

Sugar Problems After War Will Become Difficult

NEW YORK, Apr. 5.—The world faces a difficult postwar problem of balancing sugar production with demand and some way must be devised to either increase production or to permit levels or to develop an elastic program automatically restraining production to consumption, according to the Index, quarterly publication of the New York Trust Company.

"Steps to increase present consuming markets and develop new outlets also would be helpful and the prospects for sugar conversion to forms making it available for industrial use likewise have potential value as a contributing solution," the publication declares.

Most of these matters are being considered now both by the industry itself and by the various governments.

"It has been claimed in some quarters that the United States may not be regarded as a likely possibility for increased consumption, since it is already the world's largest consumer of sugar. However, it should be noted that, while this country leads in aggregate consumption, it is fifth among nations in per capita consumption, being appreciably below such countries as Sweden and Australia in that respect."

The Index foresees the possibility of a sharp rise in sugar production after the war and holds that unless the sugar-growing nations formulate and follow through with some sound program of stabilization both in production and distribution, or science provides other uses for sugar and its by-products, they face the danger of a glutted market which would jeopardize the entire structure of world sugar economy.

"It has been estimated that the annual world production of sugar after the war could reach 40,000,000 tons," it continues. "Present prices do not permit expansion of demand to absorb this amount, and the only alternative would be extension of the subsidy policies already followed in some countries to other sugar-producing areas."

Sugar consumption is being largely determined by war developments. The Index reports, adding, however, that the war has not reduced sugar production in continental Europe as much as might have been expected, due to the swiftness of Axis occupation of the various sugar-growing countries which, except possibly France and Russia, allowed no time for destruction of crops.

France and Russia were the only countries in which production was grossly affected and already has begun to show some recovery, the publication stresses.

"The loss of sugar-producing areas in the Western Pacific to the Japanese probably removes an annual production of from 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons from the calculations of the United Nations until the end of the war," the Index estimates.

"Nothing is known of the fate of Philippine sugar and mills since the Japanese invasion, but Java is said to have destroyed a number of mills and some 403,000 tons of her 1941-42 production of 1,512,000 tons. This additional supply of sugar which the Japanese gained by territorial seizures is believed to be important to Japan for normal consumption, since she is self-supporting in sugar, but it may have war value through conversion into alcohol."

The Index stresses that while more sugar is being produced than is being required to meet the needs of all nations, such shortages as exist are due primarily to transportation difficulties created by the war. It estimates that Germany, the foremost producer of beet sugar before the war, today controls about 75 percent of Europe's beet sugar production.

Although the American stock at the first of this year amounted to about 3,000,000 tons, only 2,000,000 tons were in storage in the continental United States, the rest

Sweet Potatoes Now Designated As A War Crop

GAINESVILLE, Apr. 5.—(Special)—Sweet potatoes have been designated as a war crop, and Florida goals have been increased from 19,000 to 25,000 acres, it is announced by H. G. Clayton, chairman of the Florida USDA War Board. The sweet potato is an important food crop in the South and produces good yields. Sweet potato acreage recently was increased by 22 percent.

Mr. Clayton says that where the sweet potato is listed as a war crop an individual farm goal, no farm shall have a goal of less than two acres in this crop.

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced that it will support prices of sweet potatoes at $1.15 a bushel during the harvesting season from August through November, at $1.50 a bushel during December and January, and at $1.45 a bushel

During February, March and April. Prices listed are for No. 1 potatoes.

J. Lee Smith, agronomist with the State Agricultural Extension Service, recommends the planting of the better varieties, such as the Copper-Skinned Porto Rico.

Easter Frocks Are U. S. Is Dumb In Fresh, Plentiful Mathematics Even And Attractive With Its Progress

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Fashion Editor

Calamity Jones who have been storming the shops recently shrieking "Gimme this, gimme that, gimme them, gimme those!" should feel a little sheepish about now, when they see the ships bulging with Easter wear—fresh, exciting and varied in color.

If you have a friend who has been raiding the shops with a "now or never" air you might tell her that there is NO clothing shortage apparent as the 1943 Easter parade gets set for its starting lineup.

You might add that Uncle Sam has no intention of snatching the best shirt off her back—or the best suit of sports jacket, or dinner gown. Uncle Sam likes to see his nieces looking swell, baby, in things that Axis nations never sell, baby.

Despite all the cries of "Waff! Wolf!" That have been making the rounds among some of our more hysterical citizens, you'll find when you start out with your Easter shopping list in hand that you'll be able to buy just about anything your little heart desires, whether it be a suit of the finest quality sarah, tussah, crepe or tulle. Of course you won't find many pure-silk things, but the new rayons are so handsome you'll never miss the products of the little Japanese silkworms.

The late Spring American collections prove once and for all that you can't ration fashion, and that the genius of good design triumphs over restrictions. So flatter, smart and right for the times are the new slim silhouettes that you wouldn't be caught dead in a pre-war model with a three-yard skirt.

New and important are the trim flatterer coat-dresses of Spring, that button down the front or down the side, are easy to get into, and look like a million bucks.

Tied for first place in the big parade are the wearable, practical soft suits of the season, done in practically every fabric from sheer wools to soft crepes and rich tussahs.

You'll find color rampant on the fashion front, with vivid wool top coats cut on loose boxy lines the favorites for wear day or night, over anything from slacks to evening gowns. Some of them come with interchangeable stud buttons—done on pearl for daytime, jeweled connections for evening. These coats are god in fingertip, three-quarter or full length.

As for fabrics—if you're a stickler for quality you'll be amazed and delighted at the miracles and rayon manufacturers have wrought. Top of the line is a distinguishable pure-silk beetle twill. They tailor beautifully, and are to be found in the smartest Spring suits that have come down the pike in 10, these many moons.

So, take a morale on Calamity Jones—take her by the hand and show her that American women are and will continue to be the world's best-dressed.

