

Symington Cites Need Of Having Best Aircraft

Whitney Outlines Future Plans Of Air Force At ARA Meet

ORLANDO, Oct. 15, (AP)—Merger of the Air Force Assn. and Air Reserve Assn. was discussed this morning at the ARA convention session here, but a vote on the proposal was delayed until tomorrow morning.

ORLANDO, Oct. 15, (AP)—Just having the most planes isn't enough, Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington said today.

"It would be disastrous to maintain obsolete planes equipped with ineffective weapons, even in numbers many times greater than the force of any other nation."

That is the way he summed it up in an address prepared for the convention of the Air Reserve Association.

"We must have the best," Symington said. "What makes it hard is this: the nature of the military airplane is such that generally, a combat plane is to a degree obsolete from the moment it goes into the air. Luckily for us, these conditions exist for other countries as well as ourselves."

"In airplane production policy, we face perhaps the most difficult problems involved in developing air strength. We cannot freeze a design, say to ourselves, 'this is it,' and turn out thousands of the models. Other nations are moving ahead hour by hour with new designs and we must not be left behind."

Symington said the regular Air Force has first priority in planning, the Air National Guard second and the Air Force Reserve third.

It was decided that the Guard should be trained and equipped to augment the regular Air Force immediately in any "mobilization day," the secretary said, adding: "The M-day force mission is plain. It must absorb the first blow against the nation and launch the counter-attack. The reserve's job is to step into the line and fill the gaps."

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Asst. Secretary for Air, outlined here yesterday Air Force plans for wedding regulars and reserves into a "balanced, smoothly running machine."

Speaking to Air Reserve Assn. members attending the three-day national convention, Whitney said the blueprint for fitting reservists into the Air Force structure is based upon "past experience, future contingencies and drawn within the framework of available funds."

"We think it is, above all, realistic," she added. Mentioning the "extremely limited" aircraft assignments to reservists in the past, Whitney said prospects are somewhat brighter. "Funds have been allocated to the Air Material Command to provide for the out-processing from storage of more than 400 tactical type aircraft."

Delivery of these planes to the Reserve, he stated, will assist in the training program.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15, (AP)—The gal with the most famous figure in the world tells how to save yours: Dance!

"I've found the best way to take off weight is to dance," said Betty Grable, "The Beautiful Blonde from Bashful Bend." A catch phrase that but the name of her current film, "Frosted Sugar," she ran it up.

"About 10 years ago, I started putting on a little weight in places, because I hadn't been dancing. So I took a few aerobically lessons and the poundage came off in no time."

Betty assured that you don't have to throw yourself around the living room if you're not the adagio type. Any kind of dancing will help.

"It's important to start dancing when you're young," she added. "I began taking four lessons a week when I was five. It helps you in more ways than just your figure. Dancing gives you grace. Because I started it early, I never went through the awkward age." Home, it's hard to imagine Grable in the awkward age, anyway.

As for dieting, Betty said she doesn't do much. "If I get a bit heavy, I can stop eating for two days and the weight goes down immediately."

However, if the Grable figure ever got out of hand, she'd just let it. "I'd just have to get fat, because I'm too lazy to do exercises," she said. "And if dieting made me unhappy or irritable, I'd say to heck with it."

There's no danger of such a catastrophe at this point. Her 112 pounds is spread admirably upon her 5 feet 3 1/2 inch frame. Here's how it all adds up, at latest count:

Bust—36 in.; waist—23 in.; hips—35 in.; thigh—19 1/2 in.; calf—11 in.; ankle—7 in.; shoe—4 1/2 in.

The girl who puts on Betty's Stanwyck (Sorry, Wrong Number) and Chita DeHavilland ("Snake Pit") into cinch Academy body makeup had an interesting commentary on the famed frame. "Everyone talks about Betty's figure," she said, "but no one mentions her feet. She's got perfect feet."

Now I'll bet that's something you've never noticed. Short takes . . . Director Anatole Litvak is popular with the ladies. He has directed Barbara Hutton this year . . . Dennis Morgan will get a chance to coar off some real opera as the singer in "Serenade."

Confusion dent: The two Taylors (Lis and Bob) in "Conspirator" . . . Five different books are being printed to help lullaby "Joan of Arc" . . . Don't feel sorry for Garry Moore. He won't have to make good the 30th he claims he mistakenly gave to Mrs. Betty Noyes on take it or leave it. P.S., she's from Inglewood, no, San Diego, Garry.

