

Eden Figures In World Affairs

LONDON.—Anthony Eden, accepting a cigarette from Joseph Stalin, today is the most famous man in the world.

Eden's popularity is due to his role in the recent war, his diplomatic skill, and his personal charm. He is the only man in the world who has been both a member of the House of Commons and a member of the House of Lords.

Eden's role in the recent war was crucial. He was the British Foreign Secretary during the war, and he played a key role in the formation of the United Nations. He was also instrumental in the formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Eden's personal charm is also a major factor in his popularity. He is a well-known orator, and he has a warm and friendly personality. He is also a skilled diplomat, and he has been able to build strong relationships with other world leaders.

Benito Mussolini once called him, and Eden went on to set the pace for the world to follow. He is the only man in the world who has been both a member of the House of Commons and a member of the House of Lords.

Both oppose a quick SEATO because, as they see it, a SEATO suddenly set up while negotiations work at Geneva would have a threatening, warlike look and there was a chance of a settlement at Geneva. SEATO would scare the Reds off.

As he sees it and as Churchill sees it, the French have botched up Indo-China. The Communists probably would win free elections in many areas, and it is better to admit some measure of defeat, split the country and stop the fighting than to risk a rain of atom bombs on London.

Embassy 'Pushing' For Yanks' Release

FRANKFURT, Germany.—The U. S. Embassy in Prague said today it is "pushing" for release of American soldiers seized by Czech Communist border guards July 4.

"We keep pushing for their release," an embassy spokesman said by telephone, "and anything is possible. We are hoping something might happen this week."

"So far, we haven't heard a thing. We have no idea where they are."

Storm-Resistant Building Erected

NEW YORK.—A new hurricane resistant office building in downtown Miami, thought to be the building in the state of Florida, has been built to withstand a high wind of 100 miles per square foot, according to the magazine.

Fourteen stories high, the building is topped by a large penthouse. The all-steel construction of the building saved an estimated 10 to 15 per cent in steel tonnage, according to the magazine.

McCarthy Calls Thursday Meet

WASHINGTON.—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) today called for a Senate investigation subcommittee meeting Thursday which could produce action on demands for the firing of some staff employees.

McCarthy, the chairman, told newsmen he was calling the meeting specifically as a step toward his long deferred investigation of alleged Communist infiltration on defense plants.

The meeting will mark its first official session with McCarthy as chairman since the subcommittee voted last spring to investigate the McCarthy Army row. He expected the group for that inquiry.

Central U. S. Being Baked By Heat Wave

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The biggest heat wave so far this summer baked central sections of the nation today with little real relief in sight.

At least eight deaths were attributed to the heat.

The mercury soared to an unofficial 121 degrees in Pittsburg, Kans., yesterday and plus-100-degree readings were common from the Rockies eastward to the Great Lakes.

Local water shortages developed in some communities from the heat and lack of rainfall, but no widespread crop damage has developed yet.

In Kansas City, where the temperature reached 109, so many people turned on their air conditioners that power lines became overloaded. The Kansas City Power and Light Co. said power use hit an all-time high last night.

Midwest City, an Oklahoma City suburb of 20,000, ran out of water as 107-degree heat led to record consumption. Officials said shortages will occur daily as long as the heat continues.

Tuesday's high heat records were set yesterday.

Columbia, Mo., 113; Springfield, Mo., 108; Rapid City, S.D., 109; Dallas, Tex., 110.3; Oklahoma City, 107; and Casper, Wyo., 104.

The temperature reached 93 or above in all states except a strip along the Atlantic coast from the Carolinas to New England and in the northwest over Washington.

Rhee To Make Official Visit

SEOUL — President Syngman Rhee will fly to the United States next week on an official state visit to discuss the future of his war-battered, divided nation the U.S. Embassy announced today.

A highly informed source said the 78-year-old President and his wife probably would depart Monday.

U.S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs will leave for Washington Saturday to assist in preparations for Rhee's visit.

Rhee received an invitation several weeks ago from President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles to discuss steps made necessary by failure of the Geneva conference to unify North and South Korea.

The fiery old President is expected to seek:

- 1. Substantial U.S. financial aid in the buildup of South Korea's 20 division army and possible creation of a million-man reserve force.
2. A bigger voice for South Korea in the disposition of U.S. economic aid funds being used to rebuild and rehabilitate the country.

Cards Go In Gulf In Red Tide Fight

SARASOTA — A batch of 2,100 red cards has been dropped in the Gulf of Mexico to test current movements as a move in the fight against the red tide.

The cards, enclosed in plastic envelopes, were dropped by volunteers in small boats between Bradenton and Fort Myers yesterday. They will be picked up Saturday and the positions compared with those where they were dropped.

The red tide is a formation of tiny marine organisms which have poisoned millions of fish off the gulf coast in recent years.

Churchill, Attlee Clash In Red China Debate

Ex-Prime Minister Critical Of Dulles; Favors Seating Commie Nation In UN

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill clashed bitterly with Clement Attlee, former Labor Prime Minister, today in a House of Commons debate over the seating of Communist China in the United Nations.