By John Selby
NEW YORK, Apr. 5.—We have more machinery, more phones, more gadgets than any other country in the world. Denning Miller points out, but we are dumb in mathematics. Our officer training program is being held up two to six months on the average, he says, because more than half the candidates have had no mathematical training, worth mentioning.

In a sense, Mr. Miller is grinding an axe with all this. He can train people in math, and painlessly. He does it with a book called "Popular Mathematics"—clean, far from gaudy. So far more than 100,000 people have bought the book and the pace is gaining.

Mr. Miller is a slender man with sharp eyes and no more hair than he needs. He majored in math in college, then went into the building business and stayed there until building was forgotten for the duration. His mother was the late Alice Duer Miller, whose "White Cliffs of Dover" is one of the majority literary aids in this war.

All the time Mr. Miller was having fun with math. At last he decided to share, and from his book one may learn a lot that seems at first only remotely connected with subject—why for example, you can lay a bathroom floor with hexagonal square tiles, but not with 8-sided ones.

Actually, says Mr. Miller, "mathematics has little or nothing to do with long division or extracting the square root. It deals with only one thing—the simple reasoning by which man has learned to handle all the things that can be measured and counted. One can say with truth that our whole civilization is based on the triangle, and I don't mean the domestic triangle, either."

Math will teach you to reason if given a chance. But it isn't "Children have a great aptitude for mathematics," says Mr. Miller. "But once they enter school they begin to hate mathematics all over."

"In our hurry we are learning math as if it were a trade or a technique. This is a serious error. Learn math by reasoning, which is the natural way, and a hundred facts can be acquired to one for the learn-by-rote method."

Governor Holland Advocates 3 Cent Tax On Cigarettes

Revenue Needed To Replace Gasoline, Racetrack Losses Due To War Rules

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 7. (AP)—A three cents a package tax on cigarettes for the next two years was recommended to the legislature today by Governor Holland to help cure the state's war-born financial ills.

He estimated it would replace the $3,500,000 of revenue lost when gasoline rationing caused suspension of horse racing last winter. The money would go to old age pensions and to help counties which shared in the racing taxes.

He virtually stated the replacement program on the cigarette tax proposed that there should be no tax on cigars or pouch tobacco, but he said he would be "more than glad" to hear of any better source the legislature could recommend. He did not outline any other suggested tax, and he said existing tax levies should not be increased.

"The war," he said, "has broken down or destroyed sources of public revenue which were regarded as most dependable, and we are now confronted with the necessity of finding new revenue or else permitting vital public functions to suffer and aged citizens and dependent children go without help which the state alone can give them."

Although he specifically opposed a cigarette tax in 1940 when he was elected, Governor Holland said war's results had changed conditions so much that "I know that many of you will believe that a three-cent tax is a fair one."

Large Truck Turns Over And Driver Held Under Bond
A Flamingo Fruit Lines semi-trailer truck, driven by Ernest A. Speight, turned over on its side early Tuesday morning at the corner of Lake Shore Boulevard, in attempting to make a left turn.

Speight, arriving from a skid, lost control and the truck rolled over on its side. The driver was not injured and was released on $5,000 bond.

According to Speight, he approached the turn of a moderate curve on a road which was not paved. The truck was not held under bond.

The trailer carried 5,000 pounds of fruit and the driver was not injured. The truck was not held under bond.

Local Opinions Divided On How To Raise Funds

New Taxes Are Not Popular With Average Man In Street

With Florida legislators wrestling with the problem of raising revenue amounting to $10,000,000, and Governor Holland suggesting a three-cent cigarette tax, citizens of this section are questioning how to make up this deficit offered widely varying opinions.

"Cut down State expenses and reduce the number of bureaus, is my suggestion," said Dr. L.T. Doss.

Bruce Anderson also advocated cutting state expenses, but added that schools and old age pensions should be kept up.

John Leonard, former State representative, was even more outspoken in the matter of cutting down State expenses. "Too many bureaus are draining needed revenues from the state. No additional tax burden need be necessary if the legislature would repeal all laws creating these unnecessary and useless boards and bureaus."

Among the boards singled out for elimination by Mr. Leonard were: milk control board, and other boards related to barbers, beauticians, restaurants, etc., which, he said, should all come under the control of the State Board of Health. "The gasoline inspection board should be eliminated, as we have no gas in this section," he said.

W. J. Smith, manager of a local food store, expressed the opinion that the Governor's proposed three-cent cigarette tax would be effective "due to the simple fact," he said, "that people will not quit smoking."

Chairman of the City Barber Shop had another remedy: "Legalized gambling, under strict control, is the best way to get the needed revenue, so why not tax them?"

J.A. Cunningham, county balliff, was of the opinion that the tax on gambling, but qualified his statement that gambling be legalized to a limited extent, so that it would not be a menace to the public. Old age pensions, he stated, could be handled by means of small general sales tax.

"I believe the state can get along on existing revenues, but if they have to have an additional tax, the cigarette tax, as proposed by Governor Holland, is as good as any," was the statement of G.W. Spencer, attorney.

C.L. Powell, insurance agent, stated that in his opinion, increased taxes on all commercial and industrial concerns would provide the needed revenue. This, he said, would include picture pool rooms, bowling alleys and all types of coin operated devices.

G.T. Brown, telegrapher, was of the opinion that some form of general sales tax might be a good source for raising added funds.

Grandson Of "Buffalo Bill" Tells Of Famous Adventures Of Great Scout

Commemorating "Army Day," which was celebrated throughout the country, the Kiwanis Club of Sanford, Fla., observed the day at a luncheon at the Hotel Mayfair.

"Yesterday was the 26th anniversary of our entry into World War I," he said, adding that "it was, however, not a holiday in the United States."

"I have outlined the various forms of specialized training necessary to the men taking up the combat team. All the latest information gained at the front, was incorporated in this training," he said.

"It takes a lot of men to keep that man up in the Flying Fortress," he said, adding that "it took 10 men behind the lines to keep one at the front."

