FADED BY THE GREATEST AIR ASSAULT in the war to date, Allied Invasion forces demonstrated against the channel coast of France and the low countries in large-scale maneuvers that may be the preview to actual invasion. More than 1,800 Allied planes took part, bombing many important strategic and tactical targets along the northern coast of France without meeting serious opposition from the Luftwaffe. No attempt was made by the Nazis to interfere with the progress of the invasion fleet as it sailed for two hours toward the French coast under a perfect umbrella of fighter planes. So tremendous was the show, British coastal dwellers thought the real invasion was on. (International)

Florida Cabinet Makes Plans For Work After War

By LYNNE BRANNEN.
TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 17. (AP)—Florida State cabinet officials are all of one mind that the State's principal post-war objective should be "to bend every effort to finding jobs for each returning service man citizen."

Secretary of State R.A. Gray thinks rehabilitation of these in the military forces can best be facilitated through an intelligent program for development of industry and new business enterprises.

"I think the small business man should be especially considered in such a program," he said, "because only through him and thousands like him can full employment possibilities be realized.

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan M. Mayo expressed himself opposed to the return of service men from the armed forces until suitable employment is found for them and that such releases should be made on "an installation basis."

"I would hate to see the situation which developed after the last war repeated," he said.

"It would be a crime for many of our young men, who risked their lives in defense of the Democratic system, to be allowed to walk the streets of our cities unemployed and denied the right to enjoy the freedoms for which they fought."

Other targets at which Mayo would like to see the State set its sights included:

A complete marshaling of Florida's agriculture resources as one means of absorbing service men in post-war occupations. (There are 15,000,000 acres of possible farming land not under cultivation in the State.)

Development of new industries, improvement of old ones to facilitate a closed relationship with South American countries.

Immediate attention to the possibility of "full employment" in the public sector, suggested by Comptroller J.M. Lovell.

"There is no reason to wait for the war's end to start finding jobs for everyone, he said. "I believe there are thousands of persons in this and other States who can be usefully employed and who are now listed as unemployed."

Attorney General J. Tom Watson advocates restoration of "State's rights" after the war.

Gray expressed similar views.

In addition Watson lists the following postwar objectives:

...a minimum wage made for the old and dependent.

Facilities provided for service men who have been wounded, or whose health has been so impaired as to incapacitate them for earning a livelihood.

Full recognition of the rights of organized labor under collective bargaining principles achieved.

Protection given emigriated labor against encroachment upon their rights as free men to live and work.

Insurance guaranteed capital and industry against unreasonable and undemocratic conditions in procuring and maintaining essential and necessary employees.

"Half the disaster victims in this country would have survived if they had known simple tricks in beating tornado, hurricane and flood," writes Dr. William LeKlein, medical director of the American Red Cross in the current issue of Red Book magazine. "Forgetting the hole in the Hurricane, the calm at the center," he points out, has cost many lives.

The U.S. is now consuming and exporting 20 million pounds more glycerine a year than it is producing, with the deficit coming from stockpiles.

Drake's first Pennsylvania well at Titusville, England, in 1859, started the flow of low cost crude oil.

Before Pearl Harbor the United States obtained all its sugar, used in ice creams, sherberts, puddings and other products, from Japan.

Aerial Offensive In South Pacific Is Intensified

11 Japanese Fighter Planes Destroyed In Solomon Islands By U. S. Air Force

The American aerial offensive designed to reduce Japanese forces on Bougainville Island continues and intensive action in the South Pacific highlighted by almost daily blows and counter-blows in Japs, continues at relentless pace and at mounting cost to the enemy's air forces, war reports made clear earlier today.

They latest full-scale combat in the area, fought over the northern Solomon Islands, additional Japanese fighter planes destroyed, Gen Doug MacArthur's headquarters has been advised.

These came from a force of 60 interceptors which rose to challenge and by fighter escort American torpedo and dive bombers on the enemy's air strike at the southern tip of Bougainville Island, and their loss lifted to close to 100 the number of Japanese aircraft destroyed in this sector within the past three weeks.

The new American success, which was enhanced by further damage to the already badly battered and largely unusable air field itself, was achieved at a cost of two bombers and four fighters today's communiques disclosed. Two of the pilots were saved.

The daylight attack was preceded by three night attacks by fighters and its dive bombers from Kuhiki, in which fires were started. Two bombers failed to return from the mission.

