5,000 Persons Jam Station In Atlanta To Get Glimpse Of C. S. Carnes On Return

Curious Throng Is Disappointed As Police Smuggle Prisoner Through Baggage Car And Hurry Him To Jail

ATLANTA, Oct. 5.—(INS)—Five thousand people jammed the old Union Station here today as C. S. Carnes, absconding treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, was returned to Atlanta from Winnipeg where he was captured after his disappearance Aug. 15.

A party of "Carnes" was expected to arrive when Carnes and his guards failed to get to the station. The officers, however, had managed to elude the milling crowd by leaving the train through the baggage car.

The fugitive churchman was rushed to the Fulton County Jail where another crowd of about 1,000 had gathered. Once inside the jail Carnes collapsed.

A number of his legal staff which Carnes hired by telegraph from Winnipeg shortly after his arrest there, boarded the train and after a brief conference with the accused man advised him to make no statement.

Young Samuel Carnes, eldest son of the man who had fled from his father, was a pathetic scene. "That was the only word he spoke," Carnes' 11-year-old son was found on his person when caught in Winnipeg, was turned over to the police for safekeeping.

At least 400 women were made up on the crowd at the railroad station and jail. Many of the women were seen to get a glimpse of the man who had fled from his father, and who he asserts he will fight in the law courts.

That was all that was heard of the return of Carnes in the station and jail. Many of the women were seen to get a glimpse of the man who had fled from his father, and who he asserts he will fight in the law courts.

A decision of Dr. Eckener, provide warmer quarters for the crowd followed the latest trial flight of 34 hours when a number of the members developed a cold.

The departure Tuesday will depend upon the weather. Dr. Eckener is confident the great ship could ride through severe storms, but he does not want to take any chances while carrying passengers.

One other passenger will be Karl H. Von Wigrand, correspondent of the New York American and other Hearst papers.

Lions Urge Safety Measure For Pupils Patronizing Busses

Meeting in weekly session yesterday at the Yalder Hotel, members of the Lions Club, after considerable discussion decided to urge the school authorities to local bus lines to take steps to insure the safety of school children.

The Lions estimated that by adopting the proposed safeguard, the safety of school children would be substantially increased. In substantiation of their claim, the club members pointed to several accidents which they said would not have occurred if the busses had been made to stop on the school grounds.

With the selection of an entertainment committee composed of Rev. Frank M. Marter, Dr. H. W. Taylor, and Max Stewart to be members of next Thursday night on the day for staging of a fund-raising program and also for observing the third anniversary of the local group.

Taylor was declared winner with the following message: "Tell all Lions to be on hand Thursday. The club enjoyed several meetings by Mrs. W. E. Stone and a piano recital by George Brubaker."

SMITH'S PLANS FOR HIS INVASION OF SOUTH HAVE ENCOUNTERED TROUBLES

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Governor Smith's plans to invade the southern border states, which have been occupying most of his attention since his return from the West, have provided some knotty problems in the matter of arrangements, and announcement of the definite itinerary may be delayed a few days.

The Governor, however, plans to leave Albany early next week. As heretofore indicated his itinerary will probably embrace Raleigh, N. C., Chattanooga, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., Seale, Mo., and Chicago. Another engagement in Indiana or Ohio is still uncertain with the possibility that he will not speak in either state. The tentative program is still subject to change.

For strategical reasons, the Democratic schedule makers are keeping their plans strictly to themselves until every date is fixed and definite. This they say has been necessitated by past experiences where considerable difficulty has been met in the matter of making such arrangements, once it became known that Governor Smith was considering a certain location on certain date. They do not wish to charge the Republican with strategical tactics, but they so privately

Hagen supposed and expected to win the title today in the great match which he played with Diegel yesterday through 35 holes of a 36-hole match.