"The air corps can't do this job alone," he said, adding that "it took tanks to back them up, and infantry and cavalry to take ground and hold it."

"I don't think it could happen to Sanford. Keep your guard up, and don't let it down."

Referring to his maternal grandfather, "Buffalo Bill" Cody, Major Hurl, told of the Colonel's participation in the battle of the Little Bighorn.

"The Kiwanis Club, approved a resolution, presented by E. C. Hurl, and adopted the same in the St. Johns River."

Americans Gain New Positions In Rush To Join Hands With British 8th Army

The British Eighth Army has broken through the Axis hill and Wadi defenses north of Gabes and American troops have mopped up the Germans on the Djebel Maizun, north of Maknassy, and advanced east of El Guettar in a coordinated squeeze of Marshal Rommel in Tunisia, latest reports from the front said.

Setting two high hills which dominated the new defenses, the British held through violent counter attacks after a breakthrough behind a heavy artillery barrage and an Allied communiqué said they captured 6,000 prisoners, mostly Italians.

Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that prisoners number 8,000 and said the British had reached the open country after taking key positions with Rommel's army pinned in retreat.

The Americans, attacking 40 miles to the west in an effort to link hands with the British, launched heavy new attacks.

The Allied communiqué announcing the resumption of the big effort to drive the Axis out of Africa said:

The Eighth Army attacked the Akret position at 4:30 A.M. The first objectives have been captured and the attack is proceeding according to plan.

Excellent flying weather prevailed in Tunisia today. The official communiqué failed to mention air action in connection with the Eighth Army's new attack, but it was every reason to suppose coordinated Allied fighters, fighter bombers, from bases both to the south and west of the battle area, pitched in to hammer Rommel's exposed position.

In growing pride were Heamell's P-51s and other fighters, which have been selected the most few days in the El Guettar area, and every reason to suppose coordinated Allied fighters, fighter bombers, from bases both to the south and west of the battle area, pitched in to hammer Rommel's exposed position.

Each day that the British pushed forward through the Akret defenses outflanked that much more their forward position along the American sector to the south.

Montgomery's battle array of 11 divisions was not announced. It was entirely methodical in his preparations. Montgomery nevertheless achieved an amazingly speedy build up for his new thrust.

Fish Hawk Drops Big Cat Fish In Taxi Driver's Lap
A certain mixed family in Sanford missed Sunday on fish, a three and a half pound cat fish, to be exact.

At the same time an angry fish hawk was probably scouring the nearby lakes for another large cat fish, similar to the one it had lost at the corner of Greenwood and Park Avenue, very early that morning.

That was when Mrs. Blanche Jackson, driving her two slowly toward the intersection, along the early morning route, was startled to see a dark object dropping through the air, and just at the same time, a huge bird swooping down to get it before it hit the ground.

The bird, however, dropped the object again, and I stopped the car as the bird approached it carefully, as it was still somewhat dark, and I wasn't sure but what it might be a snake that the bird had dropped in the grass. I discovered it was a fish, so I went back to the car and waited to see if the bird would try to recover it. It, however, circled a few times and then went away, so I got the fish and gave it to a colored woman.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY
THAT WAY YOU WILL REALLY BEST SERVE YOUR HELP: By love serve one another Gal. 5:13.

The Thing That Matters
Am I left without a shirt?
Am I shy of pants as well?
Is there no milk at my door?
Is my home a hollow shell?
Are my groceries held up?
Shucks! I do not mind such cuts.
Only when my paper's stopped.

Does the icebox lack an egg?
Are we short of butter, too?
Do I find a lack of beef?
In my portion of beef stew?
Coffee? Flax? It can go.
And my mood will stay mild.

When my paper fails to come
That's when I am driven wild!
Is the sugar bowl quite bare?
Is my oil tank very dry?
Can't I get one pint of gas?
It's the breaks, so what care?
Are we watering the soap?
Can't I get a bit of cream?
Never mind, it's when I can't Get a paper that I scream!

Take away my food and drink!
Philosophy I will be.
I will hear it rather well
If I can't get any tea.
Steal my fortune and my wife.
All my goods and earthly store.
When the paper doesn't come
That's when I get mighty sore!

What everyone else seems to recognize so easily but which government officials are unable to see is the error now being compounded by Selective Service officials in refusing to publish names of men drafted into the armed services. Henceforth single men, married men, widowers, fathers of children, and men in private, leaving for detention centers without the knowledge of their friends or the State while Nazi agents, whom the secrecy order is supposed to protect, will be the only ones to see the bus station to see them.

Cigarette Tax

State revenues have suffered in the past year on account of existing war conditions much the same as many business institutions have suffered. The closing of the race tracks cost the State about $3,500,000, of which $2,000,000 went to Old Age Assistance. About $1,000,000 was lost to the schools and the State's general revenue fund from the decline in gasoline sales, much more to the counties.

The purchase of auto license tags dropped off about 50,000 reducing State revenue by over half a million dollars. Revenue from the sale of the documentary stamp tax fell off $300,000 through the decline in installment sales of cars, radios, fridges, and so forth. Another loss is reported in occupational license taxes as more and more businesses close their doors and professional men go into the armed services.

Altogether about $10,000,000 has been lost to the State. In Governor Holland's message to the Legislature, he insists that through a reduction in general expenses and a conservative operation of the State government he can save some $5,500,000 leaving about $3,500,000 which will have to be made up through some new form of taxation or by increasing existing taxes.

He recommends a cigarette tax. This will not be popular because almost everyone smokes cigarettes and hence will have to bear a fair share of the burden. And it will not be easy to convince the average man that cigarettes are after all, a luxury and not a necessity. If a man is unable to pay the tax or does not want to, all he has to do is to stop smoking cigarettes. But the average person will not admit this as a possibility.

