BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GOD IS LOVE: Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.

A leader is a person who successfully anticipates which way the people will follow him.

In the old days the poor scarcely got the crumbs from the table, but now they're getting a good loaf.

Wonder how hard these society women would try to give little Florida Vanderliik a new comfortable home, if she were not heinous to $1,000,000?

See where Hitler is going to make another radio address. That fellow is going to keep on shooting his mouth off until he puts his foot in it.

Wonder why some of these inflationists who would flood the world with money, haven't considered the idea of making rubber checks legal.

Alibi trials kills an American newspaper correspondent that the Georgia case is a right behind look at some of our boys.

Following an attempt to operate a boat here, the boat her son of facts and figures whether a want ad will return at Loxley Star.

The tremendous success of the election in the face of the great depression, the fact of the future of the AAA to do the same thing, reminds us of the witness who solemnly testified, "I hope God will take me dead if I don't tell the truth." Just then he suffered a light stroke.

The Cuban government has taken over the Cuban Telephone Co., valued at over $20,000,000 and owned by Americans.

The Orlando city council has received a letter warning it that the second coming of Christ will take place in the year of 1936 while the whole world is in the midst of its greatest catastrophe.

Sanford's flowing wells will come in mighty when none of the other agricultural sections of the country can grow anything because of the drought.

When President Roosevelt made his way across the State of North Dakota, the heart of the drought stricken, it rained for the first time in months.

The highest thing there was in governmental authority, he was held directly responsible for weather conditions, either too much rain or too little, whenever there was too long a dry spell, he either made it rain or else.

Good Work By The CCC

In spite of the heavy expense involved, one undertaking of the Federal government which has already proved its worth is the CCC or Civilian Conservation Corps. Though this one agency is costing approximately a half billion dollars a year, it has furnished employment to around 300,000 young men, and has provided neglected assistance to their families.

But the CCC is not by any means a charitable institution. It is worth to the public every dollar that is being spent on it. The prevention of forest fires alone is a saving which in the long run will more than pay for the entire undertaking.

According to Charles Lathrop Park, president of the American Tree Association, during the first six months of the year, the CCC used 409,913 man-days fighting forest fires. For the entire year, including the winter months when the fire hazard is light, we find 686,709 man-days were spent at this job.

Mr. Pack, who is in no way connected with the CCC, but is interested in the preservation of trees alone, reports that around 20,000 members of the CCC were kept busy this year on blight control, a disease which very quickly destroys trees if allowed to go unattended.

Listed as other important achievements of the CCC are: insect-pest control, mainly on 728,000 acres of timber land, rodent control work widened by almost 1,000,000 acres, the budding of 15,000 small rural bridges, the restocking of lakes and streams with 1,220,000 fish, and plant disease control on 2,757,000 acres.

More than 1,800 acres of raw land were converted into airplane landing fields; flood control work covered 2,506,000 cubic yards; 1,168 wells or springs were developed for watering livestock; 26,000 acres of lakes and parks have been improved; 44,000 useless range stock have been eliminated; and 6,939 acres of barren range land have been revegetated.

So it is fairly apparent that the boys have not been idle in the woods. They have been earning their keep. And at the same time they have been engaged in good outdoor exercise under proper supervision and a fine environment, turning them into stronger men and better citizens.

The Plight Of The Seminoles

The Miami Daily News which has recently been conducting an investigation into the conditions surrounding the Seminoles, or Miccosukee Indians in the Big Cypress Swamp, of Collier county, as well as the Creeks living in the Cow Creek area northeast of Lake Okechobee, reports that the Indians of both places are in desperate circumstances and that conditions there are deplorable.

The Administration headquarters for the Seminoles and Creeks, the Tampa Times, have been maintained at Dania, on the lower East Coast, more than 130 miles distant from the Seminole camps in the Big Cypress. The News says that the result of this isolation is that few of the Indians ever see the agent, are forced to get along without necessary medical or surgical treatment, and are unable to obtain government rations. Untrained in any modern methods and practices of hygiene and sanitation, disease is widespread among them, and a once numerous and flourishing people faces extinction.

The Miccosukees and the Cow Creek Indians separate and distinct, not even speaking the same dialect, although they are friendly toward each other. The former, however, are the only rightful bearers of the name Seminole.

The Big Cypress tribe, continuing to recognize Fort Myers as their trading center, and W. Stanley Hanson, of that city, as their only contact man with the whites, have made no progress toward abandoning the Low county city in favor of Dania. During a year hundreds of them, visiting Fort Myers according to custom of many years, camp in Mr. Hanson's domain, remaining for a day or so to a week or more. Mr. Hanson is the only white man who ever has completely won the confidence of the Seminoles, and has been formally adopted into the tribe and given a Seminole name.

"Publication of facts learned in its investigation is a real humanitarian service on the part of the News."

