Crane Slams Into Train.

Five Dead, 130 Injured

BENONI, South Africa (UPI) - Surgeons operated around the clock today to save scores of injured pulled from a train car crushed like a sardine tin by a steel crane. The freak accident killed five people and injured 130 others.

"I saw the crane smash into the coach," said Mike Krasner, who was driving on the highway next to the tracks. "The noise was unbearable. The coach was crushed. The crane was dragged for at least 20 yards." The 25-ton crame careened 200 yards down an embankment and slammed into the commuter train carrying hundreds of blacks on the main line between Johannesburg and its eastern suburbs Friday. Police said the crane may have been started on its plunge when one of its tires went flat.

IRA Killers In England?

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) - Irish police say the possible "triggermen" who detonated the bomb that killed Lord Mountbatten may have fled to England and are hiding in the Irish community there.

In Northern Ireland, security forces said they expected arrests shortly in the IRA ambush that killed 18 British soldiers in the border town of Warrenpoint on Monday shortly after Mountbatten was killed in the explosion of his yacht.

Acting on intelligence reports that the IRA now operates in tightly knit hour-man "cells." Irish police said they were seeking two more men in the Mountbatten case.

Iran May Revise U.S. Deal

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Iran may revise its oil sales agreement with the United States because of the 'hullabaloo'' over a single shipment of American kerosene and diesel oil, the Iranian oil chief said in remarks published today.

"We might be confronted with the demands of our people for what may well be a revision of our American oil agreements." warned Hassan Nazih, chairman and managing director of the National Iranian Oil Co. Nazih told Kayhan International newspaper Friday Iran might abandon the $47 million purchase of kerosene if the U.S. press misrepresented it.

Croatians Terrorists Sue U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) - Two convicted Croatian terrorists who were returned to the United States from Paraguay last July have filed an $8 million damage suit in federal court charging they were kidnapped by U.S. agents. The plaintiffs, Miro Baresic, 28, who was convicted of killing Yugoslavia's ambassador to Sweden in 1971, and Ivan Vujicevic, 30, now are being held in the Metropolitar Correctional Center on charges they used fraudulent visas to reside in Washington for two years. Baresic, a reputed member of the Ustashi movement which sided with the Nazis in World War II, and Vujicevic were released from a Swedish prison in 1972 as part of a ransom demand by airline hijackers.

Refugees Sent Back To Sea

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) - Police said today they will allow refugees who landed their small battered fishing boat on the Thai beach to repair it, but then they must be pushed back out to sea.

United Farm Workers Union Reaches Accord, Boycott Ends

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez' striking United Farm Workers Union reached a tentative contract agreement Friday with the nation's biggest lettuce grower, ending a nationwide boycott against the products of the United Brands Co. The UFW said its pact with Sun Harvest, Inc., gives field hands a 57 percent increase in wages and fringe benefits. The union had been on strike against the firm, which is owned by United Brands, since January.

Chavez, president and founder of the UFW, immediately called off the boycott against Chiquita Banana and all products of United Brands - including A&W Root Beer and John Morrells Meats - because of the agreement.

Carter Relaxes In Plains

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) - President and Mrs. Carter spent the first day of a relaxed holiday weekend shaking hands with tourists, fishing in the South Georgia wilderness and renewing old friendships "where our roots are." Carter spent more than two hours on his longest walk through Plains as president, holding hands with first lady Rosalynn Carter and smiling through swarms of gnats under a hot South Georgia sun. He walked through almost every Main Street shop, hugging lifetime friends and patiently posing for pictures with jubilant tourists who were allowed freely through Secret Service lines.

Spine Surgery A Success

BALTIMORE (UPI) - University of Maryland doctors completed the first successful operation to replace a lower spine early today after 19 grueling hours of surgery to implant an artificial metal spine in a semi-paralyzed woman.

Jessie Thomas, who entered the operating room at 7:30 a.m. EDT Friday, was listed in good condition today and resting comfortably in the hospital's intensive care unit, hospital spokesman Peter Stanton said. The operation, the first of its kind to replace a lumbar spine, provided Mrs. Thomas with an artificial spine to replace her missing lower spine and protect her spinal cord.

