Hijackers Grab Jet, 358 Held Hostage

One American Wounded By Terrorists Caller Claims Are Libyan

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Four hijackers, firing machine guns, stormed a Pan Am jumbo jet today with more than 350 passengers and crew aboard, wounding two people — including an American — and demanded to be flown to Cyprus.

But a government spokesman in Cyprus said the plane would not be allowed to land there.

An American passenger and a ground-crew member were wounded during the dawn assault on the New York-bound Pan American World Airways jet, airline officials in New York said.

"The American who was shot several hours ago was taken from the aircraft to a hospital. We have just confirmed he is alive," Pan Am spokeswoman Pamela Hankon said in New York. She did not identify the man but said he is a naturalized U.S. citizen.

The Boeing 747's American flight crew escaped through a hatch in the cockpit roof after the hijackers boarded the plane on the tarmac at Karachi International Airport.

Pan Am officials said about 345 passengers and 13 flight attendants were trapped aboard the jumbo jet with the gunmen. Hanlon said a more precise count of passengers was not available because the plane — Pan Am Flight 73 — was boarding when the plane was stormed.

It was not known how many U.S. citizens were being held on the plane but Pan Am spokesman James Arey in New York said. "It must be assumed that Americans are on board."

The jumbo jet, surrounded by airport security officials, was still on the tarmac more than seven hours after it was seized.

Air Marshal Khurshid Anwer Mirza, Pakistan's director general of civil aviation, said the hijackers offered to release the hostages in exchange for a flight crew. He said they demanded to be flown to Larnaca, Cyprus, to demand release of comrades imprisoned on the Mediterranean island nation.

Secret Launch Today

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Under a cloak of secrecy, a Delta rocket was readied today for blastoff, sources said, to ferry the first major "Star Wars" satellite experiment into orbit and get America's battered space program back in action.

The launch date and time was classified and NASA had no comment on reports about the Strategic Defense Initiative flight but sources who spoke on condition they not be identified said Delta No. 180 was set to blast off sometime today.

If so, it would mark the most ambitious "Star Wars" experiment ever placed on a rocket and the nation's first major launch attempt since May 3 when an identical Delta rocket was destroyed after an engine failure.

The pressure is on for a successful flight in the wake of the Challenger disaster Jan. 28 and the explosion of an Air Force Titan 34B rocket on April 18.

All in all, 1986 has been the most disastrous year for American rocketry in two decades.

Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., in a sense confirmed the Delta launching Thursday when he told a reporter that "NASA has been snakebit, but I'm hoping within the next 24 hours we will have a triumphant success."

The $42 million Delta's secret payload was thought to be a dual satellite experiment to test new space tracking systems, a key element in the SDI missile defense program.

John Pike of the Federation of American Scientists in Washington said Thursday he was "80 percent confident" the experiment involves two satellites and could include the destruction of one spacecraft by the other to demonstrate progress in "Star Wars" research.

"One has an infrared telescope on it, some guidance and maneuvering," Pike said. "The other satellite is either a different version of the same thing or it's a target vehicle. It's probably a target vehicle."

"At a minimum, the first satellite is going to track the target satellite and fly formation with it or something. If you want to go down to about the 45 percent confidence level, the maneuvering satellite is going to hit the target satellite."

Delta No. 178 was blown up by Air Force safety officers 91 seconds after blastoff May 3

Mark Lazenby of Cardinal Industries presents the company's plans for doubling the size of the Sanford complex making the local production facilities the largest in the firm's national operations.

Cardinal Plans Doubling Plant

$6 Million Expansion Begins In Fall

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Cardinal Industries, a builder of modular housing, will more than double the size and manufacturing capabilities of its Sanford facility with a multi-million dollar expansion project.

Site plans for a 288,000-square-foot manufacturing complex, to replace Cardinal's existing 125,000-square-foot construction plant, were approved by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Board Thursday.

Construction cost of the new plant will exceed $6 million, with the project planned to begin in late fall, said Robert Lauer, Jr., Cardinal product and facilities development representative.

The new plant will be built just south of Cardinal's existing construction plant on the 39 acres the company owns just off S. Sanford Avenue, three quarters of a mile south of Airport Boulevard.

The 38,000 square feet of office space Cardinal has at this site and across the street will remain intact, Lauer said.

The existing manufacturing facility will be torn down once the new plant is complete, he said. Until then, operations at the present plant will continue.

The new plant will be able to turn out nearly 10,000 modular units a year, compared to the 4,500 built annually at the existing Sanford facility, Lauer said.

homes, apartments, motels, retirement villages and office parks.

The existing Sanford manufacturing plant will be replaced with a parking area and also serve as the location for a pond Cardinal will use as its private supply for fire service, Lauer said.

The pond will hold one million gallons of water, said Mack LaZenby, Cardinal's engineering representative.

LaZenby also said construction of the new plant will not impact on-site natural retention areas.

In addition to Sanford, Cardinal has manufacturing complexes in Baltimore, Atlanta and at two different sites in Ohio, according to John Jolinski, the company's media relations director.

Cardinal's plans include a Knight's Inn Motel in the southeast quadrant of the Interstate-4 interchange at State Road 46, planned for construction this winter or early next year, said Julian Stenstrom, the company's community relations development director.

Also planned are new manufacturing plants in Texas, California, Arizona and either the Chicago or St. Louis area, Stenstrom said.

Church Rejects City Loan Offer, Will Pay Fees

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

A proposal that emerged from a discordant Sanford city commission debate Tuesday has now been declined by the church members it was to have assisted.

Acting on an appeal from members of the Rescue Church of God, and against vehement opposition from Commissioner John Mercer, a 3-2 commission vote on Tuesday carried an agreement that time payments would be arranged for the $15,000 impact fee the church has to pay Sanford before it can begin construction of a mission for the homeless.

However, church members opted out of the tentative impact fee agreement Wednesday, when they learned it will be almost a month before a contract for the time payments can be drawn up and adopted by commissioners.

Instead, the impact fee will be paid in full this week through contributions the church has already secured for the mission's construction, said church member Richard Burke.

The mission will be built at 1701 W. 13th Street, across the street from the church.

Burke will also receive a check and a letter of support for the project from Mayor Bettye Smith. The city's other commissioners, including Mercer, have also indicated they will contribute to the project.

The mayor offered the letter to Burke during a meeting she had with him Thursday. Burke said he will show it to local merchants in hopes of securing contributions of building materials.

The $15,000 impact fee charged to the mission covers hook-ups to the city's water and sewer system. Impact fees are normally required to be paid up front before building permits are issued for the construction.

Church representatives acknowledged at Tuesday's commission meeting they have the money to cover the fee in full, but said the expenditure would severely impact the contributions they've raised for project funding.

The church's pastor, Blanche Bell Weaver, told commissioners "We need to begin work. The Lord spoke to us and told us not to borrow money and so we're not looking to do that."

"I know I'm going to sound like Simon Lagree," Mercer responded, "but this is a terrible, terrible mistake for the city. This would be a loan and we have no right getting in the business of lending money. That's what banks are for."

The city "should not be taking out a mortgage on a church," Mercer said.

Mayor Smith sided with Mercer in voting against the proposal. It was carried by Commissioners Milton Smith, Dave Farr and Bob Thomas.

The three commissioners sided with church representatives on Tuesday who said an arrangement for the impact fee payment was justified due to the mission's non-profit status and the benefits it will have for the city's homeless.

The church representatives had hoped the optimum result of their appeal to commissioners Tuesday would have been a waiving of the $15,000 impact fee, Burke said.

Instead, commissioners said impact fees could not be waived because they provide basis for solvency of the city's wastewater management bond.

Wanted: More Work

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — A municipal employee who claims there's not enough work to keep him busy eight hours a day has published advertisements thanking Toledo citizens for their generous wages and liberal working conditions.

James Pieper, a shift operator for the last 18 years at the Bay View Park sewage treatment plant, bought display ads in the Toledo Blade for a three-day period through today.

Pieper, 47, said requests to his superiors for more work have been unsuccessful.

Pieper, who draws $25,471 a year, said his only responsibility is a 30-minute inspection, which leaves him 7 1/2 hours of free time.

The advertisement reads: "Thanks, Toledo, for 18 years of generous wages, very liberal working conditions, and much more at your sewage plant. J. Pieper, shift operator, Bay View Park."

The 5 1/2-by-6 1/2-inch ad cost $1,311.

City officials say the work is automated, but employees are needed 24 hours a day to monitor equipment for potential problems.

During the past three years, 12 treatment plant operators have been eliminated from the payroll because of automation, city officials said.

Ex-Cop Pleads Guilty To Theft

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A former Sanford police officer charged with robbery pleaded guilty Thursday to grand theft.

Alvin Bernard McGill, 28, of 1107 E. 8th St., entered the plea before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler. McGill could receive up to a year in the county jail.

McGill resigned from the Sanford Police Department following his suspension without pay after crashing a patrol car into two pumps at a gasoline station in November, 1985. He was suspended three times prior to his resignation.

In the latest incident, McGill was arrested June 9 about two hours after a robbery of a Lil' Champ on Upsala Road at State Road 46 west of Sanford. A store clerk noted the license number of the robber's car and that led Sanford police and sheriff's deputies to McGill, investigators said.

According to arrest records, a "bandit entered the convenience store and bought a soft drink. When the clerk opened the register to make change, the robber grabbed the drawer from the register, which contained cash."

The clerk resisted, but let go the drawer when the robber told her to do so.

The vehicle was located at 1809 Dixie Way in Sanford and McGill was found inside that home, although a woman resident told police that she did not know See EX-COP, page 6A

Doctors Scorn Use Of Lie Detectors In Business

Larry Doyle
UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Lie detector tests should not be used by businesses to screen personnel because they may be inaccurate and could do employers and employees more harm than good, the American Medical Association said Thursday.

The AMA Council on Scientific Affairs said while polygraphs may produce valuable information in criminal investigations, their use to determine employee dishonesty or disloyalty is questionable.

"The effect of polygraph testing to deter theft and fraud associated with employment has never been measured, nor has its impact on employee morale and productivity been determined," the council said in a statement published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Polygraphs attempt to determine truthfulness based on a reading of fluctuations in blood pressure, pulse, respiration and the sweating of the palms. But the council noted the circumstances under which polygraphs have been tested, mostly in criminal situations, are not the same in an employment situation and physiological factors may differ.

Since many guilty employees may not feel in as much jeopardy as a potential criminal, their readings may be less severe and harder to detect, the AMA said. Likewise, some innocent employees may be fearful of the test and appear dishonest, particularly when asked general, unfocused questions. Even under optimal conditions, polygraphs wrongly accuse innocent people in more than one-third of the time, the report said. This has important implications when screening large numbers of people, the vast majority of whom are expected to be innocent.

"The erosion of employee morale and risk of employer liability may not be worth the possible benefits of uncovering a disloyal employee," the AMA concluded. "Furthermore, an unacceptable percentage of 'innocent' persons may be labeled as 'deceptive' (when) most of those screened were truthful." Use of lie detector tests in U.S. business has risen considerably during the past few years, with the American Civil Liberties Union estimating that 1 million such tests are administered every year.

The Reagan administration announced recently it would institute regular polygraphs to prevent security leaks, but backed away from the plans. The administration now will not say whether it is using the tests.

Dr. William Hendee, secretary of the AMA council, said that while many AMA members might be opposed to polygraphs on ethical grounds, the AMA's policy statement was based on a thorough examination of the data.

"What we're really saying is that the scientific evidence is not adequate to investigate the efficacy of this procedure," he said. "Without that, there's not even any point in raising the various ethical questions about invasion of privacy and such."

"If you can't even prove it works, all other questions are moot," he said.

Canada Approves Baldness Remedy

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — The Canadian government has approved Upjohn Co.'s patented remedy for baldness and the drug will be introduced on the market by early next month, company officials said today.

Upjohn has a new drug application for Rogaine Topical Solution, formerly called Regaine, for male pattern baldness pending before the Food and Drug Administration as well regulatory agencies in more than a dozen foreign nations, company spokesman T.R. Reid said.

"The approval by Canada is the first for Rogaine and obviously we're pleased by that," Reid said. He said the approval likely would not influence other governments being asked to approve the drug.

"Regulatory agencies in various countries are independent bodies," he said. "We think the FDA has been expeditious in their review (of Rogaine) to this point and we're hopeful they'll continue to perform in that way."

He said company officials are hopeful the FDA will act on the Rogaine application by the middle of next year.

Reid said Rogaine, which is applied externally, will be available in Canada only with a prescription and should be used only under a doctor's supervision.

He declined to speculate how much the product will cost in sales, but industry analysts have predicted that Rogaine could represent up to $1-billion-in annual sales on a worldwide

Upjohn research in 1983 and 1984 into the treatment of male pattern baldness with Rogaine revealed 78 percent of 819 patients in a group that received a 2 percent solution of the drug experienced hair growth during the year-long study.

Of those who experienced hair growth, 40 percent described it as moderate and 8 percent said it was dense.

The drug will be made available in a variety of products, including hair gels and mousses, officials have said.

Upjohn holds a patent on the minoxidil-based solution. Minoxidil has been approved by the FDA for use in Loniten, the brand name under which Upjohn markets tablets to treat high blood pressure.

The compound's apparent capacity to stimulate hair growth was discovered as a side effect by people using the blood pressure medication.

Upjohn earlier this year signed an agreement with Taiho Pharmaceutical Co. Ltd. for exclusive rights for the manufacture and sale of the hair growth stimulant in Japan.

The firm also is expanding its manufacturing facility in Puurs, Belgium, for Rogaine production. Upjohn has spent nearly $26 million to upgrade its bottling plant in Kalamazoo to produce and package the drug, and renovations also are under way at the Puerto Rico plant where Rogaine also will be manufactured.

Technician Charges Radar Faulty During Los Angeles Midair Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the airport technicians union says tests on the primary radar in use at Los Angeles International Airport when a jetliner and a small plane crashed show it was faulty, and he fears "further crashes."

Howard Johannsen, president of Professional Airways Systems Specialists in Washington, said the primary radar was producing no images or only faint images of aircraft locations. But secondary radar was working, however, so the problems probably did not contribute to the Sunday crash that killed at least 70 people, he said.

Johannsen said electronic tests of the primary radar shortly after the crash yielded images on the display screen that could not be read by busy air traffic controllers.

EPA: Drinking Water Poses Threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency, concerned that some drinking water may cause lung or bone cancer, plans to crack down on the amount of radioactive materials found in the nation's water supplies.

Michael Cook, director of EPA's Office of Drinking Water, said Thursday the agency intends to draw up new regulations for radionuclides. There are about 2,000 known such materials — some man-made, others of natural origin — that emit radiation.

Experts believe that among the radionuclides, radon — a radioactive gas — appears to pose one of the largest health threats in the nation's water supplies.

Contaminator Called 'Kook'

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Investigators know "a kook" killed a man with poisoned chicken noodle soup, but say they have no idea whether the killer acted at random, was an enemy of the victim or harbored a grudge against the store.

Camden County Prosecutor Samuel Asbell said Thursday he knew of no suspect or motive in the slaying of Louis Denber, 27, of Runnemede, N.J., an RCA Corp. technician who died Monday from eating cyanide-laced Lipton Cup-a-Soup.

Health officials, police and the Thomas J. Lipton Co. said the tampering appeared to be isolated. They said the box of instant soup that killed Denber — which was punctured on the outside and contained three foil packages with punctures — has been the only tainted package found.

The soup box and packets were being examined for fingerprints, Asbell said.

Vatican Disciplines 2nd Priest

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Vatican has extended its crackdown on prominent dissenting priests in the United States by stripping liberal Archbishop Raymond Hunthausen of several major responsibilities, it was revealed.

"I've gone through a whole gamut of emotions," Hunthausen said Thursday in disclosing that he had been ordered to turn over five of his principal duties to an assistant bishop.

Last month, the Vatican's Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of Faith, formerly the Inquisition, ruled that the Rev. Charles Curran was "no longer suitable or eligible" to hold the position of an official Catholic theologian because of his dissent from church teachings on such issues as abortion, birth control and homosexuality.

Red Tape Tows Soviet Ship

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Coast Guard forced a Soviet research ship to head back to sea, but spokesmen for both sides insisted the problem had nothing to do with the arrest of U.S. reporter Nicholas Daniloff in Moscow.

The 364-foot oceanographic survey vessel Akademik Aleksandr Vinogradov sailed west through the Golden Gate Thursday, two days earlier than scheduled. It had docked in San Francisco Tuesday.

State Department officials denied any link to the Daniloff incident and said the problem was that the Russians had failed to make clear their visit dates when they applied for a permit. Yury Shuysky, the Soviet vice consul in San Francisco, agreed.

Singer Recovering From Surgery

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jazz legend Ella Fitzgerald, hospitalized for the second time this summer, "is improving steadily" in her recovery from open-heart surgery, a hospital spokesman said.

The 68-year-old singer, who has a history of heart problems, was admitted Aug. 19 to the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center and underwent the operation Wednesday, hospital spokesman Ron Wise disclosed Thursday.

"She is making good progress and is improving steadily," Wise said. "She is expected to be moved to a private room on the weekend."

Judge Hastings Appeals To Chief Justice On Data Release

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings has called again — this time on the chief justice of the United States — for public disclosure of all documents gathered by a judicial committee attempting to impeach him.

"I think the public and I should have full access to the report and the evidence upon which it purports to be based," Hastings said in a three-page letter to Chief Justice Warren Burger and Chief Judge John Godbold of the U.S. 11th Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta.