Attlee started off by accusing Secretary of State Dulles of "playing right into the hands of the Communists" by failing to return to the Geneva conference. He said it is "wrong, unwise and contrary to the principles of the United Nations" to bar Red China from that organization.

Churchill replied that an effort now to force Red China into the U.N. would be regarded in the United States as an "unjustified act of unfriendliness."

Churchill accused Attlee of making "one long whine of criticism against the United States and of course advancing the implications, if not the virtues, of Communist China."

Churchill emphasized that Red China was still technically at war with the United Nations and was "stimulating the war in Indochina."

With law out, Churchill went out to warn: "I am sure to choose such a moment as this to try to force the entry of Communist China into the United Nations would be to complicate altogether the very grave affairs we have to deal with in so many other spheres and would be regarded as most harsh and uncalled for act of unfriendliness by the mighty people of the United States, to whom we owe much and from whom we govern-ment ever received more than the Labor government."

Attlee, interrupting, said he never suggested that "at this moment this could be done."

"I am glad to hear that," retorted Churchill, "because it would, in any case be difficult to deal with the matter at this very moment."

Churchill said Monday that he felt Red China should eventually get into the U.N.—but declared the Communists must first give genuine evidence of good faith.

Churchill drew cheers from the Conservative side of the House by declaring "it was only a little while ago that Mr. Attlee joined the United States in repelling Communist aggression."

Attlee was Prime Minister when the Korean War broke out and backed the U.N. intervention. He also was Prime Minister when Britain recognized Peking in 1950.

Before Churchill spoke Attlee told the house: "I can perfectly understand the American fear of militant communism and possible Chinese aggression throughout Asia, but I think it is worth while looking at this from the other point of view."

"There is the Chinese point of view. Here you have a revolutionary government which is undoubtedly supported by the mass of the people."

CofC Directors Pass Resolution Opposing Road

A resolution calling for the four-laning of U. S. Highway 17-92 between Sanford and Orlando and opposing re-routing of the road to by-pass this city was passed last night by the directors of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce, marking the first organized opposition to a highway which would cut through the Lake Monroe bridge south to the Orange Blossom Trail.

It was suggested by County Atty. Mack N. Cleveland that the combined action of the two counties officials on four-laning might bring quick results, and perhaps the property owners would give the land right-of-ways to prevent loss of the highway's business.

The by-laws committee presented several proposed changes, which were adopted, the principal action being in the board at 33 members. The committee consists of George Touhy, chairman, Jack Roxton and John Vey.

Ike Says Farm, Tax Programs Would Be Helpful To Nation

Heat Wave Goes Toward Atlantic; 17 Known Victims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The season's most extensive and most severe heat wave has moved eastward to the Atlantic today while a cold front from the northern Rockies began moving into the Midwest.

Widespread relief was in sight for southern sections of the country, where seven consecutive days of plus 100-degree heat have taken a toll of crop and poultry losses.

Heat waves in some parts at least 17 across the country and more records topped yesterday as the sweeter belt stretched from southern Texas and South Dakota eastward.

Oklahoma counted 5 heat victims, Colorado 4, Illinois 2, Missouri 2, Iowa 1, Nebraska 1, Louisiana 1 and Pennsylvania 1.

The heat wave was centered in southwestern Kansas and northern Oklahoma.

The day's highest official reading was 114, reached at Ponca city, Okla., and Emporia and Council Bluffs, Kan.

Wife Tells Story About Her Love For 'Other Man'

ALLAGAN, Mich. — Mrs. Edith Small's story of love for a man admitted to be a bad husband but there was no way of telling whether it had helped or hurt her devoted husband's chances of a better life as a first-degree murder conviction.

That would be known until a jury returns a verdict in the trial of her husband, Dr. Kenneth D. Small of Detroit.

Dr. Small, 41, is charged with first-degree murder in the slaying May 29 of Joseph Lusk, 47-year-old New York hotel operator.

Police said small admitted to a love affair with Lusk, who was married to a woman named Margaret, and that he had a child by her.

But she frankly admitted to a love affair with Lusk during a divorce vacation last winter, after her husband had declined to go with her to the divorce court.

Dr. Small began drinking after the heat here and on one occasion beat her and asked her about the "other man."

Defense Counsel Leo Hoffman asked her "Did you ever have a love affair with Lusk during a divorce vacation last winter, after her husband had declined to go with her to the divorce court?"

"That's the basic reason. But there were other basic differences of ideology. He (Dr. Small) tried to be conservative."

Hoffman then asked if she wanted her husband to be a "big spender," and she answered that she "wanted a bigger person than he is."

At another point Mrs. Small testified that she asked for a separation "because I felt I didn't love him any more."

Hoffman has announced plans to attempt to prove that Dr. Small was temporarily insane at the time of the shooting.

Comments On Death Of Bill

Smith To Go To Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower nudged Congress today for quick passage of his tax and farm programs.

He said the tax program would help the economy expand and create more jobs and his farm proposals would benefit the entire country and this prove to be the best kind of politics.