Thevis At Murder Scene

ROME, Ga. (UPI) - Prosecuting attorneys, deter-mined to link pornographer Mike Thevis to the scene of the slaying of a former associate and an innocent bystander, apparently did just that Friday.

Rodney R. Letchworth, a 44-year-old Atlanta stockbroker, testified he saw the pornography czar and another man at the scene of the slaying of Roger Dean Underhill and Isaac Galanti Oct. 25, 1978. Thevis has been charged in a 10-count federal indictment with killing Underhill, Galanti and two other men while attempting to take over the nation's pornography business through murder, extortion, arson an other criminal acts.

Perjury Charge Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A top Justice Department official has broken grand jury secrecy in a rare move to quash a report that a presidential aide may have committed perjury about fugitive financier Robert Vesco. Assistant Attorney General Philip Heymann issued a statement Friday denying a New York Times' report that he told grand jurors the aide seemed to have perjured himself during the probe about alleged White House contacts with Vesco.

The Times said Heymann told eight grand jurors and a federal judge on July 13 that White House aide Richard Harden appeared to have lied during an inquiry into allegations Vesco tried to bribe White House aides.

Pioneer Reaches Saturn

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) - Pioneer II becomes the first spacecraft today to explore Saturn, the most distant planet yet reached by mankind's probes of the solar system.

Saturn and its spectacular rings were reached by the craft after a journey of 6½ years and 2 billion miles. The planet is the sixth out from the sun and the second largest. Pioneer's trajectory carried it on a course flying under the planet's three main rings to make its closest approach to Saturn - 13,300 miles from the cloud tops - at a speed of 70,900 mph.

The Snail-Darter Syndrome Applies

The years of delay imposed on the Alaska pipeline project by environmentalist lawsuits contributed to both higher energy prices and excessive reliance on foreign oil. Should similar delays plague installation of the planned MX strategic missile system during the 1980s, the result would likely be an ominous deterioration in this country's ability to deter a Soviet nuclear attack.

Yet, Defense Department planners fully expect lengthy court fights occasioned by environmentalist opposition to the sprawling network of MX launchers planned for Utah and Nevada. Indeed, there is even some concern that the entire MX program could be deferred indefinitely because of legal and environmental snags.

If so, it wouldn't be the first time a major defense program was scuttled by those who apparently place aesthetics, convenience and concern for a pristine environment over defense priorities. In the early 1970s, the Navy cancelled plans to imbed an extensive communications grid in the wilds of northern Michigan because of just such objections. The grid would have permitted more reliable communications with ballistic missile submarines scattered throughout the world's oceans. No comparable substitute has yet been devised for the discarded grid system.

In a perfect world, environmentalists would understand that they jeopardize public support for their usually constructive movement by obstructing necessary energy and defense programs. But even if the major environmental groups recognized that their priorities must be balanced by sometimes conflicting national interests, the snail-darter syndrome enshrined in federal law would still permit irresponsible obstructionism.

While we do not suggest that any citizen be denied access to the courts, we do think that environmental law ought to pose fewer barriers to projects judged by Congress and the president to be essential to the preservation of the nation's physical security.

Otherwise, we might see the MX missile program wither and die for the sake of spineybacked cactus and a few stray coyotes.

The politics of revolt, according to the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, demands total commitment But the revolutionary spirit in Iran apparently i flagging under the oppressive actions of the nation's Islamic courts, which, according to the boasts of the court head Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, have sent hundreds of Iranians to their deaths

And the revolutionary government is itself contending with a revolt by some 4 million Kurds. members of another Islamic sect.

In an effort to get a grip on the revolution Khomeini's regime adopted a press code effective Aug. 11 that bans papers that are critical of the Khomeini line. The recent shutdown of 22 newspapers brings to 44 the number of publications closed under the law. In addition, 11 foreign correspondents, including reporters for the New York Times and the Los Angeles Times, have been ordered to leave the country. The Communist paper Mardum is among the casualties of Khomeini's pursuit of only good news.

President Carter's authorization to ship 2 million barrels of petroleum products to the troubled nation was a compassionate gesture to the Iranian people whose supplies have been disrupted by continued strife. It was also a very practical bid to ensure continued shipments to the United States of Iranian crude oil

In no way can the move be considered an endorsement of the Khomeini version of "human rights" or the avatollah's brand of individual and press freedoms.

