Airport To Get Self-Insurance Proposal

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

"You take the risk and if something happens, you have to pay," Sanford Airport Aviation Director J.S. "Red" Cleveland said today in reference to the "self-insurance" the airport assumed on Thursday, when the liability coverage on its control tower expired.

Faced with paying $70,400 to renew the policy, or "accepting certain obligations," Cleveland said he preferred the latter and will make it the basis of his recommendation to the Sanford Airport Authority when it meets on Feb. 11.

His proposal, however, will meet with opposition from at least one authority commissioner.

"I don't want to be sued," John Mercer said today. "We shouldn't be operating without tower coverage."

Until at least Feb. 11, however, this will be the case and the authority "is looking at at least a million bucks a claim," should negligence on the part of the airport or one of its four air traffic controllers result in a plane crash, according to Tom Conklin, marketing representative for Brown and Brown Inc., the second largest insurance agency in Florida.

Conklin's statements echo those made by authority attorney Bill Hutchinson on Jan. 8, when expiration of the tower coverage was first discussed by the authority.

Plaintiffs, "are going to come after you," Hutchinson told commissioners.

To cover themselves against this possibility, the attorney "strongly" recommended the commissioners raise their officer and director coverage from $1 million "to at least" $5 million.

According to Mercer, however, the tower, not the commissioners should be held liable for negligence claims.

"The cost (to renew the tower policy) is small in comparison to what we could end up facing," Mercer said.

Angel Witherspoon and John Pancratz, both 5, portray trees during reading of "Ten Little Pine Trees" poem as part of Arbor Day program at Geneva Elementary School Friday. The students also heard county forester Mike Martin talk about the history of Arbor Day. The program was sponsored by the Girl Scouts. Cherry, laurel, oak and sweet gum trees were planted, along with the seeds of appreciation.

Fire Kills 45 Race Horses

BELMONT, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials say a broken sprinkler system that was expected to be back in operation by today or tomorrow could have helped stop the spread of the Belmont Park race track fire that killed 45 thoroughbreds.

The blaze early Sunday, which apparently started in a hay stall, ripped through a stable, killing 36 of the 38 horses trained by John Campo, trainer of Pleasant Colony, winner of the 1981 Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes.

"It's like losing a part of yourself," said Steve Luwandowski, a groom for the 3-year-old Concession, which was killed in the fire.

Lt. William Guttersloh, chief of the Nassau County police arson squad, said the blaze was being investigated but, "There is no indication that this is a suspicious fire."

John Keenan, vice president of operations for the New York Racing Authority, said the sprinkler system pipes in the barn burst Thursday because of temperatures that dropped to nearly 10 degrees.

"It takes 24 or 48 hours to drain the water out of the pipes and it was expected the system (would have) returned to operation by today or tomorrow," Keenan said. "Certainly if the sprinkler system had been working it would have helped to halt the spread of fire."

Keenan said that because of the broken sprinklers a security patrol had been assigned to the area and added that "a member of the patrol was at the barn 10 minutes before the fire erupted."

Nation Pauses To Honor King

By Charles Taylor
United Press International

The nation paused today to honor the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr., the "drum major for justice" who led blacks out of the shackles of segregation and gave the nation a dream of brotherhood before he died a martyr's death.

It was the first federal holiday ever to honor a black man, and across the nation there were speeches, ceremonies, prayers and marches to mark King's 57th birthday.

In many cities churches were asked to ring their bells at midday, as they did in Atlanta 18 years ago while a mule-drawn wagon carried his body to its grave. Crowds would line those same streets today for a festive parade with floats and marching bands.

Vice President George Bush was to lay a wreath at King's tomb in Atlanta, just before

Families Identify Crash Victims

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Families crowded into the Guatemala City airport to identify victims of Guatemala's worst commercial airliner crash, which killed at least 96 people, including seven Americans.

A pilot who helped transfer bodies from the disaster site to the capital charged Sunday that the French-built Caravelle jet was overloaded and said the death toll could be as high as 110.

The jet slammed into low-lying hills in a jungle surrounding the Santa Elena air strip, 155 miles north of Guatemala City, on Saturday morning.