Eisenhower also told a news conference that the House members who killed his health insurance program simply don't understand the facts of life.

The American people lost, he said, when the House rejected the program 238-134 yesterday.

And, Eisenhower said, he will carry on the fight for such a program as long as he is in office.

In the field of foreign affairs, Eisenhower said he expected to announce something shortly on the American-British-French talks in Paris on the Indochina question.

Eisenhower said Dulles went to Paris early this week to see, among other things, if United States representation at the Geneva talks would be helpful rather than damaging in reaching an Indochina settlement.

He said Dulles' visit reflects a grave concern on the part of this country to keep a united front on fundamental principles with its chief allies, Britain and France.

The President also made a formal announcement that South Korean President Syngman Rhee's July 26 visit to the United States will be for the purpose of making further plans for "the attainment of a unified, free and independent Korea."

It was announced in Seoul earlier in the day that Rhee would visit Washington.

On other matters Eisenhower said:

"I am not going to let my proposal of a limited state defense program for peaceful purposes die if I can help it. This is the program I outlined before the United Nations last December. It calls for participation by the Russians as well as the country's citizens. The President said he was sure British Prime Minister Churchill agreed with him. The plan should not die even if some people—meaning the Russians—will not go along with it. His meaning seemed to be that an atomic pool without the Soviet block is a possibility."

"I think the Senate Agriculture Committee made a grave error in voting to raise the support price of butter from 75 to 85 percent of parity."

"The jury for the 'mock trial' of Miss Alexander was a city commissioner of one of the mythical cities and county clerk of Swain county. Miss Strickland was elected city clerk of Osteen and also served as a member of the House of Representatives. Two of the girls, Misses Alexander and Engelstrom participated in the legislative process as secretaries to representatives in the House."

During a short business session, presided over by Mrs. Baborn, first vice-president of the local club, it was voted to contribute $10 toward the purchase of fans for the Vacht Club.

Mrs. V. C. Messenger, publicity chairman, told of the meeting which had made and sent to the Pilot Club a letter of invitation to the International convention in Boston at which Mrs. George Stone, president, is serving as a delegate from the local club. The poster also states the local club's projects and civic activities.

Mrs. Messenger also outlined plans for the Barry Crum Gravel Club which will formally open for classes on Friday, July 23, in the City Hall.

Mrs. Al Hunt invited the group to meet with her for the next meeting on Aug. 10.

Miss Elaine Farley was welcomed as a visitor at the meeting.

Hot-Rodders Community Scourge

Some law enforcement officers say the hot-rod at Palm Harbor are decreasing; some say they are increasing. One called the situation "a tough nut to crack."

"We've got a sweet setup in Palm Harbor and there's nothing the cops can do about it," one cigarette-smoking 15-year-old boasted. "Did you ever try to be in two places at once? We'll send one car out to challenge Donovan, then when he falls for it, we raise hell in another place."

"They know their legal rights, too, especially that Donovan can't make a charge stick without identification. And though he knows much and suspects more, he can prove little. Nor does he get much support from parents."

"Why do they (the police) object to us setting off steam?" one hot-rodder asked.

"We've got to do something and you can see for yourself there is nothing for us to do here at night. No movie, no recreation hall, no nothing. Not even street lights we can stand under and cheer the fat."

An other boy said most of the trouble was resentment at outside officers.

Pilot Club Host To Delegates From Sanford To Girls State

The five girls who attended Girls State in Tallahassee, sponsored by various clubs, were guests of the Pilot Club at a picnic meeting held at the home of Mrs. M. L. Raborn Sr. on Monday night.

Miss Barbara Brown, Pilot Club sponsored delegate, introduced the other girls including the Misses Terrell Jean Norton, Marianne Strickland, Colleen Engelstrom and Helen Alexander. They sang the official "Girls State Song."

Miss Alexander recounted their experiences on the way up to Tallahassee and told of the Boys State-Girls State dance given the evening of their arrival.

The Sunday morning picnic was given by Miss Engelstrom and presided by Miss Alexander who said all of the Sanford girls participated in the church services and sang in the studio choir on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Brown explained the formation of the two parties and the picnic and speaker leading up to the primary and general election. An interesting account of a "mock trial" was given by Miss Engelstrom who also told of the girls' visit to the offices of State officials.

Visits to the Supreme Court building and the governor's home were made by Miss Nelson who proposed an award which was presented to her while there.

The "mock trial" performance presented by the Sanford girls won first prize and the girls were "sounded" by the judges as well as every other feature of the week-long program.

Miss Nelson was elected a city commissioner of one of the mythical cities of the state and also as a senator in the legislature. Miss Brown served in the House of Representatives.

Miss Alexander was elected chief of police of one of the mythical cities and as a county commissioner of another city. She also served as a city auditor.