How To Get The Black Vote

Sixteen years ago, on the eve of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, the President's Commission on Registration and Voting Participation report noted that "one-third of (American) adults do not vote in presidential elections, and more than half do not vote in congressional elections."

On a hot Friday afternoon in July 1969, the Carter White House convened a dozen registration experts, political scientists, pollsters and good-government types to report the results of the Kennedy Commission recommendations.

They were told, "The majority of the legal obstacles have been eliminated in the 16 years since the report was issued. Nevertheless, voter turnout has fallen from a high of 63.8 percent in the presidential election of 1960 to 54.4 percent in the 1976 presidential election."

White House interest in voter participation is more than academic: Carter-Mondale reelection strategists admit to a major fear - not that the all-important black vote will defect to another candidate - but that it won't appear at all.

In 1976, Carter defeated Ford by 56 electors votes. In three states - Ohio, Pennsylvania and Mississippi — a shift of 2 percent of the voting electorate would have given each state — and the election — to Ford.

In Ohio, a shift of 3,800 of the 300,000 black votes cast would have put the Buckeye State in the GOP column.

The White Linus meeting covered varia These included: legislating postcard registration, now the rule in 18 states; permanent registration (in force until a voter changes his address); making general election day a national holiday (19 states make the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November an election-day holiday); automatic absenteeregistration applications for disabled persons: Saturday and-or Sunday elections, and 24-hour

Other suggestions included using "Hollywood stars, athletes and others" in a TV campaign plus special campaigns directed at away-fromhome college students

But NO strategy was aimed at activating the group most likely to be sympathetic to the Carter-Mondale re-election campaign - the overwhelmingly loyal black electorate.

Says Eddie Williams, president of the Joint Center for Political Studies, "Blacks tend to register and vote as Democrats, to vote in a bloc. and to vote at a relatively high rate once they are registered. In 1976, 83 percent of the 8.7 million blacks who were registered actually voted."

He urges that black-voter registration efforts be aimed at the 18- to 24-year-olds, because their numbers are growing and their participation rates are so low, and at the 35- to 54-year-olds. because they represent almost one-third of all black voters and their participation rates are usually high.

If Carter and company want to maintain f high 1976 percentage of black votes in 1969, the White House would do well to imitate the Kennedy administration, which created the Com-

In Prague, Czechoslovakia, though, August" had a much different look.

There, awaiting trial on charges of subversion and "activities inimical to the interest of the Czechoslovak state" are 10 members of, a human rights group, the Committee for the Defense of the Unjustly Prosecuted.

Not so coincidentally, their imminent trial comes only a little after the 11th anniversary of the 1968 invasion by Soviet Union forces which brought an end to the efforts of the Czechoslovakian people and their leader, Alecander Dubcek, to liberalize their country.

In January 1977, a group of 242 prominent Czech scientists, writers and jurists published a manifesto - known as "Charter 77" - based of Czechoslovakian government in the 1975 Helsinki agreement (which the United States also signed and which the U.S.S.R. was very anxious to have ratified, for it considered it a document tar egitimize its dominance over over central and eastern Europe).

Then, a little over a year later, in April, 1978 the signers of "Charter 77" formed the Com monitoring human rights violations Czechoslovakia.

Now the Communist regime in Prague is nont more anxious to have its record on human righter sposed to public view than is the Communister egime in Moscow.

Members of the committee have been thad subject of harasament and violent attacks. 199 June, Zdena Tominova, a speaker at a Charter 78 meeting, was attacked by masked men as she returned home. She suffered a brain concussion Earlier, former Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek and Ladislav Hejdanek, another Charter 77 speaker, 9 were attacked.