Hagen was very much the underdog in the eyes of the gallery of more than 100 that trailed around the hole. He finally got away and Diegel was able to get on and to the green today. The "Yankee" triumphed.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

ATLANTA, Oct. 4. (INS)—With the V. M. I. game just around the corner the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech has been dealt a severe blow by an attack by old man illness on Vance Harve, who was slated to fill a tackle position and if it is necessary to scrum the team he might be placed on the bench for the entire season.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 4. (INS)—With word received at the Vanderbilt camp that College is on the way south today with a player defensive team, every one on the Commodore campus is in a fever of excitement. Vandy will be considerably more of a football machine than it was last Saturday against Chattanooga, when play was raged.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 4. (INS)—Georgia's Bulldogs continue to show improved team play as they prepare for the take-off game against Mercer here Saturday. From the way the varsity has toughed the job in scrimmages, Mercer is going to have a test of futility to face.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 4. (INS)—The Navy lineup is being whipped into shape for the Boston College game on Saturday. In scrimmages yesterday Cliff played full, with Lloyd and Harold Hauer at the halves and Cannon calling the signals.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4. (INS)—Possibility that Captain Paul Scull may be unable to play against Franklin and Marshall on Saturday looked today when it was learned he is troubled with an old knee injury.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 4. (INS)—General practice in the order of the day at Dartmouth. The varsity team and other squads were given a black board signal drill yesterday and there were put through a workout of the changing machines and a punting drill.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 4. (INS)—Kurtis Rockne today was calling out his material in the process of picking a squad to hurl against the Wisconsin eleven at Madison Saturday. The team will leave here tomorrow. No announcements were made of the personnel.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4. (INS)—A well-organized aerial attack enabled the Yale varsity to defeat the second team, 14 to 0, in 11 minutes of scrimmage. Haylen Ellis and Johnny Garvey accounted for the two varsity touchdowns.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 4. (INS)—The Harvard varsity scored four touchdowns against the freshman team in the first real scrimmage. Mason and Grant bore the brunt of the varsity attack, the former scoring after an 80-yard run.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (INS)—Coach Crowley of Columbia is laying great emphasis in practice on development of a passing game. Hank Krumpf, Jimmy Sheridan and others are being drilled in the coached department of the game.

TRACA, N. Y., Oct. 4. (INS)—Allen has replaced Beck in the Cornell varsity backfield. The speed converted itself with signal skill, punting and punting because of the unusually warm weather.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 4. (INS)—Cagle, Murrell and Nave are carrying the army attack in scrimmages between the varsity and scrub (scrubs). Nave got 2 touchdowns on a 60-yard run yesterday.

THE WELCOME GUEST!

Argentine Polo Team Rules As Favorite

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (INS)—Argentine's hard riding polo team will rule a slight favorite over the United States four when the two combinations line up next Saturday afternoon to settle the most question of which is the "champion of the Americas." Both teams have won one game and Saturday's contest will decide the issue.

The defeat of the United States team yesterday afternoon at International field, Meadow Brook, marked the first time Captain "Tommy" Hitchcock had been on the losing side in an international polo contest. Hitchcock, a veteran polo star at 28, did all he could to hold off the rough riders from the Argentine but they were not to be denied.

They beat the United States Aggregation, 10 to 7.

Premier Game Of World Series Has Appeal Which Results In All Night Vigil By Those Seeking Admission

By Doris J. Walsh

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (INS)—As the light of a new day fell, pale and cheerless, upon a world that slept, unsmiling of its crisis, the inevitable group huddled in the lee of the Yankee Stadium wall this morning and probably muttered a tolerant amusement for the Dovesy and the likes of those who stood last night at the doors of the stadium. Derelict, human driftwood without a purpose in life, they had waited only for a word and a place to sleep. But those at the stadium gates at least were waiting for something important.

They were waiting for the opening game of the 1928 World Series between the Yankees and Cardinals and naturally an all-night vigil was as nothing to the reward that was to be theirs when the gates were opened at 10 o'clock.

The presence of these faithful devotees of the night game must have warned that baseball's annual brainstorm again was upon us. However, the storm signals were flying on every front, what with downtown hotels crowded to the lobby exits and the up and down town ticket speculators over-running the premises. There wasn't a first class room to be had, unless there was a reserved seat to be had, unless you were willing to go for a net loss of $50 for a three-game ticket that once retailed at $150.