Cynthia Doyle is a nurse at a clinic for underprivileged children in a city near Washington, D. C. While off duty, she witnesses an accident in which a small boy is struck and injured by a heavy car. An angry mob gathers to threaten Norman Brandt, driver of the accident car, but Dr. Sellars of the clinic arrives via ambulance along with police, and the injured boy is taken to the hospital. Cynthia succeeds in persuading the mob to disperse and the doctor's fee is waived. Her excitedly awaits a "date" he arrives in the person of Norman Brandt, driver of the ill-fated car. In eager surprise he turns to Cynthia, but she sends him from the house, his only chance to know that she is in love with Dr. Sellars. Cynthia's handsome, middle-aged doctor, the kindly young doctor with whom she had long worked, is always regarded by her as an immortal. What must she do to awaken him to her womanhood?

CHAPTER SIX CYNTHIA had another gentleman caller that evening. It was the officer who had taken charge at the scene of the accident. He introduced himself as Dan Masters, begged her pardon for disturbing her, but said he thought he could save her the bother of coming around to the precinct in the morning.

"Come right in!" Cynthia would fix Mr. Norman Brandt—they wouldn't meet tomorrow, after all. As the two girls had just been finishing dinner, Cynthia offered the police officer a cup of coffee in appreciation of his thoughtfulness.

"I'll just jot down your version of the case," Dan Masters said, taking out pad and pencil. "It may be called upon, as I don't believe Mr. Masters will try to take it to court, you know how those people are in that district—all of them afraid of the law. It only they learn it's on their side when they're in trouble."

Cynthia agreed with him. Yet she could not help feeling relieved that there would be no trouble. It might have served Norman Brandt right, however, especially if he had not told the truth about driving the car.

As though in answer to this, Dan Masters said, "You know that young fellow wasn't driving his own car. When I asked him for the license number, he didn't even know it. He had his driver's license all right. Said the car belonged to a friend. A Miss Reba Hays—Ray, come to think of it, she'd be that singing star, wouldn't she?"

"She might be," Cynthia agreed. So Norman Brandt ran around town with actresses. Not that Cynthia had anything against actresses. But it just went to show that he was that kind of man. Whatever kind that was, she amended somewhat vaguely.

"Well, anyway," Officer Masters continued, "he's done all he could for the little fellow he hit. Got him a high-priced doctor, a private room, and nurses. So I guess I

"I still think it was unavoidable," she said. "Well, now I guess that will be all, then." Dan Masters got to his feet. "I won't be bothering you any longer. It's been a pleasure, Miss, to meet the nurse lady. I've been hearing about you for some time now. And of course everybody knows Doctor Sellars and what a grand job he's doing for those poor kids. Now there's a man for you, Miss!"

"If it's such a madhouse, how could you get along without me? Or are you inferring that my services are no longer needed?" she had not meant to say anything like that. "I could manage for a short while." He was looking at her with that professional air of trying to diagnose her case. "You know I couldn't leave you, Cynthia."

"What do you mean by that?" she asked. "No, I don't want to leave the clinic, but maybe I ought to leave you." Before she could say anything, he went on, shaking her a little to emphasize just how bad it was. "You can't do that. You know how much the clinic means to you. As much as it does to me. You know how hard we've worked together to build it up. Now we are just starting to make real progress in our fight to educate the parents of these children, give actual help to the children themselves. . . . What is the matter with you, Cynthia? I think I'll order you to take a rest. Then when you return, you will have come to your senses." (To Be Continued)

Sailors Headed For Easier Life

DURBAN, South Africa, (AP) — Sailors in the South African navy are headed for an easier life. They're getting Cape Coloreds (half castes) on board to do such menial work as cleaning bath rooms and other messy jobs.

Capt. R. P. Dryden-Dymond, commanding officer of the Coastal Command, says 144 Cape Coloreds are now being trained at the Cape town base. They will have the status of servants, not sailors, and will not wear uniforms.

Sailors will continue to clean

Appears Gen. Sanford's Collection Will Be Housed In This Community

It appears the long drawn-out campaign to secure Gen. Henry S. Sanford's valuable collection for this City finally is going to be successful.

What with the City saying it will match contribution of the County up to $7,500, and the County already tentatively saying it would give money toward the worthy project, together with the State pledging a maximum of $15,000 over three years, why it looks like the job is just about in the bag.

Can Production Keep Pace?

During the next few years, consumers may expect plentiful supplies of meat—and livestock producers are assured of a steadily increasing market. That optimistic forecast, which has a solid basis in fact, has been made by the American Meat Institute.

Our cattle herd is now the largest in our history—nearly 56,000,000 head—and the all-time beef production record established in 1953 is expected to be substantially bettered this year. Also, favorable hog-corn price ratios are expanding hog production, after two years of curtailment, and this, it is believed, will be reflected in increased marketings late this summer and in the fall.

It might seem that a huge and increasing livestock population on the farms and ranches could in itself result in price and marketing difficulties for producers. The answer to that lies in the population trend. If meat consumption is to be maintained at the present figure of about 150 pounds per capita, production will have to be steadily increased as the years pass, rising by 15 per cent in the next 10 years alone. As the Institute official put it, "... the real problem facing the livestock and meat industry over the next decade or so is whether, with our human population increasing rapidly, ranchers and farmers can produce enough animals to keep pace."

HAL BOYLE

Predicts Better Times For Family

NEW YORK (AP)—If the world of today has you down, folks, just wait on the world of tomorrow will be better.