Nevertheless cigarette taxes have already been reported in all other southern states, except North Carolina, and in many other states of the nation. It is one of the chief sources of revenue for the federal government which collects seven cents out of every 15 cents paid for a package of cigarettes. And this we might add, without disastrous consequences either to the smoker or to the cigarette industry.

But if the public does not take kindly to this proposal of Governor Holland, what alternative would it suggest? Would a general sales tax, so enthusiastically recommended by some, improve the situation? Would an additional tax on beer, theater tickets, or chewing gum, if available, be any easier to bear? Or should we do away with Old Age Assistance and aid to crippled children for the duration?

This matter of raising revenue is not an easy one. It is no longer possible to find some previously untapped source of public revenue. Governor Holland's recommendation is a good as any we've seen.

Stoveless Kitchens

Fortune Magazine has been telling the world something about the house of the future. Tomorrow's bathrooms will have sun lamps in the walls or ceiling, towel racks made of hot water pipes, as in the newer hotels, so towels are always warm and dry. A floor warm enough for bare feet and a wash basin big enough to bathe the baby will add to its joys. Which is all very fine—sawed the day.

When stoveless kitchens are suggested, they sound a little queer. The idea is that each utensil will be plugged in separately. Cooking will be very flexible and discontinuous. The housewife wants to think about that a bit. It's nice to be able to plug in the breakfast coffee, cereal and bacon and eggs if any, by the living room fire. But there are times when she wants a lot of different things cooking in a condensed space where she can keep an eye on all at once.

She will like a refrigerator with a circular inside, and round trays which go around like a lazy Susan. But a stoveless kitchen is a little harder to grasp.

Avigation

The distressing thing about the English language is the way it grows. People who have used it all their lives suddenly find themselves brought up against words they have never seen and apparently ought to know. "Avigation" is one such word. Books are being written about it, and it is in some dictionaries. It means, as its form suggests, the art of navigation in the air, and is going to be heard more and more.

This shows how necessary it is for dictionaries to keep up with the times. The "Oxford Dictionary," the largest compilation of English words, was published gradually. As the letter "A" came out in 1888, for many years this elaborate work did not contain the word "automobile," to say nothing of aviation terms.

If dictionary makers fail, what is the layman to do?

Great Lakes Traffic

The most famous canals of the world are Suez and Panama. The Soo Canal of the Great Lakes, however, beats them all. A reminder of this has just been given by Joseph B. Eastman, Defense Transportation Director, who says that The Soo carries three to four times the traffic of Panama. It also carries more than Panama and Suez together.

It was Great Lakes traffic, too, that created ice-breakers. Lately the Russians have used them extensively in the Arctic, to make a Northeast Passage across the top of Russia and Siberia from the North Atlantic to Bering Strait. But the first ice-breaker was an American boat, the St. Ignace, launched in Detroit in 1888, ten years before the Russian ice-breaker Ernak.

WEEKLY NEWS COLUMN

By JOE HENDRICKS

SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR—The War Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee reported favorably an item of $44,000,000 to complete the Intracoastal Waterway from Corpus Christi, Texas to Trenton, New Jersey. Before the full Appropriations Committee a motion was made to strike the item from the bill and the vote was 31 to 19 in favor of striking. The motion to strike is an affirmative motion and had one of these votes voted the other way the motion would have failed and the House would have had the opportunity to set on the bill. So we were so near and yet so far. The House would no doubt have passed the appropriation.

The only reason that the Committee voted as it did is because the Committee is stacked with members who have been opposed to it in the past. The Committee does not reflect the attitude of the House. Many Republicans are opposed to the bill and many Democrats are in favor of it. However, that's what we are not taking yet. The matter so close will come before the Senate and I hope it will be adopted. A MONUMENT TO STUPIDITY—I know many critics will say that if the canal were dug it would be a monument to my stupidity. I am perfectly willing to accept that criticism and if I could complete the strip across Florida I would do it immediately and let the results speak for themselves. I have taken the trouble to read the history of all the large canals throughout the world. The first against these was built by the King of Persia against the sea. Young Ferdinand de Lesseps attempted to convince King Louis Philippe of France of the feasibility and great benefit of the Suez Canal in the year 1845. The King dismissed him with the comment that he was a madman. In the East the sea was not to be dug. It was to be built. In England and France the Suez Canal was built and it has been the part of Liverpool. The

Emergency Ration Of Japs Compared With U. S. Army

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) Apr. 7. What the Jap soldier uses for emergency rations is revealed in a report received at Headquarters, Fourth Service Command, and its comparison with the American soldier's famous Type-K Ration draws a sharp contrast. The Jap ration, returned from the outlanded Pacific on an American transport and analyzed at a Quartermaster depot consisted of two bottles of lactic acid health drink, a small container of wheat germ vitamin pills and the main dish a No. 2 and one-half sized can containing two layers of rice and bean curd mixture.

Each layer of the main dish, it was reported, is in four portions. The rice is cooked, partially polished rice with small pieces of a vegetable like carrot. It was seasoned with a soy sauce. Each portion of rice was wrapped in a sort of rubbery tough latex probably made of bean curd. The can weighed 500 grams and each section of the rice food weighed 73 grams.

The health drink was described as "A thick, sticky sirupy, opaque liquid of pinkish light beige color and with a strong acid odor, resembling a mixture of phosphoric and almond." Small particles sticking to the sides of the bottle were like the sediment found in canned pineapple.

The vitamin tablets came in a bottle of 300 and instructions, in English as to the dose, recommended from four to eight tablets three times a day.

The American soldier's Type-K emergency ration, weighs three and a quarter pounds. It is wrapped in three, moisture and gas proof packages, one each for breakfast, dinner and supper.

Here's what the day's ration contains: Breakfast: Two packages of fortified biscuits, can of chopped ham and eggs, one fruit bar, 10 grams of soluble coffee, 100 grams of soluble sugar, one stick of chewing gum and four cigarettes. Dinner: Two packages of biscuits, a can of American beef hash, a package of milled rice, a package of lemon juice powder for lemonade, three tablets of sugar, stick of chewing gum and four cigarettes.