In late May, police raided the homes of leaders of the Committee for the Defense of the Unjustly Prosecuted and arrested the 10 who now await trial. Police alleged that Charter 77 publication were designed to "undermine the confidence of the Czech people in the state and create a hostile attitude to the socialist-based system." Talk is Cheap

This is an open letter to Landon Kite. staff assistant to President Carter: Thank you for your recent letter telling me about President Carter's position on human rights. I heard him say "Human rights are absolute" on Jan. 20, 1977; however, talk is cheap, and when I saw that in one recent week

a. Hundreds of Ku Klux Klanspersons marched from Selma to Montgomery. Ala., demanding "White Power," and b. A judge in Virginia ordered a Rabbi to remove his skullcap from his courtroom, and c. Censorship became a way of life, when the Island Trees School Board banned 11 books, including two Pulitzer Prize winners... ... then I realize that human rights is a clever slogan the administration has been using but has no meaning. The time for the letter you sent me, which should have been signed by the President himself, was before Anita Bryant made the "license to discriminate" and the "continuation of the obstruction of justice" to become an official public policy, enchanced by the President's silence back in June of 1977.

This marked the repeal of human rights in Dade County, Fla., and spread like a plague all across America. This has now led to the license t murder becoming acceptable, which I and the majority of Americans find appalling. When a Dan White (Anita supporter) can murder Mayor Mescone and Superviser Harvey Milk, and then get eight years for this beinous act, then President Carter's human rights statements mean less than nothing. Bob Kunst, Director Congress United For Rights And Equality (CURE)

And innocent people have to live in fear. Why? If the laws are to blame, as Judge Kenneth Leffler claims, we must lemand that they be changed. Comassion for criminals instead of their victims is perverted compassion. We excuse the cruelest of crimes on Bundy came as a fugitive from other states and he is costing our taxpayers thousands of dollars to protect his "rights." We have to have jurors who have not heard about his record in other states, which must mean they don't read newspapers or watch television. And the jury must not be told about the tapes made by the officers who arrested him, or the fact that he is charged with murder in another Florida city.

And why should the fact murder was committed during robbery lesson the punishment? If a robber has a gan with him he must intend to use it if it's necessary to get what he wants.

Most of our logislators are lawyers and some of them certainly profit from the laws. Bundy's lawyer asked for $140,000 for the defense! Perhans we will have laws we can all

So, what is wrong? After 25 years of observation, it is suggested: 1. A departure from the original objective of gardening. The joke made about Rotary Club (est, burp, and

The program chairman hesitates to invite a guest meaker when she knows attendance will be embarrassingly low and if there is no program the interested gardener kays away.

So, what is the remedy? Suggestions 1. Make the Garden Club a family affair. While the "ladies" garden club membership has declined, the mempership in specialized and independent neighborhood clubs has increased by lesps and bounds. The Orchid Society, Bromeliad Society, Palm Society, and many more welcome and encourage family membership. The most avid ardeners and plant collectors are Presently night meetings are an exception and many women are afraid to to out alone after dark. Daytime nostings can only be attended by retired women or the increasingly few who do not work.

4. Get back to basics, or drop the work "garden." At many meetings, there is so much routine business there is no time for horticulture. Put reports te a printed menthly bulletin and pand mosting time on matters of basic sterest. A family-oriented, active presentation could do wonders in the

Blind Devetion

I would like to command Superincommania concerning children who are entering kindergarten. I have never before witnessed such blind devotion on the part of an elected official. Not only will Seminole County kindergartens comply with, they will surpass the state educational requirements for length of school day (state law requires a kindergarten student to attend school four hours daily

At the Aug. 22 school board meeting, several parents and teachers, concerned with the advisibility of this decision, confronted Mr. Laver with their fears. Mr. Layer gave those who disagreed with his mandate more than ample time to voice their doubts that such young students, entering the system for the first time, were not yet ready to cope with the confinement of so long a school day. After all, it was two short years ago that first traders were dismissed early for the ame reason (ie: shorter days, more increased attention span and more learning). Eventually Mr. Layer almed these fears by bringing to mind his desire to achieve the most important goal of education, a lower chool budget. How any parent or teacher could seriously question his decision after being made aware that $90,000 would be shaved from the budget can only be selfishly more oncerned with education than millage. Well, Mr. Layer, as any fool knows, you get what you pay for.

The most commendable of all action taken by Mr. Layer, at this meeting, occurred when he stated that if parents were that concerned with the length of their children's school day, they should enroll them in a private school. Let it not escape the record that Mr. Layer is willing to meet any opponent half way. This very suggestion, or was it a This is a strong statement, but it has directive, clearly offers the alternative open to parents in Seminole County who ree with their school board.