Hastings, of Altamonte Springs and Florida's first black federal judge, repeatedly has called the investigation a witch hunt. He disclosed his letter to Burger and Godbold at a news conference Thursday.

Drug Task Force Meets

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A task force formed by Gov. Bob Graham to recommend legislative measures that will help curb drug abuse has been told by politicians and state officials that drug crimes are skyrocketing and to act quickly.

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., Rep. Larry Smith, D-Fla., and Robert Dempsey, commissioner of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, said Thursday the panel should concentrate on crack cocaine use.

Smith said worries about jail overcrowding from increased drug arrests should be secondary to getting drug offenders off the streets.

Crimes associated with crack have dramatically increased within the last 18 months, Dempsey said.

Reagan Extends Limited Sanctions

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — President Reagan extended a set of limited sanctions against South Africa for another year Thursday and said "additional measures" could be taken by the United States and its allies to pressure the Pretoria government.

Reagan, resisting pressure from Congress for a tougher policy toward South Africa, refused to go beyond the mild actions taken last year and made no commitments to future U.S. action.

In a written message to Congress, Reagan said he was extending the year-old sanctions because South Africa's failure to abolish apartheid and its crackdown on black protesters "continue to endanger prospects for peaceful change in South Africa and threaten stability in the region as a whole."

The executive order would have expired Tuesday. It bans some bank loans, sales of nuclear technology and arms, sales of computers to agencies that administer or enforce the racial-separation policy known as apartheid, and the importation of Krugerrand gold coins. Also, U.S. companies that do not promote racial equality in their South African operations will be denied export assistance.

White House spokesman Larry Speaks admitted the sanctions have not "done what we intended," but told reporters Reagan extended them in the hope that "they would continue to make an impression on the South African government."

The decision to merely extend — and not expand — the sanctions was certain to anger members of Congress, including key Republican leaders, who have prodded Reagan for stronger measures.

Reagan said only that "additional measures to deal with this threat will be considered upon the completion of consultations with key allies on joint, effective measures to eliminate apartheid and encourage negotiations for peaceful change in South Africa."

The House approved a bill in June that would end virtually all American trade with South Africa, except in strategic minerals. It would require the American firms operating there to leave within six months and ban new bank loans to South Africa. The Senate in August approved a bill to indefinitely extend the sanctions Reagan ordered against South Africa last year.

Reagan has said such sanctions will only hurt the majority black population in South Africa and neighboring nations.

Although the House and Senate bills still must be reconciled in conference, agreement is expected on a compromise that Reagan would be all but certain to veto, then face the strong prospect of a damaging override by Congress.

In an effort to strengthen its policy of "constructive engagement," the administration has sought to name a new, black U.S. ambassador to South Africa. That effort ran afoul twice and now centers on the possible nomination of Edward Perkins, the current U.S. ambassador to Liberia.

A senior Reagan administration official who held talks with the British and Japanese governments said Wednesday that Japan is expected to decide on South African sanctions in "broad harmony" with the West this month.

Japan is South Africa's second largest trading partner behind the United States in terms of two-way trade. West Germany is third, Britain is fourth and the Netherlands fifth.

Britain announced last month it would go along with whatever sanctions are adopted by the 12-nation European Community when it meets in late September. The body has a wide-ranging list of measures under consideration.

White House chief of staff Donald Regan told reporters two weeks ago that Reagan was prepared to resist pressure from Congress to toughen U.S. policy toward South Africa despite the racial violence that has plagued that country.

With his administration and Congress on a collision course, Reagan used an Aug. 12 news conference to reinforce his opposition to what he called "punitive sanctions."

South African officials have assailed the prospective U.S. sanctions, as well as those proposed by the Commonwealth nations, as meddling in their internal affairs and vowed to resist foreign pressure to accelerate any movement toward political and economic reform.

NATIONAL REPORT:

Thunderstorms that flooded roads and killed at least two women in west Texas doused the region early today as residents braced for more drenching rain from another wave of storms heading into the area. More rain was also expected in Tennessee, where more than 8 inches of rain fell Thursday, flooding buildings at Middle Tennessee State University with 5 feet of water in Murfreesboro. Scattered thunderstorms were reported in west Texas early today, and more rain was on the way, the National Weather Service said. "The rain will probably increase during the night, and there will be even more of an increase (Friday)," said weather service forecaster Pete Reynolds. Up to 5 inches of additional rain was expected, the weather service said. More than 4 inches drenched Midland, Texas, Thursday, flooding all major roads. Flooding was also reported in Lubbock and in Fisher County in Texas. Flooding also occurred in Atoka and Johnston counties in southeast Oklahoma, where up to 8 inches of rain fell during the past two days. In Alpine, Texas, two elderly women drowned Wednesday night after they left their stranded cars and were swept away by the rain-swollen Alpine Creek, authorities said.

Amtrak Sued

A Sanford woman has filed suit against Amtrak claiming she was injured while automobiles were being loaded onto train cars in 1984.

Beverly Mims also named in the suit an employee, Joseph Henley, who apparently was driving an auto at the time of the incident, according to the suit. She is seeking an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000.

According to the suit, she was pinned between an auto and a railroad car on May 24, 1984, while autos were being loaded onto the train.

She also states in the suit Henley did not use reasonable care, was negligently trained and that the company did not warn her of the danger.

She states she was injured, has incurred medical expenses caused by the incident, and has had a loss of earning power.

No hearing date has been set. The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr.

Clarification

City Commissioner John Mercer did not propose the resignation of all Sanford Code Enforcement Board members as an article in Wednesday's Evening Herald may have indicated.

The "they" Mercer referred to when discussing code board resignations were members who are unavailable to attend meetings. Mercer made the proposal after Tuesday night's code enforcement board meeting was cancelled because four of its seven members would not be present.

Rules Threaten Indian Benefits

Under the U.S. Constitution, American Indian tribes are considered sovereign nations. And, like other nations, it has been up to the tribes to decide who is and who is not an Indian.

Now, in an effort to cut the $807 million federal Indian Health Service Budget, Reagan administration officials are proposing new regulations that would provide free medical and dental benefits only to Indians who can prove they have one-quarter Indian blood, for federally recognized tribes, or one-half Indian blood, for non-recognized tribes.

Alarmed Indian health-care providers estimate that two-thirds of the eligible 75,000 Indians in California will lose their benefits, forcing them to seek care from county and state health programs already stretched to the limit.

Federal officials say they want benefits to go only to those who are most needy. But it does not follow that one's percentage of Indian ancestry determines one's need. Furthermore, the regulations would disproportionately affect western U.S. tribes — and especially Southern California tribes — who have not been recognized by the federal government or under federal control as long as most eastern tribes. Many California Indians cannot verify their bloodlines because of lost or destroyed records, in part a legacy of the 1950s-era congressional termination of many western tribal charters.

Indian leaders argue that, under the Constitution, only Congress has the authority to intervene in Indian affairs. We would not expect federal bureaucrats to decide who is, for instance, a Canadian. Certainly Canadians would be justified in objecting. We see no reason why the executive branch should now unilaterally decide who is an Indian.

The regulations have been proposed before, but only this year have they reached the point where public hearings are being scheduled around the nation. Many Democrats in Congress have gone on record protesting the proposed regulations. We hope their Republican colleagues will help fight a plan that would separate thousands of Indians from health care and from their proud ancestry.

No Right To Write

It's amazing how many inmates imprisoned only after being convicted of violating the rights of others, demand "rights" for themselves.

One such inmate is a man serving 10 years in a Richmond, Va., prison after being sentenced on charges that included forgery and grand larceny.

In 1984 he met another inmate who shared his interest in certain legal matters.

When transferred to another prison, the first inmate wrote to the second without official permission.

The letter was returned as being unauthorized, so the writer sued, demanding his First Amendment rights.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit dismissed the case, holding that the Virginia Department of Corrections' policy limiting inmate correspondence does not violate a prisoner's First Amendment rights.

It added that a lower court had ruled correctly in holding that Virginia's policy is a "reasonably drawn regulation."

Such a policy is appropriate, especially when a convicted forger who, after all, has already abused the writing privilege by signing someone else's name to a document, is limited in writing letters to another convict.

To the criminal slogan "If you can't do the time, don't do the crime" should be added "For rights to send letters, just stay out of letters."

It's All The News That's Unfit To Print

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the nice things about news releases is that they enable readers who have been out of the country for a few days to "catch up" on what has been happening while they were away.

How else, for example, would I have learned that during my absence last month a 2-inch Texas cockroach was presented to the Smithsonian Institution?

There was no word of that event in any of the newspapers I read where I was. Nor was there any editorial mention that the U.S. Agricultural Research Service had changed its policy with respect to insect scents.

Heretofore, insect scientists have concentrated on isolating and chemically reproducing female scents that might lure males to their deaths in traps.

But now, according to a news release I read upon my return, the tables may be turning.

It reports that sex scents, called pheromones, of male papaya fruit flies have been duplicated in the laboratory and used to entice female flies.

A researcher was quoted as saying the experiments should lead to a "new, effective and environmentally safe control for the papaya fruit fly."

"And scientists may eventually apply this kind of trap to other insects whose males lure females," he added.

Although the Smithsonian news release didn't indicate how the king-sized cockroach now on display met its demise, or even specify what sex it was, I like to think it died with a smile on its face.

That's the trouble with old news releases. They may set you to thinking. Which, of course, can cause headaches. Take, along with two aspirin, one from an organization named the "Anti-Terrorism American Committee."

As I perused its contents, I got to wondering if there was a counter-group named the "Pro-Terrorism American Committee."

Frankly, I have never met an American willing to speak out on behalf of terrorism. Even Moammar Gadhafi, the Libyan leader, puts it down.

So that provoked the thought that pro-terrorism Americans may be almost as scarce as those who support low technology.

The latter thought was partially suggested by yet another news release reporting that "peanut marketing is going hi-tech."

That sort of thinking can bring on migraines. As can the train of thought fueled by a National Geographic Society news release on the Oregon Trail.

According to the Geographic, "Most of the nearly half a million people who went west on the Oregon Trail did not ride their horses or wagons, but walked the 2,000 miles to the Pacific."

Such being the case, you might think that Hollywood would create a new type of western movie in which the hero would be a pedestrian rather than a horseman.

I am thinking of a film along the lines of "Destry Hikes Again."

The bad guys, wearing the traditional black hats, or maybe black jogging shoes, could be footpads.

I'll leave it to Hollywood to decide how the girl is rescued. I'm thinking that what the world really needs now is a news release with a built-in headache remedy.

Reagan Charts Future

By Norman D. Sandler
United Press International

Along the sandy beaches of the Southern California coastal playground, the agenda for the remainder of the Reagan presidency has begun to take shape.

In private meetings and discussions with reporters at Santa Barbara, top White House officials, taking advantage of the annual summer lull in Washington, have plotted a course to dispel any notion of Ronald Reagan as lame duck.

A key part is continued GOP control of the Senate. Reagan has had his share of problems even with a Republican majority. Without it, however, his grasp is significantly weakened.

As a result, politics will be a top priority, along with preparations for an expected superpower summit.

Between now and the election, Reagan also must fend off congressional challenges on the issues of trade and South Africa, which warrant careful study by the White House for their possible — and yet unproven — significance in the November elections.

Beyond those immediate challenges lies a short roster of domestic and foreign policy objectives intended to ensure Reagan's place in history.

The weeks ahead will see the formal kickoff of an anti-drug campaign that has become embroiled in controversy over a call for widespread voluntary testing and more limited mandatory testing of government workers.

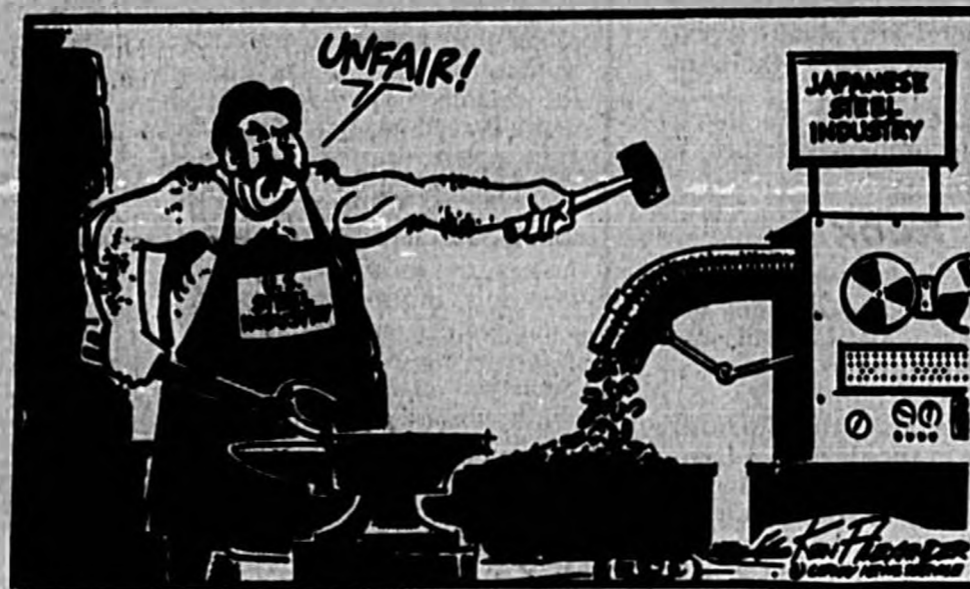

Likely to capture less public attention are two major governmental reforms Reagan will promote in 1987: overhauls of the welfare system and budget process.

A study of how welfare programs can be streamlined, consolidated and made more effective is due in December.

With tax reform under his belt by then, Reagan will attack the intricacies of a process he has come to blame for record deficits. His proposed remedies include two-year budgeting, changes in government accounting procedures, authority for a line-item veto and a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

The area of greatest, if most uncertain, potential is Reagan's quest for an agreement on significant reductions in nuclear arsenals.

And while Reagan has insinuated the SDI "is not a bargaining chip," concessions at the bargaining table may be the only way he achieves the lasting legacy he and his advisers now seek.

SCIENCE WORLD

Rocket's Return

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Rocket builders are revamping 20-year-old technology in a high stakes bid to capture a new commercial launch market and make sure future satellite launchers carry a "Made in USA" label.

Four American aerospace giants are engaged in intense competition to develop a design for a new unmanned medium-class rocket for the Air Force that the government expects will ultimately be used to carry commercial satellites.

It is a move encouraged by the Reagan Administration to get commercial satellites off space shuttles, yet keep the United States ahead of growing competition from the Western Europeans, Japanese, Russians and Chinese.

The most ambitious design, proposed by Hughes Aircraft Co., calls for a giant rocket using two huge Saturn 5 moon rocket F-1 engines that could loft a whopping 85,000 pounds into low-Earth orbit, 20,000 pounds more than even the space shuttle can deliver.

The 205-foot-tall Hughes rocket, which exists on paper only, is called the Jarvis after Gregory Jarvis, a Hughes engineer killed in the Challenger explosion that triggered the resurgence of unmanned launchers.

"We came up with what I think is a very interesting and practical way of getting a large world-class rocket that will not only take care of the near term, the next five to seven years, but as a wonderful building block to take us into the 21st century," said Anthony J. Iorillo, a vice president of Hughes Aircraft.

Even without the Air Force competition to spur design, interest in building new unmanned launch vehicles still would be high in the wake of the Challenger disaster because President Reagan has decreed that the United States will no longer be reliant on the shuttle fleet to gain routine access to space.

Of 44 satellites scheduled for shuttle launch before Challenger was destroyed Jan. 28, only 15 or so can expect a ride on the shuttle before the early 1990s and Reagan has barred NASA from accepting any new commercial shuttle launch contracts.

That means unmanned rockets will have to be used and that presents a problem.

NASA only has a handful of expendable rockets left in its inventory, a few Deltas and Atlas-Centauras, and they are all booked. To carry the load, new rockets will have to be developed and America's aerospace companies are busy developing plans to do just that.

A key ingredient in the "mixed fleet" concept is military space operations. The Air Force has six Titan 34D boosters left in its inventory along with 12 Atlas-Es, which are refurbished ICBMs, and one Atlas-H.

Last year, the Air Force was authorized to purchase 12 upgraded Titan 4s for satellite launchings at the rate of two per year beginning in 1988. The Air Force also gained approval to refurbish 13 aging Titan 2 ICBMs to launch lighter military payloads. Six will be used for Air Force weather satellites, six for classified payloads and one for a Navy oceanographic spacecraft.

In the wake of the Challenger disaster, the Air Force also has won approval to buy 13 additional Titan 4s.

The new medium-class rocket program was launched this summer because the Air Force was faced with launching some two dozen Global Positioning System navigational satellites, originally planned for shuttle deployment, at a time when shuttle payload space will be at a premium.

Under the terms of the four $5 million Air Force study contracts, the new booster must incorporate proven technology and be ready to fly in 1989. A final decision on the ultimate winner of the competition is expected in February.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Muddling Foreign Policy

H.J. Kaplan recently wrote in The National Interest magazine that "we seem to have acquired 435 secretaries of state in the House of Representatives." We also seem to have acquired additional secretaries of state in the U.S. Senate.

Fresh evidence of this comes in congressional foreign policy-setting on sanctions against South Africa. A majority in both houses of Congress is determined to write a new foreign policy with respect to that country over the objections of the President who, according to the U.S. Constitution, is responsible for the making of foreign policy.