In brief, New York was in the clutches of the annual fever, only this time the general tenor was worse, if anything.

The ticket demand never before had been so insistent. Everybody seemingly wished to see this first game of the event, their desire heightened by the fact that more money were available than had been in the case in any previous series.

Given favorable weather, and the forecast was for blue skies and mild temperatures, it was the prevailing conclusion that the greatest crowd in World Series history would attend. At least 75,000 were expected in the stands at 1:30 this afternoon when the affair was scheduled to be called to action and, if the local fire department proved amenable to suggestion, additional standing room for 1,000 more might be made available. The crowd, if all went well, figured to write new chapters in the history of World Series play, of the gross intake at the stadium, of the crowd that would be full line of seven games.

World Series financial records were established in 1925 when the same games proved to a total of more than $1,200,000. Conservatively estimated, based on the increased capacity of the stadium, when the probable gate for the 1928 affair about $1,500,000.

The 75,000 expected in the stadium were said to be the last light of the day ago and, one might say, probably would have been in attendance, had the weather been so favorable as it did today.

FLORIDA GATORS POINT FOR GAME WITH MOCCASINS

Contest To Be Debuted For Coach Bachman In Dixie Grid Circles

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, GAINESVILLE, Oct. 4. (ANS)—Emerging from their benefit game with the freshmen under an injury, the "Fighting Gators" of the University of Florida are concentrating efforts this week on the big opening clash of the season with Southern College, an attraction which will monopolize campus activities for this Saturday in Gainesville.

It will be the first college game in the South for Coach Charles W. Bachman, new Florida mentor, and will mark the first varsity college game for Jess Burdage, Southern coach. The Labeland contingent has not beaten a Florida eleven but one time in the football history of the two schools, but from the Moccasin camp, where Burdage has been pointing his cohorts for the Florida game, there come assurances of much hope that 1928 might see an "upset" scored.

Southern always provides a good competition for Florida on a rain-soaked day, as Bachman is taking Saturday's life lightly. In triumphing the Fresh 20 in a last week the "Gators" displayed improved blocking and tackling, but there was a lack of sustained offense and to the end of bettering his attack, Bachman is working this week. The tutorial staff of Bachman, Bedek, Higgins and Holsinger are stressing smartness and team spirit on the field, and these extremely important qualities are expected to be more conspicuous within the 1928 "Gators." Scrimmage sessions Tuesday and Wednesday provided the only strenuous work of the week, as the coaches wish to take advantage of the "spud going stale," especially with the weather warmer than normally in October.

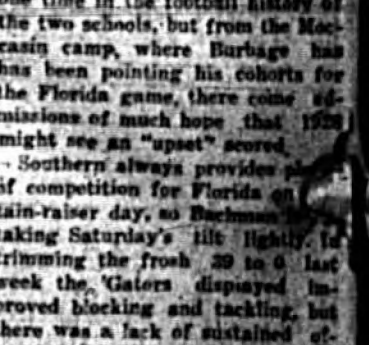

Believing that Burdage may present an open attack, focusing the forward pass, Bachman is applying emphasis this week to defense against an aerial game. It is quite certain that Auburn, who follows Southern to the big of the "Gators" will come equipped with a high-powered air gun and the Florida mentor wishes to become familiar with what they may face.

Harry Green, letter-man of the year, played well against the freshmen and takes his place just to the immediate rear of Vandenberg, Stanley and DeLoof, the best of ends in the South this year. Joe Norfleet and Bill McLean are playing improved ball at the tackles, while the veteran Jay Bryan, who reported over two weeks ago, has rounded into excellent condition and with another solid veteran, Joe Chelms, played very ably in the fresh engagement. The consistent line-up of Steve Steele, a guard has driven into commendation, and the sophomore is certain to be one of the top starters. A ten-day absence proved considerably, but he is returning back into good form. Grounded House and Perry are providing strong links for the game.