Although the number of planes participating in these most recently reported attacks on the enemy's key Bougainville held steady, the reports disclosed today upon a series of raids within the past few days in which as many as 200 aircraft were thrown against the Japanese.

Ambassador To Russia Leaves for Washington

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 (UPI)—U. S. Ambassador Adm. William F. Standley left Moscow by plane for Washington Sunday for what has been described officially as consultations.

It is considered unlikely here, however, that the American representative will return to the Soviet Union. Adm. Standley has been three weeks furiously allowed to discuss before they don uniform.

"I'm going to mind everybody," said McLeMORE. "I started saluting the minute I reached Camp Blanding, although I'm not in uniform as yet. My induction day was yesterday. I've never saluted before I started in the navy. When I was stated, I think there was so much fresh milk and eggs in the world."

"And," he continued, "I didn't know it was possible to get up so early and survive."

McLeMORE has a home at Daytona Beach.

He recently completed a six-month assignment as war correspondent in Great Britain for McGraw syndicate and Look magazines. He broke into newspaper work in 1927 on The Atlanta Georgian, now merged with the Atlanta Journal. He was a sport writer for 11 years before starting his syndicated column.

Lawton Will Speak On Boy Scouting

Supt. T. W. Lawton will address Scouting and men interested in Scouting at a session to be held at 8:00 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Episcopal Parish House, according to Harold V. Pace, Scout executive.

The session will consist of three training sessions for parents of those interested in Scouting work, and of old timers as a refresher course, it was stated. Mr. Lawton's talk will be on The Fundamentals of the Boy Scout Movement.

The second talk of the series, on the part of the Womans' Aid, will be given by Ralph A. Smith, Scout chairman for Seminole County. The third talk of the series will be "How Community and Institution Use the Program," Ned Smith, Amendment committee chairwoman.

The time of these latter talks will be made later.

Medical Officer Of Navy Station Addresses Rotary

Members Accept Challenge Of Kiwanians To Play Baseball

An appeal for greater co-operation by the public both in buying war bonds and in inducing legislators to remove obstacles that may impede war production was today voiced by Lieut. Comdr. Wiedeneyer, senior medical officer of the semi-military Naval Air Station addressing Rotarians at the Hotel Mayfair this noon.

Rotarians accepted the challenge of Kiwanis for another soft ball game, but stated they preferred to play on the evening of Friday, Oct. 8, instead of Sept. 10, as it would allow time to sell tickets for the benefit of Ewald-Laughlin Memorial Hospital. George Stine was elected captain of the team.

Comdr. Wiedeneyer, who assisted in the establishment "under great difficulties" of a mobile hospital in New Caledonia during the early stages of the war, told of the work of the transportation and packing of supplies after their fabrication.

He said the hospital was completely set up in one month, and was able to grow on the beach. In one day 300 patients from Guadalcanal, most of them suffering from shrapnel wounds or burns, were admitted to the hospital. He told of the many amputations of arms and legs necessary, and in this connection said "we live at home to do our part, and lend greater support to the war effort."

Praise for the co-operation of local doctors with the doctors of the Stanford Naval Air Station was voiced by Comdr. Wiedeneyer, and he likewise praised the efforts of the Stanford Police Department in reducing the risks of service men of communicable diseases.

Lieut. Robert E. Grant, chaplain, who is soon leaving the Station, thanked the people of Sanford for their earnest interest in the welfare of the Station, especially the Ministerial Association, he said.

Guests were Phil Pebo of Winter Haven and Charles J. Finley of Orlando.

Wilson Says Ceilings In Offing Might Be Steep Enough

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (UPI)—It is now looking like the ceiling to the third Winter War Savings Bond will be $300,000, Lt. Col. Wilson L. Wilson, director of State savings, reported today that from his point of view the drive was progressing most unsatisfactorily.

Buying of the bonds is being participated in by only a very small percentage of the population, he said.

He said the bond will not proceed indicate that we will meet next goal, that of 10 percent response, he added.

He said that a team headed by Lt. Col. Kirtley would be shuttled in the field and a house-to-house canvass would be conducted.

"Every individual who desires to do his or her part in the drive is expected to purchase an additional $100 bond before Sept. 30, which gives nine more days in which to go home look at your ceiling, onions, pome peppers, spinach, tomatoes and watermelons," he said.