Supper: Two packages of biscuits, a package of beef hash, a can of beef and pork luncheon meat, a two ounce bar of fortified chocolate, exceptionally rich in caloric value, stick of chewing gum and four cigarettes.

When an American soldier eats the contents of the three packages he has consumed 4,200 calories, the average in the three meals he eats in his mess hall on an Army post.

NO RUMI PLAN—Recently the House was forced to vote on what was called the Rumi Plan. It was a conglomeration of the Rumi bill, withholding tax, and the ideas of about ten other men. It was no Rumi Plan at all. The Carlson Bill was defeated and it left the House of Representatives with the bill reported by the Ways and Means Committee, which was simply a withholding tax and nothing more. The members of the House felt that the committee had not brought out a bill that they could vote for and it was recommitted. I voted against recommitment because I believe that the Ways and Means Committee can write a compromise bill, one which would forgive taxes on incomes up to a certain point and prove for collection of tax of incomes which have been enlarged by war contracts. It would write a withholding tax which can finally be worked out as a pay-as-you-go tax and a fair one for everyone. First that is done they are not going to get much action on the tax bill.

PT-Boat Man Tells Of Sinking Enemy Warship

Tokio's Report Of Battle Said 19 Torpedo Craft Attacked

NEW YORK, City Apr. 7.—(AP)—Lieut. Henry S. Taylor, one of the highest scorers among the Navy's motor torpedo boat commanders, arriving in New York yesterday for his first leave in more than two years, graphically described how the diminutive PT boats have become the commandos of the sea.

Lieut. Taylor, 24 years old, is credited with sinking a destroyer and with a hit on a battleship and a possible hit on another destroyer.

A fleet of 11 Japanese destroyers was sighted off Guadalcanal Island, carrying supplies and reinforcements, on the night of last Dec. 11, when Lieut. Taylor sank the destroyer. Two torpedo boats, under Lieut. Taylor and two others commanded by Lieut. L. H. Gamble, of Fremont, Calif., went out to intercept the fleet. Torpedoes from Lieut. Gamble's boats sank one destroyer before another Jap ship sighted them and began chase.

"I followed along behind him," Lieut. Taylor said. "Suddenly one of his motors went dead, cutting the speed of the boat about half. We both laid some smoke and, in the mean time I circled wide to the right. The Jap destroyer came up to the edge of the smoke and stopped. I saw him there and just went up and slugged him with four torpedoes. He went down in four minutes. After that the Japs quit and didn't fire another shot. Later

Molasses-Fed Steers Bring Best Prices

Kissimmee Manager Declares Beef Here Equal To Westerns

KISSIMMEE, Apr. 7, (FNS)—Concrete evidence of Florida's ability to produce beef equal to anything western states can offer, was shown in the report of a recent sale by the Kissimmee Livestock Market of 15 head of molasses steers.

These 15 animals topped the day's market, weighing 11,672 pounds and averaging 898 pounds each, selling for $183.33 per hundred and netting $181.09 each. These steers dressed out 61 percent.

Commenting on the sale, the market manager said, "The 15 steers sold here were as good as money can buy on any market in the country. They were 'choice' and brought a price comparable with Chicago and eastern markets. They dressed out a little above 61 percent. Where could you have bought any better?"

These 15 steers were part of a lot of 63 head of one-half Hereford and common breeding, purchased from Montgomery Brothers Ranch near Arcadia. They were weighed at the ranch and driven to Yatus, a distance of about 20 miles, where they were loaded on cattle cars and shipped to Clewiston and placed on improved Bermuda and carpet pasture where can molasses was made available to them in self-feeding troughs. Sixty days later they were weighed and found to have gained an average of 10 pounds per animal. The ratio of bone to total weight of bone was 14 percent per steer per day. An average of from 3 to 4 pounds of molasses was consumed per animal per day.

They were then taken off pasture and placed in experimental feeding lots where they were fed a ration consisting of only Lemongrass pulp, molasses, soybean meal and straight cane molasses. The Lemongrass pulp, molasses feed and soybean meal were mixed in the ratio of one pound of soybean meal to each six pounds of the feed, and the animals were fed all they would eat twice a day. Of course cane molasses was available in unlimited quantities in the self-feeding troughs. They averaged a daily gain of 1.89 pounds per animal during the dry lot feeding period.

Such results give concrete proof that cane molasses, when properly fed in conjunction with roughage and protein concentrate, is equal to corn or any other form of carbohydrates.

Civilians Given Thrill On Ride In Troop Glider

Kitten Is Skittish In Tow But Hits Stride When Cut Loose

INDIANAPOLIS, Apr. 7, (AP)—Civilians went aloft for the first time Sunday in one of the Army's new troop-transport gliders when a group of newspaper and radio men took off from Stout Field, headquarters of the First Troop Carrier Command in the Kitten.

Kitten which looks more like an ungainly duck, is a specimen of the C-4, a species of gliders the Army uses to fly troops, jeep guns or almost any other movable equipment into theaters of combat. She made the flight in conjunction with a round-the-world radio broadcast of Army doings in various training and fighting centers.

The glider was towed aloft by a bi-motored transport plane from which it was separated by a resilient nylon rope several hundred feet long. Kitten took to the air at about 75 miles an hour climbing to 60 feet of more before the heavy tow ship left the runway.

The gliders handle beet, while being towed, at about 110 Major Mike Murphy, of Kokomo, Ind., said. A rate of climb of 500 feet a minute is within Kitten's means he said.

While in tow aloft the glider's flight is characterized by frequent and sudden dips and bumps, like a temperamental kite in a stiff wind.

Then suddenly it does. Cast adrift by Major Murphy at 2,500 feet, Kitten assumed some of the docility you would expect from her name. The smoothness and grace of the glider under its own power obliterated the sense of motion that should accompany a speed of about eighty miles an hour.