This sort of thing has been going on since the Vietnam War. It has steadily worsened, however. We now have full-time, self-appointed congressional secretaries of state such as Rep. Stephen Solarz of New York, who runs around the world proclaiming his version of American foreign policy.

Commenting on this situation, Mr. Kaplan, a former Foreign Service officer and former editor of GEO magazine, says "This is no joke." He asks: "Does any other great nation have a comparable problem? I can think of none." Certainly there isn't anything comparable in Western Europe or Japan. Their foreign ministers don't have to compete with a host of rivals in their respective parliaments.

This is an impossible way to conduct foreign relations or to ensure national security. Recent actions by the House of Representatives with respect to arms control, weapons testing, and chemical weapons not only create great confusion at home, but undercut the efforts of U.S. negotiators to work out agreements with the Soviets. Russian negotiators undoubtedly see their work being done for them by the unilateral disarmers in Congress.

A fundamental change is in order — a restoration of the balance of authority and responsibility established in the Constitution for the Legislative and Executive branches of government. Congress has plenty to do without trying to set foreign and defense policy, but the self-appointed secretaries of state and defense aren't likely to give up their headline-generating activities without a firm rebuke from the voters.

JACK ANDERSON

Best Junketeer: Envelope, Please

By Jack Anderson
And

Dale Van Atta
WASHINGTON — Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., is our choice for the 1986 Allen Ellender Memorial Trophy.

This is our own junketeering award, named for the late Louisiana senator who bewildered foreign leaders and drove U.S. diplomats to distraction as he careened around the world, often lecturing heads of state in impenetrable Cajun French dialect.

We've reported on Pressler's two-day exercise in personal diplomacy in Monte Carlo, when he learned of Prince Rainier's deep resentment of plans to close the U.S. consulate in Nice, France.

The stopover in Monaco was only part of Pressler's swing through Italy and environs during a 10-day investigation last spring of U.S. "bilateral relations" with the so-called "mini-states of Europe."

Actually, Pressler has a long way to go before he'll match the influential Ellender, whose voluminous reports of stupefying banality were always properly published by the Foreign Relations Committee. When Pressler prepared a modest report on his Easter junket, the committee refused to publish it — a stunning setback for the chairman of the subcommittee on European affairs. Pressler had to make do with entering it in the Congressional Record, like any local newspaper clipping or constituent's wedding anniversary congratulations.

Pressler's trip appears to have created maximum confusion among the Foreign Service personnel who had to make arrangements for his whistle stop tour. No one seems to have had a clear idea of Pressler's purpose.

According to cable traffic seen by our associate Lucette Lagnado, the Rome embassy was initially under the impression that Pressler was looking into "consulate closings." This sounded plausible, since consulates were to be shut down in Nice and in Seville, Spain, and Trieste, Italy. However, one cable noted, "the senator did not manifest any interest in visiting Trieste." Few people do.

Then the Rome embassy was informed that the point of Pressler's visit was to "expand his sensitivity to Northern Italy." In line with this laudable goal, he would visit Florence, Milan and Bologna.

Next the embassy learned that Pressler, who is also a member of the Special Committee on Aging, wanted to investigate Italy's treatment of the elderly. While he was in the neighborhood, Pressler decided to drop in on the Most Serene Republic of San Marino, a tiny hillside nation completely surrounded by Italy, and notable chiefly for having had a government dominated or heavily influenced by the Communist Party for the past 40 years. As luck would have it, Pressler's visit coincided with the semi-annual pageantry surrounding the inauguration of the two co-regents who rule the little country.

The Florence consulate cabled Washington that the senator would be "warmly welcome" at the festivities, but warned: "Senior San Marino officials are generally unavailable for bilateral discussions during the inauguration period, due to ceremonial responsibilities."

Undeterred, Pressler went to San Marino and met the country's secretary of state, who solemnly informed him that mini-states are in a position "to offer solid moral and idealistic contribution in the biggest of battles undertaken on the international scene," according to Pressler's unpublished report.

Man Caught Cutting Crack Cocaine

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy patrolling the North and Marker streets outside Altamonte Springs, known as a drug-dealing area, reported checking nearby woods and confronting four men.

One of the four was allegedly cutting up crack cocaine on the back of a speaker box. About a dozen small pieces of cocaine and one piece, about one-inch long was found, a sheriff's report said.

The alleged cutter was arrested and the other three were not charged.

Johnnie Frank Realford, 22, of 608 Pine St., Altamonte Springs, was charged with possession of cocaine at 12:20 a.m. Tuesday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

FORGED AGAIN

A 27-year-old Sanford man, the third to be charged in connection with the forgery and cashing of several checks on the account of a Sanford woman, is accused of altering the dollar amount of one check, which had allegedly already been forged by one of the other suspects.

The man is accused of changing the original forgery amount to $285 from $85, a Sanford police report said. The check was reportedly cashed Aug. 1.

Timothy Bernard Daniels, 27, of 1829 Harding Ave., Sanford, was arrested at the Sanford police station at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday. He has been charged with forgery and petty theft and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

BOGUS BUY

A 21-year-old Altamonte Springs man who allegedly had a false prescription for hydrocodone filled at Dollar Prescriptions, U.S. Highway 17-92, was arrested by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy as he was leaving the store with the drug.

The suspected forgery was reported to City/County Investigations Bureau agents, and the sheriff's deputy was at the store when the suspect returned after ordering the drug.

When stopped and arrested the suspect allegedly fought with the deputy and forced his way out of the store. Bystanders helped the deputy subdue the suspect, the report said.

John Patrick Fizek of 101 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, at 3:04 p.m. Tuesday was charged with obtaining a schedule two drug with a false prescription and resisting arrest with violence. He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Sept. 22.

BICYCLE TOSSEK

A Sanford man who allegedly threw a bicycle and hit his roommate who was moving out as Sanford police watched has been charged with battery and resisting arrest without violence.

Sherman Gene Williams was hit on the leg and the man accused of throwing the bicycle was allegedly cursing and resisted being handcuffed when he was arrested by the Sanford policeman who reportedly saw the incident.

Derrick Allen York, 29, of 173 Wildwood Drive, was arrested at his home at 9:37 p.m. Wednesday. He has been released on $500 bond to appear in court Sept. 17.

BURGLARY CHARGE

A man already jailed and reportedly linked to about 20 Seminole County burglaries had another charge of burglary and grand theft added.

Tuesday at the Seminole County jail that man was charged in connection with the July 18 theft of about $100 worth of jewelry from a home at 231 Conifer Ave., Winter Park. He was reportedly linked to that case by a fingerprint.

Joseph Carl Crawford, 22, of 140 Stephanie Road, Winter Park, was charged in the case and bond was set at $1,000. He remained jailed.

FOUR DOGS CONFISCATED

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy called to 2660 Orange Court, Longwood, by a Humane Society cruelty investigator reported that four dogs at the scene were taken into protective custody and a medical check was ordered for two more dogs at that home.

One of the dogs confiscated was reportedly chained to a tree in the yard and tangled in weeds. It was said to be in poor physical condition and had open sores on both ears.

A second dog, also described as being in poor condition was running loose in the backyard. And a third dog, in the same circumstances was found in the front yard.

A puppy was in the backyard, with a piece of board to use as shade and a water bowl that was out of reach and filled with hot dirty water, a sheriff's report said.

A fifth dog also had a board for shade and a chain around its neck, but no collar. The deputy did not see the sixth dog, which was inside the home. The first four dogs listed were taken from the scene to the animal abelter. No charges have been filed. A 13-year-old girl and a 22-year-old man were listed as residents of the home.

CONCEALED WEAPON

A Lake Mary man was arrested

Tuesday and charged with carrying a concealed weapon. Daniel Charles Smith, 21, of 218 S. Country Club reportedly was brandishing a knife inside his car at a local convenience store. Police later apprehended him at the corner of Broadmore and Clermont. The knife was found under his car seat.

Earlier in that day, neighbors reported Smith had been making obscene statements to a minor child, police said.

Smith was also charged with resisting arrest without violence.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

In separated incidents two Seminole County men reported Wednesday that their canoes have been stolen.

Allen Wallace, or 203 Crystal View Road S., Sanford, reported his canoe was stolen from his backyard between July 19 and 28.

Danny Almsworth, 19, of 2860 S. Cameron Ave., Sanford, reported his canoe was stolen from a pond in woods at state roads 46 and 415-A, Sanford, between May 15 and 18, a sheriff's report said.

Lake Monroe Teen Gets 17 Years In Shotgun Killing

Elwell Cotton, 19, of 4651 Gilder St. also has to pay for the funeral expenses of Richard Campbell, 25, of Third Street, Sanford. Cotton, charged with first-degree murder, punishable by execution, pleaded guilty last month to second-degree murder, punishable by life; 17 years, however, is the recommended sentence under state guidelines.

Campbell was killed by a shotgun blast to the face and another to the chest Feb. 11 while he was sitting in his car with a 16-year-old girl.

Cotton, who has an I.Q. of 69 and earned his living hunting and trapping, told Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler that he didn't think he should pay for Campbell's funeral. He said if Campbell had not acted the way he did, he would not have shot him.

According to comments made by family members before the court at the sentencing hearing, Campbell had picked on Cotton for years and beat him up often. They, along with Cotton's attorney, Steve Laurence, believe Cotton was shooting out of self-defense and that Campbell had a gun at the time and was going to use it.

Campbell's gun, however, was not found, although family members said they believe it was involved in another fatal shooting recently in which Campbell's uncle is accused of killing his son.

State Attorney Bob Fisher said the Campbell shooting was cold-blooded murder, was premeditated in that Cotton shot, reloaded, and shot again. He said Cotton would still be a young man after 17 years and then could get on with his life. He said Campbell does not have that opportunity.

Cotton and Campbell apparently had an on-going dispute and both were friends of the 16-year-old girl. They had been drinking and taking drugs the day of the shooting, according to investigators. The girl had dated Cotton and was at the time of the shooting dating Campbell.

After the shooting, friends put Campbell, wounded in the head and chest. In another car to transport him to the hospital but that car broke down near the scene. An ambulance eventually was called. Campbell, however, was dead at the scene.

Report Says 8 Dead In Latest South African Police Violence

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A Johannesburg newspaper today said up to eight people may have died during clashes in Soweto in some of the worst violence in the black township in 10 years.

Police fired tear gas and shotguns Thursday in clashes with Soweto residents who staged their biggest protest strike since 1976 to mark the attempted burial of 24 people killed by police.

The Business Day newspaper said today three people died in clashes at a railway station between youths seeking to enforce the strike and commuters returning from jobs in Johannesburg.

Police used tear gas and shotguns to disperse the gangs and witnesses said dozens of people were beaten by radicals wielding whips, sticks and rocks Thursday night. An elderly woman was killed when she tried to escape the youths. A witness said she ran in front of a train.

The newspaper said doctors and hospitals reported another five deaths in undisclosed circumstances.

Daniloff Rejects Straight Swap

NEW YORK (UPI) — The boss of journalist Nicholas Daniloff said the newsmen told him that he does not want to be swapped for a Soviet scientist charged with espionage in the United States because Daniloff is not a spy.

Mortimer Zuckerman, publisher of U.S. News & World Report, said Thursday that he considers Daniloff "a hostage. He is not comparable to someone charged with spying."

He termed the U.S. proposal to release an accused Soviet spy to his country's embassy in return for the release of Daniloff, accused of espionage by Soviet authorities, "entirely different" from a straight swap.

Under the terms of a U.S. proposal, the Soviet suspect would remain in the United States for trial while Daniloff would be allowed to leave the Soviet Union.

Troops Patrol Chilean Slums

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Marines shot and killed an armed youth and at least seven people were wounded in gunfire and bomb explosions during the most violent nationwide protests against military rule this year.

Troops patrolled the slums of Santiago early today following Thursday's demonstrations in Chile's five largest cities. Left-wing parties led by the outlawed Communist Party vowed to continue protests for a second day.

Police said more than 300 people were arrested nationwide.

The protests against President Augusto Pinochet, who marks his 13th year in power next week, were called by centrist and left-wing parties that are seeking a return to democracy but are divided over the use of violence.

Hotel Fire Kills 13, Injures 51

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Fire raced through the 205-room Hotel Caledonia in Kristiansand early today, killing 13 people and injuring at least 51, police said.

Witnesses told police the fire started in the reception area of the six-story hotel — the largest in southern Norway.

Authorities said 110 guests were in the hotel when the blaze broke out at 4:40 a.m. Police said 13 bodies were recovered from the hotel and hospital reports said at least 51 people suffered smoke inhalation.

A number of guests were rescued from the roof by firemen using ladders.

All fire services from the Kristiansand region — 100 miles south of Oslo — were called to the scene.

More Cruiseline Bodies Found

MOSCOW (UPI) — Divers recovered 37 more bodies from the wreck of the luxury liner Admiral Nakhimov, bringing to 116 the number of people known dead. Another 282 people were missing and there was little hope any would be found alive.

Communist Party spokesman Albert Vlasov said Thursday the captains of the 61-year-old liner Admiral Nakhimov and the bulk grain carrier Pyotr Vasev were taken into custody pending an investigation into the accident. The ships collided Sunday night, 8 miles off the Black Sea port of Novorossiysk.

Vlasov said 116 bodies had been recovered — up 37 from Tuesday, when the official death toll stood at 79.

Another 282 people are missing — believed trapped in the submerged cruise ship beneath 145 feet of water. A total of 836 people — 559 passengers and 277 crew — were rescued from the 60-degree waters within 12 hours after the accident. No one has been found alive since.

Israeli Soldier Killed In Raid

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli forces stormed a suspected guerrilla base in southern Lebanon, arresting four suspects, but an Israeli soldier was killed in the attack, an Israeli military spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman said the army pushed out of Israel's self-declared "security zone" in southern Lebanon to hit the base Thursday night in the village of Zifkin, 4 miles north of the border.

...Hijack

Arey said the hijackers demanded "an Arabic-speaking flight crew."

A hitherto unknown group identifying itself as the Libyan Revolutionary Cells telephoned a Western news agency in Cyprus and claimed responsibility for the hijacking. They said they wanted the plane to land in Cyprus to negotiate the release of Arab prisoners held in Nicosia.

In Beirut, a group called Jundullah, or Soldiers of God, also claimed responsibility.

But the Cypriot government said that, if the hijackers did manage to get a flight crew and get out of Pakistan, the plane would not be allowed to land in Cyprus.

"Authorities of the republic are determined not to allow in any way the landing of the Pan American aircraft at Larnaca airport, where extraordinary security measures have already been taken," government spokesman Petros Voskarides said in a statement. "The authorities of Karachi airport have already been informed accordingly."

At about 6 a.m. local time (9 p.m. EDT Thursday), four men — firing machine guns "in and around the plane" — boarded the jumbo jet, which stopped in Karachi en route from Bombay, India, to New York via Frankfurt, West Germany, Arey said.

Pan Am spokeswoman Ann Whyte in New York said the gunmen were dressed as "security guards" and airport sources in Karachi said the gunmen wore Pakistani air force security uniforms.

Lt. Gen. Jehanad Khan, the governor of Sindh province where Karachi is situated, and top police officials went to the airport 12 miles outside Pakistan's largest city to oversee negotiations with the gunmen from the control tower. The talks were being conducted in Arabic, airport officials said.

Khurshid said the hijackers explained they held no grudge against Pakistan but "simply want to fly to Larnaca."

Pan Am's office in Bombay said 391 passengers boarded there, including 44 Americans, 15 Britons, two Canadians, 16 Italians, 12 West Germans, 193 Indians and 109 other people of unknown nationality.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., where President Reagan is vacationing, White House Deputy Press Secretary Peter Rousell said: "We are aware of the reports and are monitoring the situation. The president was informed ... and is being kept updated on the situation by National Security Adviser John Poindexter."

him and he did not have her permission to be there, a report said.

McGill reportedly went with investigators to McCracken Road near Airport Boulevard where he reportedly helped them find the cash register drawer which had been thrown in a ditch.

The clerk was brought to the home on Dixie Way where she identified the vehicle and McGill.

According to records, at the time of the incident McGill was employed by the Seminole County Mental Health Crisis Center.

While on the Sanford force, McGill had been suspended for one day after he was involved in a patrol car accident in June of 1984.

Also prior to his resignation, Nov. 26,

1985, McGill had also been suspended in July 1985 after he reportedly aimed a handgun at a man at a Sanford store and allegedly threatened to kill him. No charges were filed against McGill in that case.

He was also accused in March 1985 of taking $20 from a wallet that had been planted by his fellow officers as part of an integrity test. He was found not guilty in the theft case.

However, the $15,000 fee could be paid over a period of time if the city agreed to channel the expenditure through its general construction fund, City Manager Frank Falson said.

Before validation of this arrangement, the city would conduct a title search on the church property, file a lien on it and then prepare and present a contract to commissioners for review and approval at an upcoming session.

The three city commissioners agreed to the process, as did the church members, although the church representatives were apparently unaware all details would have to be completed before the necessary construction permit would be issued.

They found this out Wednesday morning at city hall, when they were told by city staff they could not secure a building permit with a $3,000 down payment on the time agreement.

During the commission meeting, Farr responded to Mercer's opposition by pointing to the $20,000 commissioners tentatively agreed "to give away" two weeks ago to fund a van for the Federation of Senior Citizen Clubs of Seminole County.

Farr, who brought the church's plea to commissioners Tuesday, said "In this case I'm just asking that we lend the money."

"How are we going to get it back?" Mercer asked.

"I imagine they'd use pledges," Farr responded.