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

Thomas Wight celebrated his sixth birthday with a beautiful party to twenty-four of his little friends, Monday afternoon, at the home of his parents on Park Avenue. Among the many delightful games of the afternoon, the most enjoyable was the peanut hunt and pinning the tail on the donkey. LeClare Jones won the prize for finding the most peanuts and George Wilson was the winner of the donkey game, each receiving a lovely box of bonbons.

It was a pretty sight as the little folks formed for the march led by Thomas Wight and Rose LaVerne Hurt, the bright happy faces testifying to the good times they were having at Thomas Wight's party. To the strains of the violin played by Sarah Wight, accompanied by Mr. Wight at the piano, the children marched from the lawn into the house, circling the room several times before entering the dining room where two long kindergarten tables, dainty and attractive in pink and white were laden with good things.

In the center of each table pink verbenas and ferns formed a pretty centerpiece; at the places a pink favor on the little host's table the lovely white birthday cake, with pink and white candles. The favors were snapping rattles containing a little toy for each little guest. Grandfather Bonehills asked the blushing delicious ice cream, dainty cakes and candies were served and the very happiest of that happy bunch of youngsters was the dear little host himself, who received so many lovely gifts he just didn't know what to do with them all.

Using the fact that several birthdays were out of the city last Sunday, the proposed outing on the Wekiva River was postponed to another date, when all B. O.'s would be able to attend. The next regular meeting promises to be interesting as several non-touring on the organization will be discussed.

Mrs. S. E. Puleston and little daughters are again at home after spending several weeks at Daytona Beach.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lindquist Saturday night at Upsala. The surprise was also a variety shower in honor of their marriage which occurred a few weeks ago at Fort Meade. Many useful gifts were received. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Boral, and his wife, the nephew, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Lindquist and children, Mrs. A. Ericson and children, Mrs. and Mrs. J. E. Lindquist, Mrs. C. J. Stead, Mr. and Mrs. N. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Lindquist and baby, Miss Elly Stead, Miss Margaret Ericson, Carl Pearson, Axel Lindquist, and Aarua Lindquist.

WHERE COMMUNISM FAILS

BY NEIL CARROLLERS

Platt's Note: This is the last of a series of articles on the weaknesses of the capitalist system and the failure of communism as written by Neil Carrollers, professor of Economics and Director of the Bureau of Economic Administration at Johns Hopkins University.

One of the astonishing observations of Plutarch, writing 1,900 years ago about a man dead 800 years before, was that Lycurgus had in mind to abolish luxuries, but found it unnecessary to do so. Any rules because luxuries vanished with the first steps in communism. An American shop girl may stint herself at lunches for days to get silk stockings, but she gets the stockings. It seems likely that the Russian women doing the work of animals all over Russia would gladly exchange the opportunity to work for Lenin for the chance to buy the little luxuries for their babies that the poorest mother can buy in any capitalist country.

Industrialist, sugar, timber, cotton mean that the profit not is retained, with all the odd better destructions of our own system, but in a worse form. They are no longer personal distinctions based on the ability of the individual to produce more. They are distinctions based on the ability of the individual to produce more. They are distinctions based on the ability of the individual to produce more.

When communism is complete, it means we have a system in which private profit is a thing that is abolished, the whole product going to the whole people. But that very large part of profits that is the wages of superordinates is not abolished. And economic interest is not abolished. It can be said that the Communist forces have the right to the product of the system, but the wages of superordinates is not abolished.

parlor pinks who preach the collapse of the present order. These kid-glove dilettante critics of the present order enjoy a soft-handed existence made possible by capital. They inevitably display in their private affairs a keen sense of property rights and a most bourgeois devotion to the profit-motive. It is a pity that they cannot all be removed to some isolated Communist community where in the simple and unwarped example of all their comrades they should be forced to labor for the sake and for such rude living as it would provide.

Sanford Forum

Editor Sanford Herald: The Lord has given farmers common sense but they fail to use it when marketing their crops. The farmer and home owner have carried the greatest burden of any one in proportion to their means. They have done their full share during the world's depression by giving employment to labor, turning to the rail roads, kept the roads, and state, federal and municipal employees. They have given millions to the common houses in New York, Chicago and other large cities and have paid the highest rate of interest of any class of people all the way from 8 percent to grand averages.

If the farmers had money they could pay the present rate of interest but having to pay 10 percent for four months and in addition 8 percent making nearly 36 percent in interest for operating capital. They ship their produce to common carriers, have to guarantee freight rates and commission. They let the commission houses take their produce at the commission houses own price. Often the money is used, or kept for 30 days before the farmers can get their cash. How long can they endure this? Is it not time to ask for relief?

If the farmers refuse to ship, sell only F. O. B. here, buyers will come and they will soon be out of debt and have money to spend at home. Until the marketing system is changed the farmers will still be slaves. Our state should copy the Illinois, retail tax law, collect revenue from whiskey, gambling houses, lotteries, etc., and apply this to current expenses. Don't let the insurance these places pay they pay to the source it is now being paid. Who gets this protection money? Is it not time to find out?