At that speed Kitten hit her stride as Major Murphy wheeled in a huge circle for a full six minutes before setting the ship down with no more jolt than you get stepping out of an automobile.

The value of gliders like Kitten, explained Captain E.C. Stein Stout Field public relations officer, lies mostly in the fact that they are "expensible." An expendable equipment, if a glider is flown into a combat area from which it cannot be recovered, the loss is not great.

What makes Kitten expendable was apparent to its passengers who, if they had flown substantial craft. The fuselage is covered with taut canvas that a boltlike frame of metal tubing dull fingernails might pierce.

In case of an emergency aloft, Captain Stein said, "Don't look around for the door. Just jump through the side of the plane."

Governor Holland Advocates 3 Cent Tax On Cigarettes

Alabama, and he said all the southeastern states, except North Carolina, now have cigarette sales tax. His plan would put a tax of two cents on a package of 10 cigarettes.

He recommends that the emergency five percent tax imposed by whatever legislation is necessary, be reduced to 3 percent in 1941-42 season when race tracks operated—should be retained as a permanent source of revenue.

He said the seventh cent of the gasoline tax, first levied in 1931 as an emergency and continued by each succeeding legislature, should be rescinded, and he said other present revenue levies should not be reduced.

Other recommendations in his message included:

Continued co-operation, by whatever legislation is necessary, in civilian defense activity and the national war effort.

Exemption from any state gasoline taxes of federal government gasoline purchases in lots of more than 5,000 gallons.

Strict laws to curb venereal disease—the incidence of venereal disease among men of the armed forces stationed in Florida is very high so as to bring grave and justified complaints from the army and navy.

Pre-marital examination for venereal infection.

Laws allowing various state funds, including reserves of the state road department, to be invested in gasoline tax supported bonds handled by the state board of administration.

An appropriation of $2,000,000 a year out of the general revenue fund—into which he proposed to put the cigarette tax revenue estimated at $3,000,000 a year—for supplementing specified sources, such as liquor taxes for old age assistance and aid to blind persons. This appropriation would be used to make good any deficiency if racing in any year does not produce $2,000,000 for the social welfare program.

Appropriation of $500,000 a year out of general revenue to aid in dependent children, supplementing about $500,000 from other specified sources, such as trust funds.

Establishment of a public sewer in Tallahassee by state acquisition of privately owned property.

Provision of a public health department.

A law authorizing and directing the state engineering board to investigate and report on the feasibility of a canal from the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic Ocean.

The removal of county seats from Tallahassee and directing the same authorities to investigate and report on the feasibility of a canal from the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic Ocean.

"U" Boats are a Menace... Help Us Destroy Them!

"One of the biggest tasks facing our Navy in this war is the building of sufficient escort vessels to protect our ships in convoy, against the torpedoes of prowling 'U' boats. The Long Distance Telephone plays a vital role in the building of these sturdy ships that help keep our shipping lanes clear. From keel to top deck and from bow to stern, thousands of telephone calls assist the speedy launching of each powerful vessel—calls to suppliers and shippers in all parts of the country. How important it is then, that Long Distance Telephone lines to war-busy centers be kept free of unessential calls. Those who build the tools to destroy our enemies are counting on you to help free the lanes of communication that the sea may be freed for safe shipping."

COMMON SENSE IS YOUR BEST FRIEND. Materials needed to build new boats... Thousands of telephone calls assist the speedy launching of each powerful vessel.

Extractor Bearing For Citrus Perfected

WILMINGTON, Del. Apr. 7 (FNS) Thanks to the patient search of DuPont Chemists, a new type bearing for large rotary citrus juice extractors has been perfected to replace the old type bronze bearings. These remarkable new bearings are fabricated of "Lucite" methyl methacrylate resin, and resist citrus juices whereas bronze bearings did not with a consequent shortening of life. An even greater advantage of the "Lucite" bearings is that citrus juices actually tend to lubricate them and juice plants find after exhaustive tests with the new material that it outwears all other types. With Florida canners and concentrated plants operating at full capacity to provide juice and fruit for the armed services, this improved bearing is a Godsend.

GREAT FUTURE

LAKELAND, Apr. 7, (FNS)—A great future for Florida as an aviation center for the American people is predicted here by Igor Sikorsky, noted aircraft designer, who appeared on the Florida Week program of Florida Southern College. Referring to the helicopter, he said its "arrival" is but a matter of time, and will open to the public many otherwise inaccessible places.

Could Adam Eat the Apple with Blomack Uterus Pain? The biblical story of Adam eating a raw apple might never have come to pass had he suffered at that time from the effects of uterine and stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, flatulency, burning, burning, and other conditions caused by excess acid. The remedy is simple and effective. It is the only one that has been proven to be safe and effective. It is the only one that has been proven to be safe and effective. It is the only one that has been proven to be safe and effective.

Great Lakes Are So Far Free Of Hazards Of War

But Even There Many Changes Wrought By Wartime Conditions

By ROBERT M. COOL
AP Features Writer

CLEVELAND, Apr. 7.—The Great Lakes are the only peaceful seas now sailed by American vessels, but wartime conditions have drawn a sharp line between navigation and war.

Take uniforms, for instance. Officers of lake vessels have never drawn a sharp line between quarterdeck and fo'c's'le. The skipper of a 17,000-ton ore carrier, walking his bridge in a business suit and wearing a straw hat traditionally resembled a merchant more than a commander. This year officers will be wearing the blue uniforms and brass buttons of the U. S. Coast Guard Reserve. "Strangely, the men seem to prefer having their officers look the part," says Gene Hutchinson, one of the big lakes operators. "After the war I suspect many lines will provide their own uniforms."

Aboard the David P. Thompson, one of the steamers ready for the busiest season the lakes have ever known, I found that democracy hasn't suffered by the change. Officers and crew still eat together.