"While the Government agencies have not definitely agreed upon ceiling prices they have named some prices which they think they might be able to agree upon. The prices in question had not been settled, he said.

He called for Wednesday at 1:00 o'clock to formulate plans for the house-to-house canvas. Mr. Speed said.

An opportunity to attend the "Winter Premier" of the Little Theater with the right side of the theater reserved for holders of $100 bonds, the left side for $50 bonds and balcony for $25 bonds for Tuesday evening has been announced. Those who turned out for the tickets were issued, may obtain tickets from those who sold the bonds. It was stated bonds will also be sold at the theater that evening.

Columnist McLemore Inducted As Private

CAMP BLANDING, Sept. 20 (AP)—Columnist Henry McLemore was inducted into the army as a buck private here Saturday. He had received the usual three week furlough allowed inductees before they don uniform.

"I'm going to mind everybody," said McLemore. "I started saluting the minute I reached Camp Blanding, although I'm not in uniform as yet. My induction day was yesterday. I've never saluted before I started in the navy. When I was stated, I think there was so much fresh milk and eggs in the world."

State Director Attends Vegetable Meet With OPA

Wilson said.
"These prices cannot yet be announced, but the committee from Florida attending the meeting urged revision upwards in some of the price schedules submitted these revisions to the coordinating Government committee," he said.
He further reported that "present at the same meeting were some 200 growers from 15 states across the country from California to Florida and that there seems to be a desire on the part of the Government agencies to help. However they are faced with the President's hold the line order and the necessity of reducing living costs."

Intersessions have lasted for two days and will be followed by a meeting before the House Agricultural Committee in Washington on Monday or Tuesday. The Florida Committee, along with the other powers are doing everything they can to bring a clear picture of the difficulties the farmers are facing this season and they feel that even should ceilings be set and in spite of the wrong done some error in the way the Government agents will be willing to make necessary adjustments and changes which will enable the farmers to produce the food so necessary to the Nation."

Wilson is representing Nathan Mays, Executive Director of agriculture at those meetings.

Conditions at specific markets he described as follows: "Live stock sales at Plant City, Arcadia, Jay and Palatka are continuing in spite of heavy rains curtailing the volume in some areas. Fresh vegetables are fairly satisfied to producers." Pensacola's market has set up its opening time one hour. It is now open to growers and buyers at 5:30 A. M. A small quantity of green peppers, squash, sweet potato are being handled at the market. There is a fair supply of peas with a good demand.

Tampa reports a fair supply of mixed vegetables with demand good.

In other areas, farmers are preparing to plant as soon as some decision on ceiling price is made."

Everywhere the other day I heard a glimmer of hope and talk about the world that would be won. I heard the words "victory" and "freedom" and "democracy" and "the right to live".

But I also heard the words "luxury" and "comfort" and "ease".

Crabby Discovers Baseball Playing Days Aren't Over

By FRANK FOX

AT CINCINNATI Back in 1840 they told E. C. Radt, see his baseball playing days were over. That was when they wheeled him out of the operating room of a Rochester, N. Y., hospital after a serious kidney operation.

But what they didn't know is they took out of "Crabby" in the operating room it wasn't enough to keep him out of baseball.

The dead r-rightfielder is one of the principal reasons why the Cincinnati Reds are battling for second place.

As a part-time player and coach, the 39-year-old veteran of 21 seasons is hitting around .400.

Acked about "Crabby," Bill McKechnie, manager of the Reds, says:

"Crabby is one of the outstanding players in the game today. The guy does everything I ask him to do. When there are men on base, he's the most dangerous hitter. I've got and while his age and physical condition prevent me from using him every day, there's plenty of everyday ball players I'd turn down in favor of 'Crabby'."

Following a recent series with the Reds, Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Chicago Cubs, declared:

"I don't know what to do with this fellow, Crabtree. I tell my pitchers to bunt 'em up there and hope because he can hit any kind of a pitch. We just can't get him out."

Against the Reds this year, "Crabby" has hit over .500.

Hits When It Counts

On Sept. 6 in the first game of the last Red-Cub series, Crabtree, fighting a heavy cold, was sent to the mound to fill in for the ailing Gee Walker. That afternoon he got a pair of singles, a double and a home run. The forager, his first of the year, came in the last half of the ninth with two outs. He drove in the winning run, 7. With a mate on board, "Crabby" drove the ball 325 feet into the right field bleachers to tie the game. That's why ballplayers say Crabtree's batting average is .500.