A small quantity of "spud seats" for the Southern game are still available. Fans are requested to notify James B. Ford, Jr., graduate manager, and to make as large an advance of the big of the week as ever had.

Walter Hagen Trails Leo Diegel In Match

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 4. (INS)—Walter Hagen, winner of the P. G. A. championship for four successive times, had the novel experience of being 2 down to Leo Diegel of White Plains, N. Y., after they had played two holes in the morning round of their quarter final match in the P. G. A. tournament here.

Hagen was upstaged on the fairway and especially unsteady with his putter, though that was more due to the fact that his shots to the pin were too far out of range to make it possible for him to get down with only a single putt.

Jack Hutchinson, former British open champion, stood 1 up on El Estepozas at the second as did Percy Del Vecchio of Greenburg, Penn. In his match with Hutton Smith of Joplin, Mo. Gene Sarazen after halving the first hole with Fred Dudley of Los Angeles, in the 3's took the second with a par 4 and was also 1 up.

Buster Keaton To Appear Here Today In 'The Cameraman'

Buster Keaton, in "The Cameraman," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature comedy, in which, as an apprentice newsreel cameraman in New York he figures in one of the most hilarious adventures in his career, is the attraction coming today to the Milano Theatre.

The story is a series of comical troubles in which Keaton, as a "grass" cameraman with an ancient and dilapidated "box," seeks to film the "swirl and bustle" of New York.

He gets caught in a traffic jam, tumbled by a parade, gets almost drowned in a bathing girl's bath, and falls off a boat in the Newport boat races, to get caught in a spinning propeller.

He invades Chinatown and gets into the middle of a long war, with five hundred Oriental actors taking pot shots at him with machine guns. Outside of that nothing much happens to him—except that he and Marceline Day fall in love, and a witty romance runs through the rapid-fire comedy sequence.

Edward Sedgwick, director of "Tin Hats," "Slide, Kelly, Slide," and other comedy successes, directed the new picture, with Marceline Day as heroine, and Harold Goodwin, Sydney Bracy, Harry Gribbon, and others of note in the cast.

Much of the picture was taken in New York, as the company was there three weeks, filming the scenes in the offices of Mayor "Jimmy" Walker, in the Yankee Stadium, and the big street parades. Dozens of blocks of replicas of New York and Chinatown streets were also constructed at the studios for the big feature.

The Herald, Sanford's pioneer newspaper, has been published for over 40 years. It is the only newspaper in the county that is published every afternoon except Sundays. Try Someone Else

Dr. Kellogg's strange peregrination about Florida, slipping quietly as he does into one city after another, avoiding publicity, breezing unexpectedly into various real estate offices, banks, and chambers of commerce, and listening attentively but unemotionally to all sorts of propositions, has created quite a furor in this state. He is getting more publicity than he probably would have received had he sought it. Everyone is talking about Dr. Kellogg's Battle Creek Sanitarium and wondering where its branch will be located.

Tampa seems extremely confident that the Tampa Bay Hotel will be the favored site. St. Petersburg, perhaps not unduly optimistic, is already counting the patients and figuring on what they will spend among local merchants. Sebring has made the genial doctor a splendid proposition and would be an ideal location. No less than fifty-three Florida cities have made some kind of offer or other and are counting the days until an important announcement will be made. Sanford too expectantly awaits.

But the thought has occurred to us that if some other proposition, more appealing perhaps than Sanford's, should be the lucky one, and the Battle Creek branch should be located in another city, why not go after another sanitarium? There are hundreds of such sanitariums in the United States. If it is wise for the Battle Creek Sanitarium to locate a branch in Florida, why wouldn't it be equally as wise for the Mayo Brothers, or the operators of some other clinic or sanitarium, to come here?

The success of such an institution, of course, depends to a certain extent upon the skill of the surgeons and physicians attached, but a large measure of the success of any such enterprise may be directly attributable to advertising and publicity. The fame of health resorts, White Sulphur Springs, Virginia, Saranac Lake, New York, or Hot Springs, Arkansas, is due a great deal more to the popular appeal of the advertising matter sent out than to the healing effects of their baths.