A designing young man named Paul Wrablica, whose job is to help create new industrial products better geared to the needs of mankind, says that in 10 years our civilization will be more fun for everybody in the family—mama, papa, and all their little two-legged leggy dears.

First, let us take up Wrablica's view of joy for Dad a decade hence:

"The average man, because of greater production efficiency, will work only 30 hours a week—and for more pay than he gets now.

"This will give him longer weekends, more leisure to enjoy the hobbies he likes. And Dad's cost will come down. Suppose he likes sailing. Motor boats and sailboats will be molded from a single piece of plastic, as the bodies of some cars are now.

"That long wearisome ride from his job in the city to his home in the suburbs won't take so long. It'll speed there in a fraction of the present time in a jet-propelled monorail train.

"Even the parking problem will be solved to some extent with smaller cars and more automatic multi-level garages."

The housewife will have it even better, if the view in Wrablica's crystal ball is clear:

"Most homes will be air-conditioned the year around. This means less housework. There will be no danger of falling down stairs. There won't be many stairs. They will be replaced by elevators or inclined planes.

"The need for maids will practically disappear. The kitchen will become less important, because families will eat out more in restaurants that are truly homelike. There will be little formal entertaining in the home.

"Wives complain today about having to push or carry a heavy vacuum cleaner around. That won't be necessary at all. A woman will be able to plug a hose into an ordinary wall outlet and—zip—the dust will be sucked down into a disposal unit in the basement. Wives will have more and more time to spend caring for their children, going into politics or doing community work.

"And look what a pleasant life lies ahead for the kids in 1964—if he's right:

"Movies will be piped directly into the home.

"Toys will be designed better for a child's real needs, and they'll be safer. In fact, life in general will be safer because of better design.

"Television will be commonplace in the schools.

"The TV-telephone will be coming into general use."

Personally, I am not so sure about this TV-phone gadget. What businessman wants to look another businessman in the eye when he is quoting prices over the phone? Teen-agers, of course, will enjoy seeing each other in those long phone calls about their home work they make each evening.

But why pamper them? It's a mystery to grownups why any teenager can stand looking in a mirror, let alone look at another kid in the same age bracket. Most adults, remembering their own youth, are convinced that the kindest thing you can build for teen-agers is a cocoon in which they can hibernate until they're old enough to vote.

Wrablica, who teaches design at Pratt Institute, has another prediction that makes me even more uneasy about his drafting board dreams of life in America in 10 years. It's about beds.

"You won't have to worry about electric blankets in the bed of the future," he said. "I'll have thermostatic controls built right into it. You can lie in your own bed and enjoy a massage before jumping up to go to work."

Jump up and face work when a man can lie in a bed that will automatically keep his nervous at the right temperature, and give him all the exercise he needs, too? It'll never happen.

Why, put a few beds like that in the nearest poorhouse — and who'd ever take a job, or get up and face life?

NEW YORK—"I'm going to California for a few days," I told Swiftly O'Brien, the demon tout and non-vivant, whom I encountered on the corner of Lindy's with his pearl-studded toothpick, a hold-over from better days, in his mouth. He nodded.

"You're making a grave mistake," he said mournfully. "Why don't you just stay in town and go over to Brooklyn for a week?" I asked him what was in Brooklyn I should spend a week there.

"The Prospect Park zoo," he said flatly. "At least the monkeys there are not telling you how great John Wayne was in his last picture and do you think David O. Selznick is through?" I smiled politely and left him standing there, working out the fifth at Amusement from the charts. I was off for the land of wine and roses.

"You mean that you had had luck of the horses there?" I asked. He shook his head. "No," he said. "Los Angeles and I do not jell. We do not see eye to eye. Do you know what they talk about endlessly there, without ceasing?"

"Money?" I suggested.

"Money," he said, "isn't it? How can a civilized man go on for hours about some nickelodeon product? You see one thing, you see them about baseball and the fights?" I said, "They have some of those out there, don't they? Surely you found time to duck into the Legion lounge in Hollywood, or go out to see the Hollywood Stars play the national pastime? He sniffed.

"You see better fights in any Third Avenue saloon," Swiftly said morosely. "And as for that baseball out there—well, Wes Westrum would hit .375 in that company, which gives you some idea." He brushed. "There is no getting away from it, that town L. A. is smalltime. A New Yorker there gets the screaming maniac hanging out in a place like that."

"Don't you think," I said delicately, "that there's some very interesting characters out there?" You know, new Massachus and naturalists like that, some writer down below and citizen walking down Hollywood boulevard in white sheets and sandals, telling the customers the second 40-day flood is over.

"Second-raters," Swiftly appraised acidly. "When did they ever have anything like Broadway Rose out there? The last time I was in the coast, this actor John Carradine was walking down the street in a big cape, spouting Shakespeare. I see him a bit later, in New York, and he seems very unhappy because he is sitting by himself in the Algonquin lobby, nobody is giving him a tumble. The character competition is very stiff here in Gotham." I murmured, "You should know," I murmured.