> I have, many times in the past, heard une made quite popular by Frank Sinatra. At those times I would question Mr. Laver's desire, subsequent to his leaving the school board, to be remembered in his capacity as Superintendent as "respected" or elected." With this most recent tirade treah in my mind, there is no question he has made the choice.

Latest 'Mistake'

The Seminole County - or should sav the "South" Seminole, County -School Board has finally proven to me that once you are elected to public office you lose all sense of value of money and that taxpayers will pay for nything, or so they think.

Their latest "mistake," as one board member put it, was to give $8,100 of the axpayers money to a "professional dance company." All in the name of liberal arts. All someone had to say to them was that we were backward and had no class because we were not receiving "professional" dance exosure in our public schools. Baloney! When we can't afford to send preschool children home on time, when we have to cut out the breakfast program, when we can't afford enough teachers or teachers aides, we dadburned sure don't need a professional dance company getting $8,100 in the name of liberal arts. The United States government has enough money available to fund this type of ludicrou Donsense

We have received for free the best emosure to "dance" that you can get. The kind of exposure our children need and enjoy, and I say again, it has been free. Free in the sense that it didn't cost the taxpavers one red cent in tax

If the school board, behind the pushing of its chairperson, thinks that we should pay for this type of professional exposure, then it would only be right for any other business or profession to demand that the school board pay them to come into our schools and expose our children to their business. Can you imagine paying McDonalds to teach our kids to fry

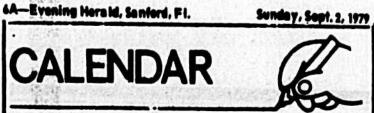

Please keep in mind that I make part am part owner of a dance school and dance wear business and I think it is absolutely ridiculous to expect the taxpayers to pay for the promotion of y business. Anyone who thinks that its mything else but the promotion of a business need to check into the $8,100 "gift" a little bit farther.

There are a "whole bunch" of us langayers who are mad as hornets about this and I suggest the school nord members take a second look at this $6,100 gift. I have never run for public office before, but this would sure make a good issue on which to base a lations for running for public office

For Bumping Ump In Beef

NEW YORK (UPI) - American League batting champion Rod Carew of the California Angels was suspended Friday by AL President Lee MacPhail for two games commencing Friday for physical contact with umpire Nick Bremigan during Wednesday night's game in Detroit

Carew bumped Breinigan during a fifth inning strike call dispute and was ejected from the game. Teammate Bobby Grich was also ejected in the fourth inning after disputing a strike.

Padres Recall Six Players

SAN DIEGO - The San Diego Padres announced Friday they have called up six minor leaguers for the remainder of the season.

From Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League, second baseman Sam Perlozzo, pitcher Juan Eichelberger, outfielder Don Reynolds and first baseman Brodrick Perkins will join the Padres, as will second baseman Tim Flannery and outfielder Brian Greer from Amarillo of the Texas League:

Expos Reacquire Macha

MONTREAL (UPI) - The Montreal Expos annouced Friday they have reacquired infielder Ken Macha from their AAA Denver Bears farm club.

Macha, who started the season with the Expos and hit .235 in 23 games before going to Denver in late July, joins infielders Tony Bernazard and Randy Bass and pitcher Bill Atkinson, all from Denver. Dale Murray, acquired from the New York Mets earlier this week will also join the team this weekend.

Packers Lose Mike Butler

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) - Green Bay Packers Coach Bart Starr said Friday defensive end Mike Butler definitely will not play in Sunday's opener against the Chicago Bears, because of a dislocated elbow. Starr said Bob Barber will play in Butler's place. He said Barber is "capable of giving us a good performance."

Dodgers Sell Albuquerque

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - The Los Angeles Dodgers Friday announced the sale of the Pacific Coast League team in Albuquerque, N.M., but said they will maintain their franchise with the Triple A farm club. The sale to P. Patrick McKernan, president of the Eastern League, and Robert and Walter Lozinak of Maryland will take effect Oct. 15 if approved by PCL officials.

McClendon Out Looking For New Roothogs

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) - No matter how hard he tries, Charles McClendon can't turn attention away from himsel and focus it on what may well be his last football team.