All Sanford needs to become the greatest health resort in the world, is someone to start a sanitarium and then give it the necessary amount of ballyhoo. Take Dr. Wingfried Spert, of Sopersville, Indiana. Let him come here and start a sanitarium, selecting as his chief curative measures a diet of celery which grows in great abundance throughout Seminole County, and sulphur baths in water drawn from our own sulphur springs. We hazard the guess that any crimped, we care not how crimped he may be, after eating quantities of celery, playing eighteen holes of golf, or lying on a mat in the sun for three hours, and then topping the day off with a hot and cold sulphur bath, will feel better. In fact, he will get well.

If that's the case, advertise it. Ballyhoo it throughout the world, just as Spearmint chewing gum has been ballyhooed, just as Lucky Strikes, and shredded wheat have been ballyhooed. In no time at all Dr. Spert's Sanford Sanitarium would be famous throughout the world and everywhere Sanford's celery and sulphur would be known as the elixir of life.

Giving A Lift

Every automobile driver has had the experience of having some stranger wave a hand and ask for a lift as his car speeds along on a lonesome country road. The conscience immediately strikes if the driver feels that for safety's sake, he must go on. Too often drivers stop and carry the stranger on his way, and frequently untoward events occur.

"The incident reported from Oklahoma recently," the Times-Union remarks, "where a girl who had stood in the road and begged a ride killed one of the men who got the car, and now claims that the man insulted her—expecting, of course, to be released by a sympathetic jury—is something that ought to be known to every driver. With the presumably assumed name of Loveda Boyle a young woman was far on the road, alone, and undoubtedly seeking adventure. The man who was driving, and who was killed, lived long enough to say that he was endeavoring to help the girl along as she had requested. The other man denied her implication that anything had been done to bring about a tragedy. And she relies on the "chivalry" of a jury to clear her from all blame—she is young and probably what is classed as "good-looking."

"Whether Loveda Boyle, of Oil City, Pa., was warranted in her act or not," remarks the Miami Herald, "the fact remains that the fault for the situation giving birth to the deed was hers. Young girls cannot be placing themselves in dangerous and unconventional positions without possible danger, and everyone knows that. Mendacity along the highway should be banned just as much as begging at the street corners." The Herald further declares that a large part of the fault in such cases as mentioned lies with the too easy social and legal system, which has not yet caught up with development of the automobile. "Why should total strangers be permitted to flag down automobiles and virtually demand rides all over the nation?" it inquires, adding: "Most drivers give rides when requested, but there is no humanitarian reason why they should do so. It is a system which breeds crime and robbery, at the expense of the hapless individual who holds the steering wheel." All of which is unquestionably true.

QUESTIONS FOR MR. HOOVER
NEW YORK WORLD

Now that Gov. Smith has frankly answered the questions in the advertisement in the Omaha paper, it is to be hoped that candidates generally will recognize the right of the electors to make inquiries as to their position on important matters. The Democratic National Committee has asked Herbert Hoover a perfectly proper question, whether he approves of the action of President Coolidge in appointing R. D. West, attorney for the Insular Government, and himself personally concerned in power cases on which he is to sit in his capacity of secretary of the Interior.

The appointment of Mr. West, under all the circumstances, is a strange one to follow the career of Albert B. Fall, appointed in March, 1921. The attitude of both men toward the conservation of the Nation's resources and toward the private exploitation of those resources is identical.

In view of Mr. Hoover's sweeping denunciation of the Harding-Coolidge Administration the public has a right to know how he feels about the position of Mr. West. Would he have nominated Mr. West if he had been in the position of the President?

Yes, propounding questions to candidates and having them answer is really worth while. When Mr. Hoover speaks in Tennessee the questions asked Gov. Smith at Omaha will be put up to his opponent, and we shall see whether Mr. Hoover replies with the same unqualified frankness or with some evasive formula. We shall also see whether the questions asked Gov. Smith at Omaha will be put up to his opponent, and we shall see whether Mr. Hoover replies with the same unqualified frankness or with some evasive formula.