The $15,000 impact fee is primarily due to the mission's multiple hook-ups for showers, toilets and sinks. The 600,000 square foot single story structure will be able to house up to 30 people a night, church members said.

Burke said today the church has already raised between $30,000 and $40,000 in contributions to fund the project. He said although the mission's construction has been estimated at $180,000, the church is hoping to cut this cost in half by securing contributions of manpower and building materials.

The mission project had also come before commissioners earlier this summer when church members sought an allowance to city off-street parking requirements. The mission, they said, would have a transient clientele, many of whom would not own cars. The city agreed to pare the parking figure to a minimum.

Insurance Firms Hire Top Guns For Showdown On Liability Law

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The insurance industry has trotted out the big guns in its effort to overturn Florida's new commercial liability insurance and civil liability system reform law.

Among the lawyers for the 179 insurance companies hoping to have the law declared unconstitutional are three former state Supreme Court chief justices — Frederick Karl, Alan Sundberg and Arthur England. The industry also lined up more than 100 possible witnesses, although not all are likely to testify.

Karl and the other lawyers opened a scheduled two-day hearing Thursday, claiming the law, which took effect on July 1, is an unconstitutional restriction of trade, violates the constitutional guarantee of due process and violates a provision in Florida's constitution that prohibits new laws from addressing more than one subject.

Dave Fountain, spokesman for Florida Insurance News Service, said the law is so restrictive that insurance availability would be limited and some companies would consider leaving the state if the suit is unsuccessful.

"Under our system there are certain limits on what government can do," Fountain said. "This statute goes beyond those limits and violates the constitutional rights of the insurance companies."

Department of Insurance lawyers countered that the law is constitutional and, while perhaps the most far-reaching insurance regulation ever adopted in Florida, still addresses only one subject — insurance. They said the law in most cases is basically an extension of regulatory concepts already in place.

"This is not so complex that the Legislature or the court should have to defer to the industry experts as to what they think is fair," said Richard Ervin, lawyer for the department. "At issue is the Legislature's power to act to resolve a crisis situation in Florida."

The insurance law was adopted this spring in response to widespread concerns about lack of insurance availability and skyrocketing premiums. It greatly expands the commissioner of insurance's regulatory power, calls for a 10 percent annual reduction in rates and would rollback prices to 1984 levels on Jan. 1, 1987. The companies would have to justify any increases from 1984 levels.

The law also made several revisions of the civil liability system, known as torts. It set a limit of $450,000 on damage settlements and revised the doctrine of joint and several liability, which determines what percentage of the award in a multiple-defendant suit each defendant must pay.

The insurance industry supported those reforms and did not challenge them in court. But Robert Smith, a lawyer for the Academy of Florida Trial Lawyers representing plaintiffs in damage suits, joined the suit and is challenging the law because of the tort reforms. Smith is a former chief judge of the 1st District Court of Appeal.

Election Results Declared Official

Results from Seminole County's Tuesday primary elections have been declared official.

Members of the County Canvassing Board, made up of Elector Supervisor Sandra Goad, County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, and county judge Fred Hitt signed the certification documents late Wednesday, making the vote tabulations announced Tuesday night official.

Seminole County's results have been registered with the state division of elections in Tallahassee.

No requests for recounts or challenge of the vote was received, elections officials said.

According to the election tabulations, 28,185 ballots were cast in the county Tuesday, which equals a 28.3 percent turnout of the 92,529 voters eligible to cast primary ballots.

Columbus and Baltimore operations, which are now the organization's largest, according to Jolinski.

However, a bit larger than the planned Sanford complex is the Texas facility Cardinal also hopes to build this fall. Lauer said.

All Cardinal representatives said the new Sanford facility will benefit the city as well as their company.

"We see this as enhancing our ability to meet the state's growth potential and anticipate Sanford's reaping benefits in terms of new employment opportunities," Jolinski said.

Cardinal is already the third largest non-governmental employer in Sanford, behind Central Florida Regional Hospital and S&H Fabricating, he said.

Cardinal's Sanford facility was opened in 1974, with two employees, and now employs more than 600, Stenstrom said.

The company's annual Sanford payroll is approximately $15 million, he said.

Additional employees will be hired following completion of the facility expansion but the exact number has yet to be determined, Stenstrom said.

Company officials declined to estimate the number of the new employees.

Man Critical In Apparent Hit-Run

A 38-year-old Lake County man found unconscious on the east curb of North Lake Howell Road at State Road 436 at about 11:40 p.m. Thursday is apparently the victim of a hit-and-run traffic accident.

Altamonte Springs police early today identified the man as Willard Turley of the Lake Monroe Trailer Park at Wekiva Falls in Lake County.

He was found by a Seminole County Firefighter and suffered head injuries and possibly a broken leg, according to a Seminole County sheriff's report.

Turley was transported to Florida Hospital-Altamonte and was reported to be in critical condition, police said. The deputy reported the Turley had not regained consciousness early today.

He was treated at the scene by Seminole County rescue workers before being transported to the hospital.

Turley carried no identification, the report said.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies early today turned the investigation over to Altamonte Springs police, because the accident apparently occurred within the limits of that city, deputies said.

Skid marks on the roadway indicated the man had been hit by a vehicle, deputies said.

Altamonte Springs police spokesman Jim Viner said it may take several days for police to determine what happened to Turley.

Kelly Released To Halfway House

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Former Rep. Richard Kelly, the only Republican anared in the FBI's 1980 Abacem operation, has been released from federal prison and will serve the rest of his sentence at a halfway house.

The Abacem operation was conducted by FBI agents posing as wealthy Arab businessmen trying to buy influence in Congress.

Kelly, a former assistant U.S. attorney, Florida judge and three-term congressman, was sentenced to a 6-to-18-month prison term on charges of conspiracy to commit bribery, bribery and engaging in interstate travel to commit bribery.

Kelly entered the Federal Corrections Institute at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida on Nov. 1.

Superintendent Mike Cooksey said Kelly was released Tuesday.

Kelly has been assigned to the Goodwill Suncoast Rehabilitation Center in St. Petersburg for the remainder of his sentence.

Key evidence against Kelly was a videotape recorded by the FBI at a Washington, D.C., townhouse in 1980. The video showed Kelly stuffing $25,000 — in $100 and $20 bills — into his clothing.

Kelly maintained his innocence, claiming he was conducting an investigation of some felons when he accepted the money.

Although he has completed part of the sentence, the conviction and sentence are on appeal.

In his bid for a new trial, Kelly contends an FBI informant violated his civil rights by stealing some defense documents from Kelly's congressional office before he was tried and convicted in 1981.

The others convicted in the Abacem operation were former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., who received two years in prison and a $20,000 fine; Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., who received three years in prison and a $50,000 fine; and Reps. John Murphy, D-N.Y., Michael Myers, D-Pa., Raymond Lederer, D-Pa., and Frank Thompson, D-N.J., each of whom received three-year sentences and fines.

Unemployment Rate Dips

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment dropped from 6.9 percent to 6.8 percent in August, reaching the lowest level since December 1965, the Labor Department reported today.

Since May, the number of unemployed people has dropped by a half-million and the jobless rate has declined half a percentage point from 7.3 percent. The jobless rate was 7.1 percent in June.

After seasonal adjustment, civilian employment rose by about 275,000 in August. At the same time non-agricultural payroll employment increased by 200,000.

Employment growth was concentrated among white workers while black workers overall posted small job losses.

Unemployment rates among adult men declined to 5.9 percent and dipped among white workers to 5.8 percent in August.

There was little change in the jobless rate from July to August among adult women at 6.1 percent, teenagers at 17.7 percent, blacks at 14.6 percent and Hispanics at 11.0 percent.

The number of unemployed persons in August was 8 million. Total civilian employment was 110.2 million, the department said.

In the goods-producing sector, construction employment increased by 55,000 after seasonal adjustment. Total employment in construction stood at 5 million, and has increased by a third since early 1983.

Manufacturing employment, which had been sinking for six months, held about steady in August. The factory job total was lower by 20,000 workers who were off payrolls in the steel industry because of labor disputes.

More than half of the manufacturing industries showed small increases — considered a good sign in light of a U.S. industrial sector that has been losing jobs due to foreign competition.

There was more employment expansion in the service-producing sector, with an additional 65,000 jobs, with the health services, finance, insurance and real estate leading the way.

Employment also rose in wholesale trade in August. After accounting for the effects of a communications workers' strike in the Northeast, employment in transportation and public utilities was unchanged.

In addition, the government said the proportion of the civilian population that was employed in August reached the highest level ever recorded — 60.9 percent.

Pardon Board Chairman Indicted For Bribery

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The state House speaker pro tem and chairman of the state pardon board were indicted on charges of selling a pardon for $130,000 to an undercover officer posing as a relative of a second-degree murderer.

Speaker Pro Tem Joseph Deloit and Howard Marcellus Jr., chairman of the state pardon board, each were indicted Thursday with one count of conspiracy to commit public bribery and two counts of public bribery. The indictments were returned by the East Baton Rouge grand jury.

Both Marcellus and Deloit are former city council members, allied to Gov. Edwin Edwards.

Oviedo OKs Hiring City Manager; Casselberry Nixes Same Proposal

Oviedo voters decided to hire a city manager to become the city's top administrator, but voters in Casselberry turned the same idea down in Tuesday city elections.

Both city ballots included city charter change questions, which proposed the hiring of a non-elected city manager to administer the day-to-day operations of the cities.

Oviedo voters approved the charter change providing for an appointed administrator on a 342 to 151 vote, or a margin of 69 to 31 percent. When a city manager is hired, he will join five Oviedo councilman and Mayor Robert Whittier in administering the city.

A total of 599 of 1,678 Oviedo voters went to the polls Tuesday, for a turnout of 35.7 percent. Voters also elected three unopposed city councilmen to new two year terms, including Jane Dees and Gary Gotwalt, who will begin their third terms, and Thomas O'Hanlon, a new council member.

In Casselberry, a proposed change allowing for an appointed administrator was turned down by a vote of 985 to 837, with 54.1 percent voting in favor of the present mayor-city council type government, and 45.9 percent favoring a change to an appointed city manager to administer city functions.

The present form of government, which includes a five voting member council, plus an elected full-time mayor serving as chief administrative officer and executive officer of the city was retained.

Casselberry voters did approve other amendments to the city charter, including provisions for qualifications of eligible voters, qualifications for the mayor and councilmen including a one-year residency in the city prior to running for office, and possible removal from office if the mayor or a councilman misses more than three consecutive regular meetings. Also approved was an amendment stating that newly elected councilmen will be seated on the second Monday of December following the regular city election.

No Casselberry city officials were up for election Tuesday.

District 5 Seminole County school board candidate Ann Neiswender is not only the top finisher in Tuesday's school primary. She is also the top primary fund-raiser, according to the final pre-primary contribution reports.

Neiswender, 42, Paola, will square-off against incumbent school board member Jean Bryant, 60, Sanford, a three-term board member, in the November general election. Herbert "Whitney" Eckstein, 41, Sanford, who was eliminated in the primary, raised the fewest dollars, and also garnered the fewest votes.

Neiswender's contributions in the most recent report totalled $6,059, including a recent $500 donation from the Heathrow Land and Development Company. She spent nearly all of the money for advertising, signs and T-shirts.

Mrs. Bryant had raised $950 in cash another $700 in loans and "in-kind" contributions. She spent $1,071 on her primary re-election bid.

Eckstein, a Seminole High School teacher, raised $1,870, and spent $1,587 on his election bid.

In the District 1 race, incumbent Bill Kroll's campaign fund is broke. He raised $2,360, and spend $2,429 on campaign ads and signs.

Kroll will face primary runner-up Larry Betsinger, 43, Longwood, in the November general election. Rudy Sloan, 65, Sanford finished third in the primary and was eliminated.

Betsinger collected $2,465 for his campaign, and spent $2,414 for signs and advertising. Sloan raised $7,650, mostly his own money, and spent $7,476.

Pat Tolson, District 4 school board member, was unopposed in this year's race. She returned $500 in contributions, including $200 from Tom and Betty Binford, and $300 from Growth Control, Inc. She paid an additional $493 herself to pay the school board candidacy filing fee to the county elections office.

Cell Injections May Be Stop-Gap In Liver Failure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A simple injection of liver cells kept ailing rats alive in a laboratory experiment and may one day be used to treat humans while they wait for a transplant, scientists said Thursday.

A team at Albert Einstein College of Medicine injected the rats with liver cells attached to microscopic beads. The cells clustered in fatty tissue in the rats' abdomens, where they provided enzymes necessary for survival.

"This simple technique promises to be useful in the treatment of acute liver failure in humans," they wrote in the Journal Science.

But Dr. Achilles Demetriou, formerly at Albert Einstein and now at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, said, "I don't think this is a substitute for liver transplantation."

The technique could be used for people whose livers stop functioning correctly until the organs recover or to tide them over until a suitable donor organ is found for transplant.

About 600 liver transplants were performed last year, according to the Department of Health and Human Services, but there is still a shortage of donor organs. About 400 patients are waiting for a transplant at any one time, the department said.

The liver stores substances such as glucose, neutralizes harmful substances and secretes enzymes crucial to digestion and absorption. Acute liver failure is a treatable condition in which the organ stops functioning normally due to disease. Transplants are required when damage is extensive and irreversible.

The rats in the experiment were born with deficiencies of two kinds of liver enzymes. After injection to place the cells in their abdomens, the scientists found they kept functioning for several months, providing the missing substances.

In a separate study submitted to another journal, the scientists injected liver cells into animals who had 90 percent of their livers removed, said Demetriou. About 35 percent of the animals survived, while none of a group of non-injected animals lived.

The next step, which could take place next month, is to inject cells from a human donor liver into animals whose immune systems have been suppressed so that the foreign cells will not be destroyed, Demetriou said. If the cells work, the technique will be tried in humans.

A crucial ingredient of the team's experiment is the beads to which the cells are attached. Other teams have found that cells injected by themselves do not survive.

The beads are made of a substance that does not break down in the body, but causes no apparent harmful side effects. They are coated with a protein called collagen, which apparently is responsible for the clustering action, the surgeon said.

For Resettlement In U.S. Vietnam Provides Lists Of Amerasian Children

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam has given the United States "substantial lists" identifying children fathered by American soldiers and considered by Hanoi to be Washington's responsibility, a U.S. embassy spokesman said Thursday.

The lists of Amerasians and other groups eligible for resettlement to America were given to Bruce Beardsley, head of the Bangkok office of the U.N.-sponsored Orderly Departure Program.

Beardsley went to Hanoi last week to try to resolve a conflict that has slowed the emigration of Vietnamese to the United States.

On Monday, he led the U.S. side in the first direct, bilateral discussions on Amerasians — the estimated 15,000 children in Vietnam who were fathered by American soldiers during the Indochina War.

"Substantial lists of Amerasians and their dependents and other people the Socialist Republic of Vietnam is willing to allow to leave Vietnam were given the U.S. delegation," said the U.S. Embassy spokesman.

"The embassy in Bangkok will be analyzing these lists in the coming weeks," said the spokesman.

The Orderly Departure Program was established in 1979 in response to an exodus of Vietnamese trying to flee their impoverished nation in small boats and rundown freighters. The program has facilitated the resettlement of more than 45,000 Vietnamese and 4,000 Amerasians.

Vietnam says the Amerasians are the responsibility of the United States and that they should leave at a faster rate under a program separate from the Orderly Departure Program.

The children often are the victims of discrimination because of the black or Caucasian features.

Hanoi has sought a continuous bilateral dialogue on Amerasians, similar to the one on U.S. servicemen still listed as Missing in Action in Vietnam 11 years after the end of the war. No further talks, however, have been scheduled on Amerasians, the spokesman said.

U.S. officials have limited their direct contact with the Vietnamese because of the lack of diplomatic relations between Hanoi and Washington.

On Jan. 1, Hanoi halted the interviewing of new Vietnamese Orderly Departure Program applicants, saying the United States must remove the backlog of more than 10,000 people who are awaiting final clearance by U.S. immigration.

Beardsley and the Vietnamese focused on the unsettled cases and on the resumption of interviews, the U.S. Embassy said.

Role Of Civil Rights Movement On Blacks' Wages Uncertain: Study

By David E. Anderson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The wage gap between black and white men sharply narrowed between 1940 and 1980 but it is not possible to determine what role the civil rights revolution played in the process, a draft study by the Commission on Civil Rights said Thursday.

The study, to be discussed by the eight-member panel at its meeting next week, said that in 1940, the typical black male in the labor force made only 41.5 percent of the annual salary of a typical white worker.

By 1980, the study said, earnings by blacks had risen to 68.9 percent of that of white workers.

Today, the study said, young black men between the ages of 25 and 34 earn an hourly wage approximately 84 percent of what white men earn, compared to 49 percent in 1940.

"Although these impressive gains are cause for optimism, the fact remains that black men still do not earn as much as white men," the report said.

The report pointed to a number of factors to explain the narrowing of the wage gap, including the convergence in the educational attainment of white and black men, the massive migration of blacks from the South and into higher-paying industrial jobs in the North and a decline in racial discrimination, which, "though still evident, abated significantly between 1940 and 1980."

But the report, in a potentially controversial conclusion for the sharply polarized commission, also said it could not determine to what extent civil rights laws aided in narrowing the wage gap.

"Federal civil rights programs and policies have undoubtedly contributed to a reduction in discriminatory behavior in the labor market," the report said. But, "It remains debatable whether federal civil rights policy is the primary determinant of the growth in relative black earnings occurring after 1964."