After all, this isn't just some ragtag coach who is stepping aside because of failure. Charles McClendon, head coach at Louisiana State for 18 easons, has the eighth record among all active college coaches in the land and he is president of the American Football Coaches Association. But, even with that background, McClendon is being forced out at the end of this

POPPA CAUTHEN IS UNCHANGED

Dad Cauthen Still Shoeing, And Chewing

WALTON, Ky. (NEA) - The president of Steven Cauthen Enterprises doesn't sit behind a polished mahogany desk puffing on an expensive cigar.

He doesn't wear Brooks Brothers suits or Gucci shoes. His hair isn't razor cut. He doesn't even drive a Cadillac.

Instead, 47-year-old Ronald "Tex" Cauthen spends most of his 16-hour days in smelly stables. He chews Red Man tobacco while decked out in mule-skin apron and heavy work shoes

And he usually goes barn-to-barn in a middle-aged pickup truck.

The famed jockey's father is his own man, seemingly unchanged by the success of his offspring. He continues to go about his chores as a hardworking blacksmith much as he did before Steve was born.

The elder Cauthen is solidly built with chiseled fatures, rust-colored, short-clipped hair and strong, vise-like hands.

He comes by his nickname honestly. He was born in Mule Shoe, Texas, and spent most of his growing-up years in the Texas town of Sweetwater.

Like many in the horse business, he found work as a youth at the local race track, serving time as a stall mucker, hot walker and exercise boy.

Cauthen attended school through the 11th grade. When drafted into the Army in 1952, he became a meterologis

After his discharge, he attended blacksmith school at Michigan State courtesy of the G.I. Bill. At that time, there were only three such schools in the country.

He met Myra Bischoff, a pretty blonde whose family was also in the horse business. After a year of courting, the couple married in 1959. They lived in New Orleans for seven years before settling in Kentucky to be near Mrs. Cauthen's parents.

Steve came along - ironically, during Kentucky Derby Week - and followed in his father's tracks. At 16, the boy was an apprentice rider.

You can see where the young jockey gets his coolness and maturity. His parents have brought him up well.

Cauthen stresses "perspective" when he talks about his celebrity son and his other two offspring, 16-year-old Doug and 10-year-old Kerry.

What if his first-born hadn't turned out to be a famous jockey?

"Even if Steve had just been a successful race rider here, I'd be proud of him," says his father.

"I feel I'm lucky because I enjoy my work," Cauthen continues. "How many people don't enjoy what they're doing every day? You just try to do the best you can and pick something you like. I know Steve is doing what he likes.'

The elder Cauthen's work is hard. It's not easy bending your back and holding a horse's hoof steady while you trim the frog, the bulbous portion of the underside of the hoof. After all is cleaned out with files and huge clippers, the shoe is nailed onto the hoof. There's no room for a bad stroke of the hammer. Every nail must be straight and true so that no blood is drawn.

Horses are shod monthly, so a blacksmith's od is never done.

"Sometimes my back doesn't feel too good in the morning when I get up," Cauthen smiles, then spits a stream of brown tobacco juice. "But I enjoy my work and shoeing is a necessary evil."

The blacksmith's day is long.

She's 14, But Will Be Back NEW YORK (UPI) - While

most newcomers make their debut in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships in an afternoon match on some backcourt playing another virtual unknown, Andrea Jaeger, at 14 years, 3 months, the second youngest player ever to participate in this tournament faced the crowd, the lights and the third-ranked woman in the world, on center court. That's because she was playing Tracy Austin, the girl who held the record as the youngest in her spectacular debut two years ago.

But this time, at 16, Austin was the "older woman" the veteran and her experience showed - on the court and off - as she defeated Jaeger, 6-2, 6-

2, then radiated confidence and aplomb in the interview room. "When I saw the draw last week, I was a little surprised," admitted Austin, who's usually on the other side of these experience meets youth affairs. "But I wasn't as nervous as I thought I'd be."

Jaeger, pigtailed like Austin, wasn't especially bothered by the situation either, except for the lights.

"I've been playing 16-and 17 year-olds all year so these 'older women' or whatever you call them wasn't any different," said the Lincolnshire, Ill. resident.