I do trust we can bring about changes in our state affairs in the next election. I would like for the people to get closer to one another and work for the good of all. I would like to see the people elect the governor, pay his campaign expenses, one dollar from each vote will do this, and talk things over as a family. And I would like to have a man to lead us who will study the case and do for us as a leader should. The people should take more interest in our government, more in our agriculture, state senators, and members of the house, our judges and law enforcing officers. It is a right for a citizen to have the right to know what the government is doing. They are not to be kept in the dark. The people should know what the government is doing. They are not to be kept in the dark.

What is real estate worth in New York City? What will our homes and farms be worth to the state without someone to occupy them? Let's move the Home and Farm Loan Act, and get more people here, build more factories. Especially do we need a

1027 Guns Have Been Stolen In 29 States Since Jan. 1, 1932

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP)—The underworld has stolen 1027 guns—ten of them deadly machine guns—and 23,110 rounds of ammunition from National Guard armories in 29 states since Jan. 1, 1932.

William Stanley, acting attorney general, said yesterday. At the same time he revealed that the Department of Justice has asked the War Department to prevail upon state governors to end these thefts.

effect today is intended to close firearms channels to the criminal. "The underworld will have to get guns in order to operate," he said, adding that for that reason the Justice Department was particularly anxious to end the raids on guards' equipment loaned by the War Department.

The War Department intends to ask the governors in the states involved, and other state executives, to protect their weapons from the country's Dillingers and their like.

The law which goes into effect today imposes federal license taxes on concerns engaged in the manufacture and sale of sawed-off shotguns and machine guns.

Figures made public by Stanley showed that of the stolen guns 40 were automatic rifles, 28 were other high-powered rifles and 345 were pistols.

Two hundred and thirty of the stolen weapons and 1250 rounds of ammunition have been recovered but no machine guns.

Texas had 208 guns taken in nine robberies. Florida had two robberies.

SILVER COUP HELD AS FORM OF INFLATION

(Continued from Page 1) silver futures market was started in 1931, and became one of the world's leading speculative markets in the white metal. With speculation ended here, the principal world markets remaining well be London and Shanghai. Wall Street monetary authorities were reluctant to forecast the more distant implications of the silver nationalization. It was pointed out that it clearly gave the metal the most important legal monetary status it has enjoyed in any major western country in over half a century. The taking over of the domestic stocks of silver presumably represented a step toward active buying of the metal in world markets to increase the proportion of silver metallic reserves to 25 percent of total metal reserves held against currency, which was the objective set in the silver purchase legislation enacted by the last Congress.

Therefore, much higher world prices of silver might be anticipated, it was pointed out, if the Treasury actively pursues its purchasing program. Silverites generally hold that this would increase the purchasing power of China, although many economists disagree with this view.

The issue of silver certificates against the silver which the Treasury buys, some banking authorities thought, would have the effect chiefly of increasing bank reserves, inasmuch as the silver certificates given in payment to the holders of silver would presumably be quickly come to the banks in the form of deposits, and be used by them to increase their reserves with the federal reserve banks.

How much silver the Treasury will get in calling all the stocks remained problematical, owing to the lack of any official figures as to the amount existing. Licensed depositaries of the commodity exchange held about 45,000,000 ounces and some silver circles thought there might be in addition to that 100,000,000 ounces or more, making a total of about 150,000,000 ounces.

Issuing silver certificates against this metal to the extent of its cost, or 30.07 cents an ounce, the figure at which it is being nationalized, would mean an issue of currency of approximately $78,000,000, or scarcely enough to have any notable effect upon the country's monetary position. Total money in circulation currently is in excess of $5,300,000,000, and the Reserve system could issue billions more against the current gold reserves if member banks could use it.

such credits advanced. Where loans are obtained for the specific purpose of repairing property...

The great bulk of financial advances to be made under this plan will be in the form of "charge loans".

Another point I desire to emphasize is that the Federal Housing Administration expects to resort neither to registration nor ballyhoo.

Our only thought is that where properties are in need of repair and the owners are in position to repay the costs of such repairs...

We want only such loans made as shall be, first of all, of definite value to the property owners themselves.

These processes will stimulate demand for innumerable products of the factory, mine and field.

To sum it briefly, we of the Federal Housing Administration are hopeful that this program will set in motion forces that will be of timely and vital value to the nation...

ROOSEVELT RETURNS TO WHITE HOUSE

"In other words," he was frank enough to imply that he would repeal all laws, state or national, which regulate business—that a utility could henceforth charge any rate, reasonable or otherwise;

"My friends, the people of the United States will not restore that ancient order. There is no lack of confidence on the part of those businessmen, farmers and workers who clearly read the signs of times.

What Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau are doing is calling into the Treasury stocks of bullion silver which are traded in the commercial markets.

When gold was nationalized the government simultaneously adopted a policy of taking that metal out of circulation as money and storing it in huge treasury and mint vaults as a permanently-guarded support for U. S. money.