Since he broke into baseball with Dubuque, Ia., in the Mississippi Valley League in 1936, Crabtree has hit above .300 on 12 occasions. He was at Rochester as International League manager eight consecutive years and was named manager in 1940. But the operation forced him to resign.

The following year, however, the St. Louis Cardinals offered him the Boston Cardinal's managerial job, but he turned it down to become the National League's Almohadillo, he became Cardinals' manager in 1942.

In 1943 "Crabby" and Uncle

Branch, better than the Cardinals, had a record of 100 wins and 82 losses.

Only Certainty In College Football Is Its Uncertainty

By DEAK MORSE

BOSTON—With the normal opening date for New England college football here, the only certainty about the fall sport is uncertainty.

Harvard was one of the first to announce cancellation of its school and Boston College followed. The famed "Little Three," Amherst, Wesleyan and Williams are on the "out" list as are Boston University, Rhode Island State, Northeastern, Massachusetts State, Connecticut and the University of New Hampshire.

The University of Maine will be the only representative of the Pine Tree State. In Vermont, Norwich and the University of Vermont are out, and Middlebury with some navy students available, is teetering.

Yale and Dartmouth, Ivy League colleges, indicated by certain reports individuals enrolled in Naval V-12 programs will go to the wars again. Holy Cross, struggling to find both man power and games, has decided to carry on and Brown, Coast Guard Academy, Tufts and Worcester Poly Tech also have declared them selves in the fold.

Dartmouth has been selected by the pragmatists as the pre-season favorite on the grounds that fine material from other campuses—navy trainees of course—has moved to Hanover, N.H., but Earl Brown of Washington, D.C., who was wounded when the Japanese raided an air strip, and received plans to save his life, You can save lives by buying that EXTRA $100 War Bond during the Third War Loan. Back the Attack to the Limit!

"Prospects are NOT very bright."

Yale coach Howie Odell confesses that he hasn't found too much talent among new men who are in training at New Haven Conn., and will depend largely on a smattering of old blues, led by Capt. Tim Hoopes. He does anticipate valuable help from marine trainees Wayne Johnson who played 60 minutes of good football for Harvard against the Eli last fall.

Colored Service Club Needs Furnishings

An appeal for chairs, tables, card tables and other furniture to be used for the furnishing of the colored service club, located at 3115 Southwood Avenue, was today made by U. C. Brock, treasurer of the Colored Recreation Committee which includes Dr. G. H. Stark, president; Z. J. Jerry, vice president and T. S. Green, secretary.

Brock may be called at 231-1 or 116, he said, and he will arrange to pick up any furniture offered. Three store rooms have been rented at the Club's location by the City. Frank Shanks, chairman of the Recreation Division of the Seminole County Defense Council, stated today that aid would be appreciated locally in helping with the furnishings.

Desertions Recorded Grom German Armies

LONDON, Sept. 20, (AP)—There have been a number of desertions from German positions in the Balkans area in recent days and nights, mostly Austrians conscripted Czechs and Poles, William Munday, representing the combined Austrian-Polish front, reported in a dispatch from the Parisian armistice Army Sunday.

One German major came out onto a mountain track, however, and told a surprise cockney patrol, "I'm fed up. I've had enough of this blanket-blank-blank."

Recreation in the sun at Halloran General Hospital in New York. This is a warm, friendly sun—not like the scorching blase of the desert. Every fellow has his own physical problem of recuperation—trying to get along without the leg he lost in the Solomon Islands making that stiff right arm work again—learning to walk all over—getting used to that constant pain—doing without a hand—not being able to see. There'll be more men like these with further invasion. Do your part, too.

"THANK GOODNESS!"

Here's one thing that hasn't gone up!

No NEED to look so surprised, Lady!

Far from going up, electric prices have been coming down—consistently. Within the past few years, electricity has come down 25%—and it's still going down.

And this doesn't mean electricity has been cut off. If you're getting less, it's because the companies are dropping rates.

Now, here's another surprise. Electricity is so cheap! Because, experience shows, the more you use, the less it costs per unit.

So, if you're getting less, it's because you're using less.

