Hunter out of the back door, while Waldo, the pig, remained behind to do up the dishes.

There, right before their eyes was a high hill with an orchard of cherry trees on top.

"We shall have to climb this hill," said the Truffle Hunter, "and I warn you that it is very wobbly. I don't know whether you can stick on or not."

"I thought you never ate chicken any more," said Nick quickly. "Not since you lost Ambrose."

But what the Truffle Hunter was going to say to that will never be known, for right then things began to happen.

Without anyone noticing, Paddyfoot, the mouse, had jumped out of Jupe's pocket and run up one of the cherry trees. He had been racing busily from one bough to another, looking at every cherry hurry up the hill again. You're too late!" he squeaked. "That was old Blue Whiskers, the wizard, himself. He has stolen the blue cherry right from under your very noses!"

He sat on a branch of the Blue Cherry Tree and watched Jupe and the Twins climb.

"Sure we can," declared Nick. "We have magic shoes that they will take us anywhere."

"Except," said Jupe, "where the magic is stronger than the Fairy Queen's magic. You know how hard it was to get into Blue Whiskers' castle and out again."

"All you can do is to try," advised the Truffle Hunter, throwing his long nose over his shoulder and starting up the path. "Follow me!"

So Jupe and the Twins started after.

It was like trying to stand up on a rocking chair—climbing Cherry Bounce Hill. At every step the hill shook like a mould of gelatin turned out on a plate.

The higher they got the worse it shook, and by and by they had to hold onto the trees to keep from falling off altogether.

"It's time to begin," said the Truffle Hunter, sniffing here and there along the ground with his ever-so-long nose.

He kept humming a little song as he searched:

"Here a truffle—there a truffle. Everywhere a truffle, truffle!"

"Say," said Jupe suddenly. "Are we searching for truffles or chickens? It seems to me that it would be better if you'd drop your nose up in the air for a spell, or instead of down on the ground."

"My mistake, sir!" said the Truffle Hunter humbly. "But truffles are so delicious served with minced chicken or on—"

close, when suddenly he spied a large round blue cherry just above his head.

He tried to reach it, but lost his balance and dropped head over heels right down on the Truffle Hunter's long nose.

"Oh! Ouch! Murder!" shouted that gentleman with all his might, giving his nose a shake that landed poor Paddyfoot down at the foot of the hill again.

The little mouse tried his best to squeak out that the blue cherry was right over their heads and for them to climb up and get it. But his voice was so little and the hill was so high, and the birds were chattering loudly, so it was useless to try to make them hear.

A flock of birds had settled in the cherry trees and were gobbling up the cherries as fast as they could. Robins and blackbirds and one great big bluejay.

The bluejay had come alone from the north very swiftly and very quietly. He sat on a branch of the Blue Cherry Tree and watched Jupe and the Twins climb up.

He had seen Paddyfoot, the mouse, climb out of Jupe's pocket and scramble up toward the blue cherry. And he it was who gave the branch a shake and caused Paddyfoot to fall down on poor Truffle's nose.

He was a very queer bird, this big bluejay.

Suddenly he grabbed the blue cherry in his bill and flew away. At that minute Paddyfoot came

FEDERAL GRAND JURY IS PROBING 'BATH TUB' PARTY

Earl Carroll's Trip To Jury Room, Raises Question As To Whether He Is Immune From Law Violation Charge

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Earl Carroll's "bath tub party" is the subject of a federal grand jury. The producer appeared before the jury yesterday to explain what actually happened at an entertainment at his home Monday night, attended by the Countess of Cathcart, and many well known persons at which a nude girl is said to have bathed in a tub.

Carroll's trip to the jury room was before the grand jury. The producer appeared before the jury yesterday to explain what actually happened at an entertainment at his home Monday night, attended by the Countess of Cathcart, and many well known persons at which a nude girl is said to have bathed in a tub.

The prospect of immunity from prosecution for Carroll, even if the bathtub contained wine instead of ginger ale as claimed by the producer, is based on the fact that the act was done in a private home and that the person who testified before a grand jury in a liquor sale cannot be punished. The act also provides that a witness may not plead his constitutional right to refuse to testify on the grounds of incriminating himself.

Second Appearance Of Miss Talley Is Considered Success

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—News paper critics' mention of Marion Talley's second appearance as Gilda in "Rigoletto" was more pronounced though less extensive than on the occasion of her debut at the Metropolitan House in the same role.

Miss Talley's performance, the American and Herald-Tribune critics wrote, was a distinct let-down from that of her debut. More training and study are needed, they feel, if she is to take her place as a prima donna among the world's great artists.