Capitol Review: "Night Has 1,000 Eyes" (PAR) gets off some good hocus-pocus, but bogs down with a sloppy finish.

Polk Was Killed By Reds, Athens Newspapers Say

Papers Assert Greek Government Will Announce Same Charge

By JUDSON O'QUINN

ATHENS, Oct. 15, (AP)—Athens newspapers said today the government will announce in Salonika Sunday that Greek Communists killed CBS correspondent George Polk.

The Ministry of Justice ordered legal action against four newspapers for violating a ban against publishing stories on the Polk case. The conservative newspaper Embros said Justice Minister George Melas had requested that publication of the story be held up pending official announcement by Melas and Constantine Rennis, the minister of public order.

However, three other Athens newspapers—Oi Karoi, the organ of Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris; Acropolis and Eleftheris—carried virtually the same account of the killing. One newspaper carried an artist's conception of the crime.

For nearly two months Greek police have held for questioning, without charges, an avowed leftist newsmen, Gregory Staktopoulos, and his mother. Embros reported recently that Staktopoulos met Polk before the CBS man's disappearance.

Polk's body, with a bullet hole in the head, was found floating in Salonika Bay last May 16. The 34-year-old Fort Worth, Tex. correspondent had been missing from his hotel room for a week. He was reported to have told his colleagues he intended to try to interview Communist Markos Vafiadis, the Greek Guerrilla leader. When Polk's body was found the hands and feet were bound tightly with coarse hemp rope. The muzzle of a gun apparently had been pressed close to the back of his skull when he was shot.

The case received wide attention. Maj. General William J. Donovan, former head of the United States Office of Strategic Services, came to Greece to investigate as special counsel in the case for the Overseas Writer's Committee.

For the past month publication of developments in the Polk investigation has been banned in Greece.

The chief editor of Embros said he told his story of the Polk case to Melas and that the latter did not deny it.

A-Energy Control

Waymack went on, "are various: 'One is the tendency for secrecy in government to creep, to cover ever more and more. Security' is a wonderful cloak."

"Another is the security-through-secrecy idea; it is so easy to grasp, it is so tempting as a retreat from complexity. 'Another is the fear psychosis to which timid public servants can react by 'playing it safe' always."

"Underlying all these reasons and others there is the want of public education as to what this problem is."

Waymack noted that Germany and Japan relied on secrecy to develop blitz warfare, "Better airplanes and better torpedoes and two 65,000-ton battleships with 18-inch guns."

The fact that their experience was unsuccessful "may be irrelevant or may not be," Waymack said. But he added that those examples are "Not comparable with what major reliance by America on secrecy in atomic energy could develop into."

"If the nation in effect comes to rely on secrecy above progress for security," Waymack declared, "it means that fewer and fewer will participate in progress."

"What becomes of the principle and reality of Democracy if the people as a whole know nothing as to where they stand security-wise, as to what is being planned and done and why, and even as to what it is that they must themselves be prepared to meet and deal with?"

Waymack said "fifth columnism" is a reality that cannot be dodged. While the Army was in charge, he said, some 600,000 people worked at one time or another on the A-bomb project and the commission itself now has some 60,000 workers "subject to very thorough background investigation."

The net of it is, Waymack continued, "That for the first time in our history we have in the files of government confidential dossiers about a significant number of our people, a number that grows daily. The personal histories on file have to do not with loyalty

What's the Word?

GIADUR is an unusual word in more than one respect. You seldom encounter it, for it means ladder in a special sense. Note that of its six letters, four consecutive ones are vowels. But there is a five-letter word that is well known to a long line of people, which also has four consecutive vowels. Two are u's, two are a's. What is the word?

FRANKLIN SQUARE is now a small park, all concrete walks and grass. If one-fourth of the grass was paved and one-third of the paving made lawn, the area of each would be equal. That being so, what proportion is now grass?

THIS PROBLEM IS ON THE SQUARE

THE old manor house at Winfall is being altered by the "city farmers" who bought it. One of the glories of the manor house is its large old-fashioned leaded-pane windows in the conservatory. The alterations require one of these square windows to be made rectangular. The contractor is going to use the square window to make the new rectangular window.

You can determine just how he is going to do this, by cutting the square into two equal portions which can be fitted together to form the rectangle at left. Get out your scissors and try it.