No More Guests

Before the war these big freighters usually carried half a dozen guests—officials of the companies or their friends. Captains often dined with them in a special saloon up forward. But now they aren't carrying passengers, and officers are eating aft again with the men.

Lake vessels have always been famous for their food. Fresh vegetables, meat and poultry, prepared by first-class cooks, lured more than one hungry deepwater sailor back to the lakes every April.

This season a sign in the ship's office on Superior Street plainly warns crewmen to bring their ration books.

It won't be possible, said the Thompson's steward, George Lundberg, to serve nine pounds of meat each week to every man, as was the case last year. "But there will be plenty," he added, "and it'll still be the best grub afloat."

Less trouble than was feared has been found in signing on crews for the 800 vessels which will soon be running the Great Lakes. About 16,000 men are needed—and they're flocking to the ports.

Green hands will receive $148.50, and their keep, a month. Experienced A. B. O. Officers and Firemen will draw $183—an increase of $22 for all ratings. It's the highest pay in lake history.

Dangerous Waters

Seventy percent of American sailors in the ore trade are "bonus" men, who can be counted on to serve a full season on one boat, records show. Half of them are married; many own small farms or businesses which they operate in the winter months.

Lakemen are proud of the long, ungalley looking "red-bellies" which salt-water seamen say are "built by the mile and saved off as wanted." They like being able to talk through megaphones, with their wives in the narrow waters of the St. Clair River or Sault

Southern special favored north, east and west. Spoon bread is cornmeal at its very best. An all-phosphate baking powder which leaves no after taste. Rumford's at its best in this delicate recipe to make you make with the tested recipe that follows:

Spoon Bread

1 cup yellow corn meal
1/2 cup white flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup boiling water
1 egg
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 tsp Rumford Baking Powder

Add the cornmeal to rapidly boiling salted water. Reduce heat and cook until thickened, about ten minutes. Scoop from heat, add 1 cup of milk; cool. Beat egg yolks well and combine with remaining milk, add to the cornmeal mixture. Add Rumford Baking Powder. Beat egg whites stiff and fold in. ### ODT Asks Cities To Keep Trucks In Good Repair

The Office of Defense Transportation today called upon municipal authorities throughout the Southeast to take all possible steps to make their transportation equipment last for the duration.

John G. Inley, Regional Manager of ODT's Division of Motor Transport, said that municipally-owned equipment, subject to heavy use in war-expanded cities, must be made to run to the last spark plug. "The reason for this is obvious," he said. "New equipment is not available any more. The nation's pool of new trucks, all built before the truck factories were converted to war uses, is critically low. Only the most urgent demands on this pool can be met."

The regional manager pointed out that many cities in the Southeast are facing increased difficulty in maintaining various services, including garbage collection, street maintenance and repair services, all involving the use of trucks.

"We realize that big population increases call for more of these services, and that small towns in particular have trouble expanding their services without additional equipment. But the shortage of this equipment is absolute and cannot be disputed. I therefore urge that every possible step be taken to conserve the trucks now in operation."

"Repair parts for worn-out trucks in municipal service," Inley said, "will be available when the need exists." But he added that misuse of these trucks by failure to undertake proper maintenance programs may jeopardize the chances of obtaining these parts.

Enlistments Sought By Waves, Spurs

A representative from the U.S. Navy Recruiting Station of Orlando will be on hand at the Red Cross room on First Street every Tuesday from 1:00 to 5:00 P.M. for the recruiting of WAVES for the Navy, and GPAs for the Coast Guard.

Mrs. Roumillat, who has been representative for the Navy and authorized as a recruiting representative yesterday.

Mrs. Roumillat is assisted by a committee composed of Mrs. Inez Krupp, Mrs. Daisy Lewis, Mrs. E.L. Perkins, Mrs. June H. Roumillat, Mrs. Daisy Knox, Mrs. W.B. Dyeon and Mrs. J.J. Patterson. Applicants may contact any of these members, Mrs. Roumillat said, to obtain full information regarding enlistment.

Phillies Will Win If Condition Means Anything

Graham Finds Most Of Athletes Are In Best Of Form

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Apr. 7.—Just a glance at the athletes in monkey suits on the practice diamond here, you'd never suspect they are the ferocious Phillies, the can-doing Commandos, who will strike fear in the hearts of their National League rivals this summer.

No longer will they be the feeble Phils. New suits will be the punching bag of the league. New Owner Bill Cox's commando training, as directed by Harold Aronson, will take care of that.

"I know nothing about baseball," admits Bruce, "but I do know that most of the players are not in top physical condition. You can see they're slow and lousy and overweight. They're not prepared to give their all."

Most clubs are going along this Spring with the same conditioning practices they've used for years. But with their new-style commando, are going to be a new group of men. Or so Bruce says.

"I will guarantee that the Phillies will be the best conditioned club in baseball," he asserts. "Whether they have the playing talent to match the others, I don't know. But if the issue may be decided on physical condition, then the Phillies will win."

It is Cox who calls all this commando training. Bruce says his drills are just a collection of the best conditioning exercises he has found in a lifetime of physical training work throughout the world.

It's really a sight to see a big and heavy old veteran like Chuck Klein, grunting and groaning through the exercises. But old and young, they like it. Bruce, a small man who doesn't look like a coach, coached track and physical education for years at Lafayette and Union colleges and in 1936 went to Austria to tutor the country's Olympic team.

The Phillies have tacked a tiny name onto each of Bruce's exercises.

Here are a few:

Monkey squat—athletes squat with one hand on ground.

Duck shake—shaking legs like a duck takes off water.

Elephant walk—walking on hands and feet with back facing ground and abdomen on par with knees and chin.

Trigle jungle—shimmying and shaking body and arms like a burlesque stripper.

Gonilla hedgehop—jumping a long jump from a squatting position.

Charley McCarthy pivot—jerking head around shoulders.