Bits of the plane and body parts were strewn across the disaster site and along a 500-yard stretch where the plane struck tree tops and opened a path through the jungle before it crashed and exploded.

Hundreds of mourning relatives and friends crowded into the airport Sunday to wait for the charred bodies, which arrived in plastic bags or crude coffins.

Crash witness Carlos Estrada said, "The plane first brushed against the highest trees, and then broke up, leaving parts of its fuselage and wings and many bodies were thrown around. ... The plane kept going forward and it finally exploded in flames."

The cause of the crash was being investigated.

The airline Aerovias de Guatemala said all 88 passengers and six crew aboard its jet died in the crash — the worst aviation accident in Guatemalan history.

However, a government team had found 96 victims of the crash and were combing the area for more.

Pilot Francisco Aleman, who is president of Maya airlines, said, "We believe there were more than 100 passengers on board, probably about 110."

Aerovias spokesmen denied the craft was overloaded. It had a capacity of 99.

Police Seek Clues In Double Hit And Run

Homicide investigators today are trying to determine why a 27-year-old man fled from a Midway bar onto a roadway where he was struck by two cars and killed Friday night. Investigators are also trying to find the vehicles that struck him.

Dead is Raymond D. Clark, of box 762, Miller Road. The incident occurred around 11:30 p.m.

According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, witness said Clark was being chased by someone from a bar at State Road 46 and Brisson Avenue east of Sanford.

Clark ran south onto the road and into the path of a westbound vehicle which struck him slamming the man to the pavement. An eastbound vehicle then ran over him, witnesses said.

Neither vehicle stopped, according to the report.

Clark is the first traffic fatality in Seminole County this year.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call the patrol at 323-1800.

King delivers his 'I have a dream' speech, which capped the 1963 March on Washington.

"Now is the time to rise from the dark and desolate valley of segregation to the sunlight path of racial justice... There will be neither rest nor tranquility in America until the Negro is granted his citizenship rights... No we are not satisfied and we will not be satisfied until justice rolls like water and righteousness like a mighty stream."

King and Ralph David Abernathy (reading newspaper) lead the Selma to Montgomery march for voting rights on March 21, 1965.

"Twenty-two million Negroes of the United States of America are engaged in a creative battle to end the long night of racial injustice... Yet when the years have rolled past... men and women will know and children will be taught that we have a finer land, a better people, a more noble civilization — because these humble children of God were willing to suffer for righteousness' sake."

Longwood To Hear Parks, Rec Proposals

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

T. Deane Plato, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee, will propose a list of policies and procedures for use of the city's parks and recreation areas drawn up by the committee when the Longwood City Commission meets Monday night. The 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall, 150 W. Warren Ave., will follow a 6 p.m. worksession with the Charter Review Committee.

The proposed regulations if put into an ordinance would:

- Ban alcoholic beverages in any city park or recreational complex without prior approval of the city commission, parks and/or recreation director or chief of police. (Parks and Recreation Director Bill Goebel wants the police chief deleted.)

- Ban firearms and fireworks without prior approval of the city commission, parks director or police chief.

- Ban pets in recreational areas with the leash law applying in open park areas. (Goebel is recommending pets be prohibited in all parks and recreational areas.)

- Ban use of roller skates or skateboards except in areas designated by signs.

- Ban golfing and archery excepted in designated areas.

- Ban fires unless in an area designated for the purpose.

- Close city parks to the public between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless approved and permitted. (Goebel recommends this be changed to "one-half hour after sunrise to one-half hour before sunset.")

- Prohibit any defacing, displacing or removing any building or equipment.

- Make persons using city property and equipment liable for damage, loss, or unusual wear.

- Relieve the city of responsibility for theft or damage of vehicles or personal property while in a city park or recreational area.

In other business, the site plans for the Palmetto Building and Stone's Furniture Gallery expansion continued from the Jan. 6 meeting will be back on the agenda Monday night. Sutherland Construction Co., Longwood, is the developer of the 50 by 175 foot Palmetto Building warehouse is to be located at Palmetto Avenue and Myrtle Street in industrial zoning. The Land

Pre-Partum Pelvic X-Rays Increase Risk

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a doctor of radiology and am skeptical about the conclusions you reached in a recent column about the dangers of low-level radiation. If you will send me the reference that documents a 50-percent risk of dying from leukemia following a pelvic X-ray, I will donate $1,000 to the charity of your choice.