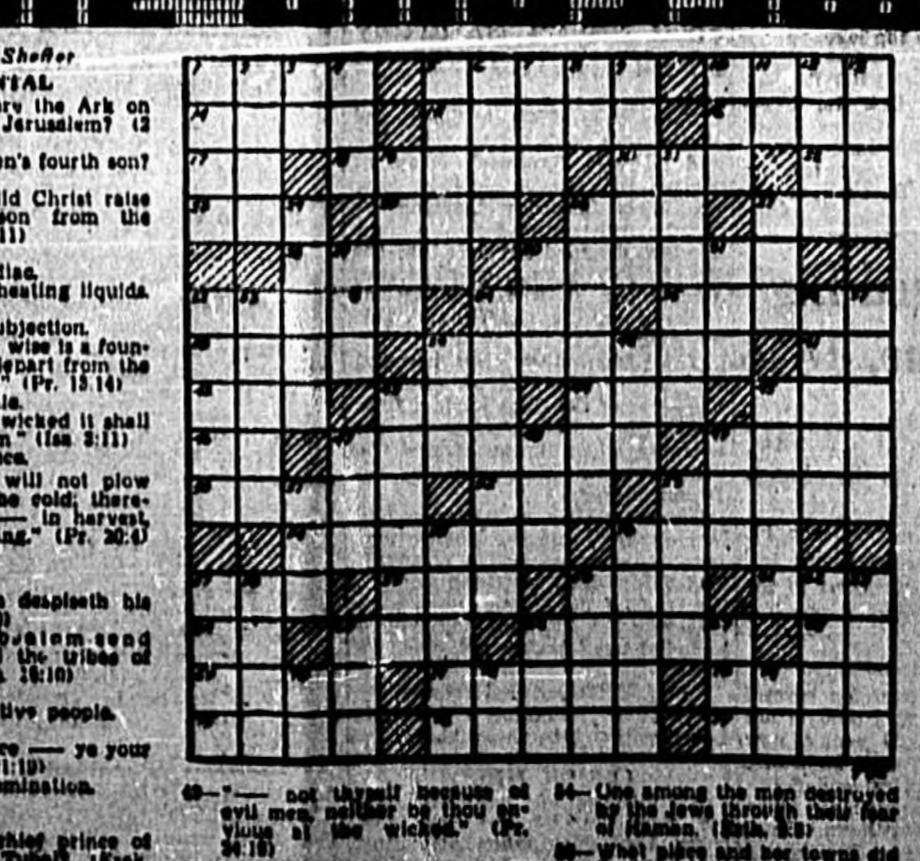

MAGIC YOU CAN DO

PLACE a handkerchief in your right pocket and instantly pull out the pocket to show that and your hand are empty. Then, produce the handkerchief from the left pocket. Prepare beforehand to do this by placing a duplicate in the left pocket. [The handkerchiefs used should be of distinctive design, to lessen suspicion of duplication.] The first handkerchief is hidden in the right pocket by wedging it up under the watch-pocket or belt.

YOU'RE THE DETECTIVE

THE burglar alarm went off at the axis plant late Saturday night. Immediately a radio-equipped patrol car rushed to the building. Officer Muldoon leaped from it and, noting a light burning in what apparently was the office, went cautiously toward it with his gun in hand. His partner in the car stood guard at the door. In the office, Muldoon found William Brown, head bookkeeper, sprawled on the floor, his mouth gagged, his hands and feet tied. He appeared unconscious, and after a quick look around, to assure himself no gunman was lurking there, Muldoon pulled off the gag, unbuttoned Brown's double-breasted suit-coat, and leaned over and listened to his heart. He had reassured himself that Brown was not dying, when Detective-Lieutenant Casey and Sergeant Queen arrived. The three heard Brown's story: "I was working late, to close the books for this accounting-period, and I had the safe open. I heard the door rattle and two men rushed in. While one stuck a pistol in my side, the other tied me up and gagged me. Then the first emptied the cash box in the safe while the other went over me and took my wallet, watch, fountain pen and ring. As they left, one of them hit me over the head with something. That's all I remember till this officer arrived."

WHAT DO YOU SEE WRONG?

WHAT RELATION?

- 1. The son of my father's brother married the only grand-daughter of Peter's maternal grandmother. What relation is he to Peter? What relation is Peter to me?
2. What relation to me is the mother-in-law of my wife's brother's wife?

CRYPTOGRAM

IN a rolling-mill, two rollers are placed as indicated above. That is, the position of one is fixed at the center, while the other revolves completely around the first. Both are the same size, and therefore their circumferences are equal also. While the second roller is making its circuit of the first roller, how many revolutions would the first roller make?