There are about 55 million vehicles on U. S. roads—72 per cent more than in 1940.

Red China's UN Chances Look Small

WASHINGTON (AP)—At this moment Red China's chance of getting into the United Nations in 1955—although there was a recent storm here over the thought of it—looks small.

The United States is flatly against letting them in. The British are opposed to letting them in any time soon. Between them the two countries should have enough friends among the 60 UN members to keep Red China out.

This is not to say the Chinese Communists will not eventually be admitted, whether or not this country likes it.

It would be an amazing spectacle if Red China could get in this year. It would truly be shooting its way in. Three years ago the U.N. voted that Red China was an aggressor in the Korean War.

Chinese had pretended that their countrymen who fought in Korea were volunteers. They still are in that war. There is only a truce in Korea, not peace. The U.N. resolution calling them aggressors has not been lifted.

The Chinese Communists would get some obvious advantages out of U.N. membership. It would mean that in the eyes of the world they had generally been recognized as the rightful rulers of China.

Only if U.N. members, including the British, recognize them now, they have to do their propagandizing now from far-off Peking. It would be a picnic for them if they were in the world forum of the U.N.

With representatives in the U.N. they'd have handy access to the representatives of other countries. They could use the Russians to weaken the ties between the Western countries. This is a two-way street of course, since the U.S. will try the same thing on them and Russia.

If the U.N. gave them a seat and threw out Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists, now representing

Herlong Reports

Who wants a new Post Office building? The answer is: Nearly everybody, of course.

It would be most impractical for the government to put up the cash to engage in a public building program at this time. We are already faced with the fact that in all probability we will have to increase the national debt limit before this session is over, because we still haven't balanced the budget. That doesn't alter the fact that we still need Post Office buildings. There are 17 cities in our District on the authorized list for new buildings. Our problem is to get them without the cash outlay. We think we have found the way. The House and Senate have approved the Conference Report on a bill which authorizes the government to acquire these buildings on a Lease-Purchase plan. The President may have signed the bill by the time this is printed.

The bill provides, in effect, that the government may authorize the construction in accordance with Post Office specifications, and plans. They will be built with private capital. The government will buy them on the "installment plan." Instead of continuing to pay rent, we'll be buying the buildings. It can be done just about as cheaply as buying rent—and we'll have something to show for the money spent. It will be helpful to builders and the building trades. They will wait until the government is building in these cities; it will give the government much needed facilities; and it will certainly improve the morale of the employees, who, in many instances, are now working in cramped, inadequate quarters. It is a very sensible approach to the problem.

General Services Administration, which will have charge of the program, has not yet set up "ground rules" as to how the program will operate. They will wait until the President signs the bill. Obviously the first step for interested communities is to find someone with the cash who will agree to construct the building. That shouldn't be too difficult, because it will be a good, safe investment.

As soon as the plans have been completed and announced, we will advise all eligible cities as to how they should proceed.

Study Underway Of Mining Effects

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Are uranium miners exposing themselves to radioactivity which could shorten their lives? The U.S. Public Health Service is going to find out, if it can.

The service, in cooperation with the Atomic Energy Commission and the health departments of Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico, has sent two motor caravans onto the vast Colorado Plateau, heart of the nation's uranium boom, to gather the facts.

Actually begun in 1950, the study may take years more to complete. The authorized medical team scheduled to visit 20 mining districts in the four-state area this summer officials said that more than 1,000 miners and mill workers have been examined in the last four years.

LIKES RIDY
ERDING, Germany (AP)—A U.S. Army helicopter pilot aiding in flood rescue work in Bavaria, told this one yesterday.

He plucked several marooned people from a farm house. Later he took a man from a house top who looked vaguely familiar.

"Didn't I bring you out a few hours ago?" the pilot asked.

"Yes," replied the man. "I enjoyed riding in a helicopter and so I went back by row boat."

Gold Cloth Worn By Jean Simmons In Latest Movie

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD—The way to cover Hollywood is to be pop-eyed, like a tourist. Now you take this set where Jean Simmons is playing Brando in a picture of the same name.

She was looking very comely in this Napoleonic dress, wearing a gold cloth piece with a high waist and a low neckline. I could appreciate what I was seeing because once I was a fashion editor. Unfortunately, that job didn't last long but I do know gold cloth when I see it. We did not have a chance to discuss our mutual interest in gold cloth because Jean was busy engaged in a difficult scene.

I turned my attention, reluctantly, to Henry Keeler, the director, who watched everyone in the scene to be very easy. This is how he got the effect.

All of you now pretend to be talking about the wonderful dinner Napoleon has just served. Ah, think of the caviar and the champagne. And the oysters. But if it will make you any happier, you may imagine you have been eating hot dogs.

This thought seemed to make Miss Simmons quite gay, and she smiled prettily at Napoleon, who is none other than Marlon Brando. Brando then was excused so the crew could concentrate on a close-up of Miss Simmons. And because there was so much crew and so much equipment, I lost sight of my friend in the gold cloth with the low waist and the high neck. Or whatever she had on.