Bruce's idea is to get every muscle working and loose, so that all are relaxed and there is no tightness. He says few athletes know how to breathe properly while sitting or running. That is, how to breathe so they will absorb the greatest amount of oxygen. So the Phils are learning to breathe, too.

Some ball players feel they must have a plug of tobacco in their mouths before they're ready to hit the field. But that's out at the Philly camp here in Chocolate town. No tobacco chewing, Bruce says. It's bad.

Bucky Harris, the new Phillies manager, is enthusiastic about Bruce's work. And Bucky also is enthusiastic about the Phillies' prospects. He doesn't expect a world beater but he doesn't expect a last place club either. He thinks Cox has done a fine job in a half dozen years of good new ball players for the club.

Harris plans to have Danny Mortaugh and Merrill May from last year's team, second and third. Babe Dahlgren, from the Dodgers, will play either first or third, and, as for the other infielder, he's yet to be found.

The manager situation is better in the outfield where Bucky has Danny Litwhiler, Earl Naylor, Ben Northey, Klein and Paul Busby. The catching was strengthened when Tom Padden from Kansas City joined Tommy Livingston.

While the pitching isn't anything to get excited about, Harris believes it will be adequate. He has Jack Kraus, lefty who won 13 for Montreal; Al Gerheuser, another left-hander from Newark; Ed Schoonboy Rows, who broke in with Harris when Bucky was managing Detroit a decade ago; Johnny Allen from Brooklyn; Charley Fuchs from Detroit, plus El Johnson, Johnny Podgajny, and Walter Rice, who were with the Phils last year, and Bill Webb from Atlanta.

"Everyone on the club, except Webb, played in AA ball or better last year. They're pretty fair players and I think they'll do all right," Bucky says.

Nothing else has been able to blast the Phillies out of the loop cellar but maybe commando training and Bucky's capable managerial hands will.

Native Troops Master Nazis In African Battles

French Moroccan Forces Fierce Fighters With Tommies

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 7. (AP)—This would not trade his Tommy gun for a tank, airplane or cannon, he spurns strong drink but smokes cigarettes in chains and chains his ardent desire is to have more Germans to kill or capture. That is the French Morocco native troop known as the "Goums."

"Goums" are fierce fighting men who in carving himself another place in history on the northern Tunisia front with the British 1st Army.

The Goums are Berbers from the hills of northern Morocco and in the wooded and rocky mountains of northern Tunisia, they are a real terror to the German and Italian forces, particularly when on night patrol.

For two years they were secretly armed and trained by French officers under the noses of the German Armistice Commission in North Africa. Usually the Goums fight in groups of six or 12 men. French officers and two or three non-commissioned officers command a company and the remaining officers are native.

Deeply religious, these men seldom touch spirit, but they are heavy smokers. Probably only one Goum in a hundred ever drinks wine, and when he does it is alone and in secret. It is regarded as a sign of weakness among the Goums for a man to take a drink.

French officers are told that like the mountaineers of Kentucky and Tennessee and Jugoslavia, the Goums are dead shots. They are tall, thin men who can run an climb all day and then fight most of the night.

The Goums were mobilized 20 years ago, after the World War, as territorial troops without any definite enlistment period. Their purpose was to patrol Morocco and serve as a supplement to the regular army.

In action, the Goums are individual fighters. They prefer to take on such a job as destroying an enemy machine-gun nest.

Several days ago near the Jebel Abidol, one Goum returned with three German prisoners, one of whom was minus the face of one eye. French officers say the Goum had used the face to string around his neck three compasses.

Before the capture of Sotjen and several other Goums, French officers visited the Goums and asked them to demonstrate how they vanish quickly into a mountain side. The officers saw that within less than half an hour an entire company and all its equipment had disappeared without a trace. The color of all clothing worn by the Goums is a combina-

Everglades Drainage Curtails Bird Life

MIAMI, Apr. 7. (AP)—Drainage of the Florida Everglades and steady encroachment of man-made development is rapidly curtailing wild bird life in the area.

Richard Pough, of the National Audubon Society, calls attention to the fact that many species of water birds that formerly inhabited this area have practically disappeared.

The Everglades Kite is getting scarce, and it is hoped that the establishment of the Florida Everglades National Park will serve to protect this species as well as other birds. They are a distinct Florida asset and everything possible should be done to protect them, ornithologists point out.

American People Face Acid Test in Treasury's 2nd War Loan To Raise 13 Billion Dollars in Three Weeks

The Nation Dare Not Fail in This Greatest Financing Task in History—"They Give Their Lives—You Lend Your Money."

Washington, D. C.—Coming as it does upon the heels of income tax payments, the people of America will face an acid test this month when the Treasury's Second War Loan drive opens April 12 with an objective of thirteen billion dollars to be raised through sale of Government securities.

A substantial part of this huge financing, the most stupendous ever undertaken by any government in the world's history, must be loaned by people in ordinary walks of life.

High Government officials have pointed out that the nation must not fail in this duty to our men on the battle fronts who are now carrying the offensive to the enemy at every stage. It is obvious to every thinking man and woman that at this United Nations take this offensive against the dictators, the cost of war operations increases in proportion.

The American people must no longer think of war costs in terms of equipping a soldier, buying a tank or plane or a ship. We must now think in terms of the cost of battles, invasions and new offensives. Attacking armies cost more money than equipping that army and we must meet that increased cost by buying more War Bonds and Second War Loan Securities.

They Give Their Lives.

It is not only necessary that the American people left here at home assume this additional participation in the war effort—it is an honor to do so . . . for we here at home can do no less than attempt to approach the sacrifices of our brave men out on the fighting fronts to whom the last great measure of sacrifice is but a daily offering. They give their lives . . . we are asked only to lend our money.

And that is the theme of the Second War Loan, "They Give Their Lives—You Lend Your Money."

Financial experts who know monetary conditions in the nation point out that at the present time there is in liquid funds, cash and commercial bank deposits over and above taxes and present investment in Government Bonds, and over and