NOW that spring's here, the children should be outdoors every sunny hour enjoying healthful exercise. A bouncing ball is a simple means of enjoyment to almost any child, particularly if he has a building against which to bounce it. There is an interesting bouncing-ball game that you can easily construct, if there is a convenient well beside pavement in a safe place for children to play. Construct a set of any available lumber, a backboard, paint it white, divide it into evenly spaced sections, and give these sections numerical values as indicated in the drawing above. Make the board twice as wide as its depth, 6 by 8 being good dimensions for it.

Amix the board firmly to the wall, proportioning the height at which you place it to the width of the pavement below. Wide planking can be made to serve as a pavement of "court." The game is played by bouncing the ball upon the pavement within a circumscribed area, so that it hits the board. The player's score is in accordance with which space on the board the ball hits. If he misses it, 20 is deducted from his score. Adults can enjoy this game, which also can be played with an even patch of lawn or clay as the bouncing base. It's ideal for week-end parties, for any one who can learn it quickly.

Try Your Balance

STAND upon your toes with your feet six inches apart. Wed a medium sheet of paper into a ball and place it by your left heel. Now bend your knees and put your right hand at the back of the right leg and then in front of the left leg, continuing this action until you succeed in picking up the ball of paper. After you've done it, you'll enjoy watching your friends trying to succeed in doing it their first try.

HARD LUCK SHIP OF THE YEAR, the British freighter Telecaster hits to port on the sands off Ferry Point, Bermuda. The ship was battered so badly by the September Caribbean hurricane that she had to be abandoned. Later, she was towed into a mooring for repairs. Workmen had no sooner started to patch up the vessel when another hurricane broke her loose from her moorings and drove her on the beach. (International)

Hints To Housewives

One fall vegetable offering high nutritive value for its cost is the sweet potato. At this time of the year sweet potatoes deserve a prominent place in budget meals. Marketing specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture say, because at this season they usually come from the harvest fields faster than they can be sold fresh or canned and stored for the winter.

Freshly harvested sweet potatoes are fine in flavor and high in food value. The time for thrifty housewives to make the most of them is in the next few weeks when they are at peak of supply. Later, they will be less plentiful and probably higher in price. For storing, sweet potatoes should be "cured" - that is, held at the right temperature and humidity to bring out their starch, help it set and firm, and make its skin firm.

Sweet potatoes small to medium in size and even in shape are preferred. Three types generally are on markets - the moist or juicy type, semi-moist, and the dry type. The moist reddish ones, often called yams, are popular in both North and South. Dry types of pale color are popular only in the North.

Sweet potatoes should be good when a person's diet purchase is to be at their best. Like bananas, they should never be put in the refrigerator. They are so sensitive to cold that they may turn dark and become less appetizing if they are kept at a temperature as low as 45 degrees Fahrenheit. Sweet potatoes purchased in the month and best can be kept in the kitchen at ordinary room temperature.

Am beans generally do not realize what a nutritional prize package the sweet potato is. They are rich in a host of vitamins, including vitamin A. In addition, the potatoes offer vitamins B1, B2, C, and E, and by energy or fuel value because of their starch and sugar.

If clover has been growing in a pasture for several years, it is advisable to check the pH of the soil and apply limestone if necessary, Florida Agricultural Experiment Station says.

Farmers keep giving electricity more work to do. Last year, rural consumers, are REA-financed power lines, used an average of 125 KWH monthly as compared to 114 KWH monthly the year before.

Pineapples derive much of their nourishment from the air.

BIBLE VERSE TODAY

Many bad boys have become good men through the power of love. Wayward girls have been won to decency through the never-failing power of love.—1 Cor. 13:8

As if to prove his determination to bring prices down, or to make votes where he needs them most,
President Truman's Secretary of Labor has just ordered an increase in minimum wages for all workers on government contracts in the textile industry from 40 to 87 cent an hour. And this is supposed to reduce the price of shirts. And maybe carry North Carolina.

Congress will be asked to authorize another eight billion dollar program, or a billion dollars more than the 80th Congress. But what's a billion dollars more or less among friends? You may get some idea when you recall that during the decade of the 1920s total federal expenditures, not just foreign aid, averaged only four billion a year.