With a wisp of hair down over his forehead and a nose made pointed with putty, Brando becomes an excellent likeness of Napoleon. Brando then was excused so the crew could concentrate on a close-up of Miss Simmons. And because there was so much crew and so much equipment, I lost sight of my friend in the gold cloth with the low waist and the high neck. Or whatever she had on.

Homemakers Class Has Hamburger Fry At Elliott Home

Frozen Meat Cuts Are More Tender

Dues freezing make meat more tender? This question is frequently asked of Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent, from those who own home freezers or rent freezer lockers. The answer—according to L. Hiner, meat research specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and based on his studies—is: Generally, yes. But he found that freezing makes some cuts and some types of meat more tender than others. He also found that the lower the temperature, the greater the tenderizing effect. At zero F., the temperature of most home freezers, the tenderizing effect is considerably more tenderizing than at 20 degrees F.—the temperature of meat-storage containers in the usual home refrigerator. Dr. Hiner believes the tenderizing effect is largely mechanical. He explains that as crystals form in the meat the fibers swell and break and the connective tissues stretch and break.

In his study of the effect of freezing on a variety of representative cuts of beef animals of different ages, Dr. Hiner found that the most tender, most tenderizing freezing was young beef animals 15 months old that graded choice or good. Freezing had the least tenderizing effect on meat that was naturally the most tender—veal, and on the toughest—that from nine-year-old cows. Also the toughest cuts including forehand and neck, were tenderized least by freezing.

From these studies the housewife may conclude that in making meat tender, freezing may help, but she will also have to use long slow cooking with moist heat, or to chop, pound, marinate or use other methods of preparation aimed at tenderness.

SALT CHART REMOVES GUESSWORK

1 1/2 tsp. per pound	1/2 tsp. per pound	1/2 tsp. per pound
1 tsp. for 2 1/2 pounds	1 1/2 tsp. in water to cover	1 tsp. quart water
1/2 tsp. for two eggs	1 1/2 tsp. serving for 4	1 tsp. to 3 quarts water

The "pinch" and "dash" of salt our grandmothers used have been brought down to exact measurements for the cook puzzled by such uncertain directions. Today's homemaker can salt with accuracy by following this simple guide. Slightly larger amounts of salt should be used during hot summer days or a heavier measure to prevent heat lag which results when excessive perspiration depletes the body of necessary salt.

Interesting Talks Given By Delegates At WSCS Meeting

The regular business and program meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service was held Monday in McKinley Hall which was attractively decorated by Mrs. Charles Brown of Circle No. 3.

The session was opened with the devotional by Mrs. Milton H. Wyatt of Circle 3 who also had charge of the program. She introduced the speaker, Mrs. Russell Tench, who gave an interesting talk in dialogue form on the rural work of the Methodist Church. Her topic was "Conversation on the Bus."

Miss Virginia Chapman gave the highlights of the National Methodist Assembly of the Woman's Society of Christian Service that was held the latter part of May in Milwaukee, Wis. where she was commissioned to full-time foreign missionary. Every Homemaker Strives To Be A Good Manager

A well managed home is a goal of every homemaker. And certain methods of doing things will help her reach this goal, says Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent. These principles have been applied to jobs in business and industry and can be just as helpful in the home.

Better methods in managing the home are a booster for morale. They enable you to do more efficient work with less effort in less time, without hurry, with greater safety and at lower cost. In general, the things you want to do are: 1. Avoid worry about things you can't change. 2. Allow yourself enough time to do things so that you need not rush at the last minute. 3. Keep your weight normal. 4. Plan your work so that you do not get too tired or push yourself to get a job done. 5. Do not lift, push or carry heavy things. 6. Do not run up or down stairs.

AP Survey Shows Crowds Are Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The interest of followers of Willie Mays and the New York Giants, the continued merry turn of clicking in Milwaukee and the sad plight of the Philadelphia Athletics are reflected in a mid-season survey of major league attendance figures.

The survey, conducted by the Associated Press, disclosed today that attendance in the majors is up 834,026 paid admissions over a year ago with 11 of the 16 clubs showing increases.

American League clubs have played before 4,368,541 customers and those in the National to 4,248,187 for a grand total of 8,616,728. In the same number of home dates in 1951, the aggregate was 7,782,753.

The Giants, National League pacesetters, have attracted 679,273 fans for 29 home dates, 23,406 better than 1950 over 1951. All last season, Horace Stoneham's hired hands drew only 811,518 Milwaukee, which set an all-time National League record of 8,436,781 in the same number of home dates in 1951, the aggregate was 7,782,753.

The Braves have attracted 655,006 fans—the most in the big leagues—which compares favorably with their 654,878 total in '50 '51 dates.

The Athletics actually have climbed over last season's attendance figures, 195,052 to 182,355 for 32 dates at home. It has been reported they will have to draw close to 600,000 customers in the Yankee City. To date, the A's have played before slightly higher than 6,000 fans per cent.

Baltimore's improvement at the rate over the defunct St. Louis Browns is the fine showing made by the Detroit and Chicago teams are responsible for most of the American League gain of 701,646.