Another likely source of controversy is the study's section on the declining labor force participation — defined as those working or actively seeking work — by black men and the possible link of the decline to federal welfare programs.

Chemical Fires Force Evacuation Of 1,600

By United Press International

Two chemical fires at plants in Indiana and North Carolina spewed clouds of noxious smoke Thursday, forcing 1,600 residents to flee their homes. Residents complained of headaches but no major injuries were reported, officials said.

In Durham, N.C., a fire and series of explosions rocked a downtown chemical plant early Thursday, forcing a cloud of noxious fumes over the city.

"The major problem was a cloud formed by toxic vapors from the fire," said Lt. Jack Pendergrass. "It was very obnoxious and offensive to humans in the area."

Police evacuated about 600 people from a 12-block area around the Southchem Chemical Co. where the fire broke out at 2:15 a.m. EDT. Residents complained of headaches and teary eyes and 14 firefighters were treated for exposure to smoke and fumes.

Residents were allowed to return home about 5:45 a.m. after state environmental officials determined the cloud was not a health threat.

"A lot of them were offended by the odor but none of them to my knowledge have been treated by a doctor," Pendergrass said.

The fire was sparked by a battery in a truck at loading dock that set off explosions in three trailers loaded with drums of toluene, acetone, sulfuric acid and sodium hydrosulfite, said Durham Emergency Management Director Ellis Stanley.

"Fifty-five gallon drums were shooting up in the air like missiles just going all over the place," said Sharon Baker, assistant to the Durham City manager. "We were very lucky in this situation."

In Elkhart, Ind., thick clouds of rolling, black toxic smoke from a chemical fire at the Superior Oil Co. warehouse forced about 1,000 residents from their homes, officials said.

The fire at the warehouse about 5 miles from downtown Elkhart broke out at 10:15 p.m. CDT Wednesday, releasing toxic fumes from burning fiberglass resins, organic peroxide, acetone and dichloromethane.

No serious injuries were reported, but 11 people, including six firefighters, were treated for minor spoke inhalation, officials said.

Officials declared the fire under control about 8 a.m. and allowed residents to return home.

"I thought another tank car blew up," said Ray Reed, an area resident. A railroad tank car leaking toxic hydrogen fluoride in Feb. 1985 forced the evacuation of 1,000 area residents.

Firefighters were hampered by the fumes and a lack of fire hydrants in the area, said Don Mockler, director of the Elkhart County Civil Defense. Foam was used to douse the fire, which caused an estimated $1 million in damage.

The cause of the blaze was under investigation.

Lions Slip Past Lyman

Gainey, Jerry, Burton Shine in Prop Thriller

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD — If the rest of the high school football season is half as exciting as Thursday night's fall jamboree between Oviedo and Lyman, then fans are in for quite a treat this year.

With Oviedo leading, 7-0, in the second quarter, Lyman got the ball at its own 20-yard line with just 1:24 remaining. Greyhound quarterback John Burton led the Hounds 80 yards, capping the drive with an eight-yard touchdown pass to sophomore receiver Steven Jerry with just 11 seconds left. Lyman elected to go for two points and the victory, but Burton's pass was incomplete giving Oviedo a 7-8 victory before 2,500 fans at Lyman.

"It was really exciting," Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said. "It was nice to see the kids win but it really doesn't mean that much. We are looking forward to next week."

Blanton can thank senior tailback Willie Gainey for the victory. Gainey rushed for 35 yards on nine carries. The big play came when Gainey broke four tackles and ran 19 yards to the Hounds two yard line. After a brilliant goal line stand by Lyman, Gainey fought his way across the goal line from two yards out.

"Our offensive line played really well tonight," Gainey said. "I was happy with the way we played. We are all looking forward to next week."

Next week the Lions will travel to Lake Brantley to take on the Patriots. The game was originally scheduled to be played at Oviedo but had to be moved since Oviedo High is currently being renovated.

"I have been looking forward to playing Lake Brantley all summer long," Gainey said. "We don't like them very much."

Lyman will open up its season at home against Orlando Boone Friday. "We have got some work to do this week," Lyman coach Bill Scott said. "We got a slow start tonight, hopefully we will get a better start next week when it counts. I'd rather lose tonight than next week."

Scott said that he was happy with performance of Quarterbacks Darren Boyeson and Burton. "Darren and John did a super job tonight," Scott said. "It will be tough to decide who will start next week. We'll take a look at the film and make a decision early in the week."

Boyeson was 1 for 4 for 10 yards and had several passes dropped. Burton was 6 for 9, good for 71 yards and a touchdown. "They are both quality players," Scott added. "I was happy with the way both of them played tonight."

Lyman tailback Robert Thomas, who gained 960 yards last year, was held to only 16 yards. "We have got to work on our ground game," Scott said. "Hopefully it will get better as the season goes on."

Oviedo had the first scoring opportunity just two minutes into the game. After four runs by Gainey put it at the Lyman 23, kicker Gordon King attempted a 40-yard field goal. The kick had plenty of distance but sailed wide to the right.

Lyman got the ball and went nowhere. On fourth down the Greyhounds attempted a punt but got a bad snap from center and punter Scott Radcliff was tackled at his own 19 giving Oviedo great field position.

After Gainey was caught for a two-yard loss, he read a nice block by center King and fought his way 17 yards to the two yard line. Three plays later on fourth and goal, Gainey was stopped at the line of scrimmage but his second effort got him into the end zone. King added the extra point giving the Lions a 7-0 lead with 9:10 left in the game.

After two Lyman drives and one Oviedo drive resulted in no points, the Hounds got the ball back at their own 20 with 1:24 left in the contest. After a short completion of six yards, Burton hit Jerry, who is related to former Lyman, Clemson and Detroit Lions standout Al Lattimer, for a nine-yard gain. Burton then threw a bomb to Jerry that was good for 39 yards. A late hit penalty brought the ball to the Oviedo 12.

Burton then hit wide receiver Jim Lamb for a four-yard gain, bringing the ball to the eight. Burton followed with a looping

Kathleen Holds Off Tribe Willis' Explosive Jaunts Alter Quarterback Plans

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Dwayne Willis, scheduled to step in for injured Jeff Blake at quarterback this fall, threw an interesting monkey wrench into Seminole coach Dave Mosure's plans Thursday night at Lyman High School.

Willis, a senior who led the team in rushing last year, did a creditable job at QB as the Seminoles dropped a 7-0 one-half decision to Lakeland Kathleen before 2,500 fans. But it was his play at halfback the final seven minutes which may have altered Mosure's thinking.

Willis was "Mr. Explosive."

Football

The speedy senior, a key member of Seminole's state champion track team last year, ripped off gains of 10, 7, 13 and 1 yards. On two occasions, he was close to breaking the big one, only to be detoured by a last-second grasp.

"When I was at quarterback I was too tense and indecisive on the rollouts," Willis said about his inability to turn the corner. "When I moved to halfback, I was hungry for the ball. I was close to breaking that one (13-yarder) but some dude (safety man) reached out and grabbed me."

Mosure said he wasn't surprised that Willis made the transition so easily. "When Dwayne is at halfback, he doesn't think — he just runs," Mosure, beginning his second year, said. "There is no adjustment needed for him."

Adding to Willis' explosiveness was an adequate job by backup QB Jerry Governal, formerly Jerry Blankenship. Although the junior was 0 for 3 on his throws, he was cool under fire and handled the operation of the offense well.

Does that mean Willis returns to halfback and Governal moves up to No. 1? "I know what I'm going to do, but I'm not saying," Mosure said with a smile. "I'm really happy with the overall picture. We were much more consistent tonight than a year ago."

"The offense had some real good moments. Everything that occurred in a negative matter (two fumbles lost) can be corrected."

Mosure singled out running back Curtis Rudolph (4/12), tight end Sonny Osborn (2/43) for offensive praise. Willis had both completions in six attempts. Seminole was penalized three

Jamboree II: Rams, Howell Vie Tonight

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

After beating on each other for the first three weeks of the high school football season, players will get a chance to beat on opponents instead of teammates in tonight's fall jamboree at Lake Howell High School. Admission is $2.

In the first half, coach Fred Almon and the Lake Brantley Patriots will meet the DeLand Bulldogs at 7:30 p.m. The second half has coach Mike Bisceglia's host Silver Hawks going up against Harry Nelson's Lake Mary Rams at 8:30.

The fall jamboree does a number of different things for coaches: It gives them a chance to evaluate their players, it shows them what their strengths and weaknesses are, and it gives them a solid idea of what to expect during the season.

At Lake Mary, coach Nelson said that he likes the idea of having a fall jamboree. "I think that the jamboree is good for everyone involved in it," Nelson said. "It is kind of a festive atmosphere. There is also not as much pressure to win."

Nelson said that practices are going according to schedule. "Every thing is going very well," Nelson said. "We are right on schedule."

Leading the Rams' offense will be senior quarterback Shane Letterio. Fullback Tom Kothera and halfback Anthony Hartsfield give the Rams two big tough blocking backs in front 1,00-yard back John Curry.

Nelson said he expects his running game to be potent. "We

NCAA Grants Stay For Nebraska; Bring On FSU

United Press International

The college football season opens on a grand scale Saturday with seven of the nation's top 10 teams in action and NCAA policemen wielding their rule books.

The NCAA, once a docile, fatherly organization, now is as active as some of its football teams. The NCAA agreed Thursday to stay its enforcement of suspensions against 60 University Nebraska players, slapped LSU's program with sanctions and disclosed it is investigating sixth-ranked Alabama for possible violations.

Nebraska entertains 11th-ranked Florida State at Lincoln, Neb., Saturday but for a while it looked as if the game would be canceled. The NCAA suspended 60 Nebraska players Wednesday night for at least one game because they let non-relatives and non-students use their tickets to the game.

Fifty-three players are ineligible for one game and seven are out for two games.

After much deliberation, the NCAA agreed to delay enforcing any penalties against Nebraska pending a hearing Tuesday.

"Our request was to stay the ruling on the eligibility of the players until our appeal can be heard by the (NCAA) Council's Subcommittee on Eligibility Appeals," Martin Massengale, chancellor of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said at a Thursday news conference. He said "the NCAA responded by approving the stay."

Massengale said a telephone conference call hearing of the appeal was planned Tuesday by the NCAA.

"I think we're pleased with the stay," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne. "It gives us an opportunity to draw our breath. The decision by the NCAA came so fast that we couldn't alter practice."

At Baton Rouge, La., the NCAA slapped LSU's football program with a public reprimand and a one-year probation for 12 violations of league recruiting regulations.

The league also issued a one-year ban on off-campus recruiting by assistant football coach Terry Lewis.

However, the university escaped any serious penalties and was allowed to retain television rights and post-season bowl privileges.

A two-year investigation of LSU's football program resulted in 26 allegations of wrongdoing. Those were culled to 12 after university officials appeared at an NCAA hearing in Colorado Springs, Colo., last month.

Meanwhile, in Tuscaloosa, Ala., the NCAA is investigating whether the University of Alabama violated regulations by transporting players to a teammate's funeral.

According to school officials, the NCAA has asked for information on the Aug. 28 funeral of Willie Ryles in Columbus, Ga., just across the state line from Ryles' hometown of Phenix City, Ala.

"We're going to write it up and send it to them," football coach Ray Perkins said Wednesday as his team continued preparations for Vanderbilt Saturday. "We don't think it's a big deal."

The rules in question have to do with "extra benefits" for

Becker Blitzes Srejber

NEW YORK (UPI) — West Germany's Boris Becker wears a watch on his wrist during tennis matches. In his U.S. Open quarterfinal match, it could have been a stopwatch.

Becker humiliated Milan Srejber of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-2, 6-1 in 81 minutes Thursday in a match that was so lopsided that the record night-season crowd of 20,077 at the National Tennis Center was booing the Czech.

The 6-foot-8 Srejber earned just 27 points in the final two sets, which took only 49 minutes to play.

"At the end of the third set I looked at the scoreboard and it said 6-3, 6-2, 4-0," Becker said, "and I said, 'What the hell is going on, this is a quarterfinal match?'"

The unseeded Srejber was listless in the final two sets and could be seen reaching into a brown bag during breaks. He said he was not taking any medication and was not injured.

Becker put just 59 percent of his booming first serves in play but when they did land, Srejber was unable to handle them, winning only three points on the 34 occasions Becker's first serve was good. Srejber, ranked 37th in the world, never broke Becker's serve.

"Before the match I was a little shaky," said Becker, who lost to Srejber in February in their only career meeting. "I felt pressure at the beginning but I play my best under pressure."

Becker, the two-time Wimbledon champion and third seed at the Open, has lost just two sets in five matches to reach his first Open semifinal.

Becker's victory earned him the right to face Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia in one semifinal. Defending champion and No. 1 seed Ivan Lendl plays fourth-seeded Stefan Edberg of Sweden in the other Saturday semifinal.

Mecir improved his record against Swedish players over the last two years to 18-3 Thursday with a 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 victory over No. 7 Joakim Nystrom.

Mecir, who beat second-seeded Swede Mats Wilander to reach the quarterfinals, had no explanation for his success against Swedish players.

"If I knew," he said, "I'd tell you."

The women's finalists will be determined today when second seed Chris Evert Lloyd faces No. 7 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia in one semifinal and top-seeded Martina Navratilova faces No. 3 Steffi Graf of West Germany in the other.

Evert Lloyd, making a record 16th consecutive Open semifinal appearance, has beaten Sukova in all 14 of their meetings. But Sukova extended Evert Lloyd to three sets at Wimbledon and the Federation Cup earlier in the year.

The Navratilova-Graf match was expected to be the feature on today's schedule. The 17-year-old Graf is the only player to have beaten Navratilova in straight sets this year. But that victory came at the German Open on clay. Graf's best surface. Overall, Navratilova has won three of their four meetings.

"Many players go against Martina wanting to win a few games," Graf said.

Bell-Testaverde Shootout Brings Back QB Memories

ATLANTA (UPI) — Every now and then you run into a memorable passing duel on the college football circuit.

Such was the one between Doug Flutie and Bernie Kosar that Thanksgiving weekend of 1984. Such was the one between Archie Manning and Scott Hunter that September night of 1989. And so could be the one between Vinny Testaverde and Kerwin Bell this coming Saturday afternoon.

In that first one we mentioned, Flutie, the 5-foot-9 Boston College quarterback who ranks as the most prolific passer in NCAA history, and Kosar, who left Miami a year early to become a pro, combined for 919 air yards in a 47-45 Boston College victory that was won on the game's final play.

In the second, Manning had an SEC-record 540 yards in total offense, but Hunter, connecting on 22 of 29 passes for 300 yards, was the winning quarterback as Alabama nipped Ole Miss, 33-32.

There's no guarantee that Saturday's duel between Testaverde and Bell will be anything like those two. But you've got to like their chances.

Last year, Bell, the No. 2-rated passer returning to the college scene this year, was 20 of 28 for 248 yards and four touchdowns, and Testaverde, making his debut as Kosar's successor, threw for 278 as Florida, winning 35-23, handed the Hurricanes their only regular-season loss.

Football

Both tuned up last week with Testaverde, a 6-5, 210-pound senior from Elmont, N.Y., going 17-30—231 in Miami's 34-14 win at South Carolina and Bell, a 6-3, 205-pound junior from Day, going 14-23—160 and throwing for three TDs in Florida's 38-14 win over Georgia Southern.

A year ago, Bell threw for 2,687 yards and 21 TDs while leading Florida to its second straight 9-1-1 record and Testaverde had 3,238 yards and 21 TD passes in Miami's 10-1 campaign. Ironic as it may sound, going into the '84 season there was no reason to figure either would see much action in '85.

Bell is a former walk-on who was rated the Gators' No. 5 quarterback after the '84 spring drills and made it to No. 1 just four days before the '84 season opened when the last man still ahead of him at that time, Dale Dorminey, suffered a season-ending knee injury in practice.

Testaverde figured on continuing his No. 2 status until the day he learned that Kosar, an early graduate, was going to skip his final year of college eligibility to sign with the Cleveland Browns.

"I knew he was considering that, but nothing for sure," Testaverde recalled.

Kosar overshadowed Bell in their long confrontation in '84, the Miami ace hitting on 25 of 33 passes for 300 yards while Bell, a redshirt freshman making his varsity debut, going 15-30—159.

"One day I'm the backup quarterback, the next I'm getting ready to start against the defending national champions (Miami)," said Bell. "When I first went into that game, my knees were knocking, I was scared to death, I was really nervous. To look back at what I've done the past two years is unbelievable."

Florida State lost to Testaverde and Bell last season and has to face them again this season so a lot of people ask Seminole Coach Bobby Bowden to compare the two.

"That's like comparing Dan Marino to Joe Montana," says Bowden. "Both are winners. They are pretty much in a class by themselves in what they do. They are different, however, in that Testaverde's a Marino type of quarterback, the classic dropback passer, while Bell's more like Montana in that he can scramble and make something happen on the run."

Gator quarterback Kerwin Bell rolls right looking for a receiver. Bell and Miami's Vinny Testaverde hook up Saturday after in what expects to be a showcase for two Heisman Trophy contenders.

Kerwin, Vinny Aren't Saturday's Only Stars

By Ira Kaufman
UPI Sports Writer

GAINESVILLE — If you dig hard enough through the thick Heisman hype surrounding the quarterbacks in Saturday's Florida-Miami game, some other outstanding players come into focus.

Vinny Testaverde of the seventh-ranked Hurricanes and Florida's Kerwin Bell are two of the nation's finest passers and each got off to a good 1986 start last week.