From someone else, not us, mind
you, comes the declaration that
"war is not the worst of all possible evils." It is had enough, to be sure, and atomic war will be the worst of all wars, but the Most Rev. Cyril Foster Barbett, Archbishop of York, is not one to accept peace at any price. "After degradation of man, loss of human rights and the trampling under foot of all that is righteous and true is an evil worse than war," he insists.
And don't you agree?

The value of a scenic attraction of the quality of Silver Springs to a community is attested by the fact that between 40,000 and 60,000 visitors MONTHLY go to Silver Springs to see this nature's wonderland. More than 400,000 visitors this year will pay to ride
the boats at Silver Springs, more than 300,000 more will come without taking the ride. They evidently don't know what they're missing.
But think what 700,000 visitors a year would mean to Sanford!

Ross Allen of Silver Springs,
America's foremost snake authority, having seen the item in The Herald about G. B. Elliott's baby snake with the gold band around its neck, writes us that it is a Ring-Necked Snake, better known as a
"Diadophis punctatus punctatus Linnacus." We will take his word for it. He says the snake is harmless and seldom grows over 16 inches long. It is a burrowing snake and feeds on small toads, salamanders, earthworms and insects. It lays eggs and when the babies are born they are only about five inches long.

The John H. Perry newspapers, conducting a presidential poll in 20
Florida counties, reveals that Dewey is leading with 43 percent, Truman is second with 30, Thurmond third with 24, and Wallace fourth with 3.
The Gallup Poll is not quite so generous to Mr.
Dewey giving him only 32 percent and Truman 33 percent, Thurmond has 19 percent, but admittedly the Gallup Poll was taken before Thurmond was assured of a place on the ticket. We have a hunch that Gallup, as well as other poll takers,
are going to be surprised at Thurmond's vote.

It wasn't Governor Thurmond
who bolted the Democratic Party, Governor Wright hastens to assure his audience in Pensacola, but President Truman and the party bosses of the big cities who were so anxious to get the negro votes in Harlem that they deserted the time honored states rights principles of the Democratic Party. In the long course of human events, it will make little difference who betrayed whom, or who did it first,
the great cataclysmic development of our times is that the bolt struck them and the South on separate

Struggling Industry

While attention to British industry is largely focused on those industries which have been nationalized in the Labor government program, a dramatic effort is being made by the steel industry to forestall nationalization. The Labor party has definitely marked the steel industry as the next important one to be transferred to government ownership, but is not yet ready to take the steps. The only hope for survival of private ownership in steel appears to lie in the possibility of making it, in the breathing space allowed, obviously more efficient and more attractive to the workers than nationalized industries.

Writing to the New York Times, Benjamin Welles describes the steps which have been taken in the Newton Chambers plant near Sheffield. Training programs for youth, improvements in machines and methods, and more pleasant working conditions have been brought into the factory.

A notable point is that while the stimulus for the program has been provided by the imminence of nationalization, many of the ideas have been borrowed from American industry. The kind of progress now being made in the steel plant near Sheffield has long been familiar to American workers.

Hiram Bingham Highway

A city on an Andes peak was unknown for centuries
because other and taller mountains hid it. This was Machu Picchu in Peru, found in 1911 by Hiram Bingham, a versatile man who was at various times explorer, professor of Latin American history at Yale, and governor and senator from Connecticut. He went down in the Roosevelt landslide of 1932, and now, like many other out-of-office politicians who have experienced the glamor of public life, is living in Washington.

The lost Peruvian city, with its marvelous citadel, now can be reached by travellers to Peru who want to see Inca civilization at its highest. A road there has just been built, and by inspiration of the Peruvian government has been named for Hiram Bingham. This graceful gesture should contribute to the good neighborliness between Latin America and the United States.

Presidential Facts

Florida has eight electoral votes, corresponding to the number of its Senators and Representatives in Congress.
Florida gained one electoral vote in the census of 1940, giving it a sixth Representative. New York has the largest electoral vote, 47, Pennsylvania next with 35. The total electoral vote is 531, with 266 required to elect.

The President's salary is $75,000. Next on the payroll is chief justice, $20,500. Other justices get $20,000.
In the event of the death, removal or disability of the President, the Constitution provides that the Vice President shall succeed to the office. In case there is no Vice President or of his removal, the succession goes in turn to the Speaker of the House, the Secretary of State, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War, Attorney General, Postmaster
General, Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of the Interior, Secretary of Commerce, Secretary of Labor.