Your electric bill is based on the amount of electricity you use. Your electric bill is based on the amount of electricity you use. Your electric bill is based on the amount of electricity you use. Your electric bill is based on the amount of electricity you use.

And this is good news for you. If you're getting less, it's because the companies are dropping rates.

Now, here's another surprise. Electricity is so cheap! Because, experience shows, the more you use, the less it costs per unit.

If we wish to be free; if we wish to preserve inviolate those inestimable privileges for which we have been so long contending—we must fight!

Allied Stroke In Balkans Is Expected Soon

Three Aegean Islands Seized By British; Marshall Slated To Lead Allied Armies

LONDON, Sept. 22, (AP)—The Japanese government has decided to prepare "for the seizure of government departments, industrial establishments and the civilian population from Tokyo as well as other important cities in the interest of improving their defense," the Tokyo radio said today. It also announced the total mobilization of the civilian population and the abolishment of all limits to make all persons liable for national service.

LONDON, Sept. 22, (AP)—An Allied invasion of the Balkans this year, followed later by a full-scale assault in northern Europe was envisioned today following Prime Minister Churchill's war review in the House of Commons and by developments on the fighting fronts. The general feeling here, however, is a front in western Europe cannot be opened before next year unless the German army suddenly cracks wide open.

On the other hand, an official Cairo announcement said the Allies had occupied the Aegean islands of Cos, Lemn and Samos, strengthened the growing belief a Balkan thrust is imminent. Churchill said the Allies would strike in western Europe when the time is ripe—before.

Celery feds Journey To Eustis Friday For Game At 8:00 P.M.

A team of fighting Celery feds is rounding into form according to Coach George Ziemer and Principal Herman Morris of Seminole High School, and if competition is given by the fans it will be a winning outfit, they state.

First test for the Celery feds will be at Eustis Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock, when the team will seek to avenge last year's defeat by the Eustis team.

Probable line-up of the team, according to Coach Ziemer, will be Carl Bumler and Frank Robinson, ends; Herman Brumley and Jimmie Hodges, guards; Nick Koenig and Harold Ralston, guards; Ray Fox, center; Banks, will be Pete Brock, O.D. Landress, Bob Callahan and Bill Fleming.

Regular practice sessions of the team will take place this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon, it was stated. The Feds were very fortunate in picking up the right practice partners, as on the following evening they would have been rained out. As it was, the boys pitched in just as it was a regular game and got some fine experience.

Providing the game is not rained off at Eustis Friday evening, the chance for a wild, year-end "friendly" game between the two schools is assured.

According to Mrs. Hodgkin, early morning fishing is a regular rite with "Steve," and on a previous occasion he has pulled in a fish weighing as much as eight pounds. The one he finally got to shore in his boat, this particular morning was a trout, and what a tale he had to tell his comrades—a fish tale involving a fighting 30 inch bass weighing more than 12 pounds, that he had caught in Lake Ontario in front of his home.

It looked as if Steve was going to lose the big bass again when it yanked the pole right out of his hands. Frantically groping for his boat around the small lake with one hand, Steve chased the fish. Every time he reached out to grab the pole the bass would scurry away with it, playing a hide and go seek game with Steve.

Finally pole, line and fish got snared in the bushes at the edge of the lake. Steve, taking no more chances, grabbed a huge log under the hills and proceeded to pull the fish in by the tail, by this time was half of water and then somehow managed to get his catch onto the dock and ashore.

Finally pole, line and fish got snared in the bushes at the edge of the lake. Steve, taking no more chances, grabbed a huge log under the hills and proceeded to pull the fish in by the tail, by this time was half of water and then somehow managed to get his catch onto the dock and ashore.

According to Mrs. Hodgkin, early morning fishing is a regular rite with "Steve," and on a previous occasion he has pulled in a fish weighing as much as eight pounds. The one he finally got to shore in his boat, this particular morning was a trout, and what a tale he had to tell his comrades—a fish tale involving a fighting 30 inch bass weighing more than 12 pounds, that he had caught in Lake Ontario in front of his home.

It looked as if Steve was going to lose the big bass again when it yanked the pole right out of his hands. Frantically groping for his boat around the small lake with one hand, Steve chased the fish. Every time he reached out to grab the pole the bass would scurry away with it, playing a hide and go seek game with Steve.