Testaverde, fifth in the Heisman voting last year, completed 17 of 30 passes for 231 yards in Miami's 34-14 victory over South Carolina. Bell threw three touchdown passes and ran for another score in Florida's 38-14 romp against Georgia Southern.

Although the Gators are unbeaten in their last 21 games at Florida Field, Miami is favored by four points for the 4 p.m. kickoff.

Testaverde received ample ground support last week from junior Melvin Bratton, who scored three times and rushed for 105 yards in just 10 carries. The Hurricanes' defense is led by 275-pound tackle Jerome Brown and linebacker George Mira Jr., who led Miami with 135 tackles last season.

"What concerns us about Miami is their great balance," says Galen Hall, who has lost just one of 20 games as Gators coach. "They have a Heisman Trophy candidate at quarterback and he gets a lot of attention, but he is far from the whole story about their football team. There is no area you could single out to attack and there's no question this is a team capable of contending for the national championship."

Bell is not alone, either. The Gators rolled up 258 yards rushing against Georgia Southern as the huge offensive line opened holes big enough for the pudgy Hall to lumber through. Sophomore Wayne Williams and freshman Octavious Gould combined for 164 yards and the defense limited the Eagles to just 93 yards passing.

The Gator defense has not yielded a TD pass in seven consecutive games, but Georgia Southern's Tracy Ham is no Testaverde.

"The guy (Testaverde) is up for the Heisman Trophy," Florida cornerback Jarvis Williams says. "He's one of the best in the nation and, when you go against the best, the best comes out in you. We are just going to try and play the best we can and try and be state champs again."

Florida leads the series 25-22, including a 35-23 victory in Miami last season. Bell completed 20 of 28 passes for 248 yards and four TDs.

"Bell really hurt us last year," Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson says. "We thought there might be a dropoff in their running game with the loss of John L. Williams and Neal Anderson, but it doesn't appear that is the case. Playing them at Florida Field is quite a challenge."

Making his first college start, Testaverde hit on 24 of 40 passes for 278 yards against the Gators in 1985 but was intercepted twice.

Bethune Turns To Defense For Opener Against UCF

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — The Bethune-Cookman Wildcats, long known for their offensive exploits, will be looking to the defense for leadership in 1986.

After featuring an explosive offense for three years under record-setting quarterback Bernard Hawk, the Wildcats face a rebuilding year at the offensive skill positions while the defensive line returns intact.

Defensively, fourth-year Coach Larry Little renews nine starters from last year's 6-4 squad.

Overall, the Wildcats have 20 seniors back and Little hopes a strong defense can hold on until the offense catches up.

"I feel this team can be good," Little said. "With 20 seniors on the team, we have to be good this year. I feel this team can be as good as the team that won the conference two years ago. I have a lot of confidence in them. I have a lot of winners on this team. What we lack in experience we make up for in hard work and people that really want to win."

Gone is Hawk, the leading passer in Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference history, as well as running backs King Green and James Graham.

A three-way battle for the starting quarterback slot is underway between junior Greg Ross from Miami's Central High, sophomore Anthony Thomas from Lakeland, a transfer from Tennessee, and red-shirt freshman Kris Smith from Jacksonville Boiles.

Little said he expects to go with either Ross or Thomas in the season opener with Central Florida. The Mayor's Cup game Saturday will be played at Orlando Stadium with a 7 p.m. kickoff.

With an experienced offensive line led by senior tackle Donovan Fann, a first-team MEAC player last year, Little expects big things from sophomore running back Kevin Finnie from Miami Northwestern.

"Finnie was the leading rusher in Dade County his senior year," Little said. "Kevin played good football whenever we played him last year (162 yards on 44 carries). I feel he's going to be an outstanding running back and probably the next 1,000-yard rusher before he leaves here."

Sophomore Manny Manolas returns as the placekicker. Manolas hit 12-of-20 field goal attempts last year, including a league-record 52-yarder against Georgia Southern, and 28-of-29 extra points. Five of his eight misses came from 45 yards or further.

The defense will be led by senior strong safety and captain Mark Irvin, another all-league selection a year ago.

"I hope our defense is strong enough to carry us until we get strong enough offensively," Little said. "We've been explosive offensively since I came here and I feel we'll be able to score points. But we can't wait too long. We play some good football teams this year."

"This year, the conference will be the toughest it's ever been. In the past, it's been maybe three teams in the hunt, but this year, we have five teams (out of six) that could win it."

Carter, Snyder Give Indians Optimistic Shots For Next Year

United Press International

Although Cleveland faces another year of waiting for the Indians to contend for the American League East title at season's end, at least they have some personnel worthy of optimism.

Joe Carter hit a grand slam and Cory Snyder added two three-run shots Thursday night to lead the Cleveland Indians to a 15-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

"If I could stay healthy, I had the confidence I could get my numbers together," Carter said. "I still say I'm not a home run hitter. I'm a line drive hitter."

Carter is hitting .444 with two grand slams and 16 RBI with the bases loaded this season. As a team, Cleveland is hitting .355 with the bases loaded, including three grand slams and 80 RBI.

It was Carter's third four-hit game of the season and Snyder's third two-homer game. Every Cleveland starter had at least one hit, and the team totalled 17.

"He's an outstanding ballplayer," Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger said of Snyder. "He's going to be a great one. He's got great power and he can play the infield and outfield."

"This kid's only played a couple of years and look at what he's doing. This kid could be a superstar. He's a great looking ballplayer."

A.L. Baseball

Snyder, who was called up from the minors in June, was hitting .267 going into the game with 20 homers and 50 RBI. The loss was the Brewers' sixth straight, one short of their longest streak of the season.

Starter Scott Bailes, 10-8, went five innings, giving up four runs on nine hits and a walk. Dickie Noles pitched three innings, and Rich Yeti pitched the ninth. Loser Tim Leary, 9-12, pitched three innings, giving up seven runs, four earned, on eight hits. Leary has not won at home since June 20.

In the other American League game, Kansas City downed Chicago 1-0. In the only National League game, Montreal defeated San Francisco 4-2.

Royals 1, White Sox 0
At Kansas City, Lonnie Smith singled home Kevin Seitzer in the eighth inning to support the combined three-hit pitching of Mark Gubicza and Steve Farr, leading the Royals. Steve Farr, 8-4, relieved in the eighth inning and finished. Chicago reliever Bill Dawley, 0-6, took the loss.

Smith Finds Stuff Too Late

MONTREAL (UPI) — Too late for the Montreal Expos to make a difference in the National League East race, right-hander Bryn Smith has found himself.

Smith, a winner of 18 games last season, threw eight innings and brought his record to 10-8 Wednesday night, helping the Expos record a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

"I am pitching the way I know how to pitch and I am getting my curveball over the plate, said Smith. "I just go out there and pitch as long as I can. I try not to walk anybody. I just let them hit the ball and use my control."

Smith struck out seven and walked one in giving up eight hits, including back-to-back homers by Candy Maldonado and Chili Davis leading off the ninth.

"I don't know what it is. Maybe because we are not in the running, there is no pressure on me now. I think this was vintage Smith and when I collapsed it was vintage Reardon."

Jeff Reardon threw the last inning to earn his 29th save, allowing a single but also striking out the side.

Tim Lincecum was 0 for 4 to fall two points behind idle Tony Gwynn in the N.L. batting race. Raines dropped to .332 while Gwynn remained at .334.

IN BRIEF

Seminole Soccer Club Kicks Off With Jamboree Saturday

The Seminole Soccer Club will kick off its 1986 fall season with a soccer jamboree at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Lyman High School Stadium in Longwood. Over 1,300 young people from ages 5 to 19 will participate in the full day of events.

The day will begin with a parade of the 80 soccer teams displaying their team banners as they pass by the grandstand. Each team will then take its proper place on the field for the official ceremony.

Following the opening, each team will play a mini-game of 10 minute halves. Clinics will consist of demonstrating and teaching the various skills of dribbling, juggling, passing, receiving, shooting and goal keeping.

The Orlando Lions will assist with the clinics and will scrimmage shortly after noon prior to their game at Rollins College.

A soccer club spokesman said refreshments, including home-baked goods made by the parents, will be on sale along with T-shirts, hats and other soccer items.

Fehr Trails Mize At B.C. Open

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (UPI) — When the Professional Golfers Association tour takes its road show to courses throughout the country, Rick Fehr travels as a member of the supporting cast.

While the Greg Normans, Bob Tways and Jack Nicklaus get the headlines and endorsements, the Rick Fehrs of the tour are eating fast food and sharing room expenses with other marginal players.

Last year Fehr, a two-time All-American at Brigham Young University, finished 133rd on the tour's money list. He stood 112th Thursday when he shot his best score of the season, a 6-under-par-65, to get him within a stroke of the lead after the first round of the $400,000 B.C. Open.

Fehr enters Friday's second round one shot behind leader Larry Mize and one shot ahead of Bobby Wadkins, Brett Upper, Mark Smith and Bill Gladson.

Palmer, Little Lead The Way

POTOMAC, Md. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer and Gene Littler downed South Africa's Gary Player and New Zealand's Bob Charles in match play Thursday to power an eight-player U.S. team to a first-round lead over an international team in the $600,000 Chrysler Cup.

Palmer had carded holes-in-one on the third hole in consecutive practice rounds Tuesday and Wednesday, but failed to repeat the feat Thursday in the PGA senior event.

"I kind of felt like I was on the 72nd hole of the U.S. Open with a one-stroke lead," said Palmer of his attempt for a third consecutive hole-in-one on the same hole.

Using a five-iron, Palmer bounced his tee shot on the 187-yard par-3 hole off the green and about 30 yards beyond the pin. He did not complete the hole after Player won it with a 25-foot birdie putt.

Pony Registration Is Saturday

Seminole Pony Baseball will hold its Winter League registration on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the Five Points Complex. Registration will also be held from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, Sept. 13.

The Winter League will have a 10-game season with the first game on Sept. 26 and last Dec. 6. Registration fee is $25 and includes Seminole Pony shirt, hat and insurance. If new to the league, youngster must bring birth certificate.

There will be four leagues during the winter including Pinto (age 6-8), Mustang (9-10), Bronco (11-12) and Pony (13-14).

For more information, call Mike Black at 327-2198.

Baby Interrupts Marino Signing

MIAMI (UPI) — Dan Marino's new contract will have to wait at least another day.

Just as Miami owner Joe Robbie and quarterback Marino were ready to iron out the final wrinkles in what will be the richest contract ever signed by a National Football League player, Marino's wife Claire gave birth to a boy that put money matters temporarily on hold.

The baby is named Daniel Charles Marino, weighs 8 pounds, 6 ounces, and is 20 inches long.

Waltrip To Defend 400 Title

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Darrell Waltrip, NASCAR's most dominant short-track driver, will be working for a good starting slot during Friday time trials as he tries to defend his Wrangler 400 title.

Darveau: P.R. Man Of The Short Tracks

The best public relations information in Florida comes from New Smyrna Speedway's John Darveau. Each night after everybody has left the track, Darveau puts together the results of the night's racing.

It's a long and tedious job — but it's a labor of love for the French Canadian veteran of the short tracks. First, he calls all the radio stations, then the scoreboard sections of the newspapers for next day coverage.

After that is done, he types a story and results which he then sends out to the newspapers for their race reports. The final part of race night duties is sending results to the national racing publications.

Darveau has been directly connected with auto racing for the past 25 years. From 1961 until 1967, he was simultaneously general manager, public relations director and the promoter of a northern paved short track which operated on a heavy four-shows-a-week schedule.

Racing hasn't been the only thing he has publicized in his career. How about being in charge of a bunch of performing elephants and exotic dancers? That's just two of the jobs Darveau has held as well as promoting off-road (terrain) racing and championship boxers.

All of the racers at New Smyrna Speedway will agree, however, it would be a bumpy coverage on the short courses without his dedication.

The nation's biggest drag race of the year was held over the Labor Day weekend and "Big Daddy" Don Garlits added yet another laurel to his long list of racing titles.

Garlits, 54, became the first person to win the Top Fuel Finals three consecutive years as he won the 32nd National Hot Rod Association U.S. Nationals at Indianapolis.

Garlits won the final race with a time of 5.399 seconds at 266.66 mph as he outran Miami's Darell Gwynn, last years runnerup. Gwynn had been running quicker times than Garlits all week but Garlits' 35 years of experience paid off in the finale.

"We'd had problems for several weeks, and the problem was horsepower," Garlits said. "We found it at the last minute. It was the fuel pump. We had been using the wrong fuel pump for this track, and we changed it before the last round."

Mike Dunn won the Funny Car championship as he edged out Billy Meyer in the 7-11 Mustang. Bob Glidden won his seventh U.S. Nationals Pro Stock title and recorded his 49th NHRA national victory, the most of any drag racer in NHRA history.

The five-day event attracted an estimated 135,000 drag race fans.

While Mother Nature frowned on New Smyrna Speedway Saturday, cancelling the racing at the popular track, it smiled 30 miles away at Volusia County Speedway. MacClenny driver Steve Moran also smiled as he picked up his second NASCAR late Model victory in a row. Moran took the lead early in the 30-lap feature and held off a hard charging Tuck Trenthan. Trenthan has also been racing at Savannah, Ga. in an effort to place high in the national point standing.

Lakeland's Bob Williams started 16th in the street stock feature in his "Hot Rod Lincoln," but he was first across the finish line when the checkered flag fell.

Donnie Byrd lead flag-to-flag in the cyclone feature holding off a late challenge by second place finisher Donnie Gammon. Dan Cox won the four cylinder class as he lead all 12 laps of the feature event.

times for 20 yards.

Defensively, Mosure said the linebacking trio of Rick Kelley, Earnie Lewis and Steve Warren had just problem. It had trouble covering Lakeland Kathleen's Shannon Baker-Aubrey Bell combination. QB Baker hit FB Bell several times out of the backfield. The only score came on a Baker-Bell swing pass for 16 yards with 3:45 left in the first quarter. Brian Gravatt kicked the PAT for the 7-0 lead.

"It was man-to-man coverage," Lewis said. "We didn't see him and we didn't put enough pressure on the quarterback. But I thought we really looked strong defensively."

Kathleen's touchdown was set up by 235-pound bulldozer Larry Speights who broke over left tackle and rambled 41 yards before Warren ran him down at the Seminole 16-yard line.

"We didn't have the right pursuit angles on that play," junior defensive back Nick Casiello said. "But we played them tough tonight. We are a good defensive team."

The defense handed the offense two good scoring opportunities.

With nine minutes left in the first quarter, Kelley smeared halfback Stanley Jenkins who coughed up the ball at the Kathleen 28. John Harky covered the ball for the 'Noles.

Seminole, though, couldn't get a drive going and a holding penalty killed the threat. Kathleen marched 88 yards for the game's only score on its next series.

Early in the second half, the defense came through again as Casiello, who moved to Sanford from Boston four years ago, separated Bell from the ball after a short gain and DB Willie Campbell pounced on the pigskin with 11:40 to play at Kathleen's 41.

Willis promptly hit Osborn for 14 yards to the 27, but a motion penalty lost five yards and when Willis threw away a lateral pass, Seminole was back to the 44. Willis then threw incomplete and the Tribe had to punt.

Campbell, who is one of four new members in the secondary, said he feels the rookies are up to the task. "It's a lot tougher than JV," he said. "But we played a good tonight. We'll be even better next week (in the season opener at Titusville Astronaut)."

Mosure also said defensive linemen Ardlene Daniels and Keith Denton had strong performances. "Defensively, there was no confusion," Mosure said. "I wasn't impressed with out backside pursuit, but we were gang-tackling and hitting. We're looking forward to next Friday."

pass on which Jerry made a spectacular leaping catch on for the touchdown.

Jerry, though, was so elated with the catch that he came out of the game by mistake. On the two-point conversion attempt Burton overthrew his receiver in the corner of the end zone.

"Steve Jerry is going to be a heck of a football player," Scott said. "He is only a sophomore and will be getting much better. I wish that we had stayed in the game, though."

Both Scott and Blanton said that got what they wanted out of the jamboree.

"We got a chance to see what kind of team we have," Blanton said. "I think that we will be a competitive club."

"I know what we have to work on now," Scott said. "The jamboree was very helpful to us."

Gardening

Preparation For Mother Natures' Fall Weather Should Begin Now

September is one of the busiest months of the year for us dedicated gardeners. The fall vegetable gardening season is here. And, it's time to make ready to set out some annuals and ornamental shrubs. It's a good time for a general cleanup of your home grounds, too. Since the warm weather is still with us, we need to keep a watchful eye out for insect and disease problems.

We're getting many reports of different kinds of caterpillars roaming around — from sod webworms to oak worms and army worms feeding on trees, shrubs, and lawns. It really doesn't make much difference which caterpillar is doing the damage, the control is the same for all of them. You can spray malathion, diazinon, Sevin or Dipel to bring them under control. If it looks like your lawn has been mowed, and you didn't do it, you can bet it was sod webworms or armyworms. Be on the lookout. Scale insects, whiteflies, mites and aphids are busy, too. Check with your favorite garden supply center for control materials.

So far, we've been lucky. No hurricanes, yet. But, don't think the season is over. You can bet some will form in the Caribbean and along the Equator between here and Africa. My observation is that many homeowners have not cleaned out the dead trees following the freezes of a couple of winters ago. Given a hurricane coming from the wrong direction, you may find those trees on top of your car or home!