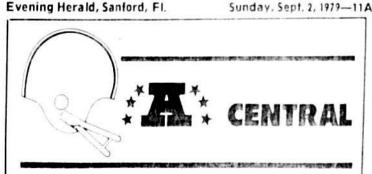

"The whole thing was staying out there and keeping the ball in play until she made mistakes she didn't make many. And the lights, in a normal match I might have pulled some hard ones out of the air but it's hard because of the lights," she added, explaining that she had only played at night once

"It's sort of dumb to go out there thinking it's just for experience. If you don't go out there thinking you can win or do good, forget it."

It was obvious the loss would not be forgotten by Jaeger. So watch out, old ladies, the new kid will be back.

Earlier, defending men's champion Jimmy Connors, after desperately fighting from behind in the first two sets, was handed a second-round victory when Vijay Amritraj defaulted. trailing 7-6, 7-5.

In the only upsets of the day, 12th-seed Wojtek Fibak of Poland, 16th-seeded John Alexander of Australia, and Ann Kiyomura, the women's 15th seed, fell. Kiyomura had to withdraw because of a wrist injury while trailing Laura DuPont, 7-5, 5-4. Alexander rallied from a two-set deficit before losing to Hank Pfister, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1.

Railroading Conductor's Way Of Life

By JANE CASSELBERRY Herald Staff Writer

"If I had it to do all over again," said Philip T. Meeks, Sr., who retired from Seaboard Coast Line Friday after 33 years of railroading, "I would go right back and do the same thing over again." Meeks, who lives at 2416 Myrtle Ave., Sanford, with his wife, Jewell, made his final run as conductor on the Auto-train. "Railroading has been my life and I've enjoyed every bit of it. There is something new all the time," he said "I love people in general and as a conductor, I've gotten to meet a lot of them," Meeks commented. 'especially on the Auto-Train. They are from all walks of life and the employees are just as nice as they can be. There's never a dull moment and I got to isit with people from all over the country. I'm going to miss them."

"I decided after working for the railroad that many years if I was ever going to jet any time off to myself. I'd better do it now," he explained What are his plans for retirement? "No schudules!" claimed Meeks. "I'm going to take one day at a time, fishing, traveling and generally doing nothing. There will be plenty to do around the house mowing the lawn, clipping the hedge and doing Things have changed drastically since Meeks went to work for Atlantic Coast Line in 1946 as a trainman. At that time he received $7.10 for an eight hour day. "We get considerably more than that an hour now," he said. "We've gone from steam engines coal fired to deisel. They didn't pull many cars back then, but now they pull quite a few. When I came to Sanford in 1946 there were several hundred railroad employees here and now they are down to only a few. The dispatching office was here then and now it is in Tampa," Meeks

Meeks was in the furniture business before World War II when he served in the Merchant Marine. After the war he was advised to go into railroading so he and his wife moved to Sanford Jan. 23, 1946, from Nicholls, Ga. "He had two choices, but we had been here once before so we Sanford," Mrs. Meeks said.

"I liked it so I just stayed with it," said Meeks, who was promoted to conductor in 1950 and served in that capacity on both freight and passenger trains. For the past three years stars over the years. He recalls meeting Arthur Treacher one morning in a Pullman car. "He was the tallest; biggest man I ever saw," he said. "He had to bend over to keep from hitting his head." There are times in the life of every railroad man that he would rather forget and doesn't want to talk about. "I have been in several wrecks, but I was always on the rear of the train whenever it happened so was not injured," Meeks said. "It was not one of my better moments. I have been on board on a few occasions when trains hit cars. This occurs some times - we don't like it but there is nothing we can do about it." In spite of the cutbacks on Amtrak service. Meeks thinks there is still a great future for railroads. "A lot more people are riding passenger trains now and freight trains handle a lot of stuff that can't be See CONDUCTOR, Page 3B

Engineer: It Was 'In His Blood'

He Followed In Family Footsteps

When Julius (Jake) Sharpe went to work for Seaboard Air Line back in his home town of Savannah, Ga., 35 years ago, it came as no surprise. He was just following in the footsteps of his father and his brothers.

A member of this railroad family, he never thought of doing anything else, it was "in his blood." What about the prospects for railroads today in this country?