DEAR DOCTOR — I didn't say "dying"; I said a 50-percent risk of infants developing leukemia if their mothers had pre-partum pelvic X-ray.

The reference is in "Radiation and Human Health," by John Goffman, M.D. (Sierra Club Books, San Francisco, 1981), pages 741-744. The primary references Dr. Goffman uses are Stewart, A., et al. Lancet 1956; 2:447, and Stewart, A. British Medical Journal, 1958; 1:1495-1508. He also cites nine additional studies that he believes confirm Dr. Stewart's conclusions.

I would be pleased if you would make your kind donation to the Children's Happiness Foundation, Box 694, Green Harbor, MA 02041.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Are microwave ovens in any way cancer-causing or detrimental to your health?

DEAR READER — The U.S. Government has established safety standards for microwave ovens. These standards set acceptable limits for microwave "leakage" from the appliances at the time they are new and after five years of use. The release of microwave radiation is theoretically prevented by radiator-absorbing seals and safety interlocks on the doors and metal screens in the door windows.

Ordinarily, microwave ovens pose few if any health hazards when they are new. The problem comes as they age and after servicing by technicians who may not be adequately trained. Radiation leakage can occur in these situations. The results can be harmful. Microwave radiation can cause potentially fatal interruptions in the electrical pulses of heart pacemakers. It has caused burns from dermal medicine patches containing metallic elements. It can result in cataracts.

Interestingly, the Soviet Union has set safety standards for industrial exposure to microwaves that are 100 times more stringent than the U.S. limits. Studies in the Soviet Union have indicated this form of radiation in myriad central-nervous-system, hematological, biochemical, endocrine, gastrointestinal and testicular disorders.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
If I had the West hand, my opening lead would be the king of spades. That way, I could wait in the hope that my club ace would capture a high honor in that suit. In fact, the actual lead of the club ace was good for the defenders, since any other lead would have enabled declarer to play his spade ace and then play out four rounds of diamonds, discarding the lone jack of clubs from dummy. After holding the opening lead, West switched to the two of diamonds. If you were declarer, how would you proceed?

the ace and king in that suit. However, as the cards are divided, none of these needed things happen, and so it seems declarer must lose four tricks.

The actual declarer found a way to circumvent failure. He won the ace of diamonds at trick two and played the spade ace. Next he cashed the A-K of hearts. Diamonds came next — he played the king and queen as both opponents followed. Finally, he played a second trump. West could win the king and cash the queen, but he didn't have a heart to lead to his partner's established queen and was also out of diamonds. Since he had to lead a club, South was able to trump in dummy and throw his losing jack of hearts away.

What The Day Will Bring...

Your Birthday Jan. 21, 1986

In the coming year, you will join an organization that has far-reaching influence. Aside from its social aspects, there may also be occasional reasons for travel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not be timid in situations today where you would be better served by boldness. Stand up for your rights if you feel you're being treated unjustly. Major changes are ahead for Aquarians in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If there's a matter of importance you would like to discuss with your family, do it when everyone is present. Individual discussions won't work.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A friend you've been anxious to talk to may try to get in touch with you today. Leave word where you can be reached should you have to go some running around.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Ways and means can be conceived today to strengthen your financial position. Put your imagination to work to increase your earnings and holdings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The busier you are today the better you are likely to perform. Don't be reluctant to take on several assignments simultaneously.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your sense of humor is the most effective tool at your disposal today. Use it to get your points across if you have to deal with someone testy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may be a bit more restless than usual today and you'll need a release from serious involvements. Do something fun with a pal who knows how to have a good time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are now in a favorable achievement cycle, so focus your efforts on worthwhile targets. Strive for meaningful goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Personal interests can be substantially advanced today. Allocate as much time as possible to an enterprise you deem important.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Opportunities for gain from other than your usual sources are likely today. Open every door where you think luck is lurking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Indecisiveness could be your biggest drawback today. Once you have analyzed situations judiciously, don't find excuses for not acting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to catch up on those little tasks you have been promising yourself you would eventually get around to doing. Start early.