In the event of the death of a nominee for President prior to the election no provision is made for another nominee. It would be a matter of party decision. While this has never happened the procedure would be for the national committee of the party to name a substitute for the head of the party ticket—the same in the case of a nominee for Vice President. In event of the death of a President-elect prior to inauguration, the Vice President-elect would become President.—Tampa Tribune.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Palestine problem presents
many grave difficulties but there is one well defined point from which the United Nations can start to figure:

The new state of Israel is what
Dr. Ralph Bunche, interim Palestine mediator, aptly describes as "a vibrant reality." It is "a going concern" and you can bet you last dollar that the Jewish people will maintain it at all hazards.

Dr. Bunche has reported to the U. N. in Paris that Israel can't be destroyed by any means other than force of sufficient strength to completely crush the Jews in Palestine. Where is such a force coming from? The Jews are determined fighters who have shown themselves able to cope with any Arab armies (also excellent and brave soldiers) likely to be sent against them. The only other source of strength would be the United Nations, and the peace organization isn't going to destroy anybody. Its business isn't to destroy but to preserve.

This doesn't mean that the Israeli government isn't prepared to negotiate over the final boundaries. As a matter of fact Israel is anxious to acquire the Negev area originally awarded it by the U. N. assembly in 1947 but assigned to the Arab nation of trans-Jordan in the revised plan prepared by mediator Count Folke Bernadotte just before he was assassinated.

Undoubtedly Israel will negotiate, but the immutable circumstance to remember is that the Jewish national home has come to stay.

I've been watching the developments in Palestine ever since the Balfour Declaration of 1917 held out promise of a national home.
I've encountered the determination of Jewish people in many countries
to make this dream of the centuries come true—have heard the young Jewish folk in a great displaced persons' camp in war-torn Germany clamor to be sent to the Holy Land—have seen the stalwart pioneers of the new Israel at work in Palestine itself. And I have no doubt that Israel will live and prosper.

So the task of the U. N. revolves about the acceptance of a determination which will not be denied.
Naturally it involves not only the establishment of boundaries for Israel but for a new Arab state, since the Arabs also are entitled to their place in the Palestine sun,
and their rights must be safeguarded. And along with this division of land between the two peoples the U. N. must provide guarantees for the maintenance of peace.

One of the most interesting-and difficult—of the problems is that relating to the disposal of the Negev. "Negev" means "The South" and it comprises the southern portion of Palestine, much of which is dry and sandy. I have been there and must say it struck me as being an inhospitable zone.

However, appearances sometimes are deceptive, for the Negev is not without its virtues.

This area has an estimated population of 60,000 to 80,000, most of whom are Arab nomads. However, there are a few towns and some agriculture is carried on by means of irrigation. Sheep and goats also are raised. The Jewish Agency has maintained agricultural experimental stations in the Negev, and there are hopes of developing the farming. It also has been demonstrated that potash
can be taken from the Dead Sea.
And it is said that there is petroleum beneath those hot sands.

These things explain why the Jews want to try their luck in the Negev and are asking that the U. N. Assembly's original award
be made good.

NAZI MEDICINE TO AID DE-

shouses, are to be used by IRO for pital equipment.

Guidance For The Adolescent

Adolescence is a very trying stage for mothers and fathers, but even more trying for the young people who are going through it.

Teen age children require affectionate and understanding parents. And both parents and children need the advice of a physician.

Your children require medical attention during this period of rapid growth to make certain they are developing as they should . . . and getting enough rest. You will benefit from the physician's advice on how to guide your children in this period with the least wear

"STATES RIGHTS" They're Your Rights!
and you can help protect them...
States Rights Strategy Revealed:
Not Mere Protest—Can Become
Minority Leaders in Congress
Now is the time to Fight:
1- the invasion of States' Rights proposed by Truman, Dewey, Wallace and their fellow-travelers.
2- the vicious "so-called Civil Rights" program that will create a police-state in free America.
3- those who are trying to centralize all power in Washington and thus do away with local, self-rule by the people.
4- for your individual liberties and to return the government to the people and to the States.
ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.—States Rights Democratic Chairman Charles E. Shepperd today revealed party campaign strategy and pointed out the overwhelming anti-Truman vote predicted in traditionally Democratic Florida would effect far more than a protest.
Shepperd stated: "In the November election the Thurmond-Wright ticket will accomplish the following:
"Thurmond-Wright can easily receive 100 electoral votes or more. Should no candidate receive a majority of electoral votes this will throw the election in the National House of Representatives and Senate. Should this happen, Thurmond and Wright will have an excellent chance of being the next President and Vice-President of the United States.
"Should Dewey run away with Truman outside the South — and Thurmond-Wright receive 100 or more electoral votes — then the States' Rights Democratic candidates will receive more electoral votes than Truman. This will make Senators and Congressmen from States' Rights states the minority party in the Congress and will give them complete control of all minority party committee assignments."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18. (AP)—This week Veronica Lake's mother was making news by suing her daughter for support. Let's talk to another movie mother and find out what the job is really like.