"If they don't get some help from the government, a lot of them are going to the junk yard," commented Sharpe. The government took over passenger service and now they are cutting trains. They are hurting people and putting them out of work. If congress doesn't appropriate funds to operate them we won't have any passenger trains."

"There's been a lot of changes - from steam to diesel, bigger rails, more speed and more horsepower," he added.

In 1942, Sharpe was promoted to engineer on the Seaboard Coast Line main line.

Sharpe said Savannah was a big place and he go tired of big city living so he moved to Orange City and went to work for Auto-Train in Sanford.

Victoria Yachts, Inc. threw a party for its employees recently, celebrating the completion of the 300th sailboat wilt by the local firm.

The employees and their families spent the day at the marina in Sanford munching hamburgers, drinking beer and sailing the boats they had made.

"The employees have worked hard and we're trying to show our appreciation," said Ed Cruitt, one of the company's

The firm started building its first sailboat in January 1977 in cramped quarters at Second and Oak in downtown Sanford.

G. William McVay, Ed Cruitt, Billy Sissom and Bob Logan pooled funds to form the corporation and used plans developed by McVay. Cruitt and Steve Ewing worked for three months building the first Victoria Eighteen, an 18-foot fiberglass sloop.

At the end of the first year production had increased to 2 and one half boats per week with the addition of several employees. But by April of 1978 the firm was in need of larger quarters and moved across the St. Johns to their present location on Benson Junction Rd. in DeBary. With 25 employees they are now turning out five boats per week.

Sold only through dealers, now numbering about 50 across the U.S., the sturdy little boat which can sleep two is being favorably received by sailors everywhere. With 550 pounds of ballast in its keel it is stable and ease with which it can be trailered. According to the company's brochure, it can be towed easily by a VW Bug. And, as Cruitt said, "It's a

The Youth Club of First Presbyterian Church of Sanford will hold its second Parents' Night Tuesday, Sept. 4, at 7:30 p.m. Those parents who were not present at the first meeting on July 31 must attend this session.

Bible Study Scheduled

A non-denominational Bible Study Fellowship to be taught by Bonny Sellers of Orlando will be held beginning at 9:10a.m., Sept. 11 with an introductory class in the sanctuary of Com-munity United Methodist Church on Highway 17-92, Casselberry. The study will be held from 9:10 to 11:30 a.m. each Tuesday at the church and is open to the public. Those who wish to attend must be at the introductory session. There will be a training program for children 2-5 years, but no nur-sery for children under two.

Fran Carlton To Speak

State Representative Fran Carlton will be the speaker at a general meeting of the United Methodist Women Wednesday at 10:30, a.m. at Community United Methodist Church of Casselberry. A catered luncheon will follow the program.

Services Planned

Restoration Apostolic Ministry (RAM), minister, Holliman, will be conducting tent meetings daily from Sept. 2 -16 at 13th Street and Lake Avenue in Sanford. Bible studies will be held at noon and an open forum and miracle and healing service at 8 p.m.

Prison Ministry

The Greater Orlando Chapter of the Order of St. Luke will meet Sept. 11 at 7:45 p.m. at Christ Episcopal Church, 151 W. Church St., Longwood and the topic will be Prison Ministry. Rev. Louis Campese, Deacon at Christ Episcopal Church will be principal speaker. Appointed by the Council of Churches, he is treasurer of the Christian Prison Ministries Inc. and a member of the Task Force Group on Criminal Justice. Craig Mariatt of Christian Prison Ministries will share his testimony and sing some of the music he has written. A forner Grug addict and ex-con is now a singing evangelist. The meeting is open to the public. There will be laying on of the hands for healing for those who desire it after the talks. Refreshments will be served in the parish house.

Looking In Love's Mirror

By DR. VIRGIL L. BRYANT. First Presbyterian Church

Can we expect one person to continue to love another without a sustaining response from the other?

In Jesus we see God loving us in this way, "not that we loved God, but that He loved us." Such unconditional love is an ideal goal - not fully within human reach or attainment. We are all to some extent injured or limited by the throb of our own needs and pains. Only a totally unscarred and completely free person could consistently give unconditional love - only