Check all of your trees for broken, damaged or dead limbs. Falling limbs can be very dangerous and can cause considerable damage to anything they may strike. It may be necessary to reduce the size of overgrown, neglected trees. If you've kept your trees thinned out properly over the years, and the canopy in proportion to the trunk, you'll have only minor pruning to do.

Many palms, especially the Queen or Cocos plumosa, were severely damaged by those freezes a couple of years ago. They may look normal, but don't be fooled. Beat you check them carefully by tapping the trunk lightly with your knuckles — like knocking on a door — to see if there are any soft spots. If so, and they are extensive, you may be better off removing the affected tree. The center of the palm trunk may have a couple of inches of live tissue, but the outside layer may be totally dead and rotting beneath the surface. A strong wind will bring the damaged trees to the ground.

If a hurricane threatens, outside movable plants, such as tropicals in tubs, and hanging baskets, should be brought indoors. Believe it or not, less-than-hurricane-force winds can strip the leaves from the plants, topple them over, or cause breakage of branches and stems.

Let's hope that there will not be any hurricanes hitting our area this year. But, it is better to be prepared for them. Check your landscape now and take any precautionary measures as needed.

If you want a flower garden this fall, now's the time to decide on a location and start preparing the soil. Pick a spot that receives full sun for at least a half-day. Grow your annuals in a spot where there is no competition from trees and shrubs. The roots of the trees will quickly use up any nearby fertilizer and water.

Actually, you have a wide selection of attractive flowering annuals from which to choose. And, some of the hardier species will tolerate some very cold weather. Among them are alyssum, candytuft, dianthus, baby's breath, verbena, phlox, calendulas, petunias, snapdragons, and sweet peas. All of these can be planted or set out the last two weeks of September.

Geraniums, too, will soon be coming out of their summer doldrums and begin to put on new growth as soon as the weather begins to cool a bit. Prune them back if they're leggy and plant in full sun later this month.

This is the last call for pruning poinsettias you have growing in your landscape or in pots. As you are aware, poinsettias should be pruned regularly during the spring and summer months to develop more compact plants that will produce an abundance of showy bracts this winter. You should not prune after Sept. 10 because you will reduce flowering by removing buds that begin to develop about that time or shortly thereafter. So, if you need to prune, do it now! Cut back new growth that is about 12 inches long, leaving at least four leaves on each shoot. Remember, do it now — do not prune after the 10th of this month! Happy gardening!

Royalty Crowned At Good Samaritan Home

Happy smiling faces — that's what the residents of Good Samaritan Home displayed as they waited for the grand announcement of the 1986-87 King and Queen Contest. Only a few can be chosen as royalty. The festivities for the afternoon were presided over by Mrs. Victoria Killins. Music was furnished by Morning Glory Choir No. Three. Little Miss Monica Thomas presented a unique dance routine and Mrs. Mary Smith narrated the fashion show of the afternoon. These models will someday make the big time. The highlight of the occasion was the presentation of the winners of the King and Queen Contest by Mrs. Verdel Pugh, director of social activities for the residents of the home. ## Schoolhouse 'Arrest' Scares Children And Angers Parents

DEAR ABBY: Recently an incident occurred at my children's school that upset me. Two third-grade boys were caught stealing candy and money from a teacher's room. One boy did not show up for school for a few days. When he returned, he told the kids he had been away "camping." The other boy, however, received a different punishment. He had a history of causing trouble at school, so his father suggested (and the principal agreed) that the boy be given a good scare. The principal called the police, and two police officers came to the school and told the boy he was under arrest. This "arrest" took place in front of the other students. The boy was handcuffed and led to a police car, presumably to be taken to jail, although I doubt that the incident was carried that far.

No explanation was made to the children about the "arrest," but my children came home wide-eyed, convinced that policemen do arrest little kids as they had seen it with their own eyes.

I was furious about the way the matter had been handled. When I spoke to the other parents, I was shocked to learn that many of them thought this type of scare was good for the children. I still disagree. What do you think?

ROSWELL, N.M., MOM

DEAR MOM: I agree with you. The end does not justify the means. What will the children think when they learn — and they surely will — that policemen do not arrest little kids; that those whom they trusted and respected the most — their parents, teachers and officers of the law — lied to them and had staged a phony arrest to scare them? I think, in the end, that scheme will do more harm than good.

DEAR ABBY: Can you please tell me why restaurant owners keep their restaurants so dark you need a flashlight or a match in order to read the menu? It's ridiculous. Most people would like to see what they're eating. At least I do.

Am I an oddball? Or do people really enjoy going to a restaurant and sitting in the dark?

NO BAT IN PORTLAND

DEAR NO BAT: I speak only for myself, but I agree, when the water has to bring a flashlight to the table in order to read the menu, it's time to lighten up. Read on for another common complaint from a diner:

DEAR ABBY: Why do so many of the finer dining rooms have "background" music so loud that the customers have to shout in order to be heard? My wife and I were invited to one of the nicest restaurants in the city, and had a miserable time because we couldn't even carry on a conversation with the couple who treated us. It was our anniversary and we had looked forward to a nice visit, but it was impossible.

Please print this to let restaurant owners and managers know that most diners, especially the older ones, find it very difficult to converse with loud, so-called background music going on. If folks want to hear music, they will go to a concert. Good eating places do not need music at all. Thank you.

QUIET, PLEASE

DEAR QUIET: You can say that again.

DEAR ABBY: I doubt whether there is any documentation on this, but what word do you think is more apt to be misspelled more than any other?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: "Hors d'oeuvre" gets my vote.

DEAR ABBY: Kirk Douglas notes that his mother spent her last seven years in a nursing home where she was well cared for. Then he cites horror stories, giving the impression that good nursing homes are the exception, when, in fact, they are the rule. Thousands of families will attest to this. We have a file of letters thanking us for excellent care we have rendered to loved ones.

I invite Mr. Douglas to come to Vermont and see our facility, and speak personally to our residents.

'Real' Pharmacy Is A Rare Art

DEAR DR. GOTT — I recently read your column about using boric acid for vaginitis. As a compounding pharmacist, I agree with your comments. In fact, I have been making such capsules for eight years. I believe the reason your readers could not find a pharmacist to make the capsules is that many druggists stopped compounding medicines when the public refused to pay for the time and skill involved in the preparation of special products. I make my living as a compounding pharmacist, and as far as I'm concerned, that is "real pharmacy."

DEAR DR. GOTT — A year ago I had a Copper-7 IUD fitted. Since then I've had a thick, white, mucus-like, odorless discharge. My gynecologist isn't worried, but I'm sick of it. Can you offer any advice?

DEAR DR. GOTT — An intrauterine device (IUD) for contraception can cause a harmless but troublesome vaginal discharge. Most women with IUDs put up with this annoyance because, for a variety of reasons, they prefer this form of birth control. If you are bothered by the discharge, ask your gynecologist to remove the Copper-7 and to discuss with you alternative methods of contraception, such as barrier devices, tubal ligation or vasectomy.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've never read anything in your column about people shrinking. I'm 69, still do my household chores and walk some, despite arthritis, thyroid problems and high blood pressure. Is it too late to do anything about shrinking?

DEAR DR. GOTT — As people

age, they lose height. This is due to shrinkage of tissue, primarily the supporting structures between the vertebral, hip and leg bones. Also, many patients tend not to stand up straight; this change in posture can give the appearance of shrinking. Finally, the vertebral bones in the elderly tend to lose substance and mass; this causes a forehortening of the spine. Calcium supplements, a nutritious diet and regular exercise can slow the shortening process, but — to my knowledge — there is no way to prevent it. Be informed about prescription drugs: Send for Dr. Gott's new Health Report, CONSUMER TIPS ON MEDICINES. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. ## WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
My father always said that the best bridge tournament director he had ever known was Gen. Alfred Gruenther, who started his career as a military instructor at West Point. Father recognized that it takes the discipline of a military officer to keep unruly bridge players in hand. Today's deal shows that Gruenther was a fine player as well.

North's hand was sparse for a takeout double, but Gruenther had plenty of values to jump to six diamonds over four spades. As far as West's double of the slam goes, all I can say is that this call was certainly in the enterprising spirit of bridge in the 1930s. Today's expert would know not to double a slam when the declarer bid expecting to make it. Still, the general had his work cut out for him. He won the spade ace and, before touching trumps, led a low heart from his hand. Since it would do West no good to now grab the ace, he ducked. When the queen won, the heart king was shed on the spade king and a heart was ruffed. Declarer played a low diamond to dummy's nine and ruffed dummy's last heart. A diamond to the king removed the last trump from West's hand, and next came dummy's nine of spades. When East followed low, South discarded a club. Poor West had to win that trick and now had the choice of leading away from the club king or giving a sluff and a ruff. Either way, Al Gruenther had won a major bridge battle.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY SEPTEMBER 6, 1986
Material goods that you are eager to accumulate will come to you much more easily in the year ahead. However, you must guard against being too complacent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You must not allow others to make decisions for you today that could end up costing you money. You should definitely call the shots yourself. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, PO Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's a mistake to underestimate your competitors today. They might hold cards that can trump what you think is your ace in the hole.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid doing business today with any person or firm you know from experience does not keep promises. A leopard doesn't change his spots.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Prudence is a must today; otherwise, you might spend a little here and a little there, and when you add up the total, discover you've busted your budget.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It might not be as easy as you first thought to reach an important goal today. Before progressing, you could slip back a few steps.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) At a social gathering today, limit your conversation to topics you are thoroughly familiar with. If you pretend to know something you don't, you'll be unmasked.

FISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In your financial involvements today, try not to pin your hopes on rose-colored projections. A failure to see things as they are could prove disappointing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, in business or social situations, try to avoid associating with individuals who do not think on your wavelength. Their presence could invite dissension.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The day has just so many hours, and in order for you to be productive, you must schedule your time effectively. Don't leave critical tasks until the last moment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Exclude betting from games with friends today. When money enters the picture, it could change the complexion of a fun activity.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Think through for yourself today suggestions offered by others. Their advice might not help resolve your particular problem.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Relax and enjoy yourself today, but do not treat serious matters with indifference. You can be casual regarding games, but not about your business.

Benson's Sister Trying To 'Put Life Back Together'

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — In her first interview since her brother was convicted last month of murder and attempting to kill her, tobacco heiress Carol Lynn Benson Kendall said she is trying to put her life back together.

Steven Wayne Benson, 35, was convicted of the pipe bomb murders of his mother, Margaret, 63, and adopted brother, Scott, 21, and the attempted murder of Kendall. Kendall was severely injured in the bomb blasts July 9, 1985, which erupted in the family van outside Margaret Benson's luxury home in Naples.

Benson was sentenced Tuesday to two consecutive life terms in prison, and will be ineligible for parole consideration for 50 years.

Kendall, 43, a strikingly handsome blonde woman despite visible scars on the right side of her face, was interviewed outside her Naples apartment by Fort Myers, Fla., television station WINK. The interview was telecast Thursday night.

Kendall said it is difficult to explain how she feels now.

"It is such an unbelievable situation for anyone to have to deal with," she said. "I just reach down inside myself trying to keep myself together."

Asked how she is dealing with the loss of her mother and Scott, who actually was her illegitimate son who was adopted by her mother, Kendall replied: "It is a very private thing. It hurts very, very much. Very much is a mild way of putting it. The way I deal with it, is to try NOT to think about it more than I have to."

Asked if she had any fear of Steven getting out of jail and what she thought about the sentence, Kendall said, "I did have some concerns about my safety before the sentence, but the jury found that Steven tried to murder me once. I am relieved at the judge's decision on the sentencing."

Kendall's lawyer, Richard Ciraci, frequently advised Kendall NOT to answer some of the questions posed by the television reporter — such as whether she believed her testimony convicted her brother, if she had recommended to the judge that he impose the death penalty, and why she was fighting in court to keep Steven's children from sharing in her mother's $10 million estate.

About her plans for the future, Kendall said, "I face reconstructive surgery in the fall. That is several months of difficult and painful therapy. I have been working on my masters at Boston University in films, and I would like to finish my thesis if my health permits. And I have two teenage sons to raise. And we'd like to get back to some kind of normal life."

She said neither she nor her brother had tried to contact each other since the month-long trial.

Pediatricians Call For Contraceptive Ads

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Academy of Pediatrics endorsed television and radio commercials for over-the-counter contraceptives, saying they are needed as an antidote to TV programs that "advertise sex without any responsibility."

In a formal policy statement Thursday, the national pediatricians group said advertising for condoms and other non-prescription contraceptives could reduce unwanted pregnancies without encouraging promiscuity among teenagers.

"There is no evidence that increased sexual knowledge alters the likelihood of teenagers having sexual intercourse," the academy said. "However, there is evidence that increased knowledge leads to increased use of contraception and decreased consequences of pregnancy and infection in those teenagers who are sexually active."

The pediatricians accused the three television networks, which all ban commercials for contraceptives, of implicitly endorsing sex while restricting information about preventing pregnancy. "Certainly the innuendos from the shows that are on television, the daytime soaps being the classic example, advertise sex without any responsibility," said Dr. Joseph Sanders, chairman of the academy's committee on adolescence.

"There is clear evidence children and teenagers spend a considerable amount of time watching television," he said. "And if television wants to give them the message that people are having sex, then they should also send the message that you have to be responsible about it."

"It could be just a discussion before they hop in bed," he said. "The man could ask the woman if she's on the pill or should he take some precautions. It doesn't even have to be that explicit."

Network representatives were cool to the pediatricians' recommendations.

"We just don't feel it's appropriate for us to advertise that product," said Jeff Tolvin, director of business information for ABC-TV. "We have our own standards here."

From Blown-glass Spheres To A Simple Stone..

Paperweights Can Be Fun, Functional And Profitable

They can be shining, multi-color, blown-glass spheres or ovals. They can be flat, cut-glass blocks, with a picture pasted to the bottom to be viewed through the glass. Or they can be something as simple as a stone.

Just about anything will serve if you're simply thinking of function, but if you're thinking of collectible value when selecting a paperweight, you'd better pick something other than a stone, unless it's a pretty special rock.

The production of and selection of special weighty glass objects to prevent fly-away papers is a tradition that began in the 19th Century, according to paperweight fancier Penny Rinaldi.

Until then heavy coins sometimes anchored papers on a clerk's desk in a drafty office.

Paperweights peaked in popularity in the U.S. around the turn of the century, Ms. Rinaldi said, but today we're seeing an upsurge in interest in both old and new paperweights.

Sanford's June Gordon, who began collecting paperweights in 1970, when she took home two in exchange for an item she returned to an antiques dealer, said at first she took these finds that had been foisted upon her for granted.

"They sat around. I didn't pay much attention to them. One day I put them on a windowsill and thought they looked kind of pretty, sparkling.

"I started picking up others and got interested in how they are made by glass blowers. I started going to art shows and collecting them. I have a variety of different types. Some have historical significance and were used at different times in the U.S. They're artistic, basically, and rather fascinating.

"I suppose one could be used as a weapon in the middle of the night, to pick up and defend your body. They're easy to pick up and on the whole quite lovely.

"If you get one signed by the artist, that increases the value. I don't collect for value. I collect for individual beauty. They have to have some artistic value to me."

Ms. Gordon said.

"You don't have to have many," Ms. Rinaldi said. "One or two as an accent piece." But once the collecting bug bites people usually can't stop at that.

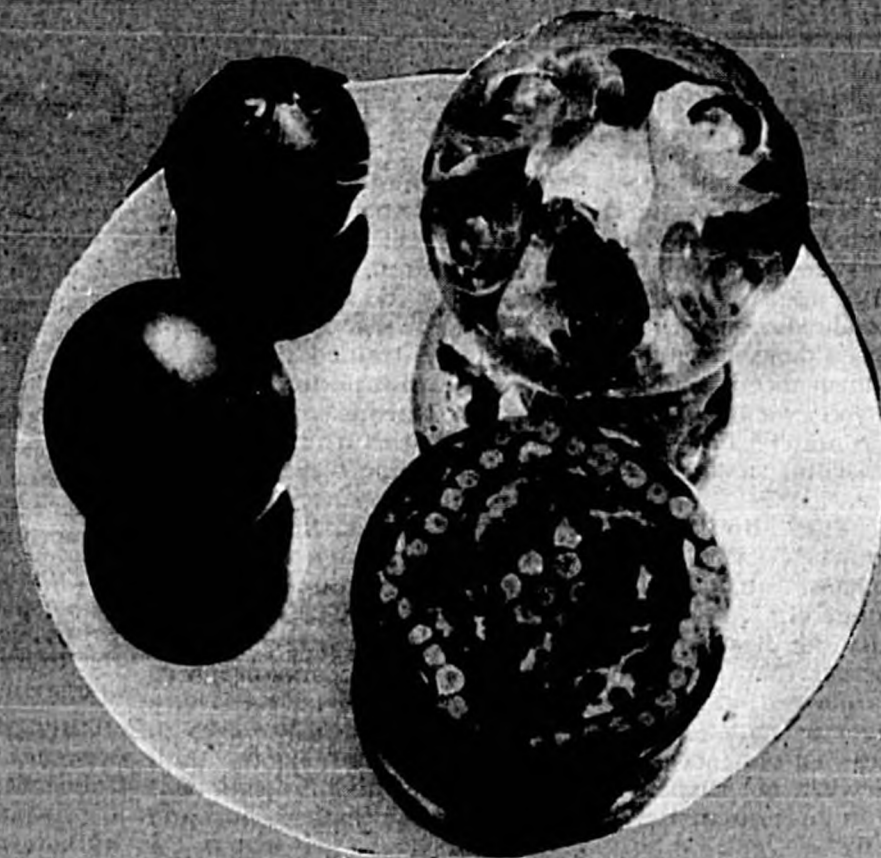

In her collection Ms. Gordon has some old and some new. She has paperweights that advertise old-time products, as well as one with the date '1895' hidden in its glassy globe center along with a fireworks-type design. That weight, she believes, may have been created to celebrate some U.S. state's centennial.