"The biggest problem for a screen mother," Mrs. O'Brien remarked, "is to keep the child from being spoiled. People think, 'poor little girl, she works so hard,' and they tend to spoil her."

"However, the studio work itself is discipline and that helps. Like all children, Margaret may argue but she has never said 'I won't do it' or 'I don't know what I'd do if she did.'"

Mrs. O'Brien was keeping a vigil outside her daughter's school room on "The Secret Garden" set. She is always nearby her famous charge.

"A movie mother doesn't get any time to herself or have much of a life outside her child," she said. "A few times I have left Margaret with some one else over night and I can tell the difference in her the next day."

Mrs. O'Brien has another limitation. Recently she was mentioned in the columns as having a suit-on. She had to make the choice of marriage or her daughter's career. Margaret won out.

"Being a movie mother is a 24-hour job," she concluded. "Between pictures, the O'Briens have vacationed in Europe, Cuba, Mexico and Canada—and with reason. 'I try to get away after a picture,'" says Mrs. O'Brien. "It is more restful than staying in town where the studio can reach you."

A mountain of fan mail comes to Mrs. O'Brien as well as the talented but most frequent question: does Margaret get to play with other girls? "What about her school?" Answers.

She plays with her standing on the set, and has other children in at her home. However, she continues to become impatient with playing because she'd like to be rehearsing a movie scene with her dolls.

Margaret didn't start school until she was eight, because her mother thought she should do one thing at a time. She made the work up rapidly and now is in the seventh grade.

Another frequent question is "how can I get my child into the movies?" Ah, that is the $64 question.

Barbecued Spareribs Make Delicious Meal

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor. Want an inexpensive meat dish for a supper party that men will enjoy? Serve Barbecued Spareribs! They are easier to prepare than you might imagine. The secret is the sauce and the oven does the rest.

Tomato (in one form or another), onion, vinegar or lemon juice, sugar, salt and pepper, garlic, bay leaf, dry mustard, are some of the main ingredients for the sauce, and many good cooks always add a little Tabasco.

Ingredients: 3 pounds fresh pork spareribs, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 medium-sized onion, 1 eight-ounce can tomato sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco, 1 bay leaf, 1 clove garlic, 1 cup water.

Method: Have butcher crack the bones in five-inch pieces to cut off of hand. Place in shallow pan and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook in hot (150 degrees F.) oven for 30 minutes. While the ribs are cooking combine the remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Bring to a boil; spoon sauce over ribs; reduce temperature to moderate (350 degrees F.) and roast one hour. Baste twice during last hour of roasting. Serve with remaining sauce. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Another interesting recipe for barbecued spareribs comes from a recently published cook book, "A Date with a Dish," by Freda De Knight (Hermitage Press). Her compilation of recipes is a suffering what her physician calls "a chronic condition," has been in the hospital nine days.

carefully collected one. One of her cook book says the notes that tell about the recipes and where they came from. Here is Mrs. Knight's special way of fixing spareribs.

BARBECUED SPARE RIBS. Ingredients: 6 pounds lean spare ribs, paprika (to taste), 3 pods garlic, chopped fine, juice of 1 lemon, salt and pepper (to taste), hickory salt (to taste), several bay leaves.

SAUCE. Ingredients: 3 medium onions (cut fine), bacon fat, 1 tablespoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon thyme or sage, 2 tablespoons cumin seed (optional), 1 can tomato paste, 2 tablespoons sugar (optional), 1 cup celery (chopped), 1/2 cup chili sauce, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons chili powder, several pods red pepper, 1 cup vinegar.