Telling The World

By NEAL O'HARA
 HIGHER EDUCATION FOR BOND SALESMEN

We don't know how many million young men started going to college this month. They will study the classics, literature and philosophy for four years and then come out and be bond salesmen. There is something wrong with an educational system like that.

We spend millions a year on college gymnasiums and equipment. Within their walls these young college men build up their muscles and harden their sinews. Why? So they can grab you by the arm and show you what a good buy the United Ash can be.

Mom takes in washings and pop leads to futurity on the set of a college education. Each night he goes to bed, and at 11:30 P. M. when he gets up to settle the chinkers, pop dreams of Eustace sitting on the Supreme Court bench or commanding a battleship, or showing the Mayo Brothers how to operate an airplane. And what does he get out of those dreams? He gets a son that touches him for $100 to buy a week's supply of white collars, so he can go out and sell a $200 bond. It is very discouraging.

Until they stop graduating bond salesmen, colleges are wasting their time. What is the use of loading our youth with theod, Homer, Plato, Cicero and Aristotle when all they will amount when they start wage earning are adventures in the world sinking funds and income before depreciation and Federal income tax and substance in lieu to Series A's.

The students learn to appreciate Homer, Plato and Aristotle, to quote Aristotle and to make sense out of Chaucer. Then they lapse out from algebra, water and heat, peeling the populace with bonds in $1,000 and $500 denominations, registrable as to principal only and redeemable. Even if the bonds were good, the populace wouldn't like it.

Today bond salesmen are roaming around in droves. You can't drop a marble spike from a seven-story building without fracturing a bond salesman's skull. The only trouble is that marble spikes are scarce.

Now we have no personal bias against the bond salesman. He has to live, but we wish he could make his livelihood without trying to sell.

G. O. P.: "Beware! Tammany Is Behind Smith!"

MARSH IN NEW YORK TIMES

It would be a good thing, if bond salesmen could be taken from the bootleggers' hands. Bond selling is the only industry that is more over crowded than bootlegging. But the bootleggers are smarter at putting over sales. When a bootlegger comes into town, he does not ask what percentage of your income you are willing to systematically save. He only wants to know how much cash you've got as a deposit in the cases of Scotch.

He does not rave about the safety of his Bourbon or tell you in the treatise fractions how much of a ton he has by one part of his gin and what he simply asks you if you need any more right now. If you don't, he heats it. If you do, he gives an order, you know it will be delivered promptly and put where it is distilled.

Mrs. Campbell Gives Party For Her Son

W. R. Campbell Jr., who recently celebrated his 7th birthday, was honored Wednesday afternoon with a party given by his mother, Mrs. W. R. Campbell, 613 Park Avenue. The party was suggestive of a birthday with a black and gold color scheme, flowers being chrysanthemums, marigold and ferns, while the dining room table was centered with a large birthday cake with seven tiny candles. During the afternoon games of various kinds were played by the young guests, Wilson Speed and George Speer receiving prizes. Each of the other children received novelty favors in the form of black cats, owls and caps.
 The birthday cake was then cut and the cream was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Josephine Campbell. Mrs. E. H. Ashcraft and Mrs. H. L. Sutton. Those invited to be with W. R. Jr. were Arthur Brannan Jr., W. F. Betts Jr., C. H. Driver, Jack Hainey, R. G. Hickson Jr., George Speer Jr., Wilson Speed and Roll and Sutton.

CIRCLE MEETS

The members of the Merry Maids' circle met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Jasper Williams at her home on 6th Street. The afternoon was spent with sewing and music, after which the hostess served an ice course.
 Those enjoying the afternoon with Mrs. Williams were Mrs. C. A. Baker, Mrs. John Jay Register, Mrs. C. A. Taylor, Mrs. John Alexander Jr., Mrs. S. J. Poole and Miss Marie Hanson.