The Orioles already have surpassed the entire Brooklyn total of admissions for '51. The cellar occupants have attracted 601,716 and could well reach the 1,000,000 mark in their first American League campaign since 1910.

The fourth-place Tigers are 103,304 customers ahead of last year and the White Sox, in third position, The White Sox have drawn the most American League customers, 704,441. The figures include games of Sunday, July 11.

The five major league clubs below their 1951 figures are: The Philadelphia Phillies (91,110), Pittsburgh Pirates (71,377), New York Yankees (64,839), Brooklyn Dodgers (58,861) and the Washington Senators (30,729).

Rosen, Fox Highlight AL's Win In 21st Annual All-Star Game

CLEVELAND (AP)—Injured Al Rosen, who offered to sit out the game "for the good of the team" staged a tremendous one-man show to drive in five runs with two home runs and a single yesterday, but it took Nellie Fox's two-run bloop single in the eighth to give the American League a 7-5 victory over the National at the 21st All-Star major league baseball game.

All sorts of records tumbled under the burning sun at Municipal Stadium as the two clubs staged the dirtiest hitting spree in All-Star history. One of the chief casualties was the National's four-game winning streak.

Rosen's record-tying two homers and five runs batted in provided the top drama to a stirring game in which the lead teetered back and forth like a man on a tight rope. They set a new record with 31 hits for both clubs, 17 for the American League; 20 runs scored by both teams and tied a mark with six homers. The statisticians will be sopping up with new records for the rest of the week.

A roaring crowd of 69,761, only 1,061 short of the All-Star high set at the same park in 1936, thrilled to the batting show, especially because Cleveland hitters drove in 8 of the 11 runs in this American League victory.

But the big mob didn't know the inside story on Rosen, who has been slumping lately because of an injured index finger that affected his grip on the bat.

Before the game Rosen went to Mr. Casey Stengel, who, incidentally finally won an All-Star game on his fifth try. He told Stengel that he was free to take him out at any time if he felt the Indians' first baseman was hurting the team's chances.

Rosen's injury was chosen by the fans to had to play at least the first three innings under the rules, Stengel went to Comar Ford Frick to ask permission to take him out if he wanted after a token appearance.

Frick okayed Stengel's request, but said it should be left up to the player, who had been hitting at about a .200 clip with only one homer since he returned to the lineup after breaking his finger early in June.

Rosen struck out against Robin Roberts with two men on base in the first inning, he wasn't lifted. In the third he came up with Minnie Minosa of Chicago and teammate Bobby Avila on base and slammed a Roberto pitch for a 300-foot homer over the portable fence in left center for a 1-0 lead. Detroit's Ray Boone followed with a homer to make it 2-0.

Rosen's second homer came in the fifth after the National had rallied and forged ahead 7-5 with a homer by Alvin Dark. He had singled to open the last of the fifth, Rosen hit his second homer into the lower left field seats, a 400-foot shot from home plate.

But the Cleveland infielder wasn't through yet. He singled in the sixth and walked to lead the bases in the ninth before Fox, the Chicago second baseman, won the game with his drizzling single back of second base, just out of reach of shortstop Al Dink of New York.

It was a great day for the Indians who had lost four in a row and all but a half-game of their American League lead in Chicago last weekend. In addition to Rosen's second homer Avila drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly and center fielder Larry Doby hit a pinch home run in the eighth to tie the score at 6-6.

After Doby tied it up with his homer off Ernie Conley, the 4-foot-8 rookie Milwaukee pitcher, manager, singles by Mickey Mantle and Herza of the Yankees and a walk to Rosen filled the bases.

Mr. Walter Alton, who sat in on a 7:30 clock when Brooklyn first Chuck Dresser last winter, then called on Carl Erskine of the Dodgers to save the day. It looked as though the hand some eighth-order might get out of it when he threw a called third strike past Steve Nitter Mickey Vernon of Washington.

But Fox ruined the day for Alton and Erskine. He homped a single back of second to send Mantle and Herza racing home with the winning runs.

The winning pitcher was former Orlando Benaur. Dear, Stone Washington's fine rookie lefthander who was a late selection by Stengel when he discovered George Kell, Chicago third baseman, wouldn't be able to make it.

Stone pitched to only one man in the eighth when the National put the slug on Chicago's Bob Koenig. The 24-year-old freshman came in with the National on the front, 9-8, men on first and third and two out.

While Stone was getting ready to pitch to Duke Snider of Brooklyn, St. Louis' Red Schoendienst lit out for home. He was nipped at the plate on Stone's throw to Herza. That set off the only real threat of the day.

Leo Duracher and Charlie Grimm, the two National League coaches, rushed in from the coaching boxes to complain bitterly to the Umpire Bill Stewart of the National. Duracher made motions that he thought Stone had balked. It didn't get him anywhere for the half inning was over and the Americans then came on to pull it out.

It was the first success for Stengel and the Americans in five long years. Casey Fox suffered as a man who couldn't lose a World Series, but he could win an All-Star game. The last American victory was 1949. Their fourth straight. The American holds a 19-8 edge in the series dating back to 1933.