Method: Cut ribs in small pieces and place in a flat glass or enamel casserole. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, paprika and hickory salt. Add chopped garlic, bay leaves, lemon juice. Let stand several hours, or overnight if desired. Prepared sauce as follows: Sauté onions and celery in bacon fat. When well done but not brown, add chili sauce, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, thyme or sage, chili powder, cumin seed, red pepper, tomato paste, vinegar and sugar. Marinate ribs in sauce on both sides. Cook under broiler, turning and basting every 15 minutes until well done and very brown. Oven temperature, 300 degrees F. Approximate cooking time for 6 pounds of ribs is 2 hours. Keep ribs in oven to stay warm until ready to serve. Serves 6 to 8.

And the Berlin blockade crisis also is on the Security Council agenda for Tuesday. A C-54 American plane on the supply run to the city the Russians blockaded in June crashed, killing three Americans. Another transport was shaken severely by a ground explosion near Berlin two minutes after it took off. The pilot said it was not Russian anti-aircraft fire, as he first suspected, which shook his plane. It might have been dynamite.

In Berlin the Russians imposed sharp traffic inspection at occupation sector borders within the city to tighten their blockade of Western Berlin.
Soviet-controlled police were stopping all German vehicles which sought to proceed from the Russian sector into the American, British or French sectors and searching them for food.
The intra-city blockade followed sharp controls instituted over the week-end on approaches to the city. The Communists claimed these were necessary to halt an "illicit" flow of food and raw materials to Western Soviet occupation zone.

Legion Meet

12:31 P. M. Two big wartime Navy hangars converted into a mammoth convention hall was filled with delegates, banners and music from the championship band of Harwood Post No. 5, Joliet, Ill.
Mr. Truman, an artillery captain in World War I, was here as chairman of the Missouri delegation and as commander-in-chief. His address, to be given at 2 P. M., was expected to deal with the international situation and to discuss national defense.
The President arrived at 9:50 A. M. aboard his plane. The Independence, Missouri, Squadron of Jet fighters and B-29s roared overhead, and a 21-gun salute rang out, and the formalities of greetings included a review of troops.
He rode slowly along a 20-mile route from the airport, through downtown Miami and Miami Beach to an oceanfront hotel. Huge throngs lined the route and gave him an ovation. The Navy's precision fliers, the Blue Angels, performed snapp rolls in unison over Biscayne Bay and a big six-engine B-29 bomber shook windows as it lumbered just above rooftop level.
Mr. Truman and the long procession with him stopped briefly in front of the home of Howard Hamilton, a disabled veteran, while the Chief Executive bought a Community Chest red feather from Hamilton's daughter, Linda.
There was a constant procession of parades, military and legionnaire, in downtown sections during the morning, but the scene shifted then to the waterfront convention site.

However, in tribute to Buckingham Smith's breadth of vision and scholarly background, which included a Harvard education and much meticulous study of Florida history, Col. Matthews explains that information has always been scanty as far as the whole program is concerned.
Furthermore, said the Colonel, the emphasis has always been on drainage rather than the whole problem of water control. Flood and drought. Thus it is easy to understand how such a low estimate could be made.
"Any observer, no matter how scientific would have had difficulty in seeing a drought problem of that time, as he gazed at the awesome sheets of water in the area one hundred years ago," the Colonel asserted.
Although he got no results, the steady progress of industry, agriculture, science and business development in the nation and Central and South Florida has fully vindicated the report Buckingham made on Public Law 243, passed in 1936.

Florida, and Southern congressmen and senators who felt that a new state, composed of East and South Florida would come with the new development, the bill failed to pass.
The project was caught in the middle of the slavery controversy, the Missouri state, with Southern congressmen favoring the addition of another slave state.
It failed, they say, because of the opposition of Senator David Reynolds of Florida, who with many others do not believe the young state was financially able to undertake the gigantic drainage project.
Col. Matthews anticipates the drainage project a century ago and the drainage project a century ago.

The St. Lucie amendment requires that acts passed by the legislature governing the operation of the two county tax offices must be ratified by voters in a local referendum election.
Ratification of the amendments would mean that property tax assessments for Broward county, the city of Fort Lauderdale or other governmental subdivisions which join in the plan would be made by the same officer. The taxpayer then would pay all his taxes at the same office.
That would be the same situation in Pinellas county—with St. Petersburg, Clearwater, Largo and several other communities all served by the same tax assessing and collecting officers.
In Volusia it would consolidate the assessing and collecting functions of Daytona Beach, DeLand, New Smyrna Beach and other cities.
Another consolidation amendment proposed by the legislature to merge the entire governments of the city of Miami and Dade county into a single new county of Miami will not be on the ballot. It was defeated in a preliminary Dade county referendum last spring.