Her favorites are a contemporary series that have a very "outerspace" look. "I use them as a night light, lit from the bottom. It gives a completely different dimension. They change color if lit from the bottom."

Ms. Rinaldi has a cut-glass weight with a goddess and cherubs pictured in a pose favored in the early 1900s. That weight is valued at about $30. But most of her paperweights are contemporary and the prized ones are signed by the artists.

Some are from Scotland and others from Italy. Their values range from about $15 up to $300 and $400. Most of the Italian paperweights have a floral-type design imbedded in the glass globe.

...Paperweights

"Primarily it's glass rods that are individually fused together and individually cut and hand placed with the solid glass placed over the patterns," Ms. Rinaldi said.

It takes "hours and hours" for Italian artists to create such a paper weight, she said. "The quality, the patterning and the clarity. They are signed too."

And it's a type of work that is too time consuming for the American artists to create without the paperweight being priced out of the range of most collectors, Ms. Rinaldi said.

"You really have something unique when you have a paperweight. No two are exactly alike," she said.

Some are frosty satin-glass, while others have a carnival-glass finish. Glass threads track the surface of some and some have imbedded designs, each reflecting their era and cultural origin, as well as sunlight.

Ms. Rinaldi's American-made paperweights, she said, were made by artists who are in their 70s, and there are, she said, very few young American artists pursuing the craft. So, in America paperweight making seems to be a dying art.

Despite their beauty and collectibility, Ms. Gordon said there are a couple of drawbacks to having a paperweight collection. "They get dusty and you have to have a place to put them."

And the weight of the paperweight has no bearing on its value.

Macho Latina

'Private' Jenette Goldstein Makes Her Mark

By Frank Sanello

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — The role of Private Vasquez in the hit film "Aliens" is a small but memorable one. Vasquez is a tough female Marine with bulging biceps, a tacky tattoo and a thick Spanish accent.

"Have you ever been mistaken for a man?" one of her fellow Marines asks in the movie.

"No," she shoots back. "Have you?"

The biggest surprise about the Vasquez character doesn't come until the closing credits, which reveal that the macho Latina is played by somebody named Jenette Goldstein.

The 26-year-old actress — who is Jewish, not Hispanic — grew up in an affluent Beverly Hills family.

After attending college in Santa Barbara and studying acting in New York, Goldstein was accepted by an acting school in London, where she also began a successful career as a stage actress playing — what else? — Americans.

"Aliens" was filmed in England, and Goldstein auditioned for the movie without knowing what it was about. It is hard to imagine how the casting director ever envisioned the tiny, 5-foot-2 classically trained actress for the role of the tough-talking Hispanic Marine.

During the first audition, Goldstein didn't even affect a Spanish accent. And she showed up with shoulder-length hair, high heels and cover-girl makeup. (For the film, her hairdo was greased back and cut very short.)

But Goldstein came prepared when she was called back for a second reading. "I came in wearing combat boots, tight black pants and my hair was tied back so it looked short and unattractive," she says. "A good casting person can see beyond externals. They were looking for a quality inside."

Her performance was so convincing that despite her Jewish name, a lot of agents and casting directors apparently still think she's Hispanic. In fact, Goldstein is now receiving many scripts that call for her to play Latinas.

Goldstein, however, is turning down those roles.

She says she's not really afraid of being typecast in Hispanic roles, although it would be an understandable fear, since, next to black women, Spanish-surnamed actresses are the most woefully under-represented minority in the acting profession.

"Producers should see that if I can play somebody so far away from myself, I should be able to do a lot of other things," Goldstein says.

One of "Aliens"'s most eye-catching scenes involves Goldstein: Private Vasquez has just awakened from suspended animation during a long space flight. The rest of the crew, all males except for Sigourney Weaver, is groggy and lethargic, but she bounces out of her sleeping capsule and immediately performs a series of strenuous chin-ups.

"I think they had me do chin-ups so the line about 'Have you ever been mistaken for a man?' would make sense. I have very large breasts and hips, and I was wearing a tight T-shirt and fatigues. Nobody could mistake me for a man, not even the sexist pigs among the crew, if it weren't for my strength," she says.

Goldstein didn't have to get in shape for the role the way Sylvester Stallone did for "Rambo," because she was already in great shape. The health-club craze hasn't hit England, so she had worked out at a traditional, musty men's gym with a boxing ring in the middle of the floor.

Since moving back to LA to capitalize on the publicity generated by her "Aliens" role, Goldstein has been working out at the similarly no-frills YMCA in Hollywood. "I pump iron, but I haven't boxed since I was a child. My uncle was a boxing manager, and he got me interested in it."

Goldstein hopes to move back and forth between stage work in Britain and screen jobs in Hollywood. Her British-born husband, a veterinarian who studies endangered species in remote places like Iceland and Africa, has moved to LA with his wife.

Friendly, soft-spoken and not at all overbearing like her Vasquez role, Goldstein nevertheless bristles a bit when her Marine incarnation is described as "butch." She says: "I never thought of her as being incredibly butch."

Goldstein points out, "Strength and heroism aren't solely male qualities. Sure, if you watch TV you start thinking all women walk around with high heels and low IQs. But in reality women can be amazingly strong."

"I don't think in terms of feminine or masculine."

Can TV Make A Better World?

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Can television make the world a better place?

Ted Turner, of SuperStation, Cable News Network and Atlanta Braves fame, believes the answer is yes. Last year he founded The Better World Society to make the planet a safer and sweeter place for us all.

The society is a different beast than other non-profit organizations with a global perspective. The 6,000 member Better World has taken the notion of using the media to get across a viewpoint a step further by creating its own programs, with celebrity members as stars.

It has the big names on the international board — Jimmy Carter and Jean Michael Cousteau — and on the committee — Jane Alexander, Harry Belafonte, Shirley MacLaine, Norman Mailer, Lily Tomlin, Cyrus Vance, Gene Kelly, William Colby — that guarantee exposure.

Above all, it has a media mogul as chairman. Turner, who believes the world would be a better place without nuclear weapons, and with fewer people, supplied $500,000 in seed money. Then he donated air time for Better World programs such as "Challenge of the Caucasus," "Our Finite World; India," "Women — For America, For the World," "A Step Away From War," and "The First Fifty Years: Reflections on U.S.-Soviet Relations."

The society's plan of action is simple: to use that electronic box which connects us all — television — to change the world.

"While our programs will focus on the grim realities of nuclear war, overpopulation and environmental degradation, we will attempt to convey a sense of hope by showing projects that work and avenues that offer solutions," says the Better World newsletter.

But the very nature of Better World stirs controversy. In several of the early programs, President Reagan's administration was taken to task for foot-dragging on the nuclear disarmament negotiations.

The Catholic church, for one, will not be pleased with Better World's belief that birth control is one way to reduce world population.

And Better World's idea of a better world may not be the same that big business had in mind.

Nevertheless, Better World has the money and the media to get out its message.

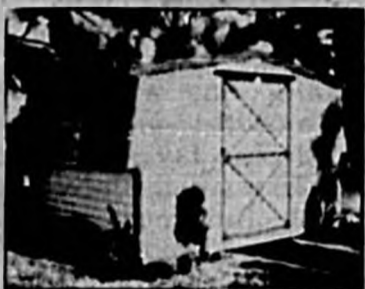

Cable News Network is currently seen in 22 countries. Not a bad start for Turner, who says global problems need a global consensus to solve them.

Now that we live in a world linked by satellite such a consensus is, at least theoretically, feasible. In India, TV shows reach as many as 50 million people. In China, it's 200 million. In Russia, TV will be available to 97 percent of the population by 1990.

Until all these multitudes get with the program, Better World is naming its version of the good guys who are setting examples the rest of us could follow. They will be honored Sept. 9 in New York during the first Better World Society awards dinner.

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo will deliver the keynote address. John Denver will sing. Yoko Ono will hand out awards and celebrities will pack the audience.

The Beav Is Back

By Mark Schwed
 UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ward and June Cleaver were the perfect television parents, except for one unforgivable mistake — they named their son Theodore. No wonder everybody just called him "The Beav."

Theodore "Beaver" Cleaver was a well-scrubbed, wide-eyed boy overflowing with innocence who occasionally got into trouble, and whose home life was shared by millions thanks to the magic box in the living room.

The Beav was America's kid, the child for the TV generation who aged before our eyes, beginning in 1957 when his show, "Leave It to Beaver," first aired on network television.

He was the first lasting child star produced by network TV. His 234 reruns still air, and have been popular now for three generations.

"Gee, Wally," as the Beav might say.

For most, the Beav has been frozen in time since the 1950s, forever remaining the fresh-faced boy who lived in a warm and homey place at 211 Pine Street in Mayfield, U.S.A.

Now the Beav is back as a grownup.

Starting Sept. 8 (6 p.m. EDT), Ted Turner's SuperStation (WTBS in Atlanta) will start running episodes of "The New Leave It To Beaver" every Monday and Sunday on more than 200 independent stations.

The show will feature most of the old cast, including mother June Cleaver (Barbara Bill-ingsley), older brother Wally (Tony Dow), creep Eddie Haskell (Ken Osmond), and a few more kids. The initial order by Turner was for 74 shows, the largest advance order in television history. This assures the Beav a place in living rooms until 1990.

The living room is familiar turf for Jerry Mathers, who played the Beaver from 1957 to 1963. His show aired at a time when television and people were becoming friendly, more at ease with each other. And the Beav's home was the friendliest place in the world, stocked with loving relationships and old-fashioned values.

But growing up on network television did not give Mathers an ordinary life as a child — or an adult.

"I can go anyplace in the United States and when I walk off the airplane people come up to me and say, 'Hi, Jerry, or 'Hi, Beav,'" says Mathers. "To be honest with you, I'm a pretty friendly guy. I have friends all over the country."

"People don't think of the Beav as an actor. They think of him as somebody they grew up with, someone who has been with them in their homes all their lives."

"It was not a normal life." As soon as Mathers finished the series, he went to high school, the first time he attended classes with other students. He played team sports and started a band, "Beaver and the Trappers," that became popular at sock hops and proms.

'Woodshedding' In Earnest

By Jim Lewis

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Jerry Reed thinks you never get too old to learn and the singer-actor-composer-director-guitar picker is going through that process right now. In his words he's "woodshedding."

"I've been working my brains out. I've been woodshedding," he said. "I haven't been fishing in two years."

Reed, acknowledged as one of country music's great guitarists and at one time one of country music's most avid fishermen, confessed that he went through some difficult times a few years back.

"There was a time about four years ago when I got kind of washed out. I didn't like what I was doing. I was doing the same thing over and over and I got sick of it. So I've been working harder on the guitar in the last four or five years than I ever have in my life and it's starting to pay off. I really think it is. I think I've worked hard enough now that the lights are starting to come on again. I've started to play better," he said.

Reed, who appeared in the three "Smokey and the Bandit" movies (two with Burt Reynolds), has returned to the basics with his career — singing, picking and writing.

"To tell you the truth it's getting more fun now than it's ever been because I finally figured out what this business is all about," he said.

"It's not about me. It's not about the guitar. It's not about the business. It's about people. It seems like the more you learn, the teenier your brain gets and the more sensitive you become to people, which is the secret to all this business and living and everything."

Reed began picking when he was a little boy in Georgia and began writing songs when he was 14. His first recognition came from Chet Atkins, the fabled guitar impresario and record company executive who gave Reed some good advice. He told Reed to quit trying to make records the way everybody else makes them and to be himself.

Reed did and the result was "Guitar Man," his first hit back in 1967. The song eventually was picked up by Elvis Presley and went to the top of the pop charts. Reed's songs were also hits for Johnny Cash, Conway Twitty, Glen Campbell, The Captain and Tenille, Tanya Tucker, Mel Tillis, Ray Price, Tom Jones and others.

Reed's songwriting credits brought him BMI country awards for "Misery Loves Company," "Remembering," "A Thing Called Love" and "U.S. Male." Other hits include "When You're Hot, You're Hot."

"The business is so much easier than it ever was because the pressure is gone."

Hughes Film
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Eric Stoltz and Mary Stuart Masterson will star in John Hughes' new movie "Some Kind of Wonderful," which Martha Coolidge will direct from Hughes' original screenplay.

Hughes, who specializes in teenage comedy-dramas, directed "Pretty in Pink" and "Ferris Bueller's Day Off," each of which grossed $40 million.

"Some Kind of Wonderful" is Hughes' third movie under his contract with Paramount Pictures.

Coolidge's best-known films are "Valley Girl" and "Real Genius."

'Black Sheep' Didn't Fly Long But Had Real Roots

Dear Debra — What was the name of the show with Robert Conrad as Maj. Gregory Boyington? How long did it run? Were any of the plots based on actual happenings? What was the title of the book by Greg Boyington on which the series was based? — J.B., Bally, Pa.

"Baa Baa Black Sheep" was the original name of the series and of the book by Greg Boyington. The show began under that title in September 1976 and ran until August 1977. It was then dropped by NBC. However in December 1977, they revived it with the new title of "Black Sheep Squadron." It ran until April 1978, was dropped and then picked up again for the summer, from July through September 1978.

As for the truth of the action, I can say this: The series was based on Boyington's book and Boyington was a real Marine Corps flying ace in World War II, so there's bound to be some of his experiences wedged in there between the fiction. Also, Boyington served as a technical adviser for the series.

Dear Debra — I have a bet with a friend, so I'm turning to you with several questions. Who played in "Boys' Town"? I said that there were two "Boys' Town" films, one starring Spencer Tracy and another starring Pat O'Brien as Father Flanagan. Am I right? Also, what is Soupy Sales' real name? — K.G., Muskegon, Mich.

Celebrity Corner

So sorry, K.G., but this time you'll have to hand over the winner's laurels to your friend. There was only one "Boys' Town." It was made in 1938 and it starred Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney, Henry Hull, Gene Reynolds, Sidney Miller, Frankie Thomas, Bob Watson and Tommy Noonan. It won an Academy award for Tracy and a nomination for best picture. Pat O'Brien was not in the story of Father Flanagan and his home for delinquent boys (although O'Brien played many other priests in his film career).

As for TV comic Soupy Sales, his real name is Milton Hines. He was nicknamed Soupbone to go along with the nicknames of his brothers — Hambone and Chickenbone.

Dear Debra — I just saw "Purple Hearts" on TV and was quite impressed with the actor who was featured in it. Was he in any other films? — E.R.S., LaPorte, Ind.

You must be referring to Ken Wahl and yes he certainly has. Wahl appeared in "Fort Apache" and "Jinxed," as well as several TV movies.

Dear Debra — Is the woman who plays Pearl on "227" the same person who played Esther on "Sanford and Son"? — V.E., Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

No, they are two different actresses. Helen Martin plays Pearl Shay on the NBC series "227" and LaWanda Page played Aunt Esther on "Sanford and Son" from 1973 to '77.

Politics, Religion Mix On TV

By Guy MacMillin

The offices and studios of WNE, Channel 31, are located just off Interstate 91 in White River Junction, Vt.

This small, friendly TV station in a nice, friendly part of the country calls itself "Your Hometown Station."

An NBC affiliate, WNE runs its share of syndicated sitcoms and game shows, but the station also produces a weekly magazine show, along with four daily newscasts. And general manager Karen Creighton goes on the air once a month to answer viewers' questions.

The 34 people who work there aren't religious zealots or political activists. But, like hundreds of other TV stations around the country, WNE does have a strong ideological flavor to it: It broadcasts eight hours a week of hard-line conservative programs.

Actually, these political-religious productions aren't programs at all; they're hour-long commercials. The producers of "The 700 Club," Jerry Falwell's "Old-Time Revival Hour" and Jimmy Swaggart's crusades pay stations to put them on the air. Then they raise money through over-the-air appeals.

At WNE, Creighton says, such shows make a "reasonable" contribution to the station's revenues.

What do viewers learn from them? Well, did you know that God says Mikhail Gorbachev is "a master of propaganda" whose arms-control proposals are "false concessions"? I'd been a little wary of Gorbachev myself, but I didn't know my suspicions had divine confirmation until Jimmy Swaggart said so.

Swaggart also said that the Supreme Court may not like it, but "Christianity is the worship of the nation of America." Then, to underscore the point, he shouted "Christianity" six times.

Heaven only knows where that leaves everybody else.

The messages of Jerry Falwell and "The 700 Club" are similar, but parts of "The 700 Club" are disguised to look like a newscast.

A recent show featured an investigation into Live Aid, Farm Aid and other charity events. It alleged, among other things, that the famine in Ethiopia was "being manipulated by the communist government" — implying, I suppose, that we ought to let the Ethiopians die.

The report ended with this commercial-within-a-commercial, delivered by host Pat Robertson: "Certainly those day-to-day operations, such as our Operation Blessing that's out there on the line every single day, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, can probably do more good than some big splash...."

A while ago, after Robertson lectured viewers about federal judgeships, the liberal lobbying group, People For the American Way, asked 130 stations that carry "The 700 Club" to broadcast a brief reply. A month later, only a dozen stations had agreed to run it.

Creighton says that, although WNE didn't receive the request, "We will entertain any intelligent commentary or attitudes that are available."
